

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 9999 06544 615 3

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2012 with funding from Boston Public Library

<http://archive.org/details/reportsofproceed1877bost>

REPORTS OF PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

CITY COUNCIL OF BOSTON,

FOR THE MUNICIPAL YEAR 1877,

Commencing Monday, January 1st, 1877, and ending Monday,
January 7th, 1878.

BEING REPRINTS OF REPORTS AS PUBLISHED BY CONTRACT IN THE "BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT."

[Ninth Annual Volume.]

BOSTON:

PRESS OF ROCKWELL & CHURCHILL, CITY PRINTERS.

(REPRINTS OF REPORTS FROM THE TRANSCRIPT PRESS.)

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

---

The following Index has been prepared in accordance with a vote of the Committee on Printing.

In its compilation the following topics have been omitted, as not essential, or as better classified for reference in Department offices:—

Petitions received and referred. See City Clerk.

Orders of notice, and hearings, unless subjects of discussion. See City Clerk.

Police Officers and Special Police. See Police Department.

Truant Officers. See School Department.

Conventions with School Committee. See City Clerk.

Jurors. See City Clerk.

Constables' Bonds. See City Clerk.

Streets, damages, and betterments assessed and abated. See Street Commissioners and Supt. Streets.

Streets, temporary closing, removal of obstructions, paving in front of estates. See Supt. Streets.

Sewers, assessments made, abated, and postponed. See Sewer Department.

Buildings, permits authorized. See Inspector of Buildings.

Public Buildings, use of granted. See Supt. Public Buildings.

Extensions of time for building. See Supt. Public Lands.

Taxes, assessed and abated. See Assessors.

Claims, allowed, and leave to withdraw, unless subjects of discussion. See Clerk of Committees.

Leases. See Auditor of Accounts.

Licenses to Auctioneers, Undertakers, Victuallers, Pawnbrokers, Newsboys, Bootblacks, and for Steam Engines and Boilers, Hoisting Beams, Cellars below grade, Storage of Petroleum, Stables, Carriages, Wagons, Sprinkling Streets, Intelligence Offices, sale of Second-hand Articles, Billiard Halls, Projecting Signs and Lanterns, Exhibitions, etc. See City Clerk.

INDEX.

ORGANIZATION OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

JANUARY 1st, 1877.

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Lothrop, 1
 Oath of office administered to Hon. Frederick O. Prince, Mayor-elect, by Hon. Horace Gray, Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, 1
 Oaths of office administered by Mayor to members-elect of each branch of City Council, 1
 Delivery of Mayor's Inaugural Address, 1
 Samuel F. McCleary elected City Clerk, 4; Oath of office administered by Mayor, 4

ORGANIZATION AND REGULAR MEETINGS OF BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Board called to order by City Clerk, 1
 John T. Clark elected chairman, 1
 Address of chairman, 2
 Notice to Common Council of organization, 2
 Mondays, 4 P. M., assigned for regular meetings, 2

ORGANIZATION AND REGULAR MEETINGS OF COMMON COUNCIL.

Called to order by senior member, Benjamin Pope, 1
 Credentials of members received, and quorum reported, 1
 Notice to Mayor and Aldermen, of quorum present, 1
 Benjamin Pope elected President, 1
 Address of President, 1
 Washington P. Gregg elected Clerk, 4
 Oath of office administered to Clerk by City Solicitor, 4
 Notice to Board of Aldermen of organization, 4
 Thursday evenings, half-past 7, assigned for regular meetings, 4

ALPHABETICAL INDEX TO PROCEEDINGS OF BOARD OF ALDERMEN AND COMMON COUNCIL.

[Preceding the figures indicating page, a signifies Aldermen, a Common Council.]

Advertising —
 Order requiring payment by petitioners, referred, a 20; report, order passed, a 23
 Expediency of placing in charge of Supt. of Printing, referred, c 532, a 533

Annexation —
 Somerville, resolve passed, inexpedient, a 20, c 23

Appropriations —
 Auditor's Estimates, see heading Auditor of Accounts.
 Oliver-street Improvement, transfers, c 36, 48, a 54
 $5,000 to Austin Farm, a 93, c 95, c 122
 $2,000 for furniture Grammar School, Florence District, c 95, a 100
 $4,500 additional for printing, c 124, a 130
 $6,000 for Commou, etc., c 139, a 148
 $500 for Board of Aldermen, c 139, a 148
 $39,231.74 Washington and Essex st. widening, c 141, a 148
 $28,000 for school expenses, c 141, a 148
 $3,500 for salaries, officers, School Committee, c 141, a 148
 $19,000 for Neponset bridge, c 141, a 148
 $8,000 for Mt. Washington bridge, c 141, a 149
 $5,000 for Back Bay improvement, c 160, a 171
 $20,000 for Northampton-street District, a 305, c 324
 $3,000 for repairing Quincy Hall, a 305
 $10,000 for Branch Library, W. Rox., c 355
 $2,000 for Vacation Schools — see Schools.
 $2,000 for Play-grounds, a 364, c 382
 $4,600 for Survey and Inspection of Buildings, a 491, c 494
 $2,100 for Sealers Weights and Measures, a 556
 $1,400 to Sealers Weights and Measures, a 596, c 603, 621
 $16.31 for Free Concerts, a 689, c 690, 70
 $434.76 to New Lunatic Hospital, c 676, a 681, c 690, a 697
 $15,000 to Common, etc., c 691, a 697
 $3,000 for Park Department, a 782, c 804
 $1,000 for Social Law Library, a 782, c 804
 $2,000 for Registration of Voters, c 743, a 744, c 770, 789, a 795

$10,000 for Incidental Expenses, c 835, a 840
 $600 for Contingent Fund, Board of Aldermen, c 835, a 840
 $12,000 for Northampton-st. District, c 835, a 840
 $1,426 for Back Bay streets, c 849, a 853
 $1,500 for Registration of Voters, c 835, a 840

Armories — see Militia.

Army and Navy Monument —
 Order offered, c 7; passed, committee appointed, c 15, a 17
 Report, a 321; order passed, a 321, c 324, 431, 440, a 449
 Tender of escort, referred, a 483
 Celebration, orders passed, a 598, c 603
 Extra pay for Police and Firemen, c 608, 621
 Memorial — see Printing.
 Vote of thanks, a 617, c 620
 Pay for watching the Monument, a 633, c 634
 Blackstone square accident, committee to investigate, a 610, c 620; report, a 645; report accepted, hearing, a 660, c 669; report on claims for personal injuries, c 743
 $8,100 extra to Martin Milmore, c 814, 835, a 840

Assessors' Department —
 Commission on Valuation, c 40, 48; laid on table, a 54; rejected, a 306
 Abolishing Second Assistant Assessors, a 69, c 72, 95, 98
 Ordinance relating to duties of assistants referred, e 149; laid on table, c 158; indefinitely postponed, c 315
 Resignation of Ira D. Davenport, a 224
 Validity of election of Second Assistant Assessor's, referred c 254
 $200 for extra services, a 795, c 803
 $500 for extra services, a 795, c 803

Auditor of Accounts —
 Monthly Exhibits, Jan., 9; Feb., 55; March, 135; April, 219; May, 320; June, 391; July, 490; Aug. 580; Sept. 596; Oct. 641; Nov. c 720; Dec., 778
 Estimates for 1877-8 referred, c 136, a 148; report, e 219; orders passed, c 228, a 241, c 253, a 261, e 270
 Authorized to make closing transfers of appropriations, c 141, a 149
 Order to print annual report, a 305, c 308
 Statement of leases of city property, a 320
 Annual report, c 462
 Public inspection of Bills, c 693, referred, c 701, a 704, 717; report, 814, 829; indefinitely postponed, a 840

Badges —
 Order offered, c 15; passed, c 23; report of Committee, c 140

Ballast Lighters —
 Quarterly report, a 9, 214, 490, 626

Barnard, Ward 24 — remarks:
 Joint Rules and Orders, 290
 Official report, 360
 Public Parks, 481
 School Sessions, 638
 Investigation on Commou, etc., 672
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 723
 Commercial-st. widening, 752

Barry, Ward 22 — remarks:
 Election of Directors for Public Institutions, 15
 Pensions for Police, 159
 Salaries, 160
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 256
 License Commissioners, 238
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 355
 Stony Brook, 718
 Small-pox Hospital, 777

Beeching, Ward 1 — remarks:
 Election of Ferry Directors, 15
 Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 50
 Candidates for city offices, 63
 Salaries of city officers, 164, 190
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 404, 427
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
 Free Ferries, 496, 520
 Historical Sites, 792

Blanchard, Ward 21 — remarks:
 Salaries, 163

Blodgett, Ward 8 — remarks:
 Pay of street laborers, 59

- Stony Brook Improvement, 381
 Visit to Sudbury River, 430
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 559
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 546
- Bonds of city officers —
 Of Supt. of Market approved, a 214
 Of Sealer of Weights and Measures approved, a 226
 Order passed for annual examination, a 395, c 403
 Of City Treasurer approved, 782
 Annual examination, a 843, c 846
- Boston and Albany R. R. —
 Temporary tracks in Commonwealth ave., a 172
- Boston and Lowell Railroad —
 Additional track on Mystic wharf authorized, a 717
- Boston and Maine R. R. —
 Appointment of extra police, a 72
- Boston, Winthrop & Point Shirley R. R.
 Assessment of damages, a 432, 533
- Breck, Alderman — remarks :
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 300
 Salary of Inspector at Abattoir, 319, 334
 Supt. of permits for occupation of parts of streets, 437
 Police Sergeant Clark, 493
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 472
 Western avenue, Brighton, 491
 Police-boat "Protector", 629
 Refreshments, etc., 685
 Police Rules and Regulations, 706, 840
 Congress-st. widening, 854
- Bridges —
 Reports of Superintendents, a 9, 17
 Annual Report of Commissioner, a 30
 Meridian-st., closed for repairs, a 56
 Contract for lumber authorized, a 102
 Charles-river, closed for repairs; $700 authorized for repairs, a 226
 Longwood-avenue, notice and request from Brookline, referred, a 277
 Broadway, closed for examination, a 297; repairs, a 587
 Congress-street, closed for examination, 297
 Chelsea, releases of claims, a 364; referred, c 381, a 506; repairs authorized, a 413, c 479, 497
 Cottage-street, agreement with N. Y. & N. E. R. Co. authorized, a 338, c 352, 383
 Charles river, examination ordered, c 504, a 506; report, c 608; referred, a 611
 Huntington avenue, widening, a 338
 Longwood avenue, rebuilding, a 436
 Warren, repairs authorized, a 297, 474, 510, 587
 Berkeley and Ferdinand streets, over Boston & Albany Railroad, order passed to strengthen, a 536
 Columbus avenue, rebuilding, a 536
 Chelsea, closed for repairs, a 556
 Chelsea, access granted, a 582; notice from Chelsea referred, a 602
 Western avenue, rebuilding draw-pier, a 582
 Mt. Washington avenue, rebuilding draw-pier, a 582; replank draw, repair sidewalk, a 598
 Longwood avenue, closed for rebuilding, a 583
 Neponset, rebuilding, a 598; closed for repairs, a 617
 From Commercial point to Squantum, a 611, c 621, a 626, 698, 824, 828, 848
 Huntington avenue, planking, fences, a 587, c 621
 Albany street, closed for repairs, 646
 Broadway, closed for repairs, 700
- Brintnall, Ward 5 — remarks :
 Candidates for city offices, 63
 License Commissioners, 385
 Army and Navy Monument, 445
 Public Parks, 504
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 546
 Surveyors of Highways, 816
- Brown, Ward 23 — remarks :
 Salaries of city officers, 140
 Public Parks, 503
 Refreshments, etc., 532
 Police-boat "Protector", 626
 Stony Brook, 718, 748
 Curbstone Fruit-venders, 848
- Buildings — see also Public Buildings.
 Annual report of Inspector, a 30
 Order relating to unoccupied buildings rejected, 306
 Inspector requested to report on means of egress from school-houses, etc., c 315, 328, 359; indefinitely postponed, a 363
 Semi-annual report of Inspector, a 490
 Committee requested to consider sufficiency of appropriation, c 446, a 449; report, a 472, c 478, a 491, c 494
 Hotel Fred, c 431, 447
 Inspecting storage of gunpowder, c 431, 467
 Occupation of streets for building, order referred, a 437; report, order referred, a 450, c 460; report, 490; order passed, a 512; referred, c 513; non-concurrence, a 535; adherence, c 546; concurrence and reference, a 554; report, c 563; ordinance passed, c 621, a 627
 Building permits during recess, a 491, c 494
 Expediency of ordinance for snow-guards referred, a 556, c 567
 Charges against an Inspector, referred, a 612; report, a 658
- Petition of Charles-street Baptist Society for compensation for repairs, referred, a 616
- Burke, Ward 2 — remarks :
 Rates of toll on East Boston Ferries, 26
 Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 49
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 99
 Salaries, 164, 191
 Second Assistant Assessors, 254
 East Boston Ferries, 271
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 331
 Management of Fire Boat, 387
 Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
 Free Ferries, 522
 Refreshment bills, etc., 676
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 701, 721
 Fire Commissioners, 734
 Employés on Fire-boat, 778, 794
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
- Burham, Alderman — remarks :
 Consolidation of City Registrar and Board of Health, 86
 Salaries, 104
 Confirming nominations of city officers, 197
 Ninth-street improvement, and work for laborers, 202, 390, 448
 Appropriation Bill, 242
 South Boston R. R., 249
 Middlesex R. R., 266
 Registrar of Voters, 316, 351
 License Commissioners, 350
 Vacation Schools, 362
 Public Parks, 365, 421, 476
 Salary of Supt. of Dover-street Bridge, 391
 Vacation for firemen, 391, 506, 551
 Asphalt pavement, 397
 Poland & Peabody's Omnibus Line, 398
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 425
 Salary Supt. Public Library, 468
 Police Sergeant Clark, 493
 Free Ferries, 489
 Occupation of streets for building, 554
 Purchase of estate of Mrs. Ellis, 556
 Northampton St. Dist., 597
 Improved Sewerage, 569, 640, 646, 799, 841
 Inspection of Lime, 599
 Constables, 609
 Blackstone square accident, 610, 664
 East Boston High School, 649
 Refreshments, etc., 685
 Investigation of Fire Commissioner, 681
 Plan to relieve the blockade, 697
 South Boston Railroad location, 698
 Police Rules and Regulations, 706
 Vegetable market, 713
 Roxbury Canal, 759, 763, 783
 Seventeenth location Middlesex Railroad, 745
 Closing Proceedings, 856
- Cambridge Railroad —
 Petition for track in Merrimac street, a 644; hearing, 697, 703
 Change of track on Washington street, Brighton, a 682
 Location in Milk st., a 843, 856
- Cemeteries —
 Mount Hope, annual report, a 353
 Cedar Grove, annual report, a 449
 Boston Catholic Cemetery, land allotted, a 451
 St. Joseph's Cemetery, permit to open burial lot, a 823, c 827
- City Architect —
 Authorized to employ assistants, c 275, a 277
- City Clerk —
 Quarterly report, a 64, 296, 585, 745
- City Council —
 Official report of proceedings authorized, c 359, a 363
- City Contracts —
 Contracts to citizens only, c 332, 355, a 363
- City Engineer —
 Authorized to purchase supplies, etc., c 26, 35, a 41
 Annual report, c 50
 Authorized to visit Europe, c 635, a 640
- City Hospital —
 Authorized to occupy stable, a 266, c 270
 Annual report, c 543, a 555
- City Laborers —
 On Mystic Valley Sewer — see Water
 Report from Street Commissioners on work for unemployed laborers, referred, a 11, c 13
 Pay of street laborers, order rejected, c 59, 74
 Expediency of providing work for poor citizens referred, c 60
 Expediency of paying semi-monthly, order offered, c 194; referred, c 206, a 211; report inexpedient, c 295, a 296
 Laborers in Paving Department, c 409, a 412
 Discharge of laborers in Paving Department, a 611, 667, 699
 Order to pay Nov. 28, 1877, a 762, c 770
- City Officers (elected or appointed) —
 City Clerk, c 4
 Mayor's Clerk, a 8
 Assistant City Clerk, a 9
 Trustees Mt. Hope Cemetery, c 14, a 17, 179, c 183
 Trustees City Hospital, c 15, a 17, 148, c 158, a 202
 Directors Public Institutions, c 15, a 17, 179, c 183
 Directors East Boston Ferries, c 23, a 29, c 217, a 223

- Trustees Public Library, e 23, a 29, c 35, a 215, e 217
 Public Weighers, a 17, 146, 210, 237, 258, 277, 296, 361, 448, 819
 Weighers of Coal, 41, 80, 100, 146, 223, 316, 411, 432, 468, 483, 505, 569, 781
 City Messenger, a 56, e 58
 Superintendent Public Buildings, e 96, a 215
 Assessors, c 96, a 179, c 183, a 202, e 206, a 215, e 217, a 223, c 228
 Superintendent of Streets, c 96, a 215
 City Engineer, e 96, a 215
 Superintendent Public Lands, e 96, a 215
 Superintendent Sewers, c 96, a 215
 City Solicitor, c 96, a 215
 Clerk of Committees, e 97, a 202
 Superintendent Public Grounds, e 97, a 215
 Water Registrar, e 97, a 215
 City Surveyor, e 97, a 215
 Weighers and Inspectors of Lighters, e 123, a 130
 Overseers of Poor, e 123, a 130
 Measurers of Grain, a 196
 Measurers of Wood and Bark, a 196, 237, 361
 Undertakers, a 196, 237, 277, 361, 585, 640, 657
 Inspectors of Petroleum and Coal Oils, a 196
 Supt. of Wagons, a 196
 Supt. of Hacks and Carriages, a 196
 Supt. of Intelligence Offices, a 196, 593
 Sealer of Weights and Measures, a 196
 Supt. of Pawnbrokers, a 196
 Supt. of Faneuil Hall Market, a 197
 Inspector of Provisions, a 197
 Supt. of Faneuil Hall, a 197
 Assistant City Messengers, a 198, e 206
 Supts. of Bridges, c 206, a 215, c 217, a 223, 252
 Supt. of Hay Scales, a 210
 Surveyors of Marble, a 210
 City Registrar, a 215, e 217
 Inspectors of Lime, a 214, c 217, 257, a 258
 Culler of Hoops and Staves, a 214, c 217
 Field Drivers and Pound Keepers, a 214, c 217, 332, a 337, 436, c 440, a 646, e 651
 Fence Viewers, a 214, e 217, a 226, c 228, 332, a 337
 Commissioner Cedar Grove Cemetery, a 215, c 217
 City Architect, a 215, e 217
 Harbor Master, a 215, e 217
 First Assistant Assessors, a 215, e 217, a 223, e 228
 Weigher and Inspector of Bundle Hay, a 196, 223, 237, 258
 Commissioner on Cambridge Bridges, a 223
 Commissioner on Sinking Funds, a 224, e 228, a 238, e 253, a 258, c 270, 407, a 412
 Prison Point Bridge Commissioner, a 223, c 228
 Measurers of Upper Leather, a 237, 258, 744
 Member of Water Board, a 237, c 253
 Park Commissioner, a 237, e 253
 Member Board of Health, a 237, c 253, 255, a 258, e 271, 293, 310
 Second Assistant Assessors, a 238, c 254, a 258, c 270, a 278, c 236
 Assistant Clerk of Committees, e 274, a 277
 License Commissioners, a 277, e 286
 Inspector of Milk, a 316
 Fire Commissioners, a 316, 351, 352
 Registrar of Voters, a 316, 351
 Assistants to Bridge Supts., a 323
 Superintendent of Lamps, a 334, 380, 398
 Auditor of Accounts, c 386, a 391
 Deputy Sealers of Weights and Measures, 392
 City Collector, 445
 City Treasurer, 445
 Inspectors of Elections, a 624, 640, 657, 695, 744, 759, 763
 Inspector of Buildings, a 695, c 701, 720, 724
 Inspector and Weigher of Hay, 781
- City Registrar —
 Annual report, a 55, 641
 Consolidation with Board of Health, a 71, 86
- City Scales —
 Quarterly report North Scales, a 9, 225, 580, 658
- City Solicitor — see Law Department.
- City Surveyor —
 Annual report, a 18
 Authorized to purchase supplies, etc., a 19, c 35
- Claims —
 Payments of executions or judgments of courts authorized, a 47, e 48
 Sundry bills presented for authority to pay, a 47, e 48, a 102, e 139, 208, 221, a 223, e 635
 Abatement of claim against Hiram Johnson, referred, a 52, e 53; report, order passed, c 142, a 149
 Of Louise Woodworth Foss, c 124, a 130
 Robert Stoddard Wyde, stolen bonds, referred, c 160; report, order passed, a 198, c 206
 Defective tax-titles, ordinance passed, c 530, a 533
 $1,000 to Erving F. Graves, a 580, c 603
 $1,500 to Annie E. Porter, e 691, 701, a 704
 John Raddin, a 825, e 827, a 840
 $1,000 to Patrick Morau, e 834, a 840
- Clark, Alderman —
 Elected chairman, 2; address, 2
 Remarks on: Retrenchment in expenditures, 11, 102
 Union Freight Railroad, 46
 Management of Sinking Funds, 80, 106, 146, 157, 176
 Exhibition on the Common, 111
- Tracks on Columbus ave., 156, 173
 Protection of burial-grounds, 157
 List of jurors, 157
 System of taxation, 175
 Elections, 179
 Care of truants, 210
 Play-ground on Common, 211
 Furnishing play-grounds, 214
 First Assistant Assessors, 224
 Fruit-stands in streets, 239, 265
 Fourth of July, 240
 Appropriation Bill, 242
 Boats on Public Garden pond, 248
 East Boston Ferries, 259, 658
 Charles-river Park, 268
 Joint rules and orders, 279
 Vacation schools, 281, 362, 390
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285, 320, 334
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 298, 426, 436, 457, 510
 Vacant stores and tenements, 307
 Registrar of Voters, 316, 351
 Petition for new Gas Co., 318
 Refreshment bills, 319
 Army and Navy Monument, 322
 English High and Latin Schools, 322
 Board of Health, 323
 Public Parks, 349, 371, 417, 439, 474, 534, 821
 Play-grounds, 350
 License Commissioners, 350, 617, 643
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Police for bath-houses, 380
 Building of Ninth street, 390
 Work of Mystic Valley Sewer, 424, 457
 Asphalt pavement, 395, 456
 Poland & Peabody's Omnibus Line, 400
 Public School Musical Exhibitions, 402
 Superintendent of permits for occupation of parts of streets, 438, 554
 Ninth street, 448
 Salary of Superintendent Public Library, 470
 Free Ferries, 489
 Police Sergeant Clark, 492
 Commercial-street widening, 507, 629, 829
 Vacation for firemen, 507, 552
 Free access to horse-railroad cars, 511
 Salary of City Engineer, 533
 Proposed visit of governors, 536
 Horse-car blockades, 539, 584, 644
 Purchase of estate of Mrs. Ellis, 556
 Improved Sewerage, 577, 647
 Limit of City indebtedness, 590
 Constables, 609, 626
 Rejection of policeman, 614
 Printing Army and Navy Memorial, 616
 Blackstone square accident, 667
 Laborers on public grounds, 658
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 658, 687
 Refreshments, etc., 686
 Vegetable Market, 716
 Metropolitan Railroad, 728, 746, 837
 Small-pox Hospital, 731
 Industrial School, 782
 Roxbury Canal, 787
 Metropolitan Railroad location in Washington st., 822
 Claim of John Raddin, 825
 Management of horse-railroads, 845
 Police rules and regulations, 840
 Congress-st. widening, 853
 Response to resolution of thanks, 862
- Clarke, Ward 22 — remarks:
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 13
 Election of city officers, 15
 Badges, 23
 Personal explanation, 25
 Documents for Social Law Library, 36
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 33, 161, 186, 828
 Regulation of quacks, 39
 Petition of James Deshon, 48
 Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 49
 Uniform system of valuation, 48
 Work for poor citizens, 62
 Boards and commissions, 63, 74
 Sinking Funds, 183
 Bills for furnishing supplies, 118
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125
 Pensions for Police, 145, 159
 Care of Public Grounds, 159
 New building at Deer Island, 270
 Fourth of July, 273
 License Commissioners, 287, 352, 651
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 308, 330, 428
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 312
 Duties of Board of Health, 324
 Cottage-street bridge, 352
 Contracts only to citizens, 356
 Stony-brook Improvement, 381
 Salary of Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 382, 403
 Releases on Winship place, 382

- Vacation for firemen, 386
 Drainage of Muddy brook, 387
 Fire corner Shawmut avenue and Pleasant street, 408
 Visit to Sudbury river, 357, 409, 430
 Buildings to be inspected, 431
 Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
 Storage of gunpowder, 467
 Sale of Atherton School building, 513
 Frec Ferries, 523
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 561
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 545
 Occupancy of streets for building, 547
 Extra pay for Sept. 17, 621
 Wines, etc. at city entertainments, 639
 Duties of City Officers, 656
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 669, 690
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 722
 Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
 Commercial-st. widening, 752, 793
 Small-pox Hospital, 777
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
 Annual Dinner of Council, 815
 Reduction of rent to T. W. Carter, 803
 Squantum bridge, 828, 843
- Coe, Ward 23—remarks:
 Sinking Funds, 122
 Salaries of city officers, 183
 Appropriation Bill, 230
 Second Assistant Assessors, 270
 Police for License Commissioners, 354
 Stony-brook Improvement, 381
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
 Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
 Public parks, 478, 524
 Vacations for firemen, 541
 Additional appropriation for Common, 634
 Refreshments, etc., 673
 Stony-brook, 718
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 724
 Small-pox Hospital, 777
 Condition of School-houses, 779
- Collector's Department—
 Report on estates sold for assessments, c. 59
 Extra clerk-hire authorized, 280
 $3,800 for clerk-hire, 310
 Annual report referred, c 357, a 363; report of Committee on Examination, c 445, a 449
 $400 for extra services, c 835, a 840
 $300 for extra services, c 835, a 840
- Committees—
 Order for appointment of Joint Special Committees to nominate candidates for city offices, c 4, c 6, a 8
 Committee on Finance elected, c 5; organized, c 14
 Committee on Accounts elected, c 5, a 8; organized, c 14
 Joint Standing Committees, c 6, a 8
 Standing Committees of Board of Aldermen, a 8
 Standing Committees of Common Council, c 7
 Order rejected relating to candidates for city offices, c 63
 Orders passed for nominations to be made, a 134
 Special Committees appointed—
 State Aid, a 2, c 5
 Rules and orders Board of Aldermen, 3
 Joint rules and orders, a 3
 Disposal of topics in Mayor's Address, c 4, a 8
 Nominating committees appointed, c 4, c 6, a 8
 Rules and orders of Common Council, c 6
 Retrenchment in expenditures, a 10, c 13
 Army and Navy Monument, c 15, a 17
 Badges, c 25
 Historic points, a 46, c 48
 Public Parks, c 26, a 47
 Improved sewerage, c 26, a 47
 Franklin Fund, a 33, 41
 Auditor's Estimates, c 136, a 148
 Seventeenth of June, c 206, a 211
 East Boston Ferry Investigation, c 271
 Fourth of July, c 274, a 277
 Stony-brook Improvement, a 365, c 381, a 395
 Bonds of city officers, a 395, c 403
 Inspection of Prisons, a 412
 Evening concerts, c 460, a 472
 Industrial Schools, a 484, c 494
 Proposed visit of Governors of States, a 505, c 513
 Superintendent of Pawnbrokerage Investigation, 506
 Excursion of Council, c 530
 Inspection of Lime, 598
 Blackstone-square accident, a 609, c 620; report, 743
 Investigation of Department of Common and Squares, c 656, a 658
 State Election Returns, 709
 Stony-brook Improvement, a 732
 Small-pox Hospital, 748, 778, 781
 Municipal Election Returns, 784
- Nominations by special Committees—
 Trustees Mt. Hope, c 14, a 17, 175
 Trustees City Hospital, c 15, a 17, c 142, a 148
 Directors for Public Institutions, c 15, a 17, 175, 183
- Directors East Boston Ferries, c 15, a 30
 Trustees Public Library, c 15, a 29, c 207
 Assessors, a 46
 City Solicitor, c 51, a 54
 Superintendent of Sewers, c 51, a 54
 Clerk of Committees, c 51, a 54
 City Engineer, c 51, a 54
 Superintendent of Common, etc., c 51, a 54
 Superintendent of Public Lands, c 51, a 54
 Water Registrar, c 51, a 54
 City Surveyor, c 51, a 54
 Superintendent of Streets, c 51, a 54
 City Messenger, a 56, c 58
 Superintendent of Public Buildings, a 56, c 58
 Inspectors of Lighters, a 94, c 95
 Overseers of Poor, c 97, a 100
 Superintendents of Bridges, c 194, a 197, 252
 First Assistant Assessors, a 198, c 206, a 224
 City Architect, c 207
 Harbor Master, c 207
 Directors E. B. Ferries, c 207
 Commissioner Cedar Grove Cemetery, c 207
 City Registrar, c 207
 Fence Viewers, a 214, c 217
 Culler of Hoops and Staves, a 214, c 217
 Inspector of Lime, a 214, c 217
 Field Drivers and Pound Keepers, a 214, c 217
 Sinking Fund Commissioner, c 222
 Second Assistant Assessors, a 226, c 228
 Auditor of Accounts, c 386
 Deputy Sealers Weights and Measures, a 392
 City Treasurer, 445
 City Collector, 445
- Common Council—
 Admission to ante-room, 6
 Strangers excluded from floor and ante-room, c 208
 Order to supply members with Cushing's large Manual, an English Grammar, and a dictionary, c 332, 356
 Excursion, order rejected, c 482; reconsideration, c 504; committee appointed, c 530
 Annual Dinner, c 815, 833
- Common and Public Grounds—
 $1,200 for labor, c 36, a 41
 $6,000 additional appropriation, c 97, a 100, c 139
 Land on Dartmouth and Boylston streets, committee authorized to confer, a 47, c 48
 Mass. Charitable Mechanic Association, petition referred, a 41; petitions in aid and remonstrances, a 57; report, recommended, a 57, c 58; report, order passed, a 111; substitute order passed, c 125; non-concurrence, a 130; indefinite postponement, c. 137
 Order passed relating to care by City Council, a 134, c 139; reconsideration refused, c 159
 $5,500 for labor, c 139, a 148
 Expediency of providing play-ground referred, c 208; a 214
 Play-ground, order passed, c 208; indefinitely postponed, a 211; order passed, c 314, 326, a 350, 364, c 382
 $2,000 for squares on Commonwealth ave., a 227, c 228, 255
 Huntington avenue square, report a 240, c 253
 Boats on Public-Garden pond, a 248, c 253
 Supt. authorized to purchase supplies and employ men, c 275, a 277
 $34.25 for sewer, a 279
 Expediency of railing round Fort Hill square referred, c 315, a 318
 Order passed for protection of plants, a 351
 Fence on Commonwealth avenue authorized, c 386, a 389
 $628.76 for Commonwealth-avenue square, a 413, c 440
 Stealing flowers from Public Garden, a 474, c 478, 497, a 660, 682, c 690
 Expediency of fountain in Madison square, a 490
 Evening concerts, c 446, 460, a 472, 639
 Orchard park, order rejected, c 550
 Additional appropriation, a 632, c 634, 654, 669, a 687, c 691, a 697
 Proposed removal of Supt., laid on table, c 655; indefinitely postponed, c 835
 Investigating Committee appointed, c 656, a 658; report, c 770, 805, a 820
 Employment of laborers, c 656, a 658
 Expediency of placing public grounds in care of Park Commissioner, c 678, 692
 $352.50 for Phonographic Report of Hearings, c 770
- Contingent Expenses (see also "Auditor of Accounts")—
 Of Board of Aldermen: approval of bills authorized, a 102
 Of Common Council: discussion, 98; order passed, 142
 Refreshments and carriage-hire, c 532, 544, 550, 743, 773, 766, 788, 835, a 842, c 846, 849, a 853
 Wines at city entertainments, c 639, 653, a 658, c 673, a 682
 Public Inspection of Refreshment Bills, c 676, a 682
- Constables—see County of Suffolk.
- County of Suffolk—
 Repairs and furniture for county buildings authorized, a 19, 29
 Jail expenses: for Jan., 45; Feb., 101; March, 198; May, 363; June, 450; July, 535; Aug. 585; Sept. 612; Oct. 693; Nov. 761; Dec. 820
 Investigation of constables, c 98, a 100; report, a 612, c 620
 Inspection of Prisons, a 412, 586, 855

- Registry of Deeds, index of estates sold for non-payment of taxes authorized, a 491
 Appointments of Constables, a 593, 609, 612, 624, 703, 763, 795, 819, 837
 Old Records of Courts, communication referred, a 626
- Crocker, Ward 9—remarks:
 Badges, 24
 Rates of toll on East Boston Ferries, 26
 Management of sinking funds and city debt, 26, 119, 140, 143, 181, 208, 218
 Documents for Social Law Library, 36
 Work for poor citizens, 62
 Boards and commissions, 74
 Abolition of Second Assistant Assessors, 95
 Common Council refreshment bills, 98
 Bills for furnishing supplies, 118
 Claim of Louise Woodworth Foss, 124
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125, 138
 Appropriation for Public Grounds, 139
 Salaries of city officers, 140, 164, 188, 823
 Contingent Fund, 142
 Play-ground on Common, 209
 Appropriation Bill, 228
 Certificates of firemen, 253
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 255, 273, 293, 311
 License Commissioners, 286, 353, 385, 652
 Joint Rules and Orders, 292
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 310, 329, 407
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
 Police for License Commissioners, 354
 Contracts only to citizens, 355
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 357
 Official report, 359
 Releases on Winship place, 383
 Fence on Commonwealth avenue, 386
 Salary Superintendent Dover-street bridge, 403
 Laborers in Paving Department, 410
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410, 429
 Army and Navy Monument, 443
 Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
 Storage of gunpowder, 467
 Public Parks, 481, 815, 817
 Vacation for firemen, 495, 541
 Free Ferries, 495
 Improved Sewerage, 530
 Refreshments, etc., 513
 Proposed visit of Governors, 540
 Scales of Weights and Measures, 545, 567
 Northampton-st. District, 603
 Inspection of Lime, 605
 Extra Pay for September 17, 608, 621
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Police Boat "Protector," 622, 636
 Additional Appropriation for Common, 634, 654, 672, 691
 Removal of Superintendent Common, 656
 Refreshments, etc., 673, 676, 774, 835
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
 Inspection of bills in Auditor's office, 693
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 721, 738
 Payment of Carriage bills, 770
 Small-pox Hospital, 777
 Commercial-st. widening, 804, 830
 Common Investigation, 805
 Annual Dinner of Council, 815, 833
 Reduction of rent to T. W. Carter, 803
- Danforth, Ward 10—remarks:
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 161, 192
 Salary of Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 381
 Army and Navy Monument, 431, 441
 Scales of Weights and Measures, 494, 513, 545, 567
 Free Ferries, 521
 Improved Sewerage, 565
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 License Commissioners, 651, 676
 Vegetable Market, 719
 Commercial-st. widening, 752, 804
 Annual Dinner of Council, 815
- Day, Ward 4—remarks:
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 39, 40, 140
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 73, 95
 Old South preservation, c 194
 Appropriation Bill, 229
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 256
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 275
 Joint Rules and Orders, 292
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309, 330
 Horatio Harris estate for park, 326
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 333, 355
 Official report, 359
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 566
 Refreshments, etc., 532
 Inspection of Lime, 607
 Laborers on Public Grounds, 656
 Personal explanation, 679
 Commercial-st widening, 804
- Dee, Ward 5—remarks:
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37
- Dogs—
 Expediency of muzzling, referred, a 94, c 95; report, orders referred, a 323, c 324; report, a 392; order passed, a 434, 659
 Order passed to kill unlicensed dogs, a 682
 Damage for fowls killed, a 726, 842
- Duggan, Ward 12—remarks:
 Vacation of Firemen, 494
- Dunbar, Alderman—remarks:
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285
 License Commissioners, 643.
 Claim of John Raddin, 825
- Elections—
 Petitions for recounts of votes for councilmen, referred, c 4, 5
 Report on recount of Ward 20, Joseph Morrill, jr., elected and qualified, c 5
 Reports on recounts of Wards 16, 6, 4, 19, 15, '3, c 5; Ward 8, c 14
 Petitions for recounts for ward officers, referred, a 12; report, a 19
 Warrants issued for State Election, a 660
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, c 692, a 697, 784
 Report of Returns, State, a 726, 745
 Warrants for Municipal Election, 747
 Report of Returns, Municipal, 797, 823
- Fagan, Ward 19—remarks:
 Salaries of city officers, 140 (see errata, page 222)
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 330
 Contracts only to citizens, 356
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 723
- Felt, Ward 18—remarks:
 Common Council refreshment bills, 98
 Contingent Fund, 142
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
 Horatio Harris estate for park, 325
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 333
 Cottage-street bridge, 352
 Additional Appropriation for Common, 634
 Release of land to heirs of John English, 701
 South Boston Flats, 719
 Historic sites, 789
 Stony brook, 793
- Ferries—
 Expediency of changing rates of toll, referred, c 26, a 29
 Investigation of management, c 255, a 258, c 271, a 277, c 445, a 449
 Petitions for free ferries referred, a 237, 317, c 328; report, a 473; order passed, a 484, c 495, 514, 532
 Annual report, a 337, 395
 Notice from Mayor of legal proceedings, a 657
 Records of the Ferries, c 742
 Mandamus from Supreme Court, 820, c 827
- Fire Department—
 Report of fires and alarms for Dec., 1876, a 9; Jan., a 64; Feb., c 142; March, a 225; April, c 311; May, c 407; June, 490; July, 530; Aug. 596; Sept. 641; Oct. c 720; Nov. 782
 Petition for new fire-alarm box in Ward 24, referred to the Commissioners, c 36, a 41
 Uniforms for Fire Commissioners, order rejected, c 36; reconsidered, referred, c 48, a 54
 Vacations for firemen, referred, c 63, a 64; resolve passed, c 386
 Report on rebuilding Jenney & Co.'s petroleum works, a 135
 Expediency of giving fines to Firemen's Charitable Fund, referred, c 194, a 197; report, a 509, c 513
 Exhibition by Fire Extinguishing Liquid Co., c 207, a 216
 Pay of crew of fire-boat, c 236, a 238, c 386, a 389, c 778, 794
 Certificate of seven years' service, ordinance passed, a 240; referred, c 253, a 258; ordinance passed, c 328, a 337
 Expediency of changing Board of Fire Commissioners referred, a 267, c 270
 Explosive compounds, order to report ordinances, c 358, 383, a 389; report, ordinance and order passed, a 843, c 846
 Management of fire-boat, referred, c 387, a 389
 Vacation for firemen and fire-alarm employes, c 385, a 391, 491 c 494, a 506, c 513, a 535, c 540, a 551
 Order to investigate cause of fire corner Shawmut avenue and Pleasant street, c 407; indefinitely postponed, c 482
 Board of Commissioners allowed to fix salary of clerks, a 412
 Exhibition of Boston Self-Regulating Fire Escape and Hose, a 412
 Annual report, 460
 Ordinance to amend, referred, c 408, a 412; report, 814; referred to next city government, c 833, a 840
 Arrangement of Telegraph Wires, order passed, c 623, a 627; report, c 814, a 820
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, order passed, c 677, a 681, c 690; report, a 725, c 734
 $300 to Charles Brooks, c 779, 789, a 795
- Fitzgerald, Alderman—remarks:
 On election of chairman, 2
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 10, 42, 102, 197
 Cost of publishing orders of notice, 20
 Repairs of police stations, 46
 Union Freight Railroad, 46
 Abatement of a claim against a bankrupt, 52

- Equitable valuation of property, 54, 305
 Election of Assessors, 56, 179
 Exhibition on Common, 57, 111, 131
 N. W. Day's omnibus route, 80
 Management of sinking funds, 80, 109, 130, 146, 157, 176
 Charles-river embankment, 117
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 151, 173
 Protection of burial-grounds, 157
 System of taxation, 175
 Confirming nominations of city officers, 197
 Care of truants, 199, 210
 Ninth-street improvement, and work for laborers, 205
 Play-ground on Common, 211
 Fruit-stands in streets, 239, 263
 Fourth of July, 240
 Appropriation Bill, 242, 261
 Boats on Public-Garden pond, 248
 South Boston R.R., 249
 East Boston Ferries, 260, 657
 Middlesex R.R., 266
 New piggery at Deer Island, a 266
 Charles-river park, 267
 Vacation Schools, 280, 361, 389
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 297, 426, 436, 457, 510
 Vacant stores and tenements, 306
 Registrar of Voters, 316, 351
 Petition for new Gas Co., 317, 800
 Refreshment bills, 319
 Army and Navy Monument, 322, 592
 English High and Latin Schools, 322
 Salary of Inspector at Abattoir, 335
 Public Parks, 344, 369, 414, 438, 475, 533
 License Commissioners 350, 618, 641
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Work on Mystic Valley Sewer, 392, 425, 458, 472
 Asphalt pavement, 320, 397, 453
 Poland & Peabody's Omnibus Line, 398
 Public School Musical Exhibitions, 401
 Allston School, 433
 Salary of Superintendent Public Library, 470
 Free Ferries, 487
 Police Sergeant Clark, 492
 Commercial-street widening, 507, 631, 839
 Free access to horse-railroad cars, 511
 Salary of City Engineer, 533
 Proposed visit of Governors, 537
 Horse-car blockades, 538, 591, 618, 645
 Limit of City Indebtedness, 588
 Inspection of Lime, 598, 601
 Constables, 593, 609, 613, 624, 629
 Blackstone-square accident, 609, 646, 662
 Rejection of policeman, 613
 Paving Richmond street, 615
 East Boston High School, 627, 647
 Printing Army and Navy Memorial, 616, 632
 Removal of horses from South Russell street, 647
 Discharge of Laborers in Paving Department, 667
 Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 658
 Ward-room in Ward 24, 659, 700
 Public Park Loan, 660
 Refreshments and bills, 683
 South Boston Railroad location, 698
 Police Rules and Regulations, 704, 840
 Vegetable Market, 715
 Brimmer School, 744
 Metropolitan Railroad, 747
 Roxbury Canal, 760, 764, 785
 Small-pox Hospital, 781
 Condition of School-houses, 782
 Industrial School, 782, 797
 Metropolitan Railroad Location in Washington-st., 822
 Management of horse railroads, 845
 Congress-st. widening, 854
 Closing Proceedings, 856, 861
 Flint, Ward 8 — For Flint, read Flynn, Ward 13
 Flynn, Ward 13 — remarks:
   Declining renomination on Committee on Accounts, 4
   Admission to ante-room, 6
   Retrenchment in expenditures, 13, 141, 161, 189
   Charges against Globe Theatre, 22
   Badges, 24
   Special Committee on Parks, 26
   Pay of street laborers, 59, 194, [206, see Flint]
   Estates sold for assessments, 60
   Work for poor citizens, 61
   Boards and commissions, 76
   Common Council refreshment bills, 98
   Sinking Funds, 119, 182
   Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125, 138
   Contingent Fund, 142
   Appropriation Bill, 254
   Fourth of July, 255
   Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 255, 271, 293, 310
   Fourth of July, 273
   License Commissioners, 287, 315, 328, 354, 384, 652, 676
   Board of Health, 295
   Mystic Valley Sewer, 309
   Horatio Harris estate for park, 315, 325
   Contracts only to citizens, 355
   Civilities to distinguished strangers, 358, 459
   Salary of Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 381
   Ninth street, 386, 479
   Army and Navy Monument, 431, 440
   Public Parks, 478, 481, 502, 524
   Registrar of Voters, 467
   Commercial street, 497, 752, 773, 792, 829
   Free Ferries, 523
   Improved Sewerage, 530, 564
   Refreshments, etc., 531, 773, 835
   Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
   Extra pay for September 17, 621
   Police Boat "Protector", 622
   Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 653
   Removal of Superintendent Common, 655
   Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656
   Inspection of refreshment bills, 676
   Investigation of Fire Commissioner, 677
   Care of Public Grounds, 692, 794
   Election of Inspector of Buildings, 701, 720, 738
   Stony Brook, 718, 748
   Vegetable Market, 719
   Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
   Roxbury Canal, 789, 848
   Curbstone Fruit-venders, 829
 Forest Hills Cemetery —
   Occupation of lands authorized, a 241
 Fourth of July —
   Order for committee, laid on table, c 143; referred to Retrenchment Committee, c 222; indefinitely postponed, a 240; new order passed, a 240; substitute assigned, c 254; passed, committee appointed, c 273, a 277
   Sale of fireworks, petition referred, a 450; report, a 474
   Thanks to orator, c 480, a 490
   Sailing regatta, petition referred, a 505
 Fraser, Ward 6 — remarks:
   Contract for water-pipes, 72
   Appropriation Bill, 235
   Mystic Valley Sewer, 309, 404, 427, 460
   Visit to Sudbury river, 430, 440
   Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
   Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
   Widening Commercial street, 482, 513
   School Sessions, 638
   Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
   Historic sites, 790
   Commercial-st. widening, 793, 804
   Extra Services in the Assessors' Department, 803
   Stony Brook, 805
 Funds — see also Sinking Funds —
   Franklin Fund — examination of accounts, a 33; report, a 47
   — Loan to A. G. Rockwood, a 41, 56
   — Loan to George H. Dyer, a 278
   Dorchester Trust Funds, annual report, a 412
 G. A. R. —
   $200 to each post for Decoration Day, c 217, a 223
   Invitation for Decoration Day accepted, offer of escort referred, a 267, c 270, a 320, c 324, a 363
 Gas —
   Proposition from Globe Gaslight Co., referred, a 70
   Petition for new Gas Co., referred, a 317; report, a 767, 800
 Gibson, Alderman — remarks:
   Abatement of claim against a bankrupt, a 52
   Equitable valuation of property, 54, 306
   Election of Assessors, 56
   Appointment of special police at Boston and Maine R. R., 72
   Salaries, 104
   Exhibition on Common, 112
   Ninth-street improvement, and work for laborers, 205
   Fruit-stands in streets, 240
   Appropriation Bill, 247
   East Boston Ferries, 258
   Vacation Schools, 281
   Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285
   Sealers of Weights and Measures, 298, 457, 511
   Army and Navy Monument, 322
   Public Parks, 350, 378, 422, 476, 821
   Play-grounds, 350
   License Commissioners, 350
   Registrar of Voters, 351
   Wales-street drainage, 379
   Personal explanation, 389
   Asphalt pavement, 396, 455
   Poland and Peabody's Omnibus Line, 401
   Salary of Superintendent Public Library, 471
   Free Ferries, 489
   Police Sergeant Clark, 492
   Mystic Valley Sewer, 472
   Vacation for firemen, 507, 552
   Commercial-street widening, 631
   Blackstone-square accident, 610, 664
   Rejection of policeman, 614
   East Boston High School, 627, 647
   License Commissioners, 643
   Refreshments, etc., 687
   Metropolitan railroad, 729

- Highland railway, 732
Roxbury Canal, 787
Claim of John Raddin, 825
- Ham, Ward 14 — remarks :
Visit to the parks, 315
Horatio Harris estate for park, 326
Play-grounds, 327
Mystic Valley Sewer, 330
Stony-brook Improvement, 331
Salary of Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 382
Ninth street, 386
Public Parks, 501
Improved Sewerage, 567
Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720
Historical sites, 789
- Hacks —
Rate of fare for Old South Ball, a 214
- Harbor —
Investing Harbor Master with police powers and duties, a 69, 80
Dredging on Charles river, referred, c 315, a 318; report, a 660, c 669
Expediency of furnishing steam facilities to Harbor Master, referred, c 834, a 840
- Health —
Nuisance in Charlestown, committee to give hearing, e 480, a 490
Nuisance at the Highlands, petition referred, a 505
- Health, Board of —
Order of inquiry relating to scarlet fever, c 5, a 8; report from Board of Health, referred, c 14, a 17
Nuisance near junction Commonwealth avenue and Parker street, referred, a 171, c 181
Cemeteries, conveyance of lots, report, e 208; ordinance passed, c 217, a 223
Stony Brook nuisance, requested to examine cellars, e 221, a 223; report, c 255, a 258
Inspection of oysters, c 255, a 258
Expediency of reconstituting, rejected, e 275, 294
Lying-in-hospitals, permits refused, a 320, 611
Hospitals authorized, a 660
Order requiring members to devote whole time to duties, a 323, c 324
Orders relating to information from City Registrar referred, a 363
Urinals, request referred, a 508
Annual report, c 543, a 555
Expediency of employing physicians to visit poor referred, a 588, e 603; report, c 833; a 840
Expediency of transferring care of ashes to Fire Department, referred, c 638, a 640; report, c 814, a 820
Report on Prison Point Flats, resolve passed, c 635, a 640; a 788, c 789; report of Board, a 796
Small-pox Hospital, request for additional appropriation, a 725, e 734; order passed, a 746; referred to special investigating committee, c 748, 775, a 781; report, orders passed, e 834, a 840
- Health Department —
Superintendent authorized to purchase horses, supplies, etc., c 26, 35, a 41
Cost of removing night-soil, referred, e 51, a 54; report, a 71, c 72
Contract for house offal in West Roxbury authorized, a 278, c 310
Contract for offal in East Boston authorized, c 816, a 820
- Hibbard, Ward 17 — remarks:
Election of Ferry Directors, 15
Salaries, 169, 192
Appropriation Bill, 235
Second Assistant Assessors, 270
Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
Mystic Valley Sewer, 329
Contracts only to citizens, 356
Visit to Sudbury river, 430
Army and Navy Monument, 445
Refreshments, etc., 532
Sealers of Weights and Measures, 546
Inspection of Lime, 605
- Highland R. R. Co. —
Tracks on Columbus ave., hearing, a 52, 65; reports, a 134; substitute order referred, a 149; order passed, a 172; location accepted, a 197
Authorized to increase number of cars, a 363
Temporary track on Chandler street, a 412
Hearing on tracks in Dartmouth and Boylston streets, a 483; leave to withdraw, a 511
Hearing on running to northern depots, a 551, 594; leave to withdraw, a 615; indefinitely postponed, 856
Petition for tracks in Eliot street, a 644; hearing, 696; report, 708; order passed, 732
Location accepted, 760
Location on Northampton street, 854
- Hiscock, Ward 21 — remarks:
Salaries and duties of city officers, 38, 193
- Historic Sites —
Offer of escort referred, a 174
Tablet on Christ Church, a 762, 763; recommitment, c 789, a 795; orders passed, c 834, a 840, c 849, a 853
- Howes, Ward 18 — remarks:
Personal explanation, c 21
- Badges, 24
Special Committee on Parks, 26
Salaries and duties of city officers, 39, 40, 141, 164, 183, 823
Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 49
Pay of street laborers, 59
Labor for poor citizens, 61
Boards and commissions, 75
Additional appropriation for Public Grounds, e 97
Meehanics' Fair and the Common, 125, 133
Management of Public Grounds, 139
Appropriation for Public Grounds, 139
Contingent Fund, 142
Pensions for Police, 145, 158
Pay of laborers, 206
Play-ground on Common, 209, 314
System of valuation, 207
Appropriation Bill, 229
Second Assistant Assessors, 254
Mr. Keith's appointment to the Board of Health, 256, 272, 294
Fourth of July, 273
Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274
License Commissioners, 288, 653
Joint Rules and Orders, 289
Duties of Board of Health, 324
Play-grounds, 327
Contracts only to tax-payers, 332, 355
Official report, 359
Releases on Winship place, 382
Fence on Commonwealth avenue, 386
Management of fire boat, 387
Drainage of Muddy brook, 387
Fire corner Shawmut ave. and Pleasant street, 408
Mystic Valley Sewer, 429
Visit to Sudbury river, 430
Army and Navy Monument, 444
Inspection of Buildings, 447
Public Parks, 498, 528
Sealers of Weights and Measures, 513
Free Ferries, 520
Refreshments and carriage-hire, 531
Proposed visit of Governors, 540
Vacations for firemen, 542
Occupancy of streets for building, 547
Improved Sewerage, 564
Additional Appropriation for Common, 634, 654, 691
Police Boat "Protector", 636
Care of hot ashes, 638
Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 653
Removal of Superintendent Common, 655
Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656, 669, 805
Laborers on Public Grounds, 656
Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 678, 734
Inspection of refreshment bills, 676
Care of Public Grounds, 693
Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 701, 720, 737
Records of the Ferries, 742
Commercial-street widening, 755, 830
Employés on Fire Boat, 778
Historic sites, 791
Claim of John Raddin, 827
Roxbury Canal, 832
- Improved Sewerage —
Joint Special Committee to resume charge, a 20, c 6, a 47, c 285
Reference of Mayor's Address, c 26
Report, and referred, e 497, a 506
Report, c 530; specially assigned, c 544; orders passed, c 559, a 569
City Engineer authorized to employ assistance, and incur expenses, a 617, c 621
Committee authorized to accept collateral, a 646, e 651
City Engineer's visit to Europe, c 635, a 640
Shelter for steam-pump on Berkeley street, a 799, e 803
Property at Old Harbor Point, order passed, c 849, a 853
Boston Society of Architects, communication referred, c 833, a 840
- Industrial Schools —
Petition referred, a 484, c 494; report referred, a 767, c 770; report, a 782; order rejected, a 797
- Inspector of Buildings — see Buildings.
- Inspector of Lime —
Petition from Dealers in Lime, referred, a 598; report, orders passed, a 601; substitute passed, c 603; non-concurrence, a 611; laid on table, c 621; indefinitely postponed, c 835
- Invitations accepted — see also G. A. R.
Faneuil Hall Temperance Reform Club, a 88
Carney Hospital Fair, a 612, e 620
- Jackson, Ward 16 — remarks:
Regulation of quacks, 39
Work for poor citizens, 63
Salaries of city officers, 141, 163, 190
Salary of Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 403
Mystic Valley Sewer, 406
Civilities to distinguished strangers, 459
Sealers of Weights and Measures, 513
Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 639

Jury List —

- Revised list and communication from Registrars of Voters, a 157
- List adopted, a 176

Kelley, Ward 3 — remarks :

- Salaries, 160, 192
- Joint Rules and Orders, 291
- Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 294
- Mystic Valley Sewer, 309, 329, 405
- Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
- Visit to Sudbury river, 357, 409
- Inspection of Buildings, 446
- Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
- Refreshments, etc., 532
- Vacations for firemen, 541
- Occupancy of streets for building, 548
- Inspection of Lime, 605
- Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656
- Armory in Charlestown, 719
- Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 722
- Commercial-st. widening, 793
- Surveyors of Highways, 816
- License Commissioners, 836

Lamp Department —

- Annual report of Superintendent, a 9
- Supt. authorized to purchase supplies, etc., and employ men, a 33
- Expediency of removing lamp-posts at Granary Burial-ground, referred, a 323
- Committee authorized to visit other cities, a 660
- Nomination of Superintendent rejected, a 856

Law Department —

- Annual report of City Solicitor, a 55
- Opinion requested on limit of city indebtedness, a 588
- Semi-annual report of City Solicitor, a 841

Legislative matters —

- Expediency of regulation of quacks referred, c 39, a 41 ; report, order passed, c 58, a 64
- Order relating to boards and commissions, c 63, 74, a 88
- Changing Aldermanic to Joint Committees, c 98, a 100
- Protection of burial-grounds, order of inquiry passed, a 157 ; indefinitely postponed, c 158
- Order passed to oppose changing system of taxation, a 175 ; rejected, c 183 ; reconsideration refused, c 206
- Old South, c 194, 236
- Charles-river Park, a 267, c 271, a 277
- Surveyors of Highways, order referred, c 816 ; indefinitely postponed, a 820
- Management of horse railroads, a 845

License Commissioners —

- Annual report, a 64
- Nominations requested, c 276, a 277
- Appointed, a 277, c 286, 310
- Apartment indefinitely postponed, c 315
- Request for police referred, a 317 ; orders passed, a 350, c 354, 383
- Organization, a 320
- Additional clerk, c 328, a 350, c 352, a 363
- Disposition of License Fees, c 357, 385
- Salaries — see Salaries.

Licenses —

- Fruit pedlars, petition, a 196 ; hearing on remonstrance, a 238 ; discussion, order indefinitely postponed, a 261 ; new order referred, a 265
- Report on Jourdain's Museum of Anatomy, a 795
- Venders of old lead pipe, order referred, c 816, a 820
- Fruit, Mayor requested to petition, a 824, c 829, 846

Lime — see Inspection of Lime.

Loans —

- $1,500,000 in anticipation of taxes, c 466, a 472
- $450,000 for Back Bay Park — see Public Parks.
- $3,713,000 for Improved Sewerage, c 559
- $1,000,000 for widening Commercial street, a 629
- $133,000 for Stony Brook improvement, a 732

Markets —

- Quarterly report of Superintendent, a 55, 214
- Faneuil Hall, new leases authorized, a 175 ; new order referred, a 202 ; report, order passed, a 214
- Superintendent authorized to employ deputy, a 223
- Vegetable Market, report on purchase, a 581 ; laid on table, a 583 ; assigned, a 700 ; referred, a 709 ; laid on table, c 719 ; referred to next City Government, c 833
- Report on dressed poultry, referred, a 647 ; ordinance passed, c 651, a 658

Mass. Charitable Mechanic Association — see Common.

Mayor —

- Copy of Inaugural Address requested, c 4, a 8
- Disposition of topics in address, referred, c 4, a 8 ; report, and reference of topics, c 25, a 29
- Appointment of railroad police at Boston & Maine R. R., c 72
- Authorized to extend civilities to distinguished strangers, c 357, a 363, c 459
- Proposed visit of Governors of States, a 505, 536 ; c 540, 550
- Legal proceedings against Free Ferris, a 657
- Purchase by Park Commissioners, c 817
- Valedictory, 857

McDonald, Ward 12 — remarks :

- Election of Ferry Directors, 15
- Pay of street laborers, 59, 74
- Buildings to be inspected, 431
- Storage of gunpowder, 467
- Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720

McGaragle, Ward 8 — remarks :

- Badges, 15, 23
- Special Committee on Parks, 26
- Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 160, 186
- Regulation of quacks, 39
- Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 48
- Pay of street laborers, 59
- Estates sold for assessments, 60
- Work for poor citizens, 61
- Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 98
- Sinking Funds, 119, 182
- Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125
- Pensions for Police, 145, 158
- Play-ground on Common, 209, 314
- Appropriation Bill, 232, 254
- Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 256, 272, 294
- New Building at Deer Island, 270
- Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274
- License Commissioners, 288, 352, 384, 652
- Joint Rules and Orders, 290
- Duties of Board of Health, 324
- Horatio Harris Estate for Park, 326
- Mystic Valley Sewer, 330, 405
- Police for License Commissioners, 354
- Contracts only to tax-payers, 355
- Cushing's Manual for members, 356
- Fire corner Shawmut ave. and Pleasant st., 408
- Visit to Sudbury river, 409
- Laborers in Paving Dept., 410
- Buildings to be inspected, 431, 446
- Repairs on Adams School-house, 467
- Commercial street, 497
- Occupancy of streets for building, 513, 546
- Public Parks, 524, 813
- Tax titles, 531
- Refreshments, etc., 531, 774
- Vacation for Firemen, 541
- Salary of clerk of Ferries, 550
- Improved Sewerage, 561, 635
- Sealers of Weights and Measures, 567
- Inspection of Lime, 607
- Police Boat "Protector", 622
- Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 639, 653, 673
- Duties of city officers, 656
- Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 678
- Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
- Care of Public Grounds, 693
- Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 722
- Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
- Small Pox Hospital, 776
- Employes on Fire Boat, 778
- Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
- Reduction of rent to T. W. Carter, 803
- Claim of John Raddin, 827
- Curbstone fruit-venders, 829

Metropolitan R. R. Co. —

- Part of location granted June 29, 1874, revoked, a 19
- Hearing on tracks in Columbus ave. and Northampton st., a 52 ; report, a 135 ; substitute order referred, a 149 ; report, order passed, a 172, a 321
- Hearing on tracks in Lexington, Prescott and Liverpool streets, a 88
- Location in Leox street, hearing, a 146
- Location in Atlantic avenue and across Dover street, hearing, a 171
- Location in Lexington street, a 265
- Forty-sixth location accepted, a 278
- Forty-seventh location accepted, a 337
- Leave to lay tracks on Atlantic ave., a 333
- Forty-eighth location accepted, a 363
- Hearing on tracks in Dartmouth and Marlborough streets, a 468 ; leave to withdraw, a 511
- Additional track on Marlborough street authorized, a 511
- 49th location accepted, a 583
- Petition for track in Washington and Milk streets, a 643 ; hearing, 695, reports, 707 ; order passed, a 728
- Location in Battery street, hearing, 759 ; order passed, 783
- Locations accepted, 760, 820
- Hearing on change in Washington st., 819 ; order passed, 821 ; location accepted, 821, 839
- Hearing on location over the Milldam, 837 ; order referred to next board, 856

Middlesex R. R. Co. —

- Location in Haymarket square granted, a 89
- Hearing on location in Lincoln st., a 101
- Hearing on connecting with S. B. R. R. track, a 170 ; order passed, a 266
- Locations accepted, a 172, 320, 449
- Location in Haymarket Square, hearing, a 411 ; leave to withdraw, 511
- Location at Old Colony Depot, hearing, a 411 ; order passed, 728
- Location in Beverley street, hearing, a 412 ; granted, a 433

- Fifteenth location accepted, a 449
 Turnout track on Alford street, a 511
 Sixteenth location accepted, a 555
 Communication accepting seventeenth location laid out table, 745; location revoked, 843
 Hearing on location in South and Kneeland streets, a 819; leave to withdraw, 843
 Authorized to run additional cars, 856
- Militia —
 $200 for fitting up armory Co. A, 1st Bat. Inf., a 20
 $250 for repairing and fitting up armory of Co. D, Fourth Bat. Inf., a 33
 $500 for furnishing and fitting up armory of Co. C, Fourth Bat. Inf., a 71
 Rent of Ninth Reg. Inf. transferred to Ninth Bat. Inf., and approval of head-quarters, a 71
 $200 for furnishing and repairing head-quarters of First Bat. Cav., a 71
 Mayor requested to petition for further allowance for rent of armories, a 94, c 95
 Second Brigade M.V.M., $250, furnishing and fitting up head-quarters, a 176
 Fifth Regiment Infantry, $200, fitting up head-quarters, a 176
 " " " " $200, " " " " a 176
 First Brigade M.V.M., $450 for rent of head-quarters, a 176
 " " " " $250 for fitting up head-quarters, 176
 Co. C, Ninth Bat. of Inf., $700 for rent, a 215
 " " " " $350 for fitting up armory, a 215
 Co. A, " " " " $150, furnishing armory, a 227
 $600 for rent of Institute of Technology, a 241
 $250 for Armory of Fourth Bat. Inf., a 338
 Co. D., Fifth Reg. Inf., armory established, a 450
 $400 for Armory Co. D, First Bat. Cav., a 659
 $1000 for Armory Co. D, Fifth Reg., a 699
 Co. D, Fifth Reg., order to fit up old Winthrop School building for armory referred, c 719, 743
 Unattached Company Inf., $600 for rent, 784
 Co. D., Fifth Reg. Inf., $500 and $300 for rent, 855
- Milk —
 Annual report of Inspector, a 225
- Minors —
 Board of Aldermen authorized to make rules or grant licenses, a 12, c 13
 Rules adopted, a 18
- Morrill, Ward 21 — remarks:
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 808
 Commercial-st. widening, 804
 Public Parks, 817
- Mowry, Ward 11 — remarks:
 Badges, 23
 Petition of James Deshon, 48
 Uniform system of valuation, 48
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 73
 Sinking Funds, 120
 Exhibition on Common, 138
 Salaries, 165
 System of valuation, 207
 Appropriation Bill, 234
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 256
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274
 Joint Rules and Orders, 290
 Personal explanation, 308
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 312
 Clerk for License Commissioners, 352
 Salary of Supt. Dover-st. Bridge, 382, 404
 Releases on Winship Place, 382
 Salary of Clerks in Fire Commissioners' office, 409
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 429
 Vacation for firemen, 495, 541
 Free Ferries, 496, 516
 Sale of Atherton school-building, 513
 Occupancy of streets for building, 513, 548
 Improved Sewerage, 561
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 567
 Additional appropriation for Common, 634, 672
 License Commissioners, 651, 676
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 669
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
 Inspection of bills in Auditor's office, 693
 Election of Inspector of Buildings, 701, 721, 742
 Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
 Commercial-st. Widening, 752, 793
 Small-pox Hospital, 777
 Historical Sites, 789
 Stony Brook, 794
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 804
 Public Parks, 817
 Surveyors of Highways, 816
 Claim of John Raddin, 827
 Roxbury Canal, 832, 849
- Northampton-street District — see Unfinished Business.
- O'Brien, Alderman — remarks:
 On election of chairman, 1
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 10, 41, 105
 Loiterers in City Hall, 46, 54
- Union Freight Railroad, 46
 Equitable valuation of property, 55, 305
 Exhibition on Common, 57, 111
 Appointment of special police at Boston & Maine R. R., 72
 Management of sinking funds, 84
 Consolidation of City Registrar and Board of Health, 87
 Charles-river embankment, 117
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 151, 173
 Protection of burial-grounds, 157
 List of Jurors, 157, 176
 Investigation of Assistants in Paving Department, 175
 System of taxation, 175
 Election of Assessors, 179
 Confirming nominations of City Officers, 197
 Ninth-street improvement and work for laborers, 204, 449
 Play ground on Common, 212
 Fourth of July, 240
 Appropriation Bill, 245
 South Boston R. R., 249
 East Boston Ferries, 259, 657
 Fruit-stands in streets, 261
 Charles-river Park, 268
 Vacation Schools, 282, 362
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285, 335
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 300, 511, 579, 584
 Vacant stores and tenements, 307
 Registrar of Voters, 316, 351
 Petition for New Gas Co., 318
 Army and Navy Monument, 322
 Public Parks, 339, 369, 415, 439, 475, 534, 821
 Northampton-street District, 361, 596
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Poland & Peabody's Omnibus Line, 401
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 424, 435, 457, 472
 Asphalt pavement, 320, 456
 Salary of Supt. of Public Library, 469
 Free Ferries, 484
 Vacation of Firemen, 506, 552
 Commercial-street widening, 507, 557, 629
 Free access to horse railroad cars, 511
 Salary of City Engineer, 533
 Proposed visit of Governors, 537
 Horse-car blockades, 538, 591, 618
 Occupation of streets for building, 554
 Improved Sewerage, 571
 Printing at Deer Island, 586
 Employing of physicians to visit poor, 588
 Limit of city indebtedness, 589
 Inspection of Lime, 598, 601, 611
 Blackstone-square accident, 610
 Constables, 612, 624
 Rejection of policeman, 613
 License Commissioners, 618
 East Boston High School, 623, 648
 Police boat "Protector", 629
 Printing Army and Navy Memorial, 632
 Public park loan, 660
 Refreshments, etc., 683
 Expenditures for Common and Public Grounds, 689
 Police rules and regulations, 706
 Vegetable Market, 716
 Metropolitan Railroad, 729
 Stony Brook Improvement, 733
 Highland-Street Railway, 732
 Roxbury Canal, 760, 763, 787
 Forfeiture of land on Washington sq., 761, 769
 Small-pox Hospital, 781
 Claim of John Raddin, 825
 Management of horse-railroads, 845
 Congress-st. widening, 854
- O'Donnell, Ward 7 — remarks:
 Pay of laborers, 194, 206
 Visit to Sudbury river, 409
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720
- Omnibuses, etc. —
 Poland and Peabody's omnibus line from South Boston to northern depots, hearing and recommitment, a 43, 278; leave to withdraw, a 398
 From Cragie's bridge to India wharf, allowed, a 56
 From Boston & Maine R. R. to Rowe's and India wharves, allowed, a 56
 From Bowdoin sq. to Rowe's and India wharves, allowed, a 56, 536
 N. W. Day's omnibus route, a 80, 196, 224, 278
 Fletcher's passenger wagon, Fitchburg R. R. to Rowe's wharf, a 214
 Ryan & Son's passenger wagon, Bowdoin sq. to Rowe's wharf, a 241
 Roswell E. Bailey, passenger wagon from Maverick sq. to Chelsea, a 267
 Samuel J. Ellis, passenger wagon from Maverick sq. to Malden, a 278
 Wm. Burnett, passenger wagon from Winthrop to South Ferry, a 535, 612
 Wm. Fletcher, passenger wagon from Charlestown to Tabernacle, a 632
- Overseers of Poor —
 Quarterly reports, a 55, 296, 580, 704

- Report of examination of property, c 160, a 171
 Report on resolve requesting reduction in salaries, c 222 ; order passed, a 238
 Annual Report, a 450
- Passenger Wagons — see Omnibuses, etc.
 Paving Department —
 Investigation of assistants, a 174
 Pawnbrokerage —
 Request of Supt. for investigation, committee appointed, a 506 ; report, 580
 Annual report of Supt., a 824
- Pearl, Ward 1 — Remarks :
 Appropriation Bill, 234
 Management of the Ferries, 255
 Salary of clerk of Ferries, 550
 Release of land to heirs of John English, 702
- Perham, Ward 23 — remarks :
 Stony Brook Improvement, 381
 Public Parks, 524
 Play-grounds on new Parks, 531
 Stony Brook, 805
- Pierce, Ward 24 — remarks :
 Documents for Social Law Library, 35
 Boards and commissions, 76
 Sinking Funds, 122
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125
 Appropriation Bill, 254
 Second Assistant Assessors, 270
 Visit to the parks, 315
 Horatio Harris estate for park, 315, 325
 Unshing's manual for members, 356
 Contracts only to citizens, 356
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 358
 Official report, 359
 Buildings to be inspected, 431
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Public Parks, 528
 Improved Sewerage, 565
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Additional appropriation for Common, 654
 Care of Public Grounds, 678, 692
 Curbstone fruit-venders, 829
 Commercial-st. widening, 830
- Police —
 Quarterly reports of Chief, a 9, 536, 641
 Annual report of Chief, a 17
 Order relating to loiterers in City Hall, a 45 ; indefinitely postponed, a 54
 Keeping horses, purchasing furniture and supplies, making repairs, authorized, a 54
 Police Relief Association, by-laws referred, a 70 ; approved, a 101
 Police sergeants, maximum number, a 70
 Annual report of Police Charitable Fund, a 320
 Police for bath-houses, a 380
 Police Sergeant Clark, reconsideration lost, a 492
 Police boat "Protector", investigation, c 622 ; resolve rejected, c 636
 Police rules and regulations, a 699, 704, 795, 840
 Vagrants, Committee to confer with Overseers of Poor, a 700
- Pope, Benjamin, Ward 15 —
 Elected President, 3 ; address, 3
 Response to Resolution of Thanks, 850
- Pope, Ward 14 — remarks :
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 38, 193
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 126, 138
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 357, 459
 Fire corner Shawmut avenue and Pleasant street, 407
 Laborers in Paving Department, 410
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410
 Vacation for firemen, 495
 Police boat "Protector," 622
 Additional appropriation for Common, etc., 654
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656
 Laborers on public grounds, 656
 Refreshments, etc., 673
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
 Common Investigation, 813
- Pratt, Ward 21 — remarks :
 Treatment of scarlet fever, 5
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 13
 Badges, 23
 Documents for Social Law Library, 35
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 160, 187
 Regulation of quacks, 39
 Work for poor citizens, 61
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 99
 Sinking Funds, 118, 182
 Personal explanation, 123
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 127
 Play-ground on Common, 209
 Appropriation Bill, 232
 Dorchester school-house windows, 255
 Joint Rules and Orders, 291
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 292
 Mr. Keih's appointment to Board of Health, 293
 Horatio Harris estate for park, 325
- Mystic Valley Sewer, 329, 406, 429
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 332
 Salary of clerks in Fire Commissioners office, 409
 Visit to Sudbury river, 409
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410
 Personal explanations, 430
 Army and Navy Monument, 442
 Public Parks, 482, 502, 527
 Free Ferries, 514
 Improved Sewerage, 530
 Refreshments, etc., 532, 773
 Proposed visit of Governors, 540
 Vacations for firemen, 542
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 567
 Inspection of Lime, 604
 School Sessions, 637
 Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 639, 653, 674, 676
 Additional Appropriation for Common, 654, 672, 691
 Laborers on public grounds, 656
 License Commissioners, 676
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
 Inspection of bills in Auditor's office, 693
 Stony Brook, 718, 793
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720
 Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
 Commercial-st. widening, 773
 Small-pox Hospital, 775
 Historical sites, 790
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
 Annual Dinner of Council, 815
 Roxbury Canal, 833
- Printing and Binding —
 Annual reports authorized in print, a 2, c 4
 100 additional copies of Proceedings of City Council authorized, a 2, c 5
 Municipal Register authorized, c 4, a 8
 Mayor's Inaugural Address, c 4, a 8
 Documents for Social Law Library, c 28, 35, a 41, c 97, a 100
 500 extra of Retrenchment and Salary report, authorized, a 92, c 95
 $4,500 additional appropriation, a 94, c 95, 124, a 130
 Printing at the Public Institutions, communication from directors referred, c 479, a 490 ; remonstrance from Boston printers referred, a 586
 Superintendent of Printing, report of vacancy, referred, a 596, c 603
 Army and Navy Monument Memorial, referred, a 616, c 620 ; report, order passed, a 632, c 634
 Charlestown Book of Possessions, referred, a 745 ; report, order passed, a 766, c 789
 Binding documents and proceedings of City Council authorized, c 850, a 853
- Public Baths —
 Repairs and assistance authorized, a 19, c 35
 Annual report, a 823, c 827
- Public Buildings — (see also Schools) —
 Sale of Cooper-street armory estate, a 34, 41, c 48
 Furniture, repairs, etc., authorized, a 19, 29, c 48
 Egress from school-houses, order referred, c 36, a 41
 Annual report of Superintendent, a 55
 Expediency of lighting county buildings by Walworth plan, referred, a 267
 Quincy Hall, report on refitting and leasing, referred, a 278, c 286 ; order passed, a 305, c 308
 City Hall — expediency of second elevator, referred, c 26, a 29
 — order passed to supply furniture, etc., a 29, c 48
 — expediency of better ventilation in Council chamber, referred, c 51, a 54, c 312, 325, a 350, 438, 472, c 478, a 491, c 494
 — use of elevator, order indefinitely postponed, c 143
 — expediency of lighting by Walworth plan, referred, a 267, c 270
 — Reference Library, report on assigning a room, a 279, c 286
 Old Atherton School-house, sale authorized, a 509, c 513
 Curtis Hall, steam-heating authorized, c 549, a 551
 Lecture-room for College of Pharmacy, a 659
 Hire of offices in Pemberton square, a 659, c 669, 690, a 824, c 827
 Highland Municipal Court Building, claim of W. R. Huston, a 796, c 803, c 829, a 840
 Police Station in Charlestown, referred, a 821, c 827 Improved Sewerage, lease of rooms, a 824, c 846
- Public Institutions —
 Request for transfer of $500 for home for female paupers at Austin Farm, referred, a 17, c 23 ; report, referred to Finance Com., a 71, c 72 ; orders passed, a 93
 Marcella-street Home, communication referred, c 123, a 130 ; report, 199 ; order passed, a 210, c 217
 Expediency of industrial schools, referred, a 202, c 206
 New piggery at Deer Island, a 266, c 270
 Annual report, a 363
 Printing at Public Institutions — see Printing.
 Report on Treatment of Drunkenness, referred, a 680, c 690
 Stone-cutting at Deer Island, referred, a 698, c 701 ; report, c 743 ; order passed, c 748, a 760
- Public Lands —
 Annual report of Superintendent, c 36
 Confirmatory deed to Henrietta L. T. Wolcott, a 56, c 53

- Land sold to Joseph F. Paul, on Bristol and Albany streets, forfeited, a 94, c 95
 Reduction of rent to Thos. W. Carter, authorized, a 101, c 139, a 796, c 803, 829, a 840, c 846, a 853
 $150 allowed to Ella Wyman, a 101
 Confirmatory deed to St. John's Universalist Parish, authorized, a 101
 $102 paid to Mary A. Rosemeyer, Northampton-street District, a 102
 Deed to Bank of Commonwealth authorized, c 221, a 223
 Northampton-st. District, $20,000 additional appropriation, a 279, c 286
 25 Oliver street, forfeited, a 305, c 308
 Receivers of Mechanics' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. authorized to repay assessment on policies, a 305, c 324, a 450, c 479
 Committee to take possession of estates, c 315, a 318
 Report on petition of Joseph Hunneman and others, a 328, 361, c 381
 Order passed for releases on Winship place, a 379, c 382
 Release to Hunneman, a 413, c 440, a 596
 Several bonds cancelled, a 436, c 440, a 536, c 540, a 596, c 603, a 767, 796, c 803
 Two lots on West Castle street forfeited, a 536, c 540
 Renewal of conditions in deed to Abner Kinguan, a 617
 Forfeiture of estate on East Fourth street, a 699
 Forfeiture of estate on M street, a 699, c 701
 Lot on Washington sq. forfeited, a 761, 769, c 770
 Release of 111 Warrenton st., a 795, c 803
 Extra appropriation referred, c 814, a 820; report, c 835
- Public Library —
 Expediency of Branch in West Roxbury, referred, c 40, a 41 report, a 296, c 308; order passed, a 322, c 355
 South Boston Branch, report on additional accommodations, referred, a 149, c 158; report, inexpedient, c 549, a 551
 Offer of Mercantile Library, c 274; order passed, c 292, a 296
 Petition of trustees for authority to make a contract with superintendent, a 468; salary increased, a 468, c 478
 Bequest from Charlotte Harris, referred, c 530, a 533; report, orders passed, c 549, a 551
 Annual report, a 555
 Request to use unexpended money for salaries, referred, a 730; report, a 784, c 789
 Dedication of Jamaica Plain Branch, printing proceedings, referred, c 779, a 781; order passed, a 843, c 846
- Public Parks —
 Annual report of Park Commissioners, c 16
 Charles-river embankment, a 117
 Order passed to petition for amendment of act, a 267, c 271, a 277
 Report of joint special committee, a 301; consideration, a 339, 365, 413, 438; order passed, a 474 c 478; committee instructed to procure estimates, c 480, a 490; report, order rejected, reconsideration, c 498; order passed, c 523, a 533
 Visit by Common Council, c 315
 Horatio Harris estate, c 315, 325
 Petitions presented, a 438
 Setting apart play-grounds, referred, c 531, a 533
 Order passed to petition for authority for loan, a 660, c 675
 Mt. Bellevue, West Roxbury, offer from W. E. Blakemore, referred, c 742, a 744; orders passed, c 815, a 820
 Additional appropriation, request referred, a 761, c 770; order passed, a 782, c 804
 Park Commissioners authorized to purchase, c 805, 817, a 821
 Sixth report of Commissioners, a 841, c 846
 Filling up Back Bay Park, order passed, a 843, c 846
- Record Commissioners —
 Authorizing second report referred, a 227, c 228; order passed, a 279, c 286
 Third report received, a 704
 Printing Charlestown Book of Possessions, referred, a 766; report, order passed, a 766, c 789
- Reed, Ward 17 — remarks:
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 140, 165, 191
 Boards and commissions, 76
 Sinking Funds, 121
 Salary of Supt. of Dover-st. Bridge, 381, 404
 Free Ferries, 496, 516
- Refreshments, etc. — see Contingent Expenses.
- Registrars of Voters —
 Request for information whether new member has entered on duties of office, c 467, a 471
 Authorized to employ assistance, a 766, c 789, a 795
 Extra sessions for registration of voters, c 743, a 744; amended order, c 770
- Rewards —
 Mary Ella Harrington, a 285; paid, a 583
 $500 for detection of robbers of Asa A. Breed, a 640
- Richardson, Ward 10 — remarks:
 Badges, 24
 Salaries, names and residences of city officers, 40, 167, 188
 Estates sold for assessments, 60
 Work for poor citizens, 61
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 98
 Appropriation Bill, 228
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 272
 License Commissioners, 288, 652, 676
 Play-grounds, 326
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 329
- Fence on Commonwealth ave., 387
 Army and Navy Monument, 440
 Public Parks, 430, 504, 527
 Occupancy of streets for building, 513, 546
 Free Ferries, 521
 Improved Sewerage, 530
 Tax titles, 531
 Vacations for firemen, 542
 Inspection of Lime, 606
 Extra pay for September 17, 608
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Care of hot ashes, 638
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656
 Duties of city officers, 656
 Loans for Public Parks, 675
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 678
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 690
 Opportunity for city employes to vote, 692
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 733
 Commercial-st. widening, 750, 792, 804, 829
 Employes on Fire-boat, 778, 794
 Roxbury Canal, 789, 831, 849
 Historic sites, 789
 Surveyors of highways, 816
 Squantum bridge, 828, 848
- Richardson, Ward 11 — remarks:
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309
 Public Parks, 479
 Stony Brook, 718
 Small-pox Hospital, 776
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 804
- Robinson, Alderman — remarks:
 On election of chairman, 5
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 10
 Cost of publishing orders of notice, 20
 Loiterers in City Hall, 46, 54
 Exhibition on Common, 57, 112, 130
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 155, 172
 Protection of burial-grounds, 157
 Care of tenants, 202, 210
 Ninth-street improvement and work for laborers, 204
 Play-ground on Common, 211
 Fruit-stands in streets, 239, 262
 Appropriation Bill, 243
 Boats on Public Garden pond, 248
 South Boston R. R., 251
 Charles-river Park, 269
 Equitable valuation of property, 306
 Vacant stores and tenements, 307
 Petition for new Gas Co., 318, 800
 Public Parks, 348, 374, 414
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Police for Bath Houses, 380
 Asphalt pavement, 395, 437, 451
 Supt. of permits for occupation of parts of streets, 438
 Salary of Supt. of Public Library, 470
 Free Ferries, 488
 Police Sergeant Clark, 492
 Proposed visit of Governors, 537
 Horse-car blockades, 539, 584, 590, 619, 644
 Improved Sewerage, 574
 Limit of City Indebtedness, 590
 Inspection of Lime, 599
 Constables, 609
 Blackstone-square accident, 610, 646
 Rejection of policeman, 613
 Paving Richmond street, 615
 Police Boat "Protector," 629
 East Boston High School, 648
 Removal of tow-horses from South Russell street, 647
 Discharge of laborers in Paving Department, 667
 Wins, etc., at city entertainments, 658
 Ward-room in Ward 24, 659, 700
 Investigation of Common, etc., 689
 Refreshments and bills, 684
 South Boston Railroad location, 698
 Police rules and regulations, 704, 840
 Metropolitan Railroad, 728, 837
 Roxbury Canal, 765, 786
 Industrial Schools, 799
 Metropolitan Railroad location in Washington street, 821
 Congress-st. Widening, 854
- Roxbury Canal —
 Dredging authorized, a 708; report referred, a 726, c 728; report, a 746, 759, 763; orders for loan, and to take land, passed, a 788, c 789; referred to next City Government, c 831, 848, a 853
- Ruffin, Ward 9 — remarks:
 Badges, 24
 Salaries, 40
 Pay of street laborers, 59
 Work for poor citizens, 62
 Boards and commissions, 74
 Common Council refreshment bills, 98
 Claim of Louise Woodworth Foss, 124
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 127
 System of valuation, 206
 License Commissioners, 276, 653

- Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 293
 Horatio Harris Estate for Park, 325
 Play-grounds, 328
 License Commissioners, 384
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 405
 Army and Navy Monument, 442
 Public Parks, 503
 Police Boat "Protector," 636
 Duties of city officers, 656
 Additional Appropriation for Common, 691
 Care of Public Grounds, 692, 794
 Inspection of bills in Auditor's office, 693
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 722
 Investigation of Common, etc., 810
 Claims of John Raddin, 827
- Rules and Orders —
 Of Aldermen — of 1876, adopted, 3; committee, 3; report, 8
 Of Council — of 1876, adopted, 4; committee, 6; report, 14
 Joint — of 1876, adopted, a 3, c 4; committee, a 3, c 4; report, amendment adopted, a 8, c 13
 Pocket edition authorized, c 4, a 8
 Order of inquiry referred, c 257, a 258; report, amendments adopted, a 279, c 289; recommittal, c 292; indefinite postponement, a 318
- Salaries —
 Order relating to retrenchment passed, a 10, c 13
 Proposed department for purchase of supplies, referred, c 28, a 29
 Order to report names, residences, and salaries of city officers and employes passed, c 37; reconsidered, amended and passed, c 40; laid on table, a 41
 Order to report duties of salaried officers passed, c 40; laid on table, a 43
 Report of Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment, a 89; ordinances passed, a 102, c 140, 160, 183, a 197
 Report of Joint Standing Committee on Salaries, a 91
 Pensions for the Police, c 145; indefinite postponement, c 158
 Salaries for court officers, a 157
 Inspector of Provisions, c 207, a 211, c 257, a 267, 285, c 286, 311, a 320, 324, 334
 Supt. of North Beacon-st. and Western-ave. bridge, a 258, c 270
 $500 to Assistant of City Architect, a 364, c 407
 Supt. of Dover-street Bridge, $2,500, a 379, c 381, a 391, c 403
 Clerks in Fire Commissioners' office, c 408
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, c 440, 429, a 432
 Equalizing pay of Water Inspectors, c 447, a 449
 Water Board authorized to fix pay of employes, c 467, a 471
 Of Supt. of Public Library, see Public Library.
 Order passed relating to salaries of employes of Public Institutions, a 477, c 478
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, a 436, 457, 492, c 491, a 510, c 514, a 535, c 545, 550, a 556, c 567, a 579, 584, c 621
 City Engineer, referred, c 532; indefinitely postponed, a 533
 Clerk of Ferries, c 549, a 551
 License Commissioners, request referred, a 617; report, order passed, a 641; rejected, c 651, 656, 675, 836, 846
 Treasurer's Messenger, a 646, c 675
 Salaries for members of City Government, c 702, 743, 775; referred to next City Government, c 834, a 840
 Salaried officials to devote their time to city, report, a 825; referred to next City Council, c 828, a 840
- Sampson, Ward 17 — remarks:
 Appointment of Nominating Committees, 4
 Retrenchment in expeditures, 14
 Badges, 24
 Management of sinking funds and city debt, 27, 119, 140, 144, 181, 217
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 38, 140
 Pay of street laborers, 59
 Bills for furnishing supplies, 118
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 123
 The Appropriation Bill, 228, 253
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 257, 271, 310
 New building at Deer Island, 270
 Second Assistant Assessors, 270
 Public Parks, 271, 478, 482, 805, 813
 English High and Latin School-house, 324
 Play-grounds, 328
 Clerk for License Commissioners, 353
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 358
 Salary of Supt. of Dover-street Bridge, 403
 Fire corner Shawmut ave. and Pleasant street, 408
 Laborers in Paving Department, 409
 Inspection of buildings, 447
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 513, 545
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 544, 559, 635
 Vacations for firemen, 542
 Northampton-street District, 603
 Inspection of Lime, 604
 Additional Appropriation for Common, 655, 672
 Refreshments, etc., 673
 Loans for Public Parks, 675
 License Commissioners, 676
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 690
 Care of public grounds, 693
 Inspection of bills in Auditor's office, 693
- Release of land to heirs of John English, 702
 Vegetable Market, 719
 Stone-cutting business at the Islands, 748
 Small-pox Hospital, 775
 Commercial-st widening, 804
 Claim of John Raddin, 827
 Claim of Martiu Milmore, 835
- Schools — see also Industrial Schools.
 Requests from School Committee, referred, relating to Primary schools on Washington street and Codman park, and to Allston School, a 17, c 23
 Furniture for new school-house, West Roxbury, authorized, c 95, a 100
 $23,000 additional appropriation, c 97, a 100, c 124, a 130, c 141
 Paving Bennett School yard, referred, c 123, a 130, 321
 Vacation Schools, referred, c 123, a 130; report, discussion, and recommittal, a 280, c 286, a 321, c 324, a 328, 361, c 332, a 339, 438, c 440, 460
 Gordon-st. School-yard enlargement, referred, c 123, a 130
 Egleston square accommodations, referred, c 123
 Allston School location and building, referred, c 123, a 130
 Dorchester School-house windows, referred, c 123, a 130, c 265
 Gaston District, report on site, c 124, a 130
 Andrew District, request referred, c 207, a 211
 Adams School, request referred, c 236, a 238; report, repairs authorized, c 466, a 472
 Remonstrance of School Committee against reduction of appropriation, c 233, a 238
 English High and Latin Schools, report, a 280; referred, a 305, c 308; order passed, a 322, c 355
 Allston District, request for additional accommodations, referred, c 311, a 318, c 430, a 432, c 440, 531, 544, a 554, c 567
 Primary School-house on Weston street, c 383, a 389
 Temporary building at Egleston square, c 383, a 389
 East Boston Brauch High School, request from School Committee, referred, c 385, a 389
 Tickets for School Festival, c 388
 Public School Musical Exhibitions, a 401, 477
 Brimmer School-house, order referred, c 467, a 472; report, order passed, c 549, a 551
 School furniture for St. John, N.B., a 491, c 494; thanks of St. John, a 580
 Everett school, Dorchester, furniture authorized, a 581, c 603
 Brighton school-houses, requests referred, c 622, a 627; report, c 779
 School Sessions, discussion, c 637
 Old Lyman school-house, E. B., for High School, c 621, a 627, 647, 658, c 669, a 682, c 690, 850
 Requests referred for fire escapes from Latin and English High School; to enlarge yard of Andrew School; to present plan of buildings for Allston School, c 690, a 697
 New High and Latin school-house, purchase of wall, a 699, c 701, 719, a 725
 Release of betterment title on site in Brighton, to heirs of English, c 701, 719, a 725
 Brimmer School-building, request for information indefinitely postponed, c 690; request referred, c 742; indefinitely postponed, a 744
 Condition of School-houses, Inspector of Buildings to report, c. 779; laid on table, a 782; indefinitely postponed, a 856
- Seventeenth of June —
 Order offered, c 194; passed, committee appointed, c 206, a 211
- Sewers — (see also Improved Sewerage.)
 Mystic Valley — see Water.
 Annual report of Superintendent, c 36
 Stony Brook — see Stony Brook Improvement.
 Back Bay Nuisance — Board of Health to report, c 315, a 318; report of committee, a 322
 Muddy Brook drainage, referred, c 387
 Wales-street drainage, report, a 379
 $2,000 to Charles B. Gardner, assignee, a 450
 Orders of notice of intention to take land, a 472, 587
 Sewer in Maudlin street, referred, a 535
 Resolves and orders to take land, a 536, 555, 587, 597, 612
 Roxbury Canal, — see heading Roxbury Canal.
 Order to construct in Chambers street, 267
 " " " " Whitney street, 267
 " " " " Centre street, 267
 " " " " Sargent street, 301
 " " " " Dorchester st., 301
 " " " " Starr st., 301
 " " " " Newbern st., 301
 " " " " Meauder st., 321
 " " " " Norwich st., 321
 " " " " Boylston st., 365
 " " " " Gibson st., 365
 " " " " Dorchester ave., 365
 " " " " Mather st., 365
 " " " " Fairfield st., 395
 " " " " North Market st., 450
 " " " " Wyman st., 450
 " " " " Lamartine st., 450
 " " " " Moon st., 450
 " " " " Savin Hill ave., 450
 " " " " Sagamore st., 450
 " " " " Wesley st., 490
 " " " " Washington st., 490

- Order to construct in Burr st., 510
 " " " " Avon place, Roxbury, 510
 " " " " India st., 510
 " " " " Garden st., 510
 " " " " Walnut st., 536
 " " " " Adams st., 555
 " " " " Curtis st., 555
 " " " " Forbes place and Bowe st., 555
 " " " " Taylor street, 581
 " " " " Cedar avenue, West Roxbury: 583
 " " " " John A. Andrew street, 583
 " " " " Mandlin street, 587
 " " " " Maple street, 587
 " " " " Jenkins street, 597
 " " " " Canal street, 597
 " " " " Haymarket square, 597
 " " " " St. James avenue, 602
 " " " " Rockland street, 612
 " " " " Jenkins street, 612
 " " " " Tuckerman street, 612
 " " " " Dorchester street, 612
 " " " " Blue Hill avenue to Warren street, 612
 " " " " Warren street, 612
 " " " " Crawford street, 612
 " " " " Thomas street, 646
 " " " " Washington street, 660
 " " " " Ferry street, 660
 " " " " Dudley street, 660
 " " " " Thornton street, 660
 " " " " Thomas street, 682
 " " " " A street, 682
 " " " " Northampton street, 698
 " " " " Summit street, 698
 " " " " Cunard street, 726
- Shepard, Ward 4 — remarks :
 Release of land to heirs of John English, 702
- Sibley, Ward 5 — remarks :
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 13
 Badges, 24
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors; 73
 Boards and commissions, 77
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 126
 Salaries of city officers, 188
 Play-ground on Common, 209
 Appropriation Bill, 231
 East Boston Ferries, 271
 Fourth of July, 273
 License Commissioners, 287, 652, 676
 Joint Rules and Orders, 289
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309, 428
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
 Police for License Commissioners, 355
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Public Parks, 478, 481
 Free Ferries, 496
 Vacations for firemen, 541
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 545
 Improved Sewerage, 566
 Inspection of Lime, 604
 Police boat " Protector ", 636
 Care of hot ashes, 639
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Employees on Fire-boat, 794
 Roxbury Canal, 832, 849
- Sinking Funds —
 Order on management referred, c 26, a 29; report, c 124; orders rejected, c 143
 Unexpended balances of appropriations, a 70, 80; ordinance passed, a 110; discussed, referred to Finance Committee, c 118, a 130; report, ordinance passed, c 139; amended, a 176; non-concurrence, c 181; concurrence, a 197
 Order for equalizing taxation, a 157, 171, c 181
 Order to report amendments of ordinances to conform to statutes, a 179, c 181, a 197; report, a 825, c 827
 Appropriation required, communication referred, a 198, c 206
 Auditor requested to furnish estimates, c 208; reconsideration, order rejected, c 217; order passed, c 236, a 238, c 255, a 258
 Ordinance authorizing reductions passed, c 217, a 223
 Annual report, 363, 395
- Slade, Alderman — remarks :
 On election of chairman, 2
 Exhibition on Common, 133
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 155, 174
 Play-ground on Common, 213
 Appropriation Bill, 247
 South Boston R. R., 251
 Fruit-stands in streets, 264
 Vacation Schools, 281
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285, 319, 337
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 297, 426, 436, 457, 511, 579, 584
 Refreshment Bills, 319
 Public Parks, 374, 413
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Police for Bath Houses, 380
 Asphalt pavement, 397, 454
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 425
 Salary of Supt. of Public Library, 471
 Horse-car blockades, 539, 591
- Limit of city indebtedness, 589
 Inspection of Lime, 599
 Printing Army and Navy Memorial, 632
 License Commissioners, 642
 Dressed Poultry, 647
 East Boston High School, 649
 Blackstone square accident, 666
 Refreshments, etc., 685
 Expenditures for Common, etc., 689
 Vegetable Market, 709
 Metropolitan Railroad, 728, 837
 Roxbury Canal, 788
 Industrial School, 797
 Claim of John Raddin, 825
 Management of horse railroads, 845
- Smardon, Ward 10 — remarks :
 Joint Rules and Orders, 290
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656, 672
- Soup for the Poor —
 Report from Chief of Police, 225
 Order appropriating $4,800 referred, c 779, a 781
- South Boston Flats —
 Request to construct B or C steet, a 709, c 719
- South Boston R. R. Co. —
 Hearing on running cars from southern to northern depots, a 88; report, a 149, 171
 Hearing on uniting Federal and Kneeland street tracks, a 170; order passed, a 266
 Thirteenth location, to northern depots, granted, a 249
 Location accepted, a 278
 Location at Old Colony Station, a 412, 698, 708
 Hearing on petition to lay down tracks in Canal street, a 432; leave to withdraw, a 536
 15th location accepted, a 782
 Petition for new connections referred, a 781
 Curved tracks on Sixth-st., report, 783
 Location accepted, a 839; order rescinded, a 843
- Souther, Ward 14 — remarks :
 Salaries, 168
- Spenceley, Ward 19 — remarks :
 Admission to ante-room, 6
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 13
 Badges, 25
 Regulation of quacks, 39
 Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 49
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 164, 187
 Labor for poor citizens, 60
 Sinking Funds, 120, 145, 182, 218
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125, 138
 Management of public grounds, 139, 159
 Pensions for police, 145, 158
 Play-ground on Common, 208, 314
 System of valuation, 207
 Appropriation Bill, 229, 253
 Certificates of Firemen, 253
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 256, 273, 294
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274
 License Commissioners, 288, 353, 383, 653
 Joint Rules and Orders, 290
 Board of Health, 294, 324
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 312
 Horatio Harris Estate for Park, 326
 Means of egress from Public Buildings, 328
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 331, 406, 429
 Contracts only to citizens, 355
 Official report, 359
 Salary of Supt. of Dover-street Bridge, 381, 403
 Vacation for firemen, 386, 494, 540
 Management of Fire Boat, 387
 Fire corner Shawmut ave. and Pleasant street, 408
 Duties of Fire Commissioners, 408
 Salary of clerks in Fire Commissioners' office, 409
 Laborers in Paving Department, 410
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410, 429
 Visit to Sudbury River, 357, 430
 Personal explanations, 430
 Buildings to be inspected, 431
 Army and Navy Monument, 443
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 459
 Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
 Storage of gunpowder, 468
 Public Parks, 479, 481, 504, 529
 Sale of Atherton School building, 513
 Occupancy of streets for building, 513, 547
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 564
 Refreshments, etc., 531
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 546
 Inspection of Lime, 605
 Extra pay for Sept. 17, 608, 621
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Police boat " Protector ", 622
 School sessions, 637
 Care of hot ashes, 638
 Wines, etc., at city entertainments, 639
 Additional appropriation for Common, 655
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., 656
 Duties of city officers, 656
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 669, 690

- Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677, 734
 Inspection of Refreshment bills, 676, 743
 Brimmer school building, 690
 Sterling-street extension, 691
 Care of public grounds, 693
 Election of Inspector of Buildings, 701, 738
 Salaries for members of City Government, 702
 Commercial-st. widening, 756, 804
 Payment of carriage-bills, 770
 Employés ou Fire-boat, 778, 794
 Historic sites, 791
 Payment for extra services in Assessors' Department, 803
 Reduction of rent to T. W. Carter, 803
 Ordinance in relation to Fire Department, 833
- State Aid —
 Committee, a 2, c 5
 Quarterly report of Paymaster, a 9, 225, 472, 626
- Stone, Ward 3 — remarks:
 Pay of street laborers, 59, 206
 Estates sold for assessments, 60
 Work for poor citizens, 61
 Sinking Funds, 119
 Bills for furnishing supplies, 118
 Claim of Louise Woodworth Foss, 124
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 126
 Management of Public Grounds, 139
 Salaries of city officers, 140, 169
 Use of City Hall Elevator, 143
 Second Assistant Assessors, 158
 Appropriation Bill, 229
 License Commissioners, 287
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309
 Visit to the Parks, 315
 Public Parks, 502, 813, 817
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Police boat "Protector", 622, 636
 Armory in Charlestown, 719
 Small-pox Hospital, 776
- Stony Brook Improvement —
 Report of Street Commissioners, a 92; referred, a 365, c 381
 Release of land, a 587
 Report referred, a 707, c 718, 724
 Report orders passed, a 732, c 734, 748; laid on table, c 773; order rejected, c 793; reconsideration, orders passed, c 805, 816
- Streets —
 Annual report of Commissioners, c 15
 Superintendent authorized to remove structures on sidewalks, grant permits to open streets, number streets, purchase horses and supplies, furnish and set edgestones, pave sidewalks, erect fences, lay crosswalks, and pave gutters, a 19, 29
 Committee authorized to refer claims to arbitration, a 33
 Oliver-street improvement, rescinding order of Sept. 30, 1867, c 36, 48, a 54
 Betterments assumed, Swett street, a 71, 88
 Committee authorized to arrange for conveyance of cross-dam to city, a 94, c 95
 Beach-street widening, conveyance to Moses Williams, c 98, a 100
 $5,000 additional appropriation, c 142, a 149
 Expediency of watering main avenues referred, a 198
 Ninth-street improvement, and work for laborers, referred, a
 202, c 206, 336, a 390, c 403, a 436, 448, c 479
 Annual report of Supt., a 225
 Order of notice to quit on River street, a 267
 Closing up and building over fifty feet of street, between Columbus ave. and Dartmouth st., c 329, 357, a 363
 Asphalt pavement, petition referred, a 320; discussion, recom-
 mital, a 395; report, a 437; order passed, a 451
 Unsafe building on Mill street, referred, c 431, a 432
 Consultation relative to B street, a 509, c 513
 Horse-car blockades, order of inquiry passed, a 538
 Relocation of Western ave., Brighton, a 491, 535, 641, 646
 Release to Liberty Square Warehouse Co., c 549, a 551
 Release of land adjoining Rockland street, c 549, a 551
 Purchase of estate of Mrs. Ellis authorized, a 556, c 567
 Butchers' Slaughtering and Melting Association, railroad,
 a 614, 641
 Sale of building corner Boylston street and Chester park, a 633, c 634
 Relocating of streets, order to petition, c 656, a 658
 Commercial street widening — Com. from Commissioners, a 93; reference, a 149, c 158; request to report, c 446, a 449, c 482; report, reference, c 497, a 507, c 513, a 557, c 563, a 579; report inexpedient, a 618; order passed, a 629, c 635, 653,
 656; rejected, c 792; reconsideration, c 794, 804
 Sterling-street extension, request for estimate, c 691, a 697; report referred, a 761, c 770; order passed, c 829, a 839
 Plan to relieve the blockade, a 697
 Permission to erect bridge over Milk-st., from Old South
 Church, a 726
 Congress-st. Improvement, order passed, c 849, a 853
 $2,250 to James Dennie, a 842
 — A st., grade established, 767; grading, 783
 — Alden st., paving, a 320
 — Adams st., grade, macadamize, a 320
 — Adams street, order to "quit", 581
 — Albany street, repair bridge, 596
 — Beacon street, sprinkling, a 240
 — Blue Hill ave., sprinkling, 279
 — Brighton ave., sprinkling, a 240
 — Brookline ave., " a 240
 — Boylston st., W. Roxbury, edgestones, crossing, a 320
 — Boylston avenue, grade, macadamize, etc., a 320
 — Boston st., sprinkling, a 321
 — Bishop st., edgestones, gutters, macadamize, 321
 — Broadway, repave, 364
 — Beech st., paving, 490
 — Brookline and Longwood avenues, sprinkling, a 474
 — Canal st., Charlestown, grade established, a 71
 — Cambridge st., paving, a 320
 — Commonwealth ave., edgestones, gutters, crosswalks, macadamizing, a 338
 — Cottage st., sprinkling, 321
 — Charlestown st., paving tracks of Middlesex R. R., a 392; repaving, 392
 — Charles st., paving, 474
 — Centre st., Roxbury, sprinkling, 536
 — Cambridge st., Charlestown, Middlesex R. R. Co. to pave tracks, 364
 — Columbus avenue, stone blocks adjacent to railroad, edgestones, sidewalks, 587; delay of paving referred, c 701
 — Cross street, paving, 616
 — Call st., Jamaica Plain, named, 767
 — Chestnut ave., named, 821
 — Dorchester avenue, grade established, a 71
 — Dearborn st., sprinkling, a 338
 — Dartmouth place, edgestones, sidewalks, gutters, 587
 — Dix street, open and grade, 659
 — Downer st., grading, 761
 — Eliot square, Roxbury, sprinkling, 536
 — Enstis st., " " 338
 — Easteru ave., grade established, a 267
 — Everett st., Jamaica Plain, named, 767
 — Fourth st., repave, 364
 — Franklin ave., closed for repairs, 392
 — Fort Hill square, pave sidewalk, 412
 — Guild st., edgestones, paved gutters, 436
 — Gouch st., name changed to Norman st., 795
 — Indson street, grade established, a 71
 — Highland st., sprinkling, a 321
 — Humphrey st., sprinkling, 321
 — Holbrook st., grade and gravel, 510
 — Harrisou ave., sprinkling, 436
 — Huntingtou ave., grading, macadamizing, fences, plank walks, 536
 — Isabella street, grading and paving, a 240
 — India st., paving, 392
 — Kilby st., crosswalk, a 392
 — Lincoln st., Charlestown, grade established, a 71
 — Lamartine st., edgestones, gutters, 364; revised grade, 761
 — Longwood avenue bridge, closed for repairs, 583
 — Liverpool street, edgestones and roadway, 580
 — Mercer street, paved sidewalks, 279
 — Mt. Everett st., grading, a 320 — Marginal st., crosswalk, 510; paving, 615
 — Miller st., Charlestown, edgestones, gutters, sidewalks, 510
 — Mill street, raise and grade, culvert, retaining walls, 583; grade established, 761
 — Meridian street, repave, 587
 — Marginal street, paving, 616
 — Myrtle street, edgestones, gutters, roadway, 682
 — Northampton st., paving, a 320
 — Norman st., named, 795
 — Old Harbor street, edgestones and gutters, a 279
 — P st., edgestones, gutters, 821
 — Park st., W. Rox., grade, gravel, a 364
 — Roxbury st., sprinkling, 320
 — River st., Dorchester, grading, macadamizing, a 450
 — Richmond street, paving, 615
 — Sixth st., edgestones, gutters, 321
 — Spring Garden st., grade, gravel, a 363
 — Sherman st., edgestones, gutters, sidewalks, a 363
 — South and Centre sts., W. Roxbury, edgestones, macadamize, 364
 — Sargent st., grade, macadamize, 412
 — Swett st., grading, 436
 — Summer street, Dorchester District, edgestones and sidewalks, 580
 — Sparhawk street, edgestones, gutters, 587
 — Shelby st., order to quit, 825
 — Trinity place, edgestones, gutters, sidewalks, 364
 — Tremont st., repave, 364; paving, 392
 — Walnut ave., water, a 320
 — Warren st., sprinkling, 321
 — West Chester Park, grading, macadamizing, fences, plank walks 338
 — Washington st., sprinkling, 338; plank walk, 364
 — Warren st., paving, 412
 — Wales st., edgestones, gutters, macadamizing, 364
 — Washington street (Brighton), macadamize, 587
 — Wyman st., revised grade, 761
 Suffolk-street District — see Claims.
 Summer Vacation —
 Order laid on table, c 482; passed, c 550, a 587, 59

- Taxes — (see heading, Auditor of Accounts.)
 Petition from James Deshon referred, c 48
- Thompson, Alderman — remarks:
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 11, 41, 102
 Cost of publishing orders of notice, 20
 Election of Trustees of Public Library, 29
 Union Freight Railroad, 46
 Equitable valuation of property, 54, 306
 Exhibition on Common, 57, 111
 Appointment of special police at Boston and Maine R. R., 72
 Management of sinking funds, 85
 Exhibition on Common, 134
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 150, 173
 List of Jurors, 157
 System of taxation, 175
 Care of truants, 200, 210
 Ninth-street improvement, and work for laborers, 202
 South Boston Railroad, 216, 249
 Appropriation for Schools, 238
 Appropriation Bill, 241, 261
 East Boston Ferries, 258, 657
 Middlesex R.R., 266
 New piggery at Deer Island, 266
 Charles-river Park, 267
 Joint rules and orders, 279
 Vacation Schools, 280, 361, 389
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 301, 426, 457
 Vacant stores and tenements, 307
 Registrar of Voters, 316
 Petition for new Gas Co., 318, 800
 Refreshment Bills, 318
 Salary of Inspector at Abattoir, 319, 335
 Army and Navy Monument, 321, 592
 Public Parks, 348, 378, 418, 476, 821
 Play-grounds, 350
 License Commissioners, 350, 642
 Northampton-street District, 361, 597
 Salary of Supt. Dover-street Bridge, 391
 Asphalt Pavement, 320, 396, 437, 451
 Public school musical Exhibitions, 401
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 424, 434, 458, 472
 Allston School, 433
 Salary of Supt. Pub. Library, 469
 Widening Commercial street, 508
 Free access to horse railroad cars, 511
 Proposed visit of Governors, 536
 Horse-car blockades, 539, 591, 618
 Occupation of streets for building, 554
 Purchase of estate of Mrs. Ellis, 556
 Inspection of Lime, 598
 Constables, 609, 626
 Blackstone-square accident, 609, 667
 Rejection of policeman, 613
 Paving Richmond street, 615
 East Boston High School, 627, 649
 Printing Army and Navy Memorial, 616
 Refreshments, etc., 687
 South Boston Railroad location, 698
 Vegetable Market, 716
 Metropolitan Railroad, 730, 837
 Brimmer School, 744
 Roxbury Canal, 759, 765, 788
 Forfeiture of land on Washington sq., 761, 769
 Small Pox Hospital, 781
 Industrial School, 783, 799
 Nuisance in Charlestown, 788, 796
 Improved Sewerage, 799
 Claim of John Raddin, 826
 Management of horse-railroads, 845
 Congress-st. widening, 853
 Middlesex Railroad, extra cars, 856
- Thompson, Ward 9 — remarks:
 Election of Ferry Directors, 15
 Badges, 23
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 164, 190
 Petition of James Deshon, 43
 Uniform for Fire Commissioners, 49
 Contract for water-pipes, 72
 Boards and Commissions, 76
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 98
 Sinking Funds, 119, 144, 181
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 126
 Contingent Fund, 142
 Play-ground on Common, 209, 315
 Certificates of Firemen, 253
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 255, 272, 293, 310
 Public Parks, 271, 478, 480, 498, 502, 527, 805, 813, 815, 817
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274
 License Commissioners, 288, 328, 352, 383, 652, 836
 Joint Rules and Orders, 290
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
 Visit to the Parks, 315
 Play-grounds, 327
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 330, 407
 Police for License Commissioners, 354
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 332, 355
 Cushing's Manual for members, 356
- Civilities to distinguished strangers, 357
 Official report, 359
 Salary of Supt. of Dover-street Bridge, 381, 403
 Management of Fire-boat, 387
 Laborers in Paving Department, 410
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410
 Occupancy of streets for building, 513
 Free Ferries, 518
 Personal explanation, 523
 Refreshments, etc., 531
 Northampton-street District, 603
 Inspection of Lime, 604
 Extra pay for September 17, 608
 Messenger for Treasury Department, 620
 Police boat "Protector", 622, 636
 Additional appropriation for Common, 634, 654, 672
 Removal of Superintendent Common, 655
 Duties of city officers, 656
 Laborers on public grounds, 656
 Refreshments, etc., 674, 774
 Loans for public park, 675
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Release of land to heirs of John English, 702
 Stony Brook, 718
 South Boston Flats, 719
 Armory in Charlestown, 719
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720, 737, 740
 Commercial-st. widening, 753, 792, 804, 829
 Small Pox Hospital, 776
 Roxbury Canal, 789, 849
 Historic Sites, 790
 Management of Common, etc., 794
 Investigation of Common, etc., 808
 Pay of employés of Fire Boat, 794
- Thorndike, Ward 2 — remarks:
 Improved Sewerage, 560
- Treasury Department —
 Extra clerk-hire authorized, a 280
 $100 for clerk hire, c 310
 Annual report of treasurer, referred, c 357, a 363; report of committee on examination, c 445, a 449
 Special Messenger authorized, a 617, c 620, 635, a 640, c 675
 Taxes and betterments on site of Post Office extension, c 742, a 744
- Trees —
 Removals authorized, a 338, 436, 700, 797, 825
- Truant and Vagrant Home — see Public Institutions.
- Union Freight Railroad —
 Order restricting trains referred, a 46
 Track from Commercial street to Union Wharf, a 783, 820
- Unfinished business —
 Standing Committees directed to resume, c 4, a 8, 12
 Suffolk, Church and Northampton-street districts referred to Committee on Public Lands, a 10, c 13
 Referred to next City Government: —
 Brighton High School building, c 779, a 781
 Joint Committee business, c 850, a 853
 Requiring salaried officers to devote whole time to city, c 828, a 840
 Bridge to Squantum, c 828, 848
 Roxbury Canal, c 831, 848, a 853
 Ordinance relating to Fire Department, c 833, a 840
 Mercantile Wharf, c 833
 Salaries of members of City Government, c 834, a 840
 Standing Committees Board of Aldermen, 856
- Union R.R. Co. —
 Hearing on running to Temple place, a 195
 Petition for track in Merrimac street, a 644
 Removal of tow-horses from South Russell street, a 647
- Viles, Alderman — remarks:
 N. W. Day's omnibus route, 80
 Management of sinking funds, 85
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 157
 Jury List, 176
 Care of truants, 201
 Appropriation Bill, 248
 Fruit-stands in streets, 263
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285, 337
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 300, 426, 457, 510
 Registrar of Voters, 316, 351
 Wales-street drainage, 379
 Police for bath-houses, 380
 Asphalt pavement, 395
 Poland and Peabody's omnibus line, 401
 Free Ferries, 487
 Police Sergeant Clark, 493
 Public Parks, 475
 Commercial-street widening, 508, 558, 631
 Improved Sewerage, 578
 Printing at Deer Island, 586
 Constables, 609, 626
 Rejection of policeman, 613
 Paving Richmond street, 615
 Removal of horses from South Russell street, 647
 East Boston High School, 649
 Refreshments, etc., 682

Stone-cutting at Deer Island, 698
 Vegetable market, 717
 Metropolitan Railroad, 730, 837
 Roxbury Canal, 727, 759, 764, 784
 Public Lands, 762
 Forfeiture of land on Washington sq., 762
 Small Pox Hospital, 781
 Nuisance in Charlestown, 788, 796
 Metropolitan Horse Railroad location in Washington st., 823
 Claim of John Raddin, 825

Vose, Ward 24 — remarks:
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 38, 167
 Visit to the Parks, 315
 Salary of Clerks in Fire Commissioners' Office, 409
 Visit to Sudbury river, 409, 430
 Personal explanations, 430
 Sale of Atherton School building, 513

Wards —
 Ward-room for Ward 24, c 357, 383, a 389, 659, 700, 732, 734
 Ward 2, resignation of Inspector, a 391
 Ward 22, ward-room accommodations, referred, c 410

Washington's Birthday —
 Order passed to commemorate, c 37, 48, a 54

Water —
 Contract for pipe authorized, a 56, 71, c 72
 Water Board authorized to designate number of employes and fix salaries, c 236, a 238
 Report on high service in theatres, c 274, a 277
 Mystic Valley Sewer, order for construction, passed, a 297, c 308, 324; employing citizens as laborers, referred, c 329 a 337; resolve and order passed, a 392, c 404; non-concurrence, a 424; adherence, c 427, a 434; reconsideration, a 457, c 460; communication from City Council of Somerville laid on table, a 472; order passed, c 480, a 490; report on legality, c 504; report from Water Board, orders passed to take land, c 550; reconsideration refused, c 550, a 551; communication from Woburn referred to Water Board, a 585; deduction of wages referred, c 623, a 627
 Visit to Sudbury river, order rejected, c 357, 409; orders passed, c 430, 440, a 456, 477, c 480, a 490
 Boston Water Board, first annual report, a 509
 $20,000 for pumping engine, a 598, c 603, a 611, c 622, a 627
 $27,000 for second line force main-pipe, Mystic, a 598, c 603, 622, a 627

Webster, Ward 3 — remarks:
 Retrenchment in expenditures, 14
 Badges, 15, 25
 Salaries and duties of city officers, 37, 40, 164, 185
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 73
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 126
 Coutingout Fund, 142
 Use of City Hall Elevator, 143
 Pensions for police, 158
 System of valuation, 207
 Sinking Funds, 219
 Appropriation Bill, 232
 Mr. Keith's appointment to the Board of Health, 256, 272, 294
 Public Parks, 271
 Fourth of July, 273
 Acceptance of Mercantile Library, 274, 292
 Joint Rules and Orders, 289
 Board of Health, 295
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 309, 330, 404, 427
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 313
 Visit to the parks, 315
 License Commissioners, 315, 328, 651
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 333
 Cushing's Manual for members, 356
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 357
 Official report, 360
 Salary Superintendent of Dover-street bridge, 403
 Salary of clerks in Fire Commissioners' office, 408
 Duties of Retrenchment Committee, 410, 429
 Personal explanation, 430
 Inspection of Buildings, 446
 Salaries of employes of Water Board, 467
 Public Parks, 481
 Free Ferries, 514
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 513, 546
 Improved Sewerage, 530, 564
 Refreshments, etc., 532
 Salary of clerk of ferries, 550
 Inspection of Lime, 603
 Police boat "Protector", 637
 School sessions, 637
 Investigation of Department of Common, etc., c 656, 673, 813
 Refreshment bills, etc., 676, 743
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 678
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 721, 734
 Surveyors of Highways, 816
 Public Parks, 818
 Curbstone fruit-venders, 828, 846

Weights and Measures — see also Salaries.
 Annual report, a 30
 Report and orders referred, a 301, c 308; report, a 364
 Discussion on petition for appointment of Daniel C. Hunt, a 426; indefinitely postponed, a 436

Wilbur, Ward 20 — remarks:
 Uniform system of valuation, 48
 Labor for poor citizens, 61
 Abolition of Assistant Assessors, 72, 95
 Boards and commissions, 75
 Sinking Funds, 119
 Bills for furnishing supplies, 118
 Mechanics' Fair and the Common, 125, 133
 Use of City Hall Elevator, 143
 Salaries, 163, 189
 Second Assistant Assessors, 158, 254
 System of valuation, 207
 Appropriation Bill, 230, 254
 Dorchester School-house windows, 255
 Mr. Keith's appointment to Board of Health, 272, 294
 License Commissioners, 287, 353
 Ventilation of Council Chamber, 312, 440
 Vacation Schools, 324
 Horatio Harris estate for park, 325
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 329, 404
 Contracts only to tax-payers, 332, 355
 Civilities to distinguished strangers, 358
 Official report, 360
 Cause of fire corner Shawmut avenue and Pleasant street, 407
 Salary of clerks in Fire Commissioners' office, 409
 Visit to Sudbury river, 430, 440
 Army and Navy Monument, 441
 Public Parks, 478, 481
 Inspection of Buildings, 447
 Free Ferries, 496
 Sale of Atherton School building, 513
 Improved Sewerage, 530
 Vacations for firemen, 541
 Occupancy of streets for building, 547
 Investigation of Fire Commissioners, 677
 Hiring rooms in Pemberton square, 669
 Appointment of Inspector of Buildings, 720
 Stone cutting business at the Islands, 748
 Small Pox Hospital, 776

Wilder, Alderman — remarks:
 Abatement of claim against a bankrupt, 52
 Election of Assessors, 56, 179
 Appointments of special police at Boston and Maine R. R., 72
 Consolidation of City Registrar and Board of Health, 86
 Exhibition on Common, 112, 131
 Tracks on Columbus ave., 155, 172
 Confirming nominations of city officers, 197
 Play-ground on Common, 212
 Fruit-stands in streets, 239, 264
 East Boston Ferries, 260
 Salary of Inspector of Provisions, 285, 319, 335
 Sealers of Weights and Measures, 297, 426, 437, 457, 510
 Equitable valuation of property, 305
 Vacant stores and tenements, 307
 Walce-street drainage, 379
 Public Parks, 349, 367, 416
 Poland & Peabody's Omnibus Line, 398
 Mystic Valley Sewer, 424
 Asphalt pavement, 456
 Vacation of firemen, 507
 Proposed visit of Governors, 537
 Horse-cars blockades, 538
 Occupation of streets for building, 554
 Improved Sewerage, 575
 Inspection of Lime, 598
 Blackstone-square accident, 609, 666
 Refreshments, etc., 684
 South Boston Railroad location, 698
 Ward room in Ward 24, 700
 Vegetable Market, 717
 Metropolitan Railroad, 731, 837
 Roxbury Canal, 784
 Nuisance in Charlestown, 788
 Congress-st. widening, 854

Wolcott, Ward 11 — remarks:
 Salaries, 165, 193, 828
 Preservation of Old South, 194
 Vacation Schools, 382, 460
 Repairs on Adams School-house, 466
 Free Ferries, 515
 Condition of School-houses, 780
 Historical sites, 789
 Annual dinner of Council, 815
 Roxbury Canal, 831

FINAL PROCEEDINGS.

COMMON COUNCIL.

Thanks to the President, 850
 Response of the President, 850
 Copy of the President's address requested, 852
 Adjournment sine die, 852

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Thanks to the Mayor, 856
 Valedictory address of the Mayor, 857
 Thanks to the Chairman, 861
 The Chairman's address, 862
 Order for printing final proceedings, 863
 Adjournment sine die, 863

CITY OF BOSTON.

Organization of the Government, JANUARY 1, 1877.

The members elect of the Board of Aldermen met in their chamber and were called to order at 10.15 o'clock by the City Clerk.

The Mayor elect, his Honor Frederic O. Prince, entered the chamber and took the chair. He was accompanied by Chief Justice Gray and Rev. S. K. Lothrop, D. D., who took seats on his right and left.

A message was received from the Common Council that a quorum of that body was present and ready to be qualified. The Mayor and Alderman elect and the City Clerk proceeded to the Council chamber in charge of the City Messenger.

The members elect of the Common Council were called to order at ten minutes past ten o'clock A. M., by Mr. Benjamin Pope of Ward 15, the senior member.

On motion of Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20, Messrs. Smardou of Ward 10, Wilbur of Ward 20, Spenceley of Ward 19, Felt of Ward 18 and Fraser of Ward 6 were appointed a committee to collect credentials, which duty they performed, and reported that sixty-eight members elect, constituting a quorum, were present.

On motion of Mr. Howes of Ward 18, it was ordered, that a committee be appointed to inform the Mayor and Aldermen elect that a quorum of the Common Council were present and ready to be qualified. Mr. Howes was appointed said committee, and in a few minutes he returned and reported that he had performed the duty and that the Mayor and Aldermen elect would forthwith attend for the purpose of qualifying the members.

The Mayor and Aldermen elect entered the Council Chamber and took seats.

Prayer was offered by Rev. S. K. Lothrop, D. D. Chief Justice Gray administered the usual oaths of office to his Honor Mayor Prince. The names of the Aldermen and Common Councilmen elect were called by the Clerk, and the usual oaths of office were respectively administered to them by his Honor the Mayor.

The Mayor then delivered his inaugural address, at the conclusion of which the Mayor and Aldermen retired from the Council Chamber.

Board of Aldermen.

The Aldermen returned to their chamber and were called to order by the Mayor, who took the chair.

Alderman Viles moved that the Board proceed to the election of chairman.

Alderman Robinson—Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen of the Board: I am extremely sorry that the first remarks I am called upon to make in the Board, upon a question of conscience, should be somewhat of an unpleasant character. It is well known—because the newspapers have published it—that there was a caucus of all the members of the present Board held in the adjoining room on Saturday. At that caucus one member of the old Board made a motion, which was seconded by another member of the old Board, that a third member of the old Board should be nominated for the position of Chairman of this Board. Although there was some little feeling shown in the matter then, there was no time to enter into an extended discussion; but it placed not only the gentleman nominated, but us all, in a very embarrassing position. Nothing had been said to us in regard to who should be nominated; the thing was brought up suddenly; it was within a few minutes of the hour for the final meeting of the old Board, and there was no time to talk about it. Everybody seemed abashed, and there were some, besides myself, who thought that something ought to have been said before the nomination was made. The time was short, and it was necessary to finish up the business in time for the meeting of the old Board; so the thing was rushed through and passed, which amounted to the same thing as a unanimous informal vote—if such a thing could be. It was not my intention to have anything of a partisan character here; but having received a nomination from the successful party, without any efforts on my part, I feel under obligations to express my obligations to them, especially in a matter which does not affect the interests of the city. By voting for a member of that party for Chairman, it was the only way that I had of expressing my obligations to that party for my nomination. The action taken on Saturday is just the same as if the Democratic House of Representatives of the United States, when they met in caucus a year ago last December, had, in consequence of the ability of Mr. James G. Blaine as a good presiding officer, voted for him to be speaker. Nothing that I say is of a personal character in regard to Mr. Clark, in any way, shape or manner, for he is a strong personal friend of mine. I have only acted in this way from conscientious feelings toward the party which put me in nomination.

Alderman O'Brien—I regret, Mr. Mayor, that the Alderman from the Dorchester District, [Alderman Robinson] has felt it necessary to open this discussion. I supposed that the matter was settled at the informal meeting of the new Board on Saturday last, as there was the time and place for this discussion, especially as at that meeting it was voted to make the nomination unanimous. Since I have been a member of the Board, some two years, an informal meeting has always been called a few days before the beginning of a new year, to nominate a chairman and a Committee on Accounts. The election of a Committee on Accounts is necessary at an early day, in fact one of our first acts, in order to transact the business of the city. There was, then, nothing unusual in our meeting on Saturday, and I have never known an instance where there was any understanding what should be done at that meeting, so far as the chairmanship of the Board was concerned, or as to who should fill positions on the Committee on Accounts. I never said one word about the matter previous to that meeting to the gentleman nominated [Alderman Clark], and have had no understanding with any one in relation to the chairmanship, although at all times free to express my honest convictions. At that meeting I called attention to the fact that for two years I had been impressed with the prompt, faithful, able and impartial manner the Chairman had discharged his duties. I could not do less under the circumstances, for in boards largely Republican he has been impartial beyond all question, and moved that for such distinguished services that Alderman Clark be nominated by acclamation as our next Chairman. I considered this a graceful compliment from a Board constituted as ours will be the coming year, so largely Democratic, and that it would do much to silence forever the partisan cry that was raised previous to the election. The informal ballot on Saturday resulted in eight votes for Alderman Clark and four votes for all others, and then the nomination was made unanimous. I regret that there is any misunderstanding about it. There has been considerable outside pressure to change the current since Saturday, and for my part I consider it a duty never to give way to such a pressure, when I feel that I am right. In voting for Alderman Clark on Saturday I feel that I was right. It was honoring faithful and impartial services, and I am ready to ratify the act today. Before the election the "Prince ticket" was denounced as extremely partisan by nearly the entire press of the city. The election of that ticket, it was said, would bring about such an administration in this city as Tweed's in New York, and misrule such as has made Philadelphia almost bankrupt. I wish emphatically to contradict such comparisons, and in starting on our new departure by the reelection of Alderman Clark to show that we are not such a partisan administration as was represented, to show that nine Democratic members are not so exclusively partisan and can do a graceful act.

The position has no political significance. It is an honor in being elected to preside over the Board, but it is an office of essentially hard work, and I know of no member of the present Board who could so ably and so promptly discharge the duties as the Alderman who has so faithfully filled the position the past three years. It has also been currently reported that if Mayor Prince accepts a foreign mission, or if he should happen to die during the year, that our Chairman takes his place. There is no foundation whatever for this report. The city charter, section 50, expressly provides that "in case of the decease, inability, absence or resignation of the Mayor, and whenever there is a vacancy in the office from any cause, and the same being declared, and a vote passed by the Aldermen and Common Council respectively declaring such cause, and the expediency of electing a Mayor for the time being to supply the vacancy thus occasioned, the Board of Aldermen shall issue their warrants in due form for the election of Mayor," etc. It will be seen that the election of Mayor, in case of vacancy, is under the control of the City Council, and that the election of Chairman of the Board has nothing to do with it. I hope the Board will ratify the action of the informal meeting, and elect Alderman Clark to fill the position he has so ably filled during the past three years.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Mr. Mayor, I was present last Saturday at an informal gathering of the members of the Board of Aldermen, and I gave a very full expression of my feelings with regard to the person who should be the presiding officer of this Board. In municipal matters I am no partisan and do not propose to be. I have made more enemies among my Democratic friends during the two years I have served as a member of the City Government, than I have in any other political party, and I presume I shall make more during my term of office here. I said last Saturday that I was under the impression and believed that the presiding officer of this Board, considering the circumstances under which you, sir, were elected, should be fully in accord with you politically. I said that the Mayor of Boston this year was elected on a purely partisan ticket. He is recognized as a Democratic Mayor. The Mayors who have preceded him, whether they have been Democrats or Republicans, have acknowledged that they were elected by citizens and were not party men. But you, sir, are a purely party Mayor. I think it is but proper and just that the person who represents you, as the presiding officer of this Board, should be of the same political stripe as you. I take this view, not because the Democrats have a majority of the Board of Aldermen, but because the Mayor is essentially a Democrat, and his representative should also be of that stripe. The gentleman [Alderman O'Brien] said it was charged that our Government, under Democratic rule, would be like that of New York under Tweed, or that of Philadelphia at the present time; and that while it would show to the people a disposition to be liberal, it would also be an act of magnanimity on our part to elect a Republican as presiding officer. Now I fail to see that such action will disprove any charge of that kind. For myself I should take no notice of it; no matter which man is elected, whether he be a Democrat or Republican, it will make very little difference so far as making this a pure or a corrupt government; therefore his argument simply amounts to nothing. I am sorry that this matter comes up in this shape, but as it comes up for argument before the Board I feel that it is a duty I owe to myself and to this Board to give an expression of my opinion on this question. I entertain the highest respect and regard for Alderman Clark and under any other circumstances, even if a majority of this Board were Democrats, I should vote for him. But, sir, considering the circumstances under which you have been elected, I cannot vote for any person who has not the same political ideas and is not fully in accord with yourself politically.

Alderman Robinson—The gentleman [Alderman O'Brien] seems to convey the idea that something of a personal character was intended by my remarks. There is nothing personal in it; but I will repeat again, that I feel that in this thing it is the only chance I have to express my obligations to the party which nominated me for the position. I felt obliged to do so, and it had no connection of a personal character whatever; and in the remarks I made I intended no reference to the ability of Mr. Clark. After saying what we have I believe we should let the whole thing rest.

Alderman O'Brien: Mr. Mayor—There is nothing unusual in the election of a chairman of different political sentiments from the majority of the Board. When Mayor Pierce, a Republican, was elected, Alderman Cutter, one of the most decided Democrats of the Board, was elected to fill the position of Chairman, and he was acting Mayor for a short time, after Mayor Pierce resigned to go to Congress. This was done by a Republican Board of Aldermen, and Alderman Clark was the chief mover in the matter. Since I have been a member of the Board the Democrats have voted as willingly for our Chairman as the Republicans, and if it is wrong now it was also wrong then. For three years the Republicans have elected a Democratic Mayor, and extreme partisanship has seldom been heard in City Councils. Other precedents might be named where party lines have been ignored, and I cannot see the great wrong that is done by reflecting our worthy Chairman. On the contrary, I contend that it is a graceful act that will tend to place the new administration in the right position.

Alderman Slade—I was surprised at the action of the caucus. The nomination of Chairman was made and advocated by Democrats and on the informal ballots all the votes but three—one of which I cast—were for Mr. Clark. As the nomination was made in a caucus of the full Board I feel bound to abide by it.

A ballot was ordered and resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes.....	8
Necessary for a choice.....	5
John T. Clark had.....	8
Blanks.....	2

Alderman Clark took the chair and said—

Gentlemen of the Board of Aldermen—I thank you for the honor you have done me in electing me to preside over your deliberations for the coming year. I accept the office, and will endeavor to discharge the duties acceptably and impartially, confidently relying upon sympathy and coöperation. Gentlemen, we are called upon to discharge duties of great responsibility. The welfare of the community is in a measure intrusted to us. Let us ever keep in view the fact that we are here as representatives of a city noted for its wise and beneficent legislation, and that it is our duty to guard the reputation which has come down to us through the historic years which have marked the progress of Boston. Let us emulate our predecessors in whatever is wise, whatever is good, whatever is for the welfare of the community, that we may leave for ourselves a record which will compare favorably with theirs, and, that we may perpetuate a government which has been and will continue to be a model for other municipalities.

Again thanking you, gentlemen, and wishing you a happy New Year, I await your pleasure.

Alderman Robinson presented the petition of George E. Bullard, Augustus Parker, Coolidge Barnard, James H. Means, William Pope and 49 others, that Geneva avenue be extended westward to Marston avenue at Grove Hall, and eastward to the junction of Dorchester avenue and Park street, Dorchester; and that Geneva avenue and Olney street be put in suitable order for public travel, especially at the railroad bridge. Referred to Street Commissioners.

On motion of Alderman Viles, a message was sent to the Common Council informing them of the organization of the Board, and a message was received that the Council had organized and was ready to proceed to business.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, a message was sent to the Common Council proposing a joint convention for the choice of a City Clerk. Subsequently a message was received that the Council had concurred; and the Mayor and Aldermen proceeded to the Council chamber.

On returning from the joint convention Alderman Clark took the chair.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order, That the several heads of departments and boards of direction of the various institutions be authorized to submit their annual reports in print, under the direction of the Superintendent of Printing. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order, That one hundred additional copies of proceedings of the City Council for 1877 be printed. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

On motion of Alderman Slade it was ordered, That until otherwise ordered, Monday, at four o'clock P. M., be assigned as the day and hour for holding the regular meetings of the Board.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order, That a joint special committee, to consist of three members of the Board of Aldermen, with such as the Common Council may join, be appointed to determine and pay the allowances of State aid to the families of disabled soldiers and the families of the slain, pursuant to the existing acts of the Legislature; and that said committee have power to employ a paymaster and such clerical assistance as may be required for that purpose, and that the expense be charged to the appropriation for Soldiers' Relief. Read twice and passed, and Aldermen O'Brien, Slade and Wilder were appointed on said committee. Sent down.

Alderman Thompson offered an order that the joint rules and orders of the City Council of the year 1876 be adopted as the joint rules and orders of the present City Council until otherwise ordered, and that Aldermen ———, with such as the Common Council may join, be a committee to examine and report if any alterations are needed therein. Read twice and passed, and Aldermen Thompson and Burnham were appointed on said committee. Sent down.

On motion of Alderman Viles, it was ordered that the rules and orders of the Board of Aldermen for 1876 be adopted as the rules and orders of the Board until otherwise ordered; and Aldermen Viles and Fitzgerald were appointed a committee to report if any changes are needed therein.

On motion of Alderman O'Brien, the Board adjourned.

Common Council.

After the Mayor and Aldermen retired from the Council Chamber Mr. Beeching of Ward 1 was called to the chair. On motion of Mr. Sampson of Ward 17, an election for President was ordered. Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17, Shepard of Ward 4 and Thorndike of Ward 2 were appointed a committee to collect and count votes. They reported as follows:

Whole number of votes.....	69
Necessary for choice.....	35
Benjamin Pope of Ward 15 had.....	68
J. J. Flynn.....	1

And Mr. Pope was declared elected.

Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17 and Flynn of Ward 13 were appointed a committee to conduct the President elect to the chair, which they did. The President was introduced to the Council by Mr. Beeching. He took the chair and said—

Gentlemen of the Common Council—Permit me to return to you my sincere thanks for the distinguished honor which you have now conferred upon me in elevating me to this position of trust and responsibility. When I consider the very acceptable service which has been rendered by the able, faithful and competent gentlemen who have occupied this chair, and of whom you have made me the successor; that you have selected me, when there are those among you whose experience, whose ability could afford you promise of better results than I can give; and when I consider the spontaneous manner in which your choice has been made so unanimous, and this without any solicitation or expectation on my part, I feel that you have given expression to a generous confidence that claims the exercise of the best powers that I possess and that I can bring to the discharge of the duties of this important office. In accepting this position I cannot disguise the fact that I entertain such a distrust of my own ability that I must invoke all the indulgence for any errors of judgment that I must inevitably commit, and all the aid and cooperation that I can claim from the friendship of which you have given me such unmistakable evidence. We are this day engaged in inaugurating a new City Government. We are entering upon the discharge of important and honorable public duties with which we have been intrusted by our fellow citizens.

The city of Boston, notwithstanding the calamity of the great fire, and the period of severe business depression through which we are now passing, maintains, and is likely to maintain, its position among the great cities of the world. Within a few years it has made a large increase in population and in territory, calling for additional provisions for the safety, the comfort and convenience of its inhabitants, and imposing greater duties and heavier responsibilities upon those who are chosen to manage its affairs.

It is to be presumed that none of us have sought position here for the purpose of promoting personal or political interests, of advocating sectional projects in which the whole city does not share the benefit, or that we have any aim in view, which is not consistent with the public good. Some of us have had one or two years, a few a longer experience in this branch of the City Government, while nearly two-thirds of us come here for the first time. The short time of service which this indicates, is thought by many reflecting minds to be a defect in our municipal system. It is enough to signify to us, that in order to become so familiar with the affairs of the city in all their magnitude, as to be able wisely and intelligently to pass judgment upon the different measures which will come before us for our decision, we must devote all the time, thought and attention which we can spare from our private business. Among the most important matters which are likely to be brought before us in the early portion of this year, are the projects of public parks and an improved system of sewerage, reported by the commissioners appointed to investigate those subjects, and which, if carried out, will involve the expenditure of several millions of dollars. These are great questions, and realized as such, most vividly, by the members of the last City Government, and although earnestly considered by them, some of the most conscientious and judicious minds among them could not be said to have obtained such a definite knowledge of these projects as to enable them to come to a decision. It was therefore wisely determined to defer action until further information could be procured. The report of the committee to consult with the Park Commissioners was brought in during the closing hours of the last City Government, and was referred to us for our consideration. The investigations and surveys for the proposed improved system of sewerage is in an advanced stage and may soon be expected to be reported upon. I have taken the liberty of mentioning these subjects at this time, partly for the purpose of illustrating the fact that the Common Council, which many have the disposition to disparage, really has great and important interests in its charge, and partly to call your especial attention to them, because it will be impossible for any member to give an intelligent and unprejudiced vote upon them, unless by previous preparation he has fully qualified himself so to do by examining the reports and debates which have already been published upon parks and improved sewerage.

One of the most desirable objects to be accomplished, and upon which the tax payers display the greatest anxiety, is a judicious economy in the use of the public money. It can hardly be considered economy, however, to neglect or to postpone projects of absolute necessity, merely because of the stagnation of business. It would rather seem, that such a period when money, material and labor are cheap, when so many of our fellow citizens stand in need of a market for these commodities, especially those who have nothing but their labor to dispose of, is the very time to enter upon necessary public works of permanent utility.

Among the projected enterprises which those best acquainted with the necessity existing for them have refrained from pressing upon the attention of the City Council in deference to the great sensitiveness of the public mind in regard to the expenditure of money, are the extension of the Public Library Building on Boylston street, and also proper accommodations for the English High and Public Latin schools. These are mentioned because they happen to have come somewhat within the sphere of my own observation, and have served to convince me that there is a medium between parsimonious economy and extravagance which it is wise for us to follow.

We are expected by our fellow citizens in the discharge of our duties as public servants to exercise the same wisdom, the same vigilance, the same regard to economy with which we would manage our own private affairs. They hold us, in common with the Board of Aldermen, responsible for the measures which are passed by the City Government; but it will be remembered that there are several important departments in which this Common Council, through its committees, has no control whatever in regard to the details of expenditure, although those details amount to an enormous sum in the aggregate. Among the more important of these may be mentioned the public schools, bridges, paving and county matters.

The general appropriation bill comes before you early in the year, being reported to the Council by the Joint Standing Committee on Finance, and is based upon estimates furnished by the different departments.

It should come before us at as early a period as possible, in order that ample time may be afforded to each member of the Council to obtain such information as he may require to be able to vote intelligently upon its merits. There is no expenditure of money, however large or small, embraced in this bill, that is not a legitimate subject of inquiry by each member of this Common Council. The heads of departments and the committees of the Council will always be ready to give any explanations that will be called for upon the matters which they have in charge, so that members can hold every item of proposed expenditure within their control until the appropriation bill is passed. When reported, it will be found desirable to consider it without unnecessary delay, rather than to postpone it from time to time, till we arrive so near the close of the financial year, that imperative necessity will compel us to dispose of it without the careful deliberation which its importance demands.

Gentlemen who enter for the first time upon the duties which devolve upon them here will recognize the propriety of calling their attention to this subject, because upon the care with which they scrutinize this bill depends in a large degree the reputation which they may hope to gain as wise economists.

In conclusion, gentlemen, let me express the hope that our deliberations through the year which has so auspiciously begun may always lead us to the wisest conclusions; that they may be so harmonious, that notwithstanding the differences of opinion which will very properly arise on the questions which will come before us, that the close of the year will find us undisturbed by any unpleasant recollections, and that it will be remembered in after life for the lasting friendships which we have formed. Let us remember that so far as we propose to become faithful servants and representatives of the people we will find here ample scope for all the work we may feel disposed to do in their behalf, and just so far we will gain the self-satisfaction consequent upon duty well performed and the gratitude of our constituents, which is all the honor and recompense that we can hope for.

On motion of Mr. Clarke of Ward 22, an election for clerk of the Common Council was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Clarke of Ward 22, Fraser of Ward 6 and Barnard of Ward 24. They reported—

Whole number of votes.....	71
Necessary for a choice.....	36
Washington P. Gregg had.....	71

Mr. Gregg was declared unanimously elected. The oath of office was administered to him by John P. Healy, City Solicitor, and he assumed his position.

On motion of Mr. Richardson of Ward 11 an order was passed, and that gentleman was appointed a committee, to inform the Board of Aldermen that the Council was organized and ready to proceed to business. He performed that duty and reported accordingly.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 offered an order, That until otherwise ordered the rules and orders of the Common Council of 1876 be adopted as the rules and orders of this Council. Read twice and passed.

Messages were received from the Board of Aldermen that they had organized, and proposing a joint convention for the election of a City Clerk. The Council concurred in the request.

Mr. Duggan of Ward 12 offered an order, That the Municipal Register be printed under the direction of the Joint Committee on Rules and Orders, who may employ such assistance as may be deemed advisable; and that they also prepare a pocket edition of the rules and a list of members and committees. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 offered an order for the appointment of a Standing Committee of the Council on Elections. Read twice and passed, and Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Stone of Ward 3, Sampson of Ward 17, Souther of Ward 14, and McGarrigle of Ward 8, were appointed said committee.

Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 offered an order, That Thursday next at 8 P. M. be assigned as the time for the election, on the part of the Council, of a Standing Committee on Finance. Read twice and passed, and Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Howes of Ward 18 and Pierce of Ward 24 were appointed a committee to make nominations.

JOINT CONVENTION.

The Mayor and Aldermen entered the Council Chamber and a joint convention was held. An election for City Clerk was ordered; Committee—Alderman Fitzgerald and Councilmen Richard

Pope of Ward 14 and Wilbur of Ward 20. They reported—

Whole number of votes.....	81
Necessary for a choice.....	41
Sammel F. McCleary had.....	79
George A. Shaw.....	1
John T. Priest.....	1

Mr. McCleary was declared elected, and the oath of office was administered to him by the Mayor. The convention then dissolved.

COMMON COUNCIL RESUMED.

On motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19, an order was passed that when the Council adjourn it be to Thursday next at 7½ P. M., and that that be the day and hour for the regular meetings of the Council, until otherwise ordered. Passed.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 offered an order for the joint standing committee, when appointed, to resume the unfinished business appropriate to them referred from the last City Council. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Mr. Ham of Ward 14 offered an order, That the joint rules and orders of the City Council of 1876 be adopted as the joint rules and orders for the government of the present City Council until otherwise ordered. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 offered an order for the appointment of joint special committees to nominate suitable persons as candidates for the various city offices elected by the City Council.

Mr. Sampson—That is rather an unusual order, and it is perhaps as well that I should explain why it has been introduced. It is for the purpose of facilitating business, as all gentlemen who have served here before will appreciate, and to give the President of the Council time to deliberate in making up the nominating, as well as the joint standing committees. I hope it will meet the approval of the Council.

The order was read twice and passed. Sent up.

Mr. Fraser of Ward 6 offered an order, That the heads of departments and boards of direction be requested to submit their annual reports in print, under the direction of the Superintendent of Printing. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 offered an order for the appointment of a joint special committee to report what disposition should be made of the topics in the Mayor's address. Read twice and passed, and Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Pierce of Ward 18, and Fernald of Ward 15 were appointed on said committee. Sent up.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 11 offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to furnish a copy of his address, and that the same be printed. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

An order came from the other branch for the adoption of the joint rules and orders of 1876 until otherwise ordered, and appointing a joint committee (with Aldermen Thompson and Burnham) to report what alterations are needed. Amended, on motion of Mr. Howes of Ward 18, by striking out the part adopting the rules of 1876, and passed. Messrs. Sibley of Ward 5, Pratt of Ward 21, and Upham of Ward 20 were appointed on said committee. Sent up.

Petitions for recounts of votes for Common Councilmen were received as follows: Of George F. Doyle et al., Ward 3; Samuel G. Stone et al., Ward 4; C. Blanchard et al., Ward 6; Peter Allen et al. and Charles L. Storrs et al., Ward 15; George E. Filkins et al., Ward 16; James Teevan et al., Ward 19; Fred H. Bisch et al. and John E. Ward et al., Ward 20. Mr. Kelley of Ward 3 presented a petition from George Flanigan for recount in Ward 4. Severally referred to Committee on Elections.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 offered an order that Thursday next at 8.15 P. M. be assigned as the time for the election on the part of the Council of a Standing Committee on Accounts. Read twice and passed, and Messrs. Sibley of Ward 5, Sampson of Ward 17 and Pope of Ward 14 were appointed a committee to nominate candidates. Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 stated that he had served on the Committee on Accounts several years, and as a renomination was customary in such cases, he requested the committee not to nominate him.

On motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19, the Council proceeded to draw for seats, after which a recess of ten minutes was taken.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Howes of Ward 18, and stood adjourned to Thursday evening next, at 7½ P. M.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
JANUARY 4, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7 1/2 o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Order for a joint special committee to pay the allowances of State aid. Ordered to a second reading. Near the close of the session the rule was suspended, on motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19, and the order was read a second time and passed in concurrence.

Order for the Superintendent of Printing to contract for 100 additional copies of the reports of Proceedings of the City Council from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1877, at an expense not exceeding $200. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

WARD TWENTY CONTESTED CASE.

On motion of Mr. Felt of Ward 18, the rule was suspended, and he submitted a report from the Committee on Elections on the petitions of John E. Ward et al. and Jacob Schmitter et al., for a recount of the votes for Common Councilmen in Ward 20. The recount gives the following result:

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 20 contested case, including Nathan S. Wilbur, Jacob Schmitter, N. S. Wilber, Herbert C. Davis, James H. Upham, Edward Ryan, etc.

And — Morrill, Jr., H. P. Bailey, S. W. Adams, Fred H. Nazro, William Gray, Jr., and George F. Moore had one each.

It appears therefore that Nathan S. Wilbur, James H. Upham and Joseph Morrill, Jr., were elected, and that Herbert C. Davis, who received a certificate of election and now occupies a seat in this Board, was not elected.

Whereas, It appears from a recount of the original ballots cast at the last municipal election in Ward 20 that Joseph Morrill, Jr., was elected a member of the Common Council in place of Herbert C. Davis, who received a certificate of election,

Resolved, That Joseph Morrill, Jr., is entitled to the seat in this Board now occupied by Herbert C. Davis.

The preamble and resolve was read twice and passed.

On motion, Mr. Felt was appointed a committee to conduct Mr. Morrill to the City Clerk to be qualified, which he did, and Mr. Morrill took his seat.

PETITION PRESENTED.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 presented the petition of James Kelley et al., for a recount of the votes for Common Council in Ward 7 at the last municipal election. Referred to Committee on Elections.

RECOUNTS OF VOTES FOR COMMON COUNCIL.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18 submitted reports from the Committee on Elections on petitions for recounts of votes for Common Council, with the results of the several recounts as given below. From them it appears that the sitting members from the several wards named are entitled to their seats.

Ward 16. Petition of George E. Filkins et al.

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 16 petition, including John Cross, Francis A. Davis, J. Cross, F. A. Davis, etc.

Ward 6. Petition of C. Blanchard et al.

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 6 petition, including John A. Kidney, Michael Burke, John Kidney, Michael Barr, etc.

And James Quigley, Anthony C. Daley and Thomas Gray had one each.

Ward 4. Petitions of George Flanigan and Samuel G. Stone et al. for recount of votes for said Flanigan and Peter S. Roberts, the sitting member.

Peter S. Roberts, 489, George Flanigan, 444.

Ward 19. Petition of James Teevan et al.

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 19 petition, including James H. Nugent, James Teevan, James Nugent, George Bellew, etc.

Ward 15. Petition of Peter Allen et al., and Charles L. Storrs et al.

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 15 petition, including Oliver G. Fernald, Edward L. Barnes, Oliver G. Fernald, George H. Noyes, etc.

And Hugh O'Brien, James A. Lappen and Thomas Brown had one each.

Ward 3. Petition of George F. Doyle et al.

Table listing names and vote counts for Ward 3 petition, including Pinneas J. Stone, Jr., Frederick B. Bogan, George B. Webster, James J. O'Keefe, etc.

Thomas Willia, Francis B. Austin, Eben O. Hawes, Isaac Hobart and I. Roberts had one each.

COMMITTEE ON FINANCE.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 submitted a report from the special committee appointed to nominate candidates for a Committee on Finance recommending the election of Eugene H. Sampson, Phinehas J. Stone, Jr., J. Homer Pierce, Webster F. Warren, Henry F. Coe, Moses W. Richardson and Joaquin K. Souther.

Table listing names and vote counts for Committee on Finance, including Whole number of votes, Necessary for a choice, Eugene H. Sampson, etc.

And the nominees of the committee were declared elected. Notice sent up.

COMMITTEE ON ACCOUNTS.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 submitted a report from the joint special committee to nominate a Committee on Accounts, recommending the election of J. Augustus Felt, Osborne Howes, Jr., Roger Wolcott, Lowell B. Hiscock and Coolidge Barnard.

Table listing names and vote counts for Committee on Accounts, including Whole number of votes, Necessary for a choice, J. Augustus Felt, etc.

And the nominees of the committee were declared elected. Notice sent up.

TREATMENT OF SCARLET FEVER.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 offered an order, That the Board of Health be requested to consider and report to the City Council whether in their opinion any further legislation is necessary to prevent the spread of scarlet fever by contagion.

Mr. Pratt—I do not know that any further legislation would be required to enable the Board of Health to take any action they might find necessary; but I do think that a report from the Board of Health to this Council on the subject would be an interesting document.

ent, and it is said to be an epidemic disease just now, which is a sufficient reason for calling the attention of the public to the subject. I am aware that the medical authorities are somewhat divided upon the question as to whether scarlet fever is a contagious disease or not; but I think that the weight of authority is admitted to be upon the affirmative side. I think that for social and practical purposes it is regarded by the best physicians, and ought to be regarded by all citizens, as a contagious disease, and if anything can be done to isolate cases of scarlet fever it ought to be done. I do not suppose that such action would be contemplated as is taken in respect to smallpox—I mean such extreme action with respect to isolation; but I think it would be well for the Board of Health to require physicians practising in the city of Boston to report to them all cases of scarlet fever, as they do smallpox cases, and it would be a comfort to many parents and citizens if they could feel assured that somebody was looking after the matter so as to procure as much isolation as possible, by advice, or otherwise, to those having charge of patients sick with scarlet fever, so that they should not be allowed to go to the public schools and expose themselves in public; and perhaps that some care should be taken at the houses where they are confined, and in the neighborhoods where they live, keep them withdrawn from the sight of other persons. It is with the view of bringing this matter to the attention of the Board of Health, and through them to the City Council, that I have offered the order, and I hope it will pass.

The order was read a second time and passed. Sent up.

COMMON COUNCIL RULES AND ORDERS.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 offered an order for the appointment of a committee to prepare rules and orders for the government of the Common Council during the current year. Read twice and passed, and Messrs. Sibley of Ward 5, Pratt of Ward 21, and Upham of Ward 20 were appointed said committee.

ADMISSION TO THE ANTE-ROOM.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 offered an order, That the City Messenger be instructed to admit no person upon the floor of the Council Chamber or into the ante-room of the same who is not a member of the City Government, or persons properly introduced, while the Council is in session, always excepting those persons who are permitted by the President of the Council.

Mr. Spenceley—I have been asked to offer this order tonight, and I think it is a proper subject for action at this time, as gentlemen must know that they may be annoyed a great deal, especially during the next two or three months, by persons talking, laughing and smoking in the ante-rooms. Last year I was frequently annoyed by such proceedings in the ante-room. But I do not like the order as it now reads, and I offer the following as a substitute:

Ordered, That the City Messenger be instructed to admit no person upon the floor of the Council Chamber, or into the ante-room of the same, who is not a member of the City Government, after the seats provided for visitors in the Council Chamber are occupied, while the Council is in session, always excepting those persons who are permitted by the President of the Council.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I like the original order better than I do the substitute. I believe that if any member has a friend desirous of seeing him here he ought to be admitted into the ante-room, as there is no harm in it. There is a large ante-room for strangers, visitors and members to sit in. Last year it was occupied by the Sewer Department, but it has been vacated, and I think it will do no harm for members to introduce friends there. I hope the original order will pass.

Mr. Spenceley—I think the gentleman is mistaken in regard to the Sewer Department occupying that room during the first part of the session last year; they had it during the latter part of the session. I recollect being greatly annoyed last year by men in there. If they would go into the large room and do their talking there, I would not complain; but they gather around the door and talk, laugh and smoke, and a gentleman who is interested in the proceedings cannot hear them if he sits near the door. I objected to it last year and I object to it now. It seems to me that if members have friends coming here, they can go outside to transact business with them just as well as to have them go into the ante-room and among those inside.

The substitute was rejected and the original order read a second time and passed.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 offered an order for a joint special committee to nominate candidates for Inspectors of Ballast, etc. Read twice and passed.

The President announced the following committees:

Joint Special Committees on the part of the Council to nominate City Officers.

Overseers of the Poor—Messrs. Blanchard of Ward 21, McCluskey of Ward 13, Brintnall of Ward 5.

Superintendents of Bridges—Messrs. Ham of Ward 14, Fernald of Ward 15, Beeching of Ward 1.

Clerk of Committees—Messrs. Stone of Ward 3, Kidney of Ward 6, Jackson of Ward 16.

Harbor Master—Messrs. Beeching of Ward 1, Kelly of Ward 3, Fraser of Ward 6.

Superintendent of Streets—Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Pearl of Ward 1, Perham of Ward 23.

Superintendent of Common and Public Squares—Messrs. Pope of Ward 14, Dee of Ward 5, Wilbur of Ward 20.

Superintendent of Public Buildings—Messrs. Shepard of Ward 4, Blanchard of Ward 21, Brown of Ward 23.

Superintendent of Public Lands—Messrs. Clarke of Ward 22, Cox of Ward 15, Kelly of Ward 6.

City Architect—Messrs. Pierce of Ward 18, Fagan of Ward 19, McGarragle of Ward 8.

Superintendent of Sewers—Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17, Blodgett of Ward 8, Day of Ward 4.

City Messenger—Messrs. Howes of Ward 18, Ruffin of Ward 9, Shepard of Ward 4.

City Engineer—Messrs. Hiscock of Ward 21, Doherty of Ward 2, Cannon of Ward 7.

City Surveyor—Messrs. Thorndike of Ward 2, Roach of Ward 7, Loughlin of Ward 13.

City Registrar—Messrs. Ham of Ward 14, Clarke of Ward 22, Upham of Ward 20.

City Solicitor—Messrs. Crocker of Ward 9, Ruffin of Ward 9, Mowry of Ward 11.

Water Registrar—Messrs. Richardson of Ward 10, Burke of Ward 2, Barry of Ward 22.

Commissioner of Cedar Grove Cemetery—Messrs. Pierce of Ward 24, Morrill of Ward 20, Cross of Ward 16.

Directors of Public Institutions—Messrs. Smardon of Ward 10, Spenceley of Ward 19, Souther of Ward 14.

Directors of East Boston Ferries—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Roberts of Ward 4, McDonald of Ward 12.

Trustees of the City Hospital—Messrs. Howes of Ward 18, Reed of Ward 17, Duggan of Ward 12.

Trustees of the Public Library—Messrs. Sibley of Ward 5, Barnard of Ward 24, Hibbard of Ward 17.

Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery—Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Pope of Ward 14, O'Donnell of Ward 7.

Commissioners on Sinking Funds—Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17, Danforth of Ward 10, Vose of Ward 24.

Auditor of Accounts—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Coe of Ward 23, Pratt of Ward 21.

City Treasurer—Messrs. Stone of Ward 3, Richardson of Ward 11, Thompson of Ward 9.

City Collector—Wolcott of Ward 11, Warren of Ward 25, Webster of Ward 3.

Weights and Inspectors of Lighters and Other Vessels—Beeching of Ward 1, Nugent of Ward 19, O'Connor of Ward 8.

Joint Standing Committees on the part of the Council.

On Assessors' Department—Messrs. Pope of Ward 14, Blanchard of Ward 21, Fraser of Ward 6, Richardson of Ward 11, Thorndike of Ward 2.

On Claims—Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17, Howes of Ward 18, Ruffin of Ward 9, Richardson of Ward 10, Pierce of Ward 18.

On Common and Public Grounds—Messrs. Howes of Ward 18, Smardon of Ward 10, Hiscock of Ward 21, Pope of Ward 14, Dee of Ward 5.

On City Engineer's Department—Messrs. Thorndike of Ward 2, Kidney of Ward 6, Brintnall of Ward 5.

On City Registrar's Department—Messrs. Smardon of Ward 10, Upham of Ward 20, Nugent of Ward 19.

On East Boston Ferries—Messrs. Burke of Ward 2, Reed of Ward 17, Roberts of Ward 4, Roach of Ward 7, O'Connor of Ward 8.

On Fire Department—Messrs. Spenceley of Ward 19, Burke of Ward 2, Cannon of Ward 7.

On Fuel—Messrs. Brown of Ward 23, Vose of Ward 24, Doherty of Ward 2.

On Harbor—Messrs. Beeching of Ward 1, Barnard of Ward 24, Cox of Ward 15.

On Health Department—Messrs. Sibley of Ward 5, Flynn of Ward 13, Cox of Ward 15.

On City Hospital—Messrs. Morrill of Ward 20, Reed of Ward 17, McDonald of Ward 12.

On Legislative Matters—Messrs. Ruffin of Ward 9, Mowry of Ward 11, Pratt of Ward 21.

On Mt. Hope and Cedar Grove Cemeteries—Messrs. Hiscock of Ward 21, Hibbard of Ward 17, Vose of Ward 24.

On Ordinances—Messrs. Crocker of Ward 9, Thompson of Ward 9, Richardson of Ward 10, Wolcott of Ward 11, Mowry of Ward 11.

On Overseers of the Poor—Messrs. Blanchard of Ward 21, Flynn of Ward 16, Duggan of Ward 12.

On Printing—Messrs. Pierce of Ward 24, Smardon of Ward 10, McCluskey of Ward 13.

On Public Baths—Messrs. Blodgett of Ward 8, Pearl of Ward 1, Fernald of Ward 15, Loughlin of Ward 13, O'Donnell of Ward 7.

On Public Buildings—Messrs. Shepard of Ward 4, Wilbur of Ward 20, Spenceley of Ward 19, Pierce of Ward 18, Kelley of Ward 3.

On Public Institutions—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Wilbur of Ward 20, Duggan of Ward 12, Brown of Ward 23, Loughlin of Ward 13.

On Public Instruction—Messrs. Pearl of Ward 1, Coe of Ward 23, Shepard of Ward 5, Wolcott of Ward 11.

On Public Lands—Messrs. Clarke of Ward 22, Crocker of Ward 9, Hibbard of Ward 17.

On Public Library—Messrs. Morrill of Ward 20,

Webster of Ward 3, Pratt of Ward 21, Warren of Ward 25, Cross of Ward 16.

On Salaries—Messrs. Danforth of Ward 10, Souther of Ward 14, Clarke of Ward 22.

On Laying Out and Widening Streets—Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Felt of Ward 18, Ham of Ward 14, Perham of Ward 23, Day of Ward 4.

On City Surveyor's Department—Messrs. Jackson of Ward 19, Barry of Ward 22, Day of Ward 4.

On Department for Survey and Inspection of Buildings—Messrs. Kelley of Ward 3, Fagan of Ward 19, McGarragle of Ward 8.

On Treasury Department—Messrs. Stone of Ward 3, Richardson of Ward 11, Danforth of Ward 10.

On Water—Messrs. Fraser of Ward 6, Beeching of Ward 1, Jackson of Ward 16.

On State Aid—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Roberts of Ward 4, Roach of Ward 7, Mullane of Ward 12, McCluskey of Ward 13.

Standing Committees of the Common Council.

On Police—Messrs. Cannon of Ward 7, Doherty of Ward 2, Kelley of Ward 6, Cross of Ward 16, Mullane of Ward 12.

On Paving—Messrs. Fernald of Ward 15, Barry of Ward 22, Kelley of Ward 6, Brintnall of Ward 5, McDonald of Ward 12.

On the Judiciary—Messrs. Crocker of Ward 9, Thompson of Ward 9, Richardson of Ward 10, Wolcott of Ward 11, Mowry of Ward 11.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 offered an order, That a joint special committee to consist of three members of the Common Council with such as the Board of Aldermen may join, be appointed to take charge of the erection of the Army and Navy Monument on Boston Common, as provided in the contract with Martin Milmore. Laid on the table on motion of Mr. Flynn.

Adjourned on motion of Mr. Beeching of Ward 1.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
JANUARY 8, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor in the chair.

The usual oaths of office were administered to Nehemiah Gibson, Alderman elect, by the Mayor.

JURORS DRAWN.

Six additional traverse jurors were drawn for the January term of the Superior Criminal Court.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Mayor's Clerk—George F. Babbitt. Sent down.
Constable—Henry F. Spach. Confirmed.
Railroad Police—James R. Hathaway, Eastern Railroad.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Order to adopt Joint Rules and Orders of City Council of 1876 until otherwise ordered; order to amend order of this Board providing for similar action to the above; order requesting copy of Mayor's Address for publication; order for publication of the Municipal Register and lists of committees. Severally passed in concurrence.

Order providing that special committees be appointed, to consist each of three members of the Common Council, with such as the Board may join, to nominate the several superintendents and boards of direction as therein set forth. Passed in concurrence.

Order for the several joint committees to resume unfinished business. Passed in concurrence.

Order for a committee (Messrs. Flynn, Pierce and Fernald to be joined) to consider the topics in Mayor's address. Passed in concurrence, and the Mayor appointed Aldermen Thompson and Slade on the committee.

Certificate of election of Committee on Finance. Placed on file.

Order for Board of Health to inquire if any additional legislation is necessary to prevent the spread of scarlet fever. Passed in concurrence.

ELECTION OF COMMITTEE ON ACCOUNTS.

A certificate was received of the election of a Committee on Accounts on the part of the other branch.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the Board proceeded to an election for Committee on Accounts on the part of the Board. Committee, Aldermen Viles and Gibson. John T. Clark, Hugh O'Brien and Nehemiah Gibson were unanimously elected.

JOINT RULES AND ORDERS.

Alderman Thompson, from the joint special committee appointed to prepare rules and orders for the government of the City Council during the present municipal year, submitted a report recommending the reduction of the Committee on Water from eight to five members, to conform to the ordinance establishing the Boston Water Board, and the passage of an order, That the rules and orders of the City Council of 1876, as printed in the Municipal Register of that year, be adopted as the rules and orders of this City Council, with the following amendment: In section one strike out the words "A Committee on Water, to consist of three Aldermen and five members of the Common Council," and insert in place thereof the words, "A Committee on Water, to consist of two Aldermen and three members of the Common Council." Order read twice and passed. Sent down.

RULES AND ORDERS OF THE BOARD.

Alderman Viles, from the special committee appointed to prepare rules and orders for the government of the City Council during the present municipal year, reported that no changes are necessary and they recommend the passage of an order, That the rules and orders of the Board of Aldermen of 1876 be adopted as the rules and orders of this Board. Order read twice and passed.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES.

The Mayor announced the following-named committees:

Standing Committees of the Board.

Armories—Alderman O'Brien, Burnham and Wilder.
Bridges—Aldermen Thompson, Burnham and Wilder.

County Accounts—Aldermen Wilder, Fitzgerald and Gibson.

Faneuil Hall—Aldermen Fitzgerald, Slade and Robinson.

Streets—Aldermen Clark, Thompson and Breck.

Markets—Aldermen Slade, Breck and Viles.

Lamps—Aldermen Thompson, Robinson and Dunbar.

Licenses—Aldermen Fitzgerald, Dunbar and Robinson.

Police—Aldermen Robinson, Breck and Burnham.

Sewers—Aldermen Viles, Gibson and O'Brien.

Paving—Aldermen Robinson, Slade and Fitzgerald.

Steam Engines—Aldermen Gibson, Viles and O'Brien.

Joint Standing Committees.

Assessors' Department—Aldermen Wilder, Breck and Dunbar.

Bathing—Aldermen Viles, Gibson and Slade.

Claims—Aldermen O'Brien, Thompson and Fitzgerald.

Common and Public Grounds—Aldermen Clark, Slade and Robinson.

East Boston Ferries—Aldermen Gibson, Viles and Breck.

Engineer's Department—Aldermen Gibson and Wilder.

Finance—The Mayor and Chairman of the Board.

Fire Department—Aldermen Burnham and Breck.

Fuel—Aldermen Slade and Dunbar.

Harbor—Aldermen Gibson and Robinson.

Health—Aldermen Viles and Burnham.

City Hospital—Aldermen O'Brien and Wilder.

Public Institutions—Aldermen Thompson, Fitzgerald and Robinson.

Legislative Matters—Aldermen Thompson and Fitzgerald.

Mt. Hope and Cedar Grove Cemeteries—Aldermen Dunbar and Robinson.

Ordinances—Aldermen Breck, O'Brien and Burnham.

Overseers of the Poor—Aldermen Gibson and Wilder.

Public Buildings—Aldermen Fitzgerald, Slade and Robinson.

Public Instruction—Aldermen Thompson, Fitzgerald and Slade.

Public Lands—Aldermen O'Brien and Gibson.

Printing—Aldermen O'Brien and Dunbar.

Public Library—Aldermen Burnham, Thompson and Viles.

City Registrar's Department—Aldermen Breck and Burnham.

Salaries—Aldermen Dunbar and Slade.

Streets—Aldermen Clark, Thompson and Breck.

Surveyors' Department—Alderman Wilder and O'Brien.

Survey and Inspection of Buildings—Aldermen Wilder and Gibson.

Treasury Department—Aldermen Gibson and Dunbar.

Water—Aldermen Clark and Thompson.

Nominating Committees Joined.

Overseers of Poor—Aldermen Gibson and Wilder.

Superintendents of Bridges—Aldermen Thompson and Burnham.

Clerk of Committees—Aldermen Breck and Dunbar.

Harbor Master—Aldermen Fitzgerald and Robinson.

Superintendent of Streets—Aldermen Slade and Breck.

Superintendent of Common, etc.—Aldermen O'Brien and Thompson.

Superintendent of Public Buildings—Aldermen Thompson and Burnham.

Superintendent of Public Lands—Aldermen Clark and Gibson.

City Architect—Aldermen Fitzgerald and Dunbar.

Superintendent of Sewers—Aldermen Slade and Robinson.

City Messenger—Aldermen Thompson and Robinson.

City Engineer—Aldermen Gibson and Burnham.

City Surveyor—Aldermen Viles and O'Brien.

City Registrar—Aldermen Fitzgerald and Wilder.

City Solicitor—Aldermen Clark and Fitzgerald.

Water Registrar—Aldermen Gibson and Breck.

Commissioner on Cedar Grove Cemetery—Aldermen Robinson and Wilder.

Directors for Public Institutions—Aldermen O'Brien and Robinson.

Directors of East Boston Ferries—Aldermen Gibson and Viles.

Trustees of City Hospital—Aldermen Viles and Slade.

Trustees of Public Library—Aldermen Thompson and Burnham.

Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery—Aldermen Thompson and Breck.

Commissioner of Sinking Funds—Aldermen Clark and Gibson.

Auditor of Accounts—Aldermen Gihson and Slade.

City Treasurer—Aldermen Burnham and Dunbar.

City Collector—Aldermen Wilder and Viles.

Weighers and Inspectors of Lighters—Aldermen Dunbar and Gibson.

COMMUNICATIONS AND REPORTS FROM CITY OFFICERS.

Fire Commissioners. Report of fires and alarms for December—Alarms, 55; fires, 33; confined to one building, 30; estimated loss on buildings, $39,613, on contents, $51,948.50—$91,561.50; full insurance on buildings, $233,690, on contents, $143,300—$376,990. Sent down.

City Clerk. Communication nominating John T. Priest as Assistant City Clerk. Nomination approved.

Auditor of Accounts. Monthly exhibit for Jan. 1. (City Doc. 4) Total appropriations, $17,525.66; expended, $10,156,848.29; balance unexpended, $7,168,436.39.

Chief of Police. Quarterly report for Dec. 31—Arrests, 7481; males 6105, females 1376; Americans 2999, foreigners 4482. Placed on file.

Paymaster of State Aid. Payments for October, November and December, $19,744; balance on hand, $590; applicants 3911. Sent down.

Superintendent of North Scales. Receipts for quarter ending Dec. 31 last, $591.67; forty per cent. of which, less expenses, $36.93, has been paid to the Collector. Sent down.

Inspectors of Lighters. Report for quarter ending Dec. 31 last. Receipts, $409.15; expenses, $16.40. Sent down.

Superintendents of Bridges. Reports giving the number of vessels which passed through the draws, as follows: Broadway bridge, 5038; Chelsea-street bridge, 2; Congress-street bridge, 14,112; Dover-street bridge, 2346; Federal-street bridge, 6305; Malden bridge, 874; Meridian-street bridge, 1572; Mt. Washington-avenue bridge, 10,115. Severally sent down.

LAMP DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Thompson presented the annual report of the Superintendent of Lamps (City Doc. 3). Accepted and sent down.

The past year has been one of great activity; the number of lamps having been increased by 1265—a number never exceeded during any single year except in 1874, when the increase was 1766; but the larger portion of the increase was then caused by the annexation of Charlestown, West Roxbury and Brighton, from which several sections the number of lamps received was 995, while the additional lamps located were 771.

In addition to the large number of new lamps located during the past year, all the old fluid lamps have been discontinued, new iron posts and brackets located, with new lanterns, in which have been placed the most approved kerosene burner; thereby increasing the light on streets and places where they are located almost to the brilliancy of gas lighting. The number so changed during the year is 611, all of which have been so located as to be in proper position for the location of gas lamps when the mains of the several gas corporations shall be laid down in the streets and places where they are placed.

During the year a large number of old wooden posts and small lamp supplies have been discontinued and iron posts and new and large gas supplies put in, adding much to the general good condition of the department.

There has been a considerable increase of the lamps in the city proper, largely due to the locating of lamps in the alleys and passageways at the northerly section of the city, thereby affording great additional police protection to persons and property in that locality. There is a continuous call for this kind of improvement, as there are many places and alleys, the residences of the poorer class, still unlighted. Many streets in the suburban sections of the city still remain unlighted and will probably call for the attention of the department the coming year.

The lighting of the Common and public squares has received the attention of the department during the past year, and lamps have been placed upon Independence square and Thomas park, at South Boston; Washington square and Orchard park, in Roxbury, and a portion of the parade ground on the Common, giving at once safety to the people necessarily passing, while adding greatly to the pleasure of the persons who frequent those resorts in large numbers during the evenings in the summer season for recreation. It has also been decided to place lights on Winthrop and Sullivan squares, in Charlestown.

Price Paid for Gas for Public Lamps, per 1000 feet—City Proper, $2; South Boston, $2.50; East Boston, $2.50; Roxbury, $2.45; Dorchester, $3; Brookline, $2.90; Brighton, $2.90; West Roxbury, $2.90; Charlestown, $2.40.

During the year the price of gas consumed by the public lamps has, at the suggestion of the committee, been reduced per 1000 feet, as follows: City proper, from $2.08½ to $2; Roxbury, $2.50 to $2.45; West Roxbury, $3 to $2.90; Brookline, $3 to $2.90; Brighton, $3 to $2.90; Charlestown, $2.50 to $2.40.

And the result has been during the present financial year to this time a saving of over $4000 to the City Treasury.

The number of men employed is 119, and there are no supernumerary men. The men (100 in number) who light and clean the gas lamps are paid at the following rates: City proper, 39 men; South Boston, 7 men; East Boston, 5 men; Charlestown, 6 men; 1½c per lamp per night; while in Roxbury, 19 men; Dorchester, 13 men; Brookline, 1 man; Brighton, 4 men; West Roxbury, 6 men; are paid at the rate of $1.67 per day. The lamps are lighted by the use of the torch. The men who light the oil and fluid lamps are nineteen in number, as follows: City proper, 1 man; South Boston, 4 men; East Boston, 2 men; Roxbury, 1 man; Dorchester, 4 men; West Roxbury, 5 men; Brighton, 2 men. The men employed to light the oil lamps are paid at the rate of three cents per lamp per night.

The number of lanterns which have been reported by the Police as broken was..... 181
By the lamplighters..... 7263

Total..... 7444
against a total of 8268, in 1875.

All repairs of the lanterns are done by the department at the workshop on Albany street. At this shop there are five men permanently employed, and two who work at piece-work on the painting of lanterns. In addition to the lanterns repaired as above, there have been 1511 lanterns and 3681 iron posts repainted during the year. The men employed at piece-work have also painted 1577 new gas lanterns during the year.

The following tables will show the number of gas lamps in use in the various sections of the city, on the 15th of December, 1876, as compared with the two previous years:

	1874.	1875.	1876.	Increase.
City proper.....	3814	3980	4043	63
East Boston.....	470	491	561	70
South Boston.....	763	813	878	65
Roxbury.....	1332	1441	1538	97
Dorchester.....	810	881	921	40
Brookline.....	62	69	69	0
West Roxbury....	338	431	456	25
Charlestown.....	562	675	743	68
Brighton.....	269	259	316	57
Totals.....	8420	9040	9525	485

The balance of appropriation on hand from 1875, on the 1st of January, 1876, was..... $165,580.82
There was expended during the remainder of the financial year..... 150,537.35

The balance unexpended and transferred to other appropriations was..... $15,043.47
The appropriation for the financial year ending on the 30th of April next was.... 493,738.00
Amount expended to date..... 347,476.44

Balance unexpended..... $146,261.56
An amount sufficient to meet all anticipated expenditures of the department for the remainder of the financial year. The committee of the department, consisting of Aldermen Stebbins, Buraige and Thompson, have been untiring in their exertions to render perfect the lighting of the city. They have devoted many days to visiting locations for which new lamps were asked, and in inspecting the public property. They have generally supervised the purchase of all materials used in the department, which have been procured in large quantities, with the advantages of the largest discounts for cash. The expenditure of the department during the present financial year only exceeds that of last year at corresponding date by $1557.26, notwithstanding the great increase in the number of the public lamps; and it is confidently expected that the close of the financial year, April 30, 1877, will show a less expenditure than the financial year 1875-6.

NORTHAMPTON-STREET DISTRICT, ETC.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order, That all unsettled claims or other unfinished business relating to the Suffolk, Church and Northampton-street districts be referred to the Committee on Public Lands, who shall be invested with the same powers in relation thereto that the said committee now have in other matters. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

RETRENCHMENT IN EXPENDITURES, ETC.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered the following:

Ordered, That a joint special committee of three on the part of this Board, with as many as the Council may please to join, be appointed to investigate the various departments of the City Government with a view to reporting what reduction in salaries and clerical hire may be made in each department, without detriment to the public service, and also whether any department can be abolished or consolidated with any other department.

Alderman O'Brien—I was not aware that any order of this kind was to be introduced today, and I have prepared one myself, which I think covers a little more ground. I will offer it as a substitute, and ask that both orders go over until next Monday.

Ordered, That a special committee of five on the part of the Board of Aldermen, with such as the Council may join, be appointed to consider and report on the alarming increase of municipal expenditures and municipal debt; and,

First—To devise some means to reduce taxation, and to ascertain if the expenditures of the different departments of the City Government cannot be reduced from ten to twenty-five per cent., without detriment to the public service; and if it is not the duty of the City Council, when incomes have become so much reduced, labor so poorly rewarded, and property of all kinds so much depreciated in value, to instruct all heads of departments to make this reduction.

Second—To request the new School Board to cooperate with the City Council in this movement to reduce expenses and taxation, or show cause why such a reduction cannot be made, as the belief has become very general that we are expending too much money on our schools without a corresponding benefit.

Third—To ascertain if by some different arrangement of the sinking funds the overburdened taxpayers cannot be relieved, and if the credit of the city would suffer if the interest on our actual debt only was raised by taxation every year instead of the interest on our gross debt, a tax deemed oppressive by many citizens.

Fourth—To consider the expediency of instructing our representatives in the Legislature to put a stop, if possible, to the lavish expenditures of money for prisons and insane asylums now believed to have exceeded all reasonable limits in the erection of very expensive buildings, and to watch more closely the expenditure of money by the State, as the city has to pay forty per cent. of the State tax.

These orders appear to be rather important, and I should hope that action on them will not be pressed this afternoon.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I see no difference between the order offered by the Alderman and myself, save and except that it looks a little too much like dictating to the Legislature. They would be very apt to say it is none of your business, and we know our duty. I think that my simple order asking for a special committee to investigate the various departments of the Government, and report to this Board what changes can be made in clerical hire and salaries, and whether any one department can be consolidated with another, will cover all that is absolutely necessary without going out of our way to instruct the Representatives in the Legislature to do that which they ought to know how to do themselves without any advice from us. I think the spirit of the substitute is all right; but my objection to it is, it looks more like an address than an order. Our orders substantially agree with each other, and I should hope, in order that we may get at the bottom facts in the matter, my order may pass as soon as possible. I shall not withdraw my order for that offered by the gentleman.

Alderman O'Brien—Last year the question of salaries was fully discussed by the Board, and salaries are but a mere drop in the bucket. This Board considered this matter of salaries, and the result, if I might say so, was a mere farce. If we are to reduce expenses of the City Government, I am satisfied that we must instruct the heads of departments to reduce expenditures. It is all well enough for a committee of the City Government to call in the heads of departments and ask them how little money they can possibly get along with; but you will find that you will not reduce the expenses of the City Government in this way one iota. I believe that we must instruct our heads of departments to reduce expenditures. I consider the State tax a very serious matter. I have no hesitation in saying that thousands and thousands of dollars have been squandered in prisons and insane asylums; and I think it is the duty of this Board, as representatives of the citizens who have to suffer to the extent of forty per cent., to instruct our Representatives from Boston to see that these expenses are reduced. I believe that it is perfectly legitimate to do so. If we do not take such a measure as that, all other measures of economy will fail. There is another thing, and that is the large increase in our school expenditures. I believe in our public schools, and I wish to give them all the money that is necessary to carry on the system; but I believe that unless we call in the assistance of the School Board to unite in this movement, the present very large expenditure will go on. I have no objection to the gentleman's order; but I believe we ought to be very emphatic about this business. We have been discussing the question of economy for two years, and yet it has never amounted to anything. I believe we ought to confine our expenses to what is actually necessary. But I do not desire to spring a trap on the Board. This is a question that I have no doubt all the Aldermen would like to say something about, and I think that both orders should lie over till the next meeting.

Alderman Robinson—It seems to me, with all due respect to Alderman O'Brien, that the surest way of arriving at the whole thing is by the first order, leaving it to a committee to investigate these charges, so that we shall know what we are acting upon and discussing. I believe fully with Alderman O'Brien that this is too important a matter to be acted upon tonight; but so far as instructing the Legislature, and things of that kind, I do not know how we can instruct them unless we know what we are instructing them about. It is all very well to say that you will call upon the heads of departments and ask them how they can reduce the expenses of their departments; but that is a very hard position to put a head of a department in. He has been here for years and followed the precedents, and has persons in his service whom he believes earn their money. But that is not the question. The mere calling upon the heads of departments, without the committee, would not do. I agree with Alderman O'Brien, but still I think the first order the better.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have no objection to the passage of the substitute save and except that portion in which we instruct the members of the Legislature, or in which we tell them in so many words that they have been extravagant. I much prefer showing them our action first. If this Board acts economically itself, if it calls on the heads of departments first, and not only says they must be economical, but instead of $16,000 to run your department with we will give you $10,000, and you must trim your cloth accordingly, then the heads of departments must be economical. The true way to practise economy is to oblige them to be economical. We have it in our power to do that, without making an address to them. I agree with Alderman O'Brien, that the expenses of all our departments are too large. I believe that the salaries of the heads of departments are too large when you consider the state of affairs and the small amounts paid to those who are beneath them. But it is not necessary to go through any preambles and resolves to do it. It can be done very quietly by reducing the amounts in the appropriation and salary bills, and they cannot help themselves; and that is the end of it. If we begin in that way we can go to the Legislature with a good grace and say, go you and do likewise; but it will come with a bad grace from us, when every department here is run extravagantly, to go to the Legislature and say you have been building extravagant prisons and insane asylums, while at the same time we have been building extravagant schoolhouses. I fancy the Legislature would say, "Mind your own affairs; we know our business."

Alderman O'Brien—I wish to call the attention of the Board to the fact that this is not instructing the Legislature. It is merely asking for a committee to consider the expediency of instructing our representatives in the Legislature from Boston, who certainly ought to look out for the interests of Boston in the expenditure of money. It is not instructing the entire Legislature, but merely calling the attention of the members from Boston to the fact that we believe the expenditures are too great, and that Boston has to pay forty per cent. of the State taxes. A few years ago the constables of the Municipal Court thought they ought to have more pay; and instead of coming here and asking the advice or consent of the City Government, they went up to the Legislature as a delegation, and got their pay raised. Last year I offered an order here to cut down the expenses of Sealers of Weights and Measures. But what did they do? They went to the Legislature and got a law passed that kept up the expenses of that department. I believe it is the duty of the City Council of Boston to instruct their representatives in the Legislature to look more closely after the interests of Boston, which pays forty per cent. of the State taxes.

Alderman Clark—I hope that the orders will lie over. It seems to me that they are not sufficiently understood for this Board to vote upon them intelligently this afternoon. I for one cannot do so. I do not propose to discuss the question at the present time of the reduction of salaries and expenditures in any of the departments. That question is not before the Board. It is simply a question which of those orders shall be referred to a special committee. I hope they will both lie over until the next meeting of the Board.

Alderman Thompson—I hope the matter will be acted upon this afternoon. I think the sooner we commence this work of reform the better it will be for all parties interested. Now both orders tend to the same point, and that is a reduction of the expenses of the city. I like the order offered by Alderman Fitzgerald better than the other. One reason is it proposes a committee of three, whereas Alderman O'Brien proposes a committee of five on the part of this Board. I think a committee of three is better than a committee of five. You get a large committee, and it is very difficult to agree upon anything. Therefore, I prefer the original order, so far as it relates to this Board. Then, in regard to the reduction of school expenses, the salaries of teachers are fixed up to the 1st of September, and we cannot reach them by reduction until the matter comes before the Committee on Public Instruction, who, as the Alderman has suggested, can appropriate so much for salaries and the School Committee will have to meet it by a corresponding reduction on their part. In regard to the other matters, it seems to me that if Alderman Fitzgerald's order is adopted, the committee can recommend to this Board such action as they may deem necessary to carry out what Alderman O'Brien desires. I think that delay is not required. We can act upon it as well this afternoon as hereafter. Therefore I hope we shall act this afternoon upon one of the two orders proposed.

The motion to substitute was lost. The order offered by Alderman Fitzgerald was read a second time.

Alderman O'Brien—I think the committee will find it a difficult matter to proceed with so small a number. On an order of that kind requiring so much labor with a committee of three on the part of the Board, when they are divided up into sub-committees, they will find that they have altogether too much work on their hands. It has been customary on questions of that kind to have five members of the committee on the part of this Board, and a still larger committee on the part of the Council. When you divide this committee up into sub-committees they will find a great deal of work for them to perform. The larger the committee in this case the better I believe they will be. If they are going to inquire into every department, they will want a sub-committee on almost every department. I move an amendment by making the number five on the part of the Board. I think that will be small enough if they intend to perform all the duties required of them.

Alderman Robinson—I would suggest to the Alderman who has just spoken whether the end could not be reached as well by giving this committee authority to appoint sub-committees. It seems to me that the thing would be reached much better and the result arrived at sooner.

Alderman Thompson—It has been my experience that when a matter has been referred to a parish nothing has been accomplished. Now, Alderman O'Brien referred to the action of the committee last year. The same subject was referred to the committee consisting of three on the part of this Board and five on the part of the Council; and certainly we had an intelligent report from them. I think that every member of this Board fully understood the condition of the different departments, and from that report how to act. I don't object to an enlargement of the committees, if a larger number would not be an obstacle to success; but I think that three members will answer for our purpose. Therefore I hope the amendment will not prevail.

Alderman O'Brien—The question last year was merely that of salaries; but now questions of still greater magnitude will be presented to this committee. They will have to make extended inquiries into every department. If they intend to confine themselves merely to salaries, a committee of three on the part of this Board, and five from the Common Council is large enough. But salaries are a mere drop in the bucket. They don't amount to anything. After all their labors last year, the committee merely struck at the policemen, firemen and laboring men. All the high salaried officers in City Hall were scarcely touched; and even if they had been touched, the reduction would not have amounted to anything. I say that salaries are a mere drop in the bucket. If this committee intend to reduce the expenses of the city of Boston, they must strike higher than salaries: they must make the heads of departments economize in matters of more importance than salaries. If the reduction is confined to salaries it will be hardly worth talking about.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I object to the number five, because that will give eight on the part of the Common Council. It is my experience that if committees are large they become unwieldy, and the work cannot be done so well. If a committee is composed of eight it will do the work far better than one of thirteen, which will be the case if five are appointed here. It will be much better for the whole committee to do the work than if they are divided up into sub-committees. I made the committee from this branch three, because the work will be done better and more expeditiously, and each member will have a better knowledge of the committee's work.

The amendment was lost—5 for, 7 against; and the original order offered by Alderman Fitzgerald was passed. Aldermen Fitzgerald, O'Brien and Slade were appointed on said committee. Sent down.

WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED LABORERS.

The following was received:

The Street Commissioners respectfully report upon the order of December 15th, of the City Council of 1876, that they have but one improvement under consideration that might furnish work for unemployed laborers during the present season—that is the completion of Ninth street between Old Harbor and H streets, a distance of some fifteen to sixteen hundred feet, and involving filling to the extent of some 6200 squares. To this time, in contemplating the matter, the commissioners have, despite their favorable view of it, felt unwilling to involve the city in the payment of any considerable sum for the fee of the land required to place the street upon, and in conversation with the owners have not as yet found them willing to contribute it. The earth for construction is to be found in the immediate neighborhood and would probably be for its removal.

NEWTON TALBOT,
Chairman.

Referred to Joint Committee on Streets. Sent down.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Abraham B. Shedd, for leave to occupy a new wooden stable for four horses on Main street, rear 306.

To the Committee on Public Lands. Ella Wyman, to be compensated for loss of right in passageway on Indiana place, wrongfully conveyed to another party.

Maria Davis and E. S. Johnson for abatement of assessment for raising grade of Northampton-street District.

To the Committee on Armories. Company A, First Battalion Infantry, for an allowance for furniture of armory.

To the Committee on Paving. Morse & Remick, to be paid for damages caused by change of grade on Swett street.

To the Joint Committee on Fire Department. Freeman & Vinton, that receptacles for coal or wood ashes be required to be made of metal or brick.

To the Committee on Police. H. D. Rice, for leave to erect a sentry box on Tremont street, near Park-street Church.

STREET AND LAND DAMAGES.

Alderman Clark offered orders to pay for land taken and damages occasioned in laying out and widening streets, as follows:

Boylston National Bank, $3671.50, laying out of Swett street.

Eliza A. Upham, $800, laying out of Mt. Everett street.

Daniel Davies and J. D. and G. T. W. Braman, $9460.44, widening of Beacon street.

Severally read once.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS TO BE RESUMED.

Alderman Thompson offered an order, That the several standing committees of this Board resume the unfinished business of the last year which is appropriate to said committees. Read twice and passed.

AUTHORITY TO LICENSE MINORS.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order, That the Board of Aldermen be and they are hereby authorized, in accordance with section 14, chapter 50, of the General Statutes, to make rules and regulations to restrain sales by minors; or to grant licenses for minors to make such sales, on such terms and conditions as they shall prescribe. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

RECOUNTS OF VOTES FOR WARD OFFICERS.

Alderman Viles offered an order, That the petitions for the recount of ballots cast for ward officers in Wards 6 and 15, which petitions were referred to this Board of Aldermen, be referred to Aldermen _____ with directions to recount said ballots and report to this Board. Read twice and passed, and Aldermen O'Brien, Burnham and Viles were appointed said committee.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Clark.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
JANUARY 11, 1877.

Regular meeting at half-past seven o'clock, Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Notice of the qualification of Nehemiah Gibson as an Alderman; Mayor's message appointing George F. Babbitt as Mayor's clerk; annual reports of Superintendents of Lamps, North Scales and Bridges; Auditor's monthly exhibit, Jan. 4 (City Doc. No. 4); quarterly reports of Weighers of Lighters and Paymaster of State Aid; report of fires and alarras for December. Severally placed on file.

Reference to Committee on Streets of a report from Street Commissioners that they, have but one street improvement (Ninth street between Old Harbor and H streets) which might furnish work to unemployed persons. Concurred.

Order of reference to Committee on Public Lands of all unsettled claims or other unfinished business relating to Church, Suffolk, or Northampton-street districts, as therein set forth. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order for Board of Aldermen to make rules and regulations to restrain sales by minors, or to grant licenses to make sales. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Report and order to adopt the Joint Rules of 1876, with an amendment to section one, to make the Committee on Water consist of two Aldermen and three members of the Common Council. Order read twice and passed in concurrence.

INVESTIGATION OF THE DEPARTMENTS.

An order came down for a joint special committee to investigate and report what reduction can be made in salaries and clerk hire, and whether any departments can be abolished or consolidated.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 moved that the order be referred to the Joint Committee on Salaries.

Declared lost. Mr. Pierce of Ward 18 doubted the vote. At the request of Mr. Clarke of Ward 22, the President read the order for information.

Mr. Clarke—A portion of that order has been under consideration today by the Standing Committee on Salaries, who met very promptly and commenced considering the matter of a reduction of salaries and employes in the different departments. They have commenced that duty, and it seems to me that to employ another committee to do the same work and go over the same ground that they do, before they make their report, is rather a farce upon the Committee on Salaries, and taking work out of their hands that belongs to them and giving it to a special committee. I have no feeling in the matter, but I hardly know what the Salary Committee will have to do if this matter is referred to a special committee. I supposed that the President appointed men on the Salary Committee to do that work, and I don't see how it can be any better done by referring it to a special committee. If this matter is referred to the Committee on Salaries they can entertain the whole subject, and make a report wholly or in part, and go into an investigation of the whole subject within a reasonable time. Therefore I hope it will be referred to the Salary Committee.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—This is a general order giving the special committee authority to look into the working of the different departments throughout the City Government. The Committee on Salaries only have power to report to the City Council the salaries of the heads of departments. This order also looks to abolishing some of the departments. There can be no harm in appointing the special committee, who can report to the City Council, and if the City Council is not satisfied with the report they need not accept it.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—While I do not oppose the order, my experience of the past year shows me that these special committees do not amount to a great deal. We had one appointed last year and have had no report since. I think the City Government is very much like a train of steam cars. It starts off, making a great deal of noise, but after the train goes you don't hear it. My impression is that this committee will be about the same. I would like to see any joint committee that can give the time necessary to look into so large a matter as this of all the departments in the City Government and seeing whether less clerks are needed in one place than are employed, and whether departments can be consolidated. It will take a year's time. I do not rise to oppose the order, for if anything can be done let it be done; yet I do not see how it can be. That there is great chance for work in this sphere there is no doubt; but the suggestion I would offer is that the committee in every department should take the matter into their own hands—the Committee on Public Lands to see if anything can be done in that department, and the Committee on Public Buildings the same. It seems to me we could get at the bottom of this matter in that way better than in any other. At the last session a bill was brought in for a reduction of salaries, but some gentlemen who stood by the bill at first, opposed it finally because some of their friends in the departments were going to be cut down. That is going to be the case now, I suppose; we all have our friends, I suppose; and perhaps I should not want to be cutting down some and letting others go because I know more about some than I do about others. So I think there will be great difficulty in getting at anything in this matter. I think the best way to get at it is to let each committee take its own department and go through it. In that way we can accomplish something, but in this way we shall do nothing.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—This matter of salaries seems to be something that a great deal is said about. I don't profess to be competent to judge about what is right, and I presume that many others are in the same position. But this order has come to us, and what are we going to do with it? The question of salaries is to be looked after. My friend [Mr. Spenceley] says there is great difficulty. We are here to grasp difficulties. We never can know what a committee will do, and never shall, until it is appointed. I want to know. Let them go to each department and report on it. The head of a department carries out the work of his branch of the City Government, and this committee proposes to go through them all. I hope we shall put men on the committee who will investigate this matter, and report how many men are employed in each department, and how many hours they work. I am in favor of the committee being appointed. Let them do this work, and let the Salary Committee do their work. What we want is good work from all the committees.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—It is rather early in the year to begin relieving joint standing committees of their duties. I have two or three reasons for making this motion, which I thought might be worth presenting, without wishing to urge them very strongly. In the first place the order appears to be intended to forestall the action of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries, who were appointed for the purpose of looking after salaries. If that committee desire any assistance in their labors they might report back this order with a recommendation that it be passed. It seems to me that in courtesy to that committee it should be referred to them to indicate whether they wish any assistance in the matter, and if so, how. The order comes down after considerable debate in the Board of Aldermen, and the direction which that debate took in the other branch is sufficient, at least, to excite some thought upon the subject, and to induce any one, in voting upon the order, to consider it rather carefully; and I thought it should lie over for a week for consideration, or be referred to the Salary Committee, as my motion contemplated, for their consideration and recommendation as to its passage or not.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—There are departments on which there are no standing committees of the City Council or the Board of Aldermen. I will cite one—the License Commissioners. They have no committee, even of the Board of Aldermen, on that department; and today it is a fact that they are keeping some ten or twelve men at a salary of $1100, with nothing to do; all that work can be done by the police. This is a sweeping order, giving the committee authority to look into the different departments. There can be no harm in having them appointed, and in having them report to the City Council.

Mr. Clarke—It seems to me that if this is referred to the Committee on Salaries it gives them the very power the order proposes to give the special committee in this whole matter. I will state for the benefit of the Council that when the Salary Committee met today they had under consideration the reports on salaries of last year, and the report of the special committee; and this involves a large part of the work which gentlemen propose to give to this special committee. We all know that after the Salary Committee made their report last year, a special committee was appointed, and after the vacation there were many inquiries as to what they were about. It seemed to be a political matter rather than an investigation. They made no report until the last day of the year, and that report was referred to this Council. That is the result of the special committee of last year. Are we going to make this appointment with a great array and noise about what we are going to do, and are we going to have it reported on the last day of the year and have it referred to the next City Council? It seems to me that is what this special committee will result in.

The motion to refer was lost.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move to amend the order by striking out the words "what reduction in salaries and clerical hire in each department may be made without detriment to the public service; and also."

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I hope that amendment will not prevail. If that is stricken out the order amounts to nothing. The order is to ascertain what salaries can be reduced, and to report back to the City Council.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope the amendment will not prevail. It seems to me that if any good can be obtained from this, that kills the whole thing. What we want to know is whether this clerical line can be reduced, and these departments abolished or consolidated. The Committee on Salaries, as I understand, will have nothing to do with this. It seems to me they can do the whole of it better than a part. The only question in my mind is whether any committee can give the time to do this. I believe it ought to be done, but I don't see how any joint committee can go into it thoroughly. You must take the heads of departments; you cannot go into their offices and get a practical knowledge whether they need one man or a dozen. It may be that certain departments can be abolished, and I should be glad to see the one abolished that the gentleman [Mr. Flynn] has referred to, for I think it has been a nuisance to the city of Boston. Therefore we may gain something by appointing the committee as proposed, and let them do the best they can.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I am in favor of appointing this joint special committee, but it seems to me we can amend the order so as to meet the wishes of the Council and still leave the question of salaries to be looked into by the standing committee. I move to amend by striking out the words "salaries and."

Mr. Pratt—I withdraw my amendment.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—It seems to me we might as well meet this question squarely on its merits. If we want a joint special committee to investigate this matter we might as well give them power to do it thoroughly; and if we don't want the committee we might as well vote against it. We might as well pass the original order as it came from the other branch, or drop the matter altogether. It seems to me it is hardly worth while for the Committee on Salaries, to report what salaries should be paid, if the joint special committee abolish a great many of the offices. It seems to me the two committees might get at loggerheads, and matters would get mixed up, unless the special committee has power to look at salaries also.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I am in favor of the order as it came from the Board of Aldermen, except the part relating to salaries. It seems to me it is not necessary to appoint a joint special committee to do the work just assigned to a joint standing committee who have entered upon their work. It seems to me that in investigating the different departments this joint special committee will do a good work. And the information they will obtain will be very valuable to us. I hope the committee will be appointed and it will not trespass upon the regular committee. If any department is abolished, as the gentleman says, the salary will not be required, and the money will not be spent.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I would like to ask the gentleman on my left, [Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19,] what he expects the Salary Committee are to do. If the two committees are to work for the same thing, what is the need of the Salary Committee doing anything? It is well known that the Salary Committee are expected to make a report in time for the Auditor and the committees to make up their estimates; but it seems to me that at the next meeting of the Salary Committee they will find that they have nothing to do, if there is a new committee appointed to do their work. If the Council choose to take that course, I am satisfied. It is a very disagreeable position for any gentleman to be on the Salary Committee. Certainly he does not make any friends by having such an appointment.

Mr. Spenceley—If I may be allowed to answer the question, I think it will be the duty of the Salary Committee to bring in an order here on which the City Council will spend fifteen or twenty hours in debating, and then have it passed by.

The amendment of Mr. Sampson was lost. The order was read a second time and passed in concurrence. The President joined Messrs. Blanchard of Ward 21, Reed of Ward 17, Webster of Ward 3, Fagan of Ward 19 and Vose of Ward 24 to the committee.

SPREAD OF SCARLET FEVER.

A report was received from the Board of Health on the order in relation to preventing the spread of scarlet fever by contagion, that said Board has for a long time past been considering what, if anything, could be done to prevent the scarlet fever. In its opinion the powers already given Boards of Health in this particular are ample and sufficient, and no further legislation is necessary except in this connection it seems proper to suggest that the word "physician," as it occurs in the fourth and forty-eighth sections of chapter 21, of the General Statutes, should be clearly defined; and they respectfully ask that legislation to this end be secured as soon as practicable.

Referred to Joint Committee on Health. Sent up.

RECOUNT IN WARD 8.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18 submitted a report from the Committee on Elections on petition of James Kelley that they have recounted all the votes cast for Common Council in Ward 8, with the following result:

Edward O'Donnell.....	707	James Wight.....	242
Richard Roach.....	687	O. S. Currier.....	131
Peter Cannon.....	644	John Q. A. Gilgrain....	3
George E. Bell.....	561	Daniel Ruby.....	3
Neil Henry.....	465	John Smith.....	3
James Doherty.....	445

E. Roach, James Wright, Lucius Slade, F. O. Hare, E. Kelley, Eugene Nagles, John W. Nagles, Frank H. Shepherd, Albert O. Crame, Robert M. Waitt and Peter Carman, one each. From which it appears that the members now occupying seats at this Board are entitled to the same. Accepted.

RULES AND ORDERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 submitted a report from the special committee appointed to prepare rules and orders of the Common Council, recommending the passage of an order, That the rules and orders of the Common Council of 1876, as printed in the municipal register for that year, be adopted as the rules and orders for the government of this Board. Read twice and passed.

COMMITTEES ORGANIZED.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 reported that the Finance Committee had organized by the choice of Eugene H. Sampson as chairman on the part of this branch, and Alfred T. Turner secretary.

Mr. Wolcott of Ward 11 reported that the Committee on Accounts had organized by the choice of J. Augustus Felt as chairman on the part of this branch.

NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS.

Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery. Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 submitted a report nominating Alderman Richard W. Robinson, and Councilmen Robert Vose, Jr., and Joaquin K. Souther. On motion of Mr. Flynn, the rule was suspended and a ballot ordered. Committee—Messrs. Fraser of Ward 6, Webster of Ward 3 and Smardon of Ward 10.

Whole number of votes.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Alderman Richard W. Robinson.....	65
Councilman Robert Vose, Jr.....	63
“ Joaquin K. Souther.....	61
“ C. J. Spenceley.....	1
“ Richard Pope.....	1

And four ballots for ineligible persons.

Messrs. Robinson, Vose and Souther were declared elected on the part of the Council. Sent up.

Trustees of the City Hospital. Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 submitted a report nominating Alderman Hugh O'Brien and Councilman John Kelley of Ward 3 and James H. Upham.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24 moved that the rule be suspended and that the Council proceed to an election.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I think it has been the custom for years past to have these nominations lie over for a week, and I don't see any reason why that custom or rule should be changed at the present time. Unless something extraordinary requires us to make these elections immediately, we ought not, so early in the season, commence suspending the rules; particularly this year, when a large number of members are new members, who have hardly got acquainted with the different candidates. Some members have suggested to me that they would like to have this matter go over, so that they may make some investigation, and see whether these nominations are agreeable to them. We well know that these appointments are to last for the whole year, and that some of them are very important indeed for the interest of the city. I will state in regard to one report which will come in here tonight, and I presume that the usual motion to suspend the rule will be made, and that is the nomination for Trustees of the Public Library, which is a very important election, I accidentally came into possession of a copy of the Boston Transcript of this evening and found quite a long article written by Mr. Cheney of the Globe Theatre, which I do not propose to read. The letter that accompanies it is short, if the Council will permit, I will read it.

The President—Does it refer to the question of suspending the rules?

Mr. Clarke—Yes, sir. It refers to suspending the rule upon a nomination to be made this evening.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I rise to a point of order. The communication which the gentleman proposes to read does not touch the matter under debate; and I will also suggest that the member referred to [Mr. Howes] is not present, and if the gentleman wishes to read that communication he should postpone it until that gentleman is present.

Mr. Clarke—He is one of the candidates nominated. If the nomination is laid over I will not read it, but if the suspension of the rule is forced I wish to read it. I don't desire to read it at present.

The rule was suspended and a ballot ordered. Committee—Messrs. Spenceley of Ward 19, Reed of Ward 17, McClusky of Ward 13.

Whole number of votes.....	68
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Alderman Hugh O'Brien.....	68
Councilman John Kelley of Ward 6.....	41
“ James H. Upham.....	53
“ Joseph Morrill, Jr.....	26
“ Charles H. Reed.....	5
“ William Blanchard.....	1

And two ballots for ineligible persons.

Messrs. O'Brien, Kelley of Ward 3 and Upham were declared elected on the part of the Council.

Directors for Public Institutions. Report submitted by Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 nominating Alderman Clinton Viles and Councilmen Eugene H. Sampson and James J. Flynn. Report accepted and Mr. Smardon moved a suspension of the rule, that an election might take place tonight.

Mr. Barry of Ward 22—I am willing to go as far as any one present to do anything to expedite the progress of business; but I think we are going a little too far in suspending the rule in this case. This is the first of the year. I am a stranger to most of the candidates nominated here tonight. The best way for us is to take these ballots home and find out something about these gentlemen, and when we come here next Thursday we will have found out all about the gentlemen who are seeking for those nominations. Then we will be competent to do what we were sent here for—select the right men for the right places. I hope there will be no suspension of the rule.

The rule was suspended and an election ordered. Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Barry of Ward 22, Nugent of Ward 19.

Whole number of votes.....	69
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Alderman Clinton Viles had.....	69
Councilman Eugene H. Sampson.....	44
“ Nathan S. Wilbur.....	29
“ James J. Flynn.....	47
“ Richard Pope.....	9
“ Moses W. Richardson.....	2

And D. A. Flynn and Otis H. Pierce one each.

Messrs. Viles, Sampson and Flynn of Ward 13, were declared elected on the part of the Common Council. Sent up.

Directors of East Boston Ferries. Mr. Webster of Ward 1 submitted a report nominating Alderman Charles H. B. Breck and Councilmen Edward Pearl and John A. Duggan as Directors of East Boston Ferries.

Mr. McDonald of Ward 12 moved a suspension of the rule, in order to proceed to an election.

Mr. Hibbard of Ward 17—It seems to me we have gone far enough in this matter. These men are both strangers to me, and I should like to have this matter lie over a week that I may learn something about them.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I want to express the same feeling. I feel that we ought not to vote simply on the recommendation of the committee without personally knowing something about the candidates. I do not even know these gentlemen by sight and should like to inquire something about them.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—The section I represent is largely interested in the ferries, and I think I speak the wish of my colleagues when I ask that this matter lie over one week.

Mr. McDonald—I hope, sir, that as we have gone so far, we shall finish up our work tonight. Let us show that we are a progressive body. Let us put our work ahead and not let this matter drag along. I think we should finish our work here tonight.

The motion to suspend the rule was lost, and the election went over under the rule.

Trustees of Public Library. Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 submitted a report nominating Alderman John T. Clark and Councilmen Osborue Howes, Jr., and Richard Pope for Trustees of the Public Library. Report accepted, and the election went over, under the rule.

BADGES.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to appoint the members of the Common Council special police officers without pay, and that Messrs. ——— be a committee to procure badges for the same; the expense to be charged to the Contingent Fund of the Common Council.

The order was passed to a second reading.

Mr. McGaragle—That is a very important matter. I move to suspend the rule, that it may take its second reading at this time.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I think the new members here would like a little information as to the duties of special police, what kind of badges we are to have, and what they will cost. I wish to vote intelligently, and I would like to know how to vote on this matter.

Mr. McGaragle—In offering the order I am about as unfortunate as the gentleman himself. I can't tell him what the duties will be; but I can tell him that the cost of the badges has been, in years past, from five to eighteen dollars. I put no price in the order, leaving that to the discretion of the Council. Last year, I understand, the badges cost about five dollars, and that they were very handsome. I think that will cover the cost this year.

The motion to suspend the rule was lost—36 for, 24 against—two-thirds being necessary.

SOLDIER'S MONUMENT.

On motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 15, the order for a joint special committee to have charge of the erection of the Soldiers' Monument on Boston Common, was taken from the table and passed. Messrs. Hiscock of Ward 21, Flynn of Ward 13 and Nugent of Ward 19 were appointed on said committee. Sent up.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE STREET COMMISSION.

The report of the proceedings of the Street Commission for 1876 (City Doc. 5) was received. Sent up. Following is an abstract of the report:

The widening of South street, at the corner of Summer street, $42,054; extension of Fairfield street from Commonwealth avenue to Boylston street, $30,300; widening Portland street, $15,000; widening Beacon street, at junction with Brighton avenue, $9461.40; widening State street, $8000; laying out Rockland avenue, at Roxbury, $1750; widening School street at West Roxbury, $1237.25; widening Elm street, at the corner of Washington street, $1,198.50; widening Fort avenue at Roxbury, $1100; laying out Mt. Everett street at Dorchester, $800; and slight widenings of Washington street at Roxbury, Centre street at West Roxbury, East Fourth and Emerson streets at South Boston, and Walkhill street at West Roxbury; estimated to cost together $1022. The total estimated expense of their operations during the year the commissioners find to be $111,923.15. Certain improvements were effected where the land required was in possession of the city, or was obtained by offsetting it with previous claims the city had upon the owners, and to which in consequence no estimates were put.

There has been but one discontinuance, a small portion from Valentine street at Roxbury.

The following betterments were assessed within the year:

For the extension of Auburn to Leverett street, in 1874.....	$2,560.00
For the widening of Pleasant street at Charlestown, in 1874.....	3,028.00
For the laying out and widening of Charles street, at Dorchester, in 1874.....	2,378.84
For the widening of Beach street, in 1874.	28,150.00
For the widening and extension of Swett street to South Boston, in 1874.....	115,552.00
For the widening of Shawmut avenue, from Lenox to Roxbury street, in 1874..	9,223.00
	$160,891.84

Nine cases of appeals from the assessors' taxation of real estate have been heard and decided by the board during the year.

PUBLIC PARKS.

The second annual report of the Park Commissioners (City Doc. 10) was received. Sent up.

The report summarizes the action of the commissioners and the City Council on the subject of parks during the past year. The expenditures were as follows:

Expenditures from Jan 1, 1876, to April 30, 1876, as per second report.....	$3,421.57
Expenditures from April 30, 1876, to Jan. 1, 1877 .....	2,507.84

Total expenditures for the year..... $5,929.41

The appropriations for the financial year 1876-7, ending on the 30th day of April next, was.....	$5,000.00
Amount expended to Jan. 1, 1877, being nine months of the financial year. ....	2,507.84

Unexpended balance Jan. 1, 1877... .. $2,492.16

Part of the above amount was expended as follows: George F. Clarke, clerk, $1350; draughtsmen, $361.37; printing, $325.35; clerk hire in bonding lands, $308; district telegraph messengers, distributing plans, $45.77.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Clarke of Ward 22.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
JANUARY 16, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENT.

Public Weigher—Harvey Wheeler. Confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Markets. Daniel Cummings & Co. et al., occupants of stores on North and South Market streets, and E. Holden & Son, et al., occupants of Faneuil Hall Market, in favor of the reappointment of Charles B. Rice as superintendent of said market.

To the Committee on Police (Presented by Alderman Burnham and referred with full power). Benjamin James et al., that "coasting" may be allowed on Sixth street, between G and I streets, and that it may not be prevented by police officers of the city of Boston.

To the Committee on Licenses. John Glancy, for license as an auctioneer; N. W. Day, for leave to extend his omnibus line so as to reach State street; Robinson & Emerton, for leave to run two passenger wagons from Boston & Maine depot through Sudbury, Court and State and Broad streets to Rowe's wharf.

To the Committee on Paving. Henry Gasset et al., for a continuation of a plank walk on Centre street, near Washington street, Ward 24. John English, to be paid for grade damages at 87 Porter street.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Ann Morris, for damages by reason of injury sustained on defective sidewalk on Court street, Charlestown; James B. Dow, to be compensated for damages to his property by entry of sewage into Roxbury Canal.

To the Committee on Armories. Dexter H. Follitt, for an allowance for furniture for headquarters of First Battalion of Cavalry.

To the Committee on Public Lands. Thomas W. Carter, for reduction of rent of wharf on Albany street; heirs of Charles Davis, deceased, for abatement of assessment of Northampton-street district.

To the Committee on Sewers. David Scott et al., for a sewer in Eagle street, east of Putnam street.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: Thomas Curley, new wooden, one horse, Greenwich street, Ward 24; George T. McLauthlin, new wooden, two cows, Park street, Ward 22.

HORSE-RAILROAD PETITIONS.

Petitions were received from the Metropolitan Railroad for a revocation of that part of the thirty-sixth location, granted June 25, 1874, extending from the intersection of the Merrimac-street switch with the tracks of said road in New Washington street and across Haymarket square to the tracks of the Middlesex Railroad Company near the Boston & Maine Railroad depot, being that portion of said location which the Middlesex Railroad Company constructed tracks upon; and for leave to construct a single track in Lexington and Prescott streets, with suitable curves and turnouts, to connect with the tracks already laid in Meridian and Chelsea streets; also for leave to construct a single track in Liverpool street, to connect with suitable curves, the track already laid in Meridian and Sumner streets. Severally referred to the Committee on Paving.

A petition was received from the South Boston Railroad Company for leave to run their cars to Causeway street. Referred to Committee on Paving.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order to pay Eliza A. Upham $800, for land taken on Mt. Everett street; order to pay Daniel Davies et al. $9461.40, for land taken on Beacon street; order to pay the Boylston National Bank $3671.50, for land taken on Swett street. Severally passed.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Report of the Public Park Commissioners (City Doc. No. 10), and report of the Board of Street Commissioners (City Doc. No. 5). Placed on file.

Order for appointment of a committee (Messrs. Hiscock, Flynn of Ward 13 and Nugent to be joined) to take charge of the subject of the army and navy monument. Passed in concurrence, and Aldermen Thompson and Wilder were appointed on said committee.

A report of the Board of Health suggesting certain amendments in the 4th and 48th sections of chapter 21 of the General Statutes, by which the term "physician" should be more clearly defined, came up referred to the Committee on Health. Concurred.

ELECTIONS.

Directors for Public Institutions. A report came up nominating, with certificate of election of Alderman Clinton Viles and Councilmen Eugene H. Sampson and James J. Flynn, as Directors for Public Institutions. The report was accepted and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Robinson and Dunbar.

Whole number of votes.....	11
Necessary to a choice.....	6
Alderman Clinton Viles.....	10
Councilman Eugene H. Sampson.....	11
" James J. Flynn.....	9
" Nathan S. Wilbur.....	2

And Messrs. Viles, Sampson and Flynn were declared elected in concurrence.

Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery. A report came up nominating, with certificate of election of Alderman Richard W. Robinson and Councilmen Vose and Souther as Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery. The report was accepted and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Robinson and Dunbar.

Whole number of votes.....	11
Necessary for a choice.....	6
Alderman Richard W. Robinson.....	10
Councilman Robert Vose, Jr.....	11
" Joaquin K. Souther.....	11

And Messrs. Robinson, Vose and Souther were declared elected in concurrence.

Trustees of the City Hospital. A report came up nominating, and certificate of election of Alderman O'Brien and Councilmen Kelley of Ward 3 and Upham as Trustees of City Hospital. The report was accepted and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Robinson and Dunbar.

Whole number of votes.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Alderman Hugh O'Brien.....	11
Councilman John Kelley of Ward 3.....	10
" James H. Upham.....	11
" Joseph Morrill, Jr.....	3

And Messrs. O'Brien, Kelley of Ward 3 and Upham were declared elected in concurrence.

COMMUNICATIONS AND REPORTS FROM CITY OFFICERS.

Notice of Vacancy in School Committee. Notice was received from the School Committee of a vacancy in that body caused by the resignation of John E. Fitzgerald, and proposing a convention in the committee's chamber on Monday, Jan. 23, 1877, at 7½ o'clock P. M. Concurred.

Superintendent of Sewers. Schedules of cost of constructing sewers in Dorchester Brook valley, $5749.67, and Sargent street, $45,255. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

School Committee. Requests for better accommodations for primary schools on Washington street and Codman park; and for a new site and building for the Allston School. Referred to Joint Committee on Public Instruction. Sent down.

Annual Reports of Superintendents of Bridges. Warren Bridge, 5170 vessels; Charles River Bridge, 7282 vessels; Chelsea Bridge, 1235 vessels. Severally sent down.

Directors for Public Institutions. Communication requesting a transfer of $500 from the appropriation for House of Correction to fit up and maintain the home for female paupers at the Austin Farm; also for introducing water, erecting fire-alarm telegraph, etc. Referred to Joint Committee on Public Institutions. Sent down.

BOND APPROVED.

The bond of Henry F. Spach, constable, being presented duly certified, was approved by the Board.

ANNUAL REPORT OF CHIEF OF POLICE.

Alderman Robinson presented the annual report of the Chief of Police (City Doc. 7). Accepted. Sent down.

Maximum for Jan. 1, 1876.....	700
Vacancies .....	10

In the service.....	690
Appointments during the year.....	36

Died during the year.....	9
Resigned.....	10
Discharged.....	7
	26
In the service Dec. 31, 1876.....	700
Vacancies.....	—
Maximum force.....	700

Saddle horses in use..... 32

Expenditures during 1876, $838,140.18, of which $776,784.66 was for pay of officers, $12,589.57 for fuel and gas, $3544.99 for police steamer; care 33 horses, $11,462.39; pursuit and detection of criminals, $2044.48.

The appropriation made by the City Council for the financial year from May 1, 1876, to April 30, 1877, was..... $850,000.00

The amount expended for 9 months, to Dec. 31, 1876, was..... 629,445.41

Leaving a balance in the treasury of..... $220,554.59 which will undoubtedly be ample for the expenses of the department for the remainder of the financial year.

There has been earned and collected by the department during the year the sum of $25,699.94.

The work done during the year is as follows:

Arrests.....	30,041	Foreigners.....	18,273
Males.....	24,222	Non-residents.....	6,118
Females.....	5,819	Minors.....	5,417
Americans.....	11,768	Commitments.....	21,317

Principal Items of Crime—Assault and battery, 2253; felonious assault, 234; common drunkards, 294; disorderly, 6503; drunkenness, 8564; simple larceny, 1715; larceny felonious, 535; nightwalking, 322; suspicious persons, 1345; violation of license law, 2176; violation of Sunday law, 291; witness, 299.

Nativity of Prisoners—United States, 11,690; British Provinces, 1047; Canada, 103; Ireland, 14,578; England, 1068; France, 117; Germany, 739; Italy 94; Portugal, 14; Sweden, 129; Scotland, 312.

Lodgers—Number, 63,726; males, 57,430; females, 6296; Americans, 22,044; foreigners, 41,682; non-residents, 51,829; minors, 5228. Nativity of Lodgers—United States, 22,099; British Provinces, 3022; Canada, 456; Ireland, 29,589; England, 4916; France, 424; Germany, 718; Italy, 92; Portugal, 27; Sweden, 228; Scotland, 828.

Miscellaneous Business. Accidents reported, 1025; boats challenged, 145; buildings found open and secured, 2955; cases investigated, 9925; dangerous buildings reported, 46; dangerous chimneys reported, 33; dead bodies found, 120; defective cesspools reported, 107; defective drains and vaults reported, 737; defective fire alarms and clocks reported, 116; defective gas pipes reported, 95; defective hydrants reported, 27; defective lamps reported, 3949; defective streets and sidewalks reported, 7277; defective water pipes reported, 340; disturbances suppressed, 15,745; extra duties done by officers, 5331; fire alarms given, 290; fires extinguished without alarm, 277; intoxicated persons assisted home, 681; lost children restored, 1480; rescued from drowning, 24; sick and injured persons assisted, 556; stray teams put up, 288; street obstructions removed, 6682; vessels boarded, 180; water running to waste reported, 277.

Amount of property taken from prisoners and lodgers and restored to them, $59,980.88; amount of property reported stolen in the city, $57,063.00; amount of property recovered, which was stolen in and out of the city, $57,994.80; amount of fines imposed by the courts, $153,801.00; amount of imprisonment by the same, 2697 years eleven months; number of days' attendance in court by officers, 21,482; amount of witness fees earned by them, $25,355.62; amount collected for dog licenses issued, $15,818.00.

Liquor Prosecutions during the Year 1876.

Warrants obtained for keeping and selling without license.....	2,199
Warrants of search executed and seizures made.....	1,355
Warrants of search executed and no liquors found.....	474
Total number of prosecutions.....	4,028

Total number of gallons seized.....	32,654
-------------------------------------	--------

Lots of seized liquors forfeited.....	1,222
Lots of seized liquors returned to owners.....	29
Lots of seized liquors not disposed of....	104
	1,355
Gallons of seized liquors forfeited.....	26,888
Gallons of seized liquors returned to owners.....	1,088
Gallons of seized liquors not disposed of.....	4,678
	32,654

Places where liquors were sold prior to Jan. 1, 1876.....	2,411
Places now licensed, which were opened prior to Jan. 1, 1876.....	924
Places now licensed, opened since Jan. 1, 1876.....	179
Places supposed to be selling without license.....	868
	1,971

Number of places reduced during year.....	440
Number of new places opened and licensed during year.....	179
Total number of places selling reduced during year.....	440

Number of places where selling has been abandoned..... 619

Arrests for Drunkenness—The following table shows the number of commitments for drunkenness in each month for the last three years:

Month.	1874.	1875.	1876.
January.....	865	838	714
February.....	847	717	558
March.....	894	839	731
April.....	865	774	747
May.....	876	997	684
June.....	957	851	746
July.....	923	821	638
August.....	1,192	1,043	724
September.....	1,027	813	753
October.....	1,156	905	882
November.....	1,220	851	712
December.....	1,058	876	675

From a careful analysis of the records of the central office relative to offences against property, it appears that the amount of property involved, compared with the number of offences committed during the last few years, has been much smaller than in former years; while the number of arrests made, compared with the number of offences committed, is much larger. This has been so especially during the past year, the proportion of arrests made being more than four-fifths of the offences reported, although, as in all years, it has sometimes happened that more than one person has been arrested for participating in the same offence. During the year opportunities for committing offences against property have been more than usually inviting. The very large number of houses left vacant during the summer, with the frequent recurrence of day and evening processions, and the excitement attending the fall elections, have presented unusual facilities for the work of the thief; yet the number of house robberies and street larcenies in the city has been much smaller than usual. During the two great street parades of the 10th and 11th of October, but two street larcenies were reported for both days, and on the occasion of the great torchlight procession, on the night of the 26th of October, when both sides of the streets, over a route of six miles, were lined with a dense crowd of people; while thousands of dwellings were left for the time unprotected, offering an opportunity for disturbance and plunder without a parallel in this city, not a single offence against person or property was reported to have been committed. During the year no capital offence has been committed in which implicated parties have not been arrested and held before the courts; no bank has been broken and robbed; no general disturbance has occurred, and although a large number of arrests has been made for offences committed against property, yet a less amount of property has been reported stolen in the city than for the last sixteen years.

ANNUAL REPORT OF CITY SURVEYOR.

Alderman Wilder presented the annual report of the City Surveyor (City Doc. 9). Accepted. Sent down.

The amount expended during the year has been—

Expenses of city proper, South and East Boston and Charlestown.....	$23,318.17
Expenses of the Roxbury branch office.....	5,838.13
Expenses of the Dorchester branch office....	6,698.81
Expenses of the West Roxbury branch office.....	7,123.03
Expenses of the Brighton branch office....	2,193.42

Total expenditure from appropriation for Surveying for 1876.....$45,171.56

The report includes a schedule of plans made during the year and the plans on file in the office.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:
Order establishing rules and regulations for licensing minors for the current year (the same as last year). Read twice and passed.

Wagon Licenses Granted—French & Co., Old Colony freight station; J. A. Caldwell, 199 Devonshire street; S. B. Stackpole, 175 South Market street.

Pawnbroker's License Refused—William Jackson, 268 Friend street.

Dealers in Second-hand Articles Licensed—Elias Levi, 121 East Dover street; William Jackson, 268 Friend street.

Amusement Licenses Granted—D. S. Thomas, to exhibit a feat of pedestrianism at Music Hall, Jan. 19-20; Massachusetts Poultry Association, for annual exhibition.

Junk Collector License—John Shepard, 478 Parker street.

Auctioneer's License Renewed—John R. Wolston, Chelsea street, Charlestown.

Severally accepted.

CARE OF PUBLIC AND COUNTY BUILDINGS.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered the following:

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Public Buildings, under the direction of the Joint Standing Committee on Public Buildings, be authorized to supply the necessary furniture for, and cause such repairs to be made and cleaning as may be needed upon, the City Hall; also such repairs on the police stations and engine houses, together with other public buildings as are not made by the respective departments using the same; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Public Buildings.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Public Buildings, under the direction of the Joint Standing Committee on Public Buildings be authorized to supply the necessary furniture for, and cause to be made such repairs and cleansing as may be needed in the several high, grammar and primary schoolhouses; the expense therefor to be charged to the appropriation for Schoolhouses, Public Buildings.

Ordered, That the Committee on County Buildings be authorized to provide the necessary furniture for the Court House and Probate Building; also for the Municipal Court rooms, Highlands, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Brighton, Charlestown, East and South Boston; the expense therefor to be charged to the appropriation for the County of Suffolk.

Ordered, That the Committee on County Buildings be and they are hereby authorized to cause such repairs and alterations to be made as may be needed on the court house, county jail and probate building; also, on the Municipal Court rooms in the Highlands, Dorchester, West Roxbury, Brighton, Charlestown, East and South Boston; provided said repairs and alterations shall not exceed the sum of $5000 on any one building during the municipal year; the expense thereof to be charged to the appropriation for the County of Suffolk.

Severally read once.

SURVEYOR'S DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Wilder offered an order, That the City Surveyor be authorized, with the approval of the Joint Standing Committee on the Surveyor's Department, to make such purchases of supplies, instruments, drawing materials, and to incur such other expenses, as may be necessary for that department during the present municipal year. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Reports and orders of notice for a hearing, on Monday, Feb. 5, at four o'clock P. M., on petitions of Highland Railway Company, for location of tracks on Columbus avenue and Northampton street, etc.; and on petition of Metropolitan Railroad Company, for location in Columbus avenue, etc.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the orders relating to the Highland Railroad Company's petitions were amended so that the hearings would be on Feb. 12, and as amended were passed, the hearings being arranged as follows: For Metropolitan Railroad Company, on Feb. 5, and Highland Railroad Company, on Feb. 12, at 4 P. M.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, under the direction of the Committee on Paving, to erect fences in front of vacant lots on public streets where the public safety requires the same.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized to grant permits to open the streets, in accordance with the tenth and eleventh sections of the revised ordinances of 1876 relating to streets.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, under the direction of the Committee on Paving, to number or renumber any street, court or place within the city limits, whenever in the opinion of said committee the public convenience will be promoted thereby.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, under the direction of the Committee on Paving, to furnish and set edgestones and pave sidewalks on any portions of public streets where the abutters agree in writing to pay one-half the cost thereof.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized to lay cross-walks and pave gutters on the public streets of the city when deemed expedient by the Committee on Paving.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be authorized, under the direction of the Committee on Paving, to contract, from time to time, for the purchase, sale and exchange of horses, the supply of hay, grain, paving stones, gravel and other materials required for the operations of the Paving Department during the present municipal year.

Ordered, That the Superintendent of Streets be and he hereby is, empowered and directed to remove, without delay, any and all structures or things which may hereafter be built into or upon the sidewalks of public ways in this city so as to hinder, incommode or endanger persons travelling thereon, or which obstruct or encumber the way. Severally read once.

Report and order, That that part of the thirty-sixth location granted to the Metropolitan Railroad Company June 29, 1874, which authorized said company to lay a track across Haymarket square to the tracks of the Middlesex Railroad Company on said square, near the Boston & Maine Railroad station, be and the same is hereby revoked. Order read twice and passed.

PUBLIC BATHS.

Alderman Viles offered an order, That the Joint Standing Committee on Bathing be authorized to repair and maintain the several bathing houses in the department under their charge, and employ such assistants in the care of said houses as they may deem expedient; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Public Baths. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

WARD OFFICERS IN WARDS SIX AND FIFTEEN.

Alderman Viles submitted the following:

The committee appointed to recount the ballots cast for ward officers in Wards 6 and 15 have attended to that duty and report that the following-named persons, having a plurality of votes, have been duly elected in Ward 6 to their respective offices: Warden—James T. Gallagher; Clerk—John F. Mullin; Inspectors—Eugene Reardon, George H. Kyle, Michael J. Cox—being the same persons that the ward officers of said ward declared to have been chosen. Your committee recommend that their certificates of election be transmitted to them accordingly. In Ward No. 15 the following-named persons having a plurality of votes appear to have been chosen to their respective offices, viz., Warden—William J. Splaine; Clerk—Charles J. Vaughn; Inspectors—Charles A. Green, Charles B. Bedlington, Henry P. Muldoon—being the same persons who were declared by the ward officers of said ward to have been chosen, with the exception of Charles A. Green, in whose place Patrick H. Dolan was stated to have been chosen. The attention of the committee having been called to the fact that Charles P. Bedlington, who was chosen an inspector of elections, was not a resident of said ward at the time of the election, inquiries were made into the matter, and the above allegation proved to be correct. Your committee recommend that the City Clerk withhold the certificate of Mr. Bedlington, and that the vacancy thus created in the Board of Inspectors be filled pro tempore at the next election in said ward. Your committee recommend that the other ward officers chosen in said ward be notified of their election. A table showing the number of ballots cast for each officer is appended to this report.

CLINTON VILES.
CHOATE BURNHAM.

Committee.

Ward No. 6.

Warden—James T. Gallagher, 937; Charles G. Goussebaire, 541; John G. Albee, 148; Daniel F. Kelley, 11; Michael Burke, 1.

Clerk—John F. Mullen, 945; Edward A. Downey, 439; John Hayes, 132; J. Hayes, 27; Walter Madogan, 10; Charles G. Goussebaire, 1; William Taylor, 1.

Inspectors—Eugene Reardon, 999; George H. Kyle, 971; Michael J. Cox, 964; David Flaherty, 448; Jeremiah Gallagher, 438; Daniel W. Donahoe, 401; Daniel Donahoe, 42; John Taylor, 153; Thomas Gray, 151; Frederic Moro, 115; Fred. M. Moro, 59; F. Moro, 1; Charles M. Butler, 23; Jeremiah A. Gallagher, 39; John Allen, 13; Isaac F. Smith, 13; Charles G. Goussebaire, 1; George Kyle, 1; Martin Ryne, 1.

Ward No. 15.

Warden—William J. Splaine 492, W. E. Bartlett 458, Robert J. Splain 101, Warren T. Porter 19, Charles J. Vaughn 1.

Clerk—Charles J. Vaughn 577, John J. Murphy 479, Daniel Lewis 18, W. E. Bartlett 1, Charles A. Green 1.

Inspectors—Charles A. Green 563, Charles B. Bedlington 561, Henry P. Muldoon 495, Michael J. Hallinan 494, Patrick H. Dolan 492, Joseph Osgood 461, Michael Hallahan 98, Tobias Dinsmore 19, John Hallett 18, Joseph Chadbourne 18, W. E. Bartlett 1.

Accepted.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien submitted a report from the Committee on Armories, on petition of Company A, First Battalion of Infantry, recommending the passage of an order, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $200, in fitting up the armory of Company A, First Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at Elson Hall, West Roxbury; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Order read twice and passed.

ANNEXATION OF SOMERVILLE.

Alderman Clark offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston for the year 1877 hereby expressly confirms and renews the opinion of the City Council of 1876, that it is inexpedient for this city to favor the proposed annexation of the city of Somerville to Boston; and the Committee on Legislative Matters are requested to earnestly oppose said measure before any committee having the subject in charge.

Alderman Clark—My object in introducing the resolution is this: Last year the City Council were unanimously in favor of opposing the annexation of Somerville to this city at the present time. I understand that a committee has been appointed by the city of Somerville to urge before the Legislature the annexation of that city to Boston, and I take an early opportunity to offer this resolution in order to show to the Legislature the sentiment of the City Council of Boston on the subject. The Committee on Legislative Matters have on hand a large amount of business for the present session. It will be said, of course, by those who urge the annexation of Somerville that the sentiment of the City Council of 1876 may not be the sentiment of the City Council of 1877; and the resolution, Mr. Mayor, is merely to show to the Legislature and the community the sentiment of the City Council at the present time.

The resolve was read twice and passed unanimously. Sent down.

IMPROVED SEWERAGE.

Alderman Clark offered an order, That a joint special committee, consisting of three members of the Board of Aldermen, with such as the Common Council may join, be appointed to resume the charge of all matters relating to an improved system of sewerage, with authority to employ such assistants as may be needed to enable the City Engineer to perform the preliminary work now in progress; the expense to be charged to the special appropriation for that purpose. Read once.

COST OF PUBLISHING ORDERS OF NOTICE.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order, That hereafter, when any petition is presented to this Board upon which an order of notice may be issued requiring public notice in one or more newspapers, the cost of the same shall be paid by the petitioner or petitioners.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I offer this order because it seems to me that it is taking an unfair advantage of the city of Boston for private individuals or corporations to come here asking for special privileges, and to require not only those special privileges, but also that the city of Boston shall pay for publishing the notices that they are asking for those special privileges. In the Probate Court the parties who present a petition pay for the notices, and there is no reason why railroad corporations should not do the same. I understand that last year the cost of publishing orders of notice was very nearly a thousand dollars. There is no reason why the cost of publishing these notices should not be paid by these corporations. This matter was fully discussed in the Committee on Paving the other evening, and there was but one opinion in regard to it. It is a reasonable order, and the railroad corporations cannot object to it.

Alderman Thompson—I don't know that I object to the order; in fact I approve of it, and it is reasonable enough, perhaps; but I am under the impression that the act of the Legislature requires the city to publish those notices. If that is the case, I don't see how an order of that kind can have any particular effect.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The act says that the order shall be published by the city; but the cost must be paid by somebody, and we can require it to be paid by the petitioner.

Alderman Thompson—It occurred to me, Mr. Mayor, that there might be some formality of the law which would not be complied with should the order be passed. It seems to me that it would be better to refer the order to some committee to ascertain that fact.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am not particular about the passage of the order now, but I want to call the attention of the Board to it. It was expressly understood that the orders of notice passed this afternoon should be paid for by the corporations, —the Metropolitan and Highland railroads. I have no objection to referring the order, and I don't care to what committee.

Alderman Thompson—My object was merely to get a legal opinion on the subject.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move that it be referred to the Committee on Ordinances, as that is the only legal committee of this Board.

Alderman Robinson—The sentiments expressed by Alderman Fitzgerald were the opinion of the Committee on Paving, but I think it should be referred.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have no objection to its being referred to them, with instructions to report whether the order can be legally passed by the Board. About its legality I have no doubt at all.

The order was referred to the Committee on Ordinances on the part of the Board of Aldermen.

PETITION FOR OMNIBUS LINE.

Alderman Fitzgerald presented the petition of Poland & Peabody for leave to run an omnibus line to carry passengers between South Boston and the northern depots. Referred to the Committee on Licenses.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Clark.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
JANUARY 18, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Mr. President, it is a painful duty to have to rise to a personal explanation; it is something I have never been called upon to do since I have been connected with the City Government, and in order to place the question before the Council, I will request the Chair to read this statement:

Mr. Howes sent a slip of paper to the President, who read as follows: "To the Editor of the Transcript—I have always endeavored to avoid anything which might have even the appearance of rushing into print, but I deem it due to myself and to the public to submit a few facts and queries. My theatre was built and completed, if not under the entire supervision of the Chief Inspector of Public Buildings, at least subject to his almost daily scrutiny, and was duly licensed, after passing through most careful and competent inspection. Two days after the recent terrible Brooklyn calamity, in itself sufficient to spread panic throughout the land, a prominent member of the City Council, at a meeting of that body, denounced my building as 'notoriously unsafe,' falsifying the rate of insurance and censuring the Chief Inspector for having permitted it to be licensed, thus adding to the public fear as far as the Globe Theatre was concerned, and placing both Mr. Shaw and myself in a cruelly false position. My inspections were the result, and notwithstanding the Globe possesses a greater number of exits than any other building devoted to amusement in this city, and unusual facilities for egress in the event of fire or panic, Mr. Shaw felt it incumbent upon him to demand such alterations as to necessitate closing the theatre in order to conform to his requirements. I considered that I could do nothing better than comply. And now that the work is commenced and being prosecuted with all possible skill and vigor, I would like to ask through your columns why the Councilman referred to endeavored to induce a lack of confidence in my theatre, involving me in a deal of unnecessary trouble and expense, besides stating that the rate of insurance on the Globe was 'one per cent. higher than the Boston Theatre,' when he, in his official capacity as Secretary of the Board of Underwriters, knew better? Do you think the following letter, addressed to a prominent citizen and now in my possession, which I herewith submit, will explain the motive?"

"Dear Mr. —: How many free passes and other considerations is Mr. Cheney going to give me for defending the reputation of his theatre—past, present and to come?"

Yours,

O. HOWES, JR.

By giving this space in the Transcript you will greatly oblige,

Yours truly,

ARTHUR CHENEY.

Boston, Jan. 10, 1877."

Mr. Howes—Six weeks ago tonight an order was introduced into this Council requesting that an inquiry be made into the safety of the various places of public resort in this city. You will remember that it was a day or two after the Brooklyn Theatre fire, and public interest was considerably aroused on the subject. A debate ensued on the question as to whether the Inspector of Buildings or a committee of the City Government should make the inquiry; and in supporting this latter motion—which was afterwards carried—I made reference, in common with others, to what I considered instances of neglect on the Inspector's part in relation to the Globe Theatre. My remarks were incorrectly reported in one of the papers, and they excited considerable feeling on the part of the management of the Globe Theatre; and when my attention was called to this, and the possible effect it might have upon theatre-goers, I wrote a note making the necessary correction, and stating that improvements in it had been made since it was first constructed, and in other ways did all that I could to allay undue public apprehension. But I was told that this did not satisfy Mr. Cheney, as representing the Globe Theatre; and from time to time I was told that he intended to sue me for libel, and that he threatened to knock me down if he saw me. Indeed, the name of a prominent criminal lawyer was given as one whom he proposed to have as counsel. While he was making these threats, I was somewhat surprised to read in one of the papers Saturday evening, Dec. 9, a letter from Mr. Cheney, the latter part addressed personally to me, and asking questions which if I answered without comment would undoubtedly help his theatre; but if answered with comments would probably injure it in public estimation; and I did not suppose he wished me to do the latter. Four days later an anonymous letter appeared in the Advertiser, asking me to state what the improvements and safeguards in the Globe Theatre were that were mentioned in my note of correction. I inferred, as this was sent to me, that it came from Mr. Cheney or his friends; and that he was thus publicly, and through the newspapers, asking my support of his theatre, while he was privately threatening me with a libel suit and a personal assault. This struck me as being insulting and absurd. I cut this last note out, and pasting it on a slip of waste paper, like this, I sent it to Mr. Hovey, a man with whom for the past four years I have had, from the nature of our business, daily, and I might almost say hourly association. I have here, through Mr. Cheney's kindness, a fac-simile of the note. If I had framed my words to directly express my exact meaning, they would have been something to this effect: "What right has Mr. Cheney to attempt to force me into the defence of his theatre?" Unfortunately I tried to give additional point to them by making them ironical; but it seems that the effort proved very much of a failure. It may be, as various newspapers have been so good as to suggest, highly unwise to be satirical on paper; and for such an exhibition of folly I humbly beg their pardon; but I was not so stupidly idiotic as to intentionally throw myself into the power of a man who had just warned me that he would ruin me if he could. I should like to state, in reference to this matter of a libel suit, that it was not a new idea. It was constantly on my mind. The day after writing this, which was on Thursday, the day of the meeting of the Common Council, I had a talk on this subject with Mr. Bacon, the reporter of the Advertiser (who is not here tonight), and stated to him at that time that Mr. Cheney intended to institute a libel suit against me, and it was a question in my mind whether I could get the City Solicitor to defend me on the ground that what I said was in an official capacity. The note was sent by Mr. Hovey, who was a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Underwriters, of which I am Secretary—and also a Director of the Protective Department, of which I am Secretary—and a man with whom, from the nature of his business and my position, I had been brought for four years past into the most familiar business relations. On another point let me say, that for the past three years I have, in connection with my other duties, been an editorial writer on a Boston daily paper, in which I am a stockholder, and, during that time, have not only been to the various places of amusement in this city, the Globe included, for the purpose of writing criticisms on the performances, but I have had, from the free tickets ordinarily sent to newspaper offices, all and more than all that I could find time to use. Mr. Cheney also accuses me of falsifying the rates of insurance as regards his theatre in stating, in reply to a question, that it rated about one per cent. higher than the Boston Theatre. To this I can only say that if I were asked the same question again I do not know how I could answer it differently. Underwriters' rates just now are mere matters of competition; any one can make them, and a given risk may be taken by one man at eight per cent. per annum, and by another man at two per cent. for the same time. The only rate on the Globe Theatre that has been made authoritatively, and after a careful survey and classification, was made by the Board of Underwriters about two years ago. This fixed the rate at seven per cent. That of the Boston Theatre was six. No other definite basis of comparison has since been made; and to take as a guide rates that may be one per cent. today and five per cent. tomorrow would be simply nonsensical. Mr. President, for the past two years I have been a member of this Council, and there are quite a number here who have been associated with me during that time; and I can say it without fear of contradiction that never during that time, by word or vote, have I been influenced by personal considerations. I have in all things, sir, endeavored to fulfil my duty to the public entirely; and if by any utterance or speech of mine or others the Inspector of Buildings has found it incumbent upon him to close the Globe Theatre, that responsibility, sir, is not mine. Those who suffer from words spoken here should look to the statutes of the State and the ordinances of the city for redress, and not to those who are sent here by their constituents to carry out the laws.

Later in the session, pending the election of Trustees of the Public Library, the subject was again brought up by Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, who said—

“I had the misfortune not to be present when the gentleman from Ward 18 arose to make a personal explanation. I, of course, am to blame for that, not being here at half-past seven; but inasmuch as the gentleman received unanimous consent to make that explanation, and inasmuch as quite a number of gentlemen now present did not hear it, I should like him to reiterate it at present, if he will.”

Mr. Howes—The gentleman spoke something about that to me, but I supposed he was speaking in jest. The copy from which I read that address has been taken by one of the reporters. I remember very well the whole sum and substance of it. I gave it to the reporter as a matter of accommodation. Two or three were desirous of getting it, and some compromise was made by one taking it right away and agreeing to bring it back again.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I only rose for the purpose of having the address which the gentleman prepared read to the Council again, as some of those present are desirous of hearing what he did say, and I particularly, for the reason that on the 7th of December, when the gentleman made an attack on the Globe Theatre, I told him that he ought not to have made such invidious distinctions in regard to the theatres. Knowing that he had carefully prepared an address to this Council, I wanted to know what he exactly did say, in order that I might refute some of those charges which he has probably made against a citizen of Boston and a heavy taxpayer—one who, from various circumstances, is unable to reply to him in any charges which he may make here against him, and that is Mr. Arthur Cheney. I want Mr. Cheney to have the same privileges and right that he has, notwithstanding that he is a member of this Council, and to reply, if not by myself, by others. It was brought about by the gentleman himself on the night of the 7th of December, in making an invidious distinction, in charging upon one gentleman, or upon his theatre, that it was notoriously unsafe, and that at that time he was paying one per cent. more insurance on his building than others were. All I want is an opportunity to reply to the gentleman if I think he has reflected unfairly upon that gentleman, or upon his theatre. As I said before, it is my fault that I was not present at that time to listen to his address and to his remarks, which, as I said before, were very carefully prepared and presented to the Council.

Mr. Howes—I am exceedingly sorry that the gentleman was not present, and I am rather sorry now to be placed in the position that I am. I tried to get one of the messengers to go to the Herald office to get the copy, but he thinks it impossible to get it. I do not know that I have made any charges against Mr. Cheney that need defence; certainly I have made no charges that could be defended by any statement of his friends that are here. The only point that the gentleman seems to make on this issue is that I made an attack upon Mr. Cheney's theatre on the 7th of December. As I said before (and I will repeat, for the gentleman's edification, what I said a few minutes ago), six weeks ago I stated that the rates of insurance upon the Globe Theatre were about one per cent. higher than they were upon the Boston Theatre. I think those were my exact words. I stated in the written address that there are now no such thing as insurance rates in the city of Boston. The matter of insurance is a matter of competition. As far as our board rates are concerned, on which Mr. Cheney bases his contradiction, Mr. Cheney might have his theatre, if he wished, rated at one-quarter of one per cent., just as well as at four per cent. The rates of insurance made two years ago in this city, made from careful surveys by experienced men, placed the Globe Theatre at seven per cent. and the Boston Theatre at six per cent. Since that time there have been no rates of insurance put upon those theatres by survey; the only rates put upon them is what any man will take it for. Mr. Cheney, or his agents, might get an agent to take it for one rate; and they might go along the street a little farther and find another agent who would take it for another rate; while another one might not take it, as a member of the Council has told me himself, that he would hardly take it at all. So much for the rates of insurance. The only rates made put the difference at that point. On the other charge—the charge of a want of security in the theatre—I have nothing to say. The Inspector of Buildings has examined that theatre, and it is closed. I don't know of any other theatre in the city that is.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—So far as any other member of this Council, in the same business, telling him that he would not take it, that may be very readily accounted for. Perhaps that member could not get the insurance from Mr. Cheney—I don't care who the member or who the person is who told him. But it does seem to me that this controversy, which has been brought about by the gentleman from Ward 18, in his speech here in the Council on the 7th of December, characterizing that theatre as an unsafe theatre, and compelling that man to close his place of business, is unfair and unjust when he is unable to reply to it. I am not an advocate of Mr. Cheney or anybody, but I am an advocate of people generally who are attacked by members of this Council in their official position, and I am here to defend those who are unable to reply to them. I say that this gentleman did make an unwarrantable attack upon that gentleman at that time, compelling him to close his theatre. An order from the Inspector of Buildings closed both the Museum and the Howard Athenæum. This man, who is a public-spirited citizen, did close his theatre, while the others—the Howard Athenæum and the Museum—have gone on from that day to this making repairs. I only rise in justice to Mr. Cheney to say that the gentleman at that time was out of order, and ought not to have attacked him, and made an invidious distinction as between the Globe and the Boston theatres.

Mr. Howes—I have but one word to say in reply. In reply to my characterization of the Globe Theatre, the gentleman who has just sat down also characterized two other theatres, and I don't know that I said anything worse about the Globe than he did about the other two. I read from the remarks made by that gentleman in the Common Council [Dec 7]:

“At that time the Inspector inspected the Globe Theatre, as he did all the other theatres. I hardly think it is fair to criticise one theatre and let the others go, for I believe that the Boston Museum and the Howard Athenæum are the worst in the city today. If a panic should occur at the Museum half the people would never get out; and the Howard Athenæum is a still worse place.”

I don't know that I ever said that half the people could not get out of the Globe Theatre in case of a panic. I don't see how any one who believes the statement of the gentleman would dare go into the Boston Museum or Howard Athenæum. Why, sir, he made that statement, and now he accuses me of making an invidious distinction in regard to the Globe Theatre.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Let me say that the remarks made by the gentleman on that night were never reported in full in the Transcript, or in any official report made by the reporter of this Council. Now, who had it cut out or erased from the journal? It was in the Advertiser, but it never has been reported to this Council.

Mr. Howes—I dislike to continue this altercation any longer, but I would ask the gentleman which was the part of wisdom?—and I say this in defence of the official reporter. He states that I made an unjust accusation against the Globe, or against Mr. Cheney. I thought that might be the case, and on that account I went to the Transcript and had taken from the report certain parts of it that might be. Gentlemen may smile—

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—What right had you to do it?

Mr. Howes—If the gentleman supposes that the speeches made here are taken down verbatim, he makes a mistake. It is very largely left to the official reporter to decide how much shall be put in and shall be left out, and he undoubtedly endeavors to give the sense of what the speaker says. Since I have been in this Council, I never saw the time when my address was taken down entirely; but, with all due respect to the reporter, he has told me quite a number of times that he could not catch what I said, and that he had to suppose it. If there are changes on one side there may be on the other.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence. Annual reports of Superintendents of Charles River, Chelsea and Warren bridges; Chief of Police; City Surveyor. Severally placed on file. Requests of School Committee for a new site for Allston School and for better accommodations for schools on Washington street and Codman park; and request of Directors for Public Institutions for additional appropriation for Home for Female Paupers. Severally referred, in concurrence.

Resolve inexpedient to favor annexation of Somerville to Boston, and for the Committee on Legislative Matters to oppose the matter. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order for Committee on Bathing to repair and maintain the bathing houses, to employ assistance and take measures for the care and preservation of said houses. Ordered to a second reading.

Order for City Surveyor to make purchases of supplies, instruments and drawing materials, and to incur other necessary expenses. Ordered to a second reading.

ELECTIONS.

The following elections came up under unfinished business:

Directors of East Boston Ferries. Committee—Messrs. Smardon of Ward 10, Flynn of Ward 16, and Mullane of Ward 12.

Whole number of votes.....	64
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Alderman C. H. B. Breck.....	64
Councilman Edward Pearl.....	46
"    John A. Duggan.....	39
"    Phinehas J. Stone, Jr.....	25
"    Isaac P. Clarke.....	18

And Messrs. Breck, Pearl and Duggan were declared elected. Sent up.

Trustees of the Public Library. Pending the ordering of an election, the discussion printed above (under "a personal explanation") occurred, after which the ballot proceeded. Committee—Messrs. Stone of Ward 3, Doherty of Ward 2, Vose of Ward 24.

Whole number of votes.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Alderman John T. Clark.....	65
Councilman Richard Pope.....	49
"    Charles H. Reed.....	29
"    Osborne Howes, Jr.....	22
"    Christopher J. Spenceley.....	12
"    John A. Smardon.....	1
"    G. R. Webster.....	1

Messrs. Clark and Pope were declared elected, and a second ballot was ordered to fill the vacancy.

Whole number of votes.....	68
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Councilman Charles H. Reed.....	37
"    Osborne Howes, Jr.....	30
"    E. R. Webster.....	1

And Mr. Reed was declared elected. Sent up.

BADGES.

The order requesting the Mayor to appoint Common Councilmen as Special Police Officers, and for a committee to procure badges, was considered under unfinished business.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—I move that this matter be laid upon the table. If that motion is carried I shall introduce an order requesting the Judiciary Committee to ascertain from the City Solicitor the legality of this matter.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I have no particular objection to laying the order upon the table, but I think we should at least have better and more substantial reasons for laying it there. This City Council has had badges for ten years—since 1868—and certainly, in intellect, previous Councils must come pretty near this body. If there is any illegality in it, some member of this body in previous years would have seen it and brought it up. In introducing the order I don't wish to honor myself with a badge. But it has been a customary order to introduce for ten years. There is always some unlucky individual hit upon to introduce the order, and it is my lot this year. Unless the gentleman has got some more substantial reason, I hope the matter will not be laid upon the table.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I do not see but what the reasons assigned for the motion are very substantial. I have not given the question any particular consideration, but if any gentleman in the house doubts the legality of the order, I think it is every proper and weighty reason why it should be referred to our legal adviser. I have no experience in this body and do not know what may be the usual custom; but it seems to me we cannot be too cautious about setting an example of breaking laws which it is our duty to enforce. If this is illegal, because it has been the custom for eight years is no reason why it should continue. I think it is a good and weighty reason for stopping it now. I think the motion to table should prevail.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—For the information of the gentleman last up, I would state, sir, that the City Auditor passes no bill but what he is perfectly satisfied, before he gives an order on the Treasurer, that the bill is legal. The Auditor is in daily consultation with the City Solicitor; he has heretofore passed those bills and I am entirely satisfied that it is legal. If gentlemen of the legal profession are not posted on the law I regret it exceedingly.

Mr. Mowry—Permit me to say in this connection that several members have expressed the view that this matter is illegal; and, sir, if the statutes, either general or otherwise, are consulted in connection with this matter, I think it is difficult to find any provision which authorizes the Mayor to make this appointment. Several persons, whose opinions are entitled to weight, having expressed the opinion that this matter is illegal, I think there can be no harm in referring it to the Judiciary Committee to ascertain the opinion of the City Solicitor.

The motion to table was declared lost. Mr. Thompson doubted the vote, and called for the yeas and nays, which were ordered. The motion was lost—yeas 22, nays 44:

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blodgett, Brown, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Ham, Hibbard, Mowry, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, Roberts, Sampson, Thompson, Upham, Warren, Wolcott—22.

Nays—Messrs. Blanchard, Briutnall, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Hiscock, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Pope, Reed, Roach, Ruffin, Sibley, Smardon, Souther, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Vose, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—44.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Beeching, Fernald, Howes, M. W. Richardson, Shepard—5.

The question was on the passage of the order.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move to amend the order by inserting after the word "badges," the words, "and also suitable clubs." The gentlemen smile, Mr. President, but have not I stood under the lamp posts, on a starry night, when the gas-lights were emitting their beneficent light, and longed to be a policeman?

"I want to be a 'special,'
And with the police stand,
A badge upon my buttoned coat,
And a 'billy' in my hand."

Sir, at a critical period in my life I was denied the privilege of bearing the name of that great and good statesman, George Washington; but, like him, I have a future before me, and I cannot lie. I have often envied the cap, uniform, brass buttons and the other accoutrements which go to make up the dignity of that official with which we are so familiar—the policeman; but I did not expect when I became a member of this Council that I should so soon have offered to me this longed-for pleasure. There is only one thing wanted. God never sent a man into this world with the badge of divinity in his face without at the same time giving him a weapon of defence in a clenched fist. Who ever heard of sending a soldier into the field without a weapon? And what would a policeman be without a "billy"? What should we do, Mr. President, scattered from this hall at a late hour of the night, and proceeding towards Cragie's Bridge, to Mattapan, to Bunker Hill, and to the remotest confines of Ward 25, defenceless and alone? Sir, without a club we are nothing; with it, we may be heroes. Give me that and I will sing or sigh—

"There, right before the Mayor,
So glorious and so bright,
I'll show my badge and 'billy,'
And whistle day and night."

[Applause and laughter in the galleries, which the President peremptorily checked.]

The amendment was declared adopted. Mr. McGaragle doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 the yeas and nays were ordered. The amenduement was lost—yeas 16, nays 50:

Yeas—Messrs. Blodgett, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Morrill, Mowry, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, Sampson, Smardon, Thompson—16.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Dugan, Fagau, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Perham, Pope, Reed, Roach, Roberts, Ruffin, Sibley, Souther, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, Yose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—50.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Beeching, Cox, Fernald, M. W. Richardson, Shepard—5.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—In years past it has been the custom to limit this order to the providing of badges for those gentlemen who wish to have them, and it seems desirable and reasonable that we should limit it in the same way this year. There seems to be no reason for spending the city's money for badges for members who do not want them, either for the reason that they will not feel able to do justice to the badge without a billy, or for any other reason. I therefore move to amend the order by striking out "for the same" and substituting "for such members of the Council as may make application therefor."

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—We have now commenced the annual wrangle over this badge question. We always have it, and it always results in one way—the badges are ultimately procured. Last year the opposition to it was based upon retrenchment and reform; it was said to be a wasteful and useless expenditure of money. Those who were urgent in pressing that view of the case soon ceased their talk of retrenchment and reform, and it turned into a farce and by-word. Those who were loudest in talking of retrenchment soon stopped and we heard nothing more of it. Upon this question of a badge I feel like this: I have one and don't need another; there are many members of this Council who are new members, who have no badges and desire them. I think they ought to have them. I stand here to say that any member wishing a badge ought to have it. It is nothing more than proper that when a member retires from this hall he should have some memento for his children, for his badge is proof that he has been here. It is a memento connected with pleasant recollections; and taking that view I shall vote for the order as amended by the gentleman from Ward 9 [Mr. Crocker]. Why, sir, we have badges in very many conditions and positions in this life. I remember that your honorable committee, appointed last July, who were on duty at Music Hall, had a proper badge. Nobody objected to it; it was thought very proper. It is something which has always been done, so far as I know, by committees and larger bodies. At the great Peace Festival you had a committee with badges; and people who went to the Centennial wanted a memento of their having been there—some little pin, or something of that kind. You may call it a weakness of human nature, but it has always been so. I consider it a desirable thing to have. You may treat it with ridicule, but still I think it ought to pass, and I think it will.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Ward 9 will prevail, and I move to amend the amendment by adding "the cost not to exceed five dollars for each badge."

Mr. Howes of Ward 13—I trust that the order as amended will pass. I do not expect to get a badge myself, and I do not want one. I have opposed them for the past two years, but I have found that usually we get into a very great row on the first of the year on this badge question, and it makes divisions in feeling among members that last a very long time; and in votes that are taken hereafter on matters of much greater importance, the feeling that has survived from the badge question shows itself, and influences members in their votes, by the side of which the sum spent in badges amounts to nothing at all. On that account, although I should add the "billy," if necessary, I hope the order will pass.

Mr. Crocker accepted Mr. Sibley's amendment.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I have no objection to those members having badges who desire them. Many of the gentlemen here were elected with a large word, "reform," upon the ticket, but, as the gentleman from Ward 9 [Mr. Ruffin] has said, it seems to be dying out, as it did last year. The Mayor has told us we ought to retrench, and I suppose that most of us here wish to carry out his ideas. I want to do so; I am willing to do so, and lighten the burdens of the taxpayers. Now, sir, it seems to me to be inconsistent. When we have appointed a committee to reduce the salaries of heads of departments, clerks, laborers, gentlemen here ought to be willing to give up some of their perquisites, and not be like Artemus Ward—willing that all his wife's relations should go to the war. If gentlemen want badges they should have them at their own expense, and I should like to offer an amenduement of that kind. I understand that the Aldermen desiring a badge have provided one at their own expense, and it seems to me that, if they want it, gentlemen of this Council ought to do the same. I move to strike out that part of the order charging the expense to the Contingent Fund and limiting the cost of each badge to five dollars.

Mr. Ruffin—I hope this amenduement will not prevail. It seems to be a penny-wise policy, if I understand the amenduement correctly. I see no greater reason why we should not have these badges than why we should not have the pocketbook and diary which is usually given to each member of this Council. I suppose they are in the same category. It is a useful thing, and, as I said just now, it is a desirable thing. These are the little perquisites that come to a member of the Common Council. It seems to me we are straining at a gnat, and we may swallow a camel after awhile. If we are going to practise reform and retrenchment, let us do it on something substantial, and not on something where the amount pending is a mere bagatelle. Let us strike higher than that. There will come a time, and very soon, when gentlemen who preach retrenchment and reform will have an opportunity to carry out their views. But on such a small matter as this it does not indicate any desire for retrenchment and reform by voting against this order. I hope we shall vote down this last amenduement and pass the order as amended by the gentleman from Ward 9, because I think the sooner we get rid of this matter the better. It is likely to hang along for some time, with these various amenduements offered—some in the spirit of fun and some for delay. The sooner we get at the meat of this matter the better. It is just what we have had before, and it is merely to gain time.

Mr. Sampson—The gentleman [Mr. Ruffin] says we shall soon have an opportunity to show whether we are in favor of retrenchment or not. I think we have one now. I have been brought up to think that if you take care of the pennies the pounds will take care of themselves. Here is an opportunity for gentlemen to favor retrenchment in a useless expenditure. It is not a matter of utility; it is simply a matter of vanity. Are we willing to forego it? If so let us follow the example of the other Board.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—This is a matter of only $300. I think the members will require badges. Perhaps the gentleman [Mr. Sampson] who was on the Improved Sewerage Committee will need some looking after, and perhaps the members will like to go round and see what work is being done. I hope the order will pass.

Mr. Sampson's amenduement was lost.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—This is a difficult question to talk about, because, you know, it is a question of taste; and we have the authority of an old adage that questions of taste are not to be disputed about, especially in matters of personal dress and ornamentation. Mr. Bayard Taylor, the great traveller, states that on a fine Sunday morning, as he was attending church in one of the East India islands, just as the service commenced there stepped into the door a princess of the royal family, who marched up the broad aisle and took her seat in front of the preacher. She was proud and majestic. He says, further along, that her entire costume was a straw hat and a fan, and he proceeds to remark, by way of showing the difference of taste in individuals, that although that costume was regal at that time and place, it would hardly have been thought the fashion for Queen Victoria in St. George's Chapel. And this illustrates the difference of taste in different individuals. In using this illustration I do not mean to throw out the apprehension that however beautiful badges our messenger will get, there will be any danger or any of us appearing in public with nothing on but a hat and badge, however large and costly it may be. And yet, sir, if we are going to make the city pay for something to wear, if it is thought necessary to conform to the custom established by a long line of illustrious predecessors who have held these seats, it seems to me we might as well procure something useful. We might as well have a pair of pantaloons or an overcoat; or if gentlemen have provided themselves with those articles for winter, they might as well do as the East India princess did—have a straw hat and fan for summer. I had hoped that if gentlemen came here to distinguish themselves, it might be by some mark different from a brass button; that it might be by some intellectual achievement for the benefit of the citizens, the adoption of some plan for dispensing useful knowledge among the people, for aiding the poor, or in the reduction of taxes. It seems to me, sir, that a record of that sort, with our appreciating citizens, would be a better mark for public officers or the trustees of city affairs, than the trifle or bauble which we are talking about. I think we had better try and see if we cannot do something that will make a better monument of our official lives than a two-penny brass button; and if we cannot, and if there are any gentlemen here who, when our official year is ended, if when the summer is gone and the harvest ended, they find they have not done anything to make a record of that sort, in order that they may hand down something to a grateful and admiring posterity, I will put my hand in my pocket and contribute for it. But we will wait and see if we cannot do something for it. But that is only one branch of the question. The other is that we shall be appointed policemen. That is largely a question of taste, and difficult to talk about. Well, Mr. President, some men are born great, and some have greatness thrust upon them. I do not wish to undervalue the majesty or dignity or grandeur or value of that officer whose true and usual emblems are a pair of handcuffs and a billy; but, for myself, I do not want to be a policeman, even as much dignity and power as it might bring, and I fear the Mayor would not appoint me, as he knows I am not fit for duty. The question of its legality has been raised. Now, Mr. President, I have read, I believe, the Bill of Rights and the Constitution of Massachusetts; I have read all the statutes, with the supplements and the notes; and I have also read, by the kindness of the City Messenger (whose courtesy never fails) Washington's Farewell Address, and I do not find any authority in any of those ancient and respectable documents for the appointment of one branch of the Government to fulfill and perform the duties of the other branch. I had somehow got it in my head from reading some old document, that it was not quite the thing for the legislative branch of the Government to assume the performance of executive duties. I should think this would be very much like the Legislature of Massachusetts passing a stringent prohibitory law, and then voting themselves governor and State constables to enforce it. I myself do not quite see the distinction. I do not wish, after voting here for an ordinance creating, possibly, a penal offence, to go out and enforce it upon my neighbors, and I do not believe we ought to be allowed or bound to do it. I am not certain that there is not something in that point, viz., that no man should combine in himself the functions of two of the branches of the same power. In my opinion there is some respectable authority for that maxim. I regret to hear that the discussion of this question creates dissensions. I should not speak or vote upon it if I thought it would create dissension, or feel that it would prevent our usefulness hereafter. It is a question that is fought every year, and why? Because many members of the Council believe that it is a foolish and vain thing; and I think that the whole thing had better be dropped—voted down. There are those who will not take them, who will not submit to be appointed. That of itself creates a division which should be deprecated, and which must inevitably result in a diminution of usefulness. Therefore, I move an indefinite postponement of this whole subject.

The President—The Chair rules the motion out of order, the motion to amend taking precedence.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I did not design saying a single word upon badges this year; I think I had my say last year, and I should have remained silent but for the flowery effusions we have had upon badges and the assertion that members lay this up to their hearts and bring it out upon other occasions, which seems to me to be an insult to this Council. After the historical narrations and poetry we have heard it seems to me that if we go on much further the cost of publishing the discussion will be more than the cost of the badges. I move the previous question.

Mr. Thompson—Will the gentleman withdraw the motion till I can offer an amendment which I should like to make to the order?

Mr. Spenceley—I think we have gone far enough. I decline to withdraw.

The main question was ordered.

Mr. Crocker's amendment (as amended by Mr. Sibley) was adopted.

Mr. Felt called for the yeas and nays on the passage of the order. Declared lost.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I doubt the vote. I want to go on record as against badges. I voted against laying on the table because I wanted it decided immediately; but on the final question I want to go upon record, and not be misunderstood. I think that others here have the same feeling.

The yeas and nays were ordered—15 for, 41 against; and the order was passed—yeas 43, nays 18.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Perham, Pope, Roach, Ruffin, Sibley, Smardon, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur—43.

Nays—Messrs. Blodgett, Brown, Crocker, Cross, Danforth, Day, Felt, Hibbard, Mowry, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, Roberts, Thompson, Upham, G. B. Webster, Wolcott—18.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Beeching, Blanchard, Coe, Cox, Fernald, Hiscock, Reed, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Shepard, Souther—11.

The President appointed Messrs. McGaragle of Ward 8, Perham of Ward 23, and Kelley of Ward 6, as said committee.

The rule was suspended on motion of Mr. McGaragle, who then moved a reconsideration, hoping it would not prevail. The reconsideration was lost.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petition of Robert T. Paine, Jr., for abatement of assessment for removal of a nuisance on Greenwich street. Referred to Joint Committee on Health. Sent up.

Petition of Eugene Geary, to be compensated for injuries received on corner Shawmut avenue and Mechanic street. Referred to Joint Committee on Claims. Sent up.

Petition of Dennis J. Holland to be appointed Superintendent of Dover-street Bridge. Referred to Committee to Nominate Superintendents of Bridges. Sent up.

By Mr. Wolcott of Ward 11—Petition of S. H. Russell, trustee, for an abatement of betterment assessment on Congress and Federal streets. Sent up.

By Mr. Barry of Ward 22—Petition of Thomas Malone et al., that Whitney street be put in order. Sent up.

By Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—Petition of S. P. Dexter et al., for a new fire alarm box in Ward 24. Referred to Committee on Fire Department. Sent up.

A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I rise to a question of privilege. I wish to make a personal explanation. At the last meeting of the Council, in my remarks upon the appointment of the Salary Committee, I found the next evening that I was reported in the Transcript as saying these words:

"And it will be a most disgraceful thing for any gentleman to be on the Salary Committee."

Now, sir, the words that I did state that evening were these:

"It is a very disagreeable position for any gentleman to be on the Salary Committee."

It is a vast difference between the word disgraceful and disagreeable. It has been corrected in the Journal of the Council, but I make this statement presuming that there are gentlemen here tonight who was absent on the last evening, and might have read the statement as reported.

DISPOSITION OF TOPICS IN THE MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 submitted a report from the joint special committee to consider what disposition should be made of the several topics in the Mayor's address, recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That so much of the Mayor's Address as relates to sewerage be referred to the Joint Special Committee on Improved Sewerage. That so much of the Mayor's address as relates to parks be referred to the Joint Standing Committee on Common and Public Grounds.

That so much of the Mayor's Address as relates to the city charter be referred to the Joint Standing Committee on Ordinances, and that they be requested to consider the expediency of obtaining the necessary authority to enable the City Council to provide by ordinance for the creation of boards of commissioners, with authority, when they deem it for the public interest, to take from such boards any powers previously given, or to abolish them entirely.

That so much of the Mayor's Address as relates to tax valuation be referred to the Joint Special Committee on the Reduction of Municipal Expenses.

Ordered, That so much of the Mayor's Address as relates to the Police Department be referred to the Committee on Police on the part of the Board of Aldermen.

The question was on giving the first order a second reading.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—One of the orders refers the matter of parks to the Standing Committee on Common and Public Grounds. This is a highly important matter, and one which I think the Committee on Common is unequal to coping with on account of its other duties. The matter was under discussion at a meeting of the committee yesterday, and I may say I was authorized to state that if a joint special committee could be appointed to take that subject under consideration, they would consider it as a favor, relieving them from duties which they were afraid, in the multiplicity of other things pressing upon them, that they would not be able to give that attention which they deserved. I therefore offer that amendment to the order.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The committee considered that matter thoroughly, and they somewhat differed in relation to that particular question. But as a matter of courtesy to the Committee on Common, who had the matter in charge last year, they thought it their duty to refer the matter to the same committee this year. I have no objection, and I do not think the committee have, to referring it to a special committee.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—What number will compose this joint special committee?

Mr. Howes—The regular number, I suppose—three Aldermen and five Common Councilmen.

The President—The committee would be composed of five on the part of the Council, with such as the Aldermen may join.

Mr. Howes—I think it would be better to have a committee of three on the part of this branch. The subject is one which the committee have got to consider very carefully and give a good deal of time to. A committee of five will be able to meet oftener and have quorums, and go through what is necessary, more effectively than would a larger committee. It is, of course, for this Council to decide. I move to make the committee three on the part of the Council.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Are the Park Commissioners to act in concert with this committee? If not, I think the committee is too small.

Mr. Howes—They will act toward the Park Commissioners as the committees on Health and Fire Department do toward those boards. They are the representatives of those commissions in the City Council, and on that account would not have as much detailed work as the Committee on Common would.

Mr. Howes's amendment was adopted, and the first order was read a second time and passed. Subsequently the President announced the following as the special committees on the part of the Council named therein:

On Improved Sewerage—Messrs. Sampson of Ward 17, Pierce of Ward 24, Blodgett of Ward 8.

On Public Parks—Messrs. Thompson of Ward 9, Stoue of Ward 3, Coe of Ward 23.

Sent up.

RATES OF TOLL ON EAST BOSTON FERRIES.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2 offered an order, That the Committee on Ordinances be requested to consider the expediency of so amending the ordinance in relation to the East Boston ferries as to remove the restrictions which require that the rates of toll established by the City Council shall be based upon an income sufficient to cover the current expenses of maintaining the ferries, payment of interest, etc. Sent up for concurrence.

The order was read a second time.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me that it is hardly proper to refer that matter to the Committee on Ordinances, and that the Committee on East Boston Ferries should consider the expediency of passing such an ordinance.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—This is to amend the ordinance in relation to tolls on the East Boston ferries, and I think the proper reference would be to refer it to the Committee on Ordinances before the ordinance is changed.

Mr. Crocker—My point is that the question of the expediency of making this change—whether it is advisable or not—is a matter that relates to the management of the ferries, and should properly go to the Committee on East Boston Ferries. The business of the Committee on Ordinances is to see that ordinances, which it is determined should be passed, are in proper shape. All changes in ordinances should go to the Committee on Ordinances before they are adopted; but it seems to me that the question of the expediency of making the change is one that belongs to the Committee on East Boston Ferries. I move that this order be amended so as to refer it to the Committee on Ferries.

Mr. Crocker's amendment was adopted, and, as amended, the order was passed. Sent up.

SUPPLIES FOR HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5 offered an order, That the Superintendent of Health be authorized during the present municipal year to make contracts, subject to the supervision of the Committee on Health, for the purchase of such quantities of hay or grain, and for such horses and exchanges as his department may from time to time require; also for such material as shall be required for the use of his department. Ordered to a second reading.

SUPPLIES FOR CITY ENGINEER'S DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Thorndike of Ward 2 offered an order, That the City Engineer be authorized, with the approval of the Joint Standing Committee on the City Engineer's Department, to make such purchases of supplies, instruments and drawing materials, and to incur such other expenses, as may be necessary for that department during the present municipal year. Ordered to a second reading.

SECOND ELEVATOR FOR CITY HALL.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 offered an order, That the Joint Standing Committee on Public Buildings be instructed to consider and report upon the expediency of placing a second passenger elevator in City Hall. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

MANAGEMENT OF SINKING FUNDS AND CITY DEBT.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the Legislature at its present session for the passage of an act authorizing the City Council to provide by ordinance for the cancellation of any bonds of the city which may at any time be held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, so far as such cancellation may be consistent with the obligations which the city may have assumed toward the holders of its bonds.

The question was on giving the order a second reading.

Mr. Crocker—I suppose I ought to say a few words in explanation of that order. The fact is probably well known—at any rate to all the old members of the Council, if not to the new ones—that the Sinking Fund Commissioners hold the bonds of the city to an amount something like fifteen millions of dollars. They hold them as part of the sinking funds, and the city is all the time going through the formality of paying to itself the interest on those bonds, and laying that interest aside towards the payment of the city debt. Now, it is evident that it will be a much more simple manner of managing city affairs if, when any money is raised towards the payment of the city debt, it should be applied directly toward paying off and cancelling the debt, rather than going through the formality of paying the money to the commissioners for them to buy up the debt and keep it alive. One result of the present system is that the city is made to appear as owing a much larger debt than it really owes. It appears to owe a debt of $44,000,000, when it only owes $28,000,000—those are nearly the figures, I think—some $15,000,000 of our debt being held by the city itself. It is a matter of doubt whether the city might not provide by ordinance for this change; but there is doubt on the subject, and it seems to me we should ask the Legislature for undoubted authority to cancel these bonds. This whole matter of the sinking funds was up last year, and certain changes were proposed which were not acceptable to the Council, Mr. Peabody, a member from Ward 11, and one of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, opposing the change. But I may mention that that gentleman, who took a leading part in opposing the change introduced last year, is in favor of this proposition providing for the cancellation of the bonds. Since his connection with the Sinking Fund Commission ceased, Mr. Peabody has sent a communication to that body proposing that some provision should be made for the cancellation of the city bonds held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, but his communication was overlooked at the last meeting of the commissioners, and, therefore, has not yet been presented to that board. I think that if the matter is carefully looked into by anybody he will find that this proposed change is in every way a reasonable thing, which will tend to simplify this matter of the sinking funds, which probably not half a dozen people in the city understand, and that it will tend to make our city finances more intelligible than they are today. It certainly is desirable that the Sinking Fund should be more intelligible; that we should know what it is, and that we should know what the money that goes into it is used for. Another reason is this: I believe we have been paying into the sinking funds for the past few years more money than there is any reason for paying. Our late Mayor, in his closing remarks to the Board of Aldermen, stated that during the three years of his administration we had paid into the sinking funds, on account of the city debt, over seven and a half million dollars; that we had borrowed some seven millions for new loans, including four millions for bringing in the Sudbury water; and that notwithstanding all that borrowing, we had decreased the net debt of the city during the three years over half a million of dollars. If it had not been for the extraordinary expense of bringing in the Sudbury water, we should have decreased our city debt by taxation out of the pockets of the people, in these hard times, over four millions and a half of dollars. Now, it seems to me that this is an unreasonable way for us to be taxing our citizens in these hard times; and that it is unnecessary at the present time to use such means to pay off and reduce the debt of the city. It is no time to make extraordinary exertions to reduce the debt of the city. Our present Mayor, in his inaugural address, said he had been informed, by those supposed to know, that if we went on at the rate we are going, we should pay the whole of our debt in seven years. He did not pretend to understand how it was to be done; but it was by this mysterious Sinking Fund, that he did not understand, that it was to be paid in seven years. Now, I claim that if we are going to relieve the burdens of the taxpayers we can stop this unnecessary paying of immense sums into the Sinking Fund every year. It was foolish for us, during the last three years, to pay the whole expense of Sudbury water, of the Swett and Beach street widenings, and several other improvements, and besides that to reduce our debt half a million. It seems to me there is no reason in it. What is going to be the result? I admit that it is, prima facie, a good thing if the city can get out of debt. But is it desirable, under our present circumstances, that we should burden ourselves with this extra burden of taxation, in these hard years, for the sake of getting the city of Boston out of debt. The city of Boston has been in debt for years, and I believe it is destined to continue to be in debt, other cities and towns about us are likely to be in debt, and if we, by extraordinary exertions, free ourselves from debt in seven years, we shall leave a clear field for an extravagant or corrupt City Government that may come after us to incur a new debt foolishly or wastefully. I believe it is not good economy for the city of Boston to go on as it has been doing, straining every nerve to get out of debt. I believe there is safety in letting the old debt run on for some time, and this order looks in that direction.

Besides, if we have our nominal debt fifteen or sixteen millions more than it really is, we have to raise necessarily the interest on that amount yearly by taxation, which interest, at six per cent., is nearly a million of dollars.

This amount we raise by taxation yearly, in these hard times, to pay the interest on debt that we hold ourselves, and this interest is to be turned over and applied to hurrying us out of debt. It seems to me to be wholly unnecessary. For these reasons I have offered this order. If it takes its first reading tonight, I shall move that it be specially assigned for the next meeting, as it is a subject that ought not to be passed over hurriedly.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—The gentleman's views in regard to the Sinking Funds are certainly very peculiar. He states that the citizens are taxed for the interest on the bonds of the city of Boston now held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners. That is very true. They are taxed because the statutes and ordinances require that a tax shall be levied every year—on a twenty-year loan,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.; on a ten-year loan, eight per cent.; on a thirty-year loan, two per cent. Now the citizens are taxed no more on account of the bonds being in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners than if they were in the hands of Baring Brothers, London. That taxation goes to make up the portion that the law requires. The gentleman knows that the Sinking Fund Commissioners are limited to investing in three kinds of securities—United States, city and State bonds. By an ordinance of the city of Boston the commissioners have the right to take bonds of the city at par, and therefore it is a better investment. The interest on those bonds, with the revenue from the unexpended appropriations at the end of the year, go to make up what the law requires shall be raised by taxation from the citizens. That tax is no more than if the bonds were held by outside parties. The Sinking Funds are so managed that when the debt matures the Sinking Fund pays it without any further taxation. The reason it has decreased so much within three years is because the debt has matured. We have not paid for Swett street or for Sudbury River; but we have paid for what our fathers borrowed some thirty years ago. That this matter may receive proper consideration I move that the order be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Crocker—This matter requires early attention. If we are going to the Legislature this year, it is important that we should act at once. I move to amend the motion to refer by adding "with instructions to report at as early a day as possible."

Mr. Sampson—I accept the amendment.

Mr. Crocker—I think the gentleman is decidedly wrong in his information about the Sinking Funds. I said it was a difficult thing to understand, and I think the gentleman has not got as far toward understanding it as I have. He will find that the statements that I have made are correct, and that it is necessary to raise by taxation the interest on the whole city debt, and he will find also that the fact that a portion of the old debt has been paid out of the Sinking Fund is no reason why the net debt of the city should be decreased at all. The amount of the Sinking Fund is to be deducted from the gross debt in order to find the amount of the net debt. The application of a portion of the Sinking Fund to the payment of the debt does not, therefore, decrease the net debt at all and it is the net debt which has really been decreased, during the three years of Mayor Cobb's administration, half a million dollars, although we borrowed in that time over four millions for Sudbury water, an expenditure which may well be deemed extraordinary, and which as it is expected to bring a revenue to the city, might well have caused an increase of our debt. Had it not been for that extraordinary addition to our debt we should have reduced our debt during the last three years substantially by taxation out of the pockets of the people, over four and a half millions. I claim that that is an unreasonable way of proceeding at the present time, and that some steps ought to be taken looking toward a change. If we cannot change it without the assistance of the Legislature—as I am inclined to think we cannot—I hope we shall ask the Legislature to help us out of it. As the law stands today, we must go on taxing ourselves in this way until we get wholly out of debt. I think the Legislature will see that it is unfair to compel the city of Boston to burden itself with this extra taxation in these hard times.

The order was referred to the Finance Committee, with instructions to report as early as possible. Sent up.

PROPOSED DEPARTMENT FOR PURCHASE OF SUPPLIES.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 offered an order, That the joint special committee to investigate and report what reduction can be made in salaries and clerk hire, and whether any departments can be abolished or consolidated, be requested to consider the expediency of establishing a "department for the purchase of supplies" for any or all the departments of the City Government. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

DOCUMENTS FOR SOCIAL LAW LIBRARY.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 offered an order, That the Joint Standing Committee on Printing be requested to furnish the proprietors of the Social Law Library, for the use of said library, two copies of the revised ordinances of 1876, and also, as soon as possible, two copies of the supplements to the ordinances. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Clarke of Ward 22.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
JANUARY 22, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Hon. or the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS.

Constable—Ellery S. Ayer.

Special Police Officers—Daniel Cowan, Howard Athenæum; Henry C. Gifford, Tabernacle and its vicinity; Warren B. Plympton, Pemberton square; Charles McLaughlin, Reform Club, East Boston; Samuel C. Potter, Rochester Hall, Roxbury.

Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Joint Committee on Public Lands. St. John's Universalist Parish, for correction of error in their deed of land; Henrietta T. Wolcott, for confirmation of title to estate on corner of East Dedham street and Harrison avenue.

To the Joint Special Committee to Nominate Superintendents of Bridges. George A. J. Colgan, for appointment as Superintendent of Mr. Washington-avenue Bridge.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. William Shea, to be compensated for injury from defect in sidewalk in Ruggles street; Edward T. Spurr, to be compensated for personal injuries sustained by his wife from a fall on the sidewalk of No. 25 Mead street; Dennis Mannahan, to be compensated for injuries sustained by a fall on the sidewalk.

To the Committee on Lamps. Robert A. Miller et al., that Green-street place, Ward 24, be lighted; Day, Collins & Co. et al., for leave to place one of Bartlett's lanterns on Bromfield street, in front of the church, at their own expense.

To the Committee on Police. M. E. Shorey, to project a plain lantern at No. 11 Cross street, with the word "hotel" or "lodging" painted thereon.

To the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board. Samuel H. Russell, trustee, for reapportionment of betterment assessed on Congress street.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables by Francis C. Creber, new wooden, two horses, Dennis street, Ward 20; Aaron D. Williams, new wooden, one horse, Hampden street.

To the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department. Glendon Company, that the tax assessed upon estate No. 4 Waldron park in 1873 be refunded.

To the Committee on Paving. Thomas Maloney et al., that Whitney street be put in order.

Middlesex Railroad Company, for the right to construct tracks on Lincoln street, between Beach and Kneeland streets, thence through Kneeland and South streets to the Old Colony Railway Depot, to connect with their present tracks in Lincoln street; also for the right to connect by a curve track with the track of the South Boston Railroad at the corner of Lincoln and Beach streets.

To the Committee on Bridges. Henry B. Rookes, for employment as master carpenter on bridges.

To the Joint Committee on Ordinances. Michael F. Lynch, that the City Council consider the expediency of consolidating the Sewer, Paving and Water departments under one management, and placing the care of the public grounds under the management of the Park Commissioners, and for a hearing on the petition.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for appointment of joint special committee to resume all matters relating to a system of improved sewerage. Laid on the table, on motion of Alderman Clark.

Order for Superintendent of Public Buildings, under the direction of the committee on that department, to supply the necessary furniture for, and make repairs upon, the several high, grammar and primary schoolhouses. Passed. Sent down.

Order for the Committee on County Buildings to make all needed repairs on the Court House and other county buildings. Passed.

Order for the Committee on County Buildings to provide the necessary furniture for the Court House and other county buildings. Passed.

Order for the Superintendent of Public Buildings, under the direction of the committee on that department, to provide the necessary furniture for the City Hall and the several engine houses and police stations. Passed. Sent down.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to remove without delay any and all structures hereafter built into or upon the sidewalks of public streets, which incommode public travel. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to grant permits to open the public streets where necessary, pursuant to the 10th and 11th sections of the Ordinance on Streets. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to number or renumber any street which may require the same. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to contract, from time to time, for the purchase of horses, hay, grain and paving stones, etc. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to lay crosswalks and pave gutters where Committee on Paving think it necessary. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to set edge-stones and pave sidewalks where abutters agree to pay one-half the cost. Passed.

Order for Superintendent of Streets to put fences on lines of open or unimproved lots where the public safety demands the same. Passed.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report and orders referring the several topics of the Mayor's address to appropriate committees, among which are a Committee on Improved Sewerage (Messrs. Sampson, Paine, Blodgett, Thorndike and Ham to be joined), and a Committee on Public Parks (Messrs. Thompson, Stone and Coe to be joined). Orders passed in concurrence. The Mayor said the committees named would be announced at the next meeting.

Order (amended) for Committee on East Boston Ferries to consider the subject of amending the East Boston Ferry ordinance, so that tolls shall be based on the cost of running the ferries. Passed in concurrence.

An order proposing a petition for an act to authorize the cancellation of city bonds by the Sinking Fund Commissioners came up referred to the Committee on Finance. Concurred.

Order for Committee on Reduction of Expenses to consider the subject of establishing a department of supplies, etc. Passed in concurrence.

Order for Committee on Public Buildings to consider the expediency of furnishing a second elevator for the City Hall. Passed in concurrence.

ELECTIONS.

Trustees of Public Library. A report came up nominating Alderman Clark and Common Councilmen Howes and R. Pope as Trustees of Public Library, with certificates of election of John T. Clark, Richard Pope and Charles H. Reed as Trustees of the Public Library.

The report was accepted in concurrence.

Alderman Thompson—I wish to state that I was a member of the committee appointed to nominate Trustees of the Public Library, and I was a member of the Standing Committee on the Public Library last year. Consequently I took a special interest in the selection of candidates, on the part of the City Council, for that position. Every member of the City Council nominated received the unanimous vote of the committee, who felt quite satisfied with the result of their deliberations. Their nominees, as a whole, were not sustained by the Common Council, in consequence of the misconstruction of a letter written by Mr. Howes. I say misconstruction, Mr. Chairman, from the fact of my acquaintance with Mr. Howes. I have been associated with him during the past year on one of the most important committees of the City Council, and I feel perfectly justified in saying that the meaning of the letter written by him, as it appeared in the public prints, was misconstrued; and I trust that the board will unanimously sustain the nominations of the committee. I hope that it will be done as an act of justice to an efficient and valuable member of the City Council. I would also state, that Mr. Howes has been returned for the third time by the unanimous vote of his constituents—both Democrats and Republicans voting for him. I move that the Board now proceed to a ballot.

An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Wilder and Breck.

Whole number of votes.....	11
Necessary to a choice.....	6
Alderman John T. Clark.....	10
Councilman R. Pope.....	11
Councilman O. Howes, Jr.....	11

And Messrs. Clark and Pope were declared elected in concurrence, and Mr. Howes in non-concurrence. Sent down.

Directors of East Boston Ferries. A report came up nominating Alderman Breck and Common Councilmen Edward Pearl and J. A. Duggan as Directors of East Boston Ferries, with certificate of election of Alderman Breck and Messrs. Pearl and Duggan as Directors of East Boston Ferries.

The report was accepted in concurrence. An election was ordered. Committee — Aldermen Wilder and Breck.

Whole number of votes.....	11
Necessary to a choice.....	6
Alderman C. H. B. Breck.....	10
Councilman Edward Pearl.....	11
Councilman John A. Duggan.....	10
Councilman Phineas J. Stone, Jr.,.....	1

And Messrs. Breck, Pearl and Duggan were declared elected in concurrence.

SEALER OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The annual report of the Sealer of Weights and Measures (City Doc. 6) was received. Sent down. There have been expended during the year $4591.88; received for adjusting and sealing, $510.57; balance to be collected $284.99; 1601 scales have been tested.

BOSTON AND CAMBRIDGE BRIDGES.

The annual report of the commissioner on bridges between Boston and Cambridge (City Doc. 12) was received. Sent down.

The West Boston Bridge draw was opened 2048 times during the year; the Canal Bridge 2748 times, and the Prison Point Bridge 419. The expenses of the West Boston and Canal bridges were $7035.39, and the rebuilding of Prison Point Bridge cost $6406.26.

SURVEY AND INSPECTION OF BUILDINGS.

The annual report of the Inspector of Buildings (City Doc. 11) was received. Sent down.

The report summarizes the general duties of the Inspector as laid down by statutes and ordinances, and then cites the act for the better protection of life in buildings occupied for public purposes in Boston. It then proceeds—

Immediately upon the passage of this act I caused a thorough reëxamination to be made of all the public schoolhouses in the city, and, by a special communication, officially called the attention of the City Council to the condition of certain public buildings that were unsafe in the matter of egress and from fire. The buildings referred to were some of our public schoolhouses, and their present position is substantially the same as when first reported to you. I would, therefore, again respectfully call your attention to the matter. The Brooklyn calamity was the occasion of the department making another examination, and in a more thorough manner than had ever heretofore been attempted, and, for the time being, the entire force of the department was placed upon their inspection.

In these examinations, in the matter of egress, I have avoided hasty action, and such requisitions have been issued as appeared to be necessary after a careful survey of the condition and capacities of the premises, especial attention being given to utilizing to their utmost extent existing and available resources before requiring new and radical ones, and that the alterations required should not affect the strength of the building, and that, when completed, the resulting benefits would commend themselves alike to the owners as well as to the public. No requirement has been made upon any building in excess of contingent exigencies, but where radical alterations were found to be necessary no hesitation was exhibited in requiring them to their fullest extent.

In the matter of appliances for the extinguishment of fire there is no excuse whatever for their absence, and any neglect or refusal to provide the most complete and speedy methods for this purpose, particularly in view of the occupancy of buildings not especially designed and planned with reference to the furnishing of facilities of egress, should be recognized as a criminal act, having especial notice among the penalties of the law. The loss attendant at the destruction of the Brooklyn Theatre was a fearful commentary upon the lack of attention given in this theatre to the subject, and the remarkable rapidity with which the flames spread throughout the building, and the shortness of time required for its total destruction, showed the headway that a fire can obtain in a building constructed in the usual manner of this class, under these circumstances. I am informed that, upon the eventful night, the theatre was under the control and management of a visiting company; that there were no appliances upon the premises available for the extinguishment of fire, those previously there having been removed.

In addition to this, I am also informed that, to ventilate the galleries, recourse was had to the construction of a wooden ventilating flue, extending from the rear of the theatre up towards the ventilator in the roof, over the centre of the auditorium.

Apparently these were the two main causes of the calamity. There were other causes, however, cooperating with these, and accelerating them in a remarkable degree—the combustible interior finish; the opening of the doors of the stage entrance, giving additional velocity and volume to the flames and smoke in their progress towards the front of the theatre; the extinguishment of the gas-lights, leaving the occupants of the gallery passage in darkness; the absence there of hand rails for proper support; the occurrence of the jam, from which in the darkness, they were unable to extricate themselves before death by suffocation forestalled the still more painful one by fire.

In my requisitions made upon our theatres, I have had in view—

The complete separation of the stage portion of the theatre from the auditorium, for a length of time amply sufficient to allow, in a case of emergency, an audience to leave the premises without danger.

To provide, upon the stage, the most effective system in use for the extinguishment of fire.

To provide such liberal means of egress, by increasing the number of exits, where practicable, and also by the removal of obstructions, as to materially diminish the chances of the occurrence of a stoppage, and the time heretofore required to vacate the building.

To require special protection from the causes of fire.

To provide ample supply of water.

Protection from combustible interior finish.

Provision for escape for the employes.

For the purpose of establishing, for the time being, in a case of emergency, a complete separation between the stage portion of the theatre and the auditorium, I have required the proscenium walls to be lined up with tin or iron, or made non-combustible, their full width and height, up to the inside of the roof of the building. The proscenium openings are to be provided with a wire curtain, to be covered on the outside with a substantial non-combustible covering; and over the proscenium opening, and on the inside of the proscenium wall, is to be placed a perforated wrought-iron pipe, connected with high service, for the purpose of pouring down upon the curtain a continuous spray of water. The combination of these three appliances is new; the wire will hold the flames in check, the unflammable material secured to it confine the smoke, and the continuous streams of water maintain the integrity of the curtain intact, for a length of time amply sufficient to protect an audience while retiring.

For the purpose of extinguishing fire I have required a system of wrought-iron perforated pipes, connected with high service, sufficient in number and so placed that the entire stage, scenery and the ceiling above can be instantly drenched with a continuous shower of water. Where not already done, I have required telegraphic communication with the nearest engine house. I have also recommended the service of a regular fire patrol who shall be always upon the premises when occupied by the public, and have charge and control of all apparatus and appliances for the extinguishment of fire. Movable gas lights have been ordered to be removed and stationary ones substituted. Woodwork and combustible material to be removed and kept from heating apparatus. The use of electricity in lighting those theatres not already provided with it.

The Boston Theatre.

Special requisitions upon this theatre were as follows:

An additional means of egress by cutting a doorway eight feet wide through the northerly wall, with metal-covered doors opening outwards.

The window openings in this wall to be unbarred.

Afford additional means of egress from gallery to auditorium, by reopening the closed stairway.

The four closed aisles in the first gallery to be reopened.

The outer door of stage entrance to be made to swing outwards.

A metal-covered door to doorway of fire room, and the ceiling over the boiler to be protected.

The wooden ventilator of boiler house to be protected.

The hand rail to circular stairways to be secured.

The ceiling underneath the stage to be protected.

Two iron balcony fire-escapes on the south side of the building, and one iron balcony fire-escape on the north side of the building, for means of escape from dressing rooms.

The Boston Museum.

The special requirements upon this theatre were as follows:

Build a stairway from the easterly part of stage to the corridor of the second story, connecting with entrance on Court square.

Provide metal-covered doors to doorway opening connecting stage with box-office.

Make a new passageway from the balcony circle, through to upper balcony of exhibition hall.

Remodel stairway at the southeast corner of exhibition hall, increasing its width and making square landings.

Enlarge aisles by removing seats in parquet.

Move the Court-square stairway forward, and widen the same to nine feet six inches.

Build a new flight of stairs from exhibition room to corridor, nine feet wide.

Remove circular stairway extending from auditorium to corridor, and build a straight stairway with square landings, to floor of exhibition room, the said stairway to be not less than nine feet wide.

Provide an iron-balcony fire escape to east side of building.

Rebuild partition separating the corridor from the store of Messrs. Smith, Doolittle & Smith, with non-combustible material.

Place to the ceiling of the above-mentioned store a system of perforated wrought-iron pipes, with suitable connection, and rebuild the partition, separating the chemical or compounding room from the store, and the partition separating the packing room from the store, of non-combustible material.

All openings in said partitions to be provided with metal-covered doors.

The Howard Athenæum.

The special requirements upon this theatre were as follows:

The stairways extending from the floor of first story to floor of auditorium to be increased in width eighteen inches.

The stairways extending from the parquet lobby to balcony to be made straight, and also not less than five feet wide.

The circular gallery stairway at the northeast corner of building to be removed, and a stairway, with two straight flights, having a square landing, to be built and to connect with outside stairway extending from the second story to the street.

The said stairway is to be enclosed with brick or with iron.

At the northwest corner of building a gallery stairway, with three straight flights and square landings, is to be built, and is to be enclosed with iron.

Two iron balcony fire-escapes, with ladders, are to be provided for the use of the employes—one to be placed upon the east side of building and one upon the west side, with suitable connections.

The wooden floor over boiler to be removed and a fire-proof one built in its stead.

A new flooring is to be built to old balcony, outside of building.

The aisles in the auditorium of theatre are to be closed up, and new ones made radiating towards the head of stairways.

The rear row of seats in balcony to be removed.

The partition separating the seats in the gallery from the passageway to be removed.

The Globe Theatre.

Upon this theatre the following special requirements have been issued:

Build one brick wall sixteen and twelve inches thick, to separate the southerly wing from the main building, the said wall to be the width of the said wing and to be carried the full height of building. All openings in this wall are to be provided with metal-covered doors.

The wooden partition separating the easterly wing from the main building to be sheathed with iron or tin, or made non-combustible. The doorway in this partition to be provided with a metal-covered door, and all other openings to be closed.

The stairway leading to the auditorium from Essex-street entrance to be altered to an inclined plane.

The short stairway leading to auditorium from main entrance to be altered to an inclined plane.

The southerly balcony stairway to be extended, increased in width, and the projecting partition is to be removed.

The gallery stairway of the Washington-street entrance to be provided with a hand rail.

The gallery stairs of the Essex-street entrance to be provided with two hand rails.

A new aisle to be made in the gallery, and so placed as to connect the two main lobby entrances.

Index signs and words to be painted upon the walls, pointing out the exits to Essex street and Hayward place.

The front-balcony entrance to be widened three feet by removing projecting partition.

An iron balcony staircase to be placed at the east side of the east wing of main building, to include all stories but the first.

Passages from the corridor in each story of said wing to be opened to connect with said iron staircase and balcony.

Combustible interior finish to be removed and the walls and ceilings protected.

Music Hall.

Upon this hall I have made the following requirements:

The doors of the Bromfield-street entrance are to be made to open outwards.

Aisles at the southwest corner of galleries to be widened. A new exit, twelve feet wide, is to be made through the westerly wall, opening into Hamilton place.

Investigations are in progress at the present time, both in this country and in England, to ascertain the extent that protection can be obtained in theatres whose interiors have been constructed without special attention having been given to safety from fire, and any substantial progress made in these investigations will be immediately recognized by the department. It is claimed by some that standpipes with hose connections are adequate, and that they will afford all the protection that may be required. In my opinion, however, they are insufficient; the time consumed in running out the hose, in turning on the water, and in getting into position, and, in addition, the liability of the hose to accident, and the danger of being driven away from the fire, call for a more ready and reliable means of protection.

The sprinklers that I have required will be always in place, and also be in the most desirable position for practical operation and effect, and are of a material and of such strength as to be not liable to get out of order, and will last for many years. They constitute at present the most effectual method known for the extinguishment of fire, and the ease and readiness with which they can be brought into operation, the shortness of time required, and the certainty of their action, commend them to the favorable opinion of the public. The necessity for some such method is apparent when we consider that the stage of a theatre is generally filled to a considerable height with material known to be of a highly combustible nature, and in order to prevent a fire from getting under such a headway as to be beyond control, it is of the utmost importance that the fire-extinguishing appliances be brought promptly into action, before the opening of the doors of the building produce such a draft as to powerfully augment the momentum and volume of the flames.

The new curtain which has been devised will practically close up the proscenium opening, and thus separate, for the time being, the auditorium from the stage. Constructed of wire gauze, with a strong and firm non-combustible covering secured to the outside, and protected by continuous sprays of water from a pipe located immediately over the curtain, sufficient confidence may be placed in it by an audience, in a case of fire, to dismiss all fears, upon making an orderly retreat from the premises.

While I consider the requisitions that have been issued on these buildings the most practical and effective that can be required, I am of the opinion that it is necessary that an advanced step be taken, and the building law be so amended, as to require upon all new buildings of this class, fire-proof construction throughout.

The New Amendment to the Building Law.

At the last session of the Legislature a petition was presented requesting an important modification of the building law. This petition was presented in the interest of a gentleman who, for several years past has been active in his endeavors to procure such amendments to the law as would permit the erection of thin walls; the ostensible object being the building of cheap homes for the working people. It was purposed to legalize the erection of these cheap buildings in the more thickly-settled and desirable portions of the city, and after considerable opposition, and against the remonstrances of many of the principal architects and the entire insurance interests, the bill was passed, but with an amendment limiting the area of its operation to that portion of the city not included within the building limits.

There has been but one permit issued during the year to erect a building under the provisions of this act.

The Operations of the Department.

Brick, stone and iron buildings, 200; wood and frame buildings, 532; wooden sheds for which special permits have been issued to erect upon wharves, within the building limits of the city, 17 buildings for which permits have been issued to have additions built to them, or alterations and repairs made upon them, 1936; steam engines and steam boilers set, 110; ovens erected, 15; kilns built, 6; furnaces set, 17; notices received of intention to put in heating apparatus, 257; violations recorded, 452; cases referred to the City Solicitor, 30; unsafe buildings, walls, etc., 77; dangerous chimneys, 374; unsafe heating apparatus, 32; unsafe lighting apparatus, 40; defective flues, 7; unsafe flagstaves, etc., 6; buildings examined that were damaged by fire, 291; requisitions issued for fire escapes and additional means of egress, 62; hoistways and elevators examined, 84; public halls, etc., examined, with reference to granting a license to occupy the same, 26; street signs licensed by the Board of Aldermen, examined with reference to their security, 15; brick buildings completed during the year, 266; wooden or frame buildings completed, 613; buildings upon which alterations have been made and to which additions have been built, or upon which repairs have been made, 1785; estimated cost of the erection of the brick buildings, not including the land, $5,343,575; estimated cost of the erection of the wooden or frame buildings, $1,383,555; estimated cost of alterations, additions and repairs, $1,335,446; estimated cost of securing unsafe buildings, unsafe walls, unsafe foundations, dangerous chimneys, etc., $22,728; estimated cost of the erection of ovens, furnaces, etc., and the setting of steam engines, steam boilers, not including the cost of the boilers, $32,270; estimated cost of setting heating apparatus, not including the cost of the apparatus, $9220; estimated cost of protecting hoistway openings, $3518.

Total number of examinations made is 23,526; the number of notices issued, 852.

Unsafe Buildings.

To a certain extent the work of the department is confidential, general publicity being given only to permits issued for the erection of new buildings.

In the examinations of buildings with reference to their safety, security, means of egress, fire escapes, or improper or defective construction, or the existence on them of violations of the building law, a strong feeling of repugnance is usually manifested by the owner, or other interested party, to having the condition of their property made the subject of public comment in the newspapers; and in view of this feeling, so pointedly manifested, the department has abstained from publishing its work in this direction, when the interest of the public would not be jeopardized.

The following exhibit will show, in tabular form, the number that have been secured, etc.:

	Rebuilt.....	Secured.....	Taken down...	Not completed	Total
Unsafe buildings.....	12	5	4	23
“ walls.....	13	3	4	20
“ cornice.....	1	.....	.....	1
“ conductor.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ floors and roof.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ foundation.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ gutter.....	1	.....	.....	1
“ lintel.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ overloaded floor.....	1	.....	.....	1
“ pier.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ railing.....	1	.....	.....	1
“ slate.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ staging.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ ventilator.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Dangerous chimneys.....	305	30	1	336
Defective flues.....	.....	5	2	7
Unsafe flagstaff.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ forge.....	1	.....	.....	1
“ furnace.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ heating apparatus.....	.....	4	.....	4
“ lantern.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ lighting apparatus.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
“ sign.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Total.....	316	85	13	122	536

Fire and Accident Record.

The number of buildings reported as damaged by fire and accident is 291.

This number does not include those buildings where the loss was confined to the contents of the building, nor those where the damage was less than five dollars.

These buildings are carefully surveyed, and any defect in their construction is required to be remedied.

The following table will show the number of these buildings in each ward, their estimated value and the estimated loss:

Ward.	No. of Brick Buildings.	Estimated Loss.	No. of Wooden Buildings.	Estimated Loss.	Total No. of Buildings.	Estimated Total Value.	Estimated Total Loss.
1.....	1	$50	21	$9,031	22	$28,500	$9,081
2.....	2	505	17	3,730	19	36,050	4,235
3.....	.....	.....	3	95	3	6,900	95
4.....	1	25	10	2,770	11	30,250	2,795
5.....	3	458	2	215	5	26,075	673
6.....	15	14,455	4	225	19	111,300	14,680
7.....	7	1,295	4	1,355	11	86,800	2,650
8.....	1	75	1	200	2	11,500	275
9.....	.....	2,025	.....	.....	.....	5,500	2,025
10.....	17	12,955	.....	.....	17	289,500	12,955
11.....	13	31,010	.....	.....	14	963,000	12,955
12.....	15	6,360	7	2,340	22	247,000	8,700
13.....	5	4,125	11	1,935	20	76,280	6,060
14.....	.....	.....	15	3,390	11	17,900	3,590
15.....	1	50	14	4,160	16	123,830	9,210
16.....	6	1,650	2	910	8	75,800	2,560
17.....	9	7,570	3	950	12	207,300	8,520
18.....	5	6,805	1	25	6	107,200	6,830
19.....	2	50	8	460	10	16,700	510
20.....	.....	.....	10	5,040	10	18,600	5,040
21.....	1	10	2	47,700	3	47,700	2,170
22.....	.....	.....	3	7,550	6	128,600	10,550
23.....	.....	.....	18	18,720	18	48,250	18,720
24.....	.....	.....	17	3,225	18	91,380	3,270
25.....	.....	.....	5	10,425	5	12,000	10,425
Total.....	107	$80,473	178	$79,101	291	$2,813,915	$176,654

One iron building in Ward 15 was damaged to the extent of $5000, and five stone buildings at $3080.

Examinations.

The daily outside work of the department consists in the constant supervision of the buildings in the city, with reference to safety, and their conformity with legal requirements, the following table being a summary of this work:

New buildings.....	12,356
Additions, alterations and repairs.....	8,292
Special examinations.....	163
Insufficient egress and fire-escape.....	633
Hoistway examinations.....	223
Steam engine and boilers.....	199
Unsafe buildings.....	216
Dangerous chimneys.....	660
Defective flues.....	12
Unsafe heating apparatus.....	18
Fire.....	306
Sundry.....	448

Total number of examinations..... 23,526

Completed Buildings.

The whole number of brick buildings completed during the year is two hundred and sixty-six, at an estimated cost of five million three hundred forty-three thousand five hundred seventy-five dollars ($5,343,575). These buildings contain one hundred fourteen stores, and are constructed to accommodate four hundred eighty-two families.

The whole number of wood and frame buildings completed is six hundred thirteen (613), at an estimated cost of one million three hundred eighty-three thousand five hundred fifty-five dollars ($1,383,555). These buildings contain twenty-seven stores, and are constructed to accommodate five hundred seventy-six families.

The number of buildings upon which alterations have been made is seventeen hundred eighty-five, at an estimated cost of one million three hundred thirty-five thousand four hundred forty-six dollars ($1,335,446).

Table Showing the Number of Completed Buildings, etc., during the Year, together with the Estimated Cost.

	No. of Buildings.	No. of Families.	No. of Stores.	Estimated Cost.
Brick buildings....	266	482	114	$5,343,575
Wooden or frame buildings.....	613	576	27	1,383,555
Additions, alterations and repairs.....	1,785	....	....	1,335,446
Unsafe buildings secured.....	60	....	....	15,780
Setting heating furnaces, etc.....	200	....	....	9,220
Ovens, furnaces, steam engines and boilers.....	235	....	....	32,270
Dangerous chimneys secured.....	425	....	....	6,948
Hoistways.....	68	....	....	3,518
Totals.....	3,652	1,058	141	$8,130,312

BOND APPROVED.

The bond of John MacConnell, constable, being presented duly certified, was approved by the Board.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports as follows from the Committee on Licenses:

Minors' Applications Granted—1 bootblack, 9 newsboys.

Common Victnallers Licensed—William Spurgeon, 254 Tremont street; Joseph Vanderslice, 626 Broadway.

Billiard Licenses Granted—J. G. Cooper, Providence Railroad depot; John B. Fisher, 316 Broadway; Artemas B. Sherman, Harrison Square.

Junk Dealer Licensed—John E. Adler, 32 Hampshire street.

Dealer in Second-Hand Articles Licensed—Mary E. Roberts, 109½ Blackstone street.

Amusement License Granted—Professor S. S. Baldwin, to give lectures exposing Spiritualism at Tremont Temple, Jan. 22-27.

Intelligence Offices Licensed—Ellen Howard, 913 Washington street; Anna Peterson, 16 Staniford street.

Auctioneers Licensed—Andrew P. Fisher, 8 and 10 Maverick square; John Glancy, 13 New Cross street; Michael J. Moss, 790 Washington street; Patrick Kilroy, 1368 Tremont street; M. Frank Paige (renewal), 125-127 Pearl street.

Junk Collector Licensed—John W. Morris, 380 Bennington street.

Wagon License Granted—John W. Morris, 380 Bennington street.

Bowling Alley Licensed—Catherine T. Tripp, 21 Fleet street.

Severally accepted.

Report on petition of Poland & Peabody for omnibus line, with an order of notice to the South Boston Railroad Company and all others interested, that the Board will consider the subject on Monday, Jan. 29, at 4½ P. M., when all parties objecting may be heard. Order passed.

FANEUIL HALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report in favor of granting the use of Faneuil Hall to Otis Norcross et al., for a public meeting Jan. 23. Accepted.

COST OF PUBLISHING ORDERS OF NOTICE.

Alderman Breck submitted a report that the Committee on Ordinances on the part of the Board had consulted the City Solicitor, who informs them that there is no legal objection to passing the order relating to the payment by petitioners of the cost of advertising orders of notice, and the committee recommend its passage. The order was passed.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Reports and orders for hearing, on Monday, Feb. 19, at 4 P. M., on petitions of South Boston Railroad Company for leave to run their cars to Causeway street, and Metropolitan Railroad Company for location in Lexington, Prescott and Liverpool streets. Orders passed.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Henry Gassett et al., for plank walk on Centre street, Ward 24.

Report and order to pay Robert Povah and Helen his wife $250 for grade damages at 68 West Sixth street. Order read twice and passed.

Report and order to pay John Cronin and Mary his wife $500 for grade damages at 280, 282 and 284 Dorchester avenue, and rescinding order of Dec. 30, 1876, to pay John Cronin said amount for said damages. Order read twice and passed, after an explanation by Alderman Fitzgerald that after the passage of the order of last year it was found that the wife had an interest in the estate with her husband, and the City Solicitor had decided that the original order was defective. This order is to pay the husband and wife jointly.

SUPPLIES FOR LAMP DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Thompson offered an order, That the Superintendent of Lamps be, and he is hereby authorized under the approval of the Committee on Lamps during the municipal year 1877, to contract for and purchase the lamp posts, brackets, burners, tips, cocks, lanterns, tools, stable supplies, and such other articles as shall be found necessary for the carrying on of the Lamp Department; also to employ such number of men as may be necessary; the cost thereof to be charged to the appropriation for Lamps. Read twice and passed.

REFERENCE OF CLAIMS FOR STREET DAMAGES.

Alderman Clark offered an order, That whenever the Committee on Streets of this Board deem it for the best interest of the city to refer claims for damages or betterments relating to the laying out or widening of streets to arbitration for settlement, the said committee is hereby authorized to refer such claims, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor and the City Solicitor. Read twice and passed.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to repair and fit up the armory occupied by Company D, Fourth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at the corner of Orleans and Webster streets; the expense, not exceeding the sum of $250, to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Read twice and passed.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted a report of leave to withdraw from the Committee on Public Lands on petition of Maria Davis et al., for abatement of assessment on account of raising the grade of the Northampton-street district. Accepted. Sent down.

FRANKLIN FUND.

Alderman Burnham offered an order, That a committee of two members of this Board be appointed to examine the accounts of the treasurer of the Franklin Fund. Read twice and passed.

Aldermen Burnham and Wilder were appointed said committee.

PERMITS FOR STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, in favor of granting leave, on the usual conditions, to occupy stables by J. E. Lyons, 282 Princeton street; Abraham B. Shedd, rear 300 Main street; George T. McLauthlin, Park street, Ward 22. Severally accepted.

SEWERS.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Sewers, with orders for assessment and collection of cost of sewers in Sargent street and Lawrence and Blue Hill avenues. Orders severally passed.

COOPER-STREET ARMORY.

Alderman Fitzgerald, from the Joint Committee on Public Buildings, submitted an order, That the Committee on Public Buildings be authorized to sell by auction the land and building belonging to the city situated on Cooper street and known as the Cooper-street Armory, there being no further use for the same; the proceeds of sale to be paid to the City Collector.

Alderman Fitzgerald—That order passed through the Committee on Public Buildings at their last meeting. An order like it was passed by the last City Government, but the committee had not time to complete the sale of the building. The building is unoccupied, but latterly has been used as a primary school. The windows are broken and it costs a good deal to keep it in repair, and there is no further use for it. The committee ask leave to sell it by public auction; whether this is the time to do that is for the City Council to consider.

The order went over under the rule.

Adjourned on motion of Alderman Gibson; and stood adjourned to Tuesday, Jan. 23, at 7½ P. M., for a convention with the School Committee.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

JANUARY 25, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Annual reports of Sealer of Weights and Measures, Commissioner on Bridges between Boston and Cambridge, and Inspector of Buildings. Severally placed on file.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report leave to withdraw on the petition of Maria Davis et al., for abatement of assessment on account of raising the grade of Northampton-street district. Accepted in concurrence.

Order to supply furniture for and make repairs on schoolhouses; order to provide furniture for and make repairs on the City Hall, engine houses and police stations. Severally ordered to a second reading.

Trustee of Public Library. A certificate came from the other branch, of the election of Osborne Howes, Jr., in place of Charles H. Reed, chosen by this Council.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—I desire to express my thanks to the members of the Common Council for my election, at the last meeting, to represent them as a Trustee of the Public Library for the ensuing year. Their action is all the more appreciated as it came to me unexpected and without solicitation. The present year has opened with a unity of action on the part of the members of the Council which is duly to be praised, and I trust, in view of the many important measures to come before us, that it may continue during the year. Therefore I request that the members who voted for me at the last meeting will consider that I am not a candidate; and I call attention to the regular nomination which is now before them for concurrence.

A ballot was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Smardon of Ward 10, Brown of Ward 23, and Spenceley of Ward 19.

Whole number of votes.....	62
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Osborne Howes, Jr., had.....	48
Charles H. Reed.....	12
C. J. Spenceley.....	1
George L. Ruffin.....	1

And Mr. Howes was declared elected in concurrence.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for Committee on Bathing to repair and maintain the bathing houses, to employ assistance, and take measures for care and preservation of said houses; orders for City Surveyor and City Engineer to make purchases of supplies, instruments and drawing materials, and to incur other necessary expenses; order for Superintendent of Health to make contracts for purchase of hay, grain, horses, exchanges and materials. Severally passed in concurrence.

DOCUMENTS FOR SOCIAL LAW LIBRARY.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—I move to reconsider the vote whereby was passed the order to furnish the Social Law Library two copies of the Revised Ordinances and other publications of the city, as therein specified. I make this motion, sir, in order to move, if it prevails, that the order be referred to the Committee on Printing, which is the usual channel for such matters, they having the disposition of such documents generally. When the order was passed at the last meeting it was very late in the evening, and the fact that it had not been referred to the Committee on Printing escaped my attention.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—The Social Law Library, as many members of this Council are aware, is an old institution in Boston. It was incorporated in 1814 and since that time has acquired the position and held it—and does today—of the best law library in New England. The library is open to free consultation and examination by the judges of all the courts of this State and of the United States; to all the prosecuting officers of the courts of this State and the United States; to the members of the General Court, and, in general, to the civil officers of the State. It is also open to members of the bar, by the terms of its charter, I think, who do not have a regular place of business in the county of Suffolk. It is open to the members of the bar in the county of Suffolk who either own a share in the library, upon which there is an annual assessment of $5, or who pay what is called an annual subscription of $10. It is thus open virtually to all citizens for consultation upon all matters through their counsel, or by introduction to the librarian or to any of the trustees. In fact, it is as completely and singularly as public an institution as any institution of the kind can be which is obliged to rely upon its own revenues to pay its expenses. I make this explanation in detail, because many of the gentlemen here may not know all the claims of the library. The library has a very central location, and a very large collection of books; its terms are made as low as possible, consistently with the keeping of the books in repair and in good order and the cost of taking care of the library will allow. It is in many respects a meritorious institution, and a public benefit. Now, the price of two copies of the Revised Ordinances is a very small item; but we all know how these institutions must husband their resources, and how even trifles assist them. It is an assistance to the library that our Representatives in Congress send them documents from Washington; that our Representatives in the Legislature send them public documents from the State House; and I think it will be nothing more than disposing, in a manner for the public benefit, of the documents contemplated in the order which I offered at the last meeting, for this City Council to bestow upon this institution two copies of the Revised Ordinances and of the supplements as they may be issued, and also one copy each of the other bound publications of the city. Many persons may not be aware of the great convenience and importance of having these documents easily accessible, without the expenditure of time, when some questions are to be examined and decided upon in haste, as they frequently are; and gentlemen of this Council who are members of the bar will bear me out in saying that it is a great convenience, at the Social Law Library, to have a full set of these documents. I am informed by the librarian that he has heretofore been furnished with one copy of the ordinances by coming here and asking for it of the Printing Committee. He says it will be very desirable for the purposes of the library to have one copy for permanent use in the library, that cannot be taken away, and one copy that can be taken out as other books are; and that is the reason why the order was drawn to cover two copies of the ordinances. This is a small matter, and perhaps might well have gone to the Committee on Printing. I should not have objected to its reference to the Committee on Printing in the first instance; in fact, I do not know that I have any serious objection to the reconsideration prevailing and the order going to the Committee on Printing; but inasmuch as it passed, and inasmuch as the object was to leave the Committee on Printing free from any imputation of partiality toward one institution, and also to make it a permanent thing, I thought it better to bring it up in this form. I cannot object very strongly to the reconsideration, but at the same time I see no advantage in it. I therefore hope that the order will be allowed to stand as it has been passed, and that the reconsideration will not prevail.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—I have no desire to argue the question of the propriety of furnishing these publications to the Social Law Library, but it does seem to me that the proper and usual disposition of an order of this kind is to refer it to some committee; and in this case it would be the Committee on Printing. I think, however, so far as I am personally concerned—of course I do not speak for the committee—that we should be careful how we begin voting these documents—more especially the laws and ordinances—away to private associations or individuals, especially as they are all for sale. As far as my limited experience goes, if we once begin it is pretty hard for a committee, or for the Council, to draw the line—having given them to a party with an equal claim—and stop. I would state that a member of the Committee on Ordinances of last year, under whose supervision this work of revision was done—and who is also a member of the present Council—made application for a certain number of copies of the Revised Ordinances, stating that the members of the Committee on Ordinances, who gave a great deal of time to it, had more claim to them than other members of the Council. The Committee on Printing considered that that committee had claims, and voted them one copy in addition to those given other members, but that was a reduction from the number asked for. I merely state that in explanation of the fact that we did not give more than one copy extra to members who had worked a great deal upon the matter, and because the question has been raised whether we should give more than one copy to individuals.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I understood the gentleman [Mr. Pratt] to state that the law library is open to members of the Legislature. I should like to inquire if it is open to members of the City Government?

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I would not undertake to answer by the book, but my understanding is that all the civil officers of the State—and the members of the Common Council are civil officers—have the privileges of the library. In answer to one point raised by the gentleman [Mr. Pierce] on the Printing Committee, I would say that I think it would be a very small consideration for this Council to pay for the large use made of the library by the City Solicitor and his department in referring to the very large collection of books, from the times of the year books until this time, if we in our turn furnish the Law Library with copies of the city ordinances and of the city reports for the use of the other members of the library.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—Having been on the Printing Committee in past years, I would merely say that the custom of the Council has been—and it seems to me it would be proper, as the gentleman on behalf of the committee has said—to refer such matters to the Printing Committee. The Social Law Library is substantially a free institution to the judges and lawyers, and I do not doubt the Printing Committee would furnish it with one or more copies; but it seems to me that in the ordinary course of business the order should be referred to that committee.

The reconsideration prevailed, and on motion of Mr. Pierce of Ward 24, the order was referred to the Committee on Printing. Sent up.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 presented the annual report of the Superintendent of Public Lands (City Doc. No. 14). Sent up.

The sales of lands during the year have amounted to $2844, of which $288 have been received in cash, and a bond for the remainder has been taken. There have also been received from rents, etc., $2925.33. The expenses of the department were $4195.53. The number of feet of salable lands in charge of the committee is—in city proper 369,739, in South Boston 562,737, in Boston Highlands 750,130, in Dorchester 1,759,253, in Charlestown 49,240 feet and one lot valued at $50,000; 18 acres in Brighton; in West Roxbury 48,816 and on the Northampton-street district 183,708 feet.

SEWERS.

Mr. Clarke of ward 22 presented the annual report of the Superintendent of Sewers (City Doc. 13). Sent up.

The expenditures for 1876 were $211,987.73. Following is a statement of the work of laying sewers:

City proper,	4,467 feet	.....	$13,503.31
Charlestown,	1,485 "	.....	2,168.91
East Boston,	902 "	.....	1,316.79
South Boston,	1,945 "	.....	7,699.39
Roxbury,	9,029 "	.....	33,370.97
W. Roxbury,	21,179 "	.....	49,748.41
Dorchester,	12,769 "	.....	34,147.64
Miscellaneous,		.....	70,032.32

Total, 51,776 feet, or 9.8 miles.... $211,987.74

There are now in the whole city about 175 miles of sewers.

The items of miscellaneous expenses are as follows: Stony Brook, land taken in West Roxbury, $2786.16; Stony Brook, culvert at Forest Hills, $3439.30; land damages for sewers, $24,369.69; repairing sewers and outlets, $6246.15; cleaning sewers and outlets, $2286.58; dredging at outlets, $4168.12; covering manholes, $505.35; repairing streets, $796.99; work for other departments, $1065.43; stationery and printing, $1128.53; horse and keeping, $502.68; hardware and blacksmithing, $353.58; teaming, $302.21; salaries and office expenses, $8936.12; yards and lockers, $1109.24; repairing wharf, $500; sundry small expenses, $947.82; committee expenses, $745.55; water rates, $250; labor not charged elsewhere, $1019.95; increase in stock of pipe, $3482.87; total miscellaneous, $70,032.32.

The principal work the past season has been in Jamaica Plain, West Roxbury, and in Harriso Square, Dorchester, and drainage facilities are provided for nearly all the improved portions of the suburbs within four miles of City Hall. The new culvert for Stony Brook, at Forest Hills station, was finished during the summer, and the whole question of the improvement of this channel has been referred to the Street Commissioners. In arranging a system of sewers for any district, the size is governed chiefly by the amount of water which must be carried away in heavy rain storms, and the details of the plan are regulated by the points where the sewers are to receive this water, and the quantity at each. At present this important feature of the system is entirely beyond the control of this department. The catch basins for street water are located and built by the Paving Department, entered into any sewer that can be found, and often in an improper manner; no plans made, and no notice given, and they are then abandoned, so far as any future care or responsibility goes. In time they are found by the employes of the Health Department, who clean out the gravel from them, and renew the covers when they are worn out. Meanwhile, instead of being the chief agency for cleansing the sewers, the discharge from them may have obstructed the current, injured the structures, and deposited gravel for a long distance below, to be tediously and expensively removed by the Sewer Department. This complexity of administration, with its pernicious results, is unknown in any other city.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petition of Isabella Jordan to be compensated for injuries received by a sled on Boston Common.

By Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—Petition of Clinton White to be paid for injuries caused by defect in highway over Charles River Bridge.

By Mr. Dee of Ward 5—Petition of E. J. Foss for compensation for injuries received while walking along Warren avenue.

Severally referred to the Joint Committee on Claims. Sent up.

NEW FIRE-ALARM BOX IN WARD 24.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Fire Department recommending the reference of the petition of S. P. Dexter et al. for a new fire-alarm box in Ward 24 to the Board of Fire Commissioners. Accepted, and said reference ordered. Sent up.

OLIVER-STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted a report from the Finance Committee, asking for the passage of an order, That the order of Sept. 30, 1867, authorizing the borrowing of $150,000 on account of Oliver-street improvement, be and hereby is rescinded, and that the Auditor of Accounts be and hereby is authorized to transfer from unexpended appropriation of the present financial year the sum, less revenue received, advanced by the Treasurer under authority of said loan to meet the Auditor's drafts drawn in payment for said Oliver-street Improvement.

Ordered to a second reading.

UNIFORMS FOR FIRE COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 offered an order, That the Committee on Fire Department be requested to prescribe a uniform to be worn by the Commissioners of the Fire Department and report an order requiring said commissioners to comply with "General Order" No. 60 so far as it relates to the wearing of uniforms.

Mr. McGaragle moved the reference of the order to the Committee on Fire Department. Declared lost. Mr. McGaragle doubting the vote, the Council divided—17 for, 25 against.

The order was refused a second reading.

EGRESS FROM SCHOOLHOUSES.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11 offered an order, That the Inspector of Buildings be requested to report to this body his opinion as to the expediency of making alterations in any of our schoolhouses as to the matter of egress.

Ordered to a second reading and put upon its passage.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—It seems to me that that order ought to be referred to the Committee on Public Buildings, and I move its reference to that committee.

Carried. Sent up.

LABOR ON PUBLIC GROUNDS.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18 offered an order, That the Committee on Common and Public Grounds be authorized to expend an additional sum of $1200 for labor on the public grounds; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Common and Public Grounds.

Mr. Howes—The order has not been before the Committee on Public Grounds, as it should have been, but I have received a note stating that unless it is passed tonight the men will have to wait several days for their pay, as the Auditor cannot pay them on the first of the month unless the order is passed before the pay roll is made up. The money has already been appropriated, but that particular portion of the general appropriation for labor has been exceeded, and this is merely to transfer a portion to this specific object.

The order was ordered to a second reading and then passed, under a suspension of the rule, on motion of Mr. Howes. Sent up.

TWENTY-SECOND OF FEBRUARY.

Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be and is hereby requested to cause the flags to be displayed and bells to be rung in different parts of the city on the twenty-second day of February next, in commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of George Washington; the expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for Incidental Expenses.

Ordered to a second reading.

SALARIES AND DUTIES OF CITY OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 offered an order, That the Committee on Salaries obtain from the heads of departments of the City Government a list of all salaried offices in said departments, with the salaries now paid and the salaries paid in 1860, or, if the office has been established since 1860, then the salary when first established; also a statement of the duties incumbent upon the person filling each office; said list to be furnished the Council as soon as possible.

The order was read twice and put upon its passage.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I would like to ask if the committee are not doing this work at the present time? It seems to me we appointed a committee to look after just this matter a few weeks ago. It seems to me that to order a committee to do what they were appointed to do is reflecting upon them.

Mr. Thompson—I have looked at the reports of the Committee on Salaries for several years past, and I have not found one covering the matters asked for in the order. I ask that a report covering those facts be laid before the Council.

Mr. Dee of Ward 5—I move that the order be referred to the Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures.

Mr. Thompson—I move as an amendment that it be referred to the Standing Committee on Salaries.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I think that the motion for a reference might perhaps be offered as an amendment to the order. The object of the order, as I understand it, is to have the committee ascertain and report to this Council the names of all persons drawing salaries—the names of all officers, as I am corrected by the gentleman offering the order—the names of officers to whom salaries are paid, and the amount of the salaries. I take it that this report, when ascertained and made, would furnish very good facts and information to consider in passing appropriation bills that will come up hereafter. Now, sir, if the order is simply referred to the Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures, or to the Standing Committee on Salaries, there will be no special object gained until it shall be reported back by them with a recommendation that it ought to pass or not to pass. I may be wrong or not, but it seems to me that the object of the gentleman who moved the reference could be better obtained by moving to amend so that the Joint Special Committee on the Reduction of Salaries and Expenditures be requested to report, etc.

The President—The Chair would call the attention of the gentleman to the fact that the order contemplates a reference of the subject to the Committee on Salaries.

Mr. Dee withdrew his motion to refer to the Joint Special Committee.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I move to amend by requiring them to report the names and residences of the officers. I think that is an important matter.

Mr. Thompson—The order, as offered, does not contemplate giving the names of the officers.

Unless the Council deem it wise, I have no desire to call for the names of the officers.

Mr. McGaragle—I understood it to call for the names and amounts.

The President read the order for information.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—The Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures are going into this matter as fast as possible. They are preparing to report on that subject, and if the gentleman wishes that order referred to the Standing Committee on Salaries it will be going over a portion of the work we are doing. If the Council sees fit to add the other part in the order, it may be included. We intend to make a report just as soon as possible, and that subject will come under a portion of the report.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I think the members here don't understand the matter as it reads. As it reads it refers it to the Standing Committee on Salaries. Now the Joint Special Committee on Salaries is an entirely different committee. They are doing this work already. They have sent to the heads of departments a request in almost the exact words of the order. It will mix it up very badly if this committee do the same thing that it is now doing.

Mr. Danforth of Ward 10—The Standing Committee on Salaries have already commenced this work, and they want this very information to make up their report from. As I understand the order, it is intended to be reported to the Council with the report of the Committee on Salaries, so that when they do report the members of the Council may have information as to the salaries not only of the heads of departments but of the clerks in those departments. That I understand is the object of the order. I should be glad to get the information before the Council or in the hands of the Salary Committee before they make their report.

Mr. Reed—We are pushing this work in order to do it, just as the gentleman requests. We shall do it without delay.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—If the Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures are going to give this information, there can be no harm in the passage of the order. All that is asked for is that it shall be laid before the Council before the Council passes upon the recommendations of either the Joint Special Committee or the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries. Some time within a month we shall be called upon to pass upon their recommendations. I for one would like to have before me, in as complete a form as possible, all the evidence in relation to the salaries of the city government; something to show what has been the increase of those salaries in the last fifteen years, and something of the nature of the duties of the individuals drawing those salaries, so that I can make some estimate in my own mind and compare them with the duties of persons in similar positions outside of City Hall. I know that in the organization of the General Government, clerkships are divided into several grades, and the salaries are adjusted to suit the duties assigned to those grades. Here, so far as I can judge from the report of the Auditor, the salaries paid persons performing pretty much the same duties are widely different; and heretofore it has been a difficult matter to adjust those salaries because the City Council has never had before it anything like complete evidence of the standing of affairs. I believe the report asked for in the order will give us something upon which we can act intelligently. I have no intention to interfere with the duties of any committee. I drew the order to refer it to the Standing Committee on Salaries, which seemed to be the proper one. They must necessarily go over the matter and they must make recommendations to the Council; and I understand, in a general way, that we must consider their recommendations before we consider those of the joint special committee. I can see no reason for objecting to obtaining this information. Then when I take up the list I see that here is one man having certain duties; he handles a great deal of the city's money, and besides the work he performs he is under the obligation of heavy bonds, and he is paid a salary commensurate with the bonds. Here is another man doing clerical work requiring particular experience; he may have spent years acquiring his particular knowledge, and if we should reduce his salary we might lose very much more than the few hundred dollars we should gain. These might correspond to clerkships of the first class. There may be clerkships of another class, in which important duties are performed, and there should be a salary established that will pay them fairly and well; and the same salary should be paid in every department for the performance of similar duties. Then there is a work that may be performed by any man who writes a fair hand and can copy papers put before him. Now it is easy to estimate what is a fair salary for that kind of labor, and my opinion is that the same salary should be paid to all clerks doing that kind of work. I look at the Auditor's report. Here is a man in one department put down as clerk, salary $3500. Now, sir, if he performs only clerical labor, and if he gives no bonds, that seems to me to be a large salary. Then I see another department where the expense is given in a round sum, and I find nothing put down for clerical expenses. After looking over that report, it occurred to me that I should like to see a list of the salaried offices, which would indicate the nature of the duties attached to each office; and therefore I put in this order. It may be that the joint standing or the special committee would submit a report of this nature; they never have in previous years. Last year there was a Joint Special Committee on the Equalization of Salaries, but they did nothing; the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries did make a report which was quite a lengthy document. It reported the number of offices of the Government, the salary connected with each one, proposed a certain reduction, stating what the salary of the office is, and what it would be under the new rate paid. But that was not complete; it did not take each department, give details, and state the duties of each office. I should like to see each department given in detail—the salary of the head, and the salaries of the assistants, with their duties—and then for comparison, I should like to see the salary attached to that office before the great rise in prices began; and then I should like to pass upon the salaries of the different grades. I should like to take the offices in each department and compare their duties and salaries—the clerks in the Board of Health, City Engineer's Department and Street Commissioners, to learn whether they are performing pretty much the same class of duties, whether they are getting the same class of salaries, and whether they should be changed. I can see no objection to having such a statement laid before the Council.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—The explanations of the gentlemen of the special committee show very well, I think, that their labors, so far as they have progressed, tend to the production of just the statistics wanted. I move to amend the order by striking out the words "Joint Standing Committee on Salaries" and inserting instead the words "Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures." I think this will insure us the report asked for.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I have no doubt that the information called for in the order would be very convenient for reference in printed document form, and there is one amendment which I wish to make to it, although perhaps we have no control over it in fact; and that is, that we should have the salaries paid to the school teachers in 1860 and the salaries paid them now. I don't know that the school teachers are getting enough now, or that our schools are costly enough. I think it would be well to look at the prices paid school teachers then and now. Therefore I wish to put in this amendment, although we may not have any control over the subject.

Mr. Thompson—The school teachers are all officers of the city, and I think they would be included in the order.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24—It is the purpose of the joint special committee to investigate, as thoroughly as we can, every branch of the City Government, from the Mayor down to the school teachers—and all ladies notwithstanding.

Mr. Spenceley—Good.

Mr. Pratt's amendment was adopted.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14—I do not know that the order is necessary, but if it is going to pass I wish to know the residences of the various employes in City Hall, and therefore I offer the following as a substitute:

Ordered, That the Joint Special Committee on Salaries be requested to report at the earliest practicable moment the names of all persons employed in City Hall, with the place of residence of each, and the amount of salary paid to each at the present time; also the amount of said salary in 1860, and if the office of such person has been created since 1860 the amount of said salary when created.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—There are quite a number of employes of the city who are not employed at City Hall. There are several departments outside of City Hall which have clerks and employes. The gentleman [Mr. Pope] thinks his order covers that; if so, I am satisfied.

Mr. Thompson—I hope the substitute in its present form will not pass. It does not call for the principal information contemplated in the original order—the duties attached to the several offices. I hoped that the original order might pass, without calling up the personal feeling that might be attached by inserting the names of different individuals. I wanted to call forth a piece of evidence, something that we may take to our rooms and consult without reference to personal feeling of any kind. In looking over the list of salaries we might see the name of a personal friend, and, with the best of resolutions, we might find our action tinged with personal feelings; we might think one salary suitable for him which we might not think suitable for another in the same position. If we have a simple statement of the duties of each office and the salaries paid in 1860 and now, we can then, without any personal feeling, form a just estimate whether those salaries are comparatively fair, whether it is desirable that they should be continued at the present rate, or whether they should be increased or diminished in accordance with the recommendations to be offered by the joint standing or the joint special committee. I hope the order as originally introduced will pass.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I move the indefinite postponement of the order for the following reason: We have an able committee upon this question of salaries and expenditures, and I think we can safely leave this whole matter to them; and in case they do not do their duty as we think they should, when they have made their report will be time enough for further instructions. I move the indefinite postponement of the whole matter.

The President—The motion to an end takes precedence of the motion to postpone.

The President read the original order and the substitute for information.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I hope the substitute will pass. The gentleman who first introduced this business thinks it will be convenient to have all the information possible. Now, if he is really serious in that wish, and would like to lay before the Council all the information possible, I want him to have it. Now, in regard to being prejudiced by our friend's name being published, I can say that I have a few friends in City Hall and can readily find them; but if any gentleman has so many friends that he cannot find them I think he ought to have a chance.

Mr. Pratt—I hope the substitute will not prevail. If the gentleman [Mr. Pope] desires the information contemplated by the substitute, I think he should offer it as a separate order and move its reference to Sampson, Davenport & Co.; and if he will do that, I will offer an order that the photographs of all employes in City Hall be obtained, and move its reference to Mr. Black. The whole object of offering this order is simply this: It might be well enough—as we have never had it—to have before us a list of the offices of the city, and the amounts paid for salaries and clerk hire in those offices. Now, the original order called for nothing personal; it called for the names of nobody; it called simply for the names of the places that are filled; it does not call for residence; it does not call for age, sex, previous condition of servitude. I hope the substitute, which I think was facetiously offered, will not prevail.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 (no objection being offered) amended the substitute by striking out "City Hall" and inserting "the various departments under the City Government."

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I would suggest to the gentleman [Mr. Pope] that the substitute will call for the names of all the employes of the city, including policemen. We would have a long list of names in which no one would have any interest.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14—That is just what I wanted. It will take in every laborer. I want to know how many persons there are employed in the City Government that do not help contribute to its support. I think it is time that our employes are taken from the taxpaying citizens of Boston.

Mr. Hiscock of Ward 21 moved to amend the substitute by adding the words, "and the comparative prices of living in 1860 and 1877." This amendment was rejected.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I certainly trust that both those orders will be voted down, and that we shall leave the matter with the special committee on the subject. Take the substitute offered by the gentleman from Ward 14, if the committee are to go into the names and residences of all the employes of the City Government at present, it will take a great deal of time to find out all who might get $1 or $2 a day, which might be used to far better advantage in investigating the departments in City Hall. I think it will be better to leave it to the judgment of the committee; instead of instructing them, particularly as they have been hard at work and spent a good many hours each day upon it. The passage of the order might cause a division of labor, the result of which would hardly be as satisfactory as it otherwise would.

Mr. Day of Ward 4 offered an amendment to the substitute to insert after the words "various departments under the City Government" the words "except policemen and laborers."

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I hardly see any necessity for passing either of these orders. I would call the gentleman's [Mr. Thompson] attention to the report of the Salary Committee last year (City Doc. No. 22). That gives a very elaborate report of all the clerks employed by the city, the heads of departments and the clerks from 1860 to 1877. I will read for the benefit of the gentleman. Take the Fire Department: It gives the commissioners and engineers; one clerk of the board, $1500; three clerks—one $1500, one $1100 and another $1000. And so it follows out all through the departments. The Inspector of Milk, $1500; clerk, $500. City Registrar's office—principal clerk, assistant and clerk. It does not give the residences, but it seems to me it gives all the information that the gentleman requires.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I have examined the document referred to by the gentleman, and it does not give the information I wish, nor in the shape I wish. It simply affects the salaries of those offices which the Committee on Salaries proposed to change. It does not state that it gives all the offices of the City Government. I want to get a City Government guide. I simply want the names of the different offices, and the duties attached to them. I want to know what was considered adequate compensation for those duties in times past, and what is paid now. The document referred to does not give that information.

On motion of Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9, the main question was ordered.

Mr. Day's amendment was adopted. The substitute as amended was declared adopted. Mr. Thompson doubted the vote; the Council divided—37 for, 21 against. The question was upon the passage of the amended substitute.

Mr. Sampson moved the indefinite postponement of the order. Lost, by a division—27 for, 35 against.

Mr. Sampson moved to amend by adding the words "laborers and firemen" after "except policemen."

Mr. Thompson moved to amend by adding "and a statement of the duties incumbent upon each office."

Mr. Sampson's amendment was adopted.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1 raised the point that the previous question cut off all these amendments.

The President ruled the point well taken, and declared both Mr. Sampson's and Mr. Thompson's amendments out of order.

The amended substitute was passed by a division—37 for, 16 against.

Mr. Webster—In order to make this action final I move a reconsideration, hoping it will not prevail.

The President—The motion is not in order without a suspension of the rule.

[For further action see later in the proceedings.]

REGULATION OF QUACKS.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16 offered an order—That a joint special committee, consisting of three members of this Council, with such as the Board of Aldermen may join, be appointed to consider and report upon the expediency of applying to the Legislature for the passage of an act to regulate the practice of medicine and pharmacy.

The order was passed to a second reading, read a second time and put upon its passage.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I would like to know what information the gentleman is trying to derive. We have already got a Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, chartered by the Legislature. It was burned out, but it is started again. So far as the practice of medicine is concerned, I think we are pretty well provided for.

Mr. Jackson—I want to know whether anything can be done to regulate the practice of medicine and pharmacy, in regard to the number of quacks practising in the city of Boston. I am aware of the fact that a great many people are imposed upon by those characters. Now, sir, I wish to know if there is any way to reach them and oblige them to show a diploma, or prove that they are quacks. That is my object.

Mr. McGaragle—I have been unfortunate enough to be on a jury when a man was made a doctor against his will, in the smallpox time. We have a Committee on Legislative Matters, and I move the order be referred to them.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I don't see what this Council has to do with this matter. I don't see how it affects the management of the City Government that we are sent here to look after. The gentleman has the right, as has any other individual in the whole city, to go to the Legislature and present any petition that he pleases. It will be referred to the proper committee of the Legislature, and they will give him a full hearing upon the matter. But for the Mayor and the City Government to petition the Legislature for a law in regard to quack doctors, or anything of that kind, seems to me to be entirely out of the range of our duties.

Mr. Webster—Is it in order now to move a suspension of the rule?

The President—It is not.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—The order is one of the harmless class. It certainly can do no harm to appoint committees to obtain information in any direction. The city of Boston spends thousands of dollars every year in looking after the public health; and whether it is expressly admitted or not, I suppose it is popularly admitted that amongst the causes of disease physicians, or those who practise medicine, are prominent. I imagine the gentleman who offered the order intended no reflection upon the character of all gentlemen practising as physicians in this city. But I venture to say that there is no class of people in the State of Massachusetts, and here in the city of Boston, who have such responsibilities, and who ought to be called upon to be informed, and not only informed but skilled and instructed, in the practice and science of their vocation, as physicians are; and I venture to say that there is no class that are able to assume the duties of their position under less restrictions. Now, Mr. President, it is well known that no gentleman can practise law as a lawyer—and I speak of this as an instance of the learned professions—in this State until he has been admitted to the bar by a court of competent jurisdiction; and no one is admitted to the bar unless he comes to it from a similar court of another State, or from some of our leading law schools, or passes a rigid examination by a competent board to examine him in the studies necessary to prepare him for that profession. Now, I am unprepared to go into the questions which are suggested by the order; but I am prepared to say that for a long time I have had this general subject on my mind, and I hope that a special committee may be appointed, as suggested, to consider whether anything can be reported of value to this City Council on this subject. As I said before, it is a harmless order; it can do no harm, it may do a great deal of good, and I should like to have an investigation of the subject.

Mr. McGaragle—The gentleman [Mr. Pratt] has opened a field that I hardly expected he would. I think that a great many lawyers do not pass an examination. I think that many are admitted on motion of some gentleman in whose office they have studied. I move to amend the order by inserting the word "lawyers" after "physicians." I understood the order to call for a special committee.

Mr. Pratt—I think the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ward 8, so that the order should include lawyers also, is not pertinent to the subject and is not proper to be brought before the Council, for this reason: Even if it were offered seriously, lawyers have nothing to do with the public health, and physicians have. This order is to inquire into the reputation of all persons practising the healing art, which is related so intimately to the public health. I think, without wishing to forestall the report of any committee on that subject, that if it were possible to require every person practising the healing art, or holding himself out to practise it, or require, at least, as the lowest qualification, that he should be a graduate of a regularly incorporated medical institution, which has in its curriculum a course of instruction in anatomy, materia medica and physiology, it would be a good thing; so that citizens, or that part of the public who are strangers in the city, may have some guarantee, when they go to an office on which they see the name of a physician inviting them to call in his services, that the person they find there is learned in the science which he professes to practise.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I do not know what this Council has to do, directly, with this matter; but I think it can do no harm to refer it to the Committee on Legislative Matters, as has been moved, and I hope it will be so referred. It seems to me, sir, there is a great deal that can be investigated in this matter, and that some such ordinance or law might be made which might be beneficial to the public health. I don't know whether it can be made or not. In reference to including lawyers, who the gentleman last up says have nothing to do with the public health, I think they have a great deal to do with it. I think it is just as bad to be talked to death by a lawyer, as physicked to death by a doctor.

Mr. Jackson said he did not object to the reference, and the order was referred to the Committee on Legislative Matters. Sent up.

DUTIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 offered an order—That the Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures ascertain and report to the Council as soon as possible the nature of the duties performed by the several persons occupying salaried offices under the City Government.

Read twice and put upon its passage.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 9 moved to amend by inserting "and the physical abilities of the same." Rejected.

The order was declared passed. Mr. Spenceley doubted the vote, the Council divided—38 for, 0 against. Sent up.

SALARIES, NAMES AND RESIDENCES OF CITY OFFICERS.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I move a suspension of the rule, that I may move a reconsideration of the order [amended substitute] in relation to names of officers and their salaries. I apologize to the Council for not asking it before. I was not interested in medical affairs, and had been taking a short nap.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—I hope the amendment to include firemen will prevail.

The motion to suspend the rule was put. No quorum voted, but on a second trial it was carried.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I intended to move a reconsideration, hoping it would not prevail; but as the amendment seems reasonable, I move that "firemen" be included in the list not to be reported.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I suppose the gentleman [Mr. Webster] intended to move a reconsideration of the vote whereby the order to report the salaries and names of city officers was passed. I move the reconsideration, as the gentleman proposes to make an amendment including firemen.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9 moved that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table. Declared carried. Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 doubted the vote. The Council divided—22 for, 33 against.

The reconsideration prevailed, and on motion of Mr. Howes the order was amended by inserting "firemen and laborers," so that it would read "except policemen, firemen and laborers."

The question was on the passage of the order as amended.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—It seems to me that all this is quite unnecessary. I cannot see what use there is in preparing a long list or catalogue of names of the parties who now happen to hold these offices. We have already passed an order referring this matter to the appropriate committee to give us all the information upon this subject that we desire. I have no desire for further information, nor do I think we can act more intelligently if we have the names of the parties inserted. The committee are at work upon this subject, and the order seems to imply that they should abandon their labor and go to work upon this. It is a matter that requires a large amount of time. It seems to me that we had better let the joint special committee report upon the labor that they are upon. If they do not furnish us information upon which we can act intelligently and properly for the welfare of the city, then we can call upon them to give us further information. I hope it will not pass.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I move the indefinite postponement of the whole subject.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 16—I raise the point of order that the reconsideration leaves the matter under the previous question.

The President—The question on the passage of the order was put under an order for the previous question, but a motion for the previous question has not been made since the reconsideration.

The motion to indefinitely postpone was lost, by a division—20 for, 33 against.

On motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19, the main question was ordered, and the order as amended was passed. Sent up.

BRANCH LIBRARY FOR WEST ROXBURY.

Mr. Coe of Ward 23 offered an order—That the Trustees of the Public Library be requested to consider the expediency of establishing a branch public library in the West Roxbury District. Referred to Committee on Public Library. Sent up.

UNIFORM SYSTEM OF VALUATION FOR TAXATION.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20 offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be requested, and he is hereby authorized, to appoint a commission to consist of three competent persons, citizens of Boston, who shall consider the subject of a plan for establishing a system for a more uniform and equitable valuation of property for the purpose of taxation than now exists; the expense, not exceeding $300, to be charged to the appropriation for Incidentals.

Ordered to a second reading.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Hiscock of Ward 21.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
JANUARY 29, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

JURORS DRAWN.

Thirty-two traverse jurors were drawn for the Superior Court, first session; and forty for the same court, second session.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Special Police Officers—Members of the Common Council.

Constable—Joseph R. Rowe.

Weigher of Coal—Charles H. Moseley.

Railroad Police—W. M. Corcoran, F. W. Foster, W. H. Tucker, A. J. Pickens, and F. D. Coulson, employes of Boston & Albany Railroad Company; Thomas W. Turner, F. B. Cushman, E. T. Cowell, S. E. Bailey, Lewis Holmes, Vernon Joslin, George H. Tucker, Leonard Lowell, A. C. Dupee, Charles H. Turner, Alphonso Davis, James O'Brien, James O. Bacon, William Freeman, George F. Ingalls, Orrin A. Rogers, Alonzo F. Tuttle, Thomas Tyner, Lucius Bowman and Charles B. Shattuck, employes of the New York & New England Railroad.

Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Common and Public Grounds. Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, for leave to erect upon the Common a building for their triennial exhibition; also a petition of Otis Norcross and others in aid of the same.

To the Committee on Licenses. Old Colony Railroad Company et al., against licensing any hack stands at their station; Edward E. Clark, trustee, et al., that Bedford street, near Washington street, be cleared of job wagons, teamsters' stands and pedlars; George W. Sawin, for leave to run a passenger wagon between Cragie's Bridge and the India-wharf market; Coleman & Wellington, for leave to run two passenger wagons from Bowdoin square to India wharf.

To the Committee on Common on the part of the Board. David H. Blauvey, for the removal of a tree in Chelsea street, East Boston.

To the Committee on Sewers. Wilder Bush et al., to be compensated for damages caused by a sewer in Washington street, formerly Shawmut avenue.

To the Committee on Paving. William Lynch, for additional compensation for grade damages at 7 and 9 Ellery street.

To the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board. Lyman Titus, to be paid for land taken to extend Clifton street.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Anne McLaughlin, to be paid for personal injuries received from an alleged defect in Pleasant street; Maurice D. Fielding, to be compensated for personal injuries sustained on account of an alleged defect in Cortes street; deputy collectors, for a hearing on the subject of their claim for back fees legally due them; James Deshon, to be refunded amounts paid by him for invalid tax titles.

To the Committee on Armories. Commander of Ninth Battalion of Infantry, for approval of their headquarters at 61 Court street, and for appropriation for furniture therefor.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. A. M. Morrison, for leave to occupy a new wooden stable for one cow and two horses on High street, Ward 23.

To a Special Committee, consisting of Aldermen Burnham and Wilder. A. G. Rockwood, for benefit of the Franklin Fuud.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order to sell the land and buildings known as the Cooper-street Armory estate. Passed. Sent down.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Annual report of Superintendent of Public Lands (City Doc. No. 14); annual report of Superintendent of Sewers (City Doc. No. 13). Severally placed on file.

Report referring to Board of Fire Commissioners the petition of S. P. Dexter and others, for location of a new fire-alarm box in Ward 24. Accepted in concurrence.

An order for Trustees of the Public Library to consider the expediency of establishing a branch library in West Roxbury, came up referred to the Committee on the Public Library. Concurred.

An order for Inspector of Buildings to report upon the expediency of making alterations for better egress in the several schoolhouses, came up referred to the Committee on Public Buildings. Concurred.

An order for a joint special committee to report on the expediency of an application to the Legislature for an act "to regulate the practice of medicine and pharmacy," came up referred to the Committee on Legislative Matters. Concurred.

Order for Committee on Common, et c., to expend an additional sum of twelve hundred dollars for labor on public grounds. Passed in concurrence.

Order for Superintendent of Health to make contracts for purchase of hay, grain, horses, exchanges and materials. Passed in concurrence.

An order to furnish the Social Law Library two copies of the Revised Ordinances and other publications of the city, as therein specified, came up. Referred to the Committee on Printing. Concurred.

Order for City Engineer to make purchases of supplies, instruments and drawing materials, and to incur other necessary expenses. Passed in concurrence.

REDUCTION OF SALARIES AND EXPENSES—COST OF GAS.

An order came up for the Joint Special Committee on Salaries, et c., to report the names of all persons employed in the various departments of the City Government, except police, laborers and firemen, with the place of residence of each; the amount of salary paid at the present time, also the amount paid in 1860, et c.

The question was on concurrence.

Alderman O'Brien—I really doubt the propriety of passing that order. The Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures have about as much as they can attend to, and it appears to me that if they go into the matter covered by that order, it will occupy a great deal of their time and their report will be delayed. I should think it would make almost a volume in itself to publish a list of the employes under the City Government, and a statement of their duties; and I hope the subject will be indefinitely postponed and the committee be allowed to go on as they have commenced, and get ready to report as early as possible. If they are lumbered up with work of this kind it will take a very long time to make up their report. I move the indefinite postponement of the order—or I move to lay it upon the table if that would be more acceptable.

Alderman Thompson—I am somewhat surprised to hear a member of that committee make the statement that the committee have as much as they can attend to. It seems to me that if the committee would confine themselves to what properly belongs to their duties they would not be overburdened with more than they can attend to. Mr. Mayor, it has become a custom, to a certain extent, for members of this branch who are dissatisfied with certain things to complain in the form of an interview through the public press, without taking the responsibility of their complaints. Now, as I have reason to complain of certain members of this Board and the City Council, I propose to come out and express my complaints without going behind and expressing them in an anonymous communication. I have on my desk the following communication, which I will read—I only saw this about five minutes ago:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE CLERK OF COMMITTEES,
CITY HALL, Jan. 26, 1877.

Dear Sir—I am directed by the Joint Special Committee on the Reduction of Municipal Expenses to request you to inform them, at your earliest convenience, whether, in your opinion, the price of gas furnished for lighting the streets will be reduced during the present year. The committee are lead to make this inquiry for the reason that they have received a proposal for lighting the streets, by other means than gas, for a much less sum than it will cost if the present rates are maintained, and, if they are assured that there is no prospect of a reduction in the price of gas, they are disposed to recommend to the City Council the adoption of the system referred to. An early reply will oblige,

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM H. LEE,
Clerk of Committee.

R. J. Monks, Esq., Treasurer South Boston Gas Light Company.

Mr. Mayor, that is under date of Jan. 26. On the 18th of January the Committee on Lamps had a meeting and passed a vote directing the Superintendent of Lamps to write as follows:

LAMP DEPARTMENT OFFICE,
BOSTON, Jan. 18, 1877. }

To the President and Directors of the South Boston Gas Co.: Gentlemen—At a meeting of the Committee on Lamps held this day, after taking into full consideration the price paid for gas for the public lighting in the several sections of the city, they were unanimously of the opinion that an immediate reduction in price should be made by the corporation which you represent.

I am instructed by the committee to communicate to you this fact and ask an early and favorable reply to their request.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE H. ALLEN,
Superintendent of Lamps.

That is dated Jan. 18th. The reply of the president of the company is dated Jan. 20th, 1877—that is five days prior to the date of the communication from the Committee on the Reduction of Salaries:

BOSTON, Jan. 20th, 1877.

George H. Allen, Esq., Superintendent Lamps, City Hall, Boston: Dear Sir—Your letter addressed to the president and directors of the South Boston Gas Light Company received.

The board will meet next Thursday, and I will lay the matter of reduction in the price of gas furnished street lamps before them and report the result.

Yours truly,
RICHARD J. MONKS,
Agent and Treasurer,
South Boston Gas Light Company.

Now, Mr. Mayor, what I complain of is, if not the want of courtesy with which the Committee on Lamps have been treated by that communication, the want of confidence. And this is not the first time that it has been shown to the Committee on Lamps. There was also an anonymous communication published in one of the public prints the other day inferring, and expressing, a want of confidence in that committee; and as a member of that committee for the second year—having been promoted to the chairmanship of it in consequence of no other member being reelected—I feel that if it is the feeling of the members of this Board that the present committee is not competent to take charge of its duties, the sooner we know it the better; and if that is the feeling we had better resign. But, sir, I do not propose to have any other committee, subsequently appointed, to interfere with the duties of that committee while I am its head. If the special committee propose to look into the matter of lamps, I commend them for a desire to reduce expenses; but when the proper committee is attending to that matter, I propose to tell the members of the special committee that I object, and I do so openly, without going behind in the public prints and expressing it in that manner; and that is what I complain of. If the regular committee is going to manage the matter of lamps and the lighting of the streets to the best of their ability, I don't think it is proper for any other committee to interfere with them. You might with the same propriety go to the parties who are building sewers and say that they must build sewers for less than they are charging for them; and to the parties who are clearing the streets of rubbish, and say to them that they must do it for less. It seems to me that this thing belongs to the regular committee. If members of the Special Salary Committee desire any information upon this subject I am ready to give it to them; and there is where they should come for any information in regard to a reduction of the price of gas or of any articles used by that department.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am chairman of the Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures. I have never seen that communication before, but I know that a communication of that kind—perhaps not so strong as that—was sent to the gas companies; but we never dreamed of treading upon anybody's corns. I assure the gentleman that we never intended to interfere with the Committee on Lamps in what we propose to do. We have enough work to perform, and did not intend to trench upon the domain of the Committee on Lamps. We wanted to find out whether the gas could not be furnished at a cheaper rate than it is furnished by the gas companies—that is the sum and substance of it. The committee did not intend to make a price for gas, but we intend to embody in our report—and I have no doubt we will, although my friend objects to it—the cost of gas and the cost of everything in the City Government, and the fact whether that cost can be reduced. That is the reason we sent this communication, and we intend to send communications wherever we can get information. Whether it treaches upon other committees or not we intend to send communications wherever we can get information that will tend to reduce salaries or appropriations; but we did not intend to insult any committee. Our duties are laborious; we have worked very hard and shall be very glad when the work is done. If we have been a little too zealous the gentleman should not find fault with that.

Alderman O'Brien—It seems to me that the Alderman from Charlestown went far out of his way to go to South Boston to inquire about gas. If the Clerk attended to his duties, I presume that the Charlestown Gas Company had precisely the same communication, and so did all the gas companies in the city. It is true we did not have the Committee on Lamps before us; but we did have the Superintendent of Lamps before us, and of course we had to ask him a great many questions about the working of his department, the cost of running it, and about salaries. The cost of gas for the city of Boston will amount to something like $500,000 the coming year. Let me read a paragraph from the report of the Superintendent of Lamps:

“In addition to the large number of entire new lamps located during the past year, all the old fluid lamps have been discontinued, new iron posts and brackets located, with new lanterns, in which have been placed the most approved kerosene burner; thereby increasing the light on streets and places where they are located almost to the brilliancy of gas lighting.”

Well, it was legitimate for the committee to inquire what was the cost of a light almost equal to gaslight, and the committee were staggered when they found that $250,000 could be saved by that operation alone. I want to give to the gas companies all the credit they deserve; but it is a question whether the city of Boston cannot manufacture its gas, or use some other material for lighting its streets, and it was perfectly legitimate for the committee to go into this inquiry and embrace all those matters in their report.

Alderman Thompson—The Alderman says the cost of gas this year will be about $500,000. I would like to know where he gets that information. That is about as correct as the statement that there will be a saving of $250,000 by this new process which has been tried by several of our surrounding cities and towns and discarded. It is all nonsense—this saving on the cost of gas. Gas can be manufactured for a certain price, and when you get below that it cannot be done, and will not be done. I do not propose at this time to go into the cost of gas, but at the proper time I think I can convince this Board with facts and figures that will be satisfactory to them. But what I complain of is that a duplicate letter, on the same matter, should be sent to the same parties that I communicated with. The Alderman referred to my going to South Boston. I have not been to South Boston. I find these communications from South Boston coming before me, carrying out the same thing that I commenced. That is what I complain of. The superintendent of the Gas Company is no doubt astonished, having these communications from two different committees; and he sends them both to me with his reply. That is what I complain of. It seems to me that he should answer to the Superintendent of Lamps, as he has said in his communication.

Alderman O'Brien—I really believe that the chairman of the Lamp Committee had better drop in at the next meeting of the Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures, and perhaps we might give him some information. We saw fit to ask the Superintendent of Lamps how much he can cut down the expenses of his department this coming year, and he said he could not cut them down one copper; and he said the reason was because they had been increasing the number of gaslights in the suburbs, in the city proper and on the Public Garden to an enormous extent, and that every gaslight erected in the city of Boston costs the city fifty dollars a year. It costs the citizens of Boston fifty dollars a year for every gaslight. The expense last year was $500,000, and the expense this year will be over $500,000 unless the gas companies see fit in their judgment to reduce the price of gas.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not intend to enter into any discussion of the relative merits of the gas advocated by my friend here [Alderman O'Brien], or that advocated by my friend from Charlestown. But I wish to state that we did not intend to insult the Committee on Lamps by the communication which we sent to the South Boston and other gas companies. I am glad that the Committee on Lamps have sent their communication to the company, and I hope the chairman will inform us what the nature of the information contained in the reply is. Whether this artificial gas is better than the gas now used is for the Board to decide and not for us.

Alderman O'Brien—I do not mean to say that I advocate any particular kind of gas for lighting our streets. We merely took the report of the Superintendent of Lamps and asked him questions about the different methods, and we are getting all the information upon that subject that we can. When we find a method of lighting our streets at $25 a year that is almost equal in brilliancy to gaslight at $50 a year, I think it is a legitimate subject of inquiry.

Alderman Thompson—I do not propose to discuss the subject of gas, but I do wish gentlemen, in discussing this subject, to confine themselves to the facts. These lamps cost $26 a year, and the gas lamps cost $30—quite a percentage of difference from the cost stated by the Alderman. Now the gentleman speaks of the saving of $250,000 a year by the adoption of this plan. The statement is so extravagant that I hardly think it worth while to answer it. But perhaps he thinks it is wise to fix a limit upon the price to be paid the gas companies, and perhaps cause an advance in the price to the citizens generally. Under the present system that he talks about saving $250,000 a year, these same companies pay back over $200,000 to the city in taxes. It is possible that the gentleman might advocate the introduction of gas works and the manufacture of gas by the city itself, when we have a report from a commission appointed to look into this matter, and they say that no city is so well treated as Boston, where they are charged $2, while in New York the price is $2.50 per 1000 feet; and in Philadelphia, where this beautiful proposition, that the city manufacture its own gas, originated, it costs $2.15, and where coal is five cents less a ton than in Boston. And I might add that among the items of the annual report are $2300 for matches, and all those corrupt things. The Alderman may recommend this thing here, but I don't think this question—

The Mayor—The Chair would remind the Board that the question is on the motion to lay on the table, and it is not debatable.

Alderman O'Brien—I am aware of that fact, but I should like to say one word more. The Superintendent of Lamps says the average cost of lamps in the city is $50 a year, and in the suburbs more—sometimes $50 or $60. The average cost of this light he believes will be $26 a year. That is official from the Superintendent of Lamps. The gentleman also speaks of $200,000 that the gas companies pay to the city in taxes. That is about as absurd as the other statement. I hold in my hand the exact amounts paid in taxes by the different gas companies:—

	Value of Property.	Tax in 1876.
Boston Gaslight Company.....	$3,952,600	$50,198.02
Brookline " " " " " " " "	43,000	546.10
Charlestown " " " " " " " "	467,200	5,933.44
Dorchester " " " " " " " "	244,500	3,105.15
East Boston " " " " " " " "	207,300	2,632.71
Jamaica Pl'n " " " " " " " "	98,700	1,253.69
Roxbury " " " " " " " "	721,000	9,156.70
South Boston " " " " " " " "	390,300	4,956.81
Total.....	$6,124,600	$77,782.42

That is an official document from the Assessors' Department.

Alderman Thompson—I am compelled to reply to the gentleman. I still assert and will prove that a lamp costs but thirty dollars a year in the city proper. I maintain that, and he cannot point to a page where the Superintendent of Lamps makes the statement made by the Alderman. And in regard to the amount of taxes paid into the city treasury by the gas companies, I still maintain that it is two hundred thousand dollars. The Alderman takes what is paid into the treasury here; he does not put to the credit of that account the amount received by the State on the stock, that is refunded. I think I have investigated this subject pretty fully, and every statement I have made I will substantiate.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I raise the point of order that this discussion is out of order. We have some other business to attend to.

The order was laid upon the table.

An order came up for the Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures to report also the nature of the duties performed by the several persons occupying salaried offices under the City Government. Laid on the table on motion of Alderman O'Brien.

POLAND & PEABODY'S OMNIBUS LINE.

The Board took up the special assignment, viz.: Hearing on petition of Poland & Peabody for leave to run an omnibus line from Dorchester street, near Ninth street, South Boston, through certain streets of the city proper to the northern railroad stations.

Petitions in aid of the petition of Poland & Peabody were received from Thomas Manning and 112 others, Thomas Gogin and 112 others, L. C. Whidden and 110 others, J. Simmons and 108 others, James B. Call and 84 others, F. P. Chase and 109 others, James Carr and 53 others, W. W. Viles and 110 others, James A. Parker and 107 others, Frank Campbell and 108 others, Thomas Blake and 54 others, John O. Darlow and 112 others, John W. Savery and 56 others, Benjamin Hanson and 55 others, George W. Kingman and 113 others, William B. Woodman and 93 others.

P. A. Collins appeared for the petitioners, Benjamin Dean for the remonstrants.

Mr. Collins stated that the petitioners wished to start from between Eighth and Ninth streets on Dorchester street and go via Broadway, Albany street, Kingston, Summer, Hawley and Milk streets to Devonshire street, and thence to New Washington street to the depots and return via Tremont, Bromfield, Boylston, Washington, Beach and Albany streets. This is a new route, and the fare proposed is five cents. The only competitor is the South Boston Railroad. They propose to accommodate a large number of people in South Boston who are not now accommodated. Mr. Collins then called the witnesses for the petitioners.

Frederick T. Peabody, one of the petitioners, said the time for a trip would take about thirty-five minutes; they intend to start at once; thought from inquiries that there was business enough for both horse railroads and stages. [Cross-examined by Mr. Dean.] Had been in the fruiture business, and never been engaged in transportation; had figures made of cost of stabling, etc.; been figuring on them for four months; estimate about $3.50 a week for a horse, and stable rent from $1500 to $1800 for 100 horses per year; can hire or buy the land and build a stable; got no refusals for sale or lease of land; estimate cost of coach, about $1200 or $1500; estimate six horses for each coach at $90 each; $65 or $70 for two sets of double harnesses for each coach; figured on about seven men in stable and one driver for each coach; has no means himself. [To Mr. Collins.] He and his partner have means to build the stable and buy the coaches. Intend to begin at six o'clock and run fifteen coaches, every seven or eight minutes.

George E. Poland, one of the petitioners, said they had ample means to start the route. [To Mr. Dean.] Can get $50,000; am shipper in grocery store and am in teaming business at the Highlands; no one else interested.

Colonel H. W. Wilson, civil engineer, had made surveys of the proposed route for petitioners. From Dorchester street to Scollay square is 2 1/4 miles, and to Fitchburg depot makes in all 2.93 miles. From Dorchester street to said depot, by the route proposed, is 13,560 feet, or 2.58 miles. It usually takes forty-five to fifty minutes to go from Dorchester street to the Fitchburg depot; while the red-line stages go from Lenox street to said depot in about thirty-three minutes. The petitioners could go over their proposed route in about thirty-two minutes. Since 1858 the only accommodation South Boston has had has been the horse railroad; the population has grown from 15,000 to 60,000. Since Broadway Bridge was built there has been a strong current of travel over it; and it would be a saving of time to come to the northern depots by that route, and there is not the same liability to interruption as by the other bridges. Did not assume to say it would accommodate all the people of South Boston. [To Mr. Dean.] Whatever impairs the facilities of the railroad is not a public benefit. The proposed line will go through the most populous part of South Boston, and from a point where the railroad company have started a separate line. Had not figured the length of the line returning; thinks it would be in favor of the railroad company returning, as it is a trifle longer than the incoming route. [To Alderman Clark.] Such as they are, on the line of the proposed route, the present accommodations are very good. If it should diminish the horse railroad accommodations it would not be a public convenience. The greatest drawback they have in South Boston is that they have only one line of communication; they want communication direct with the South End and the Highlands. [To Mr. Dean.] The South Boston road once got a location to cross Dover-street Bridge, but were enjoined, because of the need of a law allowing a crossing of tide water. [To Alderman Burnham.] Almost any route will accommodate a class of people, if it went to a new point; a line over Swett street would be a great accommodation, though perhaps not profitable. [To Mr. Collins.] Think this route will be largely patronized. [To Mr. Fitzgerald.] It costs eight cents from South Boston by horse cars to the northern depots. [To Mr. Dean.] It will be a great accommodation if they can have the proposed extension of the South Boston horse cars to the northern depots. There is a continuous stream of cars connecting with each other. [To Alderman Fitzgerald.] Think there has been a marked improvement in the Metropolitan and Highland cars, but there had not been the same improvement in the South Boston cars. [To Alderman Wilder.] Should think the proposed omnibus line would pay. [To Alderman Burnham.] Don't think it would detract from the patronage of the railroad; he would not ride in a coach when there was a car.

William W. Nichols, for thirty years a resident of South Boston, gave as the principal reason for granting the petition the need the people have of better transportation facilities. The route is new, especially out of South Boston. If they had a competing line it would help them. Accommodation in the cars is difficult to get morning and evening. He would sign a petition for a new railroad there. Competition has been a benefit to the people of the Highlands, and it would be the same to South Boston. All the South Boston people, except the stockholders in the railroad, want the stages. Would take stock in a new road, or in this stage line. Knew of people who walk because there are not cars enough; particularly so morning and evening. Think South Boston is left out in the cold. [To Mr. Dean.] The people were pretty well satisfied with the railroad at first; the road has increased its facilities very much during the past three years; but nearly all the cars have been taken off the Milk-street route, and it has not proved so much of an accommodation as was at first expected. It is no sort of use at present.

The South Boston road runs four-horse time long after the other roads stop it. [To Alderman Fitzgerald.] Have not noticed the same improvements on the South Boston cars that have been made on the other roads. The establishment of a rival line would have the same effect that the Highland road has had; and an omnibus line will have the same effect. Should think the cars run every three or five minutes to Dorchester street. The new cars are good, but the old ones are badly ventilated and not what they should be.

Augustus Russ said he frequently had occasion to go to South Boston, and thought such a line would unquestionably give additional facilities for travel; and if any man has the capital and enterprise to start a line, he ought to be allowed to do so. [To Alderman Clark.] Think it would not be for the interest of South Boston to grant a charter to an irresponsible party. [To Alderman O'Brien.] It would seem proper to ask something in return for the privilege, and the Board should consider whether they should put it up to the lowest bidder on the rate of fare.

Josiah Dunham had lived in South Boston fifty or sixty years; favored all possible facilities; the route over Broadway Bridge would be a great accommodation, and one over Dover-street Bridge would be still greater. The proposed coach line would be a great public convenience. The South Boston cars often come along so heavily laden that people cannot get on. [To Alderman Fitzgerald.] Don't think South Boston cars have come up to the standard of the other roads; a competing line would make the road give better cars, without lessening their income. [To Alderman Burnham.] Think it would be better to have this line go on Fourth street than on Broadway; would pay better on some of the off streets.

Moses H. Libby, real estate agent on Broadway, thought the railroad company gave good accommodations in the middle of the day, but not in the morning and evening. The new line will be a great benefit, and open up real estate not built upon.

Mr. Collins said they had 1890 petitioners in aid of this petition, and he would not take up the time of the Board by cumulative evidence. He then read a statement of teams, foot passengers, etc., passing over the South Boston bridges in 1869, taken by him. He thought the percentage of increase since about 20 per cent.

To Alderman Fitzgerald, Mr. Collins said the petition was bona fide; the petitioners see money in it, and are willing to have the franchise conditioned that it shall not be alienated. To Alderman Slade, Mr. Collins said that fifteen coaches will accommodate very many people; he frequently had to walk home because of the ill-ventilated, crowded cars. They do not have pure air when they get twenty passengers in a South Boston car. [To Alderman Robinson.] A round trip will take about an hour and four minutes.

The witnesses for the remonstrants were next called by Mr. Dean.

J. C. Gipson said he ran twenty-five coaches from South Boston to northern depots, from 1842 to 1859, and started the cars in 1858. They ran the stages over Dover-street Bridge and down Harrison avenue. Ran the coaches at six-cent fare and could not get enough to pay expenses. The railroad run off the coaches. The cost of such a line per coach would be between \$2200 and \$2300; don't know what kind of a horse Mr. Peabody would buy at \$90. Am present superintendent of the South Boston Railroad. Think neither company would make a dollar if this line is established. The railroad intends to give all the accommodation required. Have 447 horses, run 51 cars; their facilities have considerably increased during three years, and there has been a constant decrease in passengers since 1874. Extra cars are put on morning and night, when they are crowded for an hour or an hour and a half. The petitioners cannot make their proposed round trip in an hour and four minutes. It took his coaches an hour and a half to make the trip to the depots from City Point, which is the same distance as from Washington Village. [To Mr. Collins.] The omnibus line paid enough to keep it in repair, but he never made a dollar out of it. Don't know what coaches cost today, but bases his estimate on what Mr. Hathorne says. Am not familiar with how the South Boston road stands compared to the Metropolitan and Highland roads in regard to horses. Since 1874 they have built a stable, \$75,000; bought land, \$6000 or \$8000; rebuilt burned stable, over \$100,000; built eight new cars last year and two the year before. Average  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. dividend a year; borrowed the money to build a stable with. The population is four times as great as when his coaches were abandoned. Have good ventilation on the cars; it goes right out of the top of the cars in the centre—looks like a sign. People within the car want the ventilators closed. [To Mr. Dean.] The opening of the ventilators is left to the discretion of the conductors. Have letters almost every day that there is too much ventilation in the cars. [To Alderman Clark.] Fifteen omnibuses would average ninety trips of an hour and a quarter each a day; the coaches would average six trips apiece. [To Mr. Dean.] A set of car harnesses costs \$50.

George O. Baker, clerk of superintendent of South Boston road, stated how the cars run from 5.30 A. M. to 12 P. M. on the Broadway and Bay View lines; making 449 trips a day on two-horse time; mornings and evenings they run mostly two minutes apart. They crowd all the cars on they can between 4 and 6 P. M., when there is the rush of travel. Since 1871 the cars have increased from 41 to 55 in 1875, and 53 in 1876; now running 51 cars. They have been building cars continually; the entire number now being 58 box cars and 12 open ones. The cars are run about 500 feet apart in the busiest times. Since No. 33 the cars have been all of the modern pattern, and are intended to be kept as clean as any. [To Mr. Collins.] Run 433 trips today, or 367 by Dorchester street.

From statements made by the witness the following statistics in relation to the operations of the South Boston road are compiled:

Year.	No. of trips.	Total receipts for year.	Average receipts per trip.
1873	119,616	$287,816.35	$2.41
1874	134,738	317,264.05	2.35
1875	143,289	304,545.85	2.13
1876	155,626	295,626.89	1.90

In 1872 the average receipts per trip were $2.39; in 1871, $2.38; in 1870, $2.36; in 1869, $2.31; in 1869, $2.10; in 1867, $2.19. There were 12,000 more trips in 1876 than in 1875, and the receipts were $9000 less, and twenty-three cents a trip less. In 1876, when the receipts were smallest, the number of trips were the largest. The indications are of a further decrease in 1877. In 1875 the company had 388 horses. They have more horses now than ever before. The passengers have more accommodations than ever before, though the receipts have been decreasing. [To Mr. Collins.] Extra cars are run to the Old Colony depots on Sunday mornings. The road's facilities have been increased for the last three or four years. Last year there was considerable investigation about the management of the road, and they expect to do better when times get better.

J. B. Crosby, president of the South Boston road, verified Mr. Baker's statistics. The company has paid between $47,000 and $50,000 in paving the streets since the road commenced; paying repairs for the last five years have averaged $1000 a month, or a total of $60,000. The company intend to give the public the fullest accommodation consistent with the receipts and pay a reasonable interest on the investment. If the omnibus line is put on they would have to decrease the number of cars. The omnibuses will only accommodate a small locality outside of the line of the road; and the only effect would be to divide the present patronage between two lines. South Boston is full of people of small means, who are out of employment, or have had salaries reduced, and who cannot afford to ride. The snow expenses have been enormous; kept sixteen sleds with a large force of shovelers; all the snow force is hired outside of the road stock.

Mr. Baker being recalled, said the average extra expense of removing snow this winter was $243 per day, $6804 for twenty-eight days.

Henry Souther, formerly president of the South Boston road, said the company accommodates the people as well as it can with the routes it has. They have kept fully up, and rather ahead, of the call for accommodations. We used to consider the character of our cars as good as any three years ago; but since the competition with the Highland and Metropolitan we have fallen a little behind. [To Mr. Collins.] I usually walk; keep a private carriage; own no stock at all in the road; ride in the cars once or twice a week.

Gilbert Wait, for forty years a resident in South Boston, on Broadway, between E and F streets, said that when the cars first started they were as good as any; they are better than some of the Metropolitan Company today; the accommodations are as good as the road could provide for its route. [To Mr. Collins.] Have no stock in the road.

Benjamin James said he had resided forty-five years in South Boston; am a stockholder and director in the South Boston Railroad; think the accommodations are fully up to the times. [To Mr. Collins.] Do not remember that it took a long time to get the road to sell twenty tickets for a dollar.

Charles E. Paige confirmed the statements of previous witnesses as to the accommodations furnished by the railroad. It is hard to please everybody, especially in regard to ventilation. [To Mr. Collins.] Am stockholder in the road.

This closed the testimony for the remonstrants.

Mr. Dean then argued the case for the remonstrants. The general question was whether it will be dealing fairly with the South Boston road to grant the license; but by the evidence the question is reduced to this, whether they should aid two young men desirous of going into business. He reviewed the testimony in regard to the business done by the railroad, which he pretended was crippled in its resources; which has paid $1000 a month in paving the streets for five years. If the road does its duty fairly with the people, is it fair to cripple the company? The omnibus line will not pave any streets. If the streets are open to all, let them be open to the railroad without cost. The cars will be crowded, and the cars necessary to give every one a seat would swamp any corporation. Can the omnibus double up so as to give all a seat? The horse railroad is the best means of travel now known; but if anything else comes up, their property is all gone. The idea of benefit from railroad competition has been exploded long ago; the public have to support it or it goes up, and the addition of stages is but so much addition to the expense on the public. The public convenience is not subserved by requiring them to pay for inferior accommodations. The establishment of railroads gave relief to the streets from the jams of coaches and teams; and in winter the streets were almost impassable. Thanks to the roads, if a snow occurs the streets are in good condition for the fire engines to pass along without serious obstruction. The petitioners have no particular interest in South Boston, and is it fair, is there any exigency requiring the establishment of this line, after the city had taken the company's money in the paving of streets. He concluded by referring to the petition of the company for leave to run to the northern depots, and the issuing of commutation tickets, as evidence of its intention to fairly discharge its obligations to the public. He also read from the documents in this same case last year to show that many signed the petitions in aid not intending to reflect on the South Boston road.

Mr. Collins, in closing for the petitioners, said the horse railroads endeavored to prevent the commutation system, and the seven-cent system was opposed by them all. Horse railroads combine for mutual protection against the interest of the public. These petitions are signed by over 2000 residents of South Boston, who desire more accommodations. They are one-sixth of the people of Boston, and yet are wholly dependent on one horse-railroad corporation, which has done as well, perhaps, as could be expected under the circumstances. But a corporation cannot do as well as a private firm, for the latter do not have to hire a president, superintendent, clerks, etc. If two men owned the South Boston road the people would be better accommodated. He did not wish to reflect on the management of the South Boston, for that road had reflected on itself, as the public prints had shown. The company had spent $50,000 in paving the streets, but they had had the special privilege of tearing up the streets and placing their tracks there. He reviewed the result of establishing the Highland road, claiming that both the Highland and Metropolitan railroads had made money; the Metropolitan stock is much improved, and they have more civil conductors and more sober drivers; while at the same time Mr. Hathorne is running his coaches all the time in opposition and making money too. Mr. Collins humorously alluded to Mr. Gipson's competition with himself and passed to a comparison of the growth of that section of the city with the facilities, contending that the increase had not been commensurate. The railroads do not have a vested or sacred right to use any street; even their tracks are used by other roads. The people need more accommodations. The petitioners know what they can do; have measured the route. The city ought not to refuse this privilege to a firm who will accommodate the public. Both lines will prosper, for there is business enough for both. Competition creates business and makes the party, who was in it before, do it better. The railroad companies spend a great deal of money in clearing snow from their tracks in order to keep from going on runners. The petitioners want to serve a public who have asked them to do it.

Mr. Dean called attention to the management of the railroad, which could not be more economical. The salaries amount to $7000—President $1500, superintendent $2500, treasurer $2000, superintendent's clerk $1000.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald the petition was recommitted to the Committee on Licenses.

JAIL EXPENSES.

A requisition for $2021.69 was received from the Sheriff for expenses at the county jail for January. Read and approved.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Police:

Ordered, That the Chief of Police be directed to take such measures as may be necessary to prevent persons from loitering in the corridors or passageways or upon the stairs of City Hall, in order that citizens having business to transact at the several offices in the building may have free access thereto.

Alderman O'Brien—It appears to me that I should like to have that order lie over for a week for our consideration. A great many people come up here to present their petitions for positions in the Paving, Police and other departments, and I think it would be bad to drive them away, if that is the intention of the order.

Alderman Robinson—That is not, as I understand, the object of the order. There are a great many, as I understand, who come here and fill the corridors and stairs, and prevent people from coming and doing the very thing that the Alderman says.

The order went over under the rule.

Ordered, That the Committee on Police be authorized to purchase, from time to time, such furniture and supplies as may be required for the use of the Police Department; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Police.

Ordered, That the Committee on Police be authorized to make such arrangements as they may deem expedient for keeping the horses used in the Police Department; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Police.

Severally read once.

Ordered, That the Committee on Police be authorized to make such repairs as may be necessary for the care and preservation of the several police stations and the police steamboat; the expense to be charged to the appropriation for Police.

Alderman Fitzgerald said the making of repairs was hardly within the province of the Committee on Police, and called attention to the fact that an order had already been passed for the Committee on Public Buildings to make repairs on the station houses during the present municipal year.

The order went over.

PAVING REPORTS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Frederick Wilson for leave to move a wooden building from Dunreath place, through Warren street to Maywood street. Accepted.

Report and order of notice for hearing on Monday, Feb. 26, at four o'clock P. M., on petition of Middlesex Railroad Company, for extension of Lincoln-street track. Order passed.

Sundry schedules of cost of laying edgestones and sidewalks, with orders for the assessment and collection of the same. Orders severally read twice and passed.

UNION FREIGHT RAILROAD.

Alderman Thompson offered the following:

Ordered, That between the hours of 7 A. M. and 7 P. M. no train consisting of more than three cars with a locomotive shall be allowed to pass over the tracks of the Union Freight Railroad, located in the public streets of this city.

Ordered, That the Chief of Police be directed to see that the foregoing order is strictly observed by the Union Freight Railroad Company.

Alderman Thompson—Perhaps I ought to explain the object of that order. It has become an intolerable nuisance to people travelling at the North End of the city to be obstructed by the freight trains of the Union Freight Railroad extending from the gashouse around the corner of the streets. I have been obstructed there several times myself. Last week, at eleven o'clock in the morning, there was a line of cars on both sides of the street, owing to this corporation occupying all the street on both sides of the thoroughfare. It seems to me we might as well have this matter stopped. When requested by citizens to break the trains the company refuses to do so. It seems to me that if an order of this kind were adopted by the Board, so that they might move a train of three cars, it might be done and be no inconvenience to the company. But the obstruction of this thoroughfare ought to be stopped. It has become an intolerable nuisance.

Alderman Clark—It seems to me if you are not going to allow them but three loaded freight cars to one engine you might as well take away their charter altogether. I do not understand the question sufficiently to discuss it tonight, but that is the way it strikes me now. It seems to me that here is a road that is trying to do a business to help the business of the city, and if you are going to compel them to take only three cars for one engine, that the whole business of the road must be abandoned. That is the way it strikes me now. I hope the order will not be passed tonight. I move that it be laid upon the table for one week.

Alderman Thompson—I do not object to the order lying over for one week. Until recently the Union Freight Railway have not been at liberty to run engines through the streets of the city in the day time, and they only had the privilege of running them in the night time. The Alderman speaks of the road as for the interest of the city of Boston. It is rather an injury to the citizens of Boston, because it takes away from the poor people the carrying of merchandise to and from the depots. So you cannot make that argument. But, sir, I think that if any member of this Board could be in that vicinity and see a train of a dozen cars extending over those avenues and see the travelling on the highways obstructed for some fifteen or twenty minutes at a time, he would think it is time the thing was stopped. I called the attention of the Chief of Police to this matter, and he desires the Board to give him some instructions in regard to it. This matter was before the Board last year, and was referred to the Committee on Paving, and by them referred back to the full Board. I only desire the cars to move so that they will not obstruct the streets. It seems to me that three cars at a time are enough.

Alderman O'Brien—I think that the order is an appropriate subject for the consideration of some committee. It appears to me it ought to go to the Committee on Paving, to give the parties a hearing and to obtain all the facts in relation to the matter. I move that it be referred to the Committee on Paving.

Alderman Clark—I withdraw the motion to lay on the table; it should go either to the Committee on Paving or the Committee on Police.

Alderman O'Brien—I have no objection to either committee. I suppose that either committee is proper.

Alderman Thompson—It was referred to the Committee on Paving last year, and they took legal advice in the matter, and reported back to the Board that they had no authority in the matter. It seems to me that the whole Board can consider the subject as well as any committee.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I hope that if we are going to have a hearing on this matter the time of this Board will not be occupied with it. If we are going to have a hearing I hope it will be before some committee. I do not care whether it be the Committee on Police or Paving.

The order was referred to the Committee on Paving.

DECORATION OF HISTORIC POINTS.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That a joint special committee, consisting of two members of this Board, with such as the Common Council may join, be appointed to have charge of the erection of the monuments on Dorchester Heights and on the site of the Roxbury fort. Read twice, and Aldermen Thompson and Breck were appointed on said committee. Sent down.

NOMINATION OF ASSESSORS.

Alderman Wilder submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department recommending the election of Thomas Hills, Benjamin Cushing, Benjamin F. Palmer, Edward F. Robinson and Joshua S. Duncklee as Assessors. Accepted. Sent down. Election laid over.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—Twenty-four newsboys.

Auctioneer's License Refused—John K. Abbott, 59 Cambridge street.

Common Victuallers Licensed—Philip Lanouett, 28 and 30 Merrimac street; Henry Beard, 103 Eliot street.

Innholder's License Refused—Maggie P. Ruggles, 44 Cambridge street.

Hack License Granted—H. & J. Graham, 615 Washington street, after six o'clock P. M.

Dealer in Second Hand Articles Licensed—Edward Booker, 154 Merrimac street.

Junk Collector Licensed—William Maloney, 1232 Tremont street.

Wagon Licenses Granted—E. H. Perkins, corner Tyler and Kueeland streets; Francis Brady, 154 Tudor street; Thomas Dacey, 119 Haverhill street.

Severally accepted.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED.

The Mayor announced the following joint special committees on the part of the Board:

On Public Parks—Aldermen O'Brien and Clark.
 On Improved Sewerage—Aldermen Burnham, Wilder and Slade.

CONDITION OF THE FRANKLIN FUND.

Alderman Burnham submitted the following:
 The committee appointed to examine the accounts of S. F. McCleary, Treasurer of the Franklin Fund, have attended to that duty and report that they find said accounts have been correctly kept, the interest duly collected and the securities which were examined by the committee were found in proper condition. It appears from this examination that the condition of the fund at this date is as follows:

Amount of fund Feb. 1, 1876.....	$206,501.33
Interest accrued and collected.....	12,299.25
	$218,800.58

The above sum is invested as follows:

Deposits in Massachusetts Hospital Life Office.....	216,878.14
Deposits in Suffolk Savings Bank.....	251.10
"    " Provident Institution for Savings.....	171.07
Value of seven bonds for loans.....	1,500.00
Cash.....	27
	$218,800.58

Respectfully submitted,
 CHOATE BURNHAM. } Committee.
 CHARLES W. WILDER. }

Accepted.

PAYMENT OF EXECUTIONS OR JUDGMENTS.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be authorized, with the approval of the Committee on Claims, to draw upon the Treasurer for the payment of all executions or judgments of court against the city when properly certified as correct by the City Solicitor. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

PERMIT FOR STABLE.

Alderman Viles submitted a report from the committee on Health on the part of the Board in favor of granting a permit to Aaron D. Williams to occupy new wooden stable on Hampden street. Accepted.

BILLS ALLOWED.

Alderman Clark, from the Committee on Accounts, offered an order—That the following bills be allowed for payment by the Auditor of Accounts:

Of I. E. Noyes, chargeable to House of Industry, $158; George Curtis, chargeable to Paving Department, $48.06; George Curtis, chargeable to Sewers, $16.86; George Curtis, chargeable to Health Department, $13.57; George Curtis, chargeable to Northampton-street District, $8.77; F. W. Lincoln, Jr., & Co., chargeable to school expenses, $36; F. W. Lincoln, Jr., & Co., chargeable to public buildings, $18; James Power & Co., chargeable to public baths, $5.66.

Read twice and passed. Sent down.

LAND DAMAGES.

Alderman Clark, from the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board, offered an order to pay Edwin R. Jenness $1124 for land taken and damages occasioned by the widening of Shawmut avenue. Read twice and passed.

PARK ON BACK BAY.

Alderman Clark offered an order—That the Committee on Common and Public Grounds be authorized to confer, in behalf of the City Council, with the Governor and Council of this Commonwealth for the conveyance to the city of the parcel of land on Dartmouth and Boylston streets, referred to and described in chapter 195 of the Acts of 1875. Passed. Sent down.

IMPROVED SEWERAGE.

On motion of Alderman Clark the order for the appointment of a Joint Special Committee on Improved Sewerage, to resume the work of last year, was taken from the table, and amended so as to authorize said committee to take charge of said work, etc., and as amended was passed. Sent down.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Thompson.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

FEBRUARY 1, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7.30 o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Various petitions were referred in concurrence. A petition from James Deshon to be refunded money paid for a tax title alleged to be invalid, came down referred to the Joint Committee on Claims.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Assessors' Department, to which it seems to me it ought to be referred.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—It seems to me that the proper reference is to the Committee on Claims. It is a claim for a certain specific amount of money, and no committee but the Committee on Claims has jurisdiction over it.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I believe that claims for excessive taxation or for taxes wrongfully assessed lie entirely with the Committee on Assessors' Department. They have the power to abate or cancel the bill, and then the Treasurer pays the money back again. This is a claim that the City Collector can settle himself, provided the Assessors are satisfied that it has been wrongfully assessed.

At the request of Mr. Clarke, the President read the petition, representing that the estate was purchased in October, 1876, by the payment of $135.37, as belonging to George S. Winslow, and the title is invalid because it should have been sold as belonging to Henry Morrison, who had bought it from the city.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—This matter of the right of the Treasurer to refund money paid for tax titles has been referred to the City Solicitor, and he is of opinion that the Treasurer cannot properly act upon the report of the Assessors alone; and I understand that until some general rule is provided for these cases, the Treasurer desires to be protected by having these cases passed upon in the same manner as other claims against the city. I hope the motion will not prevail, and that the petition will be referred to the Committee on Claims.

The motion to refer to the Committee on Assessors' Department was lost, and the petition was referred to the Committee on Claims in concurrence.

Order for a conference with the Governor and Council for conveyance to the city of parcel of land on Dartmouth and Bowdoin streets, referred to and described in chapter 195, Acts of 1875. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order for a joint special committee to have charge of the erection of the monuments on Dorchester Heights, and on site of Roxbury Fort. Read twice and passed in concurrence, and Messrs. Ham of Ward 14, Blanchard of Ward 21, and Fraser of Ward 6 were joined on said committee.

Order for sale by auction of land and buildings of Cooper-street Armory. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order for Mayor to draw on Treasurer for payment of executions or judgments of court against the city. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order to pay bills of J. E. Noyes et al. against the city. Ordered to a second reading.

Order for the Committee on Improved Sewerage to have charge of all matters relating to the subject, and to employ assistance as therein set forth. Ordered to a second reading.

Report nominating as Assessors Thomas Hills, Benjamin Cushing, Benjamin F. Palmer, Edward F. Robinson and Joshua S. Duncklee. Accepted in concurrence.

Certificate of the appointment of the members of the Common Council as special officers. Placed on file.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order to supply furniture for, and make repairs on, schoolhouses. Passed in concurrence.

Order to provide furniture for, and make repairs on, the City Hall, engine houses and police stations. Passed in concurrence.

Order to rescind order of Sept. 30, 1867, for a loan of $150,000 for Oliver-street improvement, and for a transfer from unexpended appropriations of this financial year of the sum, less revenue received, advanced by Treasurer under said loan, to meet Auditor's drafts drawn in payment for said Oliver-street improvement. Passed—yeas 60, nays 0. Sent up.

Order for flags to be displayed and bells to be rung on 22d of February, Washington's Birthday.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Is there any limit as to the amount to be expended in displaying the flags and ringing the bells?

The President—There is none named in the order.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—The question might also be raised whether there is any limit as to the time in the day.

The order was passed—yeas 60, nays 0. Sent up.

UNIFORM SYSTEM OF VALUATION.

The order for Mayor to appoint a commission to consider a plan for a more uniform and equitable valuation of property for taxation; expense of the commission not to exceed $300 was considered under unfinished business.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I should like to hear some reason why that order should be passed.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I had the honor of offering that order, and my object was this: Under the present system of assessing property there seems to be a great discrepancy in the equalization of valuation. This order is but a step in that direction. It seemed to me that there might be some plan devised, if the proper persons were appointed, than what we have at the present time. I do not know that there is anything I can say further than that I hope the commissioners will be appointed and that we shall have some plan reported for our consideration. We are not obliged to adopt it if it does not meet our views. The investigation will do no harm. The commissioners will serve without compensation, and the expense will be merely nominal—$300 being allowed in the order, and perhaps they may not use the whole of it. At any rate if the plan commends itself to us, three times that amount will be a small sum.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—I fully concur with the object this order has in view. I certainly think the system of the valuation of real estate in this city is difficult to understand, but the only question is as to the means of bringing about the reduction. Now, sir, we have a competent Board of Assessors, by whom some plan should be devised and reported to this Council upon which action might be taken. I have serious doubts in my own mind whether a plan reported by a commission appointed for such a purpose might be adopted. They might report a certain plan, but I do not see how we are going to adopt it. The subject is left wholly in the hands of the Board of Assessors, and it seems to me that the proper way is to request them to devise certain means by which this reduction may be brought about.

The order was passed. Sent up.

UNIFORM FOR FIRE COMMISSIONERS.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—At the last meeting of the Council I offered an order that the Committee on Fire Department report an order to prescribe a uniform for Fire Commissioners, and for an order for them to conform to "General Order No. 60," relating to wearing of uniforms. My reason for doing that was, I accidentally got hold of a copy of General Order No. 60, recently issued by the Fire Commissioners, and after carefully reading it I came to the conclusion that their intention was that the department should be run in regular-army style. I concluded that the order, as a means of discipline, was a good one, although foolish in some of its details, and therefore I offered this order. But I am sorry to say that some members of the Council thought it was done in jest and the order was refused a second reading; and therefore I move a reconsideration of that vote. Now, while I agree that discipline should be maintained in the department, I think it is nothing more than fair that the superior officers should wear some uniform by which they shall be known. As an illustration of the necessity for it, one of the commissioners, who has not been in the office a great while, went to an engine house in South Boston, and asked the first man he met, "Are you foreman of this company?" And receiving the reply that he was, the commissioner said, "Don't you know that I am a commissioner? Why don't you salute me?" Now, I think that was hard for that man. The commissioners should wear a uniform by which they may be known. Now, in regard to the general order. It provides that the men may not wear their pants turned up or tucked into their boots except in going to or coming from a fire; and on the streets the coat must be buttoned up to their neck, which is not very agreeable with the thermometer up to 90°. It may be very good for the commissioners, but it is death to the men. It is with that view that I move the reconsideration, and I hope it will prevail.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—It seems to me that this is a fit subject for the Joint Committee on the Fire Department to consider in consultation with the members of the Fire Commission.

Mr. McGaragle—I intend to move its reference to the Committee on Fire Department.

The reconsideration prevailed and Mr. McGaragle moved the reference of the order to the Joint Committee on Fire Department.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I do not see that we are going to gain anything by sending this order to the Committee on Fire Department. If the gentleman is desirous of having the rule of the department in relation to wearing uniforms changed it might be as well to intimate it by some order to that effect, but I do not see how it will be done by this. He says it is an evil to the men to follow the rules laid down by the commissioners, and he wishes to lessen it; but the difficulty is the order amounts to nothing. It is evidently intended to get up a quarrel between the Fire Commissioners and the two branches of the City Government.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I see no harm in referring this order to the Committee on Fire Department. It may be that the Fire Commissioners would prefer to have some badge or uniform. It is well known that it is impossible for the Fire Commissioners to do anything without having fault found in some manner or other. If they should adopt a uniform, then some member would say that they are putting on airs. If the order is referred to the Committee on Fire Department and they should decide, after consulting with the Fire Commissioners, that it was proper for them, as the head of the department, to wear some uniform, as the Chief of Police does, perhaps the commissioners would prefer to have it done. I see no objection to that part of the order being referred, but there is one part of it that I do object to. There is no evidence here that the Fire Commissioners have disobeyed Order No. 60, or that they don't wear their pants in the proper manner. If any gentleman states that he has seen the Fire Commissioners wearing their pants in their boots, it is another matter. I have seen them on the streets and I think they comply with all the orders they adopt. I do not think they should be requested to comply with an order until we know that they have broken it. It is well known that some members of the department appear upon the streets breaking the rules. It is the custom of the Committee on Police to see that the men in that department make a respectable appearance, and I think the Fire Commissioners should do the same thing. It is well known that soldiers have to keep their clothes in good condition on street and parade duty. I object to the latter part of the order and I move to strike out all after the word "department."

Mr. McGaragle—I don't care how the commissioners wear their pants, or whether they wear none. I have no desire to prescribe regulations in regard to that. As to getting up trouble between the commissioners and the City Government, I have no desire to do that, and the gentleman [Mr. Howes] mistakes my object. But I think the members of the Fire Department should have equal privileges with the greatest criminals in the State prison, where they are allowed to see their friends. But if you want to see a fireman you must first go to the man in charge, and then consult with the foreman. That is the object of Order 60. I think firemen should have the same privileges as are given to convicts.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—I hope the motion to refer will prevail. Although a member of the committee, there are a good many questions relating to the department that I am not familiar with, and the reference will give the committee a chance to consider them.

Mr. Howes—Having served a year on the Committee on Fire Department, I feel a little more confidence in speaking of that department than of some others. It is pretty well known that before Order No. 60 was issued the engine houses were made quite a loafing place, very much as

City Hall has been for some time past. It is difficult to draw the line. You have got to lay down a very strict rule, and then leave it to the discretion of some one to draw the line. I think the firemen have not complained. Certainly there have been no resignations on account of the order, and there are more applications for admission than could be granted were the department three times as large. Now, I don't think the point made by the gentleman [Mr. McGaragle] is well taken. The commissioners are not at the head of the department; the Chief Engineer is the head. The commissioners give directions to the department. The secretary of war in Washington is not in uniform; he sits in his office and directs the affairs of the army and manages details, while the general wears a uniform and goes out and fights battles. In this case the Chief Engineer goes out and puts out fires. It would be manifestly absurd to put one man in uniform whose duties confined him almost entirely to the office. I do not see any necessity for it; and as the ordinance provides that this matter shall be left in the hands of the commissioners, I don't see the necessity of passing the order.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—The gentleman draws more conclusions from facts that he knows perhaps more about, than any man I ever saw. The ordinance reads—

"The duty of extinguishing fires and protecting life and property in case of fire shall, within the city of Boston, be intrusted to the said Board of Commissioners."

I should like to know how the commissioners are going to put out fires by staying in the office. I think the idea advanced by the gentleman is like that entertained by many—that they are to stay in the office. I hope this matter will be referred to the Committee on Fire Department, and that they will investigate it. It seems to me that the best way for the commissioners to learn whether it is best to walk the streets of Boston on a hot day, with the coat buttoned up, is for them to try it. I should like to see them try it. It seems to me that is the most obnoxious order ever promulgated by the commissioners. I don't know but some of us had better go up and make the speech to the firemen that the old Roman senator did—I am not well qualified to quote Shakspeare—

"Had you rather Cæsar were living and die all slaves, or rather Cæsar were dead and die all freemen?"

I should begin with the firemen something like that. This order is simply ridiculous to me. If the police have found a man with his boots not polished, from stepping into a mud-puddle, and he has been reported to the Fire Commissioners, why don't the Fire Commissioners call that man in and talk to him? Why do they send out an order reflecting upon all the firemen? I don't think it is necessary or called for. I think the Fire Commissioners have done a good many good things. Perhaps they fill the position well and save the city a great many dollars, but I have n't seen it as much as many others do. I think this subject ought to be investigated. If our firemen are merely slaves and tools, put in position to start at the ringing of a bell, and to do this and that and the other, it seems to me it is time for this City Council to take hold of the matter, and that it is a matter for us to investigate. I tell you they are citizens as well as we are, and have their rights as well as we have. I should like to have any man tell me how I shall wear my coat buttoned up! Have n't they any feeling? Ain't they men, as we are? I don't believe any of them can whistle "Yankee Doodle" with the coat buttoned up. With the permission of the Council, I would like to read the order:

"General Orders, No. 60.

"Notice is hereby given to the permanent members of the department, that strict attention must be given to the proper wearing of their uniforms. It is required that on the street (except in going to or from a fire) the coat will be buttoned entire"—

Back and all, I suppose.

"—The legs of their pants are not to be turned up or tucked into their boots; their boots, buttons and 'devices' are to be properly polished, and their persons at all times neatly and tidily dressed. Their department must always be of a gentlemanly character, and such only as will reflect credit on the department."

I don't know what they mean by that.

"Lounging along, or loitering with no apparent object in view, is to be avoided; an earnest, energetic attention to their duties is demanded."

They ought to take lessons from some of our walkists.

"The house and street patrol will wear the department badge on the centre of the left breast of the coat, in full view, as a distinguishing mark of their detail."

"The same habits of dress and deportment will be observed in the engine, ladder and hose houses, except in the sitting and work rooms; and, after roll call, no part of the uniform will be laid aside until bedtime, or by consent of the officer in command."

That is pretty hard.

"The members will not be allowed on the main floor, except in the performance of duties assigned them by the officer in charge, and smoking on the main floor, and in the dormitory, as well as on the street, and in the stable and stable loft, is prohibited; and it is made the duty of the 'Patrol' to inform the officer in command of all violations of these rules that may come under his observation while on duty; all visitors having a desire to view the house and apparatus, or wishing to see any of the members on business or otherwise, are to be received courteously, and the officer in charge notified of the same, and it is expected that their stay will be only so long as will be reasonable."

They will have an order out about that, pretty soon.

"Idling about the house will not be permitted, as the houses are for business, and not for lounging; all necessary work in and about the house, stable and apparatus is to be done before 'Roll Call,' except in case of a recent alarm of fire, or some unforeseen emergency intervenes to prevent it, and in either case the work is to be done as rapidly as possible thereafter.

"Officers and members, while on leave of absence, will be held accountable for their conduct."

It would n't do for them to go down the harbor.—"whether in uniform or not, and if in uniform, strictly so."

I would like to know when our firemen get a day of leisure in the year?

"It is made the duty of all officers to take cognizance of these and all other rules, regulations and orders.

By order of the Board,
DAVID CHAMBERLIN, Chairman."

That is the order, gentlemen.

Mr. Howes—What is the date?

Mr. Spenceley—"Boston, Jan. 4, 1877." The Chief Engineer's name is n't given there, and I hope it never will be. Now, I understand that all the gentleman asks is that the Fire Commissioners have a like uniform, and obey the same order that the firemen do; and I hope it will be put in that after they go home and eat their suppers that they will sit with their coats on till they go to bed.

Mr. Howes—I would like to know of the chairman of the Committee on Fire Department, if he wishes anything to be done, why that order should have been introduced by some one not on the committee to give him the necessary force to look into it?

Mr. Spenceley—The gentleman himself [Mr. McGaragle] explained that; but I will say that I have had the matter of the Fire Department going along, and intended to bring the whole thing in at once. I have had this thing in hand some time, and asked one of the Fire Commissioners how he would like to go along the streets with his coat buttoned up on a hot day, and he said he did n't know; and I don't believe he did.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I suppose that there are proper ways of arriving at certain things, and very improper ones. If the gentleman wishes to correct abuses in the Fire Department, he can do so by a proper order, and I should be glad of an investigation if it is desired; but I have doubts whether this order is a proper one. Look at the power under which this board is constituted. I see by the statute that certain powers and authority are granted to the City Council, and then the second section provides—

"The powers and duties mentioned, in the preceding section, or any of them, may be exercised and carried into effect by the said City Council in any manner which they may prescribe, and through the agency of any persons or any board or boards, to whom they may delegate the same."

I apprehend that under that provision we have organized the Fire Commissioners. They are the civil officers of the city, and exercise the powers originally vested in the City Council. The question is simply this: Have we the right to order those commissioners to wear uniforms? I apprehend that we have not the right to coerce them into wearing uniforms. It is true we have attempted to exercise the right to make some of the Common Councilmen policemen against their will; but I apprehend that we have no more control over the commissioners in that particular than we have over the Councilmen. Now, if the gentleman wishes to investigate what are alleged to be abuses in the Fire Department, let him introduce an order for that purpose; but I do think this order is not a proper one, and I hope it will be voted down.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—I think this order may be improved somewhat by an amendment. I move to add after the word "requested" the words "if they deem it expedient."

The President—An amendment is not in order while the motion to refer is pending.

The order was referred to the Joint Committee on Fire Department. Sent up.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Petitions of W. J. Debus and other citizens of Charlestown employed by the Paving Department, remonstrating against a reduction made in their pay, on Jan. 31st ult., without any notification from them. While some men received $1.75 a day, they received only $1.25 for the same work.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I move the reference of the petition to the Committee on Paving on the part of the Council. I would also add that I believe these laborers have a serious complaint. I trust it will receive the careful attention of the committee, and that justice will be done them, if justice is needed.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Has this committee any power in the matter? And does it not have to go to the Board of Aldermen?

The President—The Paving Committee on the part of the Council have no power.

Mr. Webster withdrew the motion, and on motion of Mr. McGaragle, the petition was sent up.

By Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—Petitions of James C. Tucker to be refunded the amount paid to two defective tax titles; and of Uriah J. Dailey to be compensated for injuries to his horse on Harvard street, Charlestown. Severally referred to Joint Committee on Claims. Sent up.

By Mr. Coe of Ward 23—Petitions of Joseph Steadman et al., for the establishment of a branch of the Public Library in West Roxbury, at Curtis Hall. Referred to Joint Committee on Public Library. Sent up.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CITY ENGINEER.

The annual report of the City Engineer (City Doc. 15) was received. Sent up.

Following were the expenses from Jan. 1, 1876, to Jan. 1, 1877: Amount expended from department appropriation for 1875-76, $7966.15; amount expended from department appropriation for 1876-77, $18,371.92; total expended from department appropriation, $26,338.07; amount expended from special and other appropriations, $5617.82; total, $31,955.89. Amount of appropriation for financial year 1876-77, $28,000; amount expended to Jan. 1, 1877, $18,371.92; unexpended balance, Jan. 1, 1877, $9628.08.

In the Department of Bridges, the principal work done has been the various examinations and repairs necessary to the maintenance of the bridges in charge of the Committee on Bridges, viz.: Twenty-one bridges with openings for the passage of vessels, and Winthrop Bridge; the completion of Meridian-street Bridge, superintending the rebuilding of Dover-street Bridge, the work of filling solid a portion of Chelsea Bridge, and the examination of all highway bridges within the city limits. The preparation of the various plans and papers connected with the foregoing work, such as reports, estimates, contracts, specifications, estimates for payment, and the examination of bills for labor and materials for repairs, involves a large amount of office work. Two important changes have been made in the manner of making the bridge repairs during the year.

The first is the buying by contract of all the spruce plank required, and the second is the hiring a foreman and carpenters by the city directly, instead of paying a profit to a contractor for furnishing labor. Mr. Josiah Shaw, a bridge-building foreman of long experience, was the one employed to superintend the repairs. The spruce lumber is the largest item of material required, and about 277,000 feet B. M. have been used during the year. The price paid has been $12.90 for 70,000 feet for Chelsea Bridge, and $14.85 for about 207,000 feet furnished in such quantities and at such bridges as were required. An act of the Legislature was obtained at its last session allowing cities and towns to enact rules or by-laws regulating the passage of vessels through draw-bridges, and a draft of a set of rules has been prepared, but has not been passed by the City Government.

In regard to the water works, the report states that water from Sudbury River has been turned into the lake during the past year, from Jan. 12 to 18, from Jan. 21 to Feb. 19, from March 27 to 30, from May 4 to 10, from July 24 to Sept. 2, from Sept. 9 to 16, from Sept. 28 to Nov. 11, Nov. 16, and from Dec. 9 to 28, or 161 days in all. The total quantity of water diverted from the river was 2,528,300,000 gallons, equal to a daily supply of 6,907,900 gallons for the whole year. In the latter part of 1875 the lake surface was slowly falling, and it continued to fall till Jan. 13, when it reached a point eight feet nine inches above the bottom of the conduit; at this date it began to rise, and reached high-water mark March 26. On the 21st of March a warm rain falling upon a considerable depth of snow produced a heavy freshet, which was further increased on the 25th by a snow storm which turned into rain. On the 27th Sudbury River had risen to an unprecedented height, and was flowing at the rate of 2,000,000,000 gallons in twenty-four hours; the lake was also brought to a high point, and a heavy waste was occasioned at the dam, the depth of the overflow being twenty-one inches.

From March 29 until the latter part of May the lake surface stood at or near high-water mark. It then began to fall, and on the 26th of July had fallen to 9 feet 4 inches above the conduit bottom. Water from the river was now turned into the lake at the rate of 20,000,000 gallons per day, and the surface rose until August 7, when it stood at 10 feet. It kept at this height for two weeks, and then began to fall, standing Sept. 1, 9 feet 7 inches; Oct. 1, 8 feet 8 inches, and Oct. 21, 8 feet 3 inches above the bottom of the conduit, the last being the least height for the year. Nov. 1 it had risen to 8 feet  $\frac{1}{4}$  inches, Dec. 1, 9 feet  $\frac{3}{4}$  inches, and at this date, Jan. 1, 1877, it stands at 9 feet. There has been waste over the dam from March 25 to April 12, from April 19 to 23, and from May 10 to 14, the total waste being 1,619,243,800 gallons, equal to a daily supply of 4,424,200 gallons for the whole year.

The average daily consumption from the Cochituate works for each month of the year was as follows: January, 21,550,200 gallons; February, 22,675,200; March, 20,931,500; April, 17,300,500; May, 18,837,800; June, 19,872,300; July, 20,820,600; August, 21,333,900; September, 19,430,800; October, 19,214,000; November, 17,023,700; December, 23,783,000—making the average daily consumption for the year 20,337,700 gallons, an increase of five per cent. over the consumption of 1875.

In regard to the high-service Boston Highlands pumping work, the report says the pumps and engines at this station have worked very satisfactorily, and are now in good condition. The average daily quantities of water pumped in each month have been as follows: January, 1,402,859 gallons; February, 1,517,922; March, 1,403,026; April, 1,304,626; May, 1,346,335; June, 1,463,267; July, 1,457,000; August, 1,446,387; September, 1,446,660; October, 1,491,871; November, 1,452,143; December, 1,798,887. The average daily quantity for the year being 1,461,104 gallons, an increase of 15.06 per cent. over the quantity pumped in 1875. The consumption from these works during the last two weeks of the year has been at the rate of 1,874,148 gallons per day, a quantity just about equal to their present capacity.

Regarding additional water supply, the report says that by an order of the City Council, approved July 18, 1876, the city treasurer was authorized to borrow the sum of $2,000,000 to be added to the appropriations heretofore made for an additional supply of water. This, added to the sums before appropriated for preliminary investigations (Oct. 20, 1871, $10,000), for connecting Sudbury River with Lake Cochituate as a means of temporary supply (April 12, 1872, $100,000), and for building the Sudbury River works (April 11, 1873, $500,000, Feb. 26, 1875, $1,500,000) makes the total amount appropriated $4,110,000. The premium on the sale of bonds ($352,886.80) stands to the credit of this appropriation; therefore the total sum with which the additional supply is charged is $4,462,886.80.

The amount expended to date, including the estimates and bills audited in December, is $2,933,842.93, of which sum $2,325,186.21 is chargeable to labor and materials used in the construction of the permanent works, that is, has been paid on account of contracts, for work done by day labor, and for materials. The retained percentage to secure the faithful execution of the contracts is $196,653.31.

During the past year the work on the conduit has been prosecuted vigorously, many of the sections having been completed, and on a number of the contracts the final payments have been made. About nine-tenths of the length of the conduit is finished. The part of the work remaining to be done is largely upon special structures, such as the bridge and siphons. Work, by day labor, on section 1 and on the foundations of the dams was commenced in the latter part of May and continued without interruption to the end of the season. Section 1 is practically finished, and the masonry of the gate chambers at its head is so far advanced that it will be finished early next summer. The work upon the dams is not so far advanced as could be wished, although it has been well pushed since it began. The foundation for dam 1 is finished, and a contract for the superstructure will be let this winter. The foundations for dams 2 and 3 are each about half completed. The contract for the superstructures, it is expected, will be let during the coming spring or in early summer. The work required to connect the conduit with Chestnut-Hill Reservoir is not yet begun. Contracts for the chambers and for the pipes will be made soon.

The average number of men employed on the work done by day labor was 270; the largest number, 432. The largest number of men employed at any one time by the various contractors and directly by the city was 2300.

COST OF REMOVING NIGHT SOIL.

Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21 offered an order—That the Committee on Health be requested to consider the expediency of causing a reduction in the price charged by the contractors for the removal of night soil, or to take such measures to relieve citizens from the present high charges that they may deem necessary. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

NOMINATIONS OF CITY OFFICERS.

Reports from joint special nominating committees were submitted as follows:

By Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—For City Solicitor, John P. Healy.

By Mr. Blodgett of Ward 8—For Superintendent of Sewers, William H. Bradley.

By Mr. Stoue of Ward 3—For Clerk of Committees, William H. Lee.

By Mr. Hiscock of Ward 21—For City Engineer, Joseph P. Davis.

By Mr. Dee of Ward 5—For Superintendent of Common and Public Grounds, John Galvin.

By Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—For Superintendent of Public Lands, Robert W. Hall.

By Mr. Richardsou of Ward 10—For Water Registrar—William F. Davis.

By Mr. Thorndike of Ward 2—For City Surveyor—Thomas W. Davis.

By Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—For Superintendent of Streets—Charles Harris.

Severally accepted. Sent up.

VENTILATION OF THE COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 offered an order—That the Committee on Public Buildings be requested to consider and report upon the expediency of providing better ventilation in the Council chamber. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

FEBRUARY 5, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., Alderman Clark, Chairman, presiding.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS.

Police Officer—Michael McMorrow.
Sergeants of Police—Patrolmen Charles W. Hunt and George A. Walker.

Constable—Thomas Fee, Jr.; Solomon Hovey, Jr., for special duty in Collector's Department.

Police Officers without pay—John A. Whorf, Nickerson's wharf, East Boston; Royal Boston, North-street Union Mission.
Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Joint Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Petitions for leave to erect wooden buildings by Benjamin F. Teeling on Canal street, near Mill street, Charlestown; A. Zeigler (to enlarge) on Decatur avenue.

To the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department. Nathan Matthews, for remission of tax for 1875 on certain bonds that did not belong to him.

To the Joint Committee on Streets. E. Worthen James et al. to have Poplar street and dock filled in as provided by the act of 1866, chapter 167.

To the Committee on Licenses. John Quinn, for a hack stand near Old Colony Railroad station; also near the Boston & Providence Railroad station.

To the Joint Committee on Fire Department on the part of the Board. Remonstrance of L. S. Hapgood and 226 others, against allowing Jenney Brothers to erect buildings on First street, South Boston, for manufacturing and storing petroleum.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: Timothy Wheaton, new wooden, one horse, 814 Sixth street; Edward Murphy, new wooden, one horse, Greenwich street, Ward 24; Patrick Welch, new wooden, two horses, Bennett street, near Market street.

To the Joint Committee on Water. Boston Water Board, for leave to contract at the present time for iron pipes to be used during the year.

To the Joint Committee on Public Lands. J. H. Hathorne, to be relieved from a nuisance upon his premises on the Northampton-street district.

To the Joint Committee on Common, etc. Timothy Splaine, for leave to put boats on the Public Garden Pond.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. James Deshon, to be refunded a sum paid by him to the city for an invalid tax title; Rose Bennett, to be paid for personal injuries caused by an alleged defect in Genesee street; Thomas Bond, to be paid for personal injuries caused by an alleged defect in Border street.

To the Committee on Paving. William J. Debus et al., laborers on the streets of Charlestown, for equalization of pay, etc.

Metropolitan Railroad Company, for a track in Lenox street from Tremont street to Washington street.

Petitions for leave to move two wooden buildings by John B. Lord, 410 Main street, Ward 4, to 391 Main street.

ABATEMENT OF A CLAIM AGAINST A BANKRUPT.

Alderman Wilder presented and had read a petition from Hiram Johnson, representing that he is unable to pay his debts in full; that he is a debtor to the city of Boston in about $3600; that he can only pay thirty per cent. of his indebtedness and that his creditors have generally consented to such a proposition. In case the creditors all consent to take such an offer the city of Boston is not secured, and he desires that the city consent to do so to save him from bankruptcy.

Alderman Wilder—I move that the petition be referred to the Joint Committee on Health, with full powers to grant the prayer of the petitioner if in their judgment it ought to be granted. I will state now that I have fully investigated the matter, and that it seems to me, and I think it will so appear to the committee, to be for the interest of the city to grant the prayer of the petitioner. I ask for a reference with such powers for the reason that a case is now pending, and if this action is not taken prior to the 15th it will render proceedings in bankruptcy necessary to dissolve an attachment.

Alderman Gibson—What was the debt incurred for?

Alderman Wilder—It is a contract due to the Health Department for filling lands at the South End.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Has not the city of Boston a lien on the land for the filling?

Alderman Wilder—It has not; it has no lien.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move to strike out the words "full powers." I see no reason why the committee should have full powers.

Alderman Wilder—It is only a question of time.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I see no reason for giving such important powers to the committee. In itself the petition amounts to nothing; but it establishes a precedent, and by and by somebody else will be coming here, and if we object to doing what that person wants done this case will be cited as a precedent, and it will be the beginning of a series of such proceedings before the City Government. For that reason I shall object to giving such full powers to any committee of this Board.

The question was put on Alderman Fitzgerald's amendment and it was lost—4 for, 5 against—by a standing vote. The motion of Alderman Wilder was then adopted, and it was ordered—That the petition of Hiram Johnson for an abatement of his assessment for the removal of a nuisance on his land be referred to the Joint Committee on Health, with full power to abate said assessment as they may judge expedient. Sent down.

HORSE-RAILROAD TRACKS IN COLUMBUS AVENUE.

The Board took up the special assignment for four o'clock, viz., the hearing on the petition of the Metropolitan Railroad Company for a location of tracks in Columbus avenue and Northampton street, and remonstrance against the petition of the Highland Railway Company for the same privilege.

C. A. Richards, President of the Metropolitan Railroad, appeared for the petitioner and said the petition contained two parts, on the first part of which he would address them at length today. He knew the value of time to the Board and would be as brief as possible. He explained the petition in detail. They proposed to equip the line with as many new and elegant cars as may be necessary to accommodate the residents on the line, and yet not add any more cars to the already large number on the street. Besides the special line they would probably run the West End line through the avenue, and via Lenox street out Washington street to the Bartlett-street station. They asked this not to accommodate Jamaica Plain, Brookline or Crab Village, but the residents on the line, who will have communication with all parts of the city and the suburbs. Mr. Richards then called the witnesses for the petitioners.

Rev. A. A. Miner, D. D., said the line would be a great convenience, giving them connection with every part of the city by the cars of this company. The regular attendants of the three churches on the avenue would be greatly inconvenienced. He preferred the Metropolitan Company because of its connections with other parts of the city, and it would be an act of justice to them.

Colonel Lucius B. Marsh appeared in the interest of residents and property owners in 333 houses on streets west of the avenue. He read a statement to the effect that the growth of the city had caused the cars to be increased west of Washington street, and ultimately the establishment of the Lenox-street line, the latter fully answering its intended purpose. The company have been ready to lay a track in Columbus avenue for four years; but the residents thereon have several times objected. Residents on streets crossing the avenue have always desired a railroad on the avenue, as the want of it has been detrimental to their property. When it was expected that the road would go down the avenue the property sold rapidly, but sales decreased when the contrary was decided on. Had the track been laid in 1872, the valuation on these houses would not have been reduced in 1875 and 1876, making a loss of over $320,000, and the lowest point has not yet been touched, as probably another $100,000 reduction will be made this year. If the railroad is granted, a further reduction will not be needed, though he did not believe an increase should be made this year. If any road is to have a track there it should be the Metropolitan, the cars starting from Lenox street. If the cars came from the Highlands they would be full and would not accommodate those living on or near the avenue. Cleau cars just from the depot, with people of their own class, will be better than crowded cars from Roxbury crossing, Warren street and elsewhere. He spoke at length of the crowded condition of Tremont street along the Common, which would not be increased if the petition is granted. Many persons signed for the Highland road because they wanted some road; but they now prefer the Lenox-street line of the Metropolitan company. [To Mr. Sumner R. Mead, a remonstrant]—Own a house which has been occupied since it was built; but his own preference was not to have a railroad there; am not a stockholder in the Metropolitan; am not paid to appear here; wrote the statement to read before the committee in favor of the Highland road, not knowing that this petition was to be heard. He always bowed to the public good as against his personal preferences.

Mr. W. M. Parker, superintendent of the Lowell road, a resident on the avenue, thought it would be a great convenience to have a connection between the avenue and the depots. The Metropolitan well accommodates the patrons of the Lowell road. [To E. W. James]—Thought it would be a great accommodation to go direct from the depots through Charles street to Columbus avenue.

A. A. Folsom, residing on Appleton street, and superintendent of the Boston & Providence Railroad, said his company would be glad to have more horse-railroad facilities to all parts of the city. He commended the Metropolitan for the facilities already furnished. [To E. W. James]—Would not like to express his opinion of the accommodation of people at the West End without seeing the plan.

Asa H. Caton, residing at 161 West Chester park, had had his attention called to the question as a builder of houses on streets west of Columbus avenue, where many persons objected to buying because of a want of horse-car accommodations. A special line from Lenox street would be preferable to a line running through from the Highlands. [To Mr. Mead]—Some people had objected to buying houses on the avenue for fear the cars would come there; never lost a sale on the avenue because there were no cars there. Personally he had no particular wish about it; believed the horse railroad must go down there. As a taxpayer he wanted to see the railroad laid before the street is repaved, which will soon be necessary.

Mr. Loomis, residing on Holyoke street, near the avenue, believed it would be a great advantage to all residents in that vicinity. He preferred the Metropolitan road.

This closed the evidence for the petitioners, and the remonstrants were heard.

E. W. James wanted the Paving Committee to insist that the track be laid in a year or the location be void; also that they be compelled to run direct to the depots via Charles street.

Sumner R. Mead did not believe the Metropolitan road owned the City Government, and the same reasons for refusing the location are as potent today as before. The people on Tremont street do not want less cars, and would protest against the petition if they knew that the avenue was to be accommodated at the expense of Tremont street. Grant this petition and in six months they will want to run the cars through the Common. There are 189 occupied houses on Columbus avenue; over 100 representative men signed a remonstrance against the Highland petition. The ladies of the avenue do not want any cars there; every mother's fear for the safety of her children would be increased tenfold. If the cars are to increase the taxation, don't send them, for they are taxed more than they can stand. He could point to a lady who walks on crutches from the farthest point from Tremont street, rather than have the avenue blockaded by cars. The people had a right to have one avenue left free from the cars. He believed their interests safe in the hands of the Board. [To Alderman Fitzgerald]—If either road is to have the location on the avenue, he don't know which way a majority would go; but so far as his acquaintance goes they believed the Metropolitan road has the best facilities. [To Mr. Richards]—People on the avenue are well accommodated now.

John C. Haynes opposed any railroad there, but thought the preponderance is in favor of the Highland, as the competition will insure better cars and accommodations. He opposed any location there, as a resident and a citizen. He thought there should be one avenue where people could ride comfortably without the nuisance of horserailroad tracks. The ladies on the avenue almost unanimously oppose it. He did not believe property west of the avenue had depreciated for lack of cars; but it was from the general state of the times. [To Mr. Richards]—The avenue is free from tracks for half a mile. Personally he did not care which road had it.

Dr. O. S. Saunders said Mr. Mead's remarks covered the ground. The residents on the avenue had expressed the same thoughts to him, especially ladies and mothers, who dislike the noise and the breaking up of the display of carriages. He knew of many accidents this winter in getting over the car tracks, and he had spent over $100 himself. There is no such thing as depreciation in property by the want of railroad tracks. He saw Colonel Marsh last week counting the houses on Greenwich park, and did that authorize him to appear for the occupants? So far as the speaker's acquaintances are concerned, they prefer to go to Tremont street. He also believed that the granting of the location would be followed by a petition to go across the Common. [To Mr. Richards]—Considered the horse cars more dangerous to life and limb than is the fast driving on the avenue. When the avenue is extended the cars will go straight into a district which would fill the cars before they got down to the lower part of the avenue; do not think the special line would give accommodations that will overbalance the disadvantages; should object to the Highland petition as well.

Mr. Jackson said he usually drove in from Dorchester, and tracks in the avenue would be very objectionable. It is the only way he has of driving in and out except where there are tracks.

John Shepard agreed with what Mr. Jackson and Mr. Mead had said, as did also Moses Merrow; the latter would consider his house deteriorated in value as soon as a track is laid there. J. G. Russell opposed any track there, and has good accommodation now; but if any track is laid he preferred the Metropolitan. He paid $25,000 for his house; lay a track there, and he will sell for $20,000. He instanced several cases to show that the lack of horse cars is not a cause for depreciation. When Chester-park street is extended it will make a pleasant drive, but the laying of this track will spoil it. People leave Tremont street and drive down the avenue to insure safety. A track in the avenue will cause more depreciation of property than the absence of it. If any track is laid, he preferred the Metropolitan.

Mr. Mead thanked the Board for their patience, and the remonstrants rested their case.

Mr. Richards closed the case for the petitioners, saying these railroad matinees are very tedious for the Board, who had been made the only tribunal to which they could come. He gave a history of the movement from 1872, when the Metropolitan were refused a location there. The remonstrants claimed that the petitioners had presented nothing new; but could anything be older than the selfish reasons given by the remonstrants. This company come not to enter into a contest for this thing, but a rival corporation had petitioned for the location. It will be said that the Metropolitan is a monopoly. Every man is a monopoly. The chairman of the Board is a monopoly, for twenty-five years ago he began to educate himself for the position he now holds. So for twenty-five years the Metropolitan had been educating itself for this time. If it had avenues it was because they honestly asked for them to accommodate the public. The Metropolitan had furnished cheap transportation to cheap homes in the suburbs, and without it annexation would have been a failure. The cry of monopoly is all humbug. When an individual or an institution studies and masters a subject, and begins to reap the benefit thereof, the cry of monopoly is raised—put them down, and put up some one else. Mr. Richards again explained the object of the petition and the needs of the people west of Columbus avenue, citing instances to show that the location of tracks was a benefit to property on a street. He gave his word that in the early spring the company would put on a fine line of cars fitted for the business; but he would not guarantee "centennial" or "gilt-edged" cars. He had come without a petition in aid of this petition, and he had presented all the petitions of a certain kind that he intended to. When he could get 100 names for fifty cents for any petition, he would not cheapen his case by presenting them, as he knew that the Board had common sense enough to decide the question without a long array of petitioners whose signatures could be obtained at two cents a piece.

Mr. Merrill, President of the Highland Railway Company, asked that the Board reserve their judgment until after the hearing on the petition of that company.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the subject was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for Committee on Police to make all repairs which may be necessary for the care and preservation of the several police stations and the police steamboat. Passed.

Order for Committee on Police to provide from time to time such furniture and supplies as may be needed at the several station houses. Passed.

Order for the Committee on Police to make all needful arrangements for keeping the horses of the Police Department. Passed.

LOITERING ON STAIRS AND CORRIDORS OF CITY HALL.

The order for the Chief of Police to take measures to prevent persons loitering on the stairs or corridors of the City Hall, thus preventing free access to some of the offices, was considered under unfinished business.

Alderman O'Brien—There is something in that order which appears to be very objectionable. I can certainly see no good reason for its passage, and I am almost surprised that such an order was ever sent to this Board. We all know that there are thousands of poor people out of employment—deserving, good citizens—who cannot find work outside, and they come here to see if they cannot find employment. They know that hundreds of men are employed in the Paving Department, and in the departments of Lamps and Health, and I think it is noble in them to come here seeking employment, and trying to get a few days' work to furnish bread for their families. I think it will be cruel to turn those men into the streets, and if you pass that order I believe it will put it into the hands of the Chief to turn them into the street. The doors of City Hall should be open to the rich and the poor, the high and low alike; and I do not believe in any such order. I move that it be indefinitely postponed.

Alderman Robinson—I am perfectly surprised that the Alderman makes such an objection. That is not the object of the order that he states. This City Hall is not to be made a loafing place. There is nothing in that order that prevents any person from coming here that has any business with the city. There is nothing that prevents anybody from coming here to get employment in the Paving Department. It is only intended to remove those who loaf on the stairs. It is for those persons who have no business here that the order is intended. It has sometimes been almost impossible to get up stairs without the aid of a policeman.

Alderman O'Brien—I think that if we have a little patience all this will disappear as soon as we elect our heads of departments and Assessors. I have no doubt that some of those loiterers are candidates for heads of departments and Assessors. I know that the Superintendent of Streets is greatly annoyed, but we cannot help that. The order is aimed at only those poor laborers who loiter on our stairs hoping to get work, and I move that it be indefinitely postponed.

Alderman Robinson—The Alderman says this order is entirely aimed at the poor laboring men. I deny the statement. It is not so.

The question on indefinite postponement was put and declared carried—2 for, 1 against. Alderman Robinson called for the yeas and nays, and the motion to indefinitely postpone prevailed—10 yeas, 1 nay:

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Clark, Dunbar, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Slade, Thompson, Viles, Wilder—10.

Nay—Alderman Robinson—1.

Absent—Alderman Burnham.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Annual report of City Engineer. (City Doc. No. 15.) Placed on file.

Order for Committee on Health to consider the expediency of effecting a reduction in the cost of the removal of night soil.

Alderman Viles—The committee are powerless in that matter until next year, as the contract does not expire until the 31st of next December.

Nothing can be done in regard to it at the present time.

The order was passed in concurrence.

Order for flags to be displayed and bells to be rung on the 22d of February, Washington's Birthday. Passed in concurrence—yeas 11, nays 0.

An order prescribing a uniform for Fire Commissioners, and directing them to conform to "General Order No 60," relating to wearing of uniforms, came up referred to Committee on the Fire Department. Concurred.

Report and order to rescind order of Sept. 30, 1867, for a loan of $150,000 for Oliver-street Improvement, and for a transfer from unexpended appropriations of this financial year of the sum, less revenue received, advanced by Treasurer under said loan, to meet Auditor's drafts drawn in payment for said Oliver-street Improvement. Order passed in concurrence—yeas 11, nays 0.

Order for Committee on Public Buildings to consider the expediency of providing better ventilation for the Common Council Chamber. Passed in concurrence.

Reports of committees, nominating—William H. Lee as Clerk of Committees; Charles Harris, Superintendent of Streets; Joseph P. Davis, City Engineer; Robert W. Hall, Superintendent of Public Lands; William H. Bradley, Superintendent of Sewers; John P. Healy, City Solicitor; John Galvin, Superintendent of Common, etc.; William F. Davis, Water Registrar; Thomas W. Davis, City Surveyor. Severally accepted.

EQUITABLE VALUATION OF PROPERTY.

An order came up for the Mayor to appoint a commission of three to consider a plan for a more uniform and equitable valuation of property for taxation, at an expense not to exceed $300.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I must confess that I have tried to study that order up, but I cannot see what is to be accomplished by it. If any member of this Board can give me an intelligent idea of what this commission will be able to accomplish in its recommendations, so that this Board shall govern the Assessors, if such a thing can be done, so that their oaths of office shall be governed by our opinions, then I shall vote for it. The Assessors take an oath to value property in a certain way, and it seems to me that it is the appointment of a commission to find out how to value estates and control the oaths of the Assessors which they take when they accept the positions of Assessors. If any one can show me what good can be done I should be happy to vote for it. But in the present condition of affairs, and not understanding the order, I cannot vote for it.

Alderman Thompson—I do not quite understand the order myself, but I have been informed what was the desire of the party who introduced the order, he feeling aggrieved at the course the Assessors had pursued for several years; that they were running in a certain rut, and that it was impossible to get them out of it. He thought that a commission outside of the Assessors might suggest something which would be of advantage to the citizens generally. I don't know that anything can be done or that any advice can be given to the Assessors; but on the principle that two heads are better than one, it may be for that reason that the order was introduced. I certainly think myself that something should be done, because any member of this Board who has been associated on certain committees will realize that there are many discrepancies in valuations, and it occurred to me that no harm can be done for a commission of this kind to be appointed, and perhaps some good might result from it; and as the expense is so limited I shall vote for the order.

Alderman Gibson—All I see is we are paying some four or five thousand dollars annually to persons to assess our property, and here comes an order to investigate the whole subject of taxation at an expense of $300. Either we are paying too much now, or else there is not enough money named in the order to make it practicable. It seems to me that we cannot get competent parties to take hold of it for that. It will take three times $300 to get an expert to work on the subject.

Alderman Fitzgerald—This whole matter of assessment and abatement of taxes is regulated by the statutes of the Commonwealth, which this Board have no control over whatever. This commission can only recommend some plan by which the taxpayers might receive some abatement from the taxes received by the city of Boston. No commission can prescribe a rule to govern the oaths of the five Assessors, and the thirty-three Assistant Assessors. They take an oath to assess property according to their opinion; it may be higher than a great many other people think it should be, but it is their return. If the party is aggrieved there can be a hearing before the County Commissioners, and in Suffolk County the hearing is had before the Board of Street Commissioners. Now, can this $300 commission do anything better than the plan prescribed by the statutes of the Commonwealth? Because parties have a little grivance—and I understand the Alderman opposite [Alderman Thompson] to say that some parties have been aggrieved—because parties have been aggrieved they try to get something passed to meet their particular case. If the parties are aggrieved they have recourse to the Board of Street Commissioners. The act says—

“Any person aggrieved by the taxes assessed upon him may apply to the Assessors for abatement thereof; and, if he makes it appear that he is taxed at more than his just proportion, they shall make a reasonable abatement.”

“The powers formerly exercised by the Board of Aldermen of Boston, as County Commissioners, in relation to the abatement of taxes, are now exercised by the Board of Street Commissioners.”

And they can do that. Now can this proposed commission devise a better way? I have no doubt that the property in Boston is now assessed at more than it should be; but how can we get at it by this? This commission is something I cannot see the necessity for.

Alderman O'Brien—The dissatisfaction that exists against the assessed valuation of our city property is widespread. There is scarcely a man in the city of Boston that owns a piece of property, if it is real estate, but feels dissatisfied with the assessment put upon his property. I know he can go to the Street Commissioners and present his claim, but what does it entail upon him? It takes his time and perhaps it may take his money. He may have to call in a lawyer to plead his case for him, and it is disagreeable for any man to appear here before the authorities in City Hall to get an abatement of his taxes. I say it is almost impossible for a man to get an abatement of his taxes unless he has the patience of a Job and will follow it up month after month until he succeeds. I say this dissatisfaction is widespread. If we could get a commission that would serve without compensation—like the Park Commissioners, who have given us a great deal of information on the subject of parks—for instance, distinguished lawyers who would look into this subject and recommend some changes in the law by which we might get some more equitable system of taxation, I don't see any objection to it. And there is one thing that we might do every year, and that is elect the most intelligent men to assess our property, and that is where we fail every year in not electing men of the right kind to assess our property. After we have elected the board for the year they are beyond our reach; they are under statute law and they fix the valuation themselves. I believe that the assessment of our property for years past has been a humbug—that there is scarcely a piece of property in the city of Boston today that is assessed correctly, and we have been going up and going up, and never looking ahead to see where we are going to, and now we see that if our property was assessed at its true value almost every public improvement in the city of Boston would have to stop. As I said before, if this commission could give us some information upon the subject, even if only recommendations as to the alteration of the statute laws, I should be willing to vote for it. There was a commission appointed some years ago by the State, but they devoted most of their time to the taxation of church property, and they gave us some excellent ideas on the subject. Now, if we had a commission of intelligent men who would be willing to devote some little time to the subject and give their services gratuitously to the city, I would not object to it.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The Alderman must not think that because I rise to speak against the order I am opposed to lowering the taxes. I own a little property and I wish it was taxed lower, for it would be money in my pocket. But this order means a roving commission. It means nothing. If it means anything it means that the Assessors' valuation shall be different from what the Assessors believe it should be. I think the whole cause of the wrong has been with the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council in the election of Assessors, in the selection of men whose only competency is the persistency with which they buttonhole members of the City Government. If the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council would select men for the offices of First and Assistant Assessors because they know the value of real estate, and because they are judges of its value, independent of its assessment the year before, you would have an equitable assessment. But the First and Second Assistant Assessors, as they are elected now, know no more about the value of property than a monkey does of the organ that he is on top of, and they take the standard by the value fixed last year; they say, We must n't put this down this year, and so the taxes are up so high that they startle the citizens of Boston. I say that if you could devise some better way to elect Assessors the plan of assessment would be better. I agree with the Alderman that our real estate is taxed unjustly, because it is taxed unequally. We are, in consequence, obliged to bear the burdens of the State tax unjustly. I fail to see what good the commission is going to accomplish, but I shall offer no objection to the order.

On motion of Alderman Wilder the order was laid on the table.

REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

City Registrar. Report that during 1876 there were 10,626 births in Boston, a decrease of 394 from 1875; certificates of intentions of marriage issued, 3391, a decrease of 597; received for said certificates, $1695.50; deaths recorded, 8200, a decrease of 758. Sent down.

Superintendent of Markets. Report for quarter ending Jan. 31—Received and paid to City Collector, $26,776.72. Placed on file.

Overseers of the Poor. Report for quarter ending Jan. 31—Receipts, $40,773.52; expended, $35,380.01; cash balance, $6614.88. Sent down.

Auditor of Accounts. Exhibit of the appropriations Feb. 1—Total, $17,356,127.48; expended, $11,425,047.45; unexpended, $5,931,080.03. Sent down.

City Solicitor. Annual report showing the number of cases pending in which this city is a party. Sent down.

Superintendent of Public Buildings. Annual report for 1876. [City Doc. 16.] Sent down.

The expenditures for repairs, alterations and improvements of public buildings include all the buildings belonging to or hired by the city, except schoolhouses and county buildings, used for the accommodation of the City Government and the various departments. This class of buildings numbers 126. The amount expended on such for the past year has been $99,583.35. The income from rents to the city for the year was $134,047. The amount expended on county buildings was $42,900.09. The total number of buildings occupied for school purposes owned by the city is 163, containing 1296 schoolrooms; in addition, colonies are established in 17 buildings hired for that purpose, furnishing 30 schoolrooms, making the total number of buildings in which school sessions are held 180, containing 1326 schoolrooms. The expenditures for ordinary repairs, supplies and furniture for these houses the past year have been $126,635.37. The extraordinary expenses of this department are those for the erection of new and alterations of old buildings, for which appropriations are made by order of the City Council. Special appropriations for seventeen new public buildings have been in charge of this department during the past year. The total amount in appropriations for these buildings, including the heating and furnishing of a portion of the same, is $634,800. This includes the amount appropriated by the City Council the past year, together with the amount carried over from the previous year. The Superintendent gives a brief statement of the new work completed during the year.

The estimated valuation of the several county, public buildings and schoolhouses, including furniture, land, etc., is as follows:

County.....	$2,000,000
Public buildings.....	6,434,364
Schoolhouses.....	7,996,500
Total.....	$16,430,864

BOND APPROVED.

The bond of Joseph R. Rowe, constable, being presented duly certified, was approved.

NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS.

City Messenger. Alderman Thompson submitted a report nominating Alvah H. Peters for City Messenger. Accepted, and on motion of Alderman Thompson an election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Thompson, Wilder. Alvah H. Peters received eleven votes, the whole number cast, and was declared elected. Sent down.

Superintendent of Public Buildings. Alderman Thompson submitted a report nominating James C. Tucker for Superintendent of Public Buildings. Accepted. Sent down.

Assessors. Alderman Wilder moved that the Board proceed to an election for Assessors.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not like to appear here continually in the rôle of an objector to motions of this kind, but I feel compelled, as the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reduction of Salaries, to ask that all these nominations be laid upon the table until the report of that committee is made. If the Board of Aldermen mean business, and do not intend to make this cry of reform a farcical thing, as it has been for two or three years, if the plant is going to blossom and bear fruit, I hope the Board will begin by laying all the nominations upon the table. The Government will not suffer. We have February, March and April in which to elect them, and the Committee on Retrenchment will report in about two weeks from tonight, and then we can vote intelligently upon all of those officers. Elect all the officers and you cannot consolidate the departments and you do not know where you are going to land. Elect them and you will draw a lobby into City Hall that will prevent any reduction of the salaries of the city officials. Keep them on the table, and if decency will not, fear will prevent them from coming and buttonholing members of the Board of Aldermen. If you accept the report of the committee—and I intend to give good reasons for it—you can then act more intelligently. We have this very subject of consolidation of the Assessors under consideration. When the committee have made their report there is an end of it. I have no friends to reward or enemies to punish, but I think that the good of the taxpayers requires that the expenses should be cut down. And I do not care who suffers by it. I only ask that the members of this and the other branch may be able to deal intelligently with the subject. I only ask them to wait till we report what commissions can be consolidated; but if you elect them now, that will be an end of the work of the Committee on Retrenchment.

Alderman Wilder—In making the motion to proceed to an election now, it was merely to forward the business of the City Government, which has got to be done. I don't want to throw any obstacles in the way of retrenchment. It is a hard work which my friend has undertaken; I know he will accomplish a great deal of good, and I hope it will be done. But we have five principal Assessors, and if we proceed to elect them there will be no more than there are now. The Committee on Assessors' Department desired to have the Board act upon them, for I am free to say that there is a great deal of pressure and buttonholing. The committee have not lacked for gentlemen who are very anxious to serve the city in this capacity, and we want to get through with them. I understand that the Retrenchment Committee are likely to make some change in the Assessors' Department—perhaps reduce the number of First and Second Assistant Assessors two or three. What their purpose or plan is I don't know; only I am prepared to support it if it goes for retrenchment or reform. But I fail to see how it is to change the action of the committee whether we elect three or four Assessors. I don't wish to press this to a vote this evening. I have no axe to grind. We only submitted our nominations, and only desire action now because we thought it would facilitate the future work of the committee. For myself I don't wish to press it.

Alderman Gibson—I like the remarks of the Committee on Retrenchment, and I fully indorse them to the utmost. It seems to me we ought to know how many we are going to have before we go into an election here. If we can curtail the departments, and cut down to a thousand dollars where we now pay thirty-five hundred, I think it would be quite as well to wait. I should hope that the committee would be diligent in their labors.

Alderman Wilder withdrew the motion to proceed to an election.

MERIDIAN-STREET BRIDGE.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That Meridian-street Bridge be closed to all public travel on Tuesday, Feb. 6, and remain closed until certain repairs thereon are completed. Read twice and passed.

PIPE FOR WATER WORKS.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That the Boston Water Board be authorized to contract for the delivery of the cast iron pipe required for the ordinary work of the Water Department during the next financial year; the amount of said contracts, not exceeding $43,000, to be paid from the appropriations to be made for the Water Department for the financial year 1877-78. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

FRANKLIN FUND.

Alderman Wilder submitted a report from the Special Committee on the petition of Albert G. Rockwood for a loan of $250 from the Franklin Fund, that he comes within the conditions of the bequest, and as his proposed bondsmen are satisfactory his request should be granted. Accepted.

SWING SIGNS.

Alderman Robinson submitted a report from the Committee on Police in favor of granting leave to M. E. Shorey to project a plain lantern at No. 11 Cross street, with the word "Hotel" or "Lodging" painted thereon, provided it is secured satisfactory to the Inspector of Buildings. Accepted.

OMNIBUS AND STAGE LINES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following, from the Committee on Licenses:

Report on petition of George W. Sawin with an order—That leave be granted to George W. Sawin to run a passenger wagon from Cragie's Bridge to India-wharf Market once a day each way, for the accommodation of marketmen and others. Order read twice and passed.

Report on petition of Robinson & Emerton with an order—That leave be granted to Robinson & Emerton to run two passenger wagons from the Boston & Maine Railroad station through Washington, Broad and High streets to Rowe's and India wharves, and to return by the same route, at a rate of fare not exceeding ten cents per passenger each way. This license to commence May 1, 1877, and to continue until Oct. 1, 1877. Order read twice and passed.

Report on petition of Colman & Wellington with an order—That permission be granted Colman & Wellington to run two passenger wagons from Bowdoin square through Court, State, Kilby, Oliver and High streets to Rowe's and India wharves, and to return by the same route, at a rate of fare not exceeding ten cents per passenger each way; this license to commence on the 1st day of May next, and to terminate on the 1st day of October next succeeding. Order read twice and passed.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—Forty-six newsboys; one bootblack.

Amusement Licenses Granted—Warren-street Chapel Association, to hold a festival in Music Hall on Feb. 22; W. C. Huntley, for variety entertainment at Wait's Hall, Feb. 12.

Dealer in Second-hand Clothing Licensed—David Kurtz, 54 Merrimac street.

Amusement License Refused—Mrs. Lillie E. Hersey, for sociables on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, at 24 Tremont row.

Auctioneers Licensed—Jesse L. Nason & Co., 21 School street; W. E. Nowlan, 11 Pemberton square; Harry M. Joel, 281 Broadway.

Victuallers Licensed—William Jones, 890 Washington street; Brooks Brothers, 700 Washington street; A. J. Washburn, 135-137 Blackstone street; Charles A. Hackett, 519 Tremont street.

Junk Dealer Licensed—John William Collins, 17½ Spring Lane.

Dealer in Second-Hand Articles Licensed—Rappael Back, 1234 Tremont street.

Severally accepted.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Public Lands:

Report and order—That upon the petition of Henrietta L. T. Wolcott, wife of John W. Wolcott, the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized to execute to the said Henrietta L. T. Wolcott a confirmation deed of the land intended to be conveyed to her by deed from the city of Boston, dated Oct. 17, 1871, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, liber 1075, folio 74, in accordance with the prayer of said petitioner. Order read twice and passed. Sent down.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of heirs of Charles Davis et al., for abatement of assessment on Northampton-street District. Accepted. Sent down.

CLAIM SETTLED.

Alderman O'Brien submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Claims that they have settled the claim for personal injuries sustained on Exchange street by Dennis Manahan by the payment of $150. Accepted. Sent down.

LAND DAMAGES, ETC.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following from the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board:

Orders to pay for land taken and damages occasioned—William F. Bell, $1000, widening of Shawmut avenue; J. L. Sartwell and the heirs of John Humphrey, $581, widening of Shawmut avenue. Severally read twice and passed.

Report that no action is necessary on petition of Caleb H. Dolbeare, for abatement of Atlantic-avenue betterment, he having settled the same. Accepted.

MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC BUILDING ON THE COMMON.

Among the petitions and remonstrances received and read in the regular order were the following:

To the Honorable City Council of Boston—The undersigned, citizens and business men of Boston, respectfully favor the application of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association for permission to erect a temporary building on the parade ground of Boston Common, next fall, for its triennial exposition of industry and art, and join with the association in asking that its petition may be granted.

Boston, January, 1877.

Leopold Morse, George P. Baldwin, John Cummings, Jerome Jones, Asa P. Potter, Ivers W. Adams, Isaac Fenno & Co., Beard, Moulton & Bouvé, William Claffin, Edwin H. Sampson, Edward P. Wilbur, R. Worthington, C. M. Clapp & Co., Clapp & Balderstone, Henry C. Hunt & Co., Dennison & Co., William Morse, Herman Askenasy, Chas. Whitney, Albert A. Cobb, Geo. C. Barrett, Gilbert Attwood, H. M. Bearce, Sam'l E. Sawyer, L. H. Palmer, ticket agent Fall River Line; J. W. Richardson, agent Stonington Shore Line; Edwin M. Bacon, Chas. H. Taylor, Chas. A. Smith & Co.

To the Honorable City Council of Boston—The undersigned, citizens and business men of Boston, respectfully favor the application of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association for permission to erect a temporary building on the parade ground of Boston Common next fall, for its triennial exposition of industry and art, and join with the association in asking that its petition may be granted.

Boston, January, 1877.

Charles G. Greene, J. Warren Faxon, J. F. Morrill, F. W. Bird, Henry H. Barrows, Lyman Boynton, J. J. Richards, D. Sturtevant, John French, Anthony Hanson, Wm. Gaston, Edwin Pope, Wm. B. Munroe, B. D. Whitcomb, W. P. Emerson Piano Co., W. Moore, Chas. E. Jenkins, E. S. Tobey, D. N. Skillings, John W. Candler, Albert Bowker, Richard Briggs, Roberts Bros., Joseph F. Travers, Wm. A. Hovey, Frank Hill Smith, Erastus B. Bigelow.

To the Board of Aldermen of the City of Boston—The undersigned, citizens or taxpayers in Boston, respectfully remonstrate against permission being given to any persons to erect buildings on the Common for other than municipal purposes.

They also petition your honorable Board to grant a hearing on the subject before any decision is made.

[Signed] W. H. Whitmore, John C. Ropes, Abbott Lawrence, Geo. O. Shattuck, Geo. S. Hale, George B. Chase, A. C. Martin, C. C. Jackson, Joseph Healy, Jacob Sleeper by J. H. S., Clement Hugh Hill, Prentiss Cumings, Wm. S. Macfarlane, J. Henry Sleeper, Saml. T. Morse, Josiah F. Guild, J. Orne Green, Ed. F. Daland, Samuel S. Shaw, C. E. Hubbard, A. Minot, Jr., G. W. Baldwin, Dwight Foster, Benj. F. Stevens, Sewell Tappan, Jos. M. Gibbins, John Gardner, W. Amory, T. Jefferson Coolidge, E. R. Mudge, Sawyer & Co., Weeks & Potter, John D. Bryant, O. W. Peabody, Preston & Merrill, Perkins & Job, Iasigi & Co., Cutler Bros. & Co., Barney Cory, Dexter Brothers, Charles E. French, Horatio E. Swasey.

Alderman Robinson—The Committee on Common and Squares have made up a report upon that subject, and I move that that report be read at this time.

The Chairman—The report has not yet come in. Alderman Robinson—Then I move that the whole subject be laid upon the table for the time being.

The motion prevailed.

Later in the session Alderman Robinson submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Common, etc., on petition of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association for leave to erect a building on the Common for the purposes above referred to, and the petition of Otis Norcross et al., in aid of the same, with an order granting said petition. The chairman proceeded to read the report and Alderman Fitzgerald asked if it was a long report, as if it was he would move that it be laid on the table and printed.

Alderman Robinson—It was my intention to put it to a vote, if possible. Those parties are waiting to know what action this Board of Alderman will take, and their future action will depend upon our decision tonight. It will take some little time to erect such a building, and I propose to take the sense of the Board tonight.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I should be decidedly opposed to action tonight. It is a very serious question, this granting leave to put a building upon the Common. I do not know that I shall oppose or favor it, but I want some time to consider it, especially as respectable citizens have come here and asked for a hearing, for I think they ought to have one. The petitioners have received a hearing, and the remonstrants are respectable persons and they should be heard before the Board of Aldermen or a committee, before final action is taken in the matter of allowing a building to be placed upon the Common.

Alderman Robinson—It was not my intention to press it to a vote tonight, except by unanimous consent of the Board. I should like to have the report read.

Alderman Thompson—I agree with the Alderman in regard to what is due to the remonstrants in regard to giving them a hearing, and I trust they will be given a hearing before the full Board as soon as possible. It seems to me the best thing we can do is to lay the report upon the table and have it printed, and then take up the remonstrance and fix a time for a hearing. I move that the report be laid upon the table.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Perhaps the better way would be to refer the whole report back to the committee, with the petitions and remonstrances, with instructions to give them a hearing and then they can be heard. Or, if the members of the Board want to be bored by a public hearing, we can grant them one next Monday.

The Chairman—The remonstrants ask for a hearing, but do not say whether before the full Board or a committee.

Alderman O'Brien—I understand from some of the remonstrants that they would be satisfied with a hearing before a committee. If they have a hearing before the Board it will occupy several hours, as there are some fifty or seventy-five witnesses to be called upon to testify. I think it had better be referred to the Committee on Common, with instructions to give them a hearing, and that the petitions be referred to the same committee.

The motion to recommit and refer prevailed. Sent down.

Later in the session Alderman Thompson said, As a matter of courtesy to the members of the Committee on Common who presented the report, I move a reconsideration of the vote referring it back to the committee, so that it may be read to the Board.

Alderman O'Brien—With all due respect to the gentleman and to our chairman, who is a good reader, I should prefer to take this report at my leisure and read it in print.

Alderman Thompson—As the gentleman who offered the report desired that it may be read I hope he will be gratified.

Alderman O'Brien—I was merely considering the time of the Board. If the worthy Alderman from the Dorchester District desires to have the report read I shall not raise any further objection.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have no particular objection to the reading of the report, but if I were a member of the committee I should consider the fact that certain people have come here remonstrating against the passage of the order that they have reported, and I should much prefer that my report would not be published until I heard what they had to say.

Alderman Thompson withdrew the motion at the request of Alderman Robinson.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Thompson.

The first part of the document discusses the general principles of the proposed system, which is designed to improve the efficiency of the government's operations. It outlines the various departments and their respective responsibilities, as well as the methods of funding and the expected benefits to the public.

The second part of the document provides a detailed account of the current state of the government's affairs, including a review of the budget and the progress of various projects. It also discusses the challenges faced by the government and the steps being taken to address them.

The third part of the document contains a series of recommendations for the future, based on the findings of the previous sections. These recommendations cover a wide range of issues, from the organization of the government to the improvement of public services.

The fourth part of the document is a summary of the main points of the report, and a conclusion that emphasizes the importance of the proposed system and the need for prompt action.

The fifth part of the document is a list of the names of the members of the committee who were responsible for preparing the report. It also includes a list of the names of the various departments and agencies that were consulted during the course of the investigation.

The sixth part of the document is a list of the names of the various individuals and organizations that have provided support and assistance to the committee in the course of its work.

The seventh part of the document is a list of the names of the various individuals and organizations that have provided information and data to the committee.

The eighth part of the document is a list of the names of the various individuals and organizations that have provided financial support to the committee.

The ninth part of the document is a list of the names of the various individuals and organizations that have provided technical support to the committee.

The tenth part of the document is a list of the names of the various individuals and organizations that have provided other forms of support to the committee.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

FEBRUARY 8, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Reports of City Solicitor and Superintendent of Public Buildings; Annual Report of City Registrar; Quarterly Report of Overseers of Poor; Auditor's Monthly Exhibit. Severally placed on file. Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Recommitment to Committee on Common (to give a public hearing) of report and order in favor of erection of a temporary building on the Common for Triennial Exhibition of Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association. Concurred.

Report that claim of Dennis Mannahan to be paid for personal injuries has been settled for $150. Accepted in concurrence.

Report leave to withdraw on petition of heirs of Charles Davis and others, for abatement of assessments on Northampton-street district. Accepted in concurrence.

Order to refer, with full power, to the Committee on Assessors' Department the petition of Hiram Johnson for an abatement of assessment for removal of a nuisance. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Report and order for a confirmative deed of land to be conveyed to H. L. T. Wolcott, as therein set forth. Accepted in concurrence.

NOMINATIONS AND ELECTIONS.

City Messenger. A report came down nominating, with certificate of election, Alvah H. Peters as City Messenger.

The report was accepted in concurrence.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 18—I move a suspension of the rule, that the Council may proceed to an election.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I hope the rule will not be suspended tonight, for the reason that we have now out a Committee on Retrenchment and Salaries, and until they report I think it would be discourtesy to them to ballot for any of these officers.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—Does the gentleman refer to the election of City Messenger only, or does he calculate to go into the election of all the officers?

The President—The motion refers specially to the election of City Messenger.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—If it is the intention of the gentleman to include only the election of City Messenger, I have no objection; but my objection was to going into an election of all the officers. I withdraw my objection to the motion.

The rule was suspended and an election ordered.

Committee—Messrs. Hiscock of Ward 21, Brintnall of Ward 5, Barnard of Ward 24. They reported that sixty-eight votes were cast, all of which were for Alvah H. Peters. Mr. Peters was declared elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Public Buildings. A report came down nominating James C. Tucker as Superintendent of Public Buildings. Accepted in concurrence.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20 moved a suspension of the rule, that the Council might proceed to an election.

Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21—I move that this nomination lie upon the table, as the Committee on Retrenchment are not ready to report, but will be within ten days from this time, and I think it is essential that the City Council should hear their report before acting on these nominations.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I presume that whatever may be the report of this committee we have got to have these officers, and I presume that they will accept the positions even if their salaries are reduced. I hope we shall proceed to clear our desks of these ballots tonight.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—There is no hurry for the election of these officers. The ordinance provides that we can elect them within sixty days. There is no hurry, and it is due to the Committee on Retrenchment and Salaries that their report should be first submitted before action is taken on these nominations. There may be some departments that can be done away with, and some that can be consolidated, and until they report I think it is unjust to them to take action.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24—I fully concur with the gentlemen on the other side who have spoken, and sincerely trust that action will not be taken tonight on the election of these officers. This committee are at work upon an arduous duty; I think there is no mistake about that, and I think that any gentleman of this Council will say so. We want to give the thing a fair trial and have our report submitted, and the members of the Council can then adopt it or not. I trust that no action will be taken in this matter until they report.

The motion to suspend the rule was lost.

Other Elections. Under the head of unfinished business were the following nominations: Assessors—Thomas Hills, Benjamin Cushing, Benjamin F. Palmer, Edward F. Robinson and Joshua S. Duncklee; Superintendent of Streets—Charles Harris; City Engineer—Joseph P. Davis; Superintendent of Public Lands—Robert W. Hall; Superintendent of Sewers—William H. Bradley; City Solicitor—John P. Healy; Clerk of Committees—William H. Lee; Superintendent of Common—John Galvin; Water Registrar—William F. Davis; City Surveyor—Thomas W. Davis.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—As these elections are in order under unfinished business, I move that the nominations be laid upon the table.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I hope that motion will not prevail. I cannot see what effect the report of this committee is going to have on the election of these officers. I don't know but they are going to abolish the City Government entirely. It seems to me that they have been through the regular form and have been nominated by regular committees and they are in order for an election tonight. I hope we shall go into an election and elect them.

The nominations were laid upon the table.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for the Committee on Improved Sewerage to have charge of all matters relating to the subject, and to employ assistance, as therein set forth. Passed in concurrence.

PETITIONS PRESENTED AND REFERRED.

Petitions of Matthew Foley, for compensation for injuries received by alleged defect in a street; of W. H. Farley, to be paid for injuries to his horse and sleigh on Columbus avenue. Severally referred to the Joint Committee on Claims.

By Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Petition of Robert Paget, for leave to place boats on the Public Garden pond. Referred to the Joint Committee on Common and Public Grounds.

By Mr. Fraser of Ward 6—Petition of John G. Albee, for compensation for injuries received by defect in East Boston ferries. Referred to Joint Committee on Claims.

By Mr. Brown of Ward 23—Petition of W. O. Henshaw et al., citizens of Ward 23, representing the necessity for a branch of the Public Library in West Roxbury, and requesting an appropriation therefor. Referred to the Joint Committee on Public Library.

Severally sent up.

PRACTICE OF MEDICINE AND PHARMACY.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9 submitted the following:

CITY OF BOSTON,
IN COMMON COUNCIL, Feb. 8, 1877. }

The Joint Standing Committee on Legislative Matters to whom was referred the subject of petitioning the Legislature for the passage of an act regulating the practice of medicine and pharmacy, having considered the subject, beg leave to submit the following report:

At the present time there appears to be no law bearing upon the subject. In this city any person, whether qualified or not, can practise medicine or pharmacy without restriction, and the health and lives of our citizens are exposed to danger from the ignorance of unqualified practitioners. It is estimated that at least one-third of the persons in this city calling themselves "physicians" have never studied medicine, and it is well known that many persons engaged in selling medicines are not trained pharmacists.

The necessity of careful study and training in both these professions is undeniable. Upon the skill of the physician in prescribing the proper remedies and of the pharmacist in compounding them oftentimes depends the life of the patient. A mistake on the part of either would, in many cases, be irretrievable. Yet it is well known that persons who are not only unskilled, but absolutely ignorant, of the science of medicine are engaged in treating disease, and that the deadliest drugs are handled and sold every day by inexperienced persons. It is also a fact that the title of physician is often assumed as a cloak for the practice of one of the most heinous crimes against humanity.

The evil is a growing one, and appears to be a legitimate subject for municipal regulation.

The protection of the public health has been recognized as a matter of paramount importance. For that purpose the City Government is charged with the execution of stringent laws. It can prohibit the sale of articles deleterious to the public health, and can prevent or remove causes of sickness. It has been decided that it is not only the right, but the duty of the City Government, so far as it may be able, to remove any nuisance which may endanger the health of the citizens. The most summary processes of law may be invoked in order to enforce the statutes and ordinances relating to the public health. It is believed that additional protection will be afforded by including the practice of medicine and pharmacy among the matters which now pertain to the public health, and, as such, to subject it to proper regulations. Unquestionably an unqualified physician or pharmacist may do the community great harm, and, as a matter of public safety, it would seem desirable that both professions should be practised under such restrictions as will protect the public against danger, imposition and fraud.

Your committee would, therefore, respectfully recommend the passage of the following order.

GEORGE L. RUFFIN,
For the committee.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the General Court, at its present session, for the passage of an act authorizing the city of Boston to regulate by ordinance the practice of medicine and pharmacy in this city.

Order read twice and passed. Sent up.

PAY OF LABORERS ON THE STREETS.

Mr. McDonald of Ward 12 offered an order—That all laboring men employed on the streets by the Superintendent of Streets during the month of January, and throughout the year, be paid the sum of $1.75 a day.

The question was put on sending the order up, and was declared lost. Mr. McDonald doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. O'Donnell of Ward 7 the yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—What authority have we in this matter, and what effect will the order have if we pass it? It is a very important question.

The President—The question is on sending the order up to the Board of Aldermen.

Mr. McGaragle—I supposed that to be the proper course. I supposed the Council had no authority to act in the matter.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Is the order properly worded? Will such an order, if passed, be any more than a petition to the Board of Alderman?

The President—In the opinion of the Chair, the Council has no jurisdiction over this matter. It should really be in the shape of a petition.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—It seems to me that if the gentleman really wants to have that order adopted it should come in the form of a resolve, and not come in here in the form of an order, because we really have nothing to do with it, as the Board of Aldermen have charge of the expenditure of money and the fixing of the wages of the laborers in that department. The order should really have come in here in the form of a resolve, and if the gentleman will so change it I shall have no objection to voting for it.

Mr. McDonald accepted the suggestion and amended the order so that it should read—Resolved, That in the opinion of the Common Council the pay of the laborers should be, etc.

Mr. Blodgett of Ward 8—I move to further amend by striking out the words "and throughout the year."

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I rise to a point of order. As the question is on solving the doubt, is the resolve properly before us?

The President—The yeas and nays have been ordered on solving the doubt.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I rise to a point of order. The order having been amended after the yeas and nays had been ordered, and the question being upon solving the doubt, the order could not be amended after the yeas and nays were ordered.

The President—It was done by general consent, and the order was simply amended to make it readable.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I should like to inquire if this is a debatable stage? If the resolve is open to discussion?

The President—The question is not open for discussion. The question is on solving the doubt by yeas and nays.

The roll was called, and the Council refused to send the order up—yeas 32, nays 36.

Yeas—Messrs. Barry, Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Cox, Dec, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6) Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pope, Reed, Roach, Sibley, Souther, Spenceley, E. R. Webster—33.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brown, Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Day, Felt, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Morrill, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Roberts, Ruffin, Sampson, Shepard, Smardon, Stone, Thompson, Thorndike, Upham, Vose, Warren, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—36.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Cross, Mullane, J. H. Pierce—3.

When the name of Mr. Stone of Ward 3 was called, he rose and called for the reading of the resolve, which the President did, and then Mr. Stone said, "The amendment was put in after the yeas and nays were called for, and I should think it was not in order. I vote No."

POSSESSION OF ESTATES SOLD FOR ASSESSMENTS.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 submitted a report from the Joint Standing Committee on the Treasury Department, representing that they are informed by the City Collector that the city has become the purchaser of numerous estates which have been sold from time to time for non-payment of assessments lawfully levied upon them. The city became the purchaser of these estates in part under the law providing that if the deed be not taken by the bidder in ten days from the day of sale, the estate shall be conveyed to the city, and in other cases under the law providing that if no bidders appear the sale shall be postponed from day to day for a time not exceeding seven days, and then if there is no bid for the estate the city shall become the purchaser. The committee are of opinion that the city should formally take possession of this property in order that it may have the benefit of any income which might be derived from the estates, and also that they may be sold in any cases where it may be deemed best for the city's interests. The committee recommend the passage of an order—That the Committee on Public Lands be authorized to take possession of the estates named in the accompanying schedule, said estates having been sold for unpaid assessments and of which the city has become the purchaser, and said committee is hereby invested with the same power in relation thereto that they now have in other matters.

Sale of August 29, 1873, for unpaid taxes of 1872, the estates being held under the tax titles for all unpaid taxes of intervening years. The list shows the names of the parties to whom assessed, and the consideration named in the deeds.

John M. Byron, No. 52 Kendall street.....	$63.37
Jesse F. Barker, No. 88 Monroe street.....	107.43
Jesse F. Barker, No. 88 Monroe street.....	51.20
Benjamin B. Newhall, No. 43 Sterling street.	103.18
Cheever Newhall, 2d, Lot 38, Newhall's plan of Sumner estate .....	10.34
Cheever Newhall, 2d, Lot 39, Newhall's plan of Sumner estate.....	10.33
Cheever Newhall, 2d, Lot 40, Newhall's plan of Sumner estate.....	12.24
Charles Newhall, Harvard street.....	24.58
Charles Newhall, Lot 27 Wales street.....	24.58
Charles Newhall, Lot 57 Bailey street.....	10.87
Charles Newhall, Lot 86 Bailey street.....	12 12
Maria B. Newhall, marsh land near Walnut st.	13.52
Maria B. Newhall, land on Adams street.....	17.28
Maria B. Newhall, land on Ashmont street, Lot 21.....	13.52
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 33, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	9.67
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 34, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	9.67
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 35, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 36, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 37, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 38, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 39, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 40, Tolman's plan of Newhall estate.....	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, land west side of Neponset avenue.....	9.71
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 46 Neponset avenue...	10.94
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 45 (rear) Neponset ave.	9.71

Maria B. Newhall, Lot 44 (rear) Neponset ave.	9 71
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 43 (rear) Neponset ave.	8.43
Maria B. Newhall, Lot 42 (rear) Neponset ave.	9.71
Mannel Silva, Lot 6 Fuller street.....	17.08

Sale of August 28, 1874, for unpaid taxes of 1873, the estates being held under the tax titles for all unpaid taxes of intervening years. The list shows the names of the parties to whom assessed, and the consideration named in the deeds.

2 James Doherty, 6 Phipps place.....	$86.15
5 Patrick O'Leary heirs, Washington square..	360.65
5 John Welch, 10, 11 Chickering place .....	157.75
6 Russell A. Ballou et al. , trustees, Brookline avenue.....	1,275.28
6 George Washington Warren et al. trustees, south of Brookline Branch Railroad .....	603.36
7 William Bleakley, 178 Third street and 285 D street.....	88.97
7 George H. Johnston, 177 Second street.....	44.06
8 James P. Cummings, 140 Hudson street.....	165.14
9 Nellie E. Corbett, 7 Fayette street.....	127.92
9 Ellingwood & McKay, 307 Columbus ave.....	226.17
9 John L. Merguire, 271 Columbus avenue.....	160.51
9 Henry F. Rice, 7 twenty-foot court, now Buckingham place.....	84.53
9 Henry J. Stevens, 47 Buckingham street....	134.97
9 Charles A. Wood, Commonwealth avenue....	532.73
11 William H. Adams, corner East Newton and Harrison avenue.....	73.82
12 Mary H. T. Bird, 556 Eighth street.....	65.80
12 Mary H. T. Bird, G street.....	45.56
12 Peter Burns, 563 Eighth street.....	71.67
12 Seth Eastman, 775 Broadway.....	109.22
12 Samuel N. Gaut, 696 Sixth street.....	71.67
12 Jenkins & Co., Sixth street.....	100.63
12 Frank H. Kimball, 610 Seventh street.....	73.08
12 Gottlieb Scherer, Eighth street.....	78.97
13 Henry B. Chamberlain, Renfrew street and Harrison avenue.....	1014.54
13 Jonas B. Hildreth, Fellows street.....	147.63
13 do. Zeigler street.....	43.17
13 do. Dudley street.....	62.94
14 Charles H. Baker, 1 Bainbridge street.....	65.90
14 Herbert E. Barney, 345, 347 Warren street.	74.12
14 Mary L. Davis, 18 St. James street.....	99.09
14 Charles A. Green, 7 Bainbridge.....	55.73
14 Sarah F. Hersey, 4 Akron place.....	45.86
14 Granville Perry, 1464 Shawmut avenue....	86.15
14 Jeremiah Sheehan, 128 Dale street.....	52.83
14 John B. Simpson, lot 25 cor. Sterling street.	56.11
14 do. lot 26 " " "	80.41
14 do. lot 28 " " "	80.41
15 William Bowe, Marcella street (69,596 feet)	255.71
15 do. " (34,661 feet)	130.00
15 Eliza M. Bowe, junction Marcella street....	42.48
15 Michael R. Culbert, Binney street.....	93.33
15 Matilda A. Dawson, Marcella street.....	73.08
15 Lincoln & Allen, Bickford street.....	77.44
15 Michael McIntosh, Hampshire street.....	119.34
15 Salome Parker, 1099, 1101 Tremont street	76.03
15 Patrick H. Rogers, 17 Milford street.....	98.37
15 do. lots 48, 50 Ward street..	36.10
15 William Somers & Co., Marcella street....	74.41
15 do. do. do. ....	74.41
15 Charles Ward, Parker street.....	70.33
15 Robert F. Wheat, lessee, Rogers avenue....	144.92
15 William H. Boynton, Mill street.....	121.44
16 do. Commercial street.....	233.32
16 Cook, Jordan & Marsh, Howard avenue....	142.11
16 Charles Greenwood, lot 3, Leonard street...	23.80
16 Ezekiel S. Johnson, Stoughton street.....	60.15
16 John McDonald, lot 97, cor. Leonard street.	10.71
16 Thomas Story, Church street.....	51.22

Sale of Nov. 21, 1872, for unpaid sewer assessments:

John Murray heirs, Hampshire street.....	$9.93
R. F. Wheat, Tremont street.....	213.36
S. Eliot Trask, Glenwood street.....	67.62
Mannel Silva, Walnut avenue.....	157.65

Sale of Dec. 18, 1873, for unpaid sewer assessments:

Enoch Bunker, Ottawa street.....	$125.54
Frances D. Silva, 27 Laurel street.....	122.95
John Sheehan, Eighth street.....	25.70
Moses S. Chase, Newman, corner of Lowland street .....	25.20
Joseph Breckenridge, Trenton street.....	116.57
Thomas McDonald, 12 Longwood avenue....	42.62

Sale of Sept. 23, 1874, for unpaid sewer assessments:

Robert M. Webb and others, Brookline avenue, corner Peabody street.....	$135.24
William Jones, Dorchester avenue.....	61.82
William Jones, Dorchester avenue.....	122.10
William S. and Thomas Kyle, Fruit-street court.....	34.78
Patrick Coyne and Daniel Briscoe, Seventh street.....	99.23
John A. Emerson, Shawmut avenue.....	33.69
Charles B. Pratt, Shawmut avenue.....	31.97
W. Eliot Woodward, 1136 and 1138 Shawmut avenue.....	56.58
W. Eliot Woodward, 1144, 1146, 1148 and 1150 Shawmut avenue.....	139.29
John Mullen, northeast corner Eighth and Atlantic streets.....	110.41
John Mullen, southeast corner Eighth and Atlantic streets.....	99.36

John Mullen, southeast corner Eighth and Atlantic streets.....	99.36
--	-------

Sale of Jan. 7, 1873, for unpaid betterment assessments:

John Donahoe, 111 Warrenton street.....	$1,322.90
Mary E. Homles, Clark street.....	413.90

Sale of Dec. 30, 1873, for unpaid betterment assessments:

Eunice E. Humphrey, 16 Edinboro street....	$460.60
--	----------

Sale of Oct. 7, 1874, for unpaid betterment assessments:

George D. Cox, Harrison avenue.....	$563.90
-------------------------------------	----------

The order was read twice and put upon its passage.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—How long has it been since these estates were sold? It appears to be a pretty arbitrary power to invest this committee with at this time.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—Some of these estates were sold in 1873 and 1874, and I think some were sold in 1872. They were sold under Mr. Tracy's administration as Treasurer, and the owners of the estates have two years to redeem them: after the two years have expired they belong to the city, except in cases where a mortgagee has a claim upon them, and then within two years after notice. It will cost the city a great deal of money to notify the mortgagees, and the committee came to the conclusion that this was the shortest and cheapest way of notifying them. There are none of these estates but have been sold for three years, and the time for redemption has expired.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I think it is a pretty arbitrary order and should lie over for one week.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I move that it lie upon the table and be printed. I should like to see what the estates are.

Mr. Flynn—I accept the suggestion.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—I desire to state that this matter came up before the Committee on Ordinances, and a sub-committee was appointed a few weeks ago to see what new ordinance was required for the city to avail itself of all the estates sold for taxes; and I believe that the committee are considering what should be done, with the intention of introducing some legislation which will establish a uniform rule to apply to all cases. I think there should be a uniform rule about it, so that the owners may know at a certain time what they may do to relieve themselves of the embarrassments that they find themselves in. It is desirable to have uniformity about it, and I should hope that this matter may lie over until the committee report. I think the committee will recommend some provisions that we do not now have in regard to that matter.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I see no reason for any new ordinance in regard to this matter. These estates are offered for sale every year, either for taxes or for betterments. This list includes both. A private party buys them and if he gets a title from the city he holds it for two years, and if the owner refuses to advance him the sum he has paid, and ten per cent. interest, then it becomes his unless there is a mortgage, and then he has to give the mortgagee notice, and if the mortgagee refuses to pay, then the property becomes the purchaser's. The city is in just that position in regard to these estates, there having been no purchaser at these sales. It is a well-established fact in law, and requires no new ordinance. Still, I have no objection to laying it upon the table and having it printed, because the object of the committee was to have it printed. The committee think that if the names of the owners were printed they would come forward as a matter of pride and pay the city. The city is placed in peculiar circumstances. They have got the estates and have received no taxes from them since; and if there is any income from that property, I believe the city should receive it. Some of it is vacant land and some of it is improved.

The report and order were laid upon the table and ordered printed.

WORK FOR POOR CITIZENS.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 offered an order—That the Committee on Paving be authorized to inquire into the expediency of spending $5000 in providing work for the poor citizens of our city, and paying the same $1 per day.

Mr. Spenceley—I offer this order as a means of giving employment to the poor citizens of our wards who have nothing to do. It is a very sad fact, as many members of the Council are aware from the applications made to them, that there are many poor men in all the wards who are suffering for the necessities of life. It is among the saddest of my duties to listen to the complaints of sufferings by these men. The other evening a gentleman called at my house—and I call him a gentleman because I think none the less of a man because he does not wear a broadcloth coat—with his wife, and said that he had nothing in his house. I investigated the case, and found that his statement was true. He was willing and able to work, and had tried every means to get work. What could I do? What could I tell him? I helped him a little and did what I could. While I do not think it is best to let these men lean on the city for work in all cases, yet we have them in our midst and we must help them in some way. I voted for the resolution offered by the gentleman from Ward 12 tonight, because our laborers are not doing much this winter, and at $1.75 a day they will not get enough to carry them through the winter. I believe $5000 appropriated in this way will help many persons in the next two months who cannot get help in other ways. Therefore I hope we shall pass this order tonight and send it up to the Board of Aldermen and give some help to the suffering poor citizens of the city.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I approve of the order as introduced by the gentleman, but I should like to call the attention of the gentleman from Ward 19 to the fact that in the month of December of last year an order somewhat similar was introduced here asking that the Superintendent of Streets supply work for poor men out of employment at nominal wages—men who would be dependent upon the city for charity. It was thought better to give them work at nominal wages rather than to give them charitable contributions. And now, sir, an order comes in two months later to give them as high wages as any one else. I shall vote for the order cheerfully, but I think it is out of place, when they have been receiving work as charity to ask to be paid full wages.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I shall vote against the order because I don't believe in taking the back track. The order asks for men to be employed at a dollar a day; now we have 900 men working at a dollar and twenty-five cents a day, and if you pass this order it will bring them down to one dollar. There is money enough left to employ those men two weeks more at a dollar and a quarter a day, but this order for $5000 would not last them a week. The Paving Department have got money enough to keep these men at work for two or three weeks longer at a dollar and a quarter a day. I think myself that this order is ill-timed until something can be shown that these men are out of employment.

Mr. Spenceley—While perhaps the remarks of the gentleman may be correct, and these men are working at a dollar and a quarter a day, yet it seems to me that this work is about over with, the streets are almost clear from ice, and I assuredly hope we are not going to have many more snow storms. He says there are so many at work—why I have a list of men who have applied to me for work within the past four or five weeks; I come down to City Hall and tell the Superintendent that the men are in destitute circumstances, and I manage to get on two or three a week, and I have no doubt many Councilmen have just as many names as I have of persons who are out of work. What are these men to do? It may be true that the men employed are getting a dollar and twenty-five cents a day, and I don't wish to cut them down, for I would rather put them up some. I think the gentleman from Ward 13 said he should vote against the order because it would cut them down to a dollar a day. I don't know but that would be done, but I think if those men went to work and did the same work they ought to have the same pay. If you went to work with men receiving a dollar and seventy-five cents a day, and did the same work, would n't you demand the same pay? One must be a fool if he would n't. Who is to blame—the men who work, or the men who set them to work? Now, sir, I offer this order to set these poor men to work; instead of finding fault, I think the gentleman might have made an amendment and make it twenty thousand dollars. I thought five thousand dollars would help a good many men in the next two or three months, and it will. I would like to make an amendment to it and call it fifteen thousand dollars; and I will make that amendment to the order, if there is no objection.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I would like to make one more amendment, if in order. And that is, that all the poor laboring men now out of employment shall be employed at the expense of the city. I think that is about as becoming as the order. It seems to me that the bringing of these orders has got to be a case of buncombe. Speaking of the poor classes of men, I have probably as many applications coming to me as any gentleman here. I have perhaps fifteen or twenty names, and neither five nor fifteen thousand dollars will satisfy those who are out of employment. I will go as far as any one, and I move to amend so that all laboring men out of employment shall be employed by the city.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I certainly shall vote for the order as amended by the gentleman from Ward 19; but I should n't have voted for the original order, because $5000 is nothing. It may be that some gentlemen here like to jest about it; but they have not suffered—they are not poor; they are beyond that. Now, sir, there is no doubt but $15,000 would help a great many. It may be at the sacrifice of those who are employed at $1.25 a day; but the honest laborers will rather sacrifice something to help their fellow men in distress. Half a loaf is better than none. The gentleman has offered an amendment that all the laborers out of employment be employed by the city of Boston. I hope the amendment for $15,000 will prevail.

Mr. Spenceley—I do not like the remarks of the gentleman from Ward 20. He speaks of buncombe. I do not believe in judging others by yourself. It seems to me that he has been through the mill, and knows something about it. But I do know this from the bottom of my heart, that if I go to my home and should see my wife and children gathering around me crying for food, I know there would be a feeling in my heart that I would want to get something to do—some honest work, that would bring the necessities to my wife and children and prevent them from suffering. Bring it home to your own hearts if you can. Imagine yourself, if you can, able and willing to work, with a wife and children starving before you. Said a man to me the other day, I should think you would get tired of this. I am not tired of it. I glory in a man's trying to get work. I don't care if they keep ringing my door bell till midnight. I believe there are many who need our help, and I am willing to help the poor when they are willing to help themselves.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I don't particularly object to the amendment making it $15,000, because I am as ready to make it fifty thousand as fifteen if the work can be found for these men; but my point is, that by introducing this order you reduce the pay of the 900 men now employed by the city, and put them on at $1 a day. There is no work for them; no teams can be had. In the Paving Department the expense is $6700 a week for labor, and those men are getting a dollar and a quarter a day. If the gentleman's order goes through they will be reduced to one dollar a day. I say the proper way is to wait till they get through carting snow, when they can be put to work in macadamizing stones, and will not throw these nine hundred men out of work. Then if the gentleman wants to make it fifty or a hundred thousand dollars I would vote for it. But I deem it out of place now.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—The number of unemployed men and the poverty that prevails this winter appeals to the heart of every one of us, I suppose; and as I am as susceptible to this influence as the average Councilman, I am as ready to help any man who wants an honest place to do honest work as any one on this floor; but I must oppose the order, even as amended, for this reason—the matter of help to the poor should not come in the way of a gratuity or a piece of alms from the city. As it is offered now it appears to come as a matter of charity. Now, sir, the honest poor who have been spoken of so eloquently by my friend opposite [Mr. Spenceley], these honest men do not ask for charity, but for a place to do fair work at fair wages. They do not ask to become paupers. The way to meet this want, I respectfully suggest, is to ask the Paving, Street or some other department, where many men are employed in the course of the year, if there is n't labor to be done, something that must be done some time and that can be done now, and by doing it now to give them employment, at the same time relieving them without giving them alms. That would be seeking their services in a legitimate way. I suggest that that puts the matter in a form that helps those men who are out of employment, and at the same time it saves their integrity and the integrity of the city; and it offers no bonus to those who are not citizens to come here for the purpose of getting employment. It simply puts the honest, industrious citizen who, by the misfortunes of the times, is thrown out of employment, in the position of doing work that the city will have to do some time. I hope the order will not prevail; but I hope that information will be obtained so as to give employment to as large a number as the order contemplates.

Mr. Spenceley—The gentleman from Ward 13 says he is willing to vote for $15,000 if the work could be found. A little while ago he said he was willing to go as far as any one, and I make the amendment that the wages be $1.25 a day.

Mr. Wilbur withdrew his amendment.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—That is exactly what we are doing today—paying them $1.25 a day. It has been said that the order was put in here for buncombe, and I believe it; and I believe it as much buncombe as anything I have heard here this year. I believe it has been put in here for buncombe. We now have 900 men at work for $1.25 a day. Now, what can you do? It is all they can employ. When that money is expended, then they can be employed at other work; they can be put in the sheds, at macadamizing stone; but fifteen thousand dollars wouldn't amount to anything; it would n't give two weeks' work. It is put in here to make capital and nothing else.

Mr. McGaragle—I don't know what it was put in for, but I am in favor of it. The gentleman's [Mr. Flynn] arguments against it are the strongest for it. If nine hundred men are at work now, there are nine hundred more out of work. We don't suppose there is any work that is urgent to be done right away; but they can get work ahead, can prepare for spring work by macadamizing; and as to teams they can get a thousand. I hope the order will prevail.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—When I go to the Superintendent of Streets—as unfortunately I have to do occasionally once a week—to get men on, I am met with the reply that they have got more men at work than they really know what to do with; but he generally grants me one or two or three. If the Paving Department is doing all that it possibly can now in putting men on, I don't see the object of passing this order, and I hope it will not prevail.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 11—It seems to me that the Council is very much inclined to take up matters which do not properly belong to them, else I don't understand the question rightly. I think that all this discussion, that this whole matter, does not concern us at all. It concerns the Paving Department, and properly should not come before us at all for discussion. It is something that we have nothing to do with, and I move that the order be laid upon the table.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—If I understand the object of the mover of the order, it is that an additional number of men shall be employed than is now employed by the city. Well, sir, I know something about the necessity for something of this kind to be done, for at the present time in my ward there is a large number of families that have never before come to the city for any work whatever, either on the streets or anywhere else. There is a large number of factories in my section of the city—one an iron foundry which usually employs some four hundred heads of families, who are entirely thrown out of work this year; there are also quite a number of factories that have stopped or are running on short time; and many heads of families told me that they have n't had any work for the last two or three months. I have a list, and I put upon it only those who have families; I had thirty-five names upon my list last Saturday, and the Superintendent of Streets gave me three men; it was the greatest conundrum to me to tell how to divide up that list of thirty-five destitute men with families and place only three men upon the work. I have had several extreme cases of destitution in families. They don't ask for this work because they are paupers; they do it because they are willing to render the city some consideration for their work. I had a case last Monday of a man with eight children who came to see me for work, and I told him I had nothing for him, and that all I had on Saturday to give out in my ward was three. He said he had nothing to eat, and no coal. I sent him down to the Provident Association to see if he could get something from them; he went there and they told him that they could give nothing in that portion of the city, and all that they could bestow in gratuities was in the city proper. I referred him to a person on Dudley street, Roxbury, and he went there, but they had no funds. He travelled all day and came back and said he had not succeeded in getting anything at all. We have a very large number of such cases. Of course we take their names, but the opportunities for doing them any benefit are so small that I am really disheartened because I can do nothing more. I think these are such extraordinary times of embarrassment that the city ought to do something to relieve these families. It has never happened before since I have been in the City Government, and I hope it will never be so again. I trust we shall do something to put them to work. I think that $1.25 is little enough, for the reason that they have nothing to do on stormy days.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I just want to say one word in reply to my friend on my left [Mr. Clarke]. It is an old saying, "Consistency, thou art a jewel." A few minutes ago, when my friend [Mr. McDonald] introduced an order to pay $1.75, my friend [Mr. Clarke] voted nay.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—In one aspect of this case it seems to me it would be rather questionable whether we should vote away the city's money in the manner indicated in this order. It would appear that any relief that we should offer to the poor of this city should be done in another way. But it seems to me, after hearing the discussion, that it would be the highest wisdom and true statesmanship to take steps at this time looking to the relief of the large number of unemployed poor of this city. This is an exceptional year, Mr. President. The hard times reach not only the poor and utterly destitute, but all other classes. People heretofore in a position where they could afford some relief and give something in the shape of charity to the poor, find themselves, in this exceptional year, unable to do anything in that direction. This is a hard year; business is dull; and the depression pervades all classes. We have in our midst this very large number of poor people who are to be provided for. It only comes to this: How will you do it? The city of Boston cannot stand here and see people starve in our midst. They don't want that report to go out from the wealthy city of Boston, where there is so much food and clothing stored in the warehouses. So you have got to afford some relief to these people. Now, the question comes up, Is this the best way? I am inclined to think that under all the circumstances it is the best thing you can do now. It is a thing which ought not to be done in general times; it ought not to be encouraged. But no one can fail to see, there is no one but will admit, that something should be done for the temporary relief of these utterly destitute people. Why, this building is crowded every day with people anxious for work; with men anxious to be doing something. They want work and there is none for them; there is nothing for them to do. If the city can find some temporary employment for them, if the city can put them to work profitably in any way, I think it will be the part of wisdom for the City Council to make an appropriation of some liberal amount of money which will reach the necessities of this class. For those reasons I shall vote for the measure, although I think such legislation as a general rule would be of a doubtful kind. I think it is time to take some step in that direction.

The motion to lay on the table was declared carried. Mr. Spenceley doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. McGaragle the yeas and nays were ordered. The motion was lost—17 yeas, 46 nays.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Coe, Crocker, Felt, J. H. Flynn, Hibbard, Howes, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, M. W. Richardson, Stone, Thompson, Wilbur, Wolcott—17.

Nays—Messrs. Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cox, Cross, Danforth, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hiscock, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, J. B. Richardson, Roach, Roberts, Ruffin, Shepard, Sibley, Spenceley, Thorndike, Upham, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster—46.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Fagan, Mullane, J. H. Pierce, R. Pope, Reed, Sampson, Smardon, Souther—8.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I move to substitute "$1.00" for "$1.25" a day. If we are going to supply these men with work for charity it is desirable to reduce the amount paid per day so as to employ as many as possible for the same money. If we put it at a dollar we can assist a great many more men with the same money than we can at $1.25. We ought not to make this a means of distributing charity to special friends of members of the Council, but to give assistance to as many men as possible. If this is to be done at all, more good can be done by paying a small sum than a large one.

Mr. Spenceley—If the gentleman will notice the order he will see we cannot make the price, nor the sum of money appropriated. It is for the Committee on Paving to inquire into the expediency of setting to work an additional number of men. We cannot control the price or the number of men; that belongs to the Committee on Paving of the Board of Aldermen. The order is only to bring to their attention the fact that many poor men want to get work.

Mr. Crocker—Then there seems to be no good reason for naming a price at all; but if we name any price we should name $1 rather than $1.25.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—It is coming just where I said it would. Pass this order, and those men now employed will be reduced to $1 a day. That will be the effect it will have.

Mr. Ruffin—I am inclined to think that this amendment of the gentleman from Ward 9 is a wise move. I think, as he has suggested, that it would be better, because it will go farther. Now, I don't know what would be the effect upon those persons who are now employed by the city. I understand that the city makes a discrimination now in the money paid to the laborers. Some get higher wages than others. That is a matter of regulation among the departments. But this is a special measure for a special purpose, and I am inclined to think that the heads of departments would not be governed by the same rules that apply to the old regular employes of the city, as they would in the distribution of this money. Therefore I hope the order will be amended to read one dollar.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 16—I move to amend the amendment by striking out the sum, so that it will be left to the Committee on Paving to fix the amount of pay.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—I hope nothing further will be done in the way of amendment. If we vote anything in the premises we ought to pass the order as it stands. If we can employ any number of men to advantage, I don't see any reason why we should not pay $1.25 at least, for that is little enough. I would like to ask the gentleman who suggests that it be made a dollar a day, how he would like to be reduced to $1 a day, if he had a wife and children to provide for. Reduce it to a dollar a day, and you might as well say it is mere charity. If they are worth anything, they are worth $1.25 a day. I was about to say that I think great injustice was done to men who were set to work, a few weeks ago, by reducing them. I see no good reason why the Superintendent of Streets should reduce those poor men to $1.25 a day, and give these men who have been at work the year in and out $1.75 a day,—some of them owning two or three houses, to my knowledge. If real justice was done, they should have reduced the old employes first and given the new men the full measure of justice that they ought to have given them. I have had the good fortune to procure work for some four or five men at $1.25 a day, but after a few days they were discharged; while the men they worked alongside of received $1.75 a day. If say it is not just, and I say further it is an act of injustice, and the least we might do, if we do anything, is to pass the order as it now reads. I hope that every gentleman who believes in justice will vote for the order as it now reads.

On motion of Mr. Fraser of Ward 6 the main question was ordered.

The amendment of Mr. Flynn of Ward 16 was lost. Mr. Crocker's amendment was lost—21 for 36 against.

The order was read a second time and passed.

CANDIDATES FOR CITY OFFICES.

Mr. Brintnall of Ward 5 offered an order—That the chairman of each nominating committee appointed by the President of the Common Council report to the Council the names of all applicants for head of department for which his committee was appointed to nominate, with the petition or recommendations accompanying the same, or any other information in regard to said applicants; said information to be furnished at the next regular meeting of the Council.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—Before being called upon to vote I should like to know the reasons for that order. It seems to be a new feature.

Mr. Brintnall—In noticing the ballots on my desk, there are a great many names for each one of these positions. So far as I am concerned—and I presume it is so with others—I know nothing about them, and I offer this order partly to ascertain the whys and wherefores, and qualities and qualifications of these different parties for these different positions; and besides that my first object was particularly this: There seems to be considerable feeling about a good many of these nominations that have been made, that the present incumbents have held the positions for fifteen or twenty years in many instances, and a great many think it is time for a change. Therefore I would like to have the committees hand in the names of the other applicants so that the Council might judge of the qualifications of those men.

Mr. Beeching—It seems to me to be unnecessary to go to all that trouble to bring in a list of names of all applicants and petitions for these various positions. If the committees that are appointed are men of common sense, it seems to me they are capable of making suitable nominations; but if the nominations are not suitable to the Council, when the report is made and an election takes place the Council, can elect some one else. It seems to me that if it is known publicly that all these names are to be presented, the committee will be deluged with petitions and requests, and it seems to me that the order is entirely unnecessary. If there are heads of departments who have been there so long that they ought to be removed, that can be done by the election without going through the formality of presenting the names of applicants to the Council. I hope the order will not prevail. The order was refused a second reading.

VACATIONS FOR FIREMEN.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 offered a resolve—That in the opinion of the City Council it is expedient that the members of the Boston Fire Department should be allowed an annual vacation, without loss of pay, in addition to that already allowed, providing it can be done without detriment to the public service.

Mr. Spenceley moved its reference to the Joint Committee on Fire Department. Declared carried. Mr. Webster of Ward 3 doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 the yeas and nays were ordered. The order was referred—yeas 43, nays 16:

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cross, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Jackson, Kelley, John (Ward 3), Kelley, John (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Nugent, O'Donnell, Perham, Roberts, Sibley, Souther, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, Vose, Warren, Wilbur—43.

Nays—Messrs. Crocker, Danforth, Felt, J. J. Flynn, Mowry, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Ruffin, Shepard, Smardon, Thompson, G. B. Webster, Wolcott—16.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Coe, Cox, Day, Howes, Mullane, O'Connor, Pearl, J. H. Pierce, R. Pope, Reed, Roach, Sampson, E. R. Webster—13.

BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the General Court at its present session for the passage of an act authorizing the City Council from time to time to create any board of commissioners for the transaction of any municipal business, and give to the same any powers now vested in said Council, or in either branch thereof, whether in conjunction with the Mayor or otherwise, or by vote passed by a majority of the whole or each branch thereof, to take from any board so created, or from any board now existing, any of its powers, or by such vote to abolish any or all such boards; the salaries of all such commissioners, when once fixed, to remain unchanged, unless altered by such votes.

Mr. Clarke said this was an important matter, and it was necessary to be passed upon before the first of March. On his motion, it was specially assigned to next Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Pierce of Ward 18.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

FEBRUARY 12, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Police Officers without pay—George S. Dembrack, Branch Chapel and the vicinity; James A. Cropley, at "Dare to Do Right Reform Club," Meridian street, East Boston; Charles L. Flint, Old South Meeting House. Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Police. Thomas Dixon, to be allowed to project a lantern at 15 Brattlesquare for the purpose of a sign.

To the Committee on Armories. Officers of the First Brigade, for an appropriation for rent of brigade headquarters; Company A, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, for furniture and repairs on their armory, corner of Lowell and Causeway streets.

To the Joint Committee on Public Lands. John B. Regan, for leave to surrender two estates on Castle street purchased of the city, and for transfer of payments made to the credit of an estate on Middlesex street; also for extension of time of payment for an estate on Indiana place. Communication from Joseph H. Hunneman et al. making a proposition as to price to be paid by the city for a surrendered estate on the Northampton-street district.

To the Committee on Lamps. Eliza Carter et al., that lamps be placed and lighted in Carter place, Ward 6; I. Bartlett Patten et al., for a street lamp on Autumn street, corner Longwood avenue, Ward 23, with street sign on the same; John H. Millett, for a street lamp in Kuover place, Ward 21; Levi L. Willcutt et al., for street lamps on March avenue, West Roxbury; Otis Drury, trustee, for a lamp in French square, South Boston.

To the Committee on Paving. David Richards, for leave to move a wooden building from Monument street, Ward 3, to Medford street, Ward 3; Rufus Estabrook, to adjust his claim for damages by the raising and grading of Swett street; George P. Kettell et al., that Main street, Charlestown, be paved with granite blocks; Henry N. Clark et al., that Brookline avenue, from Francis street to Brookline, be raised and graded; also for a plank walk on one side of said street.

To the Committee on Claims. Albert E. Towle, for compensation for personal injuries received by reason of an alleged defect in Allen street; Michael Shea to be paid for personal injuries sustained in E street; Cyrus K. Kelley, for damages for personal injuries by reason of falling on an icy sidewalk on Hanson street, Dec. 11, 1876.

To the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department. Corporation of "Beth Eil" for abatement of tax upon their church edifice in Gloucester place.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables by S. & R. J. Lombard, new wooden, four horses, corner Canal street and Frothingham avenue; F. O. Osgood, new wooden, four horses, Cedar street, Ward 21; George J. Stevens, old wooden, six horses, Medford street, Ward 3; Norman Y. Brintnall, new wooden, 12 horses, 2 Main-street court, Ward 5; J. McNelly, old wooden, one horse, Downer street, near Tremont street.

To the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board. Philip Sowdon, Jr., to be paid for land taken to lay out Jenkins street.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence. Report of Board of Fire Commissioners of the number and character of the alarms of fire in January last. Placed on file.

Report and order for Mayor to petition the Legislature for an act to authorize the city of Boston to regulate the practice of medicine and pharmacy in this city. Order passed in concurrence.

A resolve that it is expedient for the firemen of this city to have an annual vacation without loss of pay came up referred to the Committee on the Fire Department. Concurred.

QUARTERLY REPORT.

City Clerk. Received and paid to Collector, $1048.74. Sent down.

BONDS APPROVED.

The bonds of three constables, being presented duly certified, were approved.

REPORT OF LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

The report of the doings of the License Commissioners from May 1, 1876, to Feb. 1, 1877, was submitted (City Doc. 18). Sent down.

Total number of applications received from May 1, 1876, to Jan. 31, 1877, inclusive, was.. 2,403

Licenses Granted.

To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 1st class, innholders.....	16
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 1st class, victuallers.....	419
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 2d class, victuallers.....	65
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 3d class, victuallers.....	190
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, distillers.....	3
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises 4th class, druggists.....	122
To sell liquor, not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, grocers.....	203
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises 4th class, dealers.....	130
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 5th class, brewers.....	14
To sell liquors, not to be drunk on the premises, 5th class, grocers and dealers.....	224
Total number of licenses granted.....	1,386

Licenses Issued.

To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 1st class, innholders.....	16
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 1st class, victuallers.....	396
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 2d class, victuallers.....	60
To sell liquors to be drunk on the premises, 3d class, victuallers.....	173
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, distillers.....	3
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, druggists.....	114
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, grocers.....	198
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 4th class, dealers.....	128
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 5th class, brewers.....	14
To sell liquors not to be drunk on the premises, 5th class, grocers and dealers.....	211
Total number of licenses issued.....	1,313
Licenses uncalled for, and cancelled.....	73
	1,386

Licenses Declared to be Forfeited.

1st class, victuallers.....	51
2d " ".....	5
3d " ".....	42
4th " grocers.....	17
4th " dealers.....	17
5th " ".....	23
	155

Licenses given up and cancelled, or exchanged for other classes..... 17
Applications rejected..... 1,017

Recapitulation.

Total number of applications.....	2,403
Total number licenses granted.....	1,386
Total number applications rejected.....	1,017
	2,403
Licenses issued.....	1,313
Licenses declared to be forfeited.....	155
Licenses surrendered and cancelled, or exchanged for other classes.....	17
	172

Leaving the total number of licenses in actual force, Feb. 1, 1877..... 1,141

Total number of places licensed, of which 86 have two licenses of different classes, is..... 1,055

The board commenced the hearing of complaints for violation of licenses about the first of September, 1876, and have heard 202 cases of this kind, and declared 155 of them forfeited as above. They have also, in cases where circumstances warranted or required it, personally examined the premises of applicants for licenses, and into the nature of their business.

Continuous experience of the law under which they act confirms the views expressed by the commissioners in their report, made something over a year ago.

The law cannot be called a success, though some good has undoubtedly been accomplished by it, and it is a step in the right direction.

The Chief of Police, in his last report, shows a gratifying re-acton in the number of arrests for drunkenness and of the places where liquor is openly sold. Rejoicing in this fact, it may be questionable how much of the result is due to the law and how much to the general depression in trade and the so-called hard times from which all are more or less suffering.

The law is in no proper sense a license law, and its failure should not be deemed the failure of a system of license. It is viewed as partial, arbitrary, and unfair in its conditions and requirements, and the commissioners so far sympathized with these views that they spent some time last winter in preparing a law which they regarded as more liberal, and at the same time more stringent in its most important conditions, which law was passed by the Legislature, but failed to receive the approval of the Governor.

It must be admitted that the business of liquor-selling in the city is, to a very large extent, in the hands of irresponsible men and women, whose idea of a license law ends with the simple matter of paying a certain sum, the amount making but little difference to them, provided they are left to do as they please after the payment. Besides the saloons and bar-rooms which are open publicly, the traffic in small grocery stores, in cellars and in dwelling houses, in some parts of the city is almost astounding. The Sunday trade is enormous, and it seems as if there were not hours enough in the whole round of twenty-four, or days enough in the entire week, to satisfy the dealers. The commissioners deem the three greatest abuses of the traffic to be sales of impure liquors, sales on Sunday, and sales at late hours.

Notwithstanding this, they believe that a law which shall be more rigid in punishing the gross abuses of the traffic, rather than insisting upon impracticable conditions under which only it can be sold, would be more popular in the community, and more easy of enforcement; and they would therefore favor a law granting licenses to all persons of respectable character to engage in the business, leaving the amount of the business, as in all others, to regulate itself; but at the same time making the penalties for such abuses as they have indicated, swift and sure. Such a law is sustained fairly in cities whose moral standard is certainly no higher than ours, and it would seem that no very vigorous public sentiment on the subject of temperance is required to uphold it.

A law like this, having the elements of fairness and equal rights in it, could hardly fail to receive the assent and cordial support of the dealers, because the penalties and conditions would be aimed at the abuse of the traffic rather than the traffic itself.

Of course this idea is founded on a belief in a license rather than a prohibitory law, and will have no influence upon a believer in the latter system.

The commissioners are firm adherents of a license law, and believe that such a law is the only one that it is possible to enforce.

The present law appears to have been framed on the supposition that no one would presume to sell liquor without a license. A very mistaken supposition. Nothing is more common among the dealers than the saying that they are better off without than with a license; and, as a matter of fact, few of the whole number of persons holding licenses are, in good faith, keeping the conditions of them; and the enforcement of the law against those who sell liquor without licenses seems to have but little effect, either on the parties prosecuted or their neighbors in the trade. This is owing, the commissioners think, in large measure, to defects which render the law powerless to convict and punish, and it is hardly possible that any law on the subject can ever accomplish much until these most radical defects are remedied.

It is a many-sided and perplexing question, as has been shown by twenty years of varied experience; but the commissioners have great faith that if those interested will give the revision of the law careful thought, the result will be a statute worthy of being tested; one which public opinion will sustain, and one which will gradually, perhaps, but surely, correct the abuse of the traffic, and thus in a great measure diminish its attendant crime and misery.

As to the Board of Commissioners, their duties seem to have been misunderstood, and the abuse which was intended for the law itself has been, perhaps naturally enough, poured out upon their heads. Their powers, arbitrary in some respects, are yet exceedingly limited in others. They simply have the right to grant and revoke licenses; but, contrary to the general idea, they have no official control over unlicensed places. In the granting of licenses they have endeavored to be as fair and liberal as the spirit of the law would allow; and in the revocation of the same they have also endeavored to use the large power granted by the law, in this respect, with justice and discretion. Holding a position somewhat odious and unpopular, they have performed their duties conscientiously, fearlessly, and without favor. They have employed such assistants as seemed necessary for doing the work systematically and efficiently; they have kept full records of the whole business; they have always been accessible at stated times; they have neglected no duty, and have given all the time required, either day or night. It has been a source of much regret to the commissioners that when statements were to be made regarding the office, information should not have been sought from those best qualified to give it, and the vague and incorrect reports which have from time to time gained currency have thus been avoided.

Respectfully submitted.

WM. H. KENT.

HENRY W. PICKERING.

JOS. A. LAFORME.

License Commissioners.

HIGHLAND RAILROAD TRACKS IN COLUMBUS AVENUE.

At 4.15, on motion of Alderman Clark, the Board took up the special assignment, viz., Hearing on petitions of the Highland Railway Company for a location of tracks in Northampton street and Columbus avenue.

Moody Merrill, president of the Highland Railway Company, appeared for the petitioners.

C. A. Richards, president of the Metropolitan Railroad, appeared on behalf of that company as a remonstrant.

Wilmou W. Blackmar appeared on behalf of remonstrants on the avenue.

George Z. Adams appeared for J. H. Hathorne, whose petition to run a line of coaches on the avenue is before the Board.

The case for the petitioners was first heard.

Mr. Merrill presented a map to each member of the Board to give a proper understanding of the plan. He explained the plan, and said they had made the petition because they desire the location and desire to run cars through the avenue. Formerly they petitioned for this location at the request of residents on the line, though they did not care much for it then; but now they want the location. They propose to run a special line of four cars an hour on the avenue for the special accommodation of the people residing there, and another fifteen-minute line, making a car every seven and a half minutes on the avenue. He presented petitions in aid of the company's petition, signed as follows:

James B. Dunn and seven or eight hundred others.

John C. Mullaly and 243 others.

Katharine B. Skillings and 1135 others, ladies.

R. B. Leuchars and 25 others.

F. M. Josselyu and 334 others.

J. P. Townsend and 520 others.

Edward J. Jones and 74 others, abutters on Northampton street.

Joseph Murdock and 110 others.

George F. H. Markoe and 115 others.

Rev. A. J. Patterson and 1021 others.

F. H. Haynes and 35 others.

Mr. Merrill spoke at length in regard to the need of more railroad facilities felt by the people of the Highlands who desire to go to the avenue and the streets crossing it. Nearly all who signed the petition from the Highlands are taxpayers and citizens; all know what they want, and signed the petition because they believe it will be a great accommodation to their section of the city. He explained that there had been no difficulty in obtaining signatures to the petitions; in fact, there was great enthusiasm in the Highlands, both among ladies and gentlemen, in favor of this location. A large part of the names were obtained without any effort on the part of the officers of the company. If the location is granted, they intend to put on the handsomest line of cars ever seen in this city. They believed the better accommodations furnished the people, the more money will come into the treasuries of the company. This had been demonstrated by the experience of the Highland road. They had made a contract for the cars, subject to the granting of the petition. He then called the witnesses for the petitioners.

Alexander Leuchars—Live in Albemarle Hotel; father owns property there and feels it would be beneficial to real estate to have cars there; prefers Highland road to Metropolitan because competition would be good; circulated the petition; of 300 residents on the avenue only six favored the Metropolitan; of 900 on the side streets only twenty-one favored the Metropolitan; a large majority of the opponents of any road favor the Highland. Did not begin the canvass until the remonstrance had been circulated. Many persons favored a road, but would not sign a petition for fear of getting into a controversy with neighbors. [To Mr. Richards]—Make no charge for my services and expect no remuneration; went among the people and heard their opinions; did not go on Saturday at suggestion of Mr. Merrill, and his statements are on his own personal responsibility. [To Mr. Blackmar]—The Albemarle is two or three minutes' walk to the cars; did not state that they must have some railroad, but if they must have one, which would they prefer? [To Mr. Adams]—The proposition for a line of coaches did not receive much favor; saw probably three-fourths of the residents on the avenue; made no list of those opposed to the road; have made no estimate of the ability of the coaches to do the business; his father supported the petition for coaches before the petition for cars was put in.

Mr. Merrill said he never knew Mr. Leuchars before the petition was put in.

Henry P. Stanwood—Reside at corner of Springfield street and Columbus avenue; appeared four or five years ago against any road there, but now think it will be a benefit; prefer the Highland road, because it will give accommodations with the Highlands that the Metropolitan cannot give, and competition will insure better cars; think a majority of the people there prefer the Highland road. [To Mr. Richards]—Do not think the Metropolitan road would give as good accommodations as the Highlands. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Think it takes two minutes to reach the cars; first thought the road would drive away the drivers on the avenue, but do not now think it would; know three neighbors who oppose any road; don't think the cars from the Highlands would be full before reaching the avenue.

Freeman J. Doe—Reside at 371 Columbus avenue; favor a track there; prefer the Highland; in my judgment it will benefit the property and accommodate the people; in my judgment the residents generally prefer the Highland; think competition has been shown to be specially good in horse-railroad management in this city. [To Mr. Richards]—Do not use cars much; am not fortunate enough to find an empty car at Berkeley street; can generally walk down quicker than I can ride. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Can reach a car in five or six minutes to Tremont street; give the benefit of my own judgment. [To Mr. Davis]—Should prefer a railroad to a line of coaches.

Alderman Clark in the chair.
R. B. Leuchars—It was at his request that his son got up the petitions; never knew Mr. Merrill before that; the Metropolitan first refused to lay the track there because it would not pay; the Metropolitan do not want the location themselves, and want no one else to have it.

Charles Richardson—Reside at Hotel Columbus; find it very inconvenient to walk to the cars on Tremont and Berkeley streets; a line of cars would be acceptable to the people; do not advocate any particular line, but prefer the Highland road, as competition is healthy and beneficial. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Own no property on the avenue; occupy a back room, and have not a good view up and down the avenue.

David H. Jacobs—Reside at 530 Columbus avenue, at the extreme upper end; think the line would be beneficial; prefer the Highland if there is to be any; don't know which road a majority of the residents prefer. [To Mr. Richards]—Should not have had clean Metropolitan cars if we had not had the Highland road; carry both tickets in my pocket. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Really favor a horse railroad there now, though formerly opposed it; believe they must have a road, and therefore prefer the Highland.

Uriah H. Coffin—Live at 10 Yarmouth street; have always favored a road on the avenue; always been a demand for it, since the territory west of it was built on; understood not quite so many oppose a road this year as before; came here voluntarily; don't care which road gets the location; want some road there; residents on the cross streets are dead in earnest for a road; don't want to give an opinion as to the effect of a competing line; am satisfied with either.

Alden Avery—Own the new hotel on the avenue and Holyoke street; built the Commonwealth Hotel; decidedly favor a road there; little prefer the Highland road; like the Metropolitan much better than before Mr. Richards was president; could hire several suites in the hotel if they had cars there; it will increase the rent $500 a year, and the value more than $5000; some people have signed remonstrances because they were persuaded to do it. [To Mr. Richards]—Do not think the cars will be overloaded with the Highlanders, who are a decent sort of people; should prefer to have the line go through Hammond park, where I have several tenements. [To Mr. Blackmar]—The mortgages on my hotel have got three years to run; build hotels to sell and fill them with tenants; the Berwick is all the property I own on the avenue now. [To Mr. Merrill]—Think there would be no trouble about people on the avenue getting seats in the cars.

Freeman M. Josselyn—Reside at 410 Columbus avenue; always favored a line of cars there; prefer the Highland, and with one or two exceptions the people there all favor the same road. [To Alderman Fitzgerald]—Should like to see the Highland cars there, and competition has great weight in his preference.

Edward P. Brown—Reside on Wellington street; from several years' connection with this subject he satisfied himself that the people there preferred the horse cars; the only difference was as to which company should have the location. Witness recalled some statistics in regard to the petitions presented a year and a half ago, by which three-fifths of the valuation on the avenue and a very large proportion of the valuation—six-ninths of all the real estate from Northampton street to the Providence Railroad—favor a road there, and six-sevenths of the people have the same feeling. Among his neighbors it was common talk that a man of Mr. Richards's shrewdness would not want a line on the avenue that causes a large expense and draws off part of the patronage from the Tremont-street lines. The idea of competition entered largely into the wishes of the people. [To Mr. Richards]—These remarks were intended to be in favor of the Highland road, and are not intended as an argument; and he was not employed as an attorney by that company.

Mr. Merrill said Mr. Brown had never been employed by the Highland road.

Hiram Ames—Live at 8 Yarmouth street, 150 feet from the avenue; desire a road on the avenue and have long desired one; think the time has come for a road; prefer the Highland, because it will have the two roads so nicely sandwiched in that it will insure good accommodations; then the cars will stop the fast driving on the avenue, which is often dangerous; it is a long walk to the cars now, and often cannot get a seat then. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Can walk to the cars in seven or eight minutes; don't pretend to name any accidents occurring on the avenue by teams; have heard of accidents on Tremont street by the cars.

E. P. Brown said the present condition of the pavement on the avenue had been discussed; had heard that the wooden pavement was not a success, and if the Belgian pavement is to be laid there all this pleasure travel will close there and every one will rejoice to have the cars.

Luther Farwell—Have signed every petition for a road there; should not object to the Metropolitan road, but for personal and pecuniary reasons prefers the Highland, as he owns property on Hammond park and Northampton street. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Am interested in railroads, and am president of the Medford & Charlestown road. [To Alderman Viles]—The Metropolitan road will best accommodate the people of East Boston and other sections. [To Mr. Merrill]—The issuing of transfer checks would be a great convenience.

Henry T. Spear—Reside at 138 Chandler street; think the line on the avenue would be most decidedly beneficial; prefer the Highland.

Mr. Merrill read letters from Francis Hall, President of the Boston Ice Company; John Carter, President of the Lawrence Paper Company; Rev. J. B. Dunn, Rev. J. W. Hamilton, all strongly favoring the location of the Highland road on the avenue.

Henry C. Hunt—Reside on the avenue; think the disadvantages on an avenue without cars are greater than the advantages. Twice circulated remonstrances, and believe a majority prefer the Highland, as it will give a competing line, and be a protection to the residents on the avenue; have little to complain of in the Metropolitan road now, but things are liable to change; do not want a track there not used. [To Mr. Blackmar]—Think the teams go to the avenue to avoid the cobblestone pavements more than the tracks.

L. Foster Morse—Have been assessor in the Highlands for several years; the people of the Highlands require the route on the avenue so as to go to the public buildings on the Back Bay and to the Providence depot. The people have once been under the thumb of the Metropolitan, and don't want to be there again. The system of checks would be a great convenience. The line would be used a great deal to go simply to Tremont street. People want to locate on the line of the Highland road, which keeps the Metropolitan better than it used to be. Real estate finds ready sale near the line of the Highland road; last year 140 houses were built on the line, and they are all full; don't think land can be bought any cheaper on Warren street than four years ago. On the Metropolitan lines, on Washington street, where there is no competition, the fare is ten cents, while to Dorchester, where there is competition, the fare is five cents. The Metropolitan have a track on Harrison avenue to Dover street, which is not used, but it would be a good line if used, as it is the shortest route to the burnt district from the Highlands. [To Mr. Richards]—Was one of the original petitioners for the Highland road; attended the meetings, but took no active part; am well satisfied with the Highland road. Competition has helped the Metropolitan road; the Highland does not need it now. The Metropolitan does not accommodate the public where there is no competition.

Franklin Williams, an old resident of the Highlands—Think it will be advantageous to the people there; the Highland Company carry out what they agree to; many people in the Highlands have friends living on or near the avenue; many ladies wait for Highland cars when the Metropolitan cars are now crowded. It will be an easy means of intercommunication between the eastern and western sections of the Highlands and the city proper. The people there are universally for this location by the Highland. [To Mr. Richards]—Am aware that the Metropolitan asked for this location in 1872 and 1874 and was refused. [To Mr. Blackmar]—The Highland road now runs to Pleasant street in sight of the Providence depot, but the ladies and gentlemen complain that it is a long walk. The Northampton-street route brings them directly to Chickering station.

L. F. Morse recalled—In the three Highland wards, 19, 20, 21, think 35,000 or 40,000 people would be accommodated. [To Mr. Richards]—They would fill all the cars they run if they did not run any more than the Metropolitan used to; but all would get seats if the cars are run as the Highland cars are. [To Mr. Merrill]—It will be an accommodation to all who want to go to the avenue and its vicinity.

Mr. Merrill explained the system of checking used by the Highland road; by buying a check the patron can transfer to a car on any other route of the company.

Hon. Albert Palmer—Came as a witness and not to make an argument; am happy to testify to the desire of Highland people for direct communication with this new and rapidly growing part of the city. The increased railroad accommodations have built up the Highlands more than anything else. Warren street seems to be the Mecca to which all settlers in Roxbury tend, and this has taken place since the Highland road was chartered. There is no question that the people desire this location given to the Highland road, for they date the era in horse-railroad improvement from the granting the Highland charter, and this location will keep up the equilibrium of competition and make the present accommodations permanent. He quoted a speech of Mr. Richards to show that the Highland, frugally managed, had prospered on the crumbs from the Metropolitan table, and spoke of the importance of fostering horse railroads as a means of building up the material prosperity of the city. The Highlands desire this road earnestly, so that the competition which has given us this era in horse railroads may be continued.

The petitioners here rested their case.

Mr. Richards spoke on behalf of the remonstrance of the Metropolitan road. He had found no features presented that were fresh and novel. The petition is silent as to the use of the Metropolitan tracks in Tremont street, Cornhill, and Washington street and Temple place. They do not dare to state that they will add any more to the number of cars at the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets. He then gave the following statistics of the number of cars that would meet at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets:

Going north, or down Tremont street—South Boston 17, Highland 12, Metropolitan 55—total 84, that would meet there in one hour.

Going south, or out Tremont street—Highland 26, Metropolitan 79.

Making a total of 189 cars in one hour, that those splendid, new palace cars have got to meet at that point. The petition is silent on that point.

The Highland Company runs twelve cars around Cornhill by special grant from the Board, and the granting of this new petition means giving them permission to run as many cars on Tremont street as they see fit.

This would seem to be sufficient to cause the Board to pause. Mr. Richards read from sections 11 and 12 of the general horse railroad law, to show that the Board had full power to prevent the increase of cars on the streets beyond what is required by public necessity and convenience. The Highland road grew out of a grievance which occurred during a winter of unprecedented snow and delay. He recalled the incidents connected with the organization of the Highland road, which was to give certain residents on certain defined limits better accommodations than the Metropolitan gave. They know the Metropolitan road have good cars and give good accommodations now, and there is not one scintilla of evidence that they have not. This new company grew out of the misfortunes of the Metropolitan. The President of the Highland knows that the money is made on the short routes, and he looks around and sees Columbus avenue, which is the life blood of the Metropolitan. Nothing has been heard of the accommodation of the people on the avenue. Are the people on the avenue going to give up their fine street to accommodate the people of the Highlands? Mr. Richards then read extracts from the promises made at the first hearing at the Legislature by the Highland road, when it was alleged that the Metropolitan road was not run on Christian principles, and it was proposed to do so by the establishment of the Highland. He knew that "tracts" were an essential element in the dissemination of Christian principles, but it seemed as if the Highland road wanted to steal the tracks of the Metropolitan to carry on their road on Christian principles. The Highland folks offered to put in their charter a provision that there should be an apron extending over the platforms to prevent patrons from standing on them. This had never been done. They are not doing any better today than the much-abused Metropolitan has done in the four-horse time which has prevailed so long this winter. He protested that the granting of this petition would be contrary to all the principles of equity between man and man. The Metropolitan can do all that is claimed to be necessary, and with the addition of but a few extra cars. The Board are to judge whether public necessity and convenience require it; and then if it is shown that the Metropolitan cannot do the work, give it to the other companies, but do not give it to a company which seeks to compete with the Metropolitan on its own tracks. He left the subject with the Board, feeling sure that they would think it a wrong to the Metropolitan road to grant this petition.

Mr. Blackmar said he appeared for over 300 property owners, representing $1,600,000, to protest against any road on the avenue. They are very well satisfied with what accommodations they have on the avenue. He presented the views of the remonstrants at some length, and then called witnesses.

Colonel W. V. Hutchings—Always drive into the city; take the side streets to avoid the tracks; always go down the avenue. [To Mr. Merrill]—Drive little over a half a mile on the avenue; want to get in town quickly, and find that can be done by the avenue; do not think the new Belgian pavement has made Washington street a superior driveway, on account of the number of cars and teams there.

Mr. Merrill read a petition from Arthur Nichols and others to the effect that the new Belgian pavement on Washington street made that street unobjectionable for driving, and asking that the petition of the Highland road be granted.

Mr. Hutchings said the petition was presented to him and he refused to sign it.

Godfrey Morse, for the committee in charge of the Everett School, objected to the location in Northampton street, as it would be very liable to accident to the children. The principal of the school thought it would be at the risk of a child's life every day. He did not object to the road going through any other street. [To Mr. Merrill]—Think the parents of these 750 children would object to the location.

Mr. Page—Reside at 387 Columbus avenue; am opposed to any road on the avenue; have good accommodations now; in riding avoid streets where tracks are; would take $5000 less for his estate if a track is laid on the avenue.

W. H. Learnard, Jr.—Reside on the avenue, and have ample accommodations by Tremont street. He seconded Mr. Morse's protest against the location in Northampton street. The passing of the cars in the street is an interruption to a school.

Frank N. Thayer—Live at 547 Columbus avenue; have all the accommodations we want. Believed it would be a great injury to the school to have the track laid on Northampton street. A gentleman has refused to buy a house on the avenue pending this controversy [To Mr. Merrill]—Think horse-railroad tracks have depreciated property on streets except where it comes in use for business.

Mr. Blackmar said they had fifty or sixty gentlemen present who would offer cumulative testimony, and he would desist. He had not heard a single piece of what may be called evidence in favor of cars on the avenue. He called attention to the fact that of the six avenues running from the city proper to the Highlands all but one have horse railroad tracks in them. The argument is not for a crying necessity for cars in the avenue, but that the Metropolitan road may, by competition, be brought to a higher standard. If this is needed, the Board can give the Highland a location on the very tracks of the Metropolitan. The residents on the avenue have to go to Tremont street to the stores for provisions, etc., as there are no stores on the avenue. Many people on the avenue have horses and like to drive on a street free from tracks. It has been specially so during the present winter. What would have been the condition of the avenue this winter if there had been tracks on it? Mr. Blackmar reviewed the evidence to show that the petitions for the location did not correctly represent the sentiments of the people there, as it had been represented to the signers that they must choose between the two roads. The Highland wanted the avenue as a bridge over which to carry a large population from the Highlands to the city proper. Columbus avenue has been a cats-paw between these two roads for the past few years, and the people have been compelled to fight them both. And now, shades of the old stage coach! they are threatened with another attack. Mr. Hathorne is coming here, hoping to lumber his coaches through the avenue. The people there say, "Good heavens! give us a rest." There is not a point on the avenue but people can reach the cars in five minutes, on the average. No one can tell of an accident which has occurred by the fast driving on the avenue, but there are numerous records of accidents on Tremont street where the cars run. He closed by hoping the Board would give the companies permanent leave to withdraw from this eternal petition to give them an accommodation they do not want.

Mr. Blackmar put in the following remonstrances against the granting of the petition:

Henry M. Prescott et al., remonstrance against the location of street railway tracks in Northampton street.

James Hall, Jr., and 184 others against the granting of the prayer of the petition of the Highland Railway Company for leave to lay a track on Columbus avenue.

Mrs. F. H. Stanwood and 30 or 40 others, A. H. Carter and 30 or 40 others, all against the granting of the petition.

Mr. Merrill read a petition from residents on Northampton street for the Highland road. Many of the remonstrants signed because they thought the Metropolitan road was going through there.

Mr. Merrill then closed the hearing in behalf of the petitioners. The only way to put this thing permanently out of sight is to grant the petition of the Highland road for a location in the avenue. The opposition comes from a few at the upper end of the avenue who own teams and do not care whether their neighbors at the lower end of the avenue, who have not teams, are accommodated or not. There must be a track laid there some time, and the city has got to repave the avenue; to grant the petition will save the city $20,000, for the company will pave the space between the tracks. The petition of the Metropolitan was put in more as a remonstrance against the Highland petition than anything else. All the Metropolitan desire is to have both these petitions refused. But the people there are not to be deprived of a road; they want one, and if this petition is not granted the Board will have to go over the whole subject again. When the Highland road was chartered they were confined to one location, and could not extend to Columbus avenue as the people asked them. The company now have the right to locations in any part of the city. They have fulfilled the conditions of their charter, in spite of all the drawbacks of the horse disease, a fire and the depression of business. He reviewed the incidents at the Legislature pending the enactment of the general horse railroad law, and said that by the bill of 1873 the whole matter was referred to this Board, who should have power to grant the locations. The agreement was made that in case one road should obtain a location in Columbus avenue the other should use the track, and there was a special provision to that effect in the act of 1873. There was no petition for a location in 1873, but after the general law was passed in 1874 the Metropolitan petitioned not only for one on the avenue, but for one down Shawmut avenue, even when they had one avenue where they did not use their tracks. He reviewed the provisions of the general law, contending that the Highland road had maintained the principles of the bill. They had left it to the Board to say whether the cars from the avenue should run round the circuit, and whether some cars now running there should be taken off. The tracks on the circuit were laid with the express provision that they might be used by other companies, and within a year the Supreme Court has adjudged that those tracks belong just as much to the Highland as the Metropolitan. As to business, the Metropolitan are running three times the number of cars they were running when the Highland was chartered, but their receipts have increased every year. In Blue Hill avenue and Warren street it was the same; the Metropolitan are running more cars than before, and so shrewd a manager as Mr. Richards would not run so many cars unless they paid. So, too, when the people insisted on more accommodations to Dorchester, the Metropolitan, when they found they were going to have competition, reduced fares and put on more cars; and they are carrying more passengers than ever before. This is the result of healthy competition; and it is the right policy. It is to carry out this policy that the Highland petitions and claims the right to a location in Columbus avenue. The Highland had improved its one talent, and had even caused the Metropolitan to improve its ten talents. The location belongs in justice to the Highland. It is an act of injustice to the people on the lower part of the avenue, who have no teams, to deny them the privilege of horse cars when they ask for it. It is a duty the Board owe to those people; and the Metropolitan will suffer no detriment by it. The Highland grants the free use of its tracks to the Metropolitan on Eliot and Warren streets, and never will make an objection to such use when it will better accommodate the people; but they do object to the Metropolitan gobbling their whole line. When ten, yea five, signers will say they are not accommodated on Shawmut avenue, the Highland will not object to the Metropolitan going on that avenue. They never would see any additional accommodations in East Boston until they saw the shadow of the Highland road in the distance; and there is room for another competing company in both East and South Boston, and in nothing is competition so desirable as in the transportation of freight and passengers. A horse-railroad monopoly is the most dangerous a community can have. The more competition you have the more travel and patronage the roads have. The Metropolitan passengers have increased nearly a million a year since the Highland road was chartered. There is no doubt one-fifth of the people on the avenue walk down town every day; a track will cause them all to ride. He claimed that the Highland road had earned the right to this location, in having advanced the interests of the people in causing the Metropolitan to do better than before. The petition should be granted in the interests of the people on the avenue.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the whole subject, with the petitions and remonstrances, was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

N. W. DAY'S OMNIBUS ROUTE.

A remonstrance was received from the Union Freight Railway Company, asking for a hearing in regard to the petition of N. W. Day's omnibus route.

Alderman Viles—I am requested by the counsel for the remonstrants, Mr. P. A. Collins, to ask for a hearing on the remonstrance, and he assures me that it will not last more than half an hour.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The remonstrants were heard very fully and patiently by the Committee on Licenses. Our report is upon my table and will be presented at this meeting. I move that the remonstrance be laid upon the table.

The motion prevailed.

Later in the session, Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report from the Committee on Licenses, in favor of granting the following route to N. W. Day, instead of that heretofore allowed to him:

Ordered, That leave be granted to N. W. Day to run two coaches from Cambridge, through Cambridge street, Bowdoin square, Green street, Chambers street and Cambridge street, to the point of starting; on the express condition, however, that neither of said coaches shall stand or stop on any portion of said route, except for the purpose of discharging or receiving passengers.

Read ouce.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:

Leave to withdraw on petition of E. E. Clark, trustee, et al., that Bedford street be cleared of job wagons, etc.

Hack License Refused—George M. Morse, Hotel Boylston.

Hack License Granted—Timothy Wallace, 2 Kneeland street, after 8 P. M.

Junk Dealer Licensed—Charles G. Green, 24 Newbern street.

Junk Collector Licenced—James Crudden, 188 Fourth street.

Common Victuallers Licensed—G. L. Nelson, 218 Harrison avenue.

Wagon License Granted—I. K. Baker, 16 Union street.

Amusement Licenses Granted—D. S. Thomas, exhibition of pedestrianism by Bertha von Hillern at Music Hall, March 2 and 3; Jacob Reid, to exhibit apostolic, musical and astronomical clock at Horticultural Hall.

Auctioneers Licensed—James J. Dennis, 20 Court street; Johnson, Moody & Co., 116 Pearl street; W. G. Burnham, 7 Exchange place (renewal).

Minors' Applications Granted—Thirty-three newsboys.

Severally accepted.

SECOND ASSISTANT ASSESSORS ABOLISHED.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following:

The joint special committee appointed to investigate the various departments of the City Government, with a view of reporting what reductions in salaries and clerical hire may be made in each department without detriment to the public service, and also whether any department can be abolished or consolidated with any other department, respectfully represent that they are of the opinion that the Second Assistant Assessors of taxes can be dispensed with without diminishing the efficiency of the Assessors' Department; and they beg leave to submit herewith an ordinance abolishing the office of Second Assistant Assessor. If this measure is adopted a saving of over $10,000 per annum will be effected. The committee therefore respectfully recommend the passage of the following ordinance:

An Ordinance

To amend an ordinance concerning the assessment and collection of taxes.

Be it ordained, etc.

Section 1. The first section of the ordinance concerning the assessment and collection of taxes, printed in the edition of the statutes and ordinances for the year 1876, is hereby amended by striking out the words "and the names of the persons to be voted for as Second Assistant Assessors of taxes."

Sect. 2. The said ordinance is hereby further amended by striking out the whole of the fourth section thereof.

Sect. 3. The said ordinance is hereby further amended by striking out of the ninth section thereof the words "and the Second Assistant Assessors."

Sect. 4. The said ordinance is hereby further amended by striking out of the fourth and fifth lines of the tenth section the words "or Second Assistant Assessors." And by striking out all after the word "Assessors" in the seventh line of the said section.

Sect. 5. The said ordinance is hereby further amended by striking out of the eleventh section thereof the words "or Second."

Sect. 6. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

The report was accepted.

Alderman Fitzgerald—As it is important that this matter shall be passed upon, and as there appears to be a great deal of unanimity about the passage of this ordinance, I move that it take its second reading tonight.

The ordinance was read a second time and put upon its passage.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The amendments are simply the striking out the portions of the ordinance that provide for the election of the Second Assistant Assessors and define their duties. In our investigations into the various departments we called the heads of the departments before us; and in the consideration of this matter we called Mr. Hills, the chairman of the Board of Assessors. Our committee were unanimous about the matter themselves. They had an idea—and it was confirmed by the testimony of the chairman of the Board of Assessors—that the Second Assistant Assessors, considering the way in which they are elected, are as useful to the Assessors' Department as the fifth wheel is to a coach. Mr. Hills said himself that eight or nine might possibly be good, eight or nine more might be indifferent, and the remainder good for nothing. Last year, he said, they elected an exceptionally good set of assessors as compared with those elected in former years. He said that if the Board were careful in the selection of the thirty-three First Assistant Assessors, the public service and the Department would not suffer by the abolition of the office of Second Assistant Assessor, while $10,000 would be saved. We unanimously reported that it ought to be done. I think there was one member of the committee whose mind was not made up, but with the exception of that member we are thoroughly agreed upon it, and did not hesitate ten minutes as to the advisability of abolishing those offices. If any reduction was to be made in that department, the chairman of the Board of Assessors said there was the place to make it, without any detriment to the public service.

The ordinance was passed unanimously.

Alderman Fitzgerald moved a reconsideration, hoping it would not prevail. Lost. Sent down.

FANEUIL HALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report from the Committee on Faneuil Hall in favor of granting the use of said hall to John L. Stevenson et al. to hold a public meeting on Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, to listen to an address by P. M. Arthur on the strikes of the locomotive engineers in this country and Canada. Accepted.

HARBOR MASTER AND POLICE DUTY.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following:

The joint special committee appointed to investigate the various departments of the City government with a view of reporting what reductions in salaries and clerical hire may be made without detriment to the public service, respectfully represent that the City Council is authorized by chapter 64 of the acts of the year 1862 to provide by ordinance for adding to the duties of the Harbor Master the duties of Captain of the Harbor Police, the act to take effect as soon as it is accepted by the City Council. The committee recommend that the act be accepted in order that the necessary ordinance may be passed in case it should hereafter be thought expedient to invest the Harbor Master with police powers. They recommend the passage of an order—That chapter 64 of the acts of the year 1862, entitled

"An Act concerning the Harbor Master of the City of Boston," approved March 11, 1862, be and the same is hereby accepted.

Read once.

SINKING FUND AND UNEXPENDED BALANCES OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following: The joint special committee appointed to investigate the various departments of the City Government, with a view to reporting what reduction in salaries and clerical hire may be made in each department, without detriment to the public service, and also whether any department can be abolished, or consolidated with any other department, beg leave to submit herewith an ordinance to amend the ordinance in relation to Finance, for the purpose of providing that the unexpended balances of appropriations shall, at the end of the present municipal year, be carried over to next year instead of being paid into the Sinking Fund. The revenue accruing this year applicable to the redemption of the city debt will be sufficient to meet the amount required by statute to be annually paid into the Sinking Fund without the aid of the unexpended balances. The amount of the debt to be provided for which averages due in fifteen years from Jan. 1, 1877, is $31,484,147.30. The amount required to be raised each year to redeem the above amount is $1,511,868, earning four per cent. per annum.

The amount of interest on bonds held by sinking funds from April 1, 1876, to April 1, 1877, will be, say, $800,000; revenue actually received from City Treasurer from April 30, 1876, to Jan. 31, 1877, $536,000; revenue actually received from City Treasurer Feb. 3, 1877, $60,685; revenue from liquor licenses to Jan. 1, 1877, $128,456; total, $1,525,141; showing that the ways and means are already in excess of the requirements. Under the present system the revenue from betterments and sales of land is used each month for cancelling debt which will not mature for fifteen or twenty years hence. If this revenue was paid into the Sinking Fund it would offset the amount which is required to be raised by taxation to that extent, and the amounts which are derived from other sources applicable to the payment of the Sinking Fund during the present year would be sufficient to meet all obligations without using the unexpended balances. The unexpended balances at the end of the present financial year will amount to a considerable sum, and, if carried forward to the next year will, in the opinion of your committee, considerably lessen the amount to be raised by taxation. They recommend the passage of the following:

An Ordinance

to amend an ordinance in relation to finance.

Be it ordained, etc.

Section 1. The twenty-fourth section of the ordinance in relation to finance, printed in the edition of the statutes and ordinances for the year 1876, is hereby repealed and the following enacted in place thereof:

Section 24. All excess of revenue over estimates, at the close of each financial year, shall be set apart and paid by the treasurer to the commissioners on the sinking funds created by this ordinance, and only the residue of the full amount required, as specified in section twenty-two, shall be raised by taxation the year next succeeding the close of each financial year; and the amount so required shall be certified by the said commissioners to the Auditor of Accounts, and become a part of the amount to be raised by taxation, without further votes by the City Council.

Read once.

GLOBE GASLIGHT COMPANY'S PROPOSITION.

Alderman Fitzgerald presented the following, which was read, and, on motion of Alderman Thompson, referred to the Committee on Lamps:

OFFICE OF THE GLOBE GAS LIGHT COMPANY,
54 Kilby street, cor. Water street,
BOSTON, Feb. 12, 1877.

The Hon. the Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Boston—A proposition from the Globe Gas Light Company to save the city of Boston over $120,000 per annum in lighting streets. Gentlemen—The Globe Gas Light Company of the city of Boston beg leave to call your attention to their method of lighting the streets of towns and cities and to ask your consideration of the following facts: It is now costing the city of Boston about $500,000 per annum to light the streets, with a prospect of large increase as the gas pipes are extended and the present oil lights changed to gas, or new lamps called for. By reference to the report of the Superintendent of Lamps you will notice that it is costing from $58 to $60 per annum for each gas light now used in Dorchester, Brookline, Brighton, West Roxbury, South and East Boston, and about $38 for each in the city proper, an average of about $49 for each light. This does not include the cost of repairing and some other items of large amount, such as furnishing wrought-iron pipe, gas cocks, burner tips, etc., amounting for 1876 to about thirty thousand dollars. The Globe Gas Light Company have perfected a system of lighting streets with gasoline, now in use in over two hundred cities and towns in the United States, among them the cities of Worcester, Taunton, Newton, Newburyport, Mass., New Haven, Meriden, New Britain, Bridgeport, Conn., Newport and Pawtucket, R. I., Bangor, Augusta and Lewiston, Me., Utica and other places in New York, Cincinnati and other places in Ohio. This system does away with all expense of laying mains in public parks or streets, always the great source of expense in using gas, and furnishes a light equal to the best coal gas at a great saving in cost. If the gas lights in the streets of that part of the city of Boston outside of the city proper should be changed to this manner of lighting, a saving would be made of over one hundred and twenty thousand dollars ($120,000) per annum, a very large sum in the course of ten years. In view of these facts, the Globe Gas Light Company make the following proposition to the city of Boston, viz.: They will attach their patent "fixtures" to all the street lanterns now in use in the city of Boston, or any number of the same not less than 1000, will furnish fluid, and cause the same to be lighted every night in the year from sunset to sunrise, for the term of three years, furnishing a light equal to that now in use in this city, keeping the lantern clean and in repair, the city to furnish the needed glass only—for this service the city to pay the Globe Gas Light Company the sum of $38 50-100 per annum for each and every lamp so lighted and cared for. If said service is not performed to the satisfaction of the Board of Aldermen, said company will take away their fixtures at thirty days' notice, leaving all lanterns in as good condition as they found them, simple wear only excepted, receiving pay only for the time lighted, (payments to be made in monthly instalments). We trust that your honorable board will give this company an opportunity to show that a great saving can be made in this department without deteriorating from the character of the service as now performed.

Respectfully submitted,

THE GLOBE GAS LIGHT CO.,

By their agents,

FRED'K A. BROWN,
JOHN A. FLETCHER.

Samples of these lights are now burning in front of St. Paul's Church, Tremont street, to which your attention is invited.

POLICE CHARITABLE ASSOCIATION.

Alderman Robinson presented a communication from H. P. Follansbee, secretary, transmitting the by-laws of the Police Relief Charitable Association, for approval of the Board. Referred to Committee on Police.

POLICE SERGEANTS.

Alderman Robinson offered an order—That until otherwise ordered the maximum number of Sergeants of Police be fixed at forty-five.

Alderman Robinson—At the last meeting the Mayor appointed and the Board confirmed two Sergeants of Police, which was not an increase of the force, but were promotions in the department. The appointments were rendered necessary by the length of the beats in West Roxbury and Brighton. The ordinance limits the number of sergeants to forty-two, so that the number must be increased. This does not increase the force. I ask that the order take its second reading.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Does this contemplate an increase of the force?

Alderman Robinson—Not at all.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It is simply an increase of the pay of those men and not an increase of the force?

Alderman Robinson—Yes. It is necessary, in order to confirm what the Board did at the last meeting.

The order was read a second time and passed.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Orders establishing grades as follows, according to plans and profiles deposited in City Surveyor's office: Dorchester avenue, between Crescent avenue and Savin Hill avenue, plan dated Oct. 1, 1875; Hudson street, between Dudley and Clifton streets, plan dated July 19, 1876; Canal street, Charlestown, plan dated Feb. 7, 1877; Lincoln street, Charlestown, plan dated Jan. 30, 1877. Severally read twice and passed.

Reports that leave be granted John B. Lord to move two wooden buildings from 410 Main street to 391 Main street, Ward 4. Severally accepted.

Report and order of notice for hearing on Monday, March 12, at four o'clock P. M., on petition of Metropolitan Railroad Company, for a track in Lenox street from Tremont street to Washington street. Order passed.

Ordered, That the assessment of $15.82 laid upon J. W. Griggs for edgestones on Fort avenue, be and the same is hereby abated, and that said sum be assessed on John G. King, who is owner of the estate for which edgestones were furnished.

Read twice and passed.

Ordered, That from the assessment laid upon the estate of Martha S. Katzman for edgestones and sidewalks furnished on Tremont street, there be abated the sum of $14.06, and that said amount be assessed to the heirs of John Schayer.

Read twice and passed.

CONSOLIDATION OF CITY REGISTRAR'S DEPARTMENT AND BOARD OF HEALTH.

Alderman Wilder offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the Legislature now in session for the passage of an act transferring the powers and duties of the City Registrar to the Board of Health.

Alderman Viles—I hope that order will not be passed tonight. I would like to look into it and hear some good reason for it.

Alderman Wilder—I do not care to press the passage of the order tonight. I do not know that we shall have any necessity for such legislation; but it seemed to me to be perfectly proper that, in case the Committee on Retrenchment should see fit to recommend the consolidation of those two departments, we should obtain the necessary legislation to effect it if the Board deem it best to do so. I do not care to press the passage of the order tonight if the gentlemen desire to have it lie over.

The order went over.

AUSTIN FARM BUILDINGS, ETC.

Alderman Thompson submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Public Institutions in favor of certain transfers to meet the expense of fitting up buildings at Austin farm, maintenance, etc., and recommending the reference of the same to the Committee on Finance. Accepted and said reference ordered. Sent down.

BETTERMENTS ASSUMED.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following from the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board:

Report and Order—That the city assume and pay the betterment assessment of $900 for opening Swett street, upon an estate of the trustees of the Roxbury Grammar School on said street, held for a long time by the city of Boston under a lease from said trustees providing for the payment by the lessee of all rates and taxes falling due upon said estate during its pendency. Read once.

Ordered, That the city assume and pay the betterment assessment of $100 for the opening of Swett street laid upon the remainder of the estate bought by the city of William Hardy, in settlement of damages occasioned it by the said opening of Swett street through the same—such remainder having been since sold by the city under the stipulation that the said betterment assessed thereon should be assumed and paid as herein provided.

Read twice and passed.

CONTRACT FOR WATER PIPES.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the vote of the last meeting, by which an order passed to allow the Boston Water Board to contract for delivery of iron pipe at an estimated cost of $43,000 was reconsidered.

Alderman Thompson moved to amend the order by striking out $43,000 and inserting in place thereof $65,000.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not rise to oppose, but to ask an explanation of the order.

Alderman Thompson—The Water Board reported to the Water Committee that they would require 1000 tons of pipe for the Cochituate works and 600 tons for the Mystic works; and by some error in the computation, they got the sum of $43,000 instead of $65,000. It is the same amount of pipe, but it costs more money than the order first estimated.

The Chairman—The price per ton is just the same. It is simply an error in the figuring. The $43,000 should have been $65,000.

The amendment was adopted, and the order as amended was passed. Sent down.

STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board—That leave be granted to occupy stables by Patrick Welch, on Bennett street, near Market street; A. M. Morrison, on High street, Ward 23; by Timothy Wheaton, at 814 Sixth street. Severally accepted.

REMOVAL OF NIGHT SOIL.

Alderman Viles submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Health on the order in reference to reduction in charge for removing night soil—That the contract made on the 16th day of October, 1874, for a term of three years from Jan. 1, 1875, expires Dec. 31, 1877. They deem it inexpedient at this time to take further action. Accepted. Sent down.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Committee on Armories:

Ordered, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $500 in furnishing and fitting up the armory of Company C, Fourth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at Boylston Hall; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Read twice and passed.

Report and orders—That the allowance for rent heretofore paid on account of rent for the headquarters of the Ninth Regiment of Infantry, at 738 Washington street, be discontinued from and after Feb. 12, 1877, and that the same sum be allowed and paid on account of rent for headquarters of the Ninth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at 61 Court street, beginning Feb. 12, 1877, and continuing until otherwise ordered; to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Ordered—That the headquarters of the Ninth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at 61 Court street, be approved.

Severally read twice and passed.

Report and order—That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend the sum of $200 in furnishing and repairing the headquarters of the First Battalion of Cavalry, M. V. M., at No. 37 Tremont street—said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Order read twice and passed.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Viles.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

FEBRUARY 14, 1877.

Special meeting at one o'clock, P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

In calling the Board to order the Mayor said, For a few days past the depot of the Boston & Maine road in Boston has been besieged by a large crowd of people attracted there in consequence of the strike, and the business of the road has been seriously interfered with. A large force of Boston police has been on duty at the station since the strike commenced, but the powers of the police were such that the officers are wholly powerless to do anything unless a breach of the peace is committed. It so happens that chapter 372 of the Acts of 1874 provided for just such an emergency in allowing the appointment of railroad police, and the Boston & Maine Railroad Company had petitioned to have certain employes of their road appointed under said act.

The Mayor submitted the following appointments of Railroad Police, on the petition of said company, in accordance with said chapter:

W. J. C. Kenney, J. C. Robinson, Charles M. Chase, Charles Messer, Fred. N. Parker, C. W. Munroe, P. A. Newton, Jacob Varney, W. L. Rand, E. L. Hall, Jacob Colbath, J. C. Hutchins, Seth Pratt, Moses Lovering, George L. Magoun, Daniel McCarty, Dennis Coughtrana, Melviah Clapp, Hannibal Waterhouse, W. H. Burrell, H. L. Brackett, J. W. Austin, Jr., S. B. Aldrich, Daniel H. Payne, Henry J. V. Myers, William B. Tarleton, Joseph W. Piper, Felix T. Ferry, George T. Pinkerton, Thomas H. Tracy, Nelson W. Haskell, James Ruby, Charles D. Burke, James E. Coolidge, Michael A. Welch, Patrick J. McDermott, Thomas A. Slater, Hugh F. Kelly, Patrick Connolly, Thomas F. Macalief, Cyrus P. Austin, Andrew Agin, Matthew J. McGuire, John McHugh, Edward Butler, Patrick Mellady, John O'Brien, William W. Campbell, William Collopy, John McCabe, Frank M. Marden, George Richardson, Edward W. Griggs, Thomas Moley, Samuel D. Chamberlin, Alvin Stevens.

Alderman O'Brien—Mr. Mayor, I would like to ask if there is anything this Board can do to prevent a leading railroad corporation running their trains with incompetent engineers and firemen, and thus endangering the lives of their passengers. I know a number of gentlemen who live on the line of that road who feel that their lives are thus endangered.

Alderman Gibson—I think the Alderman is correct in his views. I have seen in the papers that some of the new engineers had burned their flues, and I know of the liability to explosion by such means. I passed by the depot and everything was quiet there. It is a public place, and it is a question whether any police have the right to turn these people out of the depot if they do not make any trouble. If we have a right to regulate the safety of the people in the depots, we have the same right to regulate the safety of the public in traveling.

Alderman Thompson—It seems to me that this Board have nothing to do with the internal arrangements of the road. That is beyond our power, and if the Board should attempt it, or volunteer any suggestions, they would probably be told by the corporation that they were responsible to a higher power.

Alderman Wilder—I do not see that this controversy has anything to do with the Aldermen. All we have to do is to grant this petition or not. It is not for us to say which side of the controversy is wrong. Although I might think one side or the other in the wrong, this is no place for me to express such an opinion. I regret that the passengers of the road have been so incommoded, but I do not think that the recording of my vote in favor of the appointments is any expression of opinion upon the merits of the question. I hope the petition will be granted.

The appointments were confirmed.

Adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

FEBRUARY 15, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Annual report of the Board of License Commissioners and quarterly report of the City Clerk. Severally placed on file.

Report inexpedient to take further action on subject of price charged for removal of night soil. Accepted in concurrence.

Report of reference to Committee on Finance of request of Directors for Public Institutions for an appropriation of $5000 for Austin Farm Poorhouse. Accepted and referred in concurrence.

Order for contract for iron water-pipes, for next financial year, at a cost not exceeding $65,000. Passed to a second reading.

Mr. Fraser of Ward 6—I would like to have this order passed tonight. It is of great importance to the Water Board that it should take its final reading tonight. Some of the pipe is sixty-inch and some forty-inch, and it will take a long time to have it made. It is important that the Water Board have facilities for advertising at once, in order to make advantageous contracts. If they cannot advertise at this time it is probable that the work will be hindered in the spring. I move a suspension of the rule, in order that the order may take its second reading tonight.

The rule was suspended. The order was read a second time and put upon its passage.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—This order was before the Board of Aldermen, and some reference was made to a change in the sum asked for—from forty-three thousand dollars to sixty-five thousand dollars. As far as the record of the proceedings there goes, there is no explanation given; and perhaps some gentleman on the committee can explain why that change was made.

Mr. Fraser—The chairman of the Water Board has notified me that there was a change. In making up the bill the clerk of the board made an error which put it back one week in the Board of Aldermen. The error was made in casting up the account. They estimated the price of the pipe at forty dollars a ton, and you will readily perceive that the whole will cost $65,000.

Mr. Thompson—I understand the gentleman to say that it will require a certain number of pipe, at forty dollars a ton, and that the clerk of the board made an error which changed the amount from $65,000 to $45,000.

Mr. Fraser—The clerk notified me that the error was made in making certain figures $2400 instead of $24,000.

The order was passed in concurrence.

Subsequently Mr. Fraser moved a reconsideration, hoping it would not prevail. Lost.

ABOLITION OF ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

A report and ordinance came down to amend an ordinance concerning the assessment and collection of taxes, to abolish the second assistant assessors.

The question was on giving the ordinance a second reading.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—As this is a very important subject, I would like to inquire of the honorable committee who have this matter in charge, what is the object of abolishing the office of Second Assistant Assessor? whether it is a matter of retrenchment, solely, or is it because of the inefficiency of the Assessors? I should like to have some information upon that point before I can vote intelligently.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—As one of the members of that committee, I will try to give the gentleman very briefly the information he desires. It seems to me to be a matter of public notoriety, and it is also confirmed by my own experience, and it is also confirmed by the testimony before the committee, from the chairman of the Board of Assessors, that these Second Assistant Assessors have not been, and are not likely to be, selected with a view to their peculiar qualifications for the place; that they are not always men experienced in real-estate valuations, but that the selection is a matter of local politics and a reward to party friends for services in electing members of the Common Council. It has been supposed that the First Assistant Assessors were chosen with a great deal of care, and therefore that this matter of electing the Second Assistants could be left in the hands of politicians without any very serious detriment to the public interest. In the Board of Aldermen the chairman of the committee quoted from a statement made by Mr. Hills, the chairman of the Board of Assessors, and Mr. Hills requested me to do him the justice to state wherein his ideas and those of the Alderman were not exactly in unison. The Alderman stated that Mr. Hills testified that nine of the Second Assistants were fair, nine were inefficient, and the rest were good for nothing. Mr. Hills said that nine were good, nine were fair, and the rest he did not wish to say very much about; but there was not a very essential difference between his remarks and those of the Alderman after all. He also testified before us that in case any reduction should be made in the department, that was the place to make it; and, in his opinion, if the Second Assistants were abolished, the Board of Permanent Assessors and the First Assistants, if the latter were carefully selected, would make a very efficient board. The change made last year, taking the Second Assistant Assessors out of the dooming board, was a saving of ten thousand dollars; and if we abolish that office and rely upon the First Assistant Assessors, it is a positive gain. The only qualification to this recommendation is that if the Board could appoint the First Assistants, or be sure that every man elected would be qualified for the position. If six or eight inefficient Assessors are elected, the custom has been to change them around and put them with First Assistants who could carry them along, and thus they could get along very well. I intended to offer an ordinance giving the Assessors power to appoint the First Assistants, but after talking with some members of the Council I could not find that they were in favor of it, and I concluded that it would be a waste of powder to offer it. But my idea would be to give them the power to appoint their assistants, so that they could secure good men for whom they would be responsible. But still, from what Mr. Hills testified before the committee, and from what we can learn, the committee thought it would be a saving and would not in any serious degree impair the efficiency of the department to abolish the office of Second Assistant Assessors. We have got friends that we may wish to see elected; I have two or three friends who I believe would make good Second Assistant Assessors, and I would work as hard for my friends as any one. But nevertheless, if we are going to purify the departments from politics, I will not consider the wishes of my friends, and will go for the policy of retrenchment first.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—If these Second Assistant Assessors have been useless all this time, it has been a pretty costly experiment for the time we have had them. But I am not a believer in the proposition of my friend from Charlestown. I do not believe in any man-on-horseback government. I believe this City Government is capable of electing a Board of Assessors; if not, why are we capable of electing those five First Assessors? But here is an appropriation bill of nine millions—that is the lowest I have voted on since I have been a member of the Council—and the money is to be raised by taxation. Now it seems to me that thirty-eight men are enough if we put in the best men that we can get. So far as my limited information goes I have always tried to vote for the best men, and I have not heard any great fault found. It is rather a ticklish business for people to go round with a pencil and put your name down and appraise your property. I do not expect that people will be satisfied. Some people want to appear very rich except when the Assessors come round about the first of May. I want to vote intelligently upon this question, and if an expenditure is useless, whether it is $10,000 or ten cents, I want to get rid of it. I do not want to vote one dollar for taxation unless it is necessary. It is only a question about the character of those men—nine are good, nine are fair, and the rest are not good for anything. Well, the rest might not want to speak of the board. I want all the light I can whether this measure is necessary.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 3—I wish to inquire, upon the consideration of this matter, if the Board of Assessors do recommend the abolition of the Second Assistant Assessors?

Mr. Wilbur—As my question has not been answered, there is just one point that I would like to know of the committee. It seems to me that it is not the mere saving of ten thousand dollars that we should look at in this matter. This ten thousand dollars is nothing compared with the complaints that we have of the valuation of property. Now, the gentleman says that one of the main reasons for abolishing the Second Assistant Assessors is that about ten are efficient, about ten more are ordinary, and the rest are good for nothing. Now if, as he says, in electing the Second Assistants it is a matter of politics rather than the qualifications of the men, I cannot see why the same rule does not work in regard to the election of the First Assistants. It does seem to me that if we have elected inefficient Second Assistant Assessors we might under the same rule elect inefficient Assessors. Now they say that a change should be made. I take it that two heads are better than one in the valuation of real estate. It seems to me that matters are constantly arising in that department in relation to the valuation of property, that it would be hard for one man to make up his mind, and he would have to run down to city hall to find out from the Principal Assessors whether he is right or wrong. It seems to me that if there were two assessors together—a first and a second—that are efficient, they could settle that matter, and it would be done better than if one were alone. Still I have not looked into the matter; but it is something that should not be acted upon hastily. I think it requires a good deal of study. I think there is something wrong. I introduced an order here, and it was passed and sent to the Board of Aldermen, looking to the establishment of some different system of valuation. It was discussed there, and they thought that it amounted to nothing. It seems to me that it does amount to something. If there could be a board outside of this City Government that could present a plan, and give us some of their ideas that could be presented to us here, we could get something out of it. I think it is admitted by the testimony given to us by this committee that the Principal Assessors feel that if they could have good assistants they would like to have them, but that, if they have got to rely upon the election by the Council, the chances are that they will not have good assistants. It seems to me that the matter might be arranged by statute law or ordinance, so that the assistants might be appointed by the Board of Assessors, so that we might get some good men as First and Second Assistants. It seems to me that the mere matter of saving in that department should not be passed upon hastily.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—I am rather inclined to doubt the wisdom or the expediency of dispensing with the services of these men. It seems to me that the same argument which has been applied for abolishing the Second Assistants would apply with equal justice to the First Assistants. The ordinance seems to be rather sweeping in its character, and I think we had better delay action in this matter, and see whether it is a good thing or not.

The order was declared passed to a second reading. Mr. Stone of Ward 3 doubted the vote. The Council divided—34 for, 27 against. The ordinance went over.

NOMINATION LAID OVER.

The nomination of James C. Tucker as Superintendent of Public Buildings came up as unfinished business.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—I trust that as the Committee on Salaries and Expenditures intend to make a report next Monday, this nomination will lie over for one week, and I make that motion.

The motion prevailed.

WAGES OF LABORERS IN PAVING DEPARTMENT.

Mr. McDonald of Ward 12 moved to reconsider the vote whereby the Council refused to send up the resolve in favor of allowing laboring men in the Street Department $1.75 per day.

Mr. McDonald—When I offered the resolve at our last meeting, I refrained from speaking upon it for the simple reason that the resolve spoke for itself. In endeavoring to secure a reconsideration of the resolve tonight, it is not with the intention of rushing the matter or creating any heated discussion in our midst. Had it been any other subject, I assure you, gentlemen of the Council, that I should have let it pass and have forgotten all about it. On the contrary, being an important resolve, I wanted to ask the opinion of this sensible body in relation to the laboring men, and I could not let it pass by without calling your attention to it again. In offering the resolve I wished to have it go before the gentlemen who have jurisdiction over the matter, that they might see for themselves the predicament that these men are placed in. We could not call the work they have been doing charity, for if we reflect for a moment, we must come to the conclusion that there has been more work done for the past month than there has been for some time past; if there is plenty of work for these men to do, is it just and consistent to take advantage of these laboring men by calling it charity? It would be charity to send men to do work that is unnecessary to be done, and pay them for it every evening. But the gentlemen employed on the streets are obliged to wait a great deal longer than that for their pay. I trust that the resolve will be reconsidered, for if you take time to calculate, gentlemen, you will find that a dollar and twenty-five cents a day is too small pay for any laboring man. Suppose there are five in the family to rely upon this dollar and twenty-five cents for support; that is at the rate of twenty-five cents per head. Can any man live upon it? Allowing twenty-five cents for each individual, and some of the young ones will consume a great deal more than the old ones at the table—perhaps members of the Council are aware of that fact. There are three meals to be got for twenty-five cents a day, not including Sunday. How can a man live on it? Why, sir, it is already death to some of the working men. It is worse than cruelty to animals. Gentlemen of the Council, let us reconsider this resolve and pass it; and by so doing we will be living up to that good old maxim, "Render justice to all men if we would be just to ourselves." Let us encourage instead of discouraging the laboring man.

The reconsideration was lost by a division—30 for, 31 against.

POWER TO CREATE BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS, AND ABOLISH THEM.

The Council took up the special assignment for 8 P. M., viz.:

Order for the Mayor to petition for an act to authorize the City Council to create or abolish boards of commissions, etc., as therein set forth.

The question was on giving the order a second reading.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—This order looks in two directions, both towards the creation of new commissions and towards the destruction of commissions already created. So far as it looks toward the creation of Boards of Commissioners, I believe in the passage of the order. I feel and have long felt the desirability of giving the different branches of the City Government into the hands of commissioners who shall be paid to attend to the work, and who shall make it their business to do so; and I believe that the work will be much better done in that way than by committees who snatch a few hurried moments from the cares of their private business, and come to the City Hall to look after things which they often do not very much care about. Besides, these committees are changing every year, while commissions are more permanent. It seems to me that so far as it looks to the creation of boards by ordinance, it is a very good order. It is desirable that we should have the power to create boards by ordinance, and to transfer to them any of the city business that we may see fit. And so far as concerns the question of having power to destroy commissions already created, I believe it would be well to have that also; but there is one point upon which I feel in doubt, whether this order is a desirable one as it stands. It seems to me we should ask for power to create commissions that, for the time, would have a certain independence of the City Council; that we should not have power to set up commissions one day and destroy them the next. When a commission takes hold of any business and makes a special study of it, they may have to do things that are unpopular at first, they may have to make some radical reforms, and such reforms are generally unpopular at first, and it is not desirable that they should be liable to be overthrown immediately for doing any temporarily unpopular act. They should be somewhat free from the effect of popular passions and prejudices. The only amendment that I propose to this ordinance is to insert after the words "by votes passed," the words "in two successive municipal years." In that way a commission could not be overthrown immediately. They would be subject to the will of the City Council, but the verdict of the people would have to be passed upon the question before a commission could really be overthrown. It really seems desirable that we should have commissions, but that they should be made somewhat independent of popular passion in this way. I should feel very anxious for the order to pass, it amended in the way which I propose.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I am not at present perfectly satisfied with the amendment which has been offered. I believe in the democratic doctrine that the people are the source of all power, and I believe that the exercise of that power should be kept as near the people as possible. I believe that in legislating for the people, generally speaking—and I am now speaking of the whole order as it stands—this Council alone represents the people, and should do the general legislation; and, having that power, they should exercise it freely and fully, and in the interest of the people; and that this Council should be the judge of when it is necessary to exercise that power, whether by the creation of an office or by the demolition of one. Now, while I entertain that belief, still I am in favor of the appointment of commissions. I think they may become, and that they have become, a necessity even to carry out this general proposition which I have laid down. I think that the time has come when we should relieve ourselves, so to speak, of the power that is in our hands. I believe that it is impossible for the City Government as now organized to perform the duties faithfully which it has to do. It is no longer possible for gentlemen who are engaged in other business to come to City Hall and spend the time necessary to be spent in the performance of public duties. They cannot spare the time. I believe the duties which usually fall upon committees ought to be put in the hands of persons whose whole time is or should be devoted to that business, and that they should be paid for it; and there are very many reasons why that should be done other than those I have assigned. Having persons specially fitted for it, and giving their whole time to it, of course commissions of that character would be more conversant with a subject, and be better qualified to perform the duties than would any committee of the City Council. We have either to have these commissions perform the duties, or else we have got to make the Board of Aldermen salaried officers, in order that they may devote the whole of their time to their public duties. If the Aldermen were paid a sufficient salary, so that they could remain in session all the time and devote all of their time to the performance of their duties, why then that would be another thing. But we have not arrived at that point yet. People do not believe in that. I do not know how they may look at it in the future. The Aldermen are not paid for their services, and therefore we see the necessity for the appointment of those commissioners to perform the duties now done by joint committees of the Common Council and the Board of Aldermen. Hence I shall vote for the order. At the same time, as I heard the order read, I did not pay particular attention to one point, but I think it should be framed so that the power to frame these commissions should be given exclusively to the City Council and not by appointment by the Mayor, nor by any selection which he shall make to lay before the City Council; but that they should be elected by joint, concurrent vote of both branches.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I would inform the gentleman that that is the way the order reads. The commissioners are to be appointed by the City Council.

Mr. Ruffin—I have not seen it in print and have not read it. Those are my views, and I commend the serious consideration of this question to members. I think they will see that by the increase of this work it is necessary to put it in the hands of commissioners in order that it should be done faithfully.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Whatever advantage there may be in this order—and I imagine there may be some—I should certainly hope that the amendment proposed by the gentleman would pass. The difficulty in putting the power out of the hands of the Council, and carrying out a commission is, that the Council is very captious as to its use, and is very often apt to make trifles appear very large indeed. I could conceive, sir, that we might this year have had a chance to abolish the Fire Commission, for instance, on account of one gentleman's odium for uniforms, and to the views of another in regard to vacations. A very little feeling might change a very good thing, and I think it better to curtail the power of abolishing the commission within a short time; and on that account I hope the amendment will pass. I think we need to take a sober second thought on matters of this kind. Public bodies, like individuals, are apt to be carried away by momentary excitement. I know that immediately after the great fire a Boston man, who had a large amount of property destroyed, remarked that he would like to see the whole City Government hanged for allowing the department to get into such a condition; and possibly if some Alderman or Councilman had been there he would have been hanged to the nearest lamp post. It has been found necessary, in all deliberative bodies, to have two distinct chambers, in order to have one correct the other. We have nothing of that kind. Our Board of Aldermen and Common Council represent the same popular feeling; they are elected at the same time, and when prejudice or excitement carries away one, the other will not always correct it. As we cannot correct mistakes by different bodies, it is necessary to correct it by different spaces of time, and give the people an opportunity to express their views after deliberating on the subject.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I cannot say that I am in favor of the amendment. The gentleman [Mr. Crocker] says that the order looks in two directions; first to the creation of commissions, and second to abolishing them. The latter is the point about it that I like; that is the very thing I think we ought to have. The delegating of power out of the City Council, it seems to me, is a bad thing. It looks to me as though we were hardly capable of carrying on our business, and therefore we must go to the Legislature and have an act passed creating commissions and giving them power that this Government has no control over. It seems to me that we should keep that power in our own hands. It is a good deal like a family of children who get a little unruly and cannot govern themselves, and they have got to have somebody to govern them. I hope we have not got to that state yet. We have some commissions created, and I do not know that they are good, but I do know that we have very little control over them. I rather like the order, and I hope it will pass.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I am opposed to the amendment for this reason: When we have no further use for commissions, I think they should be abolished by the City Council without compelling the city to go to the expense of fifteen or twenty thousand dollars of keeping them another year when we do not require their services. If the gentleman had a tree on his land with a dead limb on it, the time to cut it off is now, and not let it go till next year. The object of this order is to bring back to this City Government the control of city affairs that they had when the present charter was adopted in 1855, twenty-two years ago. It has been good enough for us to live under until within the last three years; and every gentleman who has been a member of this Council, knows that within the last three years there has been a strong and powerful pressure upon us to pass special recommendations to the Mayor to petition the Legislature for certain commissions. And for what purpose? Why, sir, to give certain men positions from which we cannot remove them under some three years, and we cannot change their salaries; but they must be kept along, and we have no power over them unless we go to the Legislature and ask permission to abolish them. Now, sir, the present city charter is remarkable for simplicity and common sense; any schoolboy can understand it; and it gives the City Council absolute control of the management of city affairs. We have gone to the Legislature year after year with petitions and requests for power to appoint boards and commissioners and give high salaries, so that our old charter is literally gone, and soon we shall have very little power left except to pass appropriations and assess the citizens for those appropriations. The word "commission" is only mentioned once in our city charter, and that is where it refers to the Board of Health, and where it gave us power to place that department under charge of a commission. The first commission was established in 1846, when we introduced water into Boston, and I should like to call the Council's attention to the very careful manner in which that act was worded. In that act it expressly declared that when the Cochituate works were completed the services of the commission were to come to an end; and then, in section 5, page 888, it says—

"Whenever the said office of commissioners shall cease, either by the expiration of the said term of three years from the original appointment, or by the completion of the aqueducts and works mentioned in the preceding sections of this act, all the rights, powers and authority given to the city of Boston by this act, shall be exercised by the said city, subject to all the duties, liabilities and restrictions herein contained, in such manner and by such agents, officers and servants as the City Council shall from time to time ordain, appoint and direct."

So that in the year 1846 our city fathers were careful not to lose control of their power vested in them by the city charter. Well, the works were completed, and the services of the commission expired, and then we went on under a Joint Special Committee on Water, and had entire charge of the works, and nobody complained that they had not been conducted properly and fairly, and they went on properly and right until we decided to introduce water from Sudbury River, and it was then proposed to appoint a commission to do that work. There were special orders introduced in the Council to authorize the Mayor to petition the Legislature to grant us power, but they were so hampered by amendments, such as the gentleman has proposed tonight, that the City Government looked upon it with such suspicion that they could not get a commission then. And when it was found necessary to have some commission, they established what is now the Boston Water Board, under this old act of 1846; and under that old act of 1846 the present Water Board is now acting, and they have no further powers, for they are limited by this section 4. We can take their powers away whenever we choose to do so; and that is what we propose to do with all of the commissions, when their services expire and they are of no further use to the City Government, then is the time we do not want them. We do not want to pass a vote this year and then have the matter go to the people and have to send members back to the City Council to confirm that action. The people do not send us here to do any such work as that. They send us here to use common sense and reason in passing orders, and they expect us to use good judgment. The gentleman gets up here and talks about abolishing commissions because a man does not wear a badge; such a remark as that is all nonsense. I believe that if such an order went to the Mayor he would veto it. Such kind of talk is all nonsense. Then, sir, in 1837, an act was passed establishing the Board of Directors for Public Institutions. Two years ago it was found out that that Board were employing criminals in the institutions upon sewing machines. Well, down at the North End they felt the effect of this system. Gentlemen connected with the North End Mission, a charitable institution in that section, came to the City Council and said that some other employment might be found for the persons then working on sewing machines at the institutions. The reason that they gave was that it was taking work out of the hands of poor women. There was no class of work that the women of the North End could do so well as that. Well, sir, we appointed a committee to investigate the matter. Our committee waited upon the Directors of Public Institutions, and were confronted by the fact that they were established by act of the Legislature, and were not working under a city ordinance.

They had the right from the authorities of the State to employ criminals as they pleased, and they put them to work on sewing machines. Well, we all know when a man comes out of a prison that he does not work on a sewing machine, and the trade is of no use to him. Well, the parties, feeling very strenuous in this matter, went to the Legislature and tried to get an amendment to the law. What was the result? The directors went there, the petitioners failed, and it remains as it is now; and we have no control over them, so far as the employment of criminals is concerned. Now, sir, in regard to the Board of Street Commissioners, which was established in 1870, and the members of which are elected by the people to serve three years. What is the position in which you are in today? We have a committee who have talked pretty strenuously upon retrenchment and reduction of salaries. In the act granting the city of Boston power to appoint the Board of Street Commissioners, it reads that the commissioners shall each receive an annual salary of not less than $3000. Now, the Legislature can reduce the salaries of all its employes, and they made a great deal of talk last year about reducing salaries and saving four or five thousand dollars; but we have three commissioners, with a salary of three thousand dollars each; and I presume that when this committee on retrenchment looked over the laws, they found that they had to come to a stop, and they have no authority to reduce their salaries below $3000. Now, I think the power should remain in the hands of the City Council to do what they think best. If we do not propose to make any great improvements during the present year, perhaps their salaries will be too high; but we cannot reduce their salaries below $3000, although we may raise them to $10,000. I do not think their salaries have been too high heretofore, but we have no control over them. Now, sir, in regard to the Registrars of Voters (page 238), section 16 reads that "they shall receive such annual compensation as the City Council may from time to time determine; but any reduction of compensation shall take effect upon such registrars only as shall be appointed after such reduction."

Consequently, I presume the Committee on Retrenchment found, when they came to look upon this matter, that they could get hold of only one of those men; they could go for him, but the other two would still draw the same pay for the next two or three years. Well, it seems to me to be hard to take one man and reduce his salary two or three hundred dollars, and the others draw the same pay. We have been giving our powers away under those special acts of the Legislature, and I propose to go to the Legislature and get an act that will give us power to make commissions and abolish them when we see fit. I should like to call attention to the act of 1871 establishing the office of Inspector of Buildings:

"There is hereby created in the city of Boston an executive department, to be known and designated as the Department for the Survey and Inspection of Buildings, which shall have charge of enforcing the several provisions of this act."

Now, sir, I want to call attention to the fact that this is an executive department. Whoever went to the Legislature and lobbied that law through, got just what he wanted—an executive department, with a chief equal in power to the Governor, and with greater power than the Mayor. He can go on without any control from us whatever, and if he chooses, he can condemn property, and can drag the city of Boston into a hundred lawsuits, to the extent of a million dollars. We have no control over him, and if we want to get hold of him, we must go to the Legislature and have the act modified. So far as we are a legislative body, we ought to have the whole power in our hands. Therefore, Mr. President, I think the idea of this amendment, that we may have power to create commissioners today, and shall not have power to abolish them, is not a good one. The gentleman thinks we have ability to create them, but not the ability to abolish them; and so we must have two councils, with their great ability and experience, to say whether we shall undo next year what we have done this year.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—The Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures are already looking into this matter, and we have already under consideration a petition to the Legislature for certain rights which we do not now enjoy. I therefore move that it be referred to the Joint Special Committee on Salaries and Expenditures.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I do not see that they have anything to do with it. This is a matter that appeals to the common sense of the Council; and I would inform the gentleman that I don't object to the reference at all, for I do not propose to be captious, and should be glad to have it go to the committee and let them take all the time they please. But if we want to get this authority, it has got to pass both branches of the City Council, and be signed by the Mayor by the first of March. We have no time to spare. This matter was introduced last year on Dec. 7, and referred with other matters to this City Government. The Committee on New City Charter reported an order similar to this, and I give the gentleman offering the amendment credit for it as chairman of the committee; but it being the last month of the year, the Council had no time to consider it, and it was put over till this year. If it is going to be acted upon this year it must be passed now, as it must be acted upon by the Board of Aldermen and go to the Legislature within the time limited by them.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—The question raised by this order is so important that I think a few minutes can be well spent in discussing it. It seems to me that the question is not a political one, for, if I understand it, this is not a political body. The city does not constitute a true political unit; but it is a business corporation. We stand not as representatives of the political opinions of the inhabitants of the city, but as trustees delegated to attend to the business interests of the city. The question presented by this order is one of administration. It is in substance, How shall the business of the city be best managed? And the experience of other bodies, where large sums of money have to be handled, and important business transacted, tends to show that we must select and employ skilled men for the management of our business affairs. The old system of management under fluctuating committees of this ever-changing body—the City Council—presents a perfect example of power without responsibility as can be conceived of. If any one outside of the City Council should be asked tomorrow who compose the committees on Common, East Boston Ferries, or several other important committees, they would not know. They do know when some important measure is carried out; it may suit them and it may not, but unless they take the trouble to come to the City Hall and hunt out who is responsible for it, they will not know. In a small city or town a body like this may do very well, because all the members who compose a committee are probably known to every person in the town; in this body we are known to our immediate circle, and no more. These arguments are in favor of a government by some settled body—call them heads of departments, commissions or what you please, so that you have an independent body of men who have power and are responsible, and to whom you can look if anything bad is done. The question before us is, How shall the disposition of city affairs be distributed? Shall it be retained in this body, or shall it be vested in commissions who are always, to a great extent, under the control of this Council, but who shall be made, to a certain extent, independent of it. Now, it seems to me that the importance of their being independent is this, that their action will be more free. Take the heads of departments; every year their election comes round, and there is a scramble for office at the commencement of the year. Indeed, there have been so many people here that an alderman introduced an order to put some of them out of the building. Those officers know that there is a power coming here that will have an influence upon members of the Council. It was stated here the other evening that members of the Council went to the head of a department, and each asked for employment for his three men. What independence can the head of a department have, if members can go to him and say, If you do not do thus and so, I will vote against you? I do not believe that many Councilmen do it, but there is danger of it. I believe that the interest of the city, in the election of its officers, will be advanced by this measure. I support the order in part because I want to see the City Council have power to create commissions whenever they see a necessity for them, and I do not believe they will ever be in too great a hurry to do so, and when the time comes to delegate their power it is well that they should have authority to do so. When the time comes for any of the commissions to pass away, the power should also lie in the same body to change them, or to assign them to different duties, and therefore I shall vote for authority to act in this matter. But I believe that this power requires a different limitation. I do not believe it is safe for us to receive these two powers under the same limitation. When we delegate powers, there is a constant temptation to take them back. The arguments of the gentlemen show that they have not introduced this order to create commissions, but to destroy those already created. There are two classes of danger: First, there is the political danger; it may be deemed necessary to destroy a department for political reasons. A City Government, fresh from an exciting contest, may be moved to destroy some valuable commission; and by this order that power can be exercised at once. What would be the difference in that case between commissions and our heads of departments? They know that in carrying out a necessary but unpleasant duty, they will incur the enmity of a body that can remove them. We all desire a form of government that will administer the business of the city well. You go to a mercantile establishment, and you find men selected for their peculiar qualifications, who know that their interest lies in protecting the interest of their employers. Men ought to know that their places will be sure to them so long as they do their duty. If we compare the salaries paid by the General Government with those paid by cities, we find that those paid by cities are smaller. Why? It is because of the feeling of permanence. They pass through the routine of service, and become of great value to the country, and yet receive comparatively small salaries. And why? Because they know that so long as their behavior is what it should be their pay is fixed. Now, what we want to bring into this City Government is that kind of feeling; to make a man honest because he belongs to the City Government. I hope to see the day that men will feel proud of being officers of the City Government; and that that fact will be a reason why they will take less salary. That is my argument why these commissions should be permanent. What does the order, as originally introduced, propose to do? It is that by the vote of two bodies, meeting within four days of each other, any commission can be destroyed. If any idea of permanence exists in the order, I cannot see it. The amendment does not go so far as I should like to see it; but perhaps it is far enough. It sends the question back to the corporators whom we represent. If they decide to send back representatives in favor of passing the order, then it can be done. No great delay is asked. If we pass the order with this addition we can send it to the Legislature with some hope that the act will be passed. But suppose you send it to the Legislature in its present condition. You cannot expect that a political body like the Legislature will give us an exceptional power such as we are now asking, and which is not to be applied to other cities of the Commonwealth. We must show substantial reasons for it. We say we have a large business here, and want to provide a body to administer it properly; that we want something more permanent and responsible, and ask for power to create commissions. But we may also know that, when we have created them, the contingency may pass away, and we also ask that the power to abolish them may be given us. The Legislature will see that the two powers are so entirely different that they should be given under different limitations. I think that, on the whole, the amendment will be fairly acceptable. If we refuse to adopt the amendment, in what position do we place ourselves? It shows that this is not asked for with the intention of changing this form of government to more permanent conditions; but we show that we ask for it in order to change such commissions as we have now; and the Legislature might not grant it. They would say that we should act on broader reasons in creating a Board of Charities, the Fire Commission and Registrars of Voters. Those are questions that affect the interest of the city, and I think that in acting upon this weighty matter—the most weighty that will come before this body this year, I think—we should proceed with great deliberation, and not be moved by hasty or careless views. We should try to discover the principle upon which the Legislature might act if we ask it to give us this, and consider well what those principles are, and not be carried away by hasty or passing ideas. I hope the amendment will prevail, and if it does I hope the order will pass; for if it does not, I certainly could not give my vote for the order without it.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—The gentleman from Ward 9 (Mr. Thompson) has given us an able speech upon his theory of the City Government. Let us look back and see what we have been, where we are, and what conclusion we have come to. Our first charter was written by Judge Shaw, Harrison Gray Otis and the elder Quincy; better men never lived, and they will compare favorably in ability and knowledge with the rest of Massachusetts. We went on for fifty years under that plan of city government, with some alterations; but the plan generally was very good. The years have come and gone. We had the smallpox, a bad scourge; and we wanted a Board of Health. I have not a word of fault to find, or a word to say against the gentlemen that have composed that board, and this is the third year I have served on the Health Committee. I believe they are doing a great work; I believe the Board is useful, and I believe they are doing their work well. Then the great fire came. I know it burnt me out and all the business I had. Before the fire I had a hundred customers to do teaming for; but not one had a store fifteen hours after the fire started. It took away the accumulations of fifteen years. People thought something was wrong. I believe the Fire Commission has been successful; I believe it has been a good thing. We went on a year. Then came the Water Board. I talked with every member of the Mystic and Cochituate water boards, and I only found one man who thought there should not be a change. There is but one section in the act that I do not like, and that is, you cannot change the amount of their salaries while in office. I don't know that they get any too much, but I do know that any commissioner is a high-priced article, and I don't care whether you call him a commissioner or not, if he performs the duty he is worth the money. But the question is, Shall we go to the Legislature to get this power? I cannot see the use of it. Two-thirds of the City Council can put on every one of those men, and the Mayor can remove them for cause. They are created by ordinance. If we repeal the ordinances or do not vote them any money, they must stop. I am sure that what creates can destroy. I am not a lawyer, but it seems to me that that ought to be good law. Now, about this being a commission, and that political interest, and this political dodge. I don't suppose that we propose to be very bad. When I came here from the State of Vermont I did not expect to be a member of this great and glorious Council. I was honest when I came in here, and I hope I always will be; but I must say that I have learned something. We have put several departments under commissions. They had them in Philadelphia and New York, where they were not appointed, but elected, and I am sure I have read about something being wrong in New York. It is only a question as to what men you get, and it is all right if the men are honest. We have to ask a few questions, and vote for or against them. I dislike the amendment worse than I do the order, for I don't believe it takes but two sessions of the Legislature to change the constitution of Massachusetts. I think that the City Government might possibly handle this matter. Some gentlemen favor changing the duties of some of the departments, for instance, the Street Commissioners. We are not building many new streets, unless it be a public thoroughfare. It would have to be shown to be a great necessity before I would vote for it in these times. But I don't know how to get at it, and I move to lay it on the table.

Mr. Ruffin—I hope the order will not be laid upon the table, because I think, as has been said, that it is a very important matter, and one which we have got to meet; and we might just as well meet it and discuss it now as at any other time. I think we ought to discuss it to that extent that we can understand it thoroughly and be prepared to vote intelligently upon it. This order ought to pass. We ought to have the power to create these commissions, but with certain limitations. I think it should be limited as set forth in the original order, for reasons which I have already given, for I think they are wise and judicious. If we have power to make these commissions, we should have power to unmake them. The same wisdom which creates commissions will, it is supposed, be used in unmaking them, if it is necessary. I can see no possible imaginary, no imaginary difficulties attending it. I do not believe the troubles would follow which some gentlemen seem to believe. We have had excited political contests heretofore, and quite as excited as will be seen hereafter; and yet I have never seen any great changes in the City Government. We have officers who have remained here all their lives, and have passed through all the political changes. Parties come and parties go; but the officials remain here. We have had political discussions; and political excitement has run as high as it will run in years to come; and still I have never seen this unseemly partisan feeling about the removal of officials from City Hall; and I do not think we shall have it when we remove the commissions. I think there is good sense and judiciousness in both parties, and they will not commit suicide in such a foolish manner as that, and they will not upset a department of the Government unless there is reason for it. I see a necessity for having this power in the hands of the City Government. I think we want some other qualities in those commissions besides independence. I don't believe in making them independent of the City Government. They might be so independent that nobody could reach them, and so permanent that they could not be removed when they became obnoxious or inefficient. What we want is efficiency; and I think this order will give it. We want men to do the special duties assigned them—not merely independence and permanency, but efficiency.

Mr. Clarke—In my remarks upon the Inspector of Buildings I omitted to state a very important matter the appointment of the chief officer of that department. Section 12, page 91, says—

“The chief officer of the said Department for the Survey and Inspection of Buildings shall be called the Inspector of Buildings. He shall be appointed by the Mayor, and confirmed by the City Council. He shall hold office for the term of three years, or until his successor shall take office, but may be sooner removed by the City Council for malfeasance, incapacity or neglect of duty.”

In the other commissions we have power to remove them if they are obnoxious; but we cannot remove this officer unless we can ascertain that he is malfeasant, incapable, or has neglected his duty. Now, sir, who is to judge whether he is or not? How are you going to do that? The City Council have not authority to draw the line. He may take exception to our opinion and go to the Supreme Court, and it may be three or four years before it is decided whether he is the right man or not. It seems to me that all our powers have been taken away, so far as that department is concerned. I introduced an order three or four weeks ago, which was referred to the Committee on Retrenchment, in regard to establishing a Department on Supplies. Now, sir, if such a department is established, instead of taking twelve and a half cents a day from the poor clerks, and making them reduce their expenses that amount, I say this Council can save $200,000 a year. But the question is, how can it be carried out, except by a commission? If you put this matter off, we cannot go to the Legislature with it until next year. This order is in the interest of economy. We are keeping at the State House a gentleman connected with the City Solicitor's Department, at the rate of $3000 a year, to advocate all our petitions before the Legislature. If we have this power, we need not send to the Legislature so often, and will save two or three thousand dollars in that direction.

The motion to lay on the table was declared carried. Mr. Pope of Ward 14 doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. Ruffin the yeas and nays were ordered. The motion was lost—yeas 19, nays 45.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Brown, Day, Duggan, D. A. Flynn, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, McDonald, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Roberts, Sibley, G. B. Webster—18.

Nays—Messrs. Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Cox, Crocker, Cross, Danforth, Dee, Doherty, Fagan, Felt, Fernald, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, Morrill, Mowry, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, Pope, Pratt, Reed, J. B. Richardson, Roach, Ruffin, Shepard, Smardon, Souther, Spenceley, Stone, Thompson, Thorndike, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—45.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Blanchard, Blodgett, McGaragle, Pearl, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Upham—7.

The question was on the reference to the Committee on Salaries and Expenditures.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I hope that motion will not prevail, for the reason that if the order is presented to the Legislature at all it must be done by next Thursday, the last day for receiving petitions.

The motion to refer was lost, and the question was on Mr. Crocker's amendment.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—There is one argument in favor of this amendment which has not been touched upon, but it seems to have been admitted by all who have spoken against it—that there are certain commissions which are important. If that is the case, and furthermore I do not doubt but any business will be put into commissions but what is important; and that being the fact it seems to me equally important that we should have the best men that can be obtained for those positions; and if we need such men I think we should not be in a fair way to obtain the services of some such men if they are liable to lose their positions at a week's notice, which will be the case if this order is passed; while, if the amendment is adopted, of course it will be otherwise. The gentleman from Ward 9 [Mr. Ruffin] said he thought the nearer we got to the people the better; and it seems to me that is an excellent argument for the amendment. We come here as representatives of the people; but we cannot always be supposed to know the views of our constituents; and we may consider that they are different from what they actually are. In such an important matter as the changing of commissions, it seems to me the people should vote directly upon it before the commission is abolished. If the matter is brought up and acted upon one year, then the people will have an opportunity to vote upon it, and express their opinion in some form by electing a Council that will carry out their views. The amendment does not clash in any way with what is desirable in the matter of salaries, which will still be left in the hands of the City Council. We can reduce or raise them, or stop them altogether, which would practically abolish the commission, unless the gentlemen were public spirited enough to serve without pay, feeling that such a vote was contrary to the wishes of the people. Therefore I think the amendment will do no harm and may do a great deal of good.

The question was put on Mr. Crocker's amendment. The President was in doubt. Mr. Pierce of Ward 24 called for the yeas and nays, which were ordered. The amendment was lost—yeas 23, nays 41.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Beeching, Brown, Coe, Cox, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Mowry, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, Roberts, Shepard, Smardon, Thompson, Thorndike, Wolcott—23.

Nays—Messrs. Barry, Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pope, Reed, J. B. Richardson, Roach, Ruffin, Sibley, Souther, Spenceley, Stone, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—41.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Blanchard, Blodgett, McGaragle, Pearl, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Upham—7.

Mr. Howes—It seems to me that if the order goes before the Legislature in its present shape it will seem as if there were a determination on the part of the present Council to do away with the present commissions. That is the view of it which members of the Legislature will probably be likely to take, whether it is correct or not. In order to correct this view, and that gentlemen who are so democratic in their ideas may show that such is not their intention, I move to amend the order by adding, after the word “thereof,” the words “and by a popular vote of the citizens, duly qualified, of this city.”

Mr. Ruffin—I do not know who in this body has authority to speak for the Legislature. I cannot gather that the Legislature will come to that conclusion from anything in the order, and I think that any member's perception must be very keen who does gather that idea. The position I have taken in this matter has been in good faith. I think the proposition a good one. It is the view I have held for some time, since I have given the subject any examination. I think the commissions very desirable and if we are going to have them I think this is the better way to pursue. I think the Legislature would see that also. This is not conferring new power upon the City Council. The power is already with them, only it is exercised in a different way. We only ask for a different mode of exercising that power. This is no extraordinary thing. I may not be in a position to see what is the under-current of those who are the projectors of this movement; but from the standpoint that I view it I see nothing but good. I have an idea that commissions are favorably looked upon by a large majority of the thinking people of the city of Boston. It is something they have been aiming at a long time. They have been brooding over it and devising schemes for a new city charter, by which we might have this power. Now, the question comes as it is presented to us tonight. Gentlemen favoring the order are not prepared to take this step. It is nothing new. I see no cat in the meal, and if anybody does, I hope he will expose it, so that we may all see it. I am satisfied that if this matter is pressed in any way before the Legislature, they will see it as the majority of this Council see it.

Mr. Howes—I have no wish to impute wrong motives to any member, especially to the gentleman last up. My reason is, that a yea and nay vote has just been taken, and members who have heretofore voted in opposition to commissions are now anxious to establish them. I am at a loss to understand this conversion, which is quite as sudden as that of St. Paul. The only reason I can see is that the present commissions are to be done away with at any time. I hope the amendment I have offered will prevail. If members are desirous of having it done in a democratic way it can be done so.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The gentleman says that members who have heretofore voted against commissions are now voting for them.

Mr. Howes—I meant the members of the last Council.

Mr. Flynn—He did not say that. We have never voted in this Council on that question before.

Mr. Clarke—The gentleman says those who voted against commissions are now voting for them; and as he looked at me I suppose he meant me. I have done so because the orders were so hampered by such amendments as the gentleman from Ward 9 proposed, that they could not be abolished without a two-thirds vote. I shall never vote for such a commission.

On motion of Mr. Sibley, the main question was ordered.

Mr. Howes's amendment was lost.

The order was read a second time, and Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 moved the yeas and nays on its passage, which were not ordered (a division being called for on a doubt raised by Mr. Flynn of Ward 13)—11 for, 46 against.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved a suspension of the rule, which was carried—41 for, 17 against.

Mr. Flynn moved a reconsideration. Lost. Sent up.

ADJOURNMENT.

On motion of Mr. Howes of Ward 18 it was ordered that when the Council adjourn it be to Friday evening, Feb. 23, at 7½ o'clock P. M.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—Petition of Bridget Griffin for compensation for injuries on Charles street. Referred to Committee on Claims.

Petition of James Fitzgerald for change in bond given for land. Referred to Committee on Public Lands.

Severally sent up.

Mr. Shepard of Ward 4 offered an order—That the Committee on Public Buildings be authorized to provide the requisite furniture for the new grammar schoolhouse, Florence District, West Roxbury, the cost not exceeding the sum of $2000; the expense thereof to be charged to the appropriation for Schoolhouses, Public Buildings.

Ordered to a second reading.

Adjourned on motion of Mr. Duggan of Ward 12.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
FEBRUARY 19, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS.

Police Officers Without Pay—George R. Richards, Freeman's National Bank; Manus McLauthlin, Woodward avenue; Daniel Cowan, Howard Athenæum.

Police Officer—Patrick Lee.

Weighers of Coal—John Kelly, Jr., and G. P. Dodge.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Joint Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. B. & F. H. Jenney, for leave to erect a wooden building situated on West First street, corner D street, South Boston.

To the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department. S. W. Richardson, for abatement and remission of taxes on estate of the late William Richardson.

To the Joint Committee on Streets. T. F. Burns, for leave to occupy a portion of land at corner of Eliot and Pleasant streets for sale of fruit, etc.

To the Committee on Public Baths. John F. Newton et al., for a bath house at Roxbury.

To the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board. Catherine Dolan, to be repaid for land taken on Porter and Jess streets, Roxbury.

To the Committee on Licenses. L. J. Jordan, M. D., for leave to open a gallery of anatomy in this city.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables by Louis M. Mahn, new wooden, three horses, Lamartine street, Ward 23; Michael Kenny, new wooden, one horse, corner Bennett and Market streets, Ward 25; George W. Parker, new brick, three horses, Olive place, Ward 17.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Sarah Ross, to be compensated for personal injuries caused by a fall in Lincoln street.

To the Committee on Paving. Clement Willis et al. for the repaving of Washington street from Chester park to the old Roxbury line; J. S. Nickerson et al., that Fourth street, between E and F streets, be paved with granite blocks; Pratt & Co. et al., that Neponset avenue and Terrace street be put in condition for travel.

Metropolitan Railroad Company, for leave to construct a track on Atlantic avenue from tracks already located near Rowe's wharf through Atlantic avenue and Commercial street, to connect with tracks on Hanover street, with suitable curves and connections. Also, for a location of track across Dover street, to connect those already constructed on Harrison avenue, and for convenient turnouts on Harrison avenue between Dover and Warren streets, with curve tracks at the corner of Dover street and Harrison avenue, and Dover and Washington streets.

N. W. DAY'S OMNIBUS ROUTE.

The order granting leave to N. W. Day to run coaches from Cambridge Bridge through Cambridge street, Bowdoin square, Green, Chambers and Cambridge streets, to Cambridge Bridge, was considered under unfinished business.

Alderman Viles—I move that the order be laid on the table until the Union Railroad Company have had a chance to be heard.

The motion prevailed.

Alderman Fitzgerald—This petition was referred to the Committee on Licenses; the Union Railroad appeared by counsel and had its witnesses—as did Mr. Day also. Mr. Day asked for a route through Court street down to State street. Both sides were heard, and we made the report which is now upon the table. Why the Union Railroad ask for a hearing after that I do not know, and am at a loss to discover.

Alderman Viles—I have a document here which has just been handed to me and which I will ask the Chair to read.

The Chair read the paper, representing that Mr. Day was heard before the Committee on Licenses on his petition to extend his route through Cambridge and Court streets. The Union Railroad Company appeared as a remonstrant against Mr. Day's coaches running over their coaches' route and especially through Cambridge streets and Bowdoin square and Green street. Both parties appeared with counsel and witnesses. The remonstrants proposed and attempted to prove the impolicy of allowing the petitioners to run through Cambridge street and Court street on account of the crowded and blocked condition of the streets; but upon inquiries being made, counsel for Mr. Day said the remonstrants need not go into that; that Mr. Day would not press for a license to use those streets; that all he wanted was to get to State street in some way, and that the committee might give him some route not petitioned for. Mr. Day having abandoned his petition, the remonstrants offered no evidence touching those streets. The remonstrants supposed the committee would not grant permission to Mr. Day to use the streets which he proposed without having heard evidence which the remonstrants had to offer in relation to the crowded condition of those streets. The substance of the evidence at the hearing was this: First, Day had run from Cambridge street to Green street; he had run two coaches; the business paid; begins running at 6 $\frac{1}{2}$  A. M., and ceases at 6 $\frac{1}{4}$  P. M.; runs when travel is best, and takes the cream of the business, and does not run when travel is light; runs to make money and not to accommodate the public. Second, the Union Railroad Company runs from half-past five till midnight, whether it pays or not; runs many miles of road that do not pay; the best part of their lines is that over which Day proposes to run; there is no complaint that the Union Railroad fails in any manner to accommodate the public; there is no petition in favor of Day's line.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Whose name is signed to that document?

The Mayor—It has no signature.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It is very unfair for any member of the Board to present a document stating what occurred at a meeting of a committee without its being signed by somebody. It is an unfair way of getting it before the Board.

Alderman Viles—That was handed to me by the counsel for the Union Railroad, who asked to have a hearing before the Committee on Licenses last year, of which I had the honor to be a member, and we gave the subject four hearings, and were unanimous that the public do not need the coaches he proposed to run. He came from Saco, Me., with two coaches, and wanted to put them on the best route for passengers. The committee were unanimous in giving him leave to withdraw. Now, all that the railroad company ask is thirty minutes before the Board, and I guarantee that they will not take more than that time.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have no objection to hearing the Union Railroad, but I think Mr. Day ought to have a chance to be heard also. He has two omnibuses and is not going to swallow the Union Railroad. If there is to be a hearing I hope Mr. Day will be notified.

Alderman Viles—I have no objections to his being heard.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move that both parties be notified that they will be heard.

The motion to hear both parties prevailed.

DUTIES OF HARBOR MASTER.

The order to accept chapter 64 of the act of 1862 to invest the Harbor Master with police powers and duties, was considered under unfinished business, and passed.

Later in the session the matter was called up by Alderman Robinson, who said that he was momentarily absent when the order was passed; that he had not time to look into the matter and desired an opportunity to do so. On his motion the vote whereby the order was passed was reconsidered, and the order was laid on the table.

SINKING FUNDS.

The ordinance to amend ordinance in relation to finance, so that unexpended balances at the close of the financial year shall be carried over to the credit of the several appropriations for the next financial year, was considered under unfinished business.

Alderman Clark—This is quite an important matter, and contemplates quite a change in the method of conducting the Sinking Funds and the provisions for paying the debt of the city. I hope it will not be acted upon hastily, and I move that it be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Alderman Fitzgerald—This ordinance was reported by the Committee on Retrenchment. While I do not yield to the Alderman opposite in my desire to see the credit of the city of Boston, both at home and abroad, maintained up to that standard which it has attained; while the other members of the committee who have acted with me think as I do about the credit of the city of Boston, and are jealous of it, yet, after mature deliberation, they have come to the conclusion that the unexpended balances, for this year at least, and for some time to come, instead of being turned into the Sinking Fund, should be turned into the treasury, and be part and parcel of the next year's appropriations, so that so much shall be deducted from the tax levy of the succeeding year. This commission was created, I believe, some time in December, 1870, and up to now very few persons have understood the operations of the Sinking Funds. After spending some four or five hours in the Treasurer's Department, looking over the amount of our indebtedness, I have here a list of the indebtednesses of the city of Boston; the amount paid into the Sinking Funds; the amount of matured debt which has been paid by the Sinking Fund Commissioners—in my judgment unnecessarily—for what purpose and for what object I do not know. But the taxpayers do not see that it is a direct tax on them of one per cent. each year for so much of the debt which has become matured. The whole indebtedness of the city on the first of January, 1877, was $44,656,672.30; on the same date in the Sinking Funds were bonds to the amount of $13,370,670, and cash to the amount of $2,364,964.49 deposited in bank to the credit of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and drawing four per cent., so that the total amount of cash and bonds in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners was $15,735,639.49, leaving a net outstanding debt on the 31st day of January last of $31,286,997.30. During the last year the Sinking Fund Commissioners received from the Treasurer, from April 30, 1876, to Feb. 4, 1877—the same being revenue from betterments, sales of public lands, liquor licenses, sewer assessments—$725,141. They have received from the interest on the bonds which they hold, and which is paid to them as it is paid to private individuals who hold the bonds of the city of Boston, from April 30, 1876, to Jan. 31, 1877, the sum of $552,680. The amount which they will receive in April will be $275,000. The amount which they will receive from the cash deposited to their credit from April 30, 1876, to Feb. 4, 1877, is $39,643.34. The interest due them up to April 30, 1877, on the same amount of cash, we will say, is about $15,000, and an additional amount from revenue for betterments up to the 17th of February, $31,483.18; and the additional revenue up to the end of the year cannot fall short of $70,000. So that the Sinking Fund Commissioners on the 30th day of April, 1877, will have received and paid to them as interest, and also to help pay the debts at maturity, the sum of $1,708,948.35; and if the unexpended balances go in with that, it will amount to the sum of $2,500,000 in round numbers. Last year the Sinking Fund Commissioners received from the same sources that I have enumerated here, and from unexpended balances, the sum of $2,996,544.66. Now, last year the Sinking Fund Commissioners paid or cancelled, or bought in, $539,000 of their own bonds which had twenty years to run, so that the people of Boston were taxed 100 per cent. upon those bonds which there was no need of being taxed for at all for the next ten or fifteen years. Now, the whole amount of bonds which the Sinking Fund Commissioners have bought and cancelled, and the amount of debt paid before maturity, since the organization of the commission in 1870, is $2,223,072.92, an average of $370,512 in each year most of which would have been necessary to meet the debt when it became due in the years 1890 and 1895. Why the Sinking Fund Commissioners have done this I know not, but this I know, that whatever this Board, whatever this City Government can do to lighten the burdens of the people who own real estate and pay taxes, should be done, without at the same time destroying the credit of the city of Boston. Now, sir, to my point. The committee hold that the amount of interest which is paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners on the bonds of the city of Boston, which they hold, the revenue which they will receive during the whole of next year from betterments, liquor licenses, sewers, paving, and other things of that kind, will be more than sufficient to meet all the needs of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and to provide the necessary amount to pay the debts of the city of Boston at maturity. I have here a tabular statement of the indebtedness of the city of Boston, based on the supposition that the city of Boston will contract no more debts; the time when the bonds become due, the amount which should be paid each year to meet the interest on the outstanding debts and to meet the bonds at maturity. On the 30th of April, 1877, the debt will be $30,618,406.70. Eight hundred thousand dollars of the bonds will be bought in by the Sinking Fund Commissioners in the months of March and April, and it will be bought by cash, amounting to $865,740 bonds will be payable; and in order to meet that, and to meet the amount which they are authorized to raise by statute, it will be necessary to raise $3,909,850 this next year. In 1878 it will be necessary to raise $2,918,423, with bonds maturing to the amount of $936,000, and the debt lowered to $29,682,406. In 1879 the debt will be $28,419,701, with $1,262,705 in bonds payable, and $2,331,788 in cash to meet them. In 1880, the debt will be $24,737,401.70, with bonds maturing to the amount of $3,682,300, and the amount required to be added to the Sinking Fund that year, to meet that obligation, will be $1,219,419; and so I go along down to the year 1896. As you will notice, sir, the amount necessary to be paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners decreases year by year, as the debt decreases, until, in 1895, the amount paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners will be $189,034. In 1896 nothing will be payable to the commissioners; in 1897, nothing; in 1898, nothing; in 1899, nothing; in 1900, $3,516,586 in bonds will become due and $108,190 will have to be paid in; in 1891, nothing, the debt being only six millions and some odd hundred thousand dollars. In 1902 the debt will be $6,582,715, but no bonds will become due; in 1903 the debt will be $3,766,000, $2,816,711 bonds will become due, and only $55,715 will have to be paid into the sinking funds, they having already made provision for the payment of it. And so on down to 1907, when the last outstanding bonds of the city of Boston will be payable into the treasury, and nothing will have to be paid in—making the sum total $20,410,164, paid in that fifteen years by the people of the city of Boston to meet the interest on the bonds maturing average $1,360,677 for each and every one of the years, if a general average is made. So that if no more debt be contracted by the city, and if the citizens of Boston pay to the Sinking Fund Commissioners (and if they buy no more bonds which are not matured), $1,360,677 each year, they will have sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds which they hold, and also a sufficient amount to pay in to meet the indebtedness when it matures and to pay it at its maturity. We paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners last year $2,900,000—$3,000,000 in round numbers—to meet this indebtedness which requires only $1,300,000 to meet it. This year, on the 30th of April, we will pay $2,500,948, if the unexpended balances are given them; and without them we pay $1,708,948 at the end of the year to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, or it is credited to them by the Treasurer; or, in other words, $500,000 more than is absolutely necessary to be paid by the citizens of Boston in order to pay the interest on the bonds held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and not on the debt when it matures. I think I have made myself plain to every member of the Board of Aldermen so far as this is concerned. Now, next year we must pay this amount. How are we to get it? The Sinking Fund Commissioners will receive their $800,000 interest precisely as any private individual receives the interest on bonds of the city of Boston which he holds. It needs but five or six hundred thousand dollars more to come within the amount necessary to be raised in order to meet this amount and to pay the debt at maturity; and also to pay the interest. How shall they receive it? This last year we received from betterments—1 understand that no public lands were sold in the city of Boston this last year, while the city is obliged to take care of a great deal of it and will be obliged to sell it very soon—$725,000; from Feb. 4 to Feb. 17, $39,000. The Treasurer tells me that $70,000 more will be forthcoming before the 30th day of April. There is the interest on the cash in hand ($800,000), which will be turned into bonds of the city before the 30th day of April next. Now, sir, it is safe to say that the city of Boston will receive at least as much next year as will amount to five or six hundred thousand dollars, or at least within two hundred thousand dollars of that received last year—sufficient to meet all the wants of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. Ought we to do it? Throughout the city of Boston the cry comes up, from those who hold real estate, to do something to lighten the burden of taxation. The mortgages upon the real estate in the city of Boston represent the poverty of the people of the city of Boston. They represent the amounts of their property pledged for the payment of so much money. That is what they represent; nothing more and nothing less. I saw the other day, in a very respectable newspaper, whose editor is right in front of me, that a gentleman accounted wealthy was obliged to put a third mortgage upon his estate for the purpose of paying his taxes at City Hall. People hold on to their real estate and cling to it. And why? Because five or six years ago they gave a large amount of money for it, and all that they have in the world is sunk in real estate; they hold on to it in the hope that brighter and better days will come round in a short time, and they keep their property today at a loss. Now, the question is, with such a state of things, whether the city of Boston, when it has sufficient to meet all the wants of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, should not, for a year or two, at least, do something to lighten the burdens of taxation of those who pay taxes into the city treasury—for after all real estate mainly pays the taxes and supports the City Government. Two millions of dollars—more than twenty per cent. of all that is raised to carry on the City Government—are paid into the sinking funds every year. If we are to pay so much every year, let it appear upon the tax levy; so that it is seen that is to be paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners. If it requires so much to nurse the babies that they have in charge, let us know it. Why have two millions of dollars been paid for debt that has not matured and was not payable for the next fifteen years? I understand that that is one of the great faults found with Mr. Boutwell, late Secretary of the Treasury. The Sinking Fund Commissioners say that you have so much money in this pocket; it is your pocket, but we have charge of it; we have a little money in that pocket, and the little you have we will take away from you. It is true they may be able to fill the other pocket for us, but they say they will not let up upon us now. I understand that the Sinking Fund Commissioners say they will call for eight hundred thousand dollars if we take this away from them. Nobody will more readily give the amount necessary to meet the obligations of the city of Boston, to meet the debt when it matures, and to pay the interest on the bond when it is due, than I will; and nobody will more cheerfully vote for anything of that kind than I will; but I cannot see, and I venture to say that the commissioners cannot say, why we shall want so large an amount if we take this from them. Sufficient should be raised to meet all their obligations, but not to buy bonds at par which do not mature for twenty years. Tomorrow $51,000 of bonds will be bought at par which the city of Boston sold for ninety-six cents, if they are not sold, and with this same money. This Board is amply able to deal with this subject without its going to the Finance Committee. The sinking funds and the doings of the Sinking Fund Commissioners are matters which very few understand, and I doubt if some of the commissioners understand them themselves. I doubt, sir, if they do. There is one man in this City Hall who understands the subject, and he is not a member of the commission; and if he is brought before this Board I warrant that he will give such an explanation of this whole affair and the way in which the funds in the hands of the Commissioners are used—I do not say dishonestly. But it is their desire to pay the city debt that he will give an explanation of, and will show this Board conclusively that there is no necessity for taxing the citizens of Boston for money unnecessarily to put into the Sinking Funds. For that reason alone, and not because—as some papers have insinuated—we want to make political capital of it, this ordinance is reported. This is a matter that affects the taxpayers, and they are Democrats and Republicans. It is to lighten the burdens of taxation for the next year at least that we have reported this ordinance. I hope it will not be referred to the Finance Committee, and that the matter will be discussed here in open board, that each member will make up his mind and hear any explanation which can be given; let us hear one side and the other and come to a conclusion without referring it to any committee. Following are the figures in detail from which Alderman Fitzgerald spoke:

Whole amount of our indebtedness, Jan. 31, 1877.....	$44,657,672.20
On the same date, amount in Sinking Fund.....	13,370,670.00
Cash in the Sinking Funds.....	2,364,964.49
Total amount of cash and bonds.....	15,735,639.49
Outstanding indebtedness, same date..	$31,286,997.30
Amount which the Sinking Fund Commissioners received from the treasury from April 30, 1876, to Feb. 4, 1877, the same being revenue from betterments, sales of public lands, liquor licenses, etc.....	$725,141.00
Amount which they have received from interest on bonds in Sinking Fund from April 31, 1876, to Jan. 31, 1877.....	552,680.83
Amount from same due April 1, 1877..	275,000.00
Amount received from their cash deposits in bank from April 30, 1876, to Feb. 4, 1877.....	39,643.34
Amount to be paid up to April 30, 1877, interest on same, say.....	15,000.00
Additional revenue from betterments up to Feb. 17.....	31,483.18
Additional revenue to end of year, say.....	70,000.00
Total.....	$1,708,948.35
If you add the unexpended balances...	800,000.00
Total amount to be paid into Sinking Fund.....	$2,508,948.35

From April 30, 1875, to April 30, 1876, there was paid into the Sinking Fund from the same source $2,996,544.66.

Last year the Sinking Fund Commissioners cancelled $539,000 of these twenty-years bonds, some of which were not due until 1890.

Amount authorized by statute to be raised on the $31,286,997.30 outstanding would not be over $1,118,210.92, an assessment on an average percentage of 3.55-100 per cent.

The following table shows the decrease of the Sinking Fund in detail as above outlined:

	Debt outstanding April 30 of each year.....	Amount to be paid to April 30 of each year.....	Amount required to be added to Sinking Fund April 30 of each year to redeem debt.....
Jan. 1, 1877..	$31,484,147	.....	$4,365,740
Apr. 30, 1877..	30,618,406	$865,740	3,809,850
" 1878..	29,682,406	936,000	2,918,423
" 1879..	28,419,701	1,262,705	2,331,788
" 1880..	24,737,401	3,682,300	1,219,419
" 1881..	23,962,901	774,500	1,048,278
" 1882..	23,276,401	686,500	929,953
" 1883..	22,492,401	784,000	820,178
" 1884..	21,740,401	752,000	732,217
" 1885..	21,297,401	443,000	688,037
" 1886..	20,599,401	698,000	627,751
" 1887..	20,262,401	337,000	602,234
" 1888..	20,108,401	154,000	591,910
" 1889..	19,982,901	125,500	584,402
" 1890..	19,727,401	255,500	570,664
" 1891..	19,293,401	434,000	540,571
" 1892..	18,745,401	548,000	525,388
" 1893..	12,693,797	6,051,603	281,751
" 1894..	11,067,797	1,626,000	221,817
" 1895..	10,099,297	968,500	189,034
" 1896..	10,099,297	.....	.....
" 1897..	10,099,297	.....	.....
" 1898..	10,099,297	.....	.....
" 1899..	10,099,297	.....	.....
" 1900..	6,582,711	3,516,586*	108,190
" 1901..	6,582,711	.....	.....
" 1902..	6,582,711	.....	.....
" 1903..	3,766,000	2,816,711	55,715
" 1904..	3,720,000	46,000	55,014
" 1905..	3,663,300	56,700	54,089
" 1906..	2,005,000	1,658,300	28,751
" 1907..	.....	2,005,000	.....
			15,204,410,164

Average amount to be raised each year and paid into Sinking Fund to meet debt at maturity.

* Of this amount $8000 is required to be paid in each year until 1900, the cost of which is not included in the third column.

Thirty years, payments of interest, per annum will pay of principal and save in interest,....$531,510 8 0

Original loan, £800,000 0 0
531,510 8 0
£268,489 12 0 of debt not paid or saved in interest.

The amount of debt paid before maturity since the organization of the Sinking Fund, Dec. 24, 1870, was $2,223,072.92—averaging about $370,512 in each year, most of which would have become due in the years of 1890 to 1895.

Alderman Clark—It is for the very purpose of getting information upon this important subject that I ask to have it referred to the Finance Committee. I am willing to confess that I do not sufficiently understand this subject to vote or talk upon it intelligently, and I doubt very much whether the Alderman who has just taken his seat—with all the eloquence he has displayed—understands it as well as those who have made it a study and have had the care of it for the last ten or fifteen years. It is all very well for a man to get up here with an array of figures which he has been getting up to suit his own side of the case. He may understand it very thoroughly, but I doubt very much if the other members of his committee understand it as he understands it. It is an unusual thing to act upon a question involving what this does—an entire change in the system of managing the funds which are appropriated to pay the debts of the city of Boston as they will become due, without its being referred to the committee who are supposed to know and to understand something about the operations of the Sinking Funds. It is, furthermore, an unusual thing for a member of the Board of Aldermen to charge the Sinking Fund Commission, composed as it is of the Mayor, the City Auditor, and other gentlemen supposed to be possessed of a reasonable amount of intelligence and honesty; and I say it is an unusual thing for a new member of the Board of Aldermen to charge upon that commission what has been charged here this afternoon—dishonesty and fraud, for that is what it amounts to. Now, all I ask is that this subject shall be referred to the Finance Committee, consisting of the Mayor and other members who ought to be possessed of a certain amount of honesty and intelligence. I do not propose, and I am not prepared, to discuss the merits and demerits of this change. I supposed that would come when the report had been made by the Committee on Finance; and it is the first time I have heard of opposition being raised against referring a subject of so much importance as this to a committee to investigate such questions as are proposed by the Alderman himself, and as come from this third party who is not a member of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, the Committee on Finance or the Board of Aldermen; and I do not know that he is an employe of the city of Boston. But, Mr. Mayor, it seems to me that this Sinking Fund Commission was established by men who understood the city finances; who understood the importance of providing the ways and means of paying the debts of the city of Boston; and it seems to me, with the little light that I have upon it, that it has served a good end in the past. I do understand that there will be some eight hundred thousand dollars unexpended appropriations this year, in all human probability. I do understand that if these balances are carried forward, you have got to assess directly upon the citizens of Boston eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars to comply with the statutes of the State to keep up this fund for paying the debts of the city. I do not intend to discuss this matter at present. I ask this Board of Aldermen to refer this matter to the Finance Committee to investigate and report back to this Board. I hope the Board will not refuse the common courtesy of referring this matter, as is done with subjects of not a hundredth part of the importance that this is.

Alderman Fitzgerald—To be sure I am a new member; but it is still more terrible for a man to be an old member of this Board and know nothing about that which he ought to know something of. I am a new member of this Board, and the chairman of this committee which reported this ordinance, and I claim to know something about it, even if the gentleman does not know anything about it after spending four years here. I did not charge the gentlemen who have charge of this fund with being dishonest or fraudulent; not a single sentence which I uttered covered a charge of that kind. On the contrary, I said they are honest men. I know them; I know Mr. Denny is honest; I know that Mr. Turner is, and I know that Mr. Talbot is. But I say that in their anxiety to cut down the debt, in their anxiety to take charge of the funds they have to care for, and pay the city debts—because the Sinking Fund is the omnium gatherum of everything which does not go into the City Treasury—in their anxiety to do that, they have lost sight of the fact that real estate and the taxpayers can better afford to pay two millions four years from now than they can one quarter of it now. Cut it off. If they can show to me how they want this $800,000 in the tax levy, I shall go for it. I shall not allow the Alderman to speak for me for the Sinking Fund Commissioners. I believe them to be honest. If I am a new member I have some right to speak about things which I know as much about, and perhaps more than he does.

Alderman O'Brien—I have no objection to referring this matter to the Finance Committee, only from the fact that it might possibly delay our action. We have not much time to consider this matter before we shall be called upon to make our annual appropriations, and I believe this Board of Aldermen can discuss this question and understand it as well as they can before it goes to any Finance Committee. It is very easy to understand the object of our Sinking Funds—simply to provide ways and means for paying the debt of the city at maturity. When this is done all the conditions of the statutes and the ordinances are complied with. Now, it appears to me, and I feel confident I speak the sentiments of all taxpayers, there has been a disposition to increase our Sinking Funds more rapidly than the law requires—that we are forcing on our taxpayers of today the payment of debts that belong to another generation. For instance, ex-Mayor Cobb, in his address at the close of his Administration, congratulated our citizens that the net debt of the city had—

Decreased in three years.....$580,297.26
The Sinking Funds had increased..2,587,171.89

Or, in other words, we have paid during these three years all our obligations—reduced our debt and increased our Sinking Funds by taxing our people $3,167,469 more than they ought to be taxed, and this is called splendid financiering, when every one knows that these three years were years of the greatest depression in business ever experienced, or is likely to be experienced for the next fifty years—when almost every citizen has found it a difficult matter to pay taxes and current expenses, and when thousands of small estates were forced off by auction for non-payment of taxes. This may be good legislation for the next generation, but it is hard on the taxpayers of the present day. Again, it has been asserted by our late Mayor that the Sinking Fund and its accumulations will pay our debt in eight years. Now, I do not believe that the taxpayers of this city desire to pay this debt in eight years—a debt that will average fifteen years before it matures—and it appears to me that if our Sinking Funds are so arranged as to pay this debt in fifteen years, we do all that is required of us to keep up the credit and standing of the city; to attempt to do more is only adding to burdens that are already considered oppressive. Our Sinking Fund is a mystery to almost every one in City Hall. We have had in the City Council, for some years past, gentlemen of considerable financial ability and reputation as bankers, and they have found these funds complicated and difficult to understand. There is scarcely a man in City Hall that understands them fully, and I will not even except the Sinking Fund Commissioners. We only know that, with unexpended balances, interest, betterments, etc., they are growing rapidly, far more than sufficient to take care of our debt; but, in looking at this rapid accumulation, we are apt to forget that it is all at the expense of our taxpayers. Mr. Peabody, who was chairman of a committee last year to simplify these funds, remarked “that they were exceedingly complicated, and it is very important that some simplification should take place. If any one should go down there and see the amount of book-keeping required to keep the accounts of eight sinking funds and four revenue funds, he would be amazed and say that a simplification was very desirable.” This is the opinion of one of our most prominent bankers. Mr. Jaques, another member of the Council and largely interested in banking institutions, remarked “that our present system of the Sinking Funds not only adds nothing to the security of the debt, but that its machinery is clumsy and liable to misconstruction, and that, in fact, it does not well answer the purpose for which it is intended.” This also appears to be the opinion of almost every one of any financial ability who has given the matter any attention. Now, if we take a common-sense view of the matter, outside of the red tape and circumlocution by which these funds are surrounded, we know that our Sinking Funds now amount in round numbers to $16,000,000, to pay a debt of $31,484,000, which averages due in fifteen years. Now every one knows who has given the accumulation of money any consideration, that a Sinking Fund of $16,000,000, with its accumulations of interest will pay our debt in fifteen years, to say nothing of the additions from other sources. These additions are very considerable, and embrace all the revenue derived from liquor licenses, all betterments, the surplus earnings from the Mystic water, the sale of public lauds and the instalments from other property sold by the city. With the accumulations of interest and the additions enumerated, our debt is already provided for. There is no necessity whatever of adding these unexpended balances to these funds, balances that are taking the life blood from our taxpayers. There is no necessity whatever for taxing our people eight per cent. for loans of ten years, 3½ per cent. for loans of twenty years, or two per cent. for loans of thirty years, because the ordinance provides that when, "in the judgment of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, any sinking fund is sufficient, with its prospective accumulations and additions, to meet the outstanding debt to which it is applicable, all further taxation on account of such debt shall cease." It appears to me that we have now reached that point—that our Sinking Funds are sufficient to take care of our debt, and that no further taxation on this account is necessary. The bondholders are secured beyond all question; the credit of the city is fully provided for; our debt will be paid at maturity; and having accomplished so much, let us turn and take a look at our taxpayers and have some mercy for them. The unexpended balances this year will be about $800,000, and it will be a great relief to taxpayers if this amount is left out of the tax levy and carried over to next year's appropriations. If everything were prosperous it would not be a matter of so much importance; but now when taxation is so burdensome, any relief is desirable. Besides, departments are disposed to over-estimate their wants, and it is very frequently remarked that it makes no difference, because all unexpended balances go into the Sinking Fund. The Fire Department and fire alarms over-estimated their appropriations the last financial year $137,000, and our taxpayers were taxed for just so much more than was necessary because our Fire Commissioners blundered. This is looked upon by some in City Hall as good financiering, but it every department over-estimated in the same proportion, to what a condition it would reduce our taxpayers. They might as well surrender their property at once to the city. Now, I believe that instead of the Sinking Funds swallowing up everything, a direct tax of 8, 3½ and 2 per cent., as provided for by law, would be far better for all new loans, because then we would know what debts we are called upon to pay. The debts maturing during the next thirteen years, not including water loans, also show that we are in a strong position financially to meet all obligations. These debts (they are a little different from the figures given by the Alderman from Ward 21, but they will perhaps do to include in the statement), as taken from the Auditor's report, are as follows:

Year ending April 30, 1878.....	$1,222,500
" " " 1879.....	1,242,795
" " " 1880.....	3,018,300
" " " 1881.....	724,500
" " " 1882.....	660,500
" " " 1883.....	1,442,000
" " " 1884.....	1,118,000
" " " 1885.....	442,000
" " " 1886.....	1,306,000
" " " 1887.....	363,000
" " " 1888.....	265,000
" " " 1889.....	1,828,500
" " " 1890.....	309,500
Total for thirteen years.....	$13,942,505

Or a little more than an average of $1,000,000 per year. A debt of about $14,000,000 due in thirteen years, with a sinking fund of $16,000,000 and its accumulations of interest and additions to meet it! I do not think that any mercantile house in Boston, or any banking house, would think of resorting to balances or taxation with such material in their hands. Allowing a reasonable increase in valuations, a tax of about one dollar in a thousand would pay the entire debt maturing during the next thirteen years, to say nothing of the accumulations of our Sinking Fund during that time, which should not be allowed to increase and multiply beyond actual requirements. It appears to me clear that there is no necessity for these balances going into our Sinking Funds, now or hereafter; that our debt is already provided for, and that the taxpayers should have a rest. I hope that this order will pass, because it will reduce taxation the coming year at least $800,000, and because it can be done without impairing in the least the standing of our securities or the credit of the city.

Alderman Clark—I can see in the argument which the Alderman has just made a greater reason than I supposed to exist for asking to have this referred to the Finance Committee. Members of the same committee do not agree in their figures. One represents the debt at $33,000,000 and the other at $44,000,000—a slight difference of only ten or twelve millions.

Alderman Fitzgerald—We agree substantially. Alderman Clark—They should not agree substantially, but entirely.

Alderman Fitzgerald—We do. Alderman Clark—Now the water works have got to be provided for; they do not take care of themselves. The Cochituate water works have not paid the interest on the water debt and the cost of carrying them on by over a million of dollars; so that the water works will not take care of the bonds when they become due. The fact is that we have had this Sinking Fund accumulating on our hands, that we have been enabled to obtain money when we want it and at a very low rate, and it is from that fact that our bonds were taken during the past year at such favorable rates, five per cent. bonds bringing twelve and fifteen per cent. premium in the market. We are paying our debts, and it is the first time that I have heard that it was discreditable to a city or an individual to pay his debts, or to anticipate them if he chooses to do so. All I ask is that this matter shall be referred to the Finance Committee, so that it can be investigated, so that the figures of the committee can be made to agree, if necessary, and so that their views can be made harmonious, if possible. It is a very fortunate thing that there are such large balances of appropriations to go into the Sinking Funds, as is shown this year; and if the Fire Commissioners, in running their department in such an economical manner, have been able to turn a hundred and thirty or fifty thousand dollars into the Sinking Funds, it shows the wisdom of the commissioners who have charge of that department. It has been an unusual year in the Fire Department, and their expenditures have been unusually small; hence their ability to turn a very much larger amount into the Sinking Fund than perhaps they will be able to do for some years to come. I believe that, if these appropriations are carried forward, it will be necessary to tax the people by a direct tax for the amount required by law to be turned into the Sinking Funds. I hope that the Board will not vote upon this question unadvisedly, without knowing fully whether such is not the fact, and whether we are not required to do so by statute; whether, if these appropriations are carried forward, we shall not be required to lay a direct tax upon individuals to create this amount. The reference will make only a short delay of a few days; and it certainly can be acted upon much more intelligently than it can if we pass upon it this afternoon, when only three members of the Board have had an opportunity to investigate it.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The gentleman opposite labors under a misapprehension if he thinks there is any difference between myself and the other gentleman who is a member of the committee. We thoroughly agree that the gross debt of the city on the 31st day of January was $44,000,000. He and I agree upon that. On the 31st day of January the outstanding debt of the city, minus the cash and bonds they hold, was $31,289,937.30. He and I agree upon it; only he may perhaps have got his figures on the 1st of January and I had them on the 31st of January. If that be the only additional reason which the gentleman sees for referring the report to the Committee on Finance, it is a very poor and flimsy one. I agree with the Alderman upon the committee that if this matter is to be discussed, here is the place to discuss it, and here is the place to get information. You may have it locked up till doomsday in a committee room, and when it is reported on, the members of this Board will be just the same as regards information on the subject. I question whether they will get as much information as the Committee on Retrenchment did.

Alderman O'Brien—The fact is settled that we have a Sinking Fund of sixteen million dollars. The debt of the city outside of the water debt is about thirty-one millions. The water debt would increase our gross indebtedness to about forty-five millions. Now, with a Sinking Fund of sixteen millions, any gentleman here, any member of this Board, can count up the amount, how much it will increase and multiply in the course of thirty years. A large portion of this water debt does not come due for thirty years, and I believe that with our present Sinking Fund, with its accumulations and interest, in the course of thirty years we can pay not only our debt for general purposes, but also our water debt. With this Sinking Fund I cannot see the necessity for a dollar of taxation. The interest on the gross debt has to be raised every year—that is, we have to raise by taxation every year the interest on forty-five millions of dollars. Our general Sinking Fund of sixteen millions of dollars is drawing interest at six per cent. Then again, all the accumulations from licenses, sales of public lands and from the sales of other property, etc., are swallowed up in these funds and go into them. In fact, I do not see any necessity for taxing our citizens one dollar, if there are no extraordinary expenses, to meet our debt for the next thirty years.

Alderman Clark—I fully agree with the Alderman that this is the proper place to discuss this question, but this is not the proper time. It is not sufficiently understood. It is only this afternoon that the programme and the reasons are given why there should be a change made in the mode of conducting the Sinking Funds of the city. It is a fortunate thing, Mr. Mayor, that these balances of appropriations have been turned in to make up the Sinking Fund; for, if they had not we should have had only a Sinking Fund of five or six millions instead of sixteen. That system has proved detrimental to the cities of New York and Philadelphia—this carrying forward the unexpended balances. I do not propose to discuss the merits and demerits of this question now; but I simply ask the Board to give me an opportunity to look over this subject, and perhaps by the next meeting we shall have agreed that this is the best thing to do. I do not understand that the views of the members of the Council differed as to the importance of a Sinking Fund; it was simply in regard to the method of keeping the accounts of the Sinking Fund. That I understand to have been the views of Mr. Jacques and Mr. Peabody. It was simply as to the keeping of the accounts of the Sinking Fund, and not to the fund itself.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I want the members of this Board to understand this matter thoroughly. I agree with the Alderman opposite that it is an important matter; it is a matter of saving one million dollars this year or not, and I have no desire, as chairman of the committee, and certainly none of the other members of the committee have any desire, to press this to a vote unless the members of the Board can vote upon it intelligently. But I am decidedly opposed to referring this matter to any other committee. They have received all the information from this committee that they will obtain themselves. I have no objection to postponing it for one week more, so that members can vote intelligently upon it. So far as the Alderman referred to some other gentleman connected with the Sinking Fund Commission and the Finance Committee last year, I would state that one of the gentlemen, who is a prominent financier in this city, has stated—and his statement is in writing before the proper persons now—that certain sections in the present ordinance in relation to Sinking Funds were put into it without his knowledge, and that he thought there were certain sections put in there which would prevent the Sinking Fund Commissioners from buying up bonds before they matured. The Alderman opposite says that is a good plan. It may be, sir, that is, if a man a million dollars to spare; but if I have my carpet mortgaged it is not a good plan for me to buy a piano. If I am short of money today, it is not a good plan to buy up my note at par that does not become payable six years from now, when I feel that I can meet that note without disturbing myself. You would not say that a man was a wise man to buy up his note today, and give for it all he had. It is a mere question as to the policy, and not of the necessity, of the Sinking Funds.

Alderman Clark—I think the Alderman is mistaken in regard to the views of the eminent banker. I was present at the last meeting of the Finance Committee when this matter was brought up, and his desire was to simplify the method of keeping the accounts of the Sinking Funds, reducing them from twelve to six, but not with any intention of curtailing the funds or changing anything to prevent their accumulation. As I understood it then, and understand it now, it was his desire that the accounts should be consolidated and reduced in number from twelve to six; but at no time did he ever express any desire that any measure should be taken looking to the abandonment of this system of sustaining and creating the Sinking Funds for the redemption of the city debt. I think I am right about that, and I think that if he were questioned upon that point he would state that to be a fact.

Alderman Fitzgerald—My point was that he objected to that section of the ordinance, because under it the Sinking Fund Commissioners could buy bonds before they had matured.

Alderman Clark—I take issue with the gentleman that that is not the point which Mr. Peabody makes in regard to the Sinking Funds of the city of Boston. Now, if we take issue on such important questions, let it be referred to the Finance Committee, to learn whether we are right or not.

Alderman Viles—This is a question of vital importance, and in order to allow time for further consideration, I hope it will not be acted upon before next Monday. I believe in a Sinking Fund, and I have been trying to organize one for the last thirty years. Every thousand dollars I lay away, I think my note is worth just so much more. I hope it will go to the Committee on Finance.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move that the report be laid upon the table.

Alderman Clark—I hope that motion will not be carried. I think the best thing to be done is to refer it to the Finance Committee, and they can make their report, and then will be the time to go into the argument of the merits of the measure.

Alderman O'Brien—In the remarks I made I said not a word against maintaining the Sinking Fund. I believe it ought to be maintained. But my point is this: That our Sinking Fund has already reached the point when taxation must cease, and I believe that every sensible financier will say the same thing. With our present Sinking Fund of sixteen millions, we ought to put our feet down and say that taxation should cease.

Alderman Clark—I agree with the Alderman fully, if we have arrived at that time. Let it go to the Finance Committee to find out if we have reached that time. It is no way to find out those things by going to an assistant bookkeeper. There has been such a thing as an assistant bookkeeper making mistakes. Let it go to the proper committee to be investigated; let them make inquiries of the bookkeeper. That is the proper course for it to pursue.

Alderman Thompson—If I understand this question I do not see why we cannot settle it this afternoon as well as to have it referred to the Finance Committee and have it brought back and then discussed. It is simply that what we have left unexpended at the end of the financial year shall go towards the appropriation for the next year. A great deal has been said about the funds. Now, I don't see that we propose to touch the funds at all. That Redemption Fund will continue just as it is now without any reference to particular appropriations. There is a disadvantage in having so large an amount to be placed into the hands of the Trustees of the Sinking Funds for the reason that they are known to be desirous of investing the funds, and when they go into the market they are obliged to pay a large premium to get satisfactory security. Now, as a taxpayer of the city—and I might say the same of other taxpayers, for they do not care to go into the market and pay this six, eight or ten per cent. premium when taxes are so oppressive; and that is the result of doing this thing every year—I don't profess to know much about this question, but so far as I understand it, it is simply a problem whether we have paid our debts this year, and have got so much to pay next year, and we shall leave the Sinking Fund to take care of itself. The present amount of the Sinking Fund will take care of what we have already out.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays.

The motion to lay on the table was carried.

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Wilder—7.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Thompson, Viles—5.

Later in the session Alderman Thompson moved to take the ordinance from the table.

Alderman Clark—I hope that motion will not be carried. It seems to me it was laid on the table in order to give the Board of Aldermen an opportunity into the merits of the question.

Alderman Thompson—I rise to a point of order. The question is not debatable.

The Mayor—The question is not debatable.

Alderman Clark—It has been customary to give members of the Board an opportunity to give reasons for not taking a subject from the table. I shall rely upon the honor of the Board of Aldermen to let this matter remain upon the table in order to give me, as a member of this Board, an opportunity to investigate this matter.

Alderman Thompson—When this matter is taken from the table I will give the reasons.

The Mayor—The question is not debatable.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays. The motion to take from the table was lost—yeas 4, nays 8:

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Slade, Thompson—4.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Viles, Wilder—8.

CITY REGISTRAR AND BOARD OF HEALTH.

The order for a petition to the Legislature for an act to place the City Registrar under the Board of Health was considered under unfinished business.

Alderman Burnham—Mr. Chairman, it seems to me we should be somewhat cautious in taking any steps to inaugurate the change contemplated in this order. Boston has a system of registration of vital statistics taken as a whole of great excellence. It is the best known in any city. It is so acknowledged. It has grown up along with the existence of our city, for nearly two centuries. This order, if I understand it, is the germ from which radical changes are to come. I suppose the order to be put forth in the interest of economy—and I have no question of the sincerity of those who think it may wisely be done—but from what attention I have been able to give to the matter it seems to me to be an unwise and a false economy to carry the Registry Department to the Health Department. Now, Mr. Chairman, why should it go to that department? The work of registration is not a sanitary one. It does not come within the domain of medicine or surgery, and physicians, as such, have no more knowledge of the subject than any well-informed person who has given thought to the matter. In this matter of registration I can see no more connection with the health of the city than the thermometer has with the weather. The thermometer indicates the temperature of the weather, that is all. This registration exhibits the number of deaths and their character, but in no way suggests any measures whatever for the removal of disease. Now, to claim that the Board of Health, in order to discharge their duties, or to gain facilities to enable them the more easily to perform their duties, need the merging of the Registration Department into that of the Board of Health, is pure assumption—and I cannot concede that such a claim can be made where one has sought to properly inform himself—for even if it be necessary to ascertain where death occurs, when the fact is learned the health authorities can have no further need from this source of information. If it be advisable that the Board of Health should be put in possession of the names and character of the diseases, and where death occurred, a copy of the returns made to the City Registrar's office could be furnished the Board of Health daily. It could be made the Registrar's duty, and would create no additional expense. Boston has had a system of registration for 240 years; outside of New England there is no complete registration of vital statistics—the registration of deaths only being complete. Boston and Providence are the only two cities in the United States that are conceded to have full and accurate records of births, marriages and deaths—and in neither of these places does a board of health have charge of the registration;—and if boards of health have the matter in their hands in other places, it is simply the result of accident, and not because there is any necessity for it. The Board of Health of New York city is acknowledged to be the most thorough in its workings of any outside of New England. It is a department like ours. It was created in 1866. And allow me a few comparisons: From its first annual report we learn that, although the city's registration of deaths reaches back to 1798, not a birth or marriage was registered until 1847. That report spoke of the registry of New York city from 1847 to 1866, as almost valueless, because of its manifest incompleteness. Since then we have its annual reports, and quoting from these reports we find it proves its incompleteness by a comparison with the registration of Boston. For instance, the birth rate of Boston for a given period was one in 32 69-100 of the population, while in New York in the same period, it was one in 69 6-10 of the population. Again, the report quotes the marriage rate of Boston, in 1864, at 15 31-100 marriages for 1000 population, or 3062 in 100,000 population, while in New York the reported marriage rate for the same period was 1129½ in 100,000 population, and in such a contrast the report says, and well it may, "the incompleteness of our registration of births and marriages requires no comment." In the report of the Board of Health of New York for 1867, we read, "The number of births registered in the city of New York in the year ending September, 1866, was 12,569, not quite half the number of births that must have occurred in that period," i. e., by comparison with the carefully maintained birth records in Boston. There is also another comparison of the marriage rate of the two cities, admitting a corresponding discrepancy in the records of that city as compared with Boston.

Again, in the New York Board of Health records of 1870 it is said, "The records of marriages are extremely imperfect, and for all practical purposes wellnigh useless." The New York report of 1872 says, "The number of births recorded does not by any means represent the actual number of births which occurred in this city [New York]. The birth rate was but 23 42-100 in a 1000, while the birth rate of Boston, which is probably as accurate as any other American city, was 34 98-100 per 1000." The report further says, "This comparative discrepancy in the returns between Boston and our city is very marked, and is mainly due to the laxity of enforcement of law, and the want of proper facilities for the collection of the returns."

Now, Mr. Chairman, with our Registry Department no such laxity has ever been; and here we find a strong argument for a continuation of our present admirable system, so much better than others, that I feel we should be slow to make a change. And, Mr. Chairman, the Board of Health for New York city do not improve upon the record I have given in this comparison; for in reports since I read—"The actual birth rate and ratio of marriages yearly to the population in this city [New York] cannot be stated with entire accuracy because of incompleteness in the returns of these two branches of record." Again, "The registration of births in this city still continues to be unsatisfactory, not more than sixty-five per cent. of the total that actually occur annually are reported to the bureau." Now, Mr. Chairman, I have given you in these quotations you have allowed me to make the record of the Board of Health work in the matter of registration of vital statistics for New York city. This is the best Board of Health record we know of outside of New England. Ought we to inaugurate a change that might result in such a style of registration for Boston? What proof that more efficiency can be expected of a Board of Health in Boston than from that of New York city—the latter has had eleven years' experience—and our Health Department but three years, and that with deaths only. Our Board of Health satisfactorily performs its duties. Why add to it what in so large a measure is foreign to its work? There can be no saving to the city treasury by the change, for to maintain our system there will be no less clerical force required to do the work after being merged into the Health Department. If we have too many clerks in either department let them be discharged. In conclusion I would say it is an undeniable fact that Boston's registration of vital statistics, taken as a whole, is superior to that of every other city in the United States, except it may be the smaller city of Providence. Now, is it not unwise—is it not a false economy, to run the risk of a change from our tried and proved system, which has grown up, as I have said, along with our city for more than two centuries. Whatever may be said in favor of changes in other directions, I believe, Mr. Chairman, we should refuse to make a change in this direction, for we certainly can do better than to uproot this old Boston tree.

Alderman Wilder—I offered the order which has just been read, and in doing so I had no purpose to express my opinion upon the propriety or feasibility of merging the City Registrar in the Board of Health. I offered the order for the purpose of having legislation to enable us to do so if we saw fit. I do not presume that I shall be ready to vote for such a measure, but I believe that it is well for the city of Boston to have authority to do so if they find it expedient, and the time in which to obtain such legislation is very limited. When I offered the order I took occasion to express no opinion upon the subject. I presume I should agree with Alderman Burnham; and yet I believe that legislation on the subject is desirable.

Alderman O'Brien—It would be surprising if the City Registrar's Department did not come up for consideration. It has been a scapegoat for every City Council for some years, and it is believed by some that the City Government will never advance one step towards economy and retrenchment until this department that has quietly registered our births, marriages and deaths for seventy-five years is blotted out or absorbed by the Board of Health. Everybody knows, who has given the matter the least attention, that not one dollar could be saved by this change. On the contrary, everything that the Board of Health touches is largely increased in cost by the red tape by which it is surrounded in that department. In the hands of the Board of Health I guarantee to say that it would cost three times as much to run the Registrar's Department as it now costs. Nearly the whole expense is for clerical work, and the work is done for comparatively small pay, mostly by ladies. Now, I would ask the Board not to be deceived by this movement. There are wise heads in City Hall, where their own interests are concerned, and this matter of the City Registrar's Department is thrown in here to distract your councils. I do not mean to say that the Alderman who introduced the order had any hand in it, but I do say that it has been used for that purpose for some years past. Important changes are about to be introduced. A large reduction in expenditures is proposed, but if the wise heads of City Hall can induce the Aldermen to waste their time on the Registrar's Department, it may divide our councils, and induce us to overlook other more important matters.

If you want to economize, why not strike at the Board of Health, instead of the Registrar's Department? I guarantee to say that if this department was placed in the hands of the Superintendent of Health $50,000 per year could be saved our taxpayers, and the work more efficiently performed. If the name of Superintendent is not high-toned enough, call him Commissioner of Health; or if Commissioner of Health is not high-toned enough, call him the Honorable Commissioner of Health. We could afford to give him a title if we saved our taxpayers $50,000 per year. If you must have a three-headed commission make your Superintendent of Health, the City Physician and the Registrar your commissioners, and you save at once $12,000 per year and other expenses, or more than twice as much as the cost of the Registrar's Department. If you want to economize why not strike at the steamer Samuel Little, known in the harbor as the pleasure boat of the Board, which has cost the city $55,279 the past few years, almost as much as it has cost the Registrar's Department during the twenty-five years of its existence, with no corresponding benefit—with scarcely one vessel arriving now where ten vessels arrived a few years ago.

Last year this question, I supposed, was finally settled. After two years' discussion, a committee of which Alderman Burrage was chairman, who, when they first commenced their inquiries, believed that the change was a desirable one, reported unanimously against it, and this report was unanimously adopted by the board. This committee says—

"The duties of the Board of Health relate only to the sanitary conditions of the city, and it is invested with all the authority necessary to enable it to perform those duties effectually. It is of course necessary that it should be enabled to obtain the most reliable statistics relative to death and disease, but its power to obtain the desired information already exceeds that of the City Registrar, and it is not at all dependent upon him for it. With the facts relative to births and marriages it does not appear that the Board of Health has any concern, nor is it apparent that its efficiency would be increased were the duty of registering those facts placed under its control. It would seem, therefore, that the effect of placing the City Registrar under the control of the Board of Health would defeat the purpose of the statute relative to the registration of births, marriages and deaths, by divesting him of the personal responsibility which is contemplated by law, while at the same time it would burden the board with duties which do not legitimately belong to it. Believing, therefore, that the registration required by law is better provided for under the present system than it would be if placed under the control of the Board of Health, your committee would respectfully report that no action is necessary on the part of the City Council."

Alderman Burrage also remarked, in presenting this report—

The records of the Registrar furnish a brief but authentic history, as far as it goes, of every person born within the State. In many cases it is the only history available. Hence their preservation and correctness may involve the only proofs obtainable of the legality of marriages, the legitimacy of children, and consequently the descent of property and the distribution of estates. In my opinion it would be highly injudicious, if it were practicable, to make an office of such great importance an adjunct to an office whose functions are of an entirely different character. But I doubt the practicability of putting an officer who, from the nature of the case, is an agent of the Commonwealth, and responsible thereto, under the direction and control of a board which, under the statutes, is only accountable to the municipal corporation by which it was established. There is high authority for the opinion that "no man can serve two masters." * * * It seems to me essential that the registrar's office should be a distinct department, with no other function besides that of registering births, intentions of marriage, marriages and deaths, and making the returns required by statute; and that the department should occupy premises separate from those of any other department, easy of access, with the records so arranged that any one can at any time consult them in regard to the birth, marriage, children or death of any person whose name appears therein. In the matter of economy, there would be little if any saving by transferring the work of recording to the health office. The amount of work would be the same and the same number of clerks would be required to do it. The only chance to save would be in the possibility of dispensing with one of the two clerks now employed by the board to issue permits for burials, give duplicate certificates, register them, and inquire into correctness of returns of physicians and undertakers. I understand the board is satisfied with the manner in which the matter is now arranged, and do not desire to take charge of a work which is not in their province.

This settled the matter last year so far as our City Council was concerned, but outside parties, not satisfied with the decision, brought it before the Legislature, and the Legislature wisely refused to make the change. Is it necessary for us to go over the same ground again? I repeat, the City Registrar's Department has been used as a sort of scapegoat, and is now thrown in to interfere with your schemes of retrenchment and economy—to direct attention from other and far more important matters. In this department not a dollar can be saved, and if the men who control large expenditures of money can induce the Aldermen and Councilmen who are here only for one or two years to discuss and fight over it, and thus divide their councils, it is one point gained. This department has quietly pursued its work since the duties were transferred from the City Clerk, some twenty-five years ago, and would still be performing its work faithfully and quietly were it not for the meddlesome Board of Health, who believe they have a right to supervise every department of the city. This dignified body could not go to the Registrar's Department to obtain a report of deaths, this was altogether too much to ask of this high-toned commission, notwithstanding its records have been sought after and used by every distinguished physician and medical journal in the country. It is in fact the most perfect department of the kind in the country. In births, marriages and deaths the correctness of names is of full as much importance as the correctness of the date of death, the date of marriage, or the disease of which we die, and the following list will give some idea of the corrections made by the Registrar and not made by the Board of Health, so far as deaths are concerned:

Rebecca Caldwell died March 2, 1876—Reported Ellen Cowell.

Antonio Chiesa died March 7, 1876. Reported Tony Church.

Nellie Cross died May 18, 1876. Reported as Delma Cross.

Giovanni Battista Cunio died June 19, 1876. Reported Gianbatista Qunio.

Angelina M. Biggio died May 25, 1876. Reported as Jane Mannine. Father reported as Joseph, should be John B. or Giovanni B.

Peter J. Steffen died July 4, 1876. Reported as Peter J. Stepher.

Herbert McEnally died July 12, 1876. Reported as Hugh McAnally. Birthplace Dorchester. Reported as Boston.

Agnes Gumprich died July 28, 1876. Reported as Gunbericht.

Bridget Venullom died July 30, 1876. Reported as Harrington.

Pietro Sartarlasci died Aug. 7. Reported as Santalasi.

Lydia Ann Smith died Aug. 7. Reported as Johnson.

Jenuie Estelle Clark died Nov. 27. Reported as Estelle Goodridge.

Thomas McCuen died Nov. 8. Reported as McKowen.

Peter De Bouna died Nov. 12. Reported as De Boun.

Edbert M. Pehrsohn died Dec. 17. Reported as Pearson.

Annie Burkhardt died Aug. 22. Reported as Maria A. Burkard.

Elizabeth Zimmer died Aug. 26. Reported Cem-er.

In relation to this department it would be well to observe that there is no law or ordinance that enjoins the Board of Health to keep a correct record of deaths. Such a record does not assist in the remotest degree that body, in caring for the public health, as such records are for statistical purposes alone, and are not and never have been regarded as matters belonging to hygiene. Mortuary records have a relation to the public health analogous to that which exists between the thermometer and the temperature of the weather; they indicate the existence of disease, but in no way suggest the mode or means of cure. Epidemics like smallpox, are provided for by special laws, and are met by means wholly independent of mortuary registration. If it were desirable for the Board of Health to have a record of deaths, a faithful transcript could be made daily, in the Registrar's Department, without any extra cost to the city. Now, I want to say that after the City Council so decidedly refused to make the change last year—after the Legislature refused to make the change last year—when not a dollar can be saved by it, with every probability that it will cost three times as much if the change is made, I hope this Board will give the City Registrar's Department a rest by refusing to pass that order.

The order was rejected.

BETTERMENTS ASSUMED.

The order for the city to assume a betterment of $900 laid on the Roxbury Grammar School estate for laying out of Swett street was considered under unfinished business. Passed.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Order for the Mayor to petition the Legislature for an act to authorize the City Council to create boards of commissioners for the transaction of any municipal business, or by vote of the City Council to take from any board already created any of its present powers, or to abolish such board entirely; and that the salaries of such commissioners, once fixed, shall be unchanged. Passed in concurrence.

INVITATION ACCEPTED.

An invitation was received from the Faneuil-Hall Temperance Reform for the Mayor and Aldermen to attend the first anniversary meeting of said club at Tremont Temple, Feb. 19, at 7<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> P. M. Accepted, on motion of Alderman Clark.

HORSE RAILROAD HEARINGS.

Metropolitan. The Board took up the petition of the Metropolitan Railroad Company for permission to lay down tracks on portions of Lexington, Prescott and Liverpool streets, on which a hearing had been ordered.

C. A. Richards, president of the Metropolitan Railroad, explained the location asked for. It has been put in at the express wish of citizens of East Boston who think they are not sufficiently accommodated now.

No one appeared to object.

The matter was recommitted to the Committee on Paving, on motion of Alderman Fitzgerald.

South Boston. The Board took up the petition of the South Boston Railroad Company for leave to run cars from the southern to the northern depots over certain tracks of the Metropolitan, Middlesex and Cambridge railroads, on which a hearing had been ordered.

Benjamin Dean appeared for the petitioner, explaining the location asked for. The object is to enable the South Boston people to reach the northern depots without change of cars and for only one fare.

Mr. Richards asked how many cars they proposed to run and what was the route.

Mr. Crosby, the president of the road, said they desired to pass from Cornhill through New Washington, Haverhill, Causeway, Portland, Merrimac streets back to Washington street, and thence to South Boston by the usual route. The people of South Boston had long desired this accommodation. Heretofore the policy of the City Government has been to stop the cars at Scollay square; but the Middlesex cars are allowed to run beyond that, and the people of South Boston desire the same accommodations that the people of Charlestown have. [To Mr. Richards]—Should think they ought to be allowed to run sixteen cars per hour, as the Middlesex run twelve per hour to accommodate 40,000 people.

Mr. Richards called attention to this as one more encroachment upon the rights of the Metropolitan road, to offset the encroachment action of last year in granting the Middlesex the right to go to the Old Colony depot. The Metropolitan is crushed between the upper and nether millstones. This road bought the Suffolk road to get to the northern depots, and did not get the tracks as is now proposed. He did not remonstrate against the petition as a whole; but asked that the cars allowed to go to the depots be drawn from those now running on the overcrowded circuit. This whole system is an encroachment upon the commutation system adopted by the wisdom of a former Board. Citizens of Boston ride to the depots by paying only two cents extra. The Board should either repeal the commutation system or enforce it. Although he considered this an encroachment, he would not remonstrate against granting the petition; but the Board should put in the resolution. [To Mr. Dean]—We run probably twenty cars an hour to the depots over our own tracks.

Mr. Dean read communications from the officers of the Fitchburg, Old Colony, Lowell and Albany roads, representing that there is an increasing desire for additional horse-railroad facilities, and expressing a desire to have the petition granted. He also presented petitions of 1278 citizens, 1508 ladies, 227 people doing business in the vicinity of Summer and Beach streets, 1527 patrons of the Old Colony, 809 patrons of the Albany road, and 939 patrons of the Fitchburg Railroad, in aid of this petition. The South Boston road, he said, had been more zealous than any other in giving effect to the transfer system, and had never thrown any obstacles in the way, and had not favored the increased cost. He called attention to the law of 1862, allowing the South Boston company to enter upon and use the tracks of the Suffolk road (now owned by the Metropolitan) on condition that the Suffolk could run cars to the Old Colony depot. A year ago, not only had the cost of transfer been increased, but the Middlesex road was allowed to go to the Old Colony depot, which the Metropolitan road did not object to, for their own convenience, and by which they get substantially the same thing as was provided for in the legislation of 1862. He supposed the Board would from time to time regulate the passage of the cars in the streets. To show the extent of the calls for this accommodation he would call a few witnesses.

Policeman McDonald, stationed at the Albany depot, said he had applications every day from people for information how to get to the northern depots, and in the summer time a great deal more. Some take the South Boston cars and get a transfer check; others walk to Washington street.

Policeman Foster, stationed at the Old Colony depot, gave the same testimony in regard to passengers at that depot.

Policeman Foster had applications in the same way near the Old Colony depot; he corroborated the statements of the other witnesses.

Mr. Prescott, an employé of the South Boston road, stationed near the Old Colony and Albany depots, corroborated the previous statements. The applications are more numerous in summer than in winter.

Mr. Dean said the road was really compelled to ask for this accommodation to its patrons.

The subject was recommended to the Committee on Paving, on motion of Alderman Clark.

MIDDLESEX RAILROAD LOCATION IN HAYMARKET SQUARE.

Alderman Robinson submitted a report from the Committee on Paving, to whom was recommended the petition of the Middlesex Railroad Company "for the location of the track in Haymarket square given to the Metropolitan Railroad Company, June 29, 1874," recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That in addition to the locations heretofore granted to the Middlesex Railroad Company in several of the streets of the city of Boston there is hereby granted and confirmed to said company the location of a track commencing at a point on Washington street, at the intersection of the southerly line of Merrimac street, and extending across Haymarket square to the tracks of the Middlesex Railroad near the Boston & Maine Railroad station; said track being shown by red lines between the points "A" and "B," on a plan drawn by Barbour & Hodges, civil engineers, dated June 22, 1874, and deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets. This location is granted upon condition that the said Middlesex Railroad Company shall accept the same, and shall file said acceptance in writing with the City Clerk within thirty days after the date of the passage of this order; otherwise, it shall be null and void.

Read twice and passed.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

Report of Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment. Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following (City Document No. 20):

The joint special committee appointed to investigate the various departments of the City Government, with a view of reporting what reduction in salaries and clerical hire may be made in each department, without detriment to the public service, and also whether any department can be abolished or consolidated with any other department, beg leave to report in part, at this time, by submitting herewith ordinances fixing the salaries of the several city officers for the ensuing year.

The tables appended to this report show the amounts now paid for salaries, the amounts paid in former years, and the amount which will be saved in each department, in the item of salaries, if the ordinances are adopted. An examination of these tables will show that salaries have been steadily increased during the past ten years. Within that period the cost of living has materially decreased, a general retrenchment of expenses in all kinds of business has taken place, and rates of pay have been considerably reduced. At the present time the employes of the city are, with some exceptions, receiving larger salaries than would be paid in other corporations for like services, and, in the opinion of your committee, it would work no injustice if the salaries were to be reduced in accordance with their recommendation.

In considering the question of salaries, your committee have endeavored to inform themselves of the duties of the several officers, and to fix a salary commensurate with the services rendered. Heretofore only the salaries of the heads of departments have been fixed by the City Council, the salaries of subordinate officers, clerks and employes being fixed by the head of the department, or the committee. In many instances it is provided by ordinance that this shall be done. Your committee believe that the City Council should fix the salaries of all persons, other than day laborers, who are employed in the public service; and they, therefore, submit their recommendation in the form of an ordinance, which, if adopted, will have the effect of amending such other ordinances as may conflict with it in this respect.

As the election of city officers is at hand, it is expedient that the question of salaries should be determined. Your committee, therefore, in this report confine themselves, except in one or two instances, to that subject, and report salaries for the several positions as they now exist. Later on they will report on the question of reducing the number of employes, and on the other matters which they are directed to consider.

They respectfully recommend the passage of the following ordinances.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN E. FITZGERALD.
LUCIUS SLADE.
HUGH O'BRIEN,
WILLIAM BLANCHARD,
ROBERT VOSE, JR.
CHARLES H. REED.
GEORGE B. WEBSTER.
JAMES FAGAN.

Committee.

Following is the amount of reduction in each department: City Clerk, $2250; Clerk of Common Council, $100; Treasury Department, $3100; Auditor's Department, $2350; Collector's Department, $6900; City Engineer's Department, $2521.50; Law Department, $2300; Surveyor's Department, $3324; East Boston Ferries, $8258; Harbor Department, $100; Sealers of Weights and Measures, $500; Mt. Hope Cemetery, $300; Registrars of Voters, $300; Public Building Department, $1450; Bridges, $1942; Superintendent of Printing, $500; License Commissioners, $11,845; Markets, $705; Overseers of the Poor, $2070; Department for the Survey and Inspection of Buildings, $2150; Lamp Department, $500; Police Department, $400; Fire Department, $5738.75; Sewer Department, $638.75; Health Department, $8980; Assessors' Department, $5790; Park Department, $750; City Hospital, $760; Common and Public Grounds, $570; Street Department, $4463.25; City Registrar, $840; Public Institutions, $3560; Public Library, $2874; Water Department, $6334.25. Total, $95,164.50.

City Clerk's Office.

	1876-77.	Reductions.
City Clerk.....	$5,000	$1,000
Assistant City Clerk.....	2,000	200
1 clerk.....	2,000	400
1 clerk.....	1,800	300
1 clerk.....	1,500	150
Other clerks.....	4,200	200
Total.....	$16,500	$2,250

Treasury Department.

	1876-77.	Reductions.
Treasurer.....	$6,000	$1,000
Cashier.....	3,000	500
Bookkeeper.....	2,800	400
Teller.....	2,000	200
Debt and interest clerk.....	2,000	300
County clerk.....	1,700	100
Draft clerk.....	1,600	100
Paymaster.....	2,500	300
Paymaster.....	1,800	200
Total.....	$23,400	$3,100

Auditor's Department.

	1876-77.	Reduction.
Auditor of Accounts.....	$6,000	$1,000
Chief Clerk.....	3,000	500
Second Clerk.....	2,100	300
Third Clerk.....	1,800	200
Fourth Clerk.....	1,800	200
Fifth Clerk.....	1,600	150
Sixth Clerk.....	800	...
Total.....	$17,100	$2,350

Collector's Department.

	1876-77.	Reduction.
Collector.....	$5,000	$1,000
Chief Clerk.....	3,000	200
Cashier.....	2,600	...
Department Clerk.....	1,800	200
Teller.....	1,700	1,700
Tax Clerk.....	1,600	200
Dept. Coll. Clerk.....	1,600	200
Bookkeeper.....	1,600	200
16 Dep. Collectors at $1,600...	26,000	3,200
Total.....	$44,500	$6,900

The committee believe that the duties of cashier and teller can be performed by one person, and have so provided in the ordinance fixing the salaries for this department.

Public Building Department

	1876-77.	Reduction.
Superintendent.....	$3,600	$400
1 Assistant.....	2,000	200
1 Assistant.....	1,800	200
1 Assistant.....	1,500	250
Clerk.....	2,000	200
Office boy.....	360	...
City Architect.....	3,000	200
1 Draughtman.....	1,200	...
1 Draughtman.....	1,000	...
1 boy at $1 per day.....	313	...
Total.....	$16,773	$1,450

Markets.		1876-77.	Reduction.
Superintendent.....		$2,500	$300
Deputy Superintendent.....		1,500	300
Weigher.....		780	60
Supt. Fanenil Hall.....		500	...
Asst. Supt. Fanenil Hall.....		156	...
1 Day Watchman.....		1,140	45
2 Night Watchmen at $3.....		2,130	...
Total.....		$8,766	$705

License Commissioners.

License Commissioners.		1876-77.	Reduction.
3 Commissioners at $2,500..		$7,500	$4,500
1 Clerk of Board.....		1,700	200
1 Asst. Clerk.....		750	50
1 Clerk in office of City Clerk.		1,200	1,200
1 Clerk in Collector's office....		1,200	1,200
5 Commissioners Police at $3 estimate.....		4,695	4,695
Total.....		$17,045	$11,845

The committee recommend that the services of the clerks in the offices of the City Clerk and Collector, and also those of the Commissioners of Police, be dispensed with.

Law Department.

Law Department.		1876-77.	Reduction.
City Solicitor.....		$6,000	$1,000
First Assistant.....		3,500	500
Second Assistant.....		3,000	400
Third Assistant.....		2,500	400
Fourth Assistant.....		2,000	..
Clerk.....		1,500	..
Total.....		$18,500	$2,300

Inspection of Buildings.

Inspection of Buildings.		1876-77.	Reduction.
Inspector of Buildings.....		$3,000	$200
Clerk.....		2,000	200
Assistant Inspectors, seven at $1500 each.....		10,500	1,750
Assistant Clerk.....		1,000	..
Total.....		$16,500	$2,150

Fire Department.

Fire Department.		1876-77.	Reduction.
3 Commissioners, at $4000....		$12,000	$3,000.00
Chief Engineer.....		3,300	300.00
1 Clerk of Board.....		1,500	150.00
2 clerks, at { $1500 } { $1100 }		2,600	250.00
11 Assistant Engineers, at $1600.....		17,600	1,100.00
Fire Alarm.
Superintendent.....		2,500	200.00
4 operators, at $4 per day ..		5,840	365.00
3 repairers.....		4,380	273.75
1 battery man.....		720	...
1 repairer, West Roxbury.....		200	...
1 Chief's Messenger.....		1,000	100.00
3 hostlers, at $720.....		2,160	...
Assistants.....		....	....
Total.....		$387,820	$5,738.75

The committee also recommends that the fire boat be dispensed with, thereby effecting a saving of $14,000 a year.

Health Department.

Health Department.		1876-77.	Reduction.
Board of Health, three members, at $4000 each.....		$12,000	$3,000
Clerk of board.....		2,500	300
City physician.....		3,000	300
Assistant city physician.....		1,200	100
Inspector of Provisions.....		2,000	500
1 Clerk.....		1,500	100
2 Clerks, $1000.....		2,000	...
1 Inspector of Nuisances.....		1,700	200
1 Inspector of Nuisances.....		1,400	200
3 Inspectors of Nuisances, $1,300..		3,900	600
2 Inspectors of Nuisances, $1,200..		2,400	300
2 Inspectors of Nuisances, $1,100..		2,200	200
1 Assistant Inspector of Nuisances.		1,000	100
6 Keepers of Urinals, etc., from $450 to $720 per annum..		3,256	....
Total .....		$40,056	$5,900

In the departments of quarantine and internal health a reduction of $3080 has been recommended as follows: Port physician, $100; assistant port physician, $50; overseer at Gallop's Island, $100; captain of the quarantine boat, $140; engineer, $110; mate, fireman and cook, $300; superintendent of internal health, $300; clerks, $100; inspector of milk, $150; twelve foremen, $1410; three drivers of prison carriages, $120.

Public Institutions.

In this department reductions are recommended as follows: In the directors' office $650, as follows: Clerk of board, $300; bookkeeper, $200; assistant clerk, $150. Of $400 in the pauper expenses, as follows: Settlement clerk, $200; driver of carriage, $150; agent, $50. In the Lunatic Hospital, $280, as follows: Assistant superintendent, $150; second assistant, $100; general attendant, $30. In the House of Correction, $850, as follows: Master, $400; deputy waster, $200; chaplain, $200; clerk, $50. In the House of Industry, $600, as follows: Assistant superintendent, $100; chaplain, $150; physician, $150; clerk, $50; engineer, $100; farmer, $50. In the House of Reformation, $300, as follows: Superintendent, $150; teacher of music, $150. In the almshouse at Deer Island no reduction is made.

The salary of the captain of the J. Putnam Bradlee is reduced from $1380 to $1200, and that of the engineer from $1200 to $1050.

The committee recommend that the number of persons employed in the department and the rates of pay be subject to the approval of the Committee on Public Institutions.

The Public Library.

The Public Library.		1876-77.	Reduction.
Superintendent.....		$3600	$300
Assistant Superintendent.....		2,500	300
Principal Assistant.....		1,600	150
Office Secretary.....		1,800	200
Despatch Clerk.....		1,200	100
Assistant Office Secretary .....		700	50
Anditor and Cashier.....		800	50

The committee further recommend that the salaries of the following officers be reduced: Proof Reader, $200; Assistants, $100; Keeper Patent Room, $50; Assistant, $50; General Cataloguer, $50; First Cataloguer, $50; Curator, $50; Chief Receiving Clerk, $50; Assistant, $50; Custodian, $100; Keeper Bates Hall, $100; Assistants, $100; Keeper Lower Hall, $100; Assistant Keeper, $500; Registration Clerk, $100; Chief Janitor, $100; Assistant $50; Foreman of the Bindery, $100; First Assistant, $94; two Assistants, $80; total, $2874.

The Water Department.

The Water Department.		1876-77.	Reduction.
Three Commissioners.....		$10,500	$500
Clerk of Board.....		2,000	200
Water Registrar.....		3,000	200
Superintendent Western Div.....		3,000	300
Superintendent Eastern Div.....		3,500	500
Water Registrar, Mystic Dept....		2,500	250
Superintendent .....		1,800	200

The committee also recommend the reduction of salaries in the following cases: First Collection Clerk, $30; five Clerks, $1400; Inspector of Meters, $100; Management, $100; eight Inspectors, $626; Clerk in shutting-off department, $200; Assistant Superintendent eastern division, $200; Chief Clerk, $100; Engineer at Roxbury, $150; Assistant, $80; three Foremen, $450; Assistant Registrar and Clerk, $200; Assistant Superintendent, $200; Foreman, $78.25; total, $6334.25. The committee is of opinion that inasmuch as the statute under which the board is organized provides that the salaries of the members shall not be diminished during their terms of service, it would be for the best interests of the city if the statute could be so amended as to give the power of fixing salaries unqualifiedly into the hands of the City Council.

Miscellaneous Departments.

The salaries in the department of Overseers of the Poor have been reduced $2070, as follows: Secretary, $200; Settlement Clerk, $150; Bookkeeper, $100; Clerk, $20; Visitors, $1000; Engineer, $150; Janitor, $150; Temporary Visitors for winter, $300.

A reduction of the salary of the Superintendent of the Lamp Department has been made from $3300 to $2800.

A reduction of the salary of the Chief of Police is proposed from $3500 to $3300, and that of the Deputy from $2500 to $2300. The committee are of the opinion that no reduction, except as shown above, should be made in the pay of the present members of the force; but they recommend that the pay of all patrolmen appointed after this date be fixed at $2.50 per day for the first two years' service, $2.75 per day for the third year, and $3 per day for succeeding years. If this recommendation is adopted it is believed that the item of salaries will be reduced about $20,000 or $30,000 per annum.

In the Sewer Department a reduction of $638.75 is recommended as follows: Superintendent, $300; Assistant Superintendent and Draughtsman, $165; First Foreman, $100; Clerk, $73.75.

In the Assessors' Department a reduction of $5790 has been recommended as follows: Chairman, $300; four Assessors, $1200; thirty-three First Assistants, $1650; thirty-three Second Assistants, $2640.

A reduction in the salary of the clerk of the Park Department has been recommended from $1800 to $1150.

In the City Hospital the salaries of the officers have been marked down $760, as follows: Superintendent, $300; Steward, $200; Head Cook, $200; Baker, $60.

In the Department of Common and Public Grounds a reduction of $570 has been advised, as follows: Superintendent, $300; Assistant Superintendent, $150; foreman and gardener, $60 each.

In the Street Department a reduction of $4463.25 has been recommended, as follows: Three commissioners, $1500; clerk of board, $200; Superintendent of Streets, $400; chief clerk, $200; office clerks, $421.25; ten foremen, $1742.

In the City Registrar's office a reduction of $840 is proposed, as follows: City Registrar, $500; principal clerk, $200; three clerks, $140.

The amount allowed for clerk hire in the office of the Clerk of the Common Council is reduced from $1200 to $1100. No change is made in the office of Clerk of Committees, and none in the City Messenger's office.

The salary of the City Engineer is reduced from $5000 to $4500; principal assistant from $3300 to $3000; and the salaries of engineers, clerks, etc., a sufficient amount to effect a total reduction of $2521.50.

In the Department of Bridges a reduction of $1942 is recommended, as follows: Salary of Superintendent of Mt. Washington-avenue Bridge reduced $200; Federal street, $300; Broadway, $300; Meridian street, $100; Charles River, $150; Congress street, $400; Warren, $150; Cambridge, West-ern-avenue and North Harvard-street, $50; Malden, $100; Chelsea, $192.

The salary of Superintendent of Printing is reduced from $2500 to $2000.

The City Surveyor's salary is reduced from $3600 to $3100; the assistants from $2300.55 to $2000; and other reductions are made amounting to $3324.

The salary of the Superintendent of East Boston Ferries is reduced from $2500 to $2200; clerks from $3000 to $2700; Assistant Clerk from $1200 to $1050, and other reduction in salaries of ferry employes, amounting to $8258.

The salary of the Harbor Master is reduced from $1800 to $1700, and the report says the committee are of the opinion that the Harbor Master should be invested with police powers and placed in charge of the police boat.

The only change proposed in the salaries of sealers of weights and measures is a reduction of $500 in the salary of one sealer now receiving $2000.

The salary of the Superintendent of Mt. Hope Cemetery is reduced from $2000 to $1700.

The salary of the Registrars of Voters is reduced from $2500 to $2400.

Appended to the report are ordinances establishing the salaries as indicated in the report.

The ordinances were read once.

Report of Joint Standing Committee on Salaries. Alderman Dunbar submitted the following (City Doc. 22):

The Joint Standing Committee on Salaries beg leave to submit herewith orders establishing the salaries of the several city officers for the year beginning on the 1st day of April, 1877. The committee, in compliance with the third section of the joint rules and orders, have confined themselves to the consideration of the salaries of elected and appointed officers, and have not attempted to fix the salaries of subordinate officers and employes, believing that the committees in charge of the several departments are competent to deal with that question.

In considering this subject, the committee have held several meetings, and, after taking up each office separately, and thoroughly discussing its duties, they have endeavored to arrive at a just decision regarding the amount of salary appropriate therefor.

In some cases it was manifest that a reduction might be fairly made, and without detriment to the public service, and in such cases it has been so recommended in this report. In a great many instances, however, it appeared to your committee that the different amounts at present allowed could not justly be reduced, as the compensation was only moderate, taking into consideration in each case the duties and responsibilities attached to the office. In numerous departments these duties and responsibilities have been very largely increased within a few years, and the advance in salaries has not been out of proportion to such increase.

With a view of ascertaining whether the city is paying larger salaries to its officers than private corporations for corresponding services, the committee have made inquiries, the result of which has satisfied them that salaried officers of the city are receiving no more, and in some instances not so much, as the officers of such corporations.

In the Mayor's inaugural address for the present year occurs the following:

"I am not for a niggard economy—an economy which is mean and unworthy a community refined, educated, liberal and cosmopolitan, such as we claim and boast to be. I know the wauts, spirit and policy of my native city. The pride and patriotism of her sons will supply whatever her safety and well-being require; whatever the defence of her commercial, manufacturing, educational, sanitary and other great and vital interests may call for; whatever her honor demands."

Your committee think that it is pertinent to apply this view to this very subject of salaries, as well as to other important measures under consideration by this City Government. The high and almost unlimited credit which the city of Boston everywhere enjoys is certainly due, in no small degree, to the well-known ability and integrity of its city officers. In passing upon this question of salaries, it should be borne in mind that this standard should be maintained, and that in its selection of officers the aim of the city should be now—as it has been in the past—to insist on getting the very best.

Your committee believe it would be mistaken economy for the city to enter upon a general and radical reduction of the salaries of officers of recognized ability and tried integrity, and thus, perhaps, open the field to a grade of men who might, through their inability and inexperience, should they obtain responsible positions under the City Government, occasion a loss to the city greater than the amount saved by the reduction of salaries.

The general depression of all kinds of business and the recognized fact that business men are not making the profits of previous years, being sometimes urged as reasons for a general reduction of salaries, it is to be remembered that this state of affairs must, of necessity, prove but temporary; and that when business revives, and money is again being made, salaried officers continue at routine salaries, and do not partake of the general prosperity. These salaries have not been, and your committee believe are not now, considered to be excessive by citizens best qualified to judge of the question. The changes proposed in the salaries and allowances for clerk hire, established during the last salary year, are as follows: Increase of $250 in the salary of the clerk of committees; $200 in the salary of the assistant clerk of committees; $200 in the salary of the Third Assistant Solicitor; $200 in the salary of the Superintendent of Public Lands. Total amount of increase, $850.

Reductions—$500 in the salary of the City Clerk; $100 in the allowance for clerk hire in the office of the City Clerk; $1000 in the salary of the Auditor of Accounts; $1000 in the allowance for clerk hire in the office of the Auditor of Accounts; $500 in the salary of the Collector of Taxes; $800 in the allowance for extra clerk hire in the office of the Collector; $100 in the salary of each Deputy Collector; $500 in the salary of the City Solicitor; $300 in the salary of the First Assistant Solicitor; $200 in the salary of the Second Assistant Solicitor; $200 in the salary of the Fourth Assistant Solicitor; $400 in the salary of the Sealer of Weights and Measures; $500 in the salary of Inspector of Buildings; $250 in the salaries of the Assistant Inspectors of Buildings; $500 in the salaries of the Board of Fire Commissioners; $250 in the salary of the Inspector of Provisions; $500 in the salaries of the Board of Health; $300 in the salary of the Superintendent of Health; $500 in the salary of the City Registrar; $860 in the allowance for clerk hire in the office of the City Registrar; $300 in the salary of the Superintendent of Sewers; $300 in the salary of the Superintendent of Faneuil-Hall Market; $250 in the salary of the Deputy Superintendent of Faneuil-Hall Market; $500 in the salary of the Superintendent of the City Hospital; $250 in the salaries of three of the members of the Board of Assessors.

Total amount of reduction.....$16,360.00
Net reduction.....$15,510.00

Respectfully submitted

GEORGE DUNBAR.
JAMES H. DANFORTH.
JOAQUIN K. SOUTHER.
ISAAC P. CLARKE.

Appended to the report are the usual orders establishing salaries for the year 1877-1878. The orders were read once.

Subsequently, Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order—That five hundred extra copies of the report of the Joint Special Committee on the Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses be printed for the use of the City Council.

Alderman Clark moved to amend by authorizing the printing of the same number of extra copies of the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries, which Alderman Fitzgerald accepted, and the order as amended was passed. Sent down.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:

Miuors' Applications Granted—Twenty-two newsboys.

Wagon Licenses Granted—George W. White & Co., 64-66 Union street; Edward Pierson, 600 Broadway; John Sweeney, 280 Third street; William H. Reynolds, 2 and 4 Faneuil Hall square.

Pawnbrokers Licensed—Ezra S. Bliss, 273 Hanover street; Lewis Myers, 6 Howard street (transfer from S. S. Thorner).

Pawnbroker's License Refused—S. Silber, 325 Hanover street.

Hack Licenses Granted—L. A. Noyes, Park-square Hotel; B. W. Nelson, Milk street, at lower end of the post office; Hiram Stearns, in front of Second Church, Boylston street.

Billiard License Granted—Henry Schoindorf, 19 Boylston street.

Junk Collectors Licesued—Frank B. Stark, 1 Hovey's court; Thomas Gentile, 140 Merrimac street.

Dealer in Second-hand Clothing Licensed—Henry Phillips, 156 East Dover street.

Innholder's License Granted—Bell & Johnson, Quincy House.

Severally accepted.

STONY BROOK IMPROVEMENT.

The following was received, read and laid on the table and ordered to be printed:

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen—The Board of Street Commissioners beg leave to respond herein to your order of April 24 last, requesting a report upon the matter of deepening and straightening the channel of Stony Brook from Tremont street in Roxbury to Forest Hills, with an approximate estimate of the cost of such improvement, the amount likely to be realized in betterments, etc., etc.

They looked first at the legislative acts authorizing the work and the steps already taken under them by the former town of West Roxbury. They found that an act of 1868 permitted the town of West Roxbury and the city of Boston, each acting independently of the other, and within the limits of its own territory, to take the fee of land required to widen and straighten the channel and deepen the bed of Stony Brook, and to assess not in excess of one-half the cost each upon the basis of its own expenditures and within its own municipality. This did not satisfy the city of Boston, and it declined to proceed under the act. A further act of 1870 allowed the town and city to contract together that a part of the expense in one might be paid by the other, and the sum so paid used, with the amount expended within the boundaries of the municipality so paying, as a basis for the assessment upon the lands benefited of the cost of the alterations in the course of the brook therein. Under the latter law the city still remained inactive, but West Roxbury elected for herself a board of three commissioners to exercise the powers granted for the improvement of the brook by both acts referred to. Surveys were made, and by the several votes of Jan. 9, 1871, Dec. 10, 1872, and Dec. 11, 1873, strips of land covering the entire length of the course of the brook within the town, from the Boston to the Hyde Park boundary, were condemned by these commissioners for the uses specified. The damages to estates under these proceedings have been quite generally settled by the town or by the city since annexation. The total expenditure to this time, including the construction of the new channel under Washington street at Forest Hills, the Street Commissioners find to be about $69,000. Since the annexation of West Roxbury to Boston, an act of 1874 allows the city to go on with this work in substantially the same way provided for in the previous acts, with the difference that the stream shall not be made or used as a sewer, and that the whole expense of the improvement may be assessed to the benefited lands, if they can be shown to have received such an extent of benefit.

With this information the Street Commissioners thought it advisable to learn from the interests upon the stream just what course in their opinion the improvement of it should take, and how much of the burden of its cost the improved lands would bear. A meeting of the land owners was called. A large number presented themselves, including, however, but a very few whose properties would be the most directly benefited by the reduction of the injurious overflows. Little of importance could be gathered from those who did come. They complained of the culverts through which the stream passes in Roxbury as insufficient for the volume of water in the spring and after long rains. Their enlargement was the needed remedy. Changing the course of the brook above them, would help nothing if it were not widened. This change of course would injure land owners, taking valuable land and leaving the naked bed of the old stream traversing their estates, which, if discontinued to them, would not be worth the cost of filling. Others doubted if upon the completion of the new course the fall would be sufficient to accomplish the intended object. Upon the question of betterments they appeared to be of the united opinion, reached by various methods of reasoning, that the difficulties were of a kind that should be removed by the city at its own expense. A remonstrance from one owner against any assessment of his property is transmitted to you with this statement.

The Street Commissioners were not encouraged to hold further meetings with the proprietors upon the brook.

Leaving the matter as it was arranged by her Board of Commissioners within the former township of West Roxbury, the Street Commissioners have looked at the course to be pursued in helping forward the flow of water from there to its outlet. Upon its arrival at Pynchon street, nothing better could be recommended than its transfer to that street, but for its almost complete pre-occupation with water and gas pipes and sewer. Even a reasonable widening of this street would not make room for the brook under it. The next best way seems to be to take it from New Heath street through the estates on the west side of Pynchon street at midway between that street and the Boston & Providence Railroad. In point of construction this is the cheapest. Estimation of land damages by this route is difficult. It divides the estates it passes through into two equal parts, and the city taking the fee of the lands the owners of the estates would be shut off from that part of their properties between the brook and the railway. If, however, the brook could be run under arches, with rights in the property holders to use their surface subject to an uninterrupted flow of water beneath and the entrance of the city for necessary repairs, undoubtedly satisfactory terms could be made with them. The only alternative the Street Commissioners suggest is the improvement of the present channel on the westerly side of the same estates where it now runs beside the Boston & Providence Railroad. The building damages are much larger by this line than by the first mentioned.

The land and building damages, in default of negotiation with owners, which the commissioners estimate for the remainder of the brook to be improved between West Roxbury line and the Metropolitan Railroad stable on Tremont street, and which are all damages of that nature remaining to be paid on the course of the stream above the last named point, are about $53,000. The cost of construction on the part yet to be relocated, as well as what remains unfinished of the part condemned in West Roxbury, the Superintendent of Sewers places at about $80,000.

The figures, then, are—

Already paid for land damages and construction in West Roxbury.....	$69,000
Additional land and building damages in Old Roxbury.....	53,000
Completion of construction from Hyde Park to Tremont street.....	80,000
	$202,000

The betterment to be returned is scarcely a matter to be now determined. The interested parties, as the commissioners are not unapt to find in their legitimate province of street widening, can imagine only the minimum conceivable, if any. The interdependence of the empowering acts is such that the commissioners judge a legal opinion necessary upon the amounts chargeable and their distribution over the territory. At any rate, the completion of the enterprise and the final and effectual relief of the lands upon the brook from overflow at stages of high water would enable a better judgment to be formed of the benefits conferred.

As to the great benefit to that portion of the community gathered within its influence of the removal from among them of so patent a source of discomfort and disease as an overflowing water-course, the commissioners do not suppose your honorable Board needs the slightest suggestion.

The question of the diversion of the water in the brook to a long distance from its present course, and through another town, the Street Commissioners think rather one of State legislation and engineering than for their consideration.

By order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

J. H. JENKINS, Clerk.

COMMERCIAL STREET WIDENING.

The following was received, read, laid on the table and ordered to be printed:

BOSTON, Feb. 19, 1877.

To the Honorable City Council—The Street Commissioners have received, since their board was established, a yearly supply of petitions for the widening of Commercial street. Some also descended to them from the unfinished business of the honorable Council when the board succeeded it in laying out and widening streets. These petitions are uniformly representative of the best commercial class. Their object is to obtain the completion of the marginal avenue begun in the construction of Atlantic avenue, in 1868, continued by the widening of Broad street after the great fire of 1872, and now needing only this Commercial-street widening to provide the city proper with a useful thoroughfare along almost its entire water front. Such petitions were reinforced in 1876 by others from the people actually engaged in business on the street and owners and occupants of the tenement buildings. They are urgent in their demands for relief from the existing conditions there. The freight railroad, with its increasing traffic, amounts to an almost total exclusion of the private trucking, upon which their business depends, while it is impracticable for the railway to serve many of the wharves itself on account of the very limited spaces it has in which to turn upon them. The injury to the inhabitation of so narrow a street from the constant passage of daily and nightly steam-power trains is not overstated in the petitions.

During all the time that this subject has been under consideration the commissioners have come much in contact with all the varieties of interest in it.

In July last they thought a proper time had come to call all these together by public advertisement for a first expression of opinion as to the amount and manner of such a widening. A plan of the street with abutting estates was prepared to assist them. They could fix no line upon it at that time, but the wharf owners present generally desired that their property should be spared in the cutting, and the larger number were for a hundred feet of width. The meeting was adjourned until the commissioners could digest the opinions they had received and determine from them upon a line they could offer for the abutters' approval. This was ready by November and another meeting was called for its exhibition. It was a modification and blending of the various views first obtained. The beginning was at Eastern avenue, where it intersects Commercial street, gradually reducing from one hundred feet wide to eighty by the time the cutting reached Clark street, and continuing through at that width. For that continuation an alternative was offered, one line cutting entirely upon the water side, and the other widening upon the water side only so far as was necessary to overcome the projection at Eastern avenue, then changing to the land side where it remained till it reached the gas works, there crossing again to the wharves and thence going through to the Charles River Bridge. Estimates submitted with the plan made the cost on the wharves $750,000, and on the land side $800,000, including no grade damages. The plan met with little favor. The wharf owners who saw it were quite united against any absorption of their wharves for street purposes. They were already too shallow for the present business and could ill spare anything if a widened street was to increase it. There was no division upon the needful width. It should be 100 feet.

The commissioners with this repetition of the testimony in support of the greater width cut from the inland side of the street, took the matter into a second and serious consideration. They are, upon review of it, more and more inclined to the almost united public opinion upon it. Its commercial value is its strongest support throughout, and an increase in that would certainly be found in the widest street with undiminished wharfrage.

Looking to that, the commissioners have sketched a fresh line upon their plan, by which they get a hundred-feet avenue, in continuation of Atlantic avenue, cutting, except in the immediate vicinity of Eastern avenue, entirely upon the southwesterly or inland side of the street till Charter street is reached. For the time being, it is thought prudent to reduce it here to sixty feet, to avoid the costly buildings of the Gaslight Company in this part of the street. Other occupation of this land, there being at present no wharves to be entered from the street between Charter street and the bridge, will admit of a cheaper expansion of the street to the full 100 feet than is now possible.

This widening of Commercial street, in continuation of the marginal street already found in Atlantic avenue, to one hundred feet on the inland side to Charter street, and thence to sixty feet on to the Charles River Bridge, including the grade damages that will occur from the widening on that side, the Street Commissioners have approximately estimated at a round million of dollars.

They have conferred with the wharf owners and understand them to be willing to state to the board, after agreement among themselves in the matter, what proportion of the estimated cost they will pay the city in the form of betterments to their properties. Such information can be conveyed to the honorable Council, or the properly-designated committee, upon the receipt of the commissioners. It has been intimated to these land owners that one-quarter of the above-mentioned estimate would be a proper proportion for them to return in that form.

The commissioners would prepare themselves to report favorably upon this project to the honorable Council, with their order for widening the street, for your concurrence, if it were advisable that the expensive surveys and preliminary exact estimation of the damages should be undertaken before your opinion had been obtained upon the propriety of raising such a sum of money at this time as is required for this purpose.

Expressing themselves, then, as of one mind that the best interests of the community generally, and the great needs of that particular locality, require, in their opinion, the action they have herein proposed, they respectfully inquire of your honorable body if you will so appropriate such money, and desire the commissioners to send to you their order for widening this street.

The Street Commissioners wish to impress upon the Council their opinion that the rights of the inhabitants imperatively demand that the proper steps be taken, if the Council deems it unadvisable to widen Commercial street, to relieve the residents and business people there of the presence of the railway that now oppresses them.

By order of the Board of Street Commissioners.
J. H. JENKINS, Clerk.

AUSTIN FARM BUILDINGS.

Alderman Clark submitted a report from the Committee on Finance on report and request in relation to Austin Farm buildings, etc., recommending the passage of an order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the appropriation for House of Correction to that for Austin Farm the sum of $5000. Read twice and passed—yeas 12, nays 0. Sent down.

THE PROPOSED PARK ON BACK BAY.

Alderman Clark submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Streets, That the petition of Samuel N. Brown, Jr., et al., that the lot between Huntington avenue and St. James avenue be laid out as a public street or square, be referred to the Committee on Common and Public Grounds. Accepted and referred accordingly. Sent down.

CROSS-DAM.

Alderman Clark offered an order—That the Joint Standing Committee on Streets be authorized to arrange with the Commissioners of Public Lands of this Commonwealth for the conveyance to the city of the cross dam, otherwise known as Parker street, as provided in chapter 286 of the acts of the year 1874, upon such terms and conditions as the said committee may deem best for the interest of the city.

Read twice and passed. Sent down.

REQUEST FOR ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION.

Alderman O'Brien submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Printing, representing that the March draft will exhaust their appropriation.

Items of extraordinary expenditure have been—

For 1000 copies of Revised Ordinances.....	$4,548.02
For 3000 copies of Park Report (second and third editions).....	2,116.97
Report of Record Commissioners.....	842.46

$7,507.45

The committee request an additional appropriation of $4500 to meet the deficiency.

Alderman O'Brien briefly explained that the extraordinary expenditures were ordered by the City Council and were not contemplated by the committee when the estimates were made up.

Referred to Committee on Finance. Sent down.

UNLICENSED DOGS.

Alderman Clark offered an order—That the Committee on Ordinances be requested to report an ordinance requiring that all dogs running at large shall be muzzled.

Alderman Fitzgerald moved to amend so that the committee would consider the expediency of reporting such an ordinance.

Alderman Clark accepted the amendment, and the order as amended was passed. Sent down.

STATE ALLOWANCE FOR ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the General Court at its present session for a further allowance of $3300.36 for the year 1875, and $6856.44 for the year 1876, for rent of armories, in addition to the sums which have already been paid to the city on that account. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

LANDS FORFEITED.

Alderman O'Brien, from the Committee on Public Lands, submitted orders to declare forfeited to the city for non-fulfilment and breach of conditions of sale, the lot of land on Bristol and Albany streets, shown on plan of city lands sold, recorded in book 2, folio 211, which was bargained and sold to Joseph F. Paul, Aug. 14, 1871, and for the Superintendent of Public Lands to take possession of the same, and to cancel bond No. 2448 given for said land. Severally read twice and passed. Sent down.

MARKET.

Alderman Slade submitted a report from the Committee on Market recommending approval of transfer of lease of cellar 100 New Faneuil Hall Market by Cheney, Upham & Co. to L. E. Pierce. Accepted.

PERMITS FOR STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board—That leave be granted on the usual conditions to occupy stables by F. D. Osgood, Cedar street, Ward 21; John McNelly, Downer street, near Tremont; S. & R. J. Lombard, corner Canal street and Frothingham avenue. Severally accepted.

NOMINATIONS.

Alderman Dunbar submitted a report from the Joint Special Committee to nominate Inspectors of Lighters, recommending the election of Edward Hatch, chief; John Kenney, John G. Cadigan, William Dolan. Accepted. Sent down.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Clark.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records and the role of the committee in this regard.
 It is noted that the committee has been working closely with the relevant departments to ensure that all necessary information is collected and analyzed in a timely manner. The results of this work will be presented in the following sections.

The second part of the document provides a detailed overview of the findings of the investigation. It is clear that there have been several areas where improvements are needed. These include the need for more frequent communication between the committee and the relevant departments, as well as the need for more comprehensive data collection. The committee believes that these changes are essential for ensuring the accuracy and reliability of the information used in decision-making.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

FEBRUARY 23, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Reference to Committee on Finance of a request of the Committee on Printing for an additional appropriation of $4500. (City Doc. No. 23.) Concurred.

Report of reference to the Committee on Common, etc., of petition of Samuel N. Brown, Jr., et al., that a certain lot of land be laid out as a public square. Accepted in concurrence.

Order for Mayor to petition for further allowances of $3336 for 1875, and $6856.44 for 1876, for rent of armories. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Orders that the lot of land of Joseph F. Paul, on Albany and Bristol streets, be forfeited to the city, and for Collector to cancel the bond for said lot. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order to print 500 extra copies each of the reports on Retrenchment and Salaries. (City Docs. 20 and 22 respectively). Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order to consider expediency of reporting an ordinance requiring dogs running at large to be muzzled. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Report nominating as Weighers and Inspectors of Lighters, Edward Hatch (Inspector in Chief), John Kenney, John J. Caddigan and William Dolan. Accepted in concurrence.

Order to arrange with the Commissioners of Public Lands for conveyance to the city of the Cross Dam, otherwise known as Parker street. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Report and order for a transfer of $5000 from the appropriation for House of Correction to that for Austin Farm. Order passed to a second reading.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order to provide furniture for Grammar School-house, Florence District; cost not to exceed $2000. Passed. Sent up.

SECOND ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

The ordinance to amend an ordinance concerning the assessment and collection of taxes, to abolish the Second Assistant Assessors, was considered under unfinished business.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—Mr. President, last week, when this order came before the Council, I expressed a doubt in regard to the wisdom of such a measure, and since that time I have made some inquiries upon this subject and the impression I have since got fully confirms that opinion; and I think, sir, that this order is one of doubtful expediency and would have a tendency to impair the efficiency of the Board of Assessors, and instead of being a measure of economy, would have an entirely different result than that contemplated by the originators of the order. Now, sir, the principal argument that has been used in favor of this project is this: "That these men, being chosen by the City Council, are of inferior quality so far as ability is concerned." Well, sir, they are chosen in the same way that the First Assistants are, and the same committee make the nominations. Now I submit this question: Is not that an acknowledgment that we are able to select a good board of First Assistants, but we are not able to select a good board of Second Assistants? Certainly we do not exhaust the list of able men by selecting thirty-three for these positions. Now, sir, I take it that is not a reasonable statement, and that we can procure just as good men on one board as on the other. In talking with some of the First Assistant Assessors (and I believe they are men well qualified to judge the merits of the case), I find they do not hold to the same views that the Principal Assessors are quoted as having expressed (and they claim that they have been misrepresented in the matter); they take the ground that if two good men go together they are more apt to secure an equitable assessment, and are less liable to make mistake, besides a person might be chosen who would be unduly influenced in valuing property if it depended entirely upon his judgment; in support of this theory we have but to look at the law passed by the last Legislature in regard to the investment of the funds of the savings bank. It provides that not less than two officers of the bank shall examine the property before a loan is effected, showing the opinion of the Legislature upon this very point, and commends the system we now have in vogue. If it is desired to reduce the expenses of that department $10,000, why not make a general reduction in the salaries as in the other departments, and not by the adoption of such radical measures as this, especially where there is the least doubt of the wisdom of the proposed change? This department is one of the most important ones; from its source is derived nearly our entire revenue, and the city cannot afford to adopt any experimental change which might involve the efficiency of the department in the least. I hope the ordinance will not pass.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—Before this ordinance is passed it ought to be referred to the Committee on Ordinances in order to determine whether it is in proper shape or not. It is the general understanding that all ordinances shall be submitted to the Committee on Ordinances before they are passed. If the Council is going to refuse to pass the ordinance, it would save all question on that point; but I move that it be referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—It seems to me that it is hardly necessary to have this matter referred, and that we can decide it now and here. I think it can be clearly shown that it is not expedient to do away with the Second Assistant Assessors, and for many reasons. I can cite one point which has come under my own observation in my ward. For instance, last year we had two men as First Assistant Assessors who were assigned to Ward 20—one a man living in South Boston, the other in Ward 19—and the Second Assistant Assessor for that ward was a gentleman who has been connected with that office for the last five years. As a rule—and, I believe, in fact, it has always been—the Second Assistant Assessor has been a resident of the ward or district to which he has been assigned; and for that reason it seems to me that he would have a better knowledge of the property in that ward than a First Assistant Assessor would have who is a resident of a distant ward. Then there is another point; it is not entirely the assessing or valuing of real estate that we are dependent upon for our revenue; it is largely made up of personal property, and in the various trades, and many of the Second Assistant Assessors have a knowledge of many of those trades in their wards. It seems to me that they are of value on that account, and would save perhaps three times—perhaps ten times—the amount of the salaries that they receive. Then there might be one Assessor going through the ward alone, and an undue influence might be brought to bear upon him; he might be influenced to favor some; but if he had a Second Assistant with him that would not be the case. I do not accuse any Assessor of doing anything wrong, but it seems to me that it would be a check upon the First Assistant to have a Second Assistant with him. The citizens of Boston pay forty-two per cent. of the whole taxes of the State; for that reason the valuation of property is a matter of vital importance to the people of this city, and I believe it is not a matter of economy to do away with these Second Assistant Assessors. We should see that the most efficient men that could possibly be got are elected, not only for the First, but for the Second Assistants. I do not believe in the present system of valuing property; but I believe that the Second Assistants are of great value if we have got to have that system. I hope we shall not do away with the Second Assistants. There are many other points that I might cite, but I think I have cited enough, for I think members of the Council have looked into the matter enough during the past week to say that the abolition of the Second Assistant Assessors should not take place.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—In order that we may determine whether the Council is desirous of passing this ordinance or not, I will withdraw the motion to refer to the Committee on Ordinances, and move that the ordinance be indefinitely postponed. If the Council votes not to indefinitely postpone I will renew the motion to refer.

The motion to indefinitely postpone was declared carried. Mr. Webster of Ward 3 doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 the yeas and nays were ordered.

The motion to indefinitely postpone prevailed—yeas 43, nays 21:

Yeas—Messrs. Beeching, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Felt, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullaue, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, Pope, Pratt, Roach, Roberts, Sibley, Smardon, Souther, Stone, Upham, Vose, Warreu, E. R. Webster, Wilbur—43.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Blodgett, Crocker, Danforth, Fagan, J. J. Flynn, Ham, Hibbard, Howes, Nugent, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Reed, J. B. Richardson, Ruffin, Shepard, Thompson, Thorudike, G. B. Webster—21.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Hiscock, Mowry, Pearl, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Spenceley, Wolcott—7.

ELECTIONS.

Superintendent of Public Buildings. Mr. Beeching of Ward 1 moved that the Council proceed to an election for Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I should like to ask if the gentleman intends to go into a general election tonight? If not, I shall oppose making any special favor and electing any special person tonight. I think it is best to lay all those nominations upon the table till the Committee on Retrenchment make their report.

Mr. Beeching—I am in favor of going into a general election and getting rid of all these ballots on our desks.

The Council voted to proceed to an election. Committee—Messrs. Shepard of Ward 4, Kelley of Ward 6, Barnard of Ward 24.

Whole number of ballots.....	62
Necessary for a choice.....	32
James C. Tucker.....	59
Charles Jenkins.....	1
John M. Marston.....	1
John H. Lee.....	1

And Mr. Tucker was declared elected. Sent up.

Assessors. Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved to take from the table the nominations of city officers.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Is a motion of that kind proper at this time under the rule?

The President—It is not exactly in order at this time.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Then I move a suspension of the rule, that I may make the motion at this time.

The rule was suspended, and on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 the nominations were taken from the table.

On motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 the Council proceeded to an election of Assessors.

Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Smardon of Ward 10, Reed of Ward 17.

Whole number of ballots.....	64
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Thomas Hills.....	46
Benjamin Cushing.....	52
Benjamin F. Palmer.....	64
Horace Smith.....	31
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	49
Edward F. Robinson.....	31
Joshua S. Dunklee.....	27
George S. Pendergast.....	13

And one ballot containing six names, not counted.

Messrs. Hills, Cushing, Bancroft and Palmer were declared elected, and a ballot was ordered to fill the vacancy.

Whole number of ballots.....	63
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Horace Smith.....	32
Edward A. Robinson.....	18
Joshua S. Dunklee.....	7
George S. Pendergast.....	5
Edward Dunklee.....	1

And one vote containing two names not counted.

Mr. Smith was declared elected. Sent up.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1 in the chair.

Superintendent of Streets. Committee—Messrs. Flynn of Ward 13, Perham of Ward 23, Cox of Ward 15.

Whole number of ballots.....	62
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Charles Harris.....	39
Ernest P. Bowditch.....	7
Ernest Bowditch.....	4
E. W. Bowditch.....	1
George A. Shaw.....	2
John Williams.....	1
Blank.....	2

And there were three votes cast for ineligible persons; also, one for Superintendent of Common and one for City Surveyor; also, one ballot with two names on.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Who is ineligible for the office of Superintendent of Streets?

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Members of the Common Council.

Mr. Harris was declared elected. Sent up.

City Engineers. Committee—Messrs. Blodgett of Ward 8, Roach of Ward 7, Ham of Ward 14.

Whole number of ballots.....	63
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Joseph P. Davis.....	60
George A. Shaw.....	1

And one blank and one for an ineligible candidate.

Mr. Davis was declared elected. Sent up.

Superintendent of Public Lands. Committee—Messrs. Ruffin of Ward 9, Barnard of Ward 24, Wilbur of Ward 20.

Whole number of ballots.....	57
Necessary for a choice.....	29
Robert W. Hall.....	52
George A. Shaw.....	3
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	2

And Mr. Hall was declared elected. Sent up.

Superintendent of Common Sewers. Committee—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Day of Ward 4, Fraser of Ward 6.

Whole number of ballots.....	62
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Wm. H. Bradley.....	30
Samuel L. Minot.....	15
M. F. Wells.....	6
Stephen H. Tarbell.....	2
John J. Short.....	8
C. H. W. Wood.....	1

There being no choice, a second ballot was ordered, on motion of Mr. Blodgett of Ward 8.

Whole number of ballots.....	63
Necessary for a choice.....	32
William H. Bradley.....	32
Samuel L. Minot.....	30
John J. Short.....	1

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Before the result is announced I wish to state that when I was on the committee to count votes on the election of Superintendent of Streets there were but sixty-three ballots cast, and since then some gentlemen have left the room to my certain knowledge—Mr. Upham for one. I now move that the roll be called to verify the ballot.

The roll was called, with the following result:

Present—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Cox, Crocker, Cross, Danforth, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Felt, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullaue, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, R. Pope, Pratt, Reed, J. B. Richardson, Roach, Roberts, Ruffin, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Souther, Stone, Thompson, Thorndike, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—63.

Absent—Messrs. Hiscock, Mowry, Pearl, B. Pope, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Spenceley, Upham, Wolcott—9.

Mr. Bradley was declared elected. Sent up.

City Solicitor. Committee—Messrs. Reed of Ward 17, Smardon of Ward 10, Thorndike of Ward 2.

Whole number of ballots.....	60
Necessary for a choice.....	31
John P. Healy.....	30
George L. Ruffin.....	18
George Ruffin.....	2
George A. Shaw.....	3
Edward J. Jenkins.....	2
P. A. Collins.....	1
Patrick A. Collins.....	1
Timothy J. Dacey.....	1
Abbie W. May.....	1
George Sennott.....	1

And there was no choice.

The Chair—What is the pleasure of the Council?

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I take it that it would be right for me to say something just at this time. Not that I am called upon to make any explanation, for if any explanation is to be made some other person must assume that duty. But still I do not want to be put in the attitude of having greatness thrust upon me. Now, it looks to me as though this was a put-up job. I think I know some of the parties who have engineered it, and I hope to get even with them some time. For this manifestation of kind feeling on the part of the gentlemen of the Council I am extremely grateful, and I hope the time will come when they will express it in a different way, and that it will be of some benefit. I will simply remind gentlemen that a vote for me at this time is thrown away, as under our charter no one can hold an office and be paid out of the city treasury while a member of the City Council. Therefore I hope that, when we proceed to ballot for City Solicitor, you will cast your ballots for some one who is eligible.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 raised the point of order that under Rule 69 the ballots cast for George L. Ruffin, an ineligible person, cannot be counted, and that Mr. Healy, having a majority of the ballots properly cast, is elected.

The Chair—The point is not well taken. The Council must proceed to another ballot.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I desire, on behalf of Mr. George A. Shaw, to withdraw his name.

A second ballot was ordered, with the following result:

Whole number of ballots.....	60
Necessary to a choice.....	31
John P. Healy.....	37
P. A. Collins.....	9
George A. Shaw.....	8
George E. Shaw.....	1
G. A. S.....	1
Mary J. Blake.....	1
Edward J. Jenkins.....	2
J. L. Stackpole.....	1

One ballot with two names not counted.

Mr. Healy was declared elected. Sent up.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move that the remaining nominations be laid upon the table. There are several other nominations, the hour is late, and there is probably some other business to come before the Council.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I hope the gentleman will not press that motion. There are but four other nominations, and the elections will take but a very short time.

The motion to lay on the table was lost.

Clerk of Committees. Committee—Messrs. Coe of Ward 23, Danforth of Ward 10, Roberts of Ward 4.

Whole number of ballots.....	60
Necessary for a choice.....	31
William H. Lee.....	56
Joseph O'Kane.....	3
George A. Shaw.....	1

Mr. Lee was declared elected. Sent up.

Superintendent of Public Grounds. Committee—Messrs. Brintnall of Ward 5, Fagan of Ward 10, Pierce of Ward 24.

Whole number of ballots.....	59
Necessary for a choice.....	30
John Galvin.....	48
Augustus P. Calder.....	7
George H. Gordon.....	2
W. A. Simmons.....	1
W. H. Spooner.....	1

And one ballot for City Solicitor.

Mr. Galvin was declared elected. Sent up.

Water Registrar. Committee—Messrs. Clarke of Ward 22, Dee of Ward 5, Stone of Ward 3.

Whole number of ballots.....	54
Necessary for a choice.....	28
William F. Davis.....	43
George A. Shaw.....	6
P. A. Collins.....	4
P. O'Doherty.....	1

Mr. Davis was declared elected. Sent up.

City Surveyor. Committee—Messrs. Burke of Ward 1, Brown of Ward 23, Jackson of Ward 16.

Whole number of ballots.....	53
Necessary for a choice.....	27
Thomas W. Davis.....	46
George A. Shaw.....	6
E. W. James.....	1

Mr. Davis was declared elected. Sent up.

ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION FOR PUBLIC GROUNDS.

After the election of Superintendent of Streets, Mr. Howes of Ward 18 moved a suspension of the rule to enable him to submit a report which must go to the Committee on Finance so that the Auditor can pay certain laborers on the public grounds this month.

The rule was suspended, and Mr. Howes submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Common and Public Grounds, representing that in order to met the expenses of the department under their charge during the remainder of the present financial year, an additional appropriation of $6000 will be required. This sum will be needed principally on account of extra expense in the item of labor, caused by the removal of an unusual quantity of snow and ice from the Common, public grounds, etc., during the present winter. The Committee request that the above amount be added to the appropriation for Common and Public Grounds, and recommend that the subject be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Howes—I have merely to add to that, that when the appropriation was made up, about a year ago, for the Committee on Common and Public Grounds, I understand that the item for labor was based upon the idea that the wages to be paid would be $1.50 a day. After that, the Council passed a resolve that the committee be instructed to pay $1.75, which has since been done. On that account the appropriation has been exceeded sooner than it would otherwise have been, and the committee call for an additional amount.

The report was referred to the Committee on Finance. Sent up.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

A request was received from the School Committee for an additional appropriation of $28,000, viz., $13,372 additional for fuel and salaries, $8000 for gas and water, and $8874 for school books, to meet the requirements of the schools and enable them to close their accounts for the remainder of the financial year. Referred to Committee on Public Instruction. Sent up.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petitions of James Kimmett, for compensation for injuries received by reason of a defect in West Springfield street, and of Levi W. Shaw, to be allowed the full compensation of a Second Assistant Assessor. Referred to Committee on Claims. Sent up.

By Mr. Dee of Ward 5—Petition of T. A. Splaine for a hearing on his petition now before the Committee on Common, etc., in relation to the placing of boats on the Public Garden Pond. Referred to Joint Committee on Common. Sent up.

CLAIMS.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9 submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Claims, That by the payment of $64 they have settled the claim of Eugene Geary for compensation for personal injuries caused by defect in the corner of Shawmut avenue and Camden street. Accepted. Sent up.

CITY PUBLICATIONS FOR SOCIAL LAW LIBRARY.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24 submitted a report from the Committee on Printing on the order to furnish copies of Revised Ordinances and Supplements, and bound city publications to the Social Law Library. That they consider this order open to the following objections: It provides for the supply of the proprietors of the Social Law Library not only with the Revised Ordinances and their annual Supplements, but for a perpetual supply of all the bound publications issued by the city or any board or department thereof until revoked by order of the City Council. Should this order pass there is apparently no reason why a similar order should not pass in favor of numerous other institutions, making a similar application. The introduction of such a system of distributing the city publications would probably soon become objectionable and embarrassing, involving a considerable increase of the expenditure. The committee have only to add that they would take pleasure in meeting the wishes of the Social Law Library proprietors so far as the present system may be applicable. The publications of the School Department are beyond the power of the order referred to, they being at the exclusive control of the School Committee. The committee have voted that two copies of the Revised Ordinances of 1876, and also, until otherwise ordered, two copies of the Annual Supplement Ordinances be sent to the Social Law Library, and they, therefore, respectfully report that they consider further action by the City Council unnecessary. Accepted. Sent up.

OVERSEERS OF POOR.

Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21 submitted a report from the Joint Special Committee on the subject, nominating Thomas C. Amory, Samuel B. Cruft, George Curtis and Liverus Hull for Overseers of the Poor for three years. Accepted. Sent up.

Mr. Brintnall of Ward 5 moved a suspension of the rule, that the Council might proceed to an election.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—I hardly think it advisable to ballot for Overseers of the Poor at this moment. There don't seem to be much more than half of the Council. I hope gentlemen will see the propriety of letting it lie over.

The Council refused to suspend the rule.

COMMON COUNCIL REFRESHMENT BILLS.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18 offered an order—That all bills for refreshment or carriage hire incurred by the Common Council, the standing committees of the Common Council not having charge of any appropriation, or by individual members of the Common Council while engaged in the discharge of official duty, give the names of the persons incurring the same, and, after having been approved by the committee or certified to by the members who incurred the same, the President of the Common Council is authorized to approve the same as provided in the annual appropriation under the head of Contingent Funds, Common Council; and the Auditor of Accounts is authorized to allow the same for payment; provided that no bill shall be approved by the President unless it shall be presented to him for approval before the end of the month next succeeding that within which the expenses covered by such bill were incurred.

The order was read twice and put upon its passage.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I do not see why that order should be put in at this late hour. I think the joint rules provide for that. But there are portions of the order which I object to, and that is that the names of members of the City Council shall be put upon the bills every time that they are obliged to go to eat dinner when they are doing the work of the city. In other departments of the City Government—the Trustees of the Public Library, the Water Board, and all those different departments—they are not obliged to put their names upon a bill before it is approved; and there is no reason why members of the City Council should be selected and required to have their names put upon those bills before they are ordered paid. It is a matter that I think will be as well to lie over, and I think that after the members of the Council have looked into it they will not pass it. I do not know what the reasons for it are, and I move that it lie upon the table.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I do not desire to object to the order lying over, if any gentleman wants information. But I would state that the order is exactly the same as that passed last year, and it seems to me that so far as the mention of any names is concerned we ought to be willing, and it is desirable, that the names of parties who incur expenses should be put down in the records; that if we incur reasonable and proper expenses we will not be ashamed to have our names appear; while if any man would incur a large expense and keep his name out of sight we do not want it possible for him to do it. Therefore I hope the order will pass, though if any gentleman desires to postpone it for further consideration I do not object.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I understand that this is already provided for in section 20 of the joint rules and orders:

“No bill for refreshments or carriage hire furnished to any member of the City Government shall be paid, unless such bills shall specify in detail the names of the members to whom such refreshments or carriages were furnished, the dates of furnishing the same, and have been approved by the presiding officer of a board, or chairman of a standing or special committee of the City Council, or of either branch thereof, duly authorized by vote of such committee or board, at a regular meeting; such bills, when so approved, shall be paid from the appropriation to which they are incident; and the Auditor of Accounts shall not receive or pass any such bill for the approval of the Committee on Accounts, unless it has been approved, as provided in this and the preceding section.”

I thought that there was some provision made for it, and I do not know why the order was put in at this late hour. I move that it be laid upon the table.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I would state that the order passed last year may be found on page 57 of the Transcript Report of the proceedings. I think the gentleman will find that there is occasion for such an order, notwithstanding the rule which he has read. There was the same rule last year, and yet this same order was considered necessary in addition to the rule of the Council. There was the same necessity then, and it was no more or less necessary then than now.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I suppose that order was intended to cover the expenses of committees having no appropriation under their control. If that is so I can see a necessity for passing such an order as that, whether the names be inserted or left out.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18—In regard to the lateness of the hour, I would say that it was unintentional. It has been introduced in the regular order of business, and at the first opportunity.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I meant to say late in the session. I thought it was provided for in the joint rules and orders.

Mr. Felt—It came to me from the Auditor of Accounts. It is the first time it has come to my knowledge.

The order was laid on the table.

BEACH-STREET WIDENING.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized to release and convey to Moses Williams a parcel of one hundred and ninety square feet of land more or less—being a portion of that taken from said Williams's estate on Beach street to widen it by an order of the City Council of June 12, 1868, and discontinued from said street by an order of the Board of Street Commissioners of this 23d of February, 1877; and release and convey a further parcel of four square feet, more or less, lying under the wall adjoining the first-mentioned land, which was deeded by said Williams to the city with that taken and laid out as part of said street and widening in 1868. The conveyance of these parcels of land to be upon the receipt from said Williams of a release and acquittance and discharge satisfactory to the City Solicitor of all damages occasioned him by the city on the discontinuance herein referred to.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—Has that order been before any committee?

Mr. Flynn—It has been before the Committee on Streets.

Mr. Crocker—And approved by them?

Mr. Flynn—The order comes from the Committee on Streets.

The order was read twice and passed. Sent up.

INVESTIGATION OF CONSTABLES.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 offered an order—That the Committee on Ordinances consider the expediency of providing by law the maximum number of constables to be appointed by the Mayor for the service of civil processes, and what rules and regulations are necessary to protect the public from the frauds and impositions practised by a few of these officials; and the said committee have power to send for persons and papers. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

ALDERMANIC COMMITTEES TO BE JOINT COMMITTEES.

Mr. Brintnall of Ward 5 offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to petition the General Court at its present session for the passage of an act authorizing the following-named committees to be joint committees of both branches of the City Government, and be called joint standing committees of the City Council, as follows: Committee on Armories, Bridges, Committee on County Accounts, Committee on Faneuil Hall and County Buildings, Lamps, Licenses, Market, Weights and Measures, Committee on Paving, Committee on Police, Committee on Sewers, Committee on Steam Engines and Committee on Streets.

Referred, on motion of Mr. Brintnall, to the Committee on Legislative Matters. Sent up.

SECOND ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 moved a reconsideration of the vote indefinitely postponing the ordinance abolishing Second Assistant Assessors, hoping it would not prevail.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I hope the Council will see the propriety of not acting upon this motion at so late an hour when so few members are present. The question is an important one and should receive due consideration from the Council. The right to move a reconsideration is an important one, and the moving of a reconsideration and hoping it will not prevail is an exception to our ordinary rules, and I hope it will not be practised; I hope it will not be pressed at this late hour.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I did not happen to be here at the last two meetings of the Council, but after reading the minutes of the proceedings I think this subject has been thoroughly considered, and I think the Council are pretty well sick of it; therefore I hope it will be settled tonight, and I hope the reconsideration will not prevail.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—I hope that motion will not be pressed to a vote tonight. This matter of doing away with the Second Assistant Assessors is a new departure. That office has existed for a great many years. This ordinance was introduced two weeks ago tonight, and I think it has been discussed very little. The only argument that I have heard for the abolition of that office was that it is filled by incompetent men. It occurred to me that that was a very poor reason. I am not certain but that I shall vote for the abolition of that office. But it is an important matter. One branch of the City Council have voted in favor of it, and it is due to that branch, I think, that their views in the matter should not be disposed of in a summary way that it seems to be desired to do here. For one, I hope to have an opportunity to go over it again and further investigate it. It is a matter of importance, and I say it is due to the other branch that before we dispose of it in this summary manner, we shall have an opportunity to discuss it. I am not fully convinced that it ought to be abolished, and I am not certain that it ought not. I desire to investigate it, and I should like to hear some further argument in favor of it. I hope the motion will not be pressed tonight.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 moved to lay the motion on the table. Lost.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—A motion to reconsider is sometimes successfully used by a majority to hold the minority down. Where all the members of the Council are present that may be a fair way, but it does appear to me that when two-thirds of the members are gone, at this late hour of the evening to force a reconsideration upon the Council would be unfair upon that part of the Council who have gone away. Therefore, I hope the motion to reconsider will not prevail, simply to give fair play to those who have gone away.

On motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 16, the main question to reconsider was ordered.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—I voted for the indefinite postponement of the ordinance, but at the same time I am perfectly willing that this question should be tried upon its merits. I do not see the necessity for moving a reconsideration at this late hour. I believe the City Council will sustain the Second Assistant Assessors, but I think the question should be tried when we have a full house here.

On motion of Mr. Thompson of Ward 9, the Council adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
FEBRUARY 26, 1877.

Regular meeting at 4 o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Police Officers for Special Duty—G. W. Chick, Branch Chapel, 2029 Washington street; Edward E. Foster, Old Colony Freight Depot; Edward C. Mitchell, Chester square; James Brennan, Oakland Hall, Mattapan; Joseph Baker, Thomas Langdon, Charles A. Currier, office Massachusetts Society Prevention Cruelty of Animals.

Weigher of Coal—Ottswell J. Wood.
Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Armories. Company C, Ninth Battalion Infantry, to change location of their armory to Concord street.

To the Committee on Licenses. John Carr, for a hack stand at the Providence Railroad station; Boston Society of Natural History, against petition of L. J. Jordan for license for anatomical museum.

To the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department. William L. Shearer, mortgagee, for remission of certain taxes assessed erroneously in 1874 and 1875.

To the Joint Special Committee to Nominate City Registrar. Rev. P. F. Lyndon et al., in favor of the reelection of N. A. Apollonio as City Registrar.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Catherine McGaffigan, for damages for personal injuries received by falling on an icy sidewalk near the corner of Salem and North Bennet streets; Mary McNamee, for damages on account of the death of her husband, caused by an alleged defect in Commercial street; Ann Hemmings, to be compensated for personal injuries sustained by a fall in Fayette street; James Deshon, to be refunded an amount paid for an invalid tax title on an estate of W. E. Woodward; James Brennan, to be paid for personal injuries caused by a defective covering of a coal-hole in a public sidewalk.

To the Joint Committee on Fire Department. Fitchburg and other railroad companies, against the proposed discontinuance of the fire boat "W. M. Flanders."

To the Fire Commissioners. E. O. Shepard et al., that the telegraph poles on Marlborough street be removed.

To the Committee on Lamps. William Thornton et al., for lamps in the passageways in rear of Beacon street, south from Dartmouth street; Julius A. Palmer for lamps in Court street, rear of 42 Pitts street; James C. Tucker, that the locations of the lamps on Blossom street, Ward 8, be rearranged; Bernard Silk et al., that Cherry street, Ward 20, may be lighted.

To the Committee on Sewers. Fabius Rose, that a certain brook running from the Harris estate into the Blue-Hill avenue sewer may be used for drainage purposes.

To the Committee on Paving. Joseph Arnold et al., that Arnold street and a part of Weld street in Ward 23 be known as Corey street, of which they are a continuation, and that it be not called Westery avenue; James Rollins et al., that said street be called Westery avenue; Thomas Cunningham et al., that Chelsea street in Charlestown be repaved; Louis N. Tucker et al., that Park street in Ward 23 be put in order for public travel; James A. Tilden et al., that South, Centre and Spring streets in Ward 23 be provided with sidewalks, and be put in order for public travel; John Gallagher et al., that Kneeland street be renumbered between Washington and Federal streets; Rev. Patrick O'Beirne, for abatement of sidewalk tax on two estates on Circuit street; Alan-on W. Beard and fifty-six others, to have Columbus avenue repaved with wood, and Henry S. Potter and twenty-six others in aid of the same; Bernard Silk et al., that Cherry street be graded; Sylvester Richards, to move a wooden building from Canal street, Ward 4, to Canal street, near 80 Eden street.

To the Committee on Armories. Colonel of Fifth Cavalry, for an allowance for furniture of headquarters.

To the Joint Committee on Survey and Inspec- tion of Buildings. Noah Mayo, for leave to erect a wooden building on Maverick wharf, Ward 2.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

A report of the School Committee for an additional appropriation of $28,000 for salaries, etc., came up. Referred to Committee on Public Instruction. Concurred.

Report nominating Thomas C. Amory, Samuel B. Cruft, George Curtis and Liverus Hull as Overseers of the Poor. Accepted in concurrence.

Order for Committee on Ordinances to report on the expediency of limiting the number of Constables to be appointed by the Mayor and Aldermen, and of enacting additional regulations for the government of those officers. Passed in concurrence.

An order proposing an application to the Legislature for authority to place all matters now under the control of the standing committees of the Board of Aldermen in the hands of the joint committees of the City Council came up. Referred to the Committee on Legislative Matters. On motion of Alderman Thompson, the subject was indefinitely postponed.

Report of inexpedient for any further action concerning the deposit of copies of the ordinances in the Suffolk Law Library. Accepted.

Order for a release to Moses Williams of a portion of land taken to widen Beach street, and which has been duly discontinued. Passed in concurrence.

Report that the claim of Eugene Geary for personal injuries received on Shawmut avenue had been settled for sixty-four dollars. Accepted in concurrence.

A request of Committee on Common for an additional appropriation of $6000, to pay for labor in removing ice from Common, came up referred to Committee on Finance. Concurred.

Order for Committee on Public Buildings to provide furniture for the new schoolhouse at West Roxbury. Passed in concurrence.

ELECTIONS LAID OVER.

A certificate came up of the election by the other branch of William H. Bradley as Superintendent of Sewers.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move that it be laid on the table until the salaries of all these officers be established. I do so, as Chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment, for the same reason that I have previously stated.

Alderman Clark—I hope that motion will not prevail. The other branch of this Government have elected the heads of departments; their salaries will be established sooner or later, either at the same rate as now, at a reduced rate, or at an advanced rate. It is doing these heads of departments a great injustice. We may not act upon the salary bill for three months, and the proper course is to elect the officers. If their salaries are cut down, and they do not want to serve, they can resign and we can elect others in their places.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I make the motion now without repeating the reasons offered before, when the elections of Assessors came up. The argument made then—and which seemed to meet the approbation of the Board—is the same argument for doing it today, and I do not care to repeat it. If you elect all these heads of departments, you will have a lobby around the Council and the Board of Aldermen that will utterly prevent you from cutting down their salaries, but will rather tend to make you increase them.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays. The motion to table prevailed—yeas 8, nays 4:

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson, Wilder—8.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Viles—4.

Certificates came up of elections of the following-named officers: Assessors—Thomas Hills, Benjamin Cushing, Thomas J. Bancroft, Benjamin F. Palmer, Horace Smith; City Solicitor—John P. Healy; Superintendent of Public Buildings—Thomas C. Tucker; Superintendent of Public Lands—Robert W. Hall; Superintendent of Common—John Galvin; Clerk of Committees—William H. Lee; City Engineer—Joseph P. Davis; City Surveyor—Thomas W. Davis; Superintendent of Streets—Charles Harris; Water Registrar—William F. Davis.

Alderman Fitzgerald moved that these several elections be laid on the table.

Alderman Clark—I protest, Mr. Mayor, against this course of proceeding; but my protest is of no use, I suppose, as the vote stands eight to four.

The elections were laid on the table.

JAIL EXPENSES.

A requisition was received from the Sheriff for $1766.97, for expenses at Suffolk County Jail for February. Ordered paid.

MIDDLESEX RAILROAD.

The Board took up the special assignment, viz.—Hearing on petition of the Middlesex Railroad Company, for the construction of tracks in Lincoln street between Beach and Kneeland streets, thence through Kneeland and South streets, to the station of the Old Colony Railroad.

Charles E. Powers, President of the company, said the petition was for the right to go to the Old Colony depot, as they are now running to the Albany. The petition was presented in view of the petition of the South Boston road to go to the northern depots. If the South Boston cars go to the northern depots, it is but right that the Middlesex cars should go to both the Old Colony and Albany depots. He read a letter from the Superintendent of the Old Colony road indorsing the petition and stating that it would be a great convenience to passengers coming in on that road. There was no objection to the location, even the South Boston road agreeing to it. Mr. Powers explained the route proposed. None of the abutters owning the fee in Lincoln street, between Beach and Kneeland streets, object to it. If the South Boston road desired the Middlesex to use their tracks, the latter would not object.

Mr. Crosby, for the South Boston Railroad Company, said that if the Middlesex road is willing to go over the South Boston track in Beach, Kneeland and South streets, the latter would not object; but they do oppose a continuation of the track in Lincoln street.

Mr. Powers said he accepted the offer, and Mr. Crosby said he would not object.

The subject was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

The following petitions were presented and were referred, in connection with the above:

Middlesex Railroad Company, for a curve track at the corner of Lincoln and Beach streets, connecting with tracks of the South Boston road on Beach street; also for the right to enter upon and use the tracks of the South Boston road on Beach street, between Lincoln street and Federal street; also the right to enter upon and use the tracks of the Metropolitan road on said Federal street, between Beach street and Kneeland street; and to use the South Boston road's tracks in Kneeland and South streets.

South Boston Railroad Company, for leave to unite their Federal-street tracks with the Kneeland-street tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad.

ASSESSORS' DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Wilder submitted the following from the Joint Committee of the Assessors' Department:

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Glendon Company, that tax on estate No. 4 Walden park be refunded. Accepted. Sent down.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of corporation of Beth Eil to be relieved from payment of tax assessed on their church edifice in Gloucester place. Accepted. Sent down.

WOODEN BUILDINGS.

Alderman Wilder submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Survey and Inspection of Buildings:

Reports and orders authorizing a permit to erect wooden buildings by B. F. Teeling on Canal street, and A. Zeigler on Decatur avenue, Ward 21. Orders read twice and passed.

HORSE RAILROAD HEARINGS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Report and order for a hearing on Monday, March 19, at four o'clock P. M., on petition of Metropolitan Railroad, for location on Atlantic avenue and for a track across Dover street.

Report and order for hearing on Monday, March 26, at four o'clock P. M., on petition of Union Railroad Company, for permission to go to the southern depots by Court, Washington, Summer and Beach streets, etc.

Order passed.

POLICE.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Police:

Report recommending the approval of the by-laws adopted by the Boston Police Relief Association. Accepted, and said by-laws were approved.

Report that Thomas Dixon have leave to project a lantern at 15 Brattle square, provided it is secured in a manner satisfactory to the Inspector of Buildings. Accepted.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—29 newsboys, 1 bootblack.

Wagon License Granted—Daniel Lynch, Brattle street; Frederic Jones, corner Brewster and Seventh streets.

Auctioneer's License Granted—George R. Sneaden, 857 Washington street (renewal).

Common Victuallers Licensed—Kenfield & Dix, 475 Tremont street; James W. Peacock, 1075 Tremont street; O. H. Woodbury, 357 Warren street.

Billiard License Granted—John Agnew & Co., 382 Hanover street.

Severally accepted.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of John Quinn, for leave to stand with one or more hacks at the Boston & Providence and the Old Colony railroad stations in this city. Accepted.

CLAIMS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted reports from the Joint Committee on Claims as follows:

Claims Settled—William Shea, for personal injuries caused by a defect in Ruggles street, by payment of $150; Matthew O'Brien, for injuries received by his son caused by defect in Washington street at the corner of Avery street, by the payment of $75; Ann McLaughlin, for personal injuries caused by defect in Pleasant street, by the payment of $200. Severally accepted. Sent down.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Edward T. Spurr, to be compensated for personal injuries sustained by his wife from a fall on the sidewalk of Mead street. Accepted. Sent down.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Public Lands:

Report on petition of Thomas W. Carter, for reduction of rent of wharf on Albany street. That the committee find upon examination that the wharf in question was leased to said Carter Jan. 1, 1875, for a term of eight years at an annual rental of $32.50, payable quarterly; that he has expended a large amount in permanent improvements; but owing to the extreme depression in business since the lease was given by the city, he has found it very difficult to meet the payments upon said lease as they become due, and is obliged to ask the city a reduction of rent. The committee, in view of the facts herein set forth, are unanimous in the opinion that his request ought to be granted, and they recommend the passage of an order—That the collector be and he hereby is authorized to deduct from the amount due upon the lease, as given by Thomas W. Carter, dated Jan. 1, 1875, for the wharf on Albany street, the sum of $16.25, upon condition that the amount of $812.50 which will be due April 1, 1877, is paid on or before that date. Order read twice and passed. Sent down.

Alderman O'Brien—This matter came before the Board last year, and we made an abatement to the extent of the same percentage that is now made. Mr. Carter is very much embarrassed, and unless this abatement is made, in all human probability the wharf will be thrown upon our hands, and it will be impossible to rent it even at the rate he is to pay for the balance of the year. We only re-lease it for one year; at the end of that year he pays his regular rent, unless something else turns up that will prevent it.

The order was read twice and passed. Sent down.

Report and order, That there be allowed to Ella Wyman the sum of $150, in full compensation for her loss of right in a passageway on Ludiana place conveyed by the city to another party, and that the Collector be and he is hereby authorized to give credit to said Ella Wyman for the said amount on the sum due on her bond to the city of Boston dated Dec. 16, 1871. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

Report and order, That upon the petition of the St. John's Universalist Parish, his Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized to execute to the said parish a confirmatory deed, drawn satisfactory to the City Solicitor, of the land intended to be conveyed by deed of the city of Boston dated May 5, 1875, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds lib. 1268, fol. 7—in accordance with the prayer of said petition. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to Mary A. Rosemeyer the sum of $102, the same being the adjudged value of the parcel of land situated on Brown street, in the Northampton-street District, containing 204 square feet of land, which was taken in the name of Jonas B. Hildreth, under an order dated Nov. 29, 1876, as shown upon a plan made by Thomas W. Davis, City Surveyor, dated Nov. 18, 1876, the said lot being marked "K" on said plan, upon the said Rosemeyer giving to the city a deed of said land made satisfactory to the City Solicitor; the said amount to be charged to the appropriation for the Northampton-street District. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, on petitions for leave to occupy stables, as follows:

Permits to Occupy Stables Granted—Louis M. Mahn, Lamartine street, Ward 23; Michael Kenuy, corner Benuett and Market streets, Ward 25.

Permits to Occupy Stables Refused—Fraucis C. Creber, Dennis street, Ward 20.
Severally accepted.

BRIDGES.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That the Committee on Bridges be authorized to contract for such lumber as may be required for repairing the several bridges in this city during the year 1877, to be delivered at such times and in such quantities as said committee may direct. Read twice and passed.

ACCOUNTS.

Alderman Clark offered the following:

Ordered, That the following bills be allowed for payment by the Auditor of Accounts:

Of J. E. Noyes, chargeable to House of Industry.....	$195.79
Of George Curtis, chargeable to Paving.....	24.60
Of George Curtis, Northampton-street District.....	12.19

Read twice and passed. Sent down.

Ordered, That the Chairman of the Board of Aldermen be authorized to approve bills for expenses incurred by the Board of Aldermen and the standing committees of the Board not having charge of any appropriations; also by individual members of the Board while engaged in the discharge of official duty. The amount of said bills to be charged to the appropriation for Contingent Expenses of the Board of Aldermen.

Read twice and passed.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

Under the head of unfinished business the Board considered the report of the Committee on Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses, with thirty-nine ordinances establishing the salaries of the several city officers and employes in the public departments. (City Doc. No. 20.)

The question was upon passing the first ordinance fixing the Mayor's salary at $5000, etc.

Alderman Clark—I move to substitute the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries (City Doc. 22) for the report of the Committee on Retrenchment (City Doc. 20).

Alderman Fitzgerald—I hope that motion will not prevail, though I take comfort from it, that my friend will even go so far. I thought he would oppose any retrenchment in salaries, for since he became a member of the Board of Aldermen he has been rather in favor of princely salaries, and of increasing, rather than decreasing, them. I accept it as a mark of a change of heart, although he does not go so far as the Committee on Retrenchment. Without making any argument upon the merits of either report, I shall await the vote of the Board upon the motion, which, if it passes, will simply mean that this Board is opposed to curtailing expenses to a certain extent, and you might as well leave things as they are. I feel so certain that the Board will not pass the motion that I will not waste any argument upon it.

Alderman Clark—I have various objections to the report of the Retrenchment Committee, and one of the principal is that it proposes to establish all the different salaries by ordinance. That is a very serious objection. In order to change the salary of a single individual an ordinance will have to be changed. Then again, while I am disposed to cut down expenditures to the lowest possible point compatible with the best interests of the city, I think the report is too sweeping, and that they have entered upon duties which they were not called upon to perform, such as declaring what amount of help is needed in the City

Clerk's department, and the various other departments. If they are desirous of cutting down the salary of the City Clerk—which I consider very small for the services rendered the city, and I think my views are concurred in by ninety per cent. of the citizens of Boston—they can do so; but I say they have no right to go into his office and say he needs only so many clerks, and that they are worth only so much per year. It has been his prerogative to fix the salaries of his employes from time immemorial, and that prerogative should be allowed him henceforth and forever. The City Clerk knows better than any joint committee of the City Council what is required to do the work of his department, and I am perfectly willing to trust him to say what is required; and so in the other departments. Take the City Engineer's department; the committee go there and say, You require so many men, and these men are worth only so much money. Now, if we have an Engineer who is competent to run that department, he is competent to say how much help he requires, what class of employes he wants, and what their services are worth to the city. The amount it is proposed to reduce his own salary is of perhaps small moment to him; but we ought not to lose sight of the fact that two of the most important works in which the city of Boston has ever been engaged—procuring an additional supply of water and preparing a plan for a system of improved sewerage—are being carried on by that department. If his salary is cut down I do not suppose he is going to resign his position; but it is a notorious fact that this department is run at much less expense than is the same department in any other city in this Union of the size of Boston. A former Engineer of this city is now the engineer of Chicago; he receives $6000 a year, with the privilege of earning twice that outside. The city of Boston last year paid Mr. Chesbrough $3000 for a little job of investigating the subject of sewerage. Our City Engineer has no such privilege. We pay him the insignificant sum of $5000, not the fee of a first-class lawyer in the city of Boston for conducting a single case. We ought to consider that we have an able Engineer. We should not go into his department and say, Mr. Engineer, you shall be allowed so much help and no more; you shall be allowed to employ a draughtsman at $5 a day, instead of $6, when the draughtsman has been offered $6 a day by private corporations. I think, Mr. Mayor, that principle is wrong. I believe the true policy of this Board is to adopt the report of the Standing Committee on Salaries, then take up each department by itself and discuss the salaries of the various departments. It will be a ridiculous idea, for instance, if we employ a deck hand in the Ferry Department, to declare by ordinance that John Murphy shall receive for compensation as a deck hand in the employ of the city in East Boston the sum of $1.35 per day; or that Bridget O'Flanagan shall receive 37½ cents a day for washing towels, or something of that description. It seems to me that the course to pursue is to fix all the salaries by order, as heretofore, and not by ordinance. There has been a great deal said about the retrenchment recommended by this committee; but they do not recommend so large a saving as the Salary Committee did last year, and that was not a reform City Government either. They recommended a reduction of $200,000.

Alderman Thompson—Did you go for it?

Alderman Clark—I did not think it my duty to do so. I believe in employing first-class help and paying a living salary. That has been the policy of the city of Boston. We have honest heads of departments, and the result has been no stealing, no defalcations, or anything of that kind. The committee last year recommended a reduction of $200,000, but this committee recommended only $95,164.50. Last year a large part of the reduction came from the Police Department. I object to reducing the pay of the police. I object to going as far as the Retrenchment Committee do, and pay new men $2.50. If such new men are selected as should be, they will be of much greater service to the city than the men who have become too old to do the service the city ought to expect of them. I am not in favor—and I want it distinctly understood that it is not for political effect either—of a reduction of the pay of the police and firemen. But my great objection to the report is that it is embodied in the shape of ordinances. Another objection is that they have entered the departments and undertaken to say how much help shall be employed and at what pay. Therefore I hope the report will not be adopted, and that then we shall take up each department separately, and reduce or add to the salaries as the Board may determine.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I suspected the gentleman meant that he is in favor of no retrenchment at all; that he means to give them the retrenchment report. That is the sum and substance of the gentleman's argument. Why don't he come out flat-footed and say he is not in favor of cutting down the salary of a single officer in and around City Hall? He says he does not speak for political effect. I have n't either. I have no aspiration to be Mayor of Boston. I don't intend to be a standing candidate for that position. I was made chairman of this Committee on Retrenchment; I have carefully considered this matter. Our committee unanimously reported this ordinance. Some of the committee had been in the City Government two or three years. Now, the objection of the gentleman is, first, that we ought not to cut down the salary of the City Clerk. Let me state it to the credit of the City Clerk that he is the only head of a department around City Hall who asked that his salary should be cut down; he seemed to have a more just estimate of the shrinkage of real estate and the poverty of the times than the Alderman; and he asked the committee to cut down his salary twenty per cent., and the salaries of his clerks ten per cent., because he thought the times demanded it; and he said, in addition, that the fact that the registration of voters had been taken away from him was worth more than that to him in his peace of mind and freedom from care. The City Clerk has been faithful to the city and its interests, and he says that the times demand that persons in and around City Hall shall share alike with the tradesmen, the mechanics, the workmen, the real-estate owners and everybody else in the shrinkage of wages. He asked for it, and we report that the salary of the City Clerk should be four thousand dollars, in accordance with his own request, and because, also, we saw that it was proper. So much for the City Clerk's Department. Now, the gentleman says we must pay persons liberally. I agree with him. I agree that we ought to pay a living salary to every man in City Hall, a decent salary; but the salary must be in accordance with the salaries paid to other people. Look around the city of Boston today and what do you see? Real estate lying idle; the taxes which go to pay for the salaries of the officials in carrying on the city government coming mainly from property which I venture to say today, without fear of contradiction, does not pay an average of three to four per cent. on the investments throughout the city of Boston. The laboring men and mechanics—you see them applying for work; men who received from three to four dollars a day, skilled mechanics who have considered it an insult if you suggested that they go to work on the streets at a dollar a day, coming and asking you for such work; and when they get any work in their trades they receive only half the amount they did three or four years ago. Now I ask, with this great decline in wages and in property, with the scarcity everything around, why should not the members of the City Council, who are the trustees of the funds of the people of the city, take into consideration all these facts and come to the conclusion that the officials who are working here shall at least come down to the salaries that they received five and six years ago, which were high at that time? Laborers in the departments have been brought down to the salaries received before the war. The other officials, the heads of the departments—I had occasion to look this matter up, and found that in some cases the increase had been 100 per cent; while the average increase had been seventy per cent. over the salaries received six years ago. You have a tabular statement of the salaries received in 1860-61, 1865-66, 1870-71, 1876-77; and the committee, after carefully investigating everything, reported these ordinances to cut down the salaries in accordance not with a scale of ten per cent., but with what they thought right and proper; some are decreased twenty per cent., some ten per cent. They investigated all the departments through the heads. The gentleman objects to this on the ground that it is an ordinance; that is not an objection at all. His objection is that he does not want the whole thing; he wants no decrease. But then one of the arguments used to cover his real objection is that we have no business to go into the departments—the City Clerk's, the Engineer's and the Auditor's—and say to them you have clerks there whom you pay a salary of $1600 or $1800 today, and we want you to cut them down to $1200 or $1400, because from what we have learned outside of what men received in the same kind of business, we are under the impression that you must come down also. If you have clerks receiving $2500 a year, and have forty applicants for the position who are able and honest enough to work for a little less, you must come down in accordance with the lowered scale of prices throughout the city and the country. That is simply what we have done; we have done nothing more, and we have a right to do it. Every employe at the State House today, down to the colored messenger in the Governor's chamber, if he wants an increase of salary, must go to the Legislature for it. Why should it not be so here? Why should not this City Council fix the salaries of all employes of the city? Why is it not as competent to judge of the salary which should be paid to those people as anybody who is at the head of the department?

Alderman Thompson—Does the gentleman understand that he argued that the salaries at the State House were reduced?

Alderman Fitzgerald—I understand so. Why should not we do this? Are we not as competent as the heads of the departments? You go to the head of any department and ask him, Can you cut down anything in clerk hire? He would say, No, I cannot do it. I noticed that in New York a committee of citizens waited upon the mayor, and requested him to retrench. He called the heads of the departments together and asked them all, and they all answered, We cannot cut down anything. We can make no retrenchment. Now, in such a state of things the only thing we could do is just what we have done. Why did we report in the shape of ordinances? If it is an order it will have no binding force. It is only a suggestion. The Board will notice that of the salaries under a thousand dollars we have touched nothing. We have not reduced the laborers, the police, the firemen—except the Assistant Engineers; clerks receiving six, seven or eight hundred dollars we have not touched. We have done differently from the committee of last year, because of the sad fate which befell their report, which was a warning to this committee. We simply report that which would meet the approbation of this Council, which we thought was feasible and could be carried through. We report it in the shape of ordinances, so that no head of a department, even if he wanted to do it, could make a salary any higher than we fix it. We don't say that John Jones shall be employed. We simply say that one clerk shall be allowed at so much salary; that another clerk shall be allowed and receive such and such a salary. If it was in the shape of an order, one man's pay might remain as it was, and another man's pay might be allowed to suit the values of the head of the department, and that we don't want to occur. For that reason, after looking at the salaries received five or ten years ago—and the same persons are in the departments now that were here then—we came to the conclusion that the salaries placed opposite the different clerks in the statement of the committee are the proper salaries to give, and that is the reason why we report in the shape of an ordinance—so that the heads of the departments cannot put one clerk up and another down, and so that there shall be a fair and equitable adjustment of the salaries. At the proper time I shall ask that the section in regard to the Overseers of the Poor shall be laid over for future consideration, because we have no control of the salaries in that department.

As the motion of the gentleman is not intended to be in the direction of the report, and as he is opposed to a retrenchment of any kind, or the cutting down of salaries, I hope it will not prevail.

Alderman Thompson—Last winter I did all in my power to bring about some reduction in the expenses of the City Government. We had a Salary Committee in favor of retrenchment, and they reported. In one branch of the City Council their report was adopted, but in this branch it was always 7 to 5. A majority of the City Council were in favor of reduction, but in consequence of non-concurrence of the two branches there was no reduction in salaries last year. Now, as the question is upon the adoption of the report of the Standing Committee on Salaries, or that of the Retrenchment Committee, it seems to me we should consider the amount of time devoted by the latter to these duties, and that to ignore them now and throw their report aside—when they probably have spent ten times the amount of time on it that the Salary Committee did—will not be treating the committee with proper respect. In regard to the committee going into the departments, I take it that their judgment is better than that of any member who has not gone into them and investigated their business. That is the only way you can reach this question. I have had the honor of being connected with the several committees, and none of the heads of those departments have admitted that they could make any reduction. When we consider that the city is paying over two million dollars for salaries of teachers in the public schools, and that the city of Philadelphia is paying only $900,000, how long are we going to thrive with such expenditures in comparison with other cities? When the question came before the School Committee last year, no reduction was made because the City Council had refused to reduce salaries; and if we refuse to do so they will not reduce salaries this year. I hope we shall take this report up and adopt it as a whole, and if any injustice is done we can right that hereafter, and we shall have accomplished something. When the gentleman comes forward and advocates these high expenditures, and realizes the amount of taxable property thrown back upon the city every year because people cannot pay their taxes, what are we going to do? Are we going to stand up here and refuse to reduce salaries? I venture to say that the Committee on Public Instruction is as respectable a committee as any in this city, and have recommended a retrenchment of over $100,000 in the salaries of teachers. Are we going to make a reduction in the salaries of teachers and none in the other employes? I hope the report of the Retrenchment Committee will be adopted.

Alderman Gibson—I looked over the report of the Retrenchment Committee very carefully from beginning to end. I should have cut down more than they do, but I am willing to take the report as it is, provided there are no mistakes in it. It is travelling out of the usual course. It is the duty of the fathers of the city to enter into every department. I don't believe in letting every head of a department pay his clerks what he pleases; we give them free latitude to pay what they please; and we have no regard for the taxpayers. I presume there is not a member of this Board but has had complaints from moderate taxpayers. They are numerous and their property has depreciated. Is there any justice in paying these high salaries when our taxpayers are not earning enough to pay their taxes? I say there is not employment enough in the city for the people at ten cents a day. According to the statistics ninety-five per cent. of the business men of the city have failed. A man drawing a salary of three or five thousand dollars a year has a safe investment, and he can lay up his thousand dollars a year, and has not to trust to the chance of losing his capital, of which millions upon millions have been lost by parties in this city. Those who draw salaries from the city should share a part of this burden. I hope we shall pass this as it is, for I should like to go the whole bill if there are no mistakes in it.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays. The motion to substitute was lost—yeas 4, nays 8: Yeas—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Viles—4.

Nays—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson, Wilder—8.

The ordinance fixing the Mayor's salary was passed.

The several ordinances in the bill were then read and passed seriatim, discussion ensuing as reported below.

City Clerk. $4000.

Alderman Clark moved to make the salary $4500, and called for the yeas and nays. Lost—yeas 3, nays 9—Alderman Burnham, Clark and Dunbar voting yea.

City Engineer. $4500.

Alderman Burnham—I move to amend section 1, which reduces the salary to $4500, so that the amount will be $5000. I do that from a sense of sheer justice. Every member of the City Council knows that the burden resting upon the City Engineer is very great, and especially so this year, he having charge not only of the water works, but the system of improved sewerage. They require an amount of time and attention for which even $5000 is very limited compensation.

Alderman Thompson—I will accord to the City Engineer all that my friend claims for him, but that is no reason why his department should be made an exception from the other departments. Last year it was stated that the water works were in such a condition that it would not be safe to make a reduction, for if the City Engineer should resign, the city's interest in that department would suffer. Well, sir, so far as the different parts are concerned, the water works are about finished. Last year it was stated that it would not be safe to reduce the salaries of the License Commissioners; that they would resign. But they were reduced $1000, and not one resigned, and I do not see but that the city has been the gainer by $3000. We desire to be consistent, and I hope we shall not reduce one head of a department and leave another unreduced.

Alderman Gibson—The amendment would crack this whole thing all to pieces. I hope it will go through as a whole. The committee have done the fair, square thing as between receiver and payer. I don't believe we are so short of timber in this city that if the officers should see fit to resign some one could not be got to take the place. If so, we stand upon a very delicate foundation. I should be the last to withhold any man's income, but they have had those salaries four or five years, and why should we continue them any longer? After the times get better we can put salaries back where they were. Give them an equal pull with the rest of us. The committee have done splendidly; I don't know how they could have done better.

Alderman Clark—I fully agree with the Alderman offering the amendment. We ought not to lose sight of the fact that it has cost the Engineer many years of hard labor at a low salary to become an efficient engineer. It is admitted that we have a competent man; that his labor is vast and that a single mistake would cost the city more than his salary for ten years to come. He is managing two important works. I presume that if his salary is cut down he will not resign, for he is too much of a gentleman to do that, even if he is treated unhandsomely by the city authorities. But there is no justice in the argument that if you do not touch one salary you must not touch the others. If injustice is done by the committee to any city employe it should be righted as we pass these ordinances. Doubtless there are a great many engineers who consider themselves competent to perform the duties of City Engineer, and would be glad to let themselves at any price you may choose to pay, anywhere from $1000 up. The city is paying for the mistakes of a former engineer, by rebuilding the bridge over Huntington avenue at an expense of $30,000; and other bridges will have to be rebuilt for the same cause. The most thriving corporations in Boston and New England are those which have the most efficient men at their head and pay them large salaries. The Alderman's [Alderman Thompson] agent at Harrisburg has a salary of $25,000 a year, instead of a small pittance of $2500. One of the most thriving corporations in Boston paid its treasurer $50,000 a year for many years, and it paid dividends through good and evil report. The gloomy picture drawn by the Alderman from East Boston, of so many men being out of employment, does not hold good in all cases. Able managers, who are honest men, as a general thing, never have any trouble in finding good salaries. I hope the amendment will be adopted, and that the Engineer will receive the same salary he has received since he has been employed by the city of Boston.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The Alderman [Alderman Clark] always looks at salaries with the spectacles of Colonel Sellers, "There's millions in it. I hope the board will not be misled by him. Talking about corporations being the best managed who pay the highest salaries calls to my mind the Eastern Railroad, which paid $20,000 to its president, and went into bankruptcy; it has one now who gets less than half that and it is doing a great deal better. I was not surprised that people smiled when the Alderman said that honest men always get good salaries. We looked upon the Engineer's Department in a different light from any other. He is a professional man; if he had not been he would have been cut down to $4000. In 1871 he received $3000. About that time both he and the City Surveyor received $3000. Now he receives $5000 and we thought we would not be taking off an enormous amount, as he will receive $1500 more than in 1871. He is a man of ability; I shall not detract from that; but he must come down with the rest.

Alderman Burnham—I have no particular desire to prolong this discussion. It is not difficult to know how we stand in a vote of 9 to 3. I made the amendment as an act of justice, and I pity the man who, if he has a knowledge of the amount of labor the City Engineer is doing this year that the City Government has put upon him, will lift his voice here to cut down that officer's salary. You, sir, did me the honor to make me chairman of the Committee on Improved Sewerage. That duty has brought me in contact with the City Engineer, and for the past four weeks I have gone over the ground and seen the labor that man is performing, with an earnest determination to reach bottom, and give us the facts and figures. In my opinion he is doing a work in that alone with at least a saving of $10,000 a year to the city. I do not ask that his salary be raised; but I do see the injustice, with an engineer of capacity, of cutting down his salary the paltry sum of $500. I cannot vote for it.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It brings to my mind the fact to which everybody must bear witness who is associated with an official in any department. It is utterly impossible for a member of the City Government, in his capacity as a legislator, to clear away from his mind the partiality which will come over it when the particular department with which he is specially connected comes up for retrenchment. That was the difficulty which the members of the committee had to contend with. It was the case with myself; my friend acknowledges it is the difficulty he is in. Each one is apt to think that the head of the department he is connected with should not be cut down because he is doing a great work. We cut the Engineer down only $500 because of his ability and profession.

Alderman Gibson—The Alderman speaks of Huntington-avenue bridge. It is well known what our former engineer was. That bridge was built for the Coliseum; they worked on it night and day, and the work was shabbily done. I know several parties who made considerable money out of it.

Alderman Burnham—If we put the salary at $4500, and discharge our City Engineer, it is said we could easily find another. That is very true. We have already spent $100,000 for a new draw in Broadway bridge, and the Committee on Bridges have already under contemplation another large expenditure. That is the kind of engineering we shall have if we discharge this able engineer and put in his place a man at four or five thousand dollars.

Alderman Burnham's amendment was lost—yeas 5, nays 7.

Yeas—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Viles, Wilder—5.

Nays—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson—7.

City Solicitor. Alderman Fitzgerald offered an amendment to correct a clerical error, so that the salaries given to the Third and Fourth Assistants should be reversed. It was adopted.

Alderman Clark moved to amend by making the City Solicitor's salary $6000, the First Assistant's $3500, as now. There is no occasion, he said, to speak of the qualifications of our City Solicitor, who has been the legal adviser of the city for so many years, or of the First Assistant. Mr. Stackpole, who was the First Assistant, resigned last year and entered upon private practice, probably because he finds it much more lucrative than to remain in the employ of the city. He is employed by the city now, and attending to matters at the State House, and will probably be paid as much as he used to receive for the whole year. If we want a competent legal adviser, he is entitled to receive $6000 a year. If he is not worth that he is not the man we should have for City Solicitor. I have no doubt the Second Assistant deserves all he receives at present. I know that first-class lawyers can hardly come before the Committee on Streets and ask for an abatement of betterment or an increase of damages unless he gets $100 or so for a few minutes. I am informed by Alderman Thompson that the corporation of which he is a member has an agent in Harrisburg—where it costs nothing to live compared with Boston—who receives $10,000 a year, and that they only turn out about $4,000,000 worth of steel rails a year; and that the agent of that company receives $5000 a year for work that does not take him an hour a day. Now, you propose to pay our City Auditor, Treasurer and Collector less than is paid the agent of that corporation, when they have greater responsibility.

Alderman Thompson—I think the gentleman's remarks are a little ironical.

The amendment was rejected—yeas 4, nays 8—Alderman Burnham, Clark, Dunbar and Viles voting yeas.

City Surveyor. This ordinance was amended, on motion of Alderman O'Brien, by striking out the section relating to Assistant City Surveyor, as there is no such office.

Alderman Fitzgerald said it was merely a clerical correction.

East Boston Ferries. Alderman Clark asked for an expression of opinion from Alderman Gibson on the proposed reductions in this department, saying he would be guided by his judgment in this matter.

Alderman Gibson said the directors had intended to take hold of the matter and cut down, but had waited for the committee to report. He did not like all the reductions, and some were not reduced enough, but he would not object. He thought the captains were cut more in proportion than the captain of the J. P. Bradlee, as they are on duty night and day and have greater responsibility.

Superintendent of Printing. $2000. Alderman Clark—It seems to me that an injustice is done here. I understand that the present Superintendent saves the city some $15,000 or $20,000 a year. The department is very economically run. I move that the salary be $2500.

Alderman Thompson—I wish to inform the Alderman that although the Superintendent of Printing saves the city a great deal of money, the Directors for Public Institutions propose to save a great deal more by having the printing done at Deer Island. Under those circumstances I don't think the change will be wise.

Alderman Clark—I should like to hear from the Chairman of the Committee on Printing. He is unusually quiet this afternoon. I am inclined to think that he will agree with me that the Superintendent is an efficient and faithful public servant, and that $2500 a year is small enough.

Alderman O'Brien—I can bear testimony to the faithful service of our Superintendent of Printing. He accomplishes a great deal of good work for the city, but no more than fifty other gentlemen can who have made application to him for that position, and would be perfectly willing to take it at $2000 a year, which I will say is a pretty good salary for a printer. Although I have the highest respect for the Superintendent, I think that $2000 will be ample salary for any man who fills that position. As to the remark made by the Alderman from Charlestown, he would state the printing is to be done hereafter at Deer Island. I have no doubt that very fine printers of the highest type often effect an entrance into Deer Island. Good printers very often get there. But I doubt very much whether the directors will have accomplished what the Alderman says.

Alderman Thompson—In visiting the institutions last week, I was very much pleased to be notified by the president of the Board of Directors that they were going to introduce that trade down to the island, and they are going to educate the boys in the printing trade, and the president had no doubt that during the coming year all the printing of the city would be done down there. That is my authority for making the remark.

Alderman O'Brien—In relation to the remark that I am unusually quiet this afternoon, I would say that I have fought all these matters in committee, and having introduced the report I am not going to stand up in any other way than to defend it. Of course not. When I went into that committee I went bound by its decision. There are many things in this report that I do not like; many that I would like to alter; quite a number I would like to reduce; but I fought all these things in committee and I am not going over it again in this Board.

Alderman Clark—I withdraw the amendment after the explanation of the Chairman of the Committee on Printing.

License Commissioners. $1000. Alderman Clark—I should like an explanation from the committee why such an enormous reduction has been made in the salaries of the License Commissioners?

Alderman Fitzgerald—I happened to be a member of the Council when the salaries of the License Commissioners were first established, and any member who was present will bear testimony that no man did more than I to make the salaries of the License Commissioners what they were. I was under the impression that the work would be arduous, that there would be continual hearings before them in regard to revoking licenses which they had granted, and I thought their time would be occupied from morning till night. It has been in operation two years, and I must confess that I have come to the conclusion that the man who can be a banker, a commission merchant, and go for a few hours in a day and perform the duties of a License Commissioner besides, will be sufficiently paid at $1000 a year. I think I can get three responsible men in the city of Boston to take that position for that sum, and you will get better men without any salary. They are not like heads of departments; they can attend to their own business besides performing these duties. It will be an honorable position even if it is an autocratic one. The salary is more in proportion than others receive, when you consider the hours they work. I should cut them down to nothing; but as Alderman O'Brien said, we are a compromise committee. Every member had his ideas about salaries, and it was only by mutual concessions that we made this report. I should not give a cent to the License Commissioners if I had my way.

Alderman Clark—That is just the explanation I wanted. It has been suggested that the city take charge of the matter, appoint their own commissioners and fix their pay. I know that the License Commissioners have turned into the City Treasury a large amount of money, and if they have discharged their duties as employes of the city and been enabled to run their own business besides, they must have been men of unusual ability, and I trust that in the future we shall be able to find men as efficient as they have been. If, however, we can find men to take that duty for nothing I shall be glad of it.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I wish to correct the gentleman's impression that they are men of great ability from the fact that they discharge their duties as commissioners and attend to their own duties. Their duties occupy them only a few hours a day, and they can give up their time substantially to their own ordinary occupations. The committee were not in favor of abolishing this office, but of retaining it. They were not in favor of giving this duty back to the Board of Aldermen, but they thought the Commissioners can perform their duties efficiently under this ordinance, and that we can get men to do them for this salary. The duties are not severe, and they have not been, except for one or two months in the year—May and June.

Overseers of the Poor. On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the ordinance in relation to Overseers of the Poor was indefinitely postponed, he stating that the statutes gave that Board power to fix the salaries of the employes.

Police Department. Alderman Clark—I hope no discrimination will be made in the salaries of the old and new patrolmen. I move to strike out section 8 [fixing pay of new patrolmen at $2.50 per day]. I can see no reason why men who are appointed by you, sir, shall not receive the same pay as those appointed by your predecessors. If such men are put into the department as should be I see no reason why they should not receive the same pay as the old men. It will create ill-feeling in the department. There may be a good many discharges, and of 1000 men one half may receive $2.50 a day and the other half $3. I hope they will all receive what they honestly earn—$3 a day.

Alderman Gibson—The new men are apprentices, so to speak. A man appointed today is not able to perform the same duty that those are who have had years of experience. An apprentice should not get first-class pay. I think this department ought to be reached in some shape or the other. I had a different way, but will compromise in order to carry this through. Some new men are timid when they get a uniform on; some are proud, and some don't work into the harness like the old men do. I think $2.50 is enough for the new men, and the old men are not worth half they get. There are many old men in the department who are good for nothing, and the city continues their salaries; yet no one speaks of the worn-out laborer in sympathy.

Alderman Burnham—I am inclined to favor the amendment, because from the uncertainty that hangs round this matter. We may not be doing the right thing. The only legal gentleman at this Board confesses that he made the greatest mistake two years ago that he ever made by advocating a certain salary for the License Commissioners.

Alderman Fitzgerald—No, I did not.

Alderman Burnham—I beg pardon. Still he made a great mistake. There seems to be so little evidence that we are doing right in this matter that I shall favor the amendment.

Alderman Fitzgerald—We should be governed by experience. My action in regard to the commissioners was based on the supposition that they were to perform an immense amount of work, which in reality they never performed. Experience has shown that I was wrong. The law of supply and demand governs the Police Department as well as everything else; a new man draws the same pay as an experienced officer, when he cannot perform the same duty. The school teachers receive $600 the first year, $700 the next and $800 the third; and so of the ushers, sub-masters and masters. Why should it not be so of the police? Is it not an injustice to pay a newly-appointed man who knows nothing of the business, as much as one who has had years of experience? I think the conclusion is a wise one. The salary of new men will be $17.50 a week the first year—not a very bad salary. I would take a contract to supply the whole Police Department at that rate with good, efficient, intelligent men.

Alderman Clark—And that is the class of men he proposes to pay $2.50 while he pays men who have been in the department six or twelve months $3 a day. I agree that there never was a time when you could get so many intelligent men as at present. I contend that if a man has brains enough to entitle him to an appointment on the police, he can learn his duty in sixty days so as to be perfectly conversant with it and become as able and efficient as the generality of those in the department. It is doing a great injustice to make this discrimination when you propose to fill up the department with the class of men spoken of by the Alderman.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays, and the amendment was rejected—yeas 3, nays 9—Alderman Burnham, Clark and Dunbar voting yeas.

Superintendent of Public Grounds, $2200. Alderman Clark—I move to make this salary $2500. This salary has never been as high in proportion as those of other superintendents. He has a large property to look after, especially during the spring, summer and autumn months, and he is constantly employed. His salary has never been over $2500 a year. If the officer is competent it is a great injustice to reduce his salary.

The amendment was lost—yeas 3, nays 9, as before.

All the ordinances were passed.

A motion to reconsider, by Alderman Fitzgerald, was lost after a brief discussion by Alderman Clark in favor, and Alderman Thompson opposed.

SINKING FUNDS.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the Board took from the table the report and ordinance to amend ordinance in relation to finance, so that unexpended balances at the close of the financial year shall be carried over to the credit of the several appropriations for the next financial year.

The question was on the passage of the ordinance.

Alderman Clark—At the last meeting of the Board I endeavored to have this subject referred to the Committee on Finance, because I believed it too important a subject to be passed over lightly without being thoroughly understood. I did not succeed in having it referred to the proper committee, but it was laid upon the table, and during the week I have had an opportunity to look into the subject. I still believe that it is a proper subject to be referred to the Finance Committee; but as the Board has declined to do that, I have prepared a few remarks which I propose, with the permission of the Board, to read.

The question involved in the repeal of that portion of the ordinance on finance which provides that the unexpended balances of appropriations shall annually be paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and to be by them used in lieu of direct taxation of the percentages on the debt required by law, is whether there will be sufficient moneys received from betterments, sales of land, etc., by the commissioners, for that purpose, during the coming financial year, provided the commissioners cease paying debt before maturity with said revenue. I shall show, further on, that it will not, and that the commissioners will require a direct tax to fulfil the requirements of the law.

The Debt of the City.

Before proceeding to show this fact, I ask the Board to pause a moment and give their attention to the following exhibit of the condition of the debt of the city of Boston at this date, compared with that of the same April 30, 1867, ten years since; also as applied to the valuation and population of the city at the respective dates:

Funded Debt.
1867.	1877.
$14,011,656.91.	$44,590,672.30.
Valuation.
1867.	1877.
$444,926,100.	$748,878,100.
Population.
1867.	1877.
192,324.	341,919.

The funded debt, less the means on hand for paying the same, was, in 1867, $8,812,287.19; in 1877, $27,977,573.48. The means in 1877 consists of, Sinking Funds, $15,735,964.40; bonds in the hands of the Collector, the payment on which is to go to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, $877,134.42.

The gross debt to each inhabitant in 1867 was $72.85.

The gross debt to each inhabitant in 1877 was $131.41.

In 1867 the valuation of the city was 31 75-100 times as much as the debt. In 1877 the valuation of the city was 16 75-100 as much as the debt.

The debt, less the means on hand for paying the same in 1867, to each inhabitant, was $45.82. The debt, less the means on hand for paying the same in 1877, to each inhabitant, is $81.82. In 1867 the valuation of the city was 50½ times as much as the debt, less the means for paying the same.

In 1877 the valuation of the city is 26 79-100 times as much as the debt, less the means for paying the same. Total amount of debt then existing, and created since the organization of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners in 1870, to this date, is $51,780,032.51; paid and extinguished during the period of six years, $7,189,360.21. Total gross debt outstanding, as before stated, $44,590,672.30.

These are stubborn facts, and show that, notwithstanding the paying off of debt before maturity at par, and not at a premium, by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, as set forth by my friends on the Retrenchment Committee, a great debt is to be paid, and well may be a cause for careful watchfulness on our part as to impairing in the least the means for paying the same.

I do not wish to be understood, however, that the indebtedness incurred during the past ten years was not necessary and called for. It was incurred for demanded improvements, some of which, while holding a seat at this Board, I have voted for, such as the improvement of the streets on the burnt district, the extension of Washington street, and for an additional supply of water; but the figures which I have given I think show most conclusively that the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners have acted wisely in reducing our indebtedness by purchasing and cancelling debt at par before maturity, with revenue received and set apart for that purpose, and which formed no part of the Sinking Funds.

Now, as to paying the debt before maturity, I wish to say a few words: That policy was inaugurated by the establishment of the present Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners, by the ordinance of the City Council of December, 1870, going into effect in January, 1871. Before that date the means for the redemption of the debt were in charge of the Committee on the Reduction of the City Debt, consisting of the Mayor, President of the Common Council, and the chairman of the Committee on Finance on the part of the Common Council, with the Auditor as its secretary.

The establishment of the present board by its advocates was for the very purpose that the debt of the city should be lessened as revenue came in from betterments and all other sources, rather than from the interest on invested funds and the percentages taxed. The reasons for so doing, and they appear to me sound, were that in all cases of street improvements and those of a like nature the city had to borrow a larger amount of money for each improvement than its actual cost in purchasing surrendered estates and whole estates, when only parts were needed for the widening of streets, and that in consequence of these improvements made, betterments would be assessed; therefore that the moneys received from these sources should in each case purchase and cancel the debt of each specific loan, instead of swelling the Sinking Fund and leaving outstanding an enormous debt for years, which in each case would not represent the actual cost of the improvement. The fact is, the city only advanced the money, and as fast as the commissioners received it they paid it back.

Possibly it might have been better to have only issued a loan for a long term of years for the cost of an improvement, less the estimated receipts from betterments and sales of surrendered estates, and then borrowed the remainder only for a short term to cover so much as could be estimated to be received from those betterments and sales of lands. But as these sums are so indefinite at the time of borrowing the money, we do not see that the policy which has been pursued of cancelling the long bonds has not met the case equally as well. Be it remembered that the revenue so received forms no part of the Sinking Fund, but is money received and immediately paid out for the purpose of cancelling debt. Mark well the point, —the moneys so received formed no part of a sinking fund, but as soon as received by the commissioners were applied to purchasing and cancelling debt.

This is the principal debt which has been paid before maturity, and cancelled with the aforesaid revenue, and not from the Sinking Fund means, and to illustrate I may mention the following amounts paid and cancelled since 1870:

Burnt District.....	$704,500
Suffolk-street District.....	698,000
Washington-street Extension.....	215,000
Sundry street improvements.....	700,000

$2,317,500

a saving annually to the taxpayer of $139,050 on interest account.

At this point I will proceed to give a brief history of the several Sinking Funds as established at the present time.

The City Sinking Funds.

These funds are now known upon the books of the Commissioners of the Sinking Funds as the "Old Sinking Fund," "The Consolidated Street Improvement Sinking Fund," "The Cochituate Water Sinking Fund," "The Mystic Water Sinking Fund," "The Burnt District Sinking Fund," and "The New Sinking Fund."

The Old Sinking Fund.

This is the first fund established by the City Council, and with the exception of the Consolidated Street Fund, was the only one in existence up to the close of the year 1870. Its sources of income were the annual tax of three per cent. on the gross debt, the proceeds of sale of all city lands, all betterments from street widenings, all unexpended balances of appropriations, and all excess of revenue over estimates at the close of each financial year. Thus, if any part of the appropriation for Paving, Schools, Police, or any other department of the city, at the beginning of the financial year is unexpended at the close of the year, such sums are called "unexpended balances." The City Council at the beginning of each financial year also makes an estimate of the amount that will be received from unpaid taxes of previous years, rents of buildings owned by the city, the receipts of departments doing work for individuals, etc., the items of which are to be found in the Auditor's estimates, and the sum so estimated is deducted from the tax levy; but, if any excess over such estimates is received, it is called "excess of revenue over estimates," and up to the close of 1870, these sums were paid into the Sinking Fund, which is now called the "Old Sinking Fund," which was established by an ordinance of 1843.

At the close of 1870 it was thought by those who had examined the subject, that the Sinking Fund thus created was growing much too fast, and a new ordinance was passed, which will be touched upon hereafter.

When this ordinance of 1870 was passed, and which has since been supplemented in all its essential particulars, so far as creating a Sinking Fund is concerned, by a State law, the city debt, exclusive of the water debt, was $14,166,789.80, to which there has been added, by the annexation of Charlestown, West Roxbury and Brighton, and by the city loans previously authorized, but not negotiated, $2,680,940.06, making the total, April 30, 1876, which has not been since changed, $16,847,729.86, to be paid from the old Sinking Fund. In the division of that existing Sinking Fund, $8,199,154.73 belonged to this fund, $1,100,000 to the Cochituate Water Sinking Fund, and $212,244.26 to the Consolidated Street Improvement Sinking Fund.

The proceeds of the sale of city lands and street betterments upon improvements that are paid for directly from taxation, and the interest on its invested funds, go to this fund, and will be sufficient to pay the debt as it matures without the assistance of direct taxation. This fund has not, since 1870, been aided by direct taxation, neither has any money been raised in that way to pay maturing debts chargeable to it. This fund has a large amount of debt to pay, maturing within three years.

Consolidated Street Improvement Sterling Sinking Fund.

In 1869 the City Council authorized a foreign loan of £800,000, thirty years to run, to carry out the contemplated widening of Hanover street, laying out of Atlantic avenue, improvement of Fort Hill, and raising the Church-street district. By the terms of this loan all the betterments and proceeds of sales of remainders of surrendered estates collected from these works were to be set apart and invested as a Sinking Fund to redeem the debt. The terms of the contract with the Messrs. Baring Brothers of London were that £8000 should be redeemed annually, at a price not exceeding par; and, further, that the city should pay the full interest upon the whole sum borrowed for the entire term of thirty years, thus making the annual interest £40,000; but that portion of the interest paid upon debt cancelled is to be used in purchasing and cancelling debt. The amount which will have been paid at the maturity of the loan in this way will be some £240,000 in instalments and about £250,000 in interest. The Sinking Fund, after paying the required instalments, now amounts to $1,219,929.29, to which, under the terms of the Barings' contract, $200,000 to $300,000 more will be added. The fund will be greater than its purposes require, but there seems to be no proper method of diverting its natural accretions from it, as the terms of the contract with the lenders would not seem to allow such action on the city's part. The experience of this contract and loan, with the other causes before mentioned, led to the ordinance of 1870. Taxation on account of this fund has ceased.

Mystic Water Sinking Fund.

This fund has been created up to this time by the excess of revenue over expenses, and until this year has been sufficient to meet the debt as it matured. During the past year it became entirely exhausted, and the Sinking Fund Commissioners have had to aid it to the extent of $25,152.96, to meet maturing loans. The future earnings of the Mystic Water Works are somewhat uncertain, but it is probable that the excess of revenue over the expenses of carrying on the works and paying the interest on the outstanding debt will with its accumulations be sufficient to meet the debt hereafter at maturity. The commissioners will not ask for taxation for this fund this year.

Sinking Funds under Ordinance of Dec., 1870.

These are the Cochituate Water, Burnt District, Sterling, and New Sinking Funds, which last comprises all the loans made since for street improvements (except those in the Burnt District), public buildings, raising Suffolk and Northampton street districts. The Burnt District Fund was separated from that of the New Sinking Fund on account of the implication in the negotiation with the Messrs. Barings of London that it should be a separate one.

The processes by which the three last-mentioned funds are accumulated are entirely different from those employed with the funds first noted. It is by direct taxation. No revenue has, as yet, been received from the Cochituate Water Works. By the 1870 ordinance the city was required to raise annually by taxation one and a half per cent. of the amount of a thirty-year loan, three per cent. of the amount of a twenty-year loan, and six per cent. of a ten-year loan, for payment to the Sinking Fund Commissioners. These amounts, with the interest on them, properly invested, were deemed ample to pay the debt at its maturity. By this method the burden of the taxation for it was evenly distributed over the entire term of the loan. The recent State law fixes the rate at eight per cent. on the amount of a ten-year loan, and allows the Sinking Fund Commissioners to adjust the percentages for the twenty and thirty-year loans, which have been established by them at three and a half per cent. on the former and two per cent. on the latter class of loans. It will be seen by this process that the revenues from betterments and surrendered estates are not made a part of the sinking funds, but, as soon as paid into the treasury are used directly in reducing the debt. And this is the radical difference between us in the discussion of this question.

If I have made myself understood, it will be seen that these several funds have been based upon entirely different principles. The ordinance that existed when a loan was created became a part of the contract between the city and its creditor. But it would seem from the data upon which the Committee on Retrenchment base their reasoning, that their course would be in violation of these contracts as well as the statute law, to pool all these funds in one. They seem to be striving after a process by which the whole city debt can be paid as it matures without further burden to the taxpayer, assuming assets of an entirely problematical nature, for the receipt of which the future gives no certain promise or security. Does any mind fail to perceive the advantages of following in the well-ascertained path in this matter, which has to show the careful and successful administration of the city's finances attained by these commissioners of these funds, to turning to a course of what is, as yet, a questionable and merely theoretical line of action?

The Requirements of the Sinking Fund Commissioners.

Having briefly as possible given a plain statement of the workings of our financial system as applicable to the redemption of the debt of the city, I proceed to the question immediately before us. Taking it for granted, for the sake of the argument, that the policy of the Retrenchment Committee will be adopted, of using the balances to relieve taxation, and directing all moneys received from betterments, etc., to be paid into the Sinking Funds, thereby stopping the paying and cancelling debt before maturity, will there be a sufficient amount of income received by the commissioners from those sources to enable them to give the funds the per centages required by law?

The percentage requirements of law are as follows:

Burnt District Sinking Fund.. .. .	$206,958.00
New Sinking Fund.....	400,135.00
Cochituate Water Sinking Fund.....	230,854.00

Total for the three funds..... $837,947.00

It will be seen that only three of the six funds require taxation. The committee, in their report, say that the average annual requirements of the Sinking Funds is $1,511,868, of which $800,000 will be derived from interests on investments. The difficulty with the report of the Committee on Retrenchment is that they have treated the subject in the aggregate, instead of taking into view the wants of each fund separately. The largest portion of this interest belongs to the Old Sinking Fund.

Now, the question is, how is this amount of $837,947 to be raised for the commissioners, without the balances of appropriations of this year, and the commissioners not using the proceeds from betterments, etc., to purchase and cancel debt before maturity.

There will be received by the commissioners from excess of license revenue over expenditures at the close of the year, say, $125,000, and the City Council, by order, have expressly directed that it shall be used for purchasing and cancelling debt.

It is estimated by the Auditor, that it will not be safe to calculate on more than $75,000 from the excess of income and taxes over estimated income and taxes, April 30, 1877; it may, however, exceed that sum.

The whole amount of outstanding bonds and betterment assessments, the proceeds from which are to be paid to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, is included in the following table:

Public Land and Street Improvement and other Bonds.

Due.
1864.....	$11,919.75
1867.....	500.00
1870.....	250.00
1871.....	1,228.00
1872.....	5,944.00
1873.....	10,798.25
1874.....	15,013.25
1875.....	25,771.67
1876.....	95,128.53
1877.....	110,511.45
1878.....	314,546.49
1879.....	90,546.56
1880.....	66,257.81
1881.....	54,709.13
1882.....	50,966.28
1883.....	19,327.95
1884.....	1,590.45
1885.....	1,204.45
1886.....	920.45

$877,134.42

Of the bonds there are pledged as follows:

To the old Sinking Fund, Public Land and other bonds.....	$314,999.31
Consolidated Street Improvement Sterling Sinking Fund.....	239,575.50
Cochituate Water Works Sinking Fund..	3,088.00
	$557,562.81

Leaving $319,571.61 belonging to the Sinking Funds requiring taxation, viz.: the Burnt District Sinking Fund and the New Sinking Fund. Of this amount not more than one-half can be relied upon to be paid during the coming year.

Betterments, Feb. 1, 1877.

	Outstanding.	In suit.
Old Sinking Fund.....	$117,705.48	$55,437.36
Burnt District Fund....	417,756.39	307,233.37
Street improvements...	438,091.57	315,903.37
Consolidated Street improvement.....	187,021.34	28,900.00
	$1,160,574.78	$707,474.10

Of the above amount there has been apportioned to be paid in the several years mentioned below—

	Outstanding.	In suit.
1876.....	$95,312.25	$68,084.36
1877*.....	165,152.50	71,653.43
1878.....	7,601.35
1879.....	1,378.01
	$269,444.11	$139,737.79

*Probably will not be paid until after the close of the financial year 1877-78.

These tables show that the total amount of revenue to be derived from the source of betterments, the payment of the same covering several years, amount to $1,160,574.78, and of that amount $707,474.10 is in suit at law, leaving only $453,120.68, from which receipts are to be depended upon for the coming year.

These sources of revenue are very uncertain, as my friend, the Alderman from Ward 21, who is Chairman of the Committee on Public Lands, well knows; for through his committee land bonds to a large amount, received from sales of public lands and estates in the Suffolk-street District, have been cancelled and the land taken possession of by the city. There have been no sales of land by the city for two years past of any amount.

The amount which the commissioners can rely upon for a certainty as being the receipts from these sources, outside of those pledged to the Old Sinking and Consolidated Street Improvement Sterling Fund during the coming financial year 1877-78, for the percentages required by law, should not be placed at more than $300,000; this sum, with the $75,000 from the excess of income and taxes, will give $375,000 to meet the requirement, $837,947—leaving $462,947 to be met by taxation.

Having been at much pains to ascertain the actual facts in the case, I deemed it of the utmost importance that they should be laid before the Board to guide us in our action, as we all believe that our credit should be maintained. That is the point, Mr. Mayor. If these balances are carried forward and deducted from the appropriations for the coming year, it leaves $462,947 to be raised by taxation to keep up the Sinking Fund as required by the statutes of Massachusetts, and to meet the obligations we have entered into with the parties from whom we have borrowed money. No member of this Board will go further than myself in relieving the taxpayer, at this time of continued depression, of any burden that I can rightfully, and at the same time comply with the law and preserve the credit of our city. I think I have clearly shown that if the commissioners do not receive the balances of appropriation this year, and they are required to stop the purchase and cancellation of debt before maturity, with revenue not belonging to the Sinking Funds, they will require taxation to meet the deficiency in the moneys which they will receive from the betterments, as before mentioned.

I therefore do not think, as I have before indicated, that a change should be made at this time in the policy which has been pursued since 1834, of closing up the annual appropriation accounts and paying the balances into the Sinking Funds for the redemption of the debt of the city. This closing of the annual accounts and disposing of the balances has also been considered a barrier to extravagance in expenditures.

By making a change a benefit does not always follow, and in this case I think it will be a change merely for a change, with no commensurate benefit. This is to be deprecated at all times. I trust that the ordinance will not pass—it ought not to pass.

Thus, Mr. Mayor, I have endeavored to give a history of the Sinking Funds and a statement of their present condition. If the city can judiciously and wisely turn the balances of this year into the appropriations of next year, if it can be done with safety, and thereby prevent a direct tax of $800,000, which is about the amount of the balance of the appropriation, I certainly shall not object to it. I have given a statement of the facts as I believe they exist, precisely; and it seems to me that there is no question but, if the order is adopted, that a direct tax of over $460,000 will be required this year to keep the Sinking Funds up to the amount required by law. Therefore I still hope that the ordinance will be referred to the Finance Committee, or that it will not be adopted.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am glad to know that not $800,000 will be required, but $400,000. That is so much saved. Now, sir, the Alderman said that in the report of the committee we gave the aggregate amount of the debt, and upon that aggregate based the amount which should be raised yearly; and that we did not take separately each and every one of the funds, and credit to each of them the amount which is necessary to be raised on each to pay the interest on the debt and also a sufficient amount to meet the debt at maturity. He said in addition that the cancellation of bonds was an excellent thing. The debt cancelled the past year is as follows;

Statement of the Debt Cancelled from May 1, 1876, to Feb. 21, 1877.

$4,000 .....	Due in .....	1882-83
12,000 .....	" .....	1885-86
9,000 .....	" .....	1890-91
369,000 .....	" .....	1891-92
62,000 .....	" .....	1892-93
9,000 .....	" .....	1893-94
271,000 .....	" .....	1894-95

$736,000

We have paid this year $736,000 of debt that will not be payable till fifteen or twenty years from now; and in addition to all that, you have paid interest into the Sinking Funds to meet all the other immatured debt. If that could be done in the three months of this year that have elapsed, I ask, Why cannot the Sinking Fund Commissioners do without $800,000 next year, and not cancel any debt, and allow it to run, so that for the next twenty years the people who live in 1893, 1895 and 1897 shall bear their proportionate share of the taxes to meet this debt at maturity? I go further and say that the Sinking Fund Commissioners have no authority in law to cancel any of the debt; that what they have been doing is in violation of law; that there is no authority vested in them to cancel a single cent of the debt of this city; and in order to confirm my ideas about it, here is a letter from the City Solicitor:

CITY SOLICITOR'S OFFICE, }
2 PEMBERTON SQUARE, }
BOSTON, Feb. 26, 1877. }

Sir—In reply to the question you proposed to me, namely, "Whether the Sinking Fund Commissioners have authority in law to buy and cancel bonds of the city of Boston, either before, at or after maturity; and if so, does the law require the Sinking Fund to be in any, and in what condition?" I respectfully submit the following opinion:

The Sinking Fund Commission was originally established, and its powers and duties defined, by ordinance. There being then no statute requiring such a commission, or the providing of such a fund, it was competent for the City Council to create, in its discretion, a Sinking Fund Commission, and to invest it with such powers, not contravening any law, as it should deem expedient. In the year 1870 the City Council did establish by ordinance a Sinking Fund Commission, and among the powers conferred upon it was that of purchasing or paying with the funds in its possession any part of the capital of the debt of the city, in the manner it might from time to time deem expedient. This ordinance stands now unrepealed by any action of the City Council.

But in the year 1875 the statute was enacted, entitled "An Act to Regulate and Limit Municipal Indebtedness," which requires the establishment of a Sinking Fund Commission, and a Sinking Fund or funds; provides for the election of commissioners, and defines their powers and duties. This statute and the said ordinance are not in entire harmony, and the provisions of the ordinance are annulled by the statute so far as they are in conflict with it. The statute provides in section 5, that "the commissioners shall receive all sums contributed to a sinking fund and invest and re-invest the same, and the income thereof as it shall accrue, in the name of the Board, in the particular scrip, notes or bonds for the redemption of which such Sinking Fund was established," or in other securities which are therein enumerated; and the ordinance provides that "whenever any debt to be paid from the Sinking Fund becomes due, the commissioners shall furnish the treasurer, from the funds in their care, for said payment, the sum required, or so much as shall be to the credit of said debt or loan."

The commissioners then, in my judgment, have no right to pay and cancel any bond of the city at any time. If a bond matures in their possession, their duty is to collect it and reinvest the amount. They are trustees to hold and manage the funds put into their care, but have no power of appropriation. When a fund is needed for the purpose for which it was created, they are to pay it to the treasurer, and can have no further control or direction of it.

The payment of the city bonds, or of any of them, can be anticipated only by the action of the City Council.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
J. P. HEALY.

The act referred to is the one under which they claim the right to tax the citizens of Boston 8 per cent. on 10-year bonds, 2 per cent. on 30-year bonds, and insist that it shall be done. That is the act they have been violating. So that, sir, the Sinking Fund Commissioners have been accumulating this money received from all sources. It was, as I said, the omnium gatherum into which everything went. They have been paying interest on the debt, to be sure. Everything went along so swimmingly, so much money has gone in, that they do not see how they can get along now in the way the law provides. We simply made this report so that for next year at least—while real estate yields no more than four per cent. on the original investment—we shall get along as economically as possible; and so that the Sinking Fund Commissioners shall cancel no more debt and shall take no more from the citizens of Boston than is actually necessary to pay the actual interest on the debt, with a sufficient sum laid aside from year to year to pay the debt at maturity. Now to my point: The gentleman said that we had not given the Sinking Funds separately, and the amount required for each fund. I have here a detailed statement of each fund, amount necessary to be raised each year in order to pay the interest on the outstanding indebtedness, and the amount required by law to be laid aside to meet the debt at maturity.

Statement of the Sinking Funds on the 31st day of January, 1877. This Estimate of receipts does NOT include Revenue from Betterments, Sales of Public Lands, Liquor Licenses, and Rents, for February, March, and April, 1877, and from April 30, 1877, to April 30, 1878, Old Sinking Fund:

Debt, average due in eight years.....	$13,402,270.60
Less Bonds held by this Fund.....	8,914,675.00
Balance of Debt to be provided for....	$4,578,595.60
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878.....	$597,220.47
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$1,789,574.72
Consolidated Street Improvement Sinking Fund (Hanover Street, Atlantic Avenue, and Fort Hill):
Debt, average due in 22 years.....	$3,516,586.86
Less Bonds held by this Fund.....	1,114,000.00
Balance of Debt to be provided for....	$2,402,586.86
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878.....	$84,317.76
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$214,996.14
Burnt District Sinking Fund:
Debt, average due in 17 years.....	$5,935,103.73
Less Bonds held by this Fund.....	636,000.00
Balance of Debt to be provided for....	$5,299,103.73
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878....	268,260.07
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$361,549.42

New Sinking Fund (Street-improvement Sinking Fund, Suffolk-street District and Public Buildings):
Debt, average due in 14 years.....	$8,915,000.00
Less Bonds held by this fund.....	1,276,000.00
Balance of Debt to be provided for....	$7,639,000.00
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878.....	$501,977.79
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$760,278.74
Cochituate Water Sinking Fund:
Debt, average due in 22 years.....	$11,548,711.11
Less Bonds held by this Fund.....	1,430,000.00
Balance of Debt to be provided for....	$10,118,711.11
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878.....	$355,110.00
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$716,016.23
*This amount includes premium on sales of Water Loans, Oct. 1, 1875, $1,000,000; April 1, 1876, $552,000; Oct. 1, 1876, $2,000,000—$363,456.80; which now stands to the credit of Additional Supply of Water and Water Works, Wards 17 and 19.
Mystic Water Sinking Fund:
Debt, average due in 11 years.....	$1,249,000.00
Sum sufficient, with its accumulation, to extinguish the debt at maturity, for 15 months, to April 30, 1878.....	$112,567.12
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$67,259.00
†This amount includes the estimated revenue from Mystic Water Works, April 30, 1877, $65,000. No debt due on the fund after April 30, 1876, till 1881.
Liquor License Revenue:
No debt.
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1887, and estimated amount of interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$203,354
Total amount required to extinguish the debt at maturity, to April 30, 1878....	$1,919,453.21
Total amount of accrued interest to be received up to April 30, 1878.....	$3,908,877.79
Excess of funds over amount required, April 30, 1878.....	$1,990,424.58
If a Tax was levied, as fixed by the Ordinances, it would be as follows:
January 31, 1877.
10-year Loans, $4,091,590.60 at 8 per ct.	$327,327.24
20-year Loans, 14,737,903.73 at 3½ "	515,826.62
30-year Loans, 12,457,502.97 at 2 "	249,150.04
	$31,286,997.30
	$1,092,303.90
In addition to this I have also a
Statement of the Receipts and Disbursements of the Sinking Funds from Jan. 31, 1877, to April 30, 1878, NOT including Revenue from Betterments, Sales of Public Lands, Liquor Licenses and Rents.
Cash on hand Jan. 31, 1877.....	$2,364,964.49
Receipts from Jan. 31, 1877, to April 30, 1877—
Interest on bonds, premium on sale of water loans and revenue from Mystic Water Works, estimated.....	720,281.80
	$3,085,246.29
Disbursements from Jan. 31, 1877, to April 30, 1877—
Debt due and overdue, including premium on gold.....	684,000.00
Cash on hand April 30, 1877, will be....	$2,401,246.29
Receipts from April 30, 1877, to April 30, 1878—
Interest on bonds.....	824,631.50
	$3,225,877.79
Disbursements from April 30, 1877, to April 30, 1878—
Debt due in 1877-78, including exchange and premium on gold.....	1,005,700.00
Cash on hand April 30, 1878, will be....	$2,220,177.79
Cash April 30, 1878.....	$2,220,177.79
Estimated revenue from betterments, sales of public lands, liquor licenses and rents, for fifteen months, to April 30, 1878.....	600,000.00
	$2,820,177.79

The Alderman opposite said it has been a poor year for the sale of land; yet, notwithstanding all that, $700,000 and more have been received from these revenues, and it is fair to say that as much will be received next year as last, although we put it down to $600,000. I think I have shown this Board that, if the Sinking Fund Commissioners will only look at it in a calm light and with a view of lessening the taxes, and not with a view of carrying out their own ideas, despite the City Council, there will be no need of receiving one cent of taxes to meet the interest on the debt, and it will also place a sufficient amount to the credit of these funds to meet the debt at maturity. There is no need of raising one cent by taxation, and in the depression of the times, in the interest of economy, the commissioners ought not to ask for one cent. It is for that reason we reported the ordinance before the Board. I hope it will not be referred to the Committee on Finance, but pass this Board and go to the other branch, so that the appropriation bill for the ensuing year can be cut down accordingly.

The motion to refer to the Committee on Finance was declared lost. Alderman Clark doubted the vote and called for the yeas and nays. The motion was lost—yeas 4, nays 8.

Yeas—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Viles—4.

Nays—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, Gibson, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson, Wilder—8.

The ordinance was passed.

A motion to reconsider, by Alderman Fitzgerald, was lost.

Sent down.

MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION EXHIBITION AND THE COMMON.

Alderman Clark submitted the following:

The Joint Standing Committee on Common and Public Grounds, to whom was referred the remonstrance of W. H. Whitmore and others, against permitting the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association to erect a temporary building on the Common, has given a public hearing, extending through two days, to the remonstrants, and now begs leave to report to the City Council that the reasons urged at these hearings do not seem to be sufficient to alter the opinion of the committee as expressed in its previous report. The arguments made favoring the erection of such a building on the Common are mainly based on the belief that in our present depressed state of business a stimulus in the form of a large and thoroughly organized industrial exhibition would go far to revive the various industries on which the prosperity of our city depends. The grounds taken by the remonstrants are, that there are other vacant tracts of land that would answer the purpose equally well, and, further, that to erect a building on the Common is to establish a bad precedent. The first of these objections does not appear to be well founded, as no land of equal accessibility has been pointed out; and more than this, it would be impossible to find a spot in this city possessing so much natural beauty, a feature, which, in all past exhibitions, has been found to be a most valuable auxiliary to their success. The question of precedence is a very indefinite one, which admits of a great deal of argument on both sides; and it is therefore only necessary to say here that the committee are certain that the City Council would be justified, by the action of various city governments in years gone by, in granting the petitioners the right they now ask for. To the question as to what purposes the Common may be put, the committee is inclined to give a liberal construction. The eagerness which the other great cities in this country have shown to advance at any cost their material interests, has not been exhibited in Boston to half the extent that its importance deserved. In consequence of this neglect we have allowed our rivals to go far in advance of us in those material advantages which have so much to do in making a city great and prosperous. If by this slight grant we can do something to counteract our past neglect, it seems to the committee that the balance between gain and loss to the city is included greatly in favor of the former; the committee, therefore, recommend that the order as originally reported be passed.

The order granting the permit attached to the original report was read.

Alderman Thompson—This subject has excited a great deal of interest in the public mind. A large number of persons signed the petition in favor, and a large number signed the remonstrance. Unfortunately for the remonstrants, that hearing was before the committee, and members of the Council know little of the evidence or feelings manifested at these hearings. It seems to me, as an act of justice to the remonstrants, that the report of the committee and the report of the evidence at the hearings should be printed, so that the members of this Board and the other branch can act intelligently upon this matter. I presume that very few members of the City Council were present at the hearing, and know very little of the objections introduced. For that reason I hope the Board will have the matter printed.

Alderman Clark—I am very glad the Alderman has made the request because we have a large amount of testimony on the one side and on the other, and I was about to ask permission of the Board to have all of the evidence which was taken down by the short-hand reporter printed for the information of the City Council. It seems to me, sir, that the report should be laid upon the table and printed, together with the testimony taken before the committee.

Alderman Fitzgerald—What is the need of that? I presume nearly every member has made up his mind, and that the evidence will not change it. We have all particular ideas about the Common, and we all have ideas about whether the petition should be granted or not. What John Jones or John Smith said on one side or on the other would not change my opinion. I would not make a very great objection if it is not going to be voluminous.

Alderman Clark—It will be quite a voluminous document. We occupied two days in taking testimony. I think there is no question about the minds of the members of the Board being made up, and if they are ready to vote on it tonight I shall be glad to have it come to a vote. The association desire to know whether they can have permission to use a part of the Common or not, as, if they are, they wish to be making arrangements. I will withdraw the motion that the document be laid upon the table, and move that the order take its second reading.

Alderman Thompson—I made the motion previous to the Alderman and I make the same motion now in regard to the order going through tonight. It seems to me that as a matter of justice to these remonstrants, the evidence should be printed for the benefit of the other branch, if not for this. These gentlemen asked for the hearing, and it was suggested that the hearing be before the committee. Now it seems to me that they were entitled to a hearing before this Board, but as we have had a great deal of business for the last two or three weeks, I presume that it was thought best to have the hearing before the committee. The remonstrants have evinced a great deal of interest in this matter and have displayed a great deal of energy, and I say, in justice to the large and respectable number of the remonstrants, that they are entitled to this, that they may feel that they have had a fair hearing before the City Council. When we consider that the committee had made up their minds, when this remonstrance was presented to them, to grant the prayer of this association, it seems to me that it is not giving the remonstrants a fair show to pass this snap judgment at this time without allowing the other branch at least to know what the objections are. As a matter of justice to the large and respectable portion of our citizens who are much interested about this thing, I say that they are entitled to this courtesy at our hands.

Alderman O'Brien—I would not urge action on this matter tonight, but it appears to me that printing so voluminous a document is altogether unnecessary. There is not a paper in the city of Boston that has not published a brief or a full abstract of all the testimony taken before the committee. There is not a member of this Board but understands this matter thoroughly and perfectly, and I doubt if many members of the Board will read the evidence after it is printed. Members of the City Council must be pretty well posted about it now.

Alderman Thompson—It seems to me that the reports in the papers have been very brief. All the reports I have seen in the papers in relation to the hearing referred to the hearing; but I have seen nothing full.

Alderman O'Brien—All the reports in the morning papers gave a good idea of the evidence of each of the parties who appeared as remonstrants and also the evidence on the other side. So far as I can see, I think with the Alderman from the Highlands [Alderman Fitzgerald] that the subject is sufficiently understood to act upon it without any unnecessary expense. The document we propose to print will cost a considerable sum of money, and I think that should be saved.

Alderman Clark—A petition came here from the President and Board of Government of the Charitable Mechanic Association for the use of a certain portion of the Common. There was no opposition to it whatever. In aid of that were petitions signed by Leopold Morse and a good many other active merchants of the city; another signed by Charles G. Greene and other gentlemen of the South End, and another by Otis Norcross, George C. Richardson and a good many others. The committee took it into consideration. There was not a particle of opposition, and from the evidence which the committee could gather, they had partially made up their minds, and in fact had reported to the Board of Aldermen. But a remonstrance came in, and the Board of Aldermen directed that the report be recommitted, with instructions to give the remonstrants a hearing. An opportunity was offered to them, if they had asked for it, to have a hearing before this Board. The parties who had the management of the opposition stated that it would suit them to have a hearing before the committee. The committee gave the remonstrants an opportunity to be heard; they devoted two days to hearing both the remonstrants and the petitioners, and they would have given them another day had they required it. Both sides were ably presented, and the committee have come to the same conclusion after hearing every objection that could be raised to it. There were objections from every source that objectionable could come from, and still the committee are of opinion that the prayer of the petitioners should be granted. Now, Mr. Mayor, I claim that it is not fair to call this a snap judgment of the Committee on Common and Squares. There was nothing else for the committee to do but to make up their minds and report. Their first report was presented to the Board of Aldermen, although it was not read; the committee had considered it thoroughly, and there was no opposition to it. When the opposition came, a fair opportunity to make out a case was given to the petitioners, as my associates upon the Board will testify; and notwithstanding all that they have heard, the committee came to the conclusion they did before. We took the precaution to have a short-hand reporter, so that in case the Board desired to have the evidence on both sides printed, they could have it. If the members of the Board are ready to vote upon this subject tonight I shall be glad of it. If the opponents of this measure desire delay, the committee will cheerfully acquiesce in it, and have all the papers connected with the matter printed. If, on the other hand, the Board are ready to vote tonight, it will undoubtedly be desirable on the part of the institution, because they wish to know as soon as possible whether or not this request is to be granted or denied. If granted, they commence arranging for the erection of the building immediately; if denied, they abandon the idea of having any exhibition this year. Those are the facts, and if the Board are ready to vote upon them, I shall be glad to have them do so.

Alderman Wilder—I am quite ready to act upon this question now. I believe the newspapers published all there was of substantial interest that occurred before the hearing, and it has been fully and freely discussed. I am not particular about acting on it this evening, although I think it best to do so; but I am decidedly opposed to spending any money for printing a document so voluminous and expensive as that will be, and that will not contain any information that is of use to anybody. I desire to say that I am opposed to spending any money for printing.

Alderman Robinson—At this late hour I don't wish to take up any time, but simply to confirm what the chairman of the committee has said. We had the petition presented to us, we gave it careful consideration and we submitted our report, and the first that we knew of any opposition was when the remonstrance was about to be read. Most of the remonstrants are gentlemen whom I highly respect, many of them are personal friends of mine; but the arguments that they used are mostly of a sentimental character. We felt, or I have felt, that the Exposition at Philadelphia established what exhibitions have got to be in this country in order to insure success. The remonstrants pointed out no suitable place, although it will probably be argued that sufficient ground can be obtained that is easy of access. Within the last week, since the hearing, I have seen an article in the papers signed by some of our best men of Boston, many of them my strong personal friends, and almost all the signers of that paper are gentlemen I know by acquaintance or reputation; and they request that the exhibition shall not be held on the Common. The petitioners asked as a favor that the remonstrants would find or point out a place that would be suitable, and there was no answer except in regard to some place about Fort Hill, which would not give them as much space as they had before in Faneuil and Quincy halls. In order to insure the association some remuneration for the outlay in erecting this building, it should be placed in a spot easy of access, where gentlemen can go not once or twice, but probably a dozen times; where our own working people, for the moderate price of twenty-five cents, can go with their families, and see and enjoy almost everything that was exhibited at Philadelphia without the expense of travelling to that city. There are a great many articles now packed, intended—

Alderman Thompson—I rise to a point of order. The gentleman is not speaking to the question. My motion is that the report and the evidence be printed. I don't propose to discuss the question of holding the exhibition there, at this time. We are speaking upon the question of printing.

The Mayor—The Chair decides the point well taken. The question is upon laying upon the table and having the evidence taken by the committee printed.

Alderman Thompson—I desire to have this printed because I insist that the remonstrants have not had a fair hearing. They petitioned for a hearing before—

Alderman O'Brien—Is this question debatable?

The Mayor—The motion to lay upon the table is not debatable, but the question of printing might be debated.

Alderman Thompson—These gentlemen have not—

Alderman Robinson—I rise to a point of order. The gentleman is not speaking to the question.

Alderman Thompson—I was giving my reason why it should be printed.

Alderman Robinson—I was giving my reason why it should not be printed.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I raise the point that the Mayor did not understand the point of order; that the motion included the printing, which is debatable.

Alderman Thompson—Mr. Mayor, I believe I have the floor.

The Mayor—Alderman Thompson has the floor.

Alderman Thompson—The remonstrants asked for a hearing, and one of them happened to be here, and he said that if the committee desired it he would have a hearing before the committee; but a majority of the remonstrants desired to be heard before this Board, and they earnestly request that this evidence taken at the hearing may be printed, not only for the benefit of this Board, but of the Council, that an intelligent conclusion can be arrived at upon this question. In justice to those gentlemen who comprise a large and respectable portion of our citizens, I think this request should be granted. If it is a matter of expense, I have no doubt those gentlemen will bear the expense. At any rate, I will see that that part of the bill is provided for. It seems to me that it is nothing more than just to a large portion of our citizens.

Alderman O'Brien—I hope the Alderman from Dorchester will now be allowed to go on with his remarks by general consent.

Alderman Robinson—I will say nothing more.

The Mayor—The Chair takes the liberty to say that he retracts his ruling in reference to the gentleman being out of order. The question of laying on the table is not debatable, but coupled with the motion is a proposition to print, which is debatable, and any discussion that is germane to that would be in order.

Alderman Robinson—It was not my intention to say anything more when I was called to order. I was simply speaking about the treasurers of the mills and the merchants who signed that paper, some of the best men in the city, and most of them are my personal friends, and I know by reputation almost every one who signed that paper. They said it would be impolitic to put it on Boston Common, and therefore they know all about it, although they were not present at the hearing. It is too late to go into the discussion of this question now.

Alderman Clark—It is a fact that the party most interested in the opposition asked for a hearing before the committee and I wish to say this, that out of seven of the remonstrances presented to the Board of Aldermen and the committee, Mr. W. H. Whitmore's name appears upon every single one of them. So I submit whether or not Mr. Whitmore was not the prime mover in this remonstrance; and I submit that whatever Mr. Whitmore requested in regard to the hearing was granted. Every one of those remonstrants was signed by Mr. Whitmore and by some other parties. I only state this because it was at the request of Mr. Whitmore that this hearing occurred before the committee and not before the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman O'Brien—Mr. Whitmore was present at the meeting of the Board when that hearing was granted, and he stated distinctly to me that the hearing before a committee would be satisfactory.

Alderman Clark—I make this explanation because it is well known that I am in favor of this measure, and because I am not opposed to the present investigation. If the parties opposed to granting this petition are willing to act upon the matter tonight, I shall not object. If, on the contrary, members desire to have all the evidence printed, I have not the slightest objection.

Alderman Gibson—I am prepared to vote upon this question tonight, and I hope it will not be deferred. The Alderman from the Bunker Hill District gives as a reason why it should be printed, that it will throw light upon the question. It will be a costly document; it will be a waste of money, and only fill up our shelves at City Hall without being of any public benefit. It strikes me that the gentlemen occupying these chairs need no more light. Certainly, I shall be pleased to settle the question tonight.

Alderman Thompson—Does the Alderman realize that the question has got to go to the other branch and be acted upon there?

Alderman Gibson—That is so, and it may come back again if we act tonight. We will put it ahead as far as we can.

Alderman Thompson called for the yeas and nays upon the motion to lay upon the table.

Alderman Fitzgerald called for a division of the question.

The Mayor—The order under the rule would lie over as of course, and the question should be upon taking it up and considering it at this time.

Alderman Wilder—Is not the question before the Board on the motion of Alderman Thompson? The Chair stated that as he understood the rule this order would of course lie over, and that the question would be upon taking it up and considering it at this time. The motion made by Alderman Thompson is that it lie upon the table to be printed, with such evidence as the committee took in the matter, and that is the proposition which has been under consideration. Now a motion is made for a division of the question. The Chair rules that the first part of the question is laid upon the table as a matter of course, and the motion then would be upon printing.

Alderman Clark—I move that the order take its second reading at the present time.

Alderman Thompson—I raise the point of order that the motion to lay upon the table and print has not been disposed of. That question must be disposed of first.

The Mayor—If the order is upon the table, and not before the Board, the Chair is unable to see how it can be laid upon the table.

Alderman Thompson—My motion was to lay upon the table and print.

The Mayor—It is now upon the table. The Chair suggests that the order be taken from the table.

Alderman Fitzgerald—In deference to those who are opposed to this measure—I do not know how many there are, as it seems to be a foregone conclusion that it will go through this Board—I think sufficient time should be given to them to state their objections. Judging from what has been said, I have no doubt it will pass this Board.

Alderman Clark—I will endeavor to give the opposition all the opportunity to express their views if they see fit, even if it take seven days. It is a question we can settle tonight, even if we do not want to have this evidence printed. Upon the passage of the order any member who is opposed to it can have the amplest opportunity to express his views against its passage. Therefore I hope the order will take its second reading at the present time, unless it is desired to have it printed.

Alderman Thompson—The original report of the committee and the order have never been read.

Alderman Clark—I call for the reading of the first report.

Alderman Thompson—I desire to conclude my remarks. I was going to say, Mr. Mayor, at this late period, it was my desire that the report of the committee and all that they had to say upon the question might be printed, together with the report of the hearings, so that we could act upon this matter intelligently; but, if the matter is to go through tonight, I am not prepared to act, and shall not be any better prepared if the report and the evidence is not printed. It is not only on account of myself, but I think that I have some regard for the other branch of the City Council. I am sure from the reports I have seen in the papers that we could not arrive at an intelligent opinion upon the subject. The gentleman referred to what was said in the hearing of the petitioners in regard to Fort Hill being the only place where they could go to; I would state that they were also referred to the lower part of Commonwealth avenue, where there is plenty of land. I don't know but some other place might have been referred to. That is the very thing we shall know if the evidence is printed.

Alderman Robinson—Is the gentleman in order?

Alderman Thompson—That is what I desire to arrive at. Now when you consider the gentleman's friends in the same line of business, the people who would be expected to exhibit their manufactures at this exhibition, are opposed to holding anything of that kind upon the Common; and a majority of the manufacturers of domestic goods are opposed to it, as has been published in the papers. Why, if the evidence is not to be printed I shall be in no better condition to vote next week than I am tonight. My desire is to have it printed, that the other branch may understand it thoroughly. If am compelled to vote tonight, I shall vote against it.

Alderman Clark—The Alderman who has just taken his seat was present at both hearings and heard about everything that was said.

Alderman Thompson—At the last hearing I was present from half-past seven to half-past eight. The Committee on Public Instruction were in session until seven o'clock. I was present at the last part of the hearing. I heard the closing remarks of Mr. Joseph F. Ropes and the arguments in favor of the petition.

Alderman O'Brien—I would like to say that because I am opposed to the printing of the document I don't want any inference drawn from that that I am in favor of the report, because, as I now feel, I am decidedly opposed to it.

At the request of Alderman Clark, the Mayor read the original report as follows:

The Joint Standing Committee on Common and Public Grounds, to whom was referred the petition of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, for the privilege of erecting a temporary building upon the parade ground on Boston Common, for the purpose of holding therein their thirteenth triennial exhibition of industry and art during the months of September and October next, and also the petition of Otis Noicross, and others, in aid of the same, having carefully considered the subject, beg leave to submit the following report:

In 1837 the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association commenced to hold those exhibitions of invention and progress in mechanics, manufactures and useful arts which have hitherto been so successful. Twelve exhibitions have been given in Faneuil and Quincy halls, each exceeding the previous one in interest and attractiveness, and in the quality of goods displayed.

The last exhibition, held in 1874, demonstrated that the halls, even with such appurtenant buildings as could be erected without interfering with the business or travel of the neighborhood, were entirely inadequate. Although the area in square feet was larger than was ever before devoted to the purpose, only about two-thirds of the goods offered could be accepted. The articles exhibited were necessarily huddled and cramped together, while all opportunity for studying the results of New England industry by comparison was virtually lost.

The liability of injury by fire or from the peculiar nature of the business carried on in the vicinity rendered the owners of many choice goods and works of art unwilling to place them on exhibition. The growth of market business in the neighborhood made access to the building in the day time disagreeable and inconvenient, while the crowded condition of the interior of the halls necessarily prevented a careful study of the exhibits.

Notwithstanding, however, the disadvantages under which the exhibition was held, so great an interest was aroused that at its close assurances were given by the representatives of the leading industrial interests that, if the association would erect a suitable building, they would at the next exhibition make a display of their goods unequalled before in New England. Of these industries, those of textile fabrics, the product of our own mills, stood foremost. The request was seconded by the shoe and leather and glass and crockery interests. The products of these several industries require light and space to be exhibited to advantage; and these could not be obtained except by the erection of a building especially adapted to the purpose.

The period has now arrived for another exhibition of the association, and there being no hall in the city capacious enough to meet its requirements, it has deemed it advisable to erect a temporary building for the purpose. Hence the petition for leave to occupy a portion of the parade ground. The place is selected for the reason that the firmness of the earth will allow the placing of heavy machinery without the necessity of pile-driving; and also because it is convenient of access, and with pleasant surroundings which can be maintained so by the city. If permission is granted, the association will erect a building of iron and glass, or of iron, wood and glass combined, of symmetrical proportions and of architectural beauty, and will put it up and take it down without work being necessary on the grounds, it being all planned and adjusted before the parts are borne to the site. No injury will be done to the trees, nor will the landscape be disfigured. It is desired that the building should stand for about two months, and upon its removal the association will place the grounds in as good a condition as at present.

The association expressly ask that all regulations and conditions shall be prescribed by the City Government, so that the rights of citizens shall be maintained, promising, on its part, to furnish an exhibition which will redound to the honor and good name of the community, and be in itself an educator, a stimulant to invention, and a promoter of taste and utility in every department of industry and art.

The great Centennial Exhibition has aroused a most salutary interest in displays of this character. Only about one-eighth of our population witnessed that exhibition. On a smaller scale, it is true, but with the same system, and by the same classes of goods, that exhibition can be duplicated in this city, giving pleasure and valuable instruction to thousands of our citizens. Coming midway between the Philadelphia and Paris expositions it will undoubtedly have, in an unusual degree the cooperation and good will of the leading business men of New England.

The Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association has contributed largely to the welfare and renown of our city. Organized in 1795, with Paul Revere as its first president, and with many other men illustrious in our town and city annuals as his successors, it has, from the first been promotive of invention and the development of the mechanic and useful arts. It has taken an active interest in various memorials, such as the Bunker Hill Monument, the Franklin statue and other works of public character. It early began the system of awards for skill in workmanship, and it has frequently been granted the use of the State House and Common for the purpose of presenting those awards to the recipients. At its last exhibition it distributed gold, silver and bronze medals for meritorious inventions, designs and products, at a cost of upwards of $5000. Since that exhibition it has distributed in charity, to its indigent members, mainly our own citizens, over $15,000. It has aided the Institute of Technology liberally; and in various other ways demonstrated its usefulness and public spirit.

If the proposed exhibition is pecuniarily successful the association will not only be enabled to continue to dispense its means as hitherto, but will, possibly, contribute to the adornment of the city by the erection of a permanent building for exhibition and other purposes. Should it not be favored with the location asked for? It is understood that the association, which takes all the risks and bears all the expenses of the undertaking, will not feel justified in going on with it, and it will be abandoned.

Your committee have consulted with the City Solicitor in regard to the legality of granting the desired permission, and find that there is no objection in that direction. They are conscious of the general desire of our citizens to have no inferior exhibitions or purely money-making shows on the public grounds, and, were this association other than a charitable and industry-promoting one, they feel they would not be justified in giving the request consideration. They are, however, unanimously of the opinion that, aside from the laudable purposes of the association, the amount of instruction and pleasure which the public will derive from the exhibition, and the benefit which will accrue to business from the large number of visitors who will be attracted hither, renders it desirable that the petition should be granted, and they would therefore respectfully recommend the passage of the following order:

Ordered, That the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association be and hereby is authorized to erect a temporary building on the parade ground of Boston Common for its triennial exposition of industry and art, to be occupied for that purpose during the months of September and October next, upon such terms and conditions as the Committee on Common and Public Grounds shall prescribe, and to be erected, maintained and removed without expense to the city of Boston.

Alderman Clark submitted the following, in connection with the subject:

CITY SOLICITOR'S OFFICE,
2 PEMBERTON SQUARE,
BOSTON, Feb. 24, 1877.

Dear Sir—In my opinion, permission may be granted to the Charitable Mechanic Association to occupy a portion of the Common temporarily for such an exhibition as is proposed, without the violation of the legal rights of the public or of individuals. The only question involved in the case is a question of expediency only.

Yours truly, J. P. HEALY.

John T. Clark, Esq., Chairman, etc.

Alderman Thompson—I move that the subject be laid upon the table and printed with the testimony taken by the committee.

The motion was lost.

Alderman Fitzgerald—To give the gentlemen opposed to it time, I move that it be especially assigned to the next meeting of the Board at half-past four o'clock.

Alderman Clark—I trust that motion will not prevail, unless it is desired to have the evidence printed. I hope the order will be put upon its passage tonight. There is no excuse whatever unless members desire further information, and that further information can be obtained, by having all the evidence printed.

The motion to especially assign was lost by a rising vote—3 for, 9 against.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Although I think it is going to pass this Board, as I see plainly from the action of the Board, I want to place on record my opposition to the passage of this order granting a portion of the Common for uses of that kind. My friend, the Alderman from the Dorchester District, said that it was simply a gratification of the sentimental part of the community. Well, sir, I have a great deal of respect for the sentimental part of the community, or for that sentiment which actuates the community. There is a very honorable sentiment, or feeling, in the minds of the community that the Common ought to be touched for no purpose save and except that which is common to everybody. That feeling prevails in this city of Boston, and so strong is it, sir, that when the city of Boston a few years ago found what appeared an absolute necessity for cutting off a part of the Common on Tremont street, the Legislature of Massachusetts took it out of the power of this Board to touch one inch of that Common, except by vote of the citizens of Boston. Not only are the people of Boston, but the whole State of Massachusetts is jealous of any encroachment upon that Common. Nobody will go further than I in respect due to the gentlemen who have asked that this privilege be granted them. Grant that it will be a grand object, and the purpose a grand purpose; but I say that the expediency is a very doubtful one that will grant this privilege to that corporation. I venture to say that if it were put to the votes of the people of Boston tomorrow, the prayer of the petitioners would be refused by a vote of ten to one. The people don't want any encroachment upon anything that will take away from them the recreation they have upon the Common. I understand that the building is going to cover four acres; that it will at least extend 600 feet on the mall, or more than half the length of the Common on one side. It is going to take up a large portion of that playground there, or rather that which was. Out of respect to that sentiment which pervades the people, I cannot find it in myself to vote for this worthy object, grand however it be and encouraging though it be to all the material progress of the city. We are the trustees of that Common for the benefit of the citizens, and as I am fully convinced that the citizens will under no consideration vote to grant the petition of this corporation, I cannot find it in myself to vote for it. If you grant it to one it will be a precedent established for granting to a second and a third. The worthy object will be urged; it may be religious or musical, something like our grand peace jubilee, or a grand religious movement of some kind or other; and if we are justified in keeping a building there three months, we will be justified in keeping it six, eight or twelve months, because it will be but a temporary structure. I saw the name of Paul Revere mentioned in that report of the committee, and I venture to say that if Paul takes any interest in the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen, his vote would be cast against putting a building upon the Common. I rise simply to protest, for I know it is going to pass the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman Robinson—The Alderman who has just spoken says he believes if it were put to a vote that five to one would vote against it. I have had as much conversation with gentlemen of the city as he has, and I came to exactly the opposite conclusion. There is no intention, no expectation, no desire, to make a precedent in this case. It is only whether they shall hold an exhibition this year or not. The gentleman says he likes sentiment, but I know that sentiment does not butter any parsnips.

Alderman Clark—I wish to give the Alderman some information. The place asked for is what was known for the last ten years as the boys' play ground, which had not been sodded down for a great many years up to last autumn. The building will not cross a single path, except that which leads from Boylston street towards the lull. It does not go within fifty feet of the settees on the Common; it does not touch a single tree, it does not interfere in the least with the rights of a single citizen of Boston. On the contrary it is proposed to make this exhibition second only to the great Centennial which we have all passed through and to give the poor people an opportunity to see, upon a small scale to be sure, for twenty-five cents what it cost most of us fifty cents or a hundred dollars to see in Philadelphia. It was stated by one of the remonstrants that you propose to take away the rights of the people and prevent them from taking recreation on the Common. It is not in the place where men, women or children go. The association would not go to the city and ask this if they could find another spot large enough to hold the exhibition. They want a space 500 feet long and 100 feet wide. There is no place in the city proper that will answer their purpose. At their last exhibition they occupied 48,000 square feet, including Faneuil Hall, Quincy Hall and the space they were allowed to occupy over the street, and they were obliged to turn away one-third of the material offered for exhibition. Now, there is another place which has been mentioned, the little square on Fort Hill, which is less than 40,000 feet. Gentlemen, the only place upon which they can hold this exhibition is upon the boys' play ground upon the Common, and it is a question for this City Council to decide whether they will allow an exhibition of this kind which is educational to a certain extent, and which will have, I think, attractions sufficient to induce people from all over New England, and the West and the Canadas to come here and visit it. It is my opinion that it will attract half a million of visitors here if it is carried out upon the plans proposed. So far as this being an entering wedge. I would state that in 1837, when Samuel Eliot was Mayor, Thomas Richardson, Samuel Quincy and Thomas Whitmore were members of the Board of Aldermen, this same association was granted permission to hold their exhibition upon the Common, but the society decided that it would be better to go to Faneuil Hall. They did go to Faneuil Hall and have held their exhibitions there ever since; so that since 1837 they have never come here and asked for the use of the Common, and perhaps they will never come again. The Common has been used for various purposes where money was taken for admission. Some years ago, as you, Mr. Mayor, will remember, there was a grand railroad jubilee. The floor was laid and an admission fee of twenty-five cents was charged. This association has never come here since 1837, but they have erected a magnificent hall at the corner of Bedford and Chauncy streets. So far as the character of the institution is concerned, it needs no indorsement from me; it is too well known. Their exhibitions always attract a great many people to them. The stimulus created at Philadelphia has caused them to desire to make an exhibition upon a much larger scale than ever before, and if they go upon the Common they propose to erect a building of iron and glass that will be very attractive. They will have to spend a hundred thousand dollars in getting ready for this exhibition, and it will make a difference of twenty-five to thirty-five thousand dollars in their receipts whether they are allowed to go upon this spot, or are compelled to hold it upon another one. But they have decided that if no permit is given they will abandon the exhibition this year. Other localities have been looked for. I have looked myself. One of the remonstrants stated that there is a six-acre lot on Columbus avenue especially adapted to this exhibition. There is a piece of land there of less than two acres and the shape of a flatiron, and not at all adapted for putting up such a building. So far as using it is concerned, that is utterly impossible. The street has been graded, and it will undoubtedly be put in order, and it is not likely that the city of Boston will allow its public thoroughfare to be used in this way. Furthermore, it is in a bleak and barren place, and I doubt whether any gentleman would allow his fabrics to be exhibited there. It is simply a question whether they will be permitted to go there, or whether the whole exhibition shall be abandoned. I know that some parties who came before the committee as remonstrants, testified that they were mistaken in regard to the character of the exhibition. My own family physician, a gentleman for whom I have the highest respect, stated, as I am informed, that it would be very detrimental to the public health to have a building extending from Boylston street to Beacon street, thereby preventing the children from going to the Common. I asked him on Saturday, and he said that Mr. Wadsworth said that they wanted nine or ten acres. I pointed out the location, and asked if he thought the location of the building there would have the slightest effect upon the health of the community, and if so, I would not advocate the measure. These are the facts. I know that the remonstrants came here honestly, and asked that permission should not be granted. The most active men in the opposition are not practical business men. They are born to large fortunes, and they do not know the necessity of doing anything to attract business to Boston, to advertise Boston, and bring people here from all over the country. We who are in business know the necessity of advertising our business as extensively as possible. I believe there is nothing that would have such an effect upon business as this exhibition upon the Common.

Alderman Thompson—I do not propose to occupy much of the time of the Board. Nobody objects to what has been said about the exhibition. It is all right. It will be a good thing for Boston, and so far as the association is concerned it is one of the most honorable in Boston; and if this privilege is to be granted to anybody, it should be to that association. But we do know that there is a sentimental feeling, as the gentleman opposite has stated, in the minds of the citizens of Boston in regard to any encroachment upon the Common. We are here as representatives of the people of Boston, and we must respect that feeling. If it is granted in this case it may be granted in any other case, and probably three years hence the Common will be occupied for the same purpose.

Alderman Gibson—I hope the order will prevail. We want something to stir up business here. It seems to me it will be one of the things to start up business here during the coming year. A hundred thousand dollars will be spent for labor and materials that would not be spent here if the building is not erected. That is what members of the City Government desire. I do not see any harm in it. I know the tenacity with which our old residents cling to the Common, but I guarantee that there would not be ten of those remonstrants put a foot upon the Common if the building does not go there. It will bring from sixty to a hundred thousand people here. The Common is common; it is common for the best interests of the public, and I want to know why it is against the interest of the city to allow this exhibition to be held on the Common? Every branch of industry will be aided; it will roll in business. We are dead to all intents and purposes. There was actually more business done in 1862-63 than there is in Boston today. They are going upon a barren piece of ground to occupy it for two or three months, and then move the building away. I remember that I was instrumental in taking away the sidewalk from the Common on Tremont street. It was entirely valueless, and there was a continual stream of cars going up and down. We carried it after two years, and many of the old residents, who begged of me not to advocate that measure, have since said they were glad of it. It will be precisely so in this case. I believe that many who oppose it now will come and say they are very sorry they tried to prevent it. It is the only thing I can see to help business during the coming season. It appears to me there should not be any opposition to it. From what I hear of the talk among business men, I find very little alarm in regard to its injuring the Common, and a very large majority are in favor of putting the building there. I really think it ought to have the unanimous vote of the Board. If it is put there it will help the landlords and all classes of mechanics, and our people will pick up half a million of dollars, at least.

Alderman Clark—The parties who oppose this are the same who came here for two years and opposed the cutting down of the Paddock elms. I have no doubt some of them will say that is a mistake.

Alderman Thompson—I do.

Alderman Clark—I am surprised to hear the gentleman say that it is a mistake. I believe that it is admitted by every single individual, except one that I have in my mind and the Alderman from the Bunker Hill District, that it is one of the greatest improvements ever carried through without cost. I should not object to putting a building upon Commonwealth avenue or any other avenue, but I believe it is right and just that we should grant this petition.

Alderman Gibson—I did not quite finish my remarks in regard to the sidewalk in Tremont street. We never took away any land there at all. I have had a hundred people who opposed it come to me and say it was a great improvement. There was a perfect stream of teams in that street, and the sidewalk was of no use at all. I guarantee that you could not get a petition signed by the citizens of Boston today to have it put back. The Common is common, and why should it not be used?

Alderman Thompson—If another horse railroad wanted another track, would you give them a piece of the Common?

Alderman Gibson—No, sir.

Alderman O'Brien—When my attention was first called to this matter it struck me favorably, because I then believed that the manufacturers and machinists of our city, through the agency of the Charitable Mechanic Association, wanted to exhibit their workmanship upon the Common; and it certainly struck me as a very favorable place for such an exhibition. But that is not the case. The manufacturers oppose it and the workmen do not ask for it; they even remonstrate against it; and if we grant this petition we shall make the Mechanic Association a house divided against itself. Every gentleman here must have seen during the week a remonstrance representing two-thirds of the New England mills. The great Pacific Mills remonstrate against it, and no mill in the country could show such an exhibit of goods as they; it is the largest mill in this country, and its exports go to almost every quarter of the globe. From the fact that the Pacific Mills remonstrate against it, it is evident that they will not be represented at that exhibition. It is also very evident that the other manufacturers who remonstrate against this use of the Common for that purpose will not be represented there; and instead of a united exhibition of all our mills and workshops it will be a house divided against itself. I am not so sensitive about encroachments upon the Common as many of the remonstrants to the petition are. I do not believe in driving our boys from it, either for skating or ball playing; I do not believe in many other matters in connection with the Common, and if we go on I do not know but we will put up "no admittance" at every entrance, and be compelled to view our Common from the adjoining streets. When the Mechanic Association asks for this privilege, we want them indorsed by the men they represent; by the mills and workshops of the city; and they are not so endorsed, because the mills and workshops remonstrate against it. It is for this reason that I shall vote against this order. It is an encroachment on the Common, and might prove embarrassing in the future. If there was no doubt about it on their part, it would do away with many of my objections. When the aldermen consider this question I hope they will also reflect how poor we are in all the material that constitutes a great city. Here is the Mechanic Association, of only eighty years' standing, that has outgrown all our public improvements; there is not a place large enough for them to hold an exhibition. I say it is discreditable to the City Government in the past to have such an assertion made public as has been made for some weeks. I believe that even now if the scheme for a park was proposed, such as Fairmount Park in Philadelphia, or Central Park in New York, the very men who would grant the association the privilege of using the Common, would vote against a park. There is where we fall short in all great public improvements; and when this association of eighty years standing asks this privilege, we are afraid to grant it because it is a dangerous precedent. I believe it would be a dangerous precedent. In relation to other places, I believe the end of Commonwealth avenue could be utilized very well for an exhibition of that kind, and I do not believe the travelling public will ever say one word against it. There is not only land enough there, but I believe the people of the city would find their way there just as easily as the people of Philadelphia found their way to Fairmount Park for five or six months. I believe that if the exhibition was given in a locality where there was plenty of room, it would draw just as large a crowd of the citizens of Boston and people outside of Boston as it would if it were placed on Boston Common. I do not believe that the Mechanic Association are going to be driven from this exhibition. If they do not get the Common, I do not believe they will not locate in some other quarter. It is all well enough to say now that they will not have the exhibition if they cannot get the Common, but if we refuse to give them the Common you will find that they will locate themselves before many weeks in some other locality; and they may possibly locate themselves permanently, because I believe that has been under consideration for some time. For these reasons I shall feel obliged to vote against the order.

Alderman Robinson—If the Alderman who has just spoken supposes that those same mills will not exhibit on the Common he is mistaken. I have been to them myself, and one of the parties who signed it told me he would make a fine display of dress goods. I have not seen Mr. Little, but I saw the agent of the Washington Mills, and he said he would be happy to exhibit. There is George C. Richardson, who is one of the largest manufacturers, and he is heart and soul in the enterprise. Where I have talked with business men—and I see them every day—they are ten to one in favor of holding it upon the Common.

Alderman Clark—The Alderman from Ward 21 [Alderman O'Brien] made a first-rate argument in favor of public parks, but no argument against granting the prayer of the petitioners; and I trust, Mr. Mayor, that under your administration we shall inaugurate a system of public parks that will give this institution all the space they want three years hence. Who are these remonstrants? They are all respectable men. Only four of the signers among the agents of the mills have ever made an exhibition, so that it does not make a great deal of difference whether they attend it or not. But, allow me to say, that Mr. George C. Richardson, who represents probably a larger number of mills than any other man in Boston, is the third signer of the petition in aid. Mr. Erastus Bigelow, one of the largest manufacturers and one of the greatest inventors of the age, not only signed this petition, but is very earnest indeed that the prayer of the petitioners shall be granted, because he will make such an exhibit of carpeting as was not made in Philadelphia, besides setting up one of his looms, which alone is worth five dollars to see. Among the petitioners are a great many mechanics, manufacturers and others, all well-known public-spirited citizens. The boot and shoe interest is very anxious that this exhibition should be held on the Common; they say they will make an exhibit almost equal to that made by them in Philadelphia; and they will want 30,000 feet—almost as much space as could be obtained in Quincy Hall. The shoe and leather interest is the great interest in Boston today, and we should bring people from the North, South, East and West to see what can be done in New England in that line. I wish to correct the Alderman from East Boston in regard to the ball ground. After the boys had almost killed two or three men, the Committee on Common decided to put it down into grass; it was seeded down in oats, and undoubtedly will be covered with grass this year, instead of being a dust-hole as formerly. Several serious accidents occurred there, and one of our own men had a shoulder broken by the boys playing ball. This proposed building does not require the driving of a single pile or the digging of a single trench, and the gas main and sewer are there. They will take the building away and put the ground in order at their own expense. They do not ask the city to contribute a single dollar, and they intend it shall be for the benefit of the people. Now, Mr. Mayor, it is not for us to decide whether it is going to be a success so far as this corporation is concerned. The Board of Government ask for permission to put the building there; and it is for them to say whether it will be profitable or not. In my opinion, the exhibition at Philadelphia created a desire in the minds of all who were not able to go there, and those who were, to see such a display here; and I believe it is a good time to hold one while the exhibition at Philadelphia is so vividly before the people.

Alderman Robinson—I wish to add a little something to the remarks of Alderman Clark. I am informed that a great many articles that were exhibited at Philadelphia are boxed up to be sent to the Paris Exposition in 1878; and if this exhibition is held in a proper place this year we shall have the privilege of seeing those articles at our own doors. The remark was made that there will be no exhibition this year, if the permit is not granted. It will go by two years, for most of our people will go to Paris next year, to attend the exposition which is to be held on the Champ de Mars. If the building is put in a proper place, where the statuary can be loaded and unloaded without injury, we can have a great deal here that was at Philadelphia. That is something of itself. Although there are a great many fine paintings in Boston—and perhaps some even better than was exhibited at Philadelphia—still there were a great many articles brought from the other side which the owners will be glad to exhibit here.

Alderman Gibson—We shall have the Common clear in May, June and July, the pleasantest months in the year, and after that people go out of town, so they will not be disturbed by it. I have been in Boston a great many years, and have never yet seen the Common crowded, and never expect to, though I have seen as large parties there in the last forty years as any man. You hardly ever see any one on the ground they propose to occupy except the military.

Alderman Thompson—I am sorry my motion to have this matter printed did not prevail, as it would have saved all this eloquence. As a member of the Committee on the Monument, I think it will be a great disadvantage to grant this permit. It is said the monument will be completed this year, and that the event will be celebrated on the 17th of September. I don't know how much of a celebration it is proposed to have, but if the Grand Army associations are invited, as was proposed, the occupation of the Common will interfere with the celebration.

Alderman Wilder—I am happy to learn that there is some prospect of completing the monument. A week or two since the committee discussed the question of going to London or Philadelphia to see some models, and I am glad if there is the slightest prospect of its completion.

Alderman Thompson—I have seen a letter from the artist, who says he will be ready in four months. We found that we could not accomplish anything unless we went all over the world, and that has started up Mr. Millmore.

Alderman Robinson—That very objection was raised and the parties said they wanted to have it there because the monument would draw a great many people here.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I hope gentlemen will keep on talking, as we may get more votes on the other side.

The order was passed—yeas 9, nays 3:

Yeas—Alderman Breck, Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Robinson, Slade, Viles, Wilder—9.

Nays—Aldermen Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Thompson—3.

A motion to reconsider, by Alderman Clark, was lost.

Sent down.

CHARLES RIVER EMBANKMENT.

Alderman Fitzgerald asked if the Committee on Public Parks had taken any action relative to a petition before the Legislature to authorize the building of a sea wall in the vicinity of Charles River.

Alderman O'Brien said the committee had considered the matter last Saturday, and it had been thought best to obtain the necessary legislative authority.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Is it intended to give the power to the Park Commissioners without coming to the City Council?

Alderman O'Brien—Certainly not. It is merely to open the matter before the Legislature, so that if it is decided to build the Charles River Embankment the City Council will have the necessary authority. The commissioners cannot move a step without the sanction of the City Government.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Wilder.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
MARCH 1, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Reports (leave to withdraw) on the petitions, viz.: of the corporation of Beth Elie, for abatement of tax on their church edifice in Gloucester place; of the Glendon Company, that tax on estate 4 Waldron park in 1873 be refunded; of Edward T. Spurr, for compensation for personal injuries to his wife from a fall in Mead street; Severally accepted in concurrence.

Reports that claims for compensation have been settled, viz.: Of Matthew O'Brien, for injuries to his son from a fall on Avery street, $75; of Anne McLaughlin, for injuries from a defect in Pleasant street, $200; of William Shear, for injuries in Ruggles street, $150. Severally accepted in concurrence.

Reports and orders for permits to build to be issued: To Benjamin F. Teeling, on Canal street, Charlestown; to A. Zeigler, on Decatur avenue. Orders read twice and passed in concurrence.

Reports and orders, viz.:

To allow to Ella Wyman $150 in payment for loss of right in passage way on Indiana place. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

To deduct $1625 from amount due on lease of Thomas Carter for wharf on Albany street. Ordered to a second reading.

To issue a confirmatory deed to St. John's Universalist Parish, of land intended to be conveyed by deed of the city, as in said order set forth. Read once.

Order to allow and pay $102 to Mary A. Rosemeyer, for a parcel of 204 square feet of land on Brown street, Northampton-street district, as therein set forth. Read once.

BILLS FOR FURNISHING SUPPLIES.

An order came down to allow certain bills of Increase E. Noyes and George Curtis against the city.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I do not particularly object to this order tonight; in fact, I shall vote for it. But, sir, during the last year, almost every month, a bill came into the Council to pay Mr. George Curtis for certain supplies furnished the city. That gentleman holds the position of Overseer of the Poor; consequently he cannot be paid for supplies furnished the city without a special order by the City Council. I presume, sir, that in the matter of lumber, or articles of that kind, the Committee on Streets can purchase of many other lumber dealers, and I don't see why every month we should be obliged to vote upon bills for parties who are officers of the City Government. If it were a matter of philosophical instruments or something that could not be obtained anywhere else, I should not object to it. I simply call the Council's attention to it, because last year, almost every month, there were orders to pay bills of Mr. George Curtis. It seems to me that if we have an ordinance upon our books prohibiting this thing, we ought to enforce it.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I heartily agree with the remarks of the gentleman from Ward 22. I believe that during almost every month bills for furnishing supplies to the City Government are presented to the City Council for approval where the parties are holding offices under the City Government. While we have an ordinance prohibiting the City Government from furnishing supplies to the city, and it ought to go out from the City Council tonight that we shall approve no more bills of that kind.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—Did I understand the gentleman to advance a proposition that it should be understood that the Council cannot approve any more bills for supplies furnished by any gentlemen who are officers of the City Government, or simply the bills of Mr. Curtis?

Mr. Sampson—Not at all. I mean all bills of that kind. It should be distinctly understood that the departments should not purchase supplies from officers of the City Government.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I do not understand that this is anything more than is provided for by the ordinance. As I understand, the ordinance it provides that any member or officer of the City Government cannot furnish supplies unless the bills are approved by vote of the City Council. When I was here two years ago it was very often the case that orders for the approval of Mr. Curtis's bills came here. He is an officer of the City Government, being an Overseer of the Poor, and I believe he fulfils the duties of the office faithfully and gives a good deal of his time to it. He is called upon to furnish lumber for various other departments, and it seems a little hard, if the lumber is purchased as cheap of him as of other individuals, and the bills are approved regularly as the ordinance provides, for I cannot see any harm in still having them in the same way as it is now. I cannot see any great harm in his furnishing supplies and materials as he now does. They are none of them large bills; they are small lots of lumber that are wanted in that vicinity. I should hope that no vote be passed here, so that any other bills would be audited and approved by the City Council, so long as it is done in the regular course that the ordinance provides for.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I think there are other dealers in the city from whom lumber can be purchased as well as Mr. Curtis. As has already been stated, there were many orders of this kind last year, and I think it is about time that we should put a stop to it. I hope that we shall not approve these bills.

Mr. Sampson—It is in direct violation of the statutes of Massachusetts. There is no such provision in the ordinance as the gentleman [Mr. Wilbur] indicates. So long as we have that statute we ought to live up to it. It is only violating in this small way, but in the aggregate it amounts to a great deal. Any gentleman who accepts office in the City Government understands the law in relation to furnishing supplies to the City Government. I object to approving bills for supplies furnished by any gentleman connected with the City Government.

Mr. Wilbur—I stand corrected. It was a little misapprehension, and I withdraw all objection.

The order was passed to a second reading.

SALARIES.

A report of Committee on Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses came down with thirty-nine ordinances establishing the salaries of the several city officers and employes in the public departments. (City Doc. No. 20.) Specially assigned on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 to the next meeting at 8½ o'clock P. M.

SINKING FUNDS.

A report came down with an ordinance to amend the ordinance in relation to finance, providing that the balances of appropriations at the end of the financial year shall be carried forward and credited to the appropriations for the next year.

The subject was first considered in the regular order of business. The question was upon giving the ordinance a second reading.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move that the ordinance be referred to the Committee on Finance. It relates to a very important matter. It is a matter to which I have given, since it was first reported to the other branch of the City Council, many hours of thought and investigation, and I believe that several other members of this branch of the City Government have given it considerable thought. There is a diversity of opinion in respect to the expediency of passing such an ordinance. When any small matter comes up in this or the other branch in relation to the expenditure of a hundred, or a few thousand, dollars, it is referred at once to the Committee on Finance. The singular course of this report and ordinance is that the report is made by a committee which has duties enough for five committees to perform in the course of six months, and they have secured its passage through one branch of the City Council without referring it to the Committee on Finance or the Committee on Ordinances. More than this, Mr. President, if I am rightly informed, it has been reported and passed through without special consultation with the Board of Commissioners on the Sinking Funds, and without special consultation or conference with the Committee on Finance. I therefore ask that it may be referred to the Finance Committee for their careful consideration and opinion. I think the judgment of that committee—most of whom are accomplished financiers; which certainly cannot be said of the committee who reported this ordinance—would be a great aid to us in passing intelligently upon this question. I will not now go into the merits of the question, because I hope to have the judgment of the Finance Committee before I do so.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—As this matter will probably create no little discussion tonight, and also the report of the Committee on Common in favor of the passage of the order authorizing the Charitable Mechanic Association to put up a building on the Common, and also the report of the Committee on Retrenchment, I move that these matters be laid upon the table for the present, in order that the Council may have time to go through their regular business; and, if that motion prevails, I will make a motion so that they will come up in the regular business and be discussed.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Does the gentleman propose to take it from the table this evening and refer it to the Committee on Finance?

Mr. Flynn—I intended to lay it upon the table in order that the regular business may be disposed of.

Mr. Stoue of Ward 3—Instead of laying it upon the table, I think it would expedite business more to refer it to the Committee on Finance. That committee does not delay matters generally that are referred to them. I think it had better be referred to them, and I believe it will expedite business. I hope the motion to lay upon the table will not prevail.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Do I understand that it can go to the Committee on Finance without debate here this evening? If so, I will withdraw the motion.

Mr. Stoue—I supposed, sir, that it would go to the Committee on Finance this evening, and that the debate would come up on the other report.

Mr. McGaragle—I certainly hope that the motion to refer will not prevail, as I propose to debate it, and am opposed to its going to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—If there is to be a debate here this evening, I shall insist upon the motion.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I hope that motion will not prevail. If it is to be debated, I think it would be better to act upon it before the suburban members have gone home. I think it ought to go to the Committee on Finance without debate.

The motion to lay upon the table was lost by a rising vote—33 for, 33 against.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I move that the matter be especially assigned for the next meeting at half-past eight o'clock.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I hope that motion will not prevail. It seems to me that it is pretty well understood that the Council is in favor of sending this important matter to the Finance Committee, where it properly belongs: and I hope the motion to assign will not prevail. I hope it will be referred without discussion.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 20—I think this matter ought to go to the Committee on Finance, and I don't think there will be any harm in having some discussion on the reasons for the reference. I propose to offer three reasons why it should go to the Committee on Finance. First, that this matter comes to us now not on the report of a committee charged with the investigation of this subject, but it is the report of a committee charged with an entirely different subject. My second reason is that the ordinance as reported will not accomplish the object that it is intended to accomplish. It is evident from the question submitted to the City Solicitor that the gentlemen who introduced this ordinance are desirous of putting a stop to the payment of debt not yet due. We all know that for some time past debt not yet due has been paid in advance every year, and this ordinance is introduced with the idea that it is going to prevent that. Now, my point, gentlemen, is, that instead of preventing that object, the actual result of the passage of this ordinance will be that instead of paying off $300,000 of debt not yet due, the Sinking Fund Commissioners may pay $850,000 of our debt not yet due; and the citizens of Boston may be taxed by direct taxation to make up the deficiency of $500,000 in the Sinking Fund. So far as I can find by examining the report, the gentleman who introduced this ordinance has never understood the fact that the City Council has established two funds for the payment of its debt; and that the City Council has the right to establish such funds will readily be seen by the statute of 1875, section 8, which reads:

Sect. 8. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed as prohibiting the inhabitants of towns, or city councils, from paying or providing for the payment of any municipal debts at earlier periods than is herein required, or from renewing the same in securities payable within the period required for the final payment of the debt, or from adding to any sinking funds, or funds for the extinguishment of any debt, the excess of municipal appropriations over the amounts required for the purpose thereof, or any sums derived from taxation or special assessments, or other sources, which are not required by law to be otherwise expended; and such additions may be made for the purpose of reducing the entire debt for the redemption of which the sinking fund was established, or of reducing the amount to be raised by taxation for such fund. [Ordinances 1876, page 307.]

That seems to me to give power to the City Council to create two different classes of funds for the payment of debt—one, the Sinking Fund proper, which will provide the money for the payment of debt when it matures; the other for providing revenues for the payment of debt at any time when money may come into possession of the City Government. Now, by the ordinance adopted at the time this edition of the ordinances was passed, in 1876, provision is made in section 22 to comply with the requirements of the statute of 1875. There is a certain percentage of the outstanding municipal debts which shall be raised by taxation for the purposes of the Sinking Fund. Section 23 provides that certain funds, money received on account of real estate and from other sources, shall also be put into the Sinking Fund. Section 24 reads:

"All excess of revenue from estimates and of appropriations over expenditures, at the close of each financial year, shall be set apart and paid by the Treasurer to the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds created by this ordinance, when the residue of the full amount required, as specified in section 22, shall be raised by taxation next succeeding the close of each financial year; and the amount so required shall be certified by the City Commissioners and the Auditor of Accounts, and become a part of the amount to be raised by taxation, without further vote of the City Council."

This section contemplates that the balances of appropriations and the other funds set apart will not be sufficient to meet the requirements of the statute, for it provides that any balances necessary shall be raised by taxation. Section 25 looks towards the creation of an entirely different fund, after the requirements of the Sinking Fund had been complied with. It reads—

"Section 25. All revenue derived from undertakings for which loans may be created shall be used for the purchase of the debt of the city. All excess of revenue over estimates, and of appropriations over expenditures at the close of each financial year, after the requirements of section 24 are fulfilled, and all revenue from any other source than the Sinking Funds, shall hereafter be placed to the credit of the said commissioners, to be used by them for the purchase of the debt of the city, or to cover the deficit in any sinking fund, except the sinking fund for the Water Debt, when the debt to which it is applicable matures; and the scrip so purchased shall, so far as practicable, be that issued for the shortest term of years, and when purchased shall be cancelled."

Another fund is to be created, and that fund is to be expended by the Commissioners on the Sinking Fund in "the purchase of the debt of the city, * * * and the scrip so purchased * * * shall be cancelled." This fund may be called the "Revenue Fund," and forms no part of the Sinking Funds, although it is administered by the Sinking Fund Commissioners as trustees of the City Council.

Now, the ordinance, as introduced, provides for the repeal of section 24, and for a new section in place of that established, substantially the same as section 24, but leaving out the provision that the balances of the appropriation shall be "set apart, and paid to the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds," and leaving section 25 the same as before.

Now, in my opinion, the result of passing this ordinance will be that the entire balance of appropriations must be paid into the "Revenue Fund" created by section 25, and it will be at the discretion of the commissioners either to use it "to cover the deficit in any Sinking Fund" or to use it for "the purchase of the debt of the city," which "shall be cancelled." If, then, the commissioners exercise their discretion in favor of paying off debt and stopping interest, the result of passing this ordinance will be that our Sinking Fund Commissioners will have $850,000 with which to pay off unmaturred debt, instead of $350,000, as they will have if you let it alone. It seems to me that a committee who have not considered ordinances more carefully than that have no right to expect us to pass their ordinance without submitting it to the Finance Committee. I have another point which might be discussed if necessary, but if my points are well taken, as I think they are, I think the Council will see the necessity of referring this ordinance to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me that to send this ordinance to the Committee on Finance will merely result in delay without accomplishing any good purpose. An order was introduced here, a month or six weeks ago, relating to the Sinking Funds and referred to the Committee on Finance, and they have been studying it ever since, but have never reported.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—The committee will report on that subject tonight.

Mr. Crocker—I am happy to hear from them at last. If this matter goes to the committee and it takes them as long to make up their minds, it will be too late for any action to be taken. This matter should be acted upon before proceeding to the appropriation bill, and it is important that we should have early action. Besides, the Finance Committee is composed of two or three members of the Sinking Fund Commission, who have the management of the great and complicated machine of the Sinking Fund, and they do not like to have that machine simplified or reduced in size. The commissioners and the Finance Committee stand by each other, and we know substantially what the committee will report. The chairman of the Board of Aldermen, who is a member of the committee, has given an elaborate statement of facts and figures, which is all the information we are likely to get from the Finance Committee if we wait for it to make a report. So it seems to me that there is nothing to be accomplished by reference to the committee except delay. I think we have before us all the important facts, and we can discuss the matter as well now as at any other time. I do believe, however, that the ordinance, before being passed, should go to the Committee on Ordinances, that they may see that it is in proper shape; and I proposed myself to make a motion to that effect at the proper time. It is the business of that committee to see that ordinances are in proper shape, and all ordinances ought to be submitted to them. But that we can get from the Finance Committee any particular light or further information than what has been presented in the other branch, I very much doubt. I am willing to grant that the Committee on Finance will report against the proposed change in the ordinances, and whatever weight that report will have, I am willing, for one, to allow to the opponents of the change. This proposed ordinance makes the Sinking Fund a less mysterious and magnificent affair; it tends to simplify that great and complicated machine so that everybody can understand it, and of course it is natural that the Sinking Fund Commissioners should rather like to keep the machine so that only they can understand it, and so that it cannot be meddled with by outside parties. I believe that the whole object of transferring balances of appropriations to the Sinking Fund is simply this: By this means larger sums of money have been transferred into the Sinking Fund than the State law has required. Some gentlemen may say that the more you get in, the better; but in these times, I doubt if it is better. I doubt if anything is to be gained by putting in any more than the law requires. It seems to me that if we fulfil the requirements of the statute law in regard to the amount to be raised by taxation and paid into the Sinking Fund, we do all that we ought to try to do. But this transfer of balances of appropriations has been a contrivance for hejuggling us into paying more into the Sinking Fund than the law requires. It is claimed on the one hand that we are putting into the Sinking Fund over $800,000 more than is required by law, and, as I read the speech of the Chairman of the Board of Aldermen, it admitted that the present ordinance is going to require us to put in this year $400,000 more than the law requires. Now, if we can save even $400,000 in taxation this year, it is certainly a great gain. It seems to me we should not be taxing ourselves more than the law requires to get ourselves out of debt in these hard times. It seems to me that the whole thing is a simple story. Do we want to continue this method of putting balances of appropriations into the Sinking Funds? As it has been going on, it is a means by which we ordinarily pay each year more into the Sinking Fund than the law requires. If we stop the present method, we have got to put in what the State law requires, any way, which is pretty fair proportion. The State law requires us to do as much as we ought in reason to do; and I think we ought to put our ordinances in such shape that we shall not do more. Then, again, I believe it is plainly better that the money required to be raised by taxation to meet the principal of our debt should be distinctly and avowedly raised for that purpose, and not raised nominally for one purpose and then shoved around to be used in some mysterious way for some other purpose. Our regular appropriation bill should show in plain terms,—so much money required by law to be raised on account of the principal of our debt. Another reason for the change is that if these balances of appropriations are not paid into the Sinking Fund, every department of the City Government will, as it seems to me, be induced to be more economical; for then these balances will go to the credit of the different appropriations for the next year. According to the present arrangement, a department feels that everything they save is to go into some mysterious Sinking Fund; they do not understand exactly what is to become of it, and they think they might as well use it up, as to let it go into the Sinking Fund. This really encourages extravagance. It encourages each department to use all its appropriation, whether it needs it or not. If, however, the balances are going over to the next year, the department can say we saved so much last year, and we ought to have credit for that and it ought to pass to our credit next year. They would have this inducement to economy in each department. For these reasons it seems to me that there is everything to be gained, and I cannot conceive of anything to be lost by this change. I have not heard anybody say how anything is going to be lost by the change. The only possible loss is that the Sinking Fund Commissioners are going to lose chances of getting more money than the law requires to be paid to them. They are going to lose a chance to require us to raise by taxation more than the law requires. I defy any one to say that there is anything else to be lost; and this is a loss that the public generally will consider to be really a great gain.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—It seems to me we are rather drifting from the question at issue. The question is, Shall we or shall we not refer this to the Finance Committee?

Mr. McGarragle—I raise the point whether the question is not on the special assignment to the next meeting at half-past eight.

The President—That is the question.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved the previous question.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I hope the previous question will not be moved, because if it is carried it will shut off not only debate upon this subsidiary question, but also upon the main question.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Do I understand that this will cut off the debate upon the main question?

The President—Only upon the motion of the gentleman from Ward 9 [Mr. Ruffin].

The main question was ordered.

The motion to assign to the next meeting at half-past eight was carried by a rising vote [Mr. Stone of Ward 13 raising a doubt]—33 for, 27 against.

The subject was again discussed later in the session.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I move to reconsider the vote by which we assigned to the next meeting of the Council the ordinance relating to the Sinking Fund; and if that motion is carried, I shall move that the matter be referred to the Committee on Finance. I find that many gentlemen think it is desirable that it should be so referred, and the Committee on Finance desire to take it into consideration. It seems as though it would be as well to have the Committee on Finance consider that matter as any other during the next week. I understand the chairman says they will in all probability report at the next meeting of the Council, and if the motion to reconsider is carried I shall move that it be so referred.

Mr. McGarragle of Ward 8—I hope the motion will not prevail. If I understood the gentleman when he was last on the floor speaking to this question, he told us what the report would be—that they would report against it. I hardly think it is fair, or that there is any reason for assigning it. I think if the members have time to consider it themselves, they can make a better disposition of it than the Committee on Finance can.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—As one of the Joint Special Committee which has reported this order, as it has been laid over until next week, I should have no objection to a reconsideration and a reference of the order to the Committee on Finance, with the understanding that they shall report one week from this evening. I have no objection to an investigation; so far as I am personally concerned, I would rather court it. We should know the whole story, and if there are any new ideas to be brought out I should be glad to vote for it.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I think the gentleman spoke without authority when he gave the information to the Council how the committee would report. Certainly, I am in favor of the spirit of the ordinance, for one. I do not know how the other members of the committee feel. Perhaps the gentleman can tell us how he forms his opinion.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—My object in making the motion to assign this to the next meeting was that the Council might have the control of this matter and that the members might know when it was coming up for discussion and have ample opportunity to prepare for it by getting information from the Auditor's office or from any other source. I was opposed to sending it to the Finance Committee because I had heard in a roundabout way that they would vote against it; and I know that to send a measure like this, and of such importance, to a hostile committee, would be putting it to sleep forever. We should not hear of it any more. It is a favorite method of disposing of a matter when you want to get rid of it. I oppose sending it to the Committee on Finance, because I think that would be the result. If I knew that it was not a device of the enemy, I should favor the proposition that it should be submitted to them, if they would give a faithful report at the next meeting. But I do not know how we can control that committee. There are a variety of ways in which they could avoid making a report. I do not know about that. I am not so sure. I do not know of any safer place for it than upon the Clerk's table; because, if it is to be called up at half-past eight o'clock, the members of the Finance Committee, if they want to throw any light upon this motion, which we do not possess, they can do so, although they do not have it under their control. They know what is there, and they can give us the benefit of their experience and examination. The matter is to be discussed, and we can get their views from that discussion quite as well as from any report; and besides, it would not be hampered by any unfriendly criticism in the shape of a report. If anything is to be said, let it come from individual members of the Council. It does not sound so formidable, coming from individual members, to some people, particularly in regard to financial matters. I think it would be just as well to let it remain where it is, with the general understanding that the Committee on Finance and every member shall come here at the next meeting to discuss and dispose of it. I think a great many of us have made up our minds. We have read the discussion elsewhere, and some of us have read what was done last year, and some of us are prepared to vote for nothing else. I think on the whole I should prefer to let it remain on the table.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me, as has been said by members of the Committee on Retrenchment, that this is a matter which we want to have investigated fully, and in the ordinary course of business it is a matter that would properly go to the Committee on Finance. We lose no great amount of time in letting them consider it during the next week, and members of the committee represent that their minds are not made up, as some of us have supposed, and that they are prepared to treat it as an open question and can consider it fairly. As it is not to cause any particular delay, I hope we shall let it go to that committee and give them a chance, as they want to have it come before them. It is treating them fairly and properly, in the ordinary course of business, to let it go to them.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I do not suppose there is any one here who does not wish to dispose of this matter, and is even prepared to vote tonight. I cannot say I am prepared to vote intelligently.

The gentleman from Ward 9 who has just taken his seat, in the early part of the evening, when this matter was up, was then rather against having this matter referred to the Committee on Finance, and before he took his seat, while this was under consideration, or at least previous to his speaking, the matter was brought up in relation to the ordinance as framed in this report, and he thought there was something wrong; and the gentleman, in referring to the ordinance, thought it was a proper matter to send to the Committee on Ordinances. It strikes me that he has changed his mind now, and I query whether he has not thought of that; whether he has not thought that this ought not really to go to the Committee on Finance, out of courtesy, just as he would like to have the matter of the ordinance referred to the Committee on Ordinances. That is the position I am placed in; if the report does not come from them, if they detain it and kill it, or whether there is any disposition to kill it there. I am ready to vote for it as it is now. I only want to have proper courtesy shown to the Committee on Finance. I think it is due to this Council that we should have the information of the Committee on Finance on this matter, that we may stand right. I find that the gentleman from Ward 9 thinks that he has pretty well made up his mind that the gentlemen of the Council understand it. I must say that I have been following this thing for the last month, and I am about as much in a muddle as I was when I first started out. I have a document here with figures enough to make quite a book; but the fact is the more I look at them the more I am muddled. I would like to have the committee investigate it and present it here in proper shape.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I offered the motion to lay on the table and to refer to the Finance Committee; and as the spirit of that motion has been called in question I wish to say it was not offered for the purpose of killing the order or for any purpose of delay. I think it will be apparent. If we were discussing the merits of it I think I could show in five minutes that the report and the ordinance are not in harmony; that the ordinance does not accomplish what the report suggests. I was on the point, when the previous question was moved, of adding to my motion to refer the words, "with instructions to consider and report as soon as practicable," and if the reconsideration prevails I will add those words.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I shall vote to have this subject reconsidered tonight, and to have it sent to the Finance Committee. It seems to me we do need some light about our Sinking Fund. I never read of it here; it never comes before this Council but what I always think of the sea serpent. It is seen once a year by somebody, never twice in the same place, nor twice by the same man. It seems to me this Sinking Fund is in a like condition. You read a long account from this Alderman about it, or a long account from this committee, but it is never seen alike in two places, and it is never seen alike by two men. I think as the gentleman has said, we are pretty well fuddled about it. I would like to see somebody who could really tell us something about our Sinking Fund so that we could wholly understand it and vote intelligently upon it. I hope it will go to the Committee on Finance. I hope if they can find this sea serpent they will bring it up here next Thursday night and show us what it is.

The question was taken on the motion to reconsider the vote to specially assign, and it was declared carried.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 doubted the vote, and called for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were not ordered, and Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 asked to have the vote verified by a rising count.

Fifty-seven gentlemen voted in the affirmative, and the motion to reconsider prevailed.

The question then came on the motion to refer to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 moved to amend the motion by adding the words "with instructions to consider and report as early as practicable."

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—I would ask whether the committee can be instructed to report at the next meeting.

The President—It would be in order.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I hope gentlemen will not vote to instruct the Committee on Finance this way. His Honor the Mayor is chairman of the committee, and it will depend somewhat upon what time he is able to give to the matter whether we shall be able to make a report at the next meeting. As far as the members are concerned, I will say they will be willing to report next Thursday if it is possible to do so.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—Just one word. I think we are hardly living up to the terms of the gentleman who moved this reconsideration. I think he did so with the understanding that if the motion to reconsider prevailed it would be referred to the Committee on Finance, with instructions to report at the next meeting. I think that was the strongest argument in favor of reconsideration. "At the earliest moment practicable" is a little too general. I do not know but that is just where the device that I alluded to comes in. It may be a long time before it will be practicable for this committee to report. Now, while the motion is here before us, before it is disposed of I think we had better fix the time when we may meet this motion and dispose of it one way or the other; and I would suggest that at the next meeting we have a report, and I will renew that motion if nobody else will. I hope the amendment will be that the committee be instructed to report at the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I have respect enough for the Committee on Finance to believe that when this matter is referred to them, with instructions in substance to consider and report as soon as practicable, they will do it. But the point which I want to suggest, without arguing the matter, is this: that the object of referring it to the Committee on Finance is to obtain their consideration and report on the facts. I should expect them, under these instructions, if possible, to report at the next meeting. I think we ought to do that committee the courtesy of giving them the usual instructions, and especially considering the fact that his Honor the Mayor is chairman of that committee, and is at present out of the city, if I am rightly informed.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I do not do it from any personal consideration, but the members of this Council know as well as anybody else that last Monday, in the other branch of this government, this very same object was tried and failed of accomplishment. The gentleman who makes the motion was there and heard the debate, and he knows as well as anybody else that the Aldermen will never agree to it. It is only an effort to gain time, to have it referred to the Committee on Finance. After that it must come back to the Council. It is delay they are after. They made a test vote of it at the last meeting of the Aldermen.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I would ask the gentleman, if it comes back next Thursday night if there would be any delay about it?

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I am not wanting in courtesy to and high appreciation of this committee; but I understand they feel pretty strongly upon this matter, and they might take advantage of every parliamentary right and privilege which is legal to defeat this object. Now, then, somebody has said that the committee are opposed to this measure. We are just on the verge of having the appropriation bill come in. The heads of departments are making up their estimates of how much money is needed for the various departments this year. We cannot act intelligently upon these appropriations unless we know what is to be done with this matter. We may have some notions in our minds of what we think ought to be done, but until that matter is settled we cannot act intelligently upon these requests which come in. As has been suggested, the appropriations are always too large, or have been heretofore. We would scan them a little more closely this year than we have ever before done. Now, with this ordinance unsettled, and in the hands of the Finance Committee, how can we act intelligently upon this matter which is coming before us? I say we have got to dispose of this matter. We must know what we are going to do with this $800,000—whether it is going into the Sinking Fund or is to be carried over. We want to know what is to be done with it before we make the appropriations. Hence you see the importance of having this matter speedily disposed of. I still insist that at the next meeting we ought to have the report of the Finance Committee on this matter.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—I would like to know who is kind enough to speak for the Finance Committee and give their opinions on this subject. As a member of this committee, certainly no one has ever had any authority to state my views. I have no decided views upon this matter. I have tried pretty hard this past week to make up my mind on this subject, but so far have been unable to do so. I have no knowledge of the sentiment of any member of the committee excepting the chairman on the part of the Board of Aldermen, who stated his opinion publicly at the last meeting of the Board.

Mr. Coe of Ward 23—Gentlemen seem to be inclined to have a knowledge of the views of the Finance Committee. Now, I would say for myself that this is a matter on which I have not made up my mind, and I would like to have time to look the thing over. I do not know how they assume that we shall report against it unless they assume that it is so absurd that sensible men cannot help it.

The President—The question is on the motion to substitute the words "to report at the next meeting of the Council."

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I hope that amendment will not prevail. I think we should treat the committee with more consideration than to tie them up in this way. We find that they all represent that they are open to argument on the subject, and are prepared to treat the subject fairly; and I think the Council should treat the committee fairly; and instructions to report as soon as practicable are all that we should make.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I think the gentleman last up is almost in the same category with the sea serpent. A little while ago he said he wanted this Finance Committee to get light on this subject and bring it here next Thursday night. That was one of the reasons why I voted for the reconsideration. Now he goes back on that, and we shall not know where to find him pretty soon.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I only want to say to the Council that so far as I am concerned as a member of the committee I will do all in my power to have the report here next Thursday. But of course it is known that his Honor the Mayor is chairman of the committee, and we shall have to be governed by the time he can give to the matter. I understand he will be back Monday, and I see no reason why we cannot report next Thursday night.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I desire to say I have not changed my position on this subject at all. My position is this: that the committee report at the next meeting of the Council if it is any way possible. I prefer to take their word for it. I do not think it is exactly courteous to the committee to doubt them when they say they will do it. I think we should take their word for it.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 18—I move the previous question.

The main question was ordered.

Mr. Ruffin's motion to substitute "at the next meeting of the Council" for "as soon as practicable," was declared lost.

Mr. Kelley of Ward 3 doubted the vote, and it was verified by a rising vote, 28 voting in favor of the substitution and 37 against.

The question was then upon Mr. Pratt's motion to refer, with instructions to report as soon as practicable, and it was carried. Sent up.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for a transfer of $5000 from the appropriation for House of Correction to that for Austin Farm. Passed—yeas 65, nays 1, Mr. Fernald voting nay. Sent up.

Motion to reconsider vote whereby was indefinitely postponed an ordinance to amend an ordinance concerning the assessment and collection of taxes. The motion to reconsider was withdrawn by Mr. McGaragle.

ELECTIONS.

Before proceeding to the elections which were in order the President read the following:

CITY OF BOSTON, }
CITY HALL, March 1, 1877. }

Benj. Pope, Esq., President Common Council: Dear Sir—I noticed, and with much regret, that at the last meeting of the Council my name was used and balloted for for office, without the least authority, knowledge or intimation to or from me to use the same in any way whatever.

While I am aware that I have a large number of good friends in the Council who would rally to my support were I a candidate, I trust that they will not, under any other circumstances than with my approval, use my name.

I write this at this time because it has been intimated to me this evening that many members of your body would vote for me, with my consent, for one of the offices now under consideration; but as I am not a candidate, I desire to say that I hope no one will make use of my name. You will do me a favor by reading this to the Council.

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
GEO. A. SHAW.

The elections proceeded.

Weighers and Inspectors of Lighters. Committee—Messrs. Ham of Ward 8, McGaragle of Ward 8, Duggan of Ward 12.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Edward Hatch (Inspector in chief).....	62
Timothy E. Hughes " " ".....	2
John Kenney.....	64
John J. Caddigan.....	64
William Dolan.....	63
George A. Shaw.....	2
M. Barr.....	1
T. E. Hughes.....	1

And two ballots for ineligible persons; and Messrs. Hatch, Kenney, Caddigan and Dolan were declared elected. Sent up.

Overseers of the Poor. Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Wilbur of Ward 20, Kelley of Ward 3:

Whole number of votes.....	64
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Thomas C. Amory had.....	62
Samuel B. Cruft.....	32
George Curtis.....	44
Liverus Hull.....	32
James A. McDonald.....	29
William Gorman.....	45
William Gorham.....	1

Messrs. Amory, Curtis and Gorman were declared elected, and a ballot was ordered to fill the vacancy.

Whole number of ballots.....	67
Necessary for a choice.....	34
Samuel B. Cruft.....	9
Liverus Hull.....	26
James A. McDonald.....	31
George A. Shaw.....	1

There being no choice, a third ballot was ordered.

Whole number of ballots.....	67
Necessary for a choice.....	34
Samuel B. Cruft.....	7
Liverus Hull.....	30
James A. McDonald.....	30

There being no choice, a fourth ballot was ordered:

Whole number of ballots.....	68
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Liverus Hull.....	36
James A. McDonald.....	32

Mr. Hull was declared elected. Sent up.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION,

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I rise to make a little personal explanation, from the fact that our usually accomplished and accurate reporter has reported me as saying at the last session, "I hope the motion to reconsider will not prevail." What I did say was that I hoped the motion would not be reached at this meeting, my object being to prevent taking a vote upon the motion to reconsider when one-third and not two-thirds of the Council had left the chamber. I simply state this to put myself right upon the record, for I don't wish to have the motion to reconsider passed upon at this late hour of the session, for I thought it was unfair to those members who had gone away.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITY OFFICERS.

School Committee. Requests were received from the School Committee as follows: To have the yard of the Bennett School paved or otherwise put in good condition; to provide means for establishing two summer vacation schools, one for boys and one for girls, in 1877, at an estimated expense of $2000, for 200 pupils during vacation; to enlarge the yard of the Gordon-street School by the addition to it from the rear of the portion of the old Franklin-street School lot; to provide suitable school accommodations for Eggleston square; to select a location and a building for the use of the Anstin School.

Severally referred to the Joint Committee on Public Instruction.

Also a request that the windows in the Dorchester Schoolhouse be changed. Referred, on motion of Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20, to the Committee on Public Buildings.

MARCELLA-STREET TRUANT HOME.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted the following, which was read and referred to the Joint Committee on Public Institutions. Sent up.

BOSTON, Feb. 28, 1877.

To the Honorable the City Council of the City of Boston: Gentlemen—In compliance with an order of the City Council dated Dec. 11, 1876, the Committee on Public Buildings have surrendered the Marcella-street Home to the Board of Directors, who have proceeded with the work of fitting up the institution, until now it is nearly ready for the reception of its inmates.

Under the present laws and ordinances the truant and vagrant children are committed to the House of Reformation, and the pauper and neglected children are sent to the Pauper School, which is a branch of the City Almshouse located at Deer Island. This school building was erected in 1869, to effect a distinct classification of the pauper boys apart from the adult paupers. In 1873 the City Council repealed the ordinance under which neglected children were committed to the House of Reformation, and by a new ordinance designated the pauper school as the place to which these children should be sent. This was done at the earnest request of the directors, and was the means of placing in one department all the children who, owing to poverty or neglect, should require the care of the city.

In preparing the estimates for the financial year 1875-76, desiring to advance a step further in this work of classification, the directors requested the City Council to make an appropriation for the purpose of erecting at Deer Island a building similar to that occupied by the pauper boys, to enable them to make a proper classification of the boys in the House of Reformation, by separating the truants and vagrants from the boys committed for minority for juvenile offences. The appropriation was not granted, and in the annual report of the board for that year (see City Document No. 67, 1875, pages 30 and 31) the reasons for this request and the necessity of classification were set forth in such terms as to engage the attention of the City Council. The result was that in November, 1875, the City Council adopted an order directing the Committee on Public Buildings to fit up the Marcella-street Hospital for a home for the truant and vagrant children.

Pending the preparation of this building, the subject has engaged the attention of the Board of Directors, who have, in its consideration, become convinced that it will be for the best interests of the city to remove the male pauper and neglected children to this new institution instead of the boys sentenced to the House of Reformation as truants and vagrants.

When this subject was under consideration by the City Council in 1875, the truants and vagrants comprised about half the number under sentence in the House of Reformation, or 155 in all. The number in the pauper school was only seventy-two. Since that date, however, the number of truants has materially decreased, the present number being 112—truants eighty-one, vagrants thirty-one; while the number of inmates in the pauper school building has constantly and steadily increased, the present number being 154—pauper boys, seventy-nine, neglected boys, 75—with a prospect of still further increase. The building occupied by them is already over-crowded, and if they remain at Deer Island will soon be inadequate for their proper accommodation. By removing them to Marcella-street Home, the expense of providing more room will be obviated, as the accommodations at that place will be ample for a considerable time. The truant and vagrant children can then be transferred to the present pauper school building at Deer Island, and thus a distinct classification can be effected. This plan seems to be more in accord with the policy of the City Council to remove the pauper class from Deer Island. The building at Austin Farm is approaching completion; the female paupers will soon be transferred to that place, and the removal of the pauper and neglected boys to the new home will relieve the Deer Island institutions of all the pauper class, and place the truants and vagrants in a separate building some distance from the House of Reformation, and in a class by themselves. The increased number at the new home, will add but little, if anything, to the expense of maintaining the institution, and as an economical measure, to say nothing of the great advantage to the pauper boys, commends itself to the good judgment of the Board of Directors.

The School Committee of this Board, having devoted much time to the consideration of this subject, submitted, in September last, a report containing among others, the following recommendation:

"The rapid growth of the Boys' Almshouse School, and the prospect that the present building will soon be inadequate for it, has forced your committee to consider whether the City Government, if its attention were called to it, would not consider that its general wishes and designs were not better carried out by placing the pauper boys in the Marcella-street buildings, and the truant school in the Almshouse school buildings. Your committee, believing such to be the better course, and that such will be the decision of the City Government, recommend that the Board apply for authority to make these changes." This report has been carefully considered by the Board, and at the last meeting (Feb. 23), it was unanimously voted, That the President address a communication to the City Council requesting the Council to authorize the removal of the pauper and neglected boys to the Marcella-street Home, instead of the truants and vagrants as previously contemplated.

In compliance with that vote, this communication is respectfully submitted, with the earnest wish that the request be granted.

Respectfully,
SAMUEL LITTLE,
President.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petition of Julia McAvoy to be paid for personal injuries received at the corner of Washington and East Canton streets. Referred to Joint Committee on Claims.

By Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—A petition of Hiram Johnson, that the city would take thirty cents on a dollar on a bond of $800, toward the completion of Swett street; petitioner is unable to pay his debts, and most of his creditors have compromised on thirty cents on a dollar. Referred to the Joint Committee on Streets. Sent up.

PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Mr. Pearl of Ward 1 submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Public Instruction:

Report on request of School Committee for a site for primary-school purposes in Gaston District—That the city owns a suitable lot on Broadway in said district, upon which a primary-school building can be erected when required; and that no further action is necessary on said request. Accepted. Sent up.

Report on request of School Committee for additional appropriation of $28,000—That they are in favor of granting the same, and that the subject be referred to the Committee on Finance to provide the means. Accepted and referred accordingly. Sent up.

CLAIMS.

Mr. Sampson submitted the following from the Committee on Claims:

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Clinton White for compensation for injuries on Charlestown street, as, if the petitioner has any claim, it is against the Middlesex Railroad. Accepted. Sent up.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Isabella Jordan for compensation for injuries received by a sled on Boston Common. Accepted. Sent up.

Report and order—That there be allowed and paid to Louise Woodworth Foss as compensation for personal injuries received by her on, caused by defect in, Warren avenue, the sum of $1250, upon her giving to the city a release and discharge satisfactory to the City Solicitor for all costs and damages and expense incurred in consequence of said injuries.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I would like to inquire of the Committee on Claims in regard to the circumstances of this matter.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—As the chairman on the part of the Council was absent at the last meeting when this matter was considered, by his leave I will make a statement of what I know about it. This fall was occasioned by ice on the sidewalk, as I understand, on Warren avenue, not far from Rev. Mr. Wright's church. Mrs. Foss is a well-known public reader, a lady whose profession is elocution. She was passing along one Saturday evening in January; I think it was a few days after the fall of snow and after the thaw, and there was ice upon the sidewalk; she fell, and her arm was broken. Her injury was examined by her own physician, by the city physician and the physician at the hospital. She received permanent injuries. I believe that her wrist or arm is disfigured, as the evidence went to show, for life. She can use her arm for general purposes, and the physician testified that it would be as strong, possibly, as ever. She will do certain kinds of work as well as she ever could, but in her profession she could not use the arm as is desired; the suppleness is not there; besides, there is a protuberance on her arm which disfigures it. It was given mature deliberation, and some gentlemen who had seen very many such cases tried in court were of the opinion that if such a case as that were put before a jury she would recover larger damages than we have awarded her. That was the opinion of a majority of the committee. You remember there was a lady who fell in this passageway which leads by City Hall out into School street a year or two ago, and the case has just been tried at the last term of the Supreme Court. She received injuries not unlike these possibly a little more severe, and she recovered damages in the sum of six thousand dollars. There are many other instances of a like character. The committee thought if it could be settled at this time it would be wise. Of course it is to get the sanction of the City Solicitor, who understands this case thoroughly. He has had many to try and has tried many of them. He admits that it is wise to make settlements this way.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I think that $1250 is a large sum to pay for disfiguring an arm. It seems to me the total amount of damages is in injuring the wrist; but at the same time if the lawyers thought she would obtain more in the court, I have no objection to the order.

The order was passed to a second reading, and Mr. Ruffin moved the suspension of the rules in order that it may take its second reading.

Mr. Crocker—I hardly see any reason why this should be hurried through this evening. It is a matter that will wait just as well as not. As a general rule it is not desirable to suspend the rules. They are made for good purposes, and to give gentlemen an opportunity to look into these matters.

Mr. Ruffin—My reason was simply this: The damages in this case were laid at $10,000, and we at first offered something less than $1250—to wit, $1000—and they refused to take it, and a lawsuit was threatened. The attorney who has the matter of this lady in charge has been anxious for a settlement and wanted and got an up and down answer; he has been pressing the committee, and at the last meeting he intimated that he should bring his writ right away; and hence the committee had to make their report.

The rule was suspended and the order read a second time and passed. Sent up.

FINANCE.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted the following from the Committee on Finance:

Report that it is inexpedient to pass the order for the Mayor to petition the Legislature for authority to cancel bonds held by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, so far as such cancellation may be consistent with the obligations which the city may have assumed towards the holders of its bonds.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—As I suppose the Council does not want to discuss this matter this evening, I move that the consideration of it be specially assigned to the next meeting at nine o'clock.

The motion prevailed.

Mr. Sampson—I would explain to the gentleman that there was no intention of delay on the part of the Finance Committee. They were ready to act upon it, but his Honor the Mayor desired to confer with the gentleman who offered the order [Mr. Crocker], and the order remained with the committee until the Mayor had conferred with him.

Report and order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund to the appropriation for Common, etc., the sum of $6000. Order passed to a second reading.

Report and order—That the Auditor be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund to the appropriation for Printing and Stationery the sum of $4500. Order read twice and passed—yeas 65, nays 0. Sent up.

Report that the Auditor of Accounts represents that the Contingent Fund of the Board of Aldermen is exhausted, and they recommend the passage of an order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund to the Contingent Fund of the Board of Aldermen the sum of $500. Order passed to a second reading.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR AND THE COMMON.

The report came down with an order granting the use of a portion of the parade ground to the Massachusetts Charitable Mechauc Association for their triennial exhibition. It was first considered among the papers from the Board of Aldermen.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I move that the report of the Committee on Common be laid upon the table, with the understanding that after the regular business of the Council has been gone through with I shall move that the report be taken from the table in order that it may be passed tonight.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I think it unfair to bring the question up at a late hour of the evening, when it is well known that many members of the Council leave and when a good many are absent. I think this subject requires a full Council and careful consideration. There are many points of merit in the question, and I hope that it will not be taken up at a late hour. I have no objection to the report being laid upon the table at present.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—It seems to me it would be an incentive to keep the members here. The motion to lay upon the table was carried—43 for, 13 against.

Later in the session, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, the subject was taken from the table. The report was read by the Chair.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I understand there are about seventy pages of the evidence set up in type, and the balance can be printed at very small expense. I would therefore move that this matter be specially assigned for next Thursday evening at eight o'clock, and that the report and evidence be printed.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I do not think it is necessary to postpone the subject any longer. The report, though in type, has been pretty thoroughly given through the city newspapers. I think gentlemen must have made up their minds one way or the other by this time. To put the matter on paper will cause some additional expense, and down in the Board of Aldermen it was not considered feasible to do that. If the gentleman wishes it particularly, I have no personal objections, but I hardly see the necessity of it. I should certainly await the view of the Council in that matter. I merely say it seems as though sufficient evidence had been given through the daily papers to warrant an action of the Council this evening.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—I would move as an amendment to the motion that the expense of printing be charged to the appropriation for Common and Squares. In explanation of that amendment I will state that the order for printing came from that committee, and it was worded that the expense should be charged to the appropriation for Common and Squares. In order to have it conform to that order I move this amendment.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I certainly hope the report will be laid on the table and the testimony printed. During the discussion through the papers I happened to be away from the city, and unfortunately I did not see the reports as I would like to. It can cost but a trifling amount, as they have already a large part of it in type.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 accepted the amendment.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I would like to inquire of the Committee on Printing if there has been any expense incurred so far in printing this report.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—I understand seventy pages of this evidence is already in type. Of course that expense will have to be paid. It will not be so much, I suppose, as if the whole should be printed.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I would like to suggest to the gentleman who last sat down that the appropriation for Common and Squares is about exhausted. I do not know that they have any money; while the Committee on Printing have just received an appropriation this evening for just such purposes. Possibly it might be better if the expense is to be met, that it should be met by the Committee on Printing, or by the appropriation for that purpose.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I hope the gentleman will not be very captious about it. He is very well aware that when the Committee on Common and Squares comes up and asks for an appropriation, we are always ready to pass any appropriation they ask for.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—It might be well, if this motion is to be passed, to make some amendment as to the number of copies to be printed. The Committee on Printing have an established number, but the Committee on Common and Squares have not.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—It really seems to me that this is all unnecessary. I do not think there is a gentleman in this Council who has not fully made up his mind how he is going to vote upon this measure. I think the last week we have been pestered enough, hustled enough and talked to enough to get pretty fully informed about this matter. It occurs to me if this has already been put in type, by whose authority was it done? By the authority of the Committee on Common and Squares I suppose. If they have got the game let them have the name. It seems to me we are delaying action on a matter that we are well informed upon.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I call for a division of the question.

The motion was divided and the question was upon specially assigning the matter for next Thursday evening, and the motion was lost.

The question was then taken on ordering the evidence printed, and the motion was lost.

The question then came on the acceptance of the report.

At the request of Mr. Howes of Ward 18 the President read the order.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—It is to me rather an unpleasant task to report and urge the acceptance of an order which meets on one side with a very large amount of support from the gentlemen on this side, who I think are both honest and loyal in their attachment to our city, and which on the other hand meets with the opposition possibly of almost an equal number of men who I imagine are equally honest and equally loyal. The question is one of expediency. That is the ground which must be taken for voting for or against this motion. To one who is accustomed at times to look at both sides of a question, it is somewhat unfortunate to be placed in the position that I am. For in advocating the order in this way I may perhaps be charged with not being partisan enough, and, therefore, incur neither the approval of the friends nor of the enemies of it. Nevertheless, as I have said before, it is a question which can be narrowed down to a single sentence like this: Is it policy to attempt to accomplish a great public good by a possible contingent evil? We are all of us, I think, of the opinion that the Charitable Mechanic Association is a very worthy institution. It has done for years past a great deal for the city and for the citizens. For the past forty years it has been more or less under the protection of the city in holding its triennial festivals. The city has awarded it without cost the use of Faneuil Hall, and the exhibitions held there have redounded greatly to the credit of Boston. They have grown beyond that, and the Association now comes before us and asks for the temporary use of the Common, which, by the statutes and laws of the State, is held by this city under the same regulations that govern Faneuil Hall—that is, the grounds there cannot be leased or sold for any purpose, neither can Faneuil Hall be sold or leased, except by express permission of the citizens of Boston. If the association succeeds in getting this right they propose to erect a very handsome building there, and hold an exhibition which in the extent and thoroughness of classification will not be surpassed by any held in this country, with the single exception of the one held in Philadelphia. The managers, as I understand, have received assurance from the leading manufacturers and business men throughout New England that they will contribute very largely to its support. They are confident of the assertion that the exhibition will be equal, in most respects, to the American Exhibition at Philadelphia. Now, the plan as proposed is certainly an admirable one. I do not think any one can find objection to the plan in itself. Now, what are the objections? Quite a number of these, as I fancy, amount to very little. It is said, for instance, that the association is to occupy half the Common. Now, this is mere gross exaggeration. The ground to be occupied will hardly be more than four acres; it may not be even that. It is also said that it will be a very great nuisance to the people living on the surrounding streets, on account of having lumber and other things piled up on the Common during the process of the erection and taking down of the building; but that argument would hold equally well if the association were to locate its building in almost any other part of the city. Other objections have been urged in the hearings that the committee have had, but to my mind the arguments are very weak; one of them was that the garbage and refuse matter that would be scattered around the Common by the various persons coming to visit the exhibition, who would picnic on the Common, might create some disease in the city. On that point I trust that the sanitary regulations which the commissioners or the Committee on the Common would be sufficient to guard against that. Another objection is that the ground to be covered by this building is needed to purify the air of Boston. Now I submit to any candid person whether he supposes that the air we have been breathing today, that comes from the northwest, five hundred miles away, would be purified or vitiated one way or the other by blowing over any building or over four acres of land on the Common! Why, the mere statement shows the absurdity of any such assertion. There is, however, one argument which has a great deal of force with me, and I think it must have with any one else, and that is the matter of precedent. I assume that it will establish to a certain degree a bad precedent. We cannot get over that, and we may as well recognize it at the start. But, as I might add, there have been precedents of a somewhat similar kind established on the Common since 1794, when a ropewalk was put up there and continued for some time. Down as late as three or four years ago we had a rhododendron show on the Common. All of these are bad precedents. I think that the city should be very careful as to what use it puts the Common to. But we are now living in a very peculiar time. If this association had come to the city and I had been a member of the City Government, four or five years ago, and made this request, I should have certainly opposed it. Should the character of our business interests be improved during the next three years, and the association should come here three years later and ask to renew this privilege that they now ask, I, for one, should oppose it then. But just at the present time, when trade throughout Boston is languishing, when workmen are either thronging the corridors of this City Hall, or are staying at home, some of them at the point of starvation; and when, with very few exceptions, every business man is complaining that his losses are growing larger and larger, it seems to me that the city of Boston should do something, if it can, as a relief for these troubles. It is admitted, I think, that exhibitious of this kind are of great material advantage to the people who hold them. Two of them have been held in England, two in France, and it is now thought that the French Government, at a very large expense—some millions—will hold another one. The advantage is not in drawing people to Boston who may incidentally buy one or two things in the stores. I did not know until within a day or two that the argument was made at the time of the Peace Jubilee that that would produce an immense impetus to trade in Boston by having it here. I was not aware before that Bostonians were in the habit of courting the muses for mercenary purposes; but it seems in that case they were.

But these cases are in no way analogous. This is purely a business matter. It is instituted for the business accommodation of New England by affording manufacturers an opportunity to compare the quality of their goods with that of others, by affording merchants an opportunity to find out where they can purchase cheapest, and by affording mechanics and inventors an opportunity of seeing whether some improvement cannot be made in various modes and methods of manufacturing our products. It seems to me that at this time an exhibition of this kind would redound greatly to the credit of Boston, and would also largely augment our business prosperity. It is for this reason, and for this alone, that I favor it; and I think my sentiments, to a very large extent, are shared by the members of our committee, who have reported unanimously in favor of it. We therefore trust that this matter will meet with the approval of the Council, and will pass as soon as possible for the purpose of allowing this association to make its plans and send out to the various manufacturers and those on whom it is dependent, to find from them the amount and character of the exhibits they intend to contribute.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Was the chairman of the committee on the part of the Council present when the remonstrants appeared?

Mr. Howes—I was.

Mr. McGaragle—Was it not one of the standard qualifications that if allowed to erect this building they will be allowed to erect it three years hence?

Mr. Howes—No such qualification was made. The question was asked of one of the petitioners whether they would wish to erect it three years hence, and he said they might ask to do it; he did not deny it, but they might find some other place by that time, and he could not state what the association would do three years hence.

Mr. McGaragle—As I read it, they said they proposed to come here three years hence and ask permission to use the Common on that occasion; and he was represented to be an officer of the association.

Mr. Howes—I can only say that the gentleman has exhibited a wonderful amount of knowledge on the subject. There was no such evidence.

Mr. Pope of Ward 16—I can confirm the remark that the chairman of the committee has made. I certainly did not hear any such evidence. It must have been some reporter's story in the paper.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I think the statement made by the gentleman last up might lead some of us to change our votes in regard to printing the evidence. I am desirous of seeing the document in print. I understand that some seventy pages are in type, and the expense of completing it will be comparatively trifling. I do not know what the evidence may be, but I should like to read it before passing the order. It has been said that a certain statement was published in the papers, and another gentleman says it was a reporter's story and that there was no such evidence. We all know that the newspaper reports are condensed statements. I took the Daily Advertiser report, which was a condensed statement. For one, I should like to see the matter printed. If in order I move to reconsider the vote refusing to lay the subject on the table and print the evidence.

Mr. Howes—I cannot understand the reason for that motion without it is for a dilatory purpose. The Council, by a very large vote, has just voted down a motion of that kind. I can hardly see why it is brought up at this time.

Mr. Thompson—The motion was made for no dilatory purpose whatever. In the course of the discussion the fact has come out, from the gentleman's own statement, that we want this evidence printed. There are disputes as to what is the evidence. I should like to see something upon which all will stand as to what was the evidence taken before the committee.

Mr. Webster—I move the previous question.

Mr. Stone—I raise the point of order that the motion to reconsider is not in order at this time.

The President—The Chair decides that it will be in order.

Mr. Howes—I supposed the report of the Committee was before the Council.

The President—A motion was made to specially assign the report of the committee and have the report and evidence printed. That motion was lost, and now Mr. Thompson moves a reconsideration.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I would ask the ruling of the Chair whether the motion to reconsider is a proper motion to make at this time.

The President—The Chair decides it can be.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I understood that the question was being discussed upon its merits; and now, after the previous question is ordered, the gentleman moves a reconsideration.

The President—The Chair does not so understand it.

Mr. Flynn—Is it a reconsideration of the vote whereby the Council voted not to print?

The President—The previous question has been moved upon the motion to reconsider the vote whereby the Council refused to print.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—If I understand it, the question came up on the report of the committee. A motion that the evidence be printed was made and voted down, and the question came on the acceptance of the report of the committee, and there has been discussion upon it. Then a motion was made to reconsider the vote whereby we voted down the motion to print the testimony taken by the committee; and I ask the ruling of the Chair if it is in order to move a reconsideration in the present state of the business.

The President—The Chair rules that in his opinion it is in order.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I am in favor of having this evidence printed. It is in a measure new to me, and when we consider the source from which this evidence comes you will see the importance of having the whole of it before the Council. The remonstrants were composed of some of our leading and best-informed people, and they thoroughly qualified themselves when they went before the committee. Their testimony is valuable, as well as the testimony in favor of a petition.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I raise a point of order. I think the motion for the previous question is not debatable.

The President—It is debatable for ten minutes.

Mr. Ruffin—I am assigning a reason why the previous question should not be put. This evidence suggests what we want in discussing this question. I see the importance of having it before the Council. I do not think we can dispose of this question intelligently unless we have that evidence before us. Now, it has been suggested that the evidence published in the newspapers was fragmentary. It gives the reporters' version of it, sometimes the substance and sometimes not the substance; they give a short synopsis of it. I think we ought to have a verbatim report, and therefore I hope the efforts of my colleague from Ward 9 will prevail.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I would like to know what the subject before the Council is.

The President—The question is upon the motion by Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 to reconsider the vote whereby the Council refused to print the report and evidence of the Committee on Common and Squares.

Mr. Wilbur—Has the report been accepted by the Council?

The President—The report has not been accepted.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Before the vote is taken I should like to have the ruling of the Chair whether any member of this Council who is a member of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association is prohibited from voting by being an interested party.

The President—This is hardly a question for the Chair to decide.

Mr. Howes—I was just going to ask what the ruling of the Chair was going to be on that question, because it is certainly not a matter of private profit to members of the Charitable Mechanic Association.

The motion to reconsider the vote whereby the Council refused to print the evidence was declared carried.

Mr. Howes doubted the vote. The Council divided—27 for, 33 against, and the motion was lost.

Mr. McGaragle—Before the vote is announced, I raise the point of order that any gentleman who is a member of the Mechanic Association has no right to vote upon that question.

The President—The gentleman would have a right to vote upon that question. It does not concern his private interests.

Mr. McGaragle—Is he not an interested party?

The President—That is a question that each gentleman will have to settle for himself.

Mr. McGaragle—I ask the ruling of the Chair on the question.

The President—The Chair declines to rule.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move that the report be recommitted, with instructions to report the evidence in print.

The President—That motion is not in order, as the Council has just decided not to print.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I believe that this matter has been discussed in the public prints for a number of weeks, and—

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I claim the floor.

The President—The Chair understood that the gentleman from Ward 21 had got through.

Mr. Pratt—I ask for information upon the ruling of the Chair just now—if this question is not a sufficiently different one to properly bring before the Council. The question as stated before was the reconsideration of the motion to postpone to a time certain—that is, to make a special assignment until next week, and that the matter be printed, and charged to the appropriation for Common and Public Grounds. Now I make a different motion, which, as suggested by a gentleman familiar to this floor, incorporates a new idea, and I ask the ruling of the Chair whether it be in order to move that the report be recommitted to the committee that made the report with instructions to report with the evidence in print.

The President—The Chair rules that it is not in order.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I was about to say, before being interrupted, that this matter had been thoroughly considered in the public prints, and if any member of this Council has not given his attention to it and not substantially formed his opinion, it is very singular. It seems to be the desire of the Council to decide it tonight. I believe we are ready to vote upon it, and that every member knows how he is going to vote. At this late hour I don't believe that we want any long-winded arguments. I move the previous question.

Mr. Pratt—I hope the previous question will prevail. I do not think that in this stage of the proceedings discussion should be choked off.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope the previous question will not prevail. I think we ought to have a right to say something. It don't think it is fair.

Mr. Howes—This is merely upon the acceptance of the report, and when the order comes before the Council the gentleman will have liberty to talk upon that.

The President—That is correct.

The main question was ordered. The report was accepted.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Is it in order now to move the previous question?

The President—The Chair will state the question now before the Council. It is upon giving the order a second reading.

Mr. Spenceley offered the following as a substitute.

Ordered, That the Committee on Common and Squares be and they are hereby requested to remove all lamp-posts and all other obstructions from that part of the Common known as the parade ground, and that it be set apart for a playground for the youth of our city, and for parades at all times when occasion shall require.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I recollect once hearing a story about an old farmer who was sailing on a river in a boat with his wife at one end and his mother at the other, and when asked, if the boat capsized, which he would try to save, he replied that he should try to save his mother, because he never could have but one mother, but he could get a wife at any time. I am in a predicament pretty much like that man. I am between two fires. While I am in favor of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, and if I vote against it I shall be voting against myself, I feel like the good old farmer—I can get a good many good associations, but I can never get but one Common. I feel that I am standing here tonight and advocating the Common just as it was a hundred years ago; as I noticed today in "Shurtleff's History," I think it was voted in 1646 that all the inhabitants of the town should have an equal right upon the Common; and that is just what I want. I want to have a right to the Common, and I want my children and your children to have a right on the Common; and if you give this association the right to put a building there, covering four acres of that land, I would like to know where my rights and the rights of my children and your children are. I believe in an equal Common—common to all; and I do not believe in putting this or any other building there. We are acting in justice to ourselves. The argument has been presented to us tonight of the many things which this association is to do. Perhaps many would be brought to our city in the shape of transient visitors, and perhaps some little money would be left behind. I do not know but it may be all right and true, and I would favor any exhibition that will bring any business to our city; but at the same time the exhibition can go on just as well without their going on the Common. I understood today that they have not decided whether they will give the exhibition. I think it is like the mounted police who ride around the city, and by their horses' hoofs frighten off burglars and give notice to patrolmen to be on the corners. I am opposed to it. I believe the Common is what it was given to us for, for us and our children. I used to look with wonder upon my friend from Ward 18 last year, every time I heard him prophesy, and he puts me in mind of a second Daniel. It does n't make any difference whether the building covers over four acres or sixty. What we want is a place where we can run around and jump, breathe fresh air, and for health; to go and extend your lungs and be somebody. That is what we want. That is what the Common is for. Now they have gone to work and fenced a part of it off, and it is a good deal as an Alderman said in the other branch—we almost want to look at it from a distance with opera glasses or something else. I believe we are departing from the real idea of the Common, and from the rights bestowed upon us by our fathers. To me that Common is as sacred as any spot on earth, and I believe we have got no right to put a steam engine and boiler there. If they go there it will take away the rights of the people. The gentleman says the Exhibition brought a great deal of money to Philadelphia. I want gentlemen to consider that it has n't been a great while since they had that Exhibition and that our manufacturers and machinists have got about tired of it, for a little while. All our woollen and cotton manufacturers have said they do not wish to have it and do not desire it on the Common. Many have signed a paper that they don't want it. Why have it on the Common? It seems to me that they can just as well put it on some other place as on the Common. The gentleman says the precedent has already been established. Now, I don't believe that. I don't think because they had a rope walk there in 1700 or an exhibition in 1818, is any reason why we should have one there now. Boston has grown some since then. I don't know as he knows it. I don't know as he knows that all around here was green fields, and that they pastured cattle upon it. In 1652 they had to make an ordinance that people should not put dead cats or dogs there. That may be a precedent for us to go upon.

Mr. Sibley.—What time were the Quaker women hanged there?

Mr. Spenceley—I don't know exactly.

Mr. Sibley—And the Baptists?

Mr. Spenceley—I am a little sensitive on the Baptist point. As the city has grown, so has the Common grown; but I do not want to see the Common changed on that account. The Common should be sacred for public purposes. That is the reason I oppose this measure. I believe the exhibition will be a grand thing for Boston, and the business of Boston. It is a part of my own business, and anything it brings into market helps me. I wish I could say, give it to them; but when I look at the other side I must oppose it. I cannot give my consent. I say there is plenty of ground within half a mile distance where they can put up a building and keep it forever, if they so desire; and I would like to know if that association is not far-sighted enough to know that they will need a permanent building in a few years, and that they will make a good thing by putting up a building and keeping it there forever? The question was asked, will they not want to exhibit there three years from now? Why, certainly they will. If they put the building up in sections, and keep it for three years, they will want to come back to the Common. They want to establish the precedent. Another thing: The agricultural and horticultural people may want to have a show there; Barnum may want to have a show, and somebody may want to have a race track there. I say, let us keep them off; and if we keep this one off, we will not have trouble to keep others off. I believe it will be an entering wedge to take the Common away from us.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 16—I agree with the gentleman who has just sat down. I think any gentleman here can vote intelligently upon this question. I move the previous question.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 21—I hope we shall not be cut off in this way. It is late now. There has been very little said on this important subject. I hope the previous question will not be ordered.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I do not know whether I want to hear any more such speeches as the anguish that I have heard on the Common. For some reasons I shall vote for this. I want to know who controls the Common. I read in a paper today that if the Council did not do so and so they would go to grass. Very well, that is all right and proper. In Drake's "History of Old Landmarks of Boston," this Common is represented to be not much in the shape as it was at the time my friend referred to. It extended on to Beacon Hill and very near to Washington street; and it was where this land is that they propose to use for the building.

Mr. Spenceley—I made a statement to that effect.

Mr. Sibley—I did not hear it. The anguish blotted it out. This is a terrible affair that is going to be there. The question now before us is, Is it useful? is it best? I cannot see anything but a sentimental sentiment opposed to it. It is said we cannot prevent any one from going on any part of the Common; but we can put a deer park there, and fence it up, and you will have to look through the fence. You can have the boys play ball, and rope in the ground, and the place is private so far as that game of ball was concerned. If I go around there it is private while I am occupying any part of the ground. From what I have heard about the precedent, hereafter I am willing to let time take care of it.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—Is the gentleman in order? Has the previous question been moved? I did not hear the motion withdrawn.

The President—The Chair understood that the gentleman was debating that question.

Mr. Sibley—Another question has been raised. It is getting late, but I am in no hurry to go home; if this business is necessary, let us stop and attend to it. I want the fullest discussion. I don't care how much is printed, if it isn't a question of time and expense. I intend to vote for it. It has been an old saying that wise men alter their minds and that certain other men never do. I may hear something to alter my mind. I hope the main question will not be put.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 16—I call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 20—Is the previous question moved merely upon the motion to substitute, or does it cover the whole question?

The President—The Chair understands that it covers the main question.

Mr. Thompson—I understood that the gentleman moved the previous question upon the substitute instead of the main question.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 16—My object was to bring a direct vote upon the subject.

The motion for the previous question was declared lost.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24 doubted the vote, and asked whether or not it cuts off debate on the whole subject.

The President—The gentleman who made the motion stated that he meant it to be upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ward 19.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—Does the Chair, then, rule that the subject as reported originally by the committee will still be open for debate?

The President—The question will be debatable upon the second reading of the order.

The previous question was put, and a quorum did not vote.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 moved that the roll be called.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I do not think that many understand that this motion is upon the substitute, or that they understand the legitimate effect of the main question.

Mr. McGaragle withdrew the motion for the roll call.

The President—The main question will be upon the substitute, and then the question will be upon the second reading of the order itself.

The main question was ordered—50 for, 3 against.

The question upon the substitute was put and declared carried—34 for, 24 against—and on motion of Mr. Howes the yeas and nays were ordered to verify the result.

Mr. Pope of Ward 24—I wish to have the members understand precisely what they are voting for. If they vote for this substitute, I take it they are voting against the order reported by the committee.

The substitute was adopted—yeas 40, nays 25.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blodgett, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mowry, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, Reed, M. W. Richardson, Roach Ruffin, Sampson, Spenceley, Thompson, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wolcott—40.

Nays—Messrs. Beeching, Blanchard, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cross, Day, Dee, J. J. Flynn, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Morrill, Pearl, Ferham, Pope, Roberts, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—25.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Cox, Doherty, Felt, Mullane, J. B. Richardson, Souther—6.

Mr. Spenceley—Where is the anguish now?

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 moved the indefinite postponement of the order as amended [the substitute].

Mr. Ham of Ward 24—Is that in order?

Mr. Spenceley—Does not that motion carry the order with it?

The President—The Chair will state the question now before the Council. It is, upon giving the substitute order a second reading.

Mr. Pratt—I may misapprehend the question, but I understood the motion to indefinitely postpone was still pending.

Mr. Howes—I should like merely to say, now that the substitute is before the Council, that the lamp posts that form so great an objection to the gentleman from Ward 19, are merely temporary, and are to be removed at any time it may be necessary.

Mr. Spenceley—You told me so today.

Mr. Howes—The gentleman forgets very readily.

Mr. Spenceley—No he don't.

Mr. Howes—The reason why the parade ground has been laid out as it has is on account of numerous accidents there at various times. One of the workmen on the Common was severely injured, and has not been able to work since. There is a walk right across the hill to Charles street which is very much frequented, and it was dangerous to passers-by while the boys were playing ball.

Mr. Pratt—I hope the order will take its second reading and pass. There may have been an impression in this chamber that some of our votes were cast without due consideration; but I wish to say that my vote was cast in earnest. I cast my vote in that way for two reasons. In the first place, I was not prepared to vote for the order for which this is a substitute, unless I could have the evidence before me, because I know there is quite a widespread division of public sentiment in respect to it, and because I believe the principle of the order is wrong, and, like many others here, I did not like to be choked off from information. Another reason is, I believe that the boys should be recognized.

Mr. Crocker—I rise to a point of order. As I understand, the Chair has ruled my motion out of order, and the only ground was that the previous question had been ordered. If so, all debates out of order.

The President—The point is well taken.

Mr. Stone moved to adjourn. Lost.

The order was declared passed to a second reading.

Mr. Crocker doubted the vote, and called for the yeas and nays.

The President put the question of ordering the yeas and nays on the passage of the order, and they were ordered.

Mr. Wilbur—I understood Mr. Crocker to doubt the vote and call for the yeas and nays.

The President—The Chair did not so understand it.

Mr. Crocker—That is what I called for.

The President—Gentlemen in favor of the passage of the order will answer yes, those opposed, no.

The order was passed—yeas 41, nays 25.

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blodgett, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Danforth, Duggan, Fagan, Feruaid, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mowry, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pope, Pratt, Reed, M. W. Richardson, Roach, Ruffin, Sampson, Spenceley, Thompson, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster—42.

Nays—Messrs. Beeching, Blanchard, Brintuall, Brown, Burke, Cox, Crocker, Cross, Day, Dee, J. J. Flynn, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Morrill, Roberts, Shepard, Sibley, Smardou, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—25.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Doherty, Felt, Mullane, J. B. Richardson, Souther—5.

Mr. Spenceley moved a reconsideration, hoping it would not prevail.

Mr. Day moved to adjourn. Lost.

The reconsideration was lost. Sent up.

PUBLIC GROUNDS.

Mr. Howes offered an order—That the Committee on Common and Public Grounds be authorized to expend the additional sum of $5500 in labor for the Common and other public grounds; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Common, etc. Ordered to a second reading.

Adjourned, on motion of Mr. Ruffin.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,
MARCH 5, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., Alderman Clark, Chairman, presiding.

JURORS DRAWN.

Eight grand jurors were drawn for the March term of the United States District Court.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Bridget M. Hernan, for compensation for personal injuries received by reason of an alleged defect in Way street; Joseph A. McCarthy, for compensation for damages to his harness and pung by reason of alleged defect in Washington street.

To the Committee on Sewers. West Boston Savings Bank, for the extension of the Sargent-street sewer.

To the Committee on Police. B. F. Bradbury, for leave to project a druggist's mortar at the corner of Winter and Washington streets.

To the Committee on Lamps. A. V. Hayward et al., for lamps on Wheatland avenue, Dorchester; W. H. Forbes et al., that lamps be placed and lighted on Sheridan avenue, Curtis street and Forbes avenue, Ward 23; G. L. White, for leave to apply to some of the street lamps his system of lighting the same by the aid of electricity; William English, for lamps at rear of 152 Havre street.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: Thomas Brannon, new wooden, one cow and five horses, corner South and Washington streets; V. M. Dunn, old wooden, four horses, 542 Main street; W. E. Woodward, old wooden, one horse, 992 Harrison avenue.

Hubbard Pierce et al., for leave to erect a stable of wood, to be covered with iron, on lot No. 193 Portland street.

To the Committee on Licenses. Owen Nawn, for leave to run a line of coaches from Roxbury in Centre, Pynchon, Tremont, Court, Green, Leverett and Causeway streets, to the northern depots, and return over the same route.

To the Joint Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Petitions for leave to erect wooden buildings by the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Dorchester avenue, corner Park street, Ward 24; Butchers' Slaughtering & Melting Association, on Market street, Ward 25.

To the Committee on Paving. C. G. Attwood et al., that Rutledge street in Ward 23 be put in order for travel; James D. Thomson et al., that Sargent street be put in order; William H. Richardson, for compensation for grade damages on Dorchester avenue; Michael F. Lynch et al., that Boston street, Dorchester, be paved and put in order; heirs of Mary Murtagh for damages by reason of change of grade of Athens street, South Boston.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report and order to transfer from the Reserved Fund $4500 to the appropriation for Printing. Passed in concurrence—yeas 12, nays 10.

Report and order to pay Louise W. Foss $1250, for personal injuries received in Warren avenue. Passed in concurrence.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Isabella Jordan to be paid for personal injuries caused by a sled on Boston Common. Accepted in concurrence.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Clinton White to be paid for injuries to his horse on Charles River Bridge. Accepted in concurrence.

Report from Committee on Public Instruction referring to Committee on Finance the subject of additional appropriations for salaries of officers, etc. Concurred.

Report that no further action is necessary on petition of School Committee for purchase of a lot of land for a primary school house in the Gaston District. Accepted in concurrence.

A request of the School Committee that the height of certain windows in the new grammar school in the Dorchester Everétt District be lowered came up referred to Committee on Public Buildings. Concurred.

The following requests from the school committee were referred to the Committee on Public Instruction in concurrence, viz.: For a site and building for the Allston School; for the establishment of two summer vacation schools; for enlargement of the yard of the Gaston Schoolhouse; for the paving of the yard of the Bennett Schoolhouse; for primary school accommodations at Egleston square.

A request of Directors for Public Institutions that the pauper children, instead of truants, be transferred to the Austin Farm, came up referred to Committee on Public Institutions. Concurred.

ELECTIONS.

Certificates of elections were received from the other branch, and elections occurred as follows:

Inspectors of Ballast. Committee—Aldermen Fitzgerald, Wilder.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Edward Hatch (chief).....	12
John J. Cadigan.....	12
William Dolan.....	12
John Kenney.....	10
M. Barr.....	1
Geo. A. Shaw.....	1

And the first four named gentlemen were declared elected in concurrence.

Overseers of the Poor. Committee—Aldermen Robinson, Breck.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Thomas C. Amory.....	12
George Curtis.....	10
William Gorman.....	9
Liverus Hull.....	9
Samuel B. Cruft.....	5
James A. McDonald.....	5

Messrs. Amory, Curtis, Hull and Gorman were declared elected in concurrence.

SINKING FUNDS.

The ordinance to amend the ordinance in relation to finance, so that unexpended balances shall be carried over for use in the next financial year, came up referred to Committee on Finance.

Alderman Fitzgerald—When this matter was before the Board the members will remember the debate upon it, and the Council has now sent it to the Committee on Finance. As I understood from the debates in the Council and from the speeches of some of the gentlemen who compose the Finance Committee, that this question will not be delayed beyond a week at the furthest, and that it will be reported to the Council, in all probability, next week. I rise now, not for the purpose of opposing non-concurrence, but for the purpose of asking that it be referred to the Committee on Finance. I do not want it understood that I agree to its being referred because I believe in the arguments of some of the gentlemen who asked that it be referred—that there were two revenue funds, and out of those funds certain moneys could be used to cancel certain bonds. Under our ordinance there are not two funds; there are no revenue funds. All the funds have been consolidated. Now, I move that the Board concur in the reference, with the understanding that it is promised that it shall be reported as soon as possible. Believing, according to the argument of the gentleman who spoke on the other side, that it will save half a million dollars, while my belief is that it will save eight hundred thousand; and believing that our side has a good case, I shall offer no objection to the reference; and I wish the Committee on Ordinances would consider the expediency of amending or repealing section 23 or 25 of the ordinance in relation to finance. I think the whole ordinance wrong, and needs to be repealed, as it is not in conformity with the statutes.

The ordinance was referred to the Committee on Finance in concurrence.

MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION AND THE COMMON.

The order to allow the use of the parade ground on Boston Common to the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association came up amended so as to read as follows: "Ordered, That the Committee on Common and Squares be and they are hereby requested to remove all lamp posts and other obstructions on that part of the Common known as the parade ground, and that it be set apart for a play ground for the youth of our city, and for parade at all times when occasion shall require."

The question was on concurrence in the amendment.

Alderman Robinson—I move that the order be laid upon the table for a short time, to be called up again as the business progresses.

Alderman Wilder—I hope the order will not be laid upon the table. I desire myself to offer an amendment to that order, and I believe that the Board are quite ready to act upon it. If the gentleman will withdraw the motion—

Alderman Robinson—I withdraw the motion.

Alderman Wilder—I move to amend that order, that the request of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association to erect a building upon the Common be granted.

The Chairman—The Chair is of the opinion that the amendment is not in order.

Alderman Wilder—Then I move that the Board adhere to its former action in granting the request of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move that the Board of Aldermen concur, and I believe the motion to concur will take precedence, as it will bring both branches together. I do so, because I think the Common Council will not, under any consideration, vote to grant this request of the Association. I shall vote for the amendment, because I think the request ought not to be granted. This is a memorable day, I believe, in the history of Boston. Some hundred and seven years ago there was what was called the Boston Massacre, and the cause of it in a great measure sprung from the prejudice which the boys of Boston had against the British soldiery on account of their interfering with their sports on the Common. It was one of the principal things which drew down upon the soldiers the ire of the Boston boys, so that wherever they went they were hooted and nick-named, and it grew out of the interference of the soldiers with the boys playing upon the Common and building large snow houses and doing other things of that kind, so that they went to General Gage, the governor, and protested. That was one of the principal things that caused the Boston massacre, and by a strange coincidence the same thing comes up here today, asking that the boys may play upon the ground from which they were driven by the British soldiery. I feel that the request will not be granted by the Council, and I oppose sending it back again, the vote was so strong against it. As there is no hope of granting the request by the Council, even with the eloquence which the members of this Board will use toward them, I shall vote for this substitute as a means of giving the boys an opportunity to play upon the Common.

Alderman Wilder—I am entirely in favor of concurring with the Council, so far as giving the boys the privilege of playing upon the parade ground is concerned. I would not be instrumental in bringing about another massacre, if I know myself; but I quite disagree with my friend as to what the other branch will do. I am perfectly satisfied myself, that they in their judgment, good judgment, upon further consideration of the subject, will find that it is eminently proper, and will see the wisdom of reversing their action. While I shall vote against concurrence, I shall be very glad to, upon some other occasion, or upon a separate question, to leave it free as a playground for the boys after this temporary use by this association, and I shall vote heartily for an order giving them the use of it.

Alderman Robinson—I had the honor, gentlemen, to be one of the commissioners to the Paris Exposition of 1867, and also a commissioner on the part of the woollen manufacturers of the United States, and had for my associates Mr. E. B. Bigelow, the great carpet manufacturer, and the late Ebenezer Dale. I visited it many times, and examined it pretty thoroughly, especially anything that came in my line—its manufactures and mechanic arts, both inside and outside of the main buildings, located in the Champ de Mars, a park, if I may so call it, that bears something of the same relation to Paris as the Common does to Boston. I also visited the Centennial at Philadelphia, and though I had but little time to spend there, comparatively, it was with a glow of pride that I came to the conclusion that the Exposition of Philadelphia far exceeded that of Paris; that in the first centennial anniversary of our national existence, in all useful arts ours was far ahead of any exposition of modern times held in the Old World, and was of such a high character and so varied in its nature that it would be very difficult for any other nation to excel or even equal it; and reflecting upon the large numbers of our people who visited the Centennial from the whole length and breadth of our land, and thinking of the beneficial education they were acquiring from a visit to the Exposition, where so many of the products of the world were arranged side by side with the products of the United States; when I saw the orderly carriage of the visitors—a fair criterion of the whole nation, East and West, North and South—I could not resist the confident feeling and satisfaction that the Exhibition would be one of the most beneficial enterprises that had ever been undertaken since our nation's history began; and that the hundreds of thousands of daily visitors were receiving ideas and gathering information and knowledge; that this information and knowledge would go with them to their distant homes, and would exert a beneficial influence among their neighbors and families for many long years to come; and that the effects of the Exposition would be felt long after the visitors had passed away.

There are in the history of nations, gentlemen, periods as distinctive in their character as in a man's own history. From these periods new changes of thought arise, new ideas take the place of old ones, and old notions are often discarded. Society and the public seem to move in entirely different channels, and are not content with what previously satisfied them. This, so far as exhibitions are concerned, is, or appears to be, one of those periods. The Exposition at Philadelphia has established what is necessary in the character or future expositions to ensure success. Anything of the limited extent of those fairs held in Faneuil Hall in years past would be beneath the dignity of Boston. The ideas of the people have been enlarged and elevated by the Centennial, the public generally will not be satisfied in this city, the metropolis of New England, and the natural market of her manufactures, with anything less than an exposition of a similar nature; I do not mean in its extent, but in its character. The building proposed by the Mechanic Association would be large enough to give a greater show of the textile fabrics than at Philadelphia, will be large enough to expose to the public what was most valuable at Philadelphia in mechanics, machinery, agricultural implements and agricultural products, and with the addition of an art gallery for paintings and statuary, everything almost particularly valuable to the community which was exhibited at Philadelphia, may be shown here. The spot where they ask permission to erect the building is more beautiful in its surroundings than that where the Exposition was held in the city of brotherly love, is much easier of access, with the beautiful public garden in front, with the noble elms and shady walks of the Common all around, with the residences of the wealthy and intelligent merchants and literary citizens on all sides. I know of no spot on the face of the earth more attractive, or that would more tend to draw visitors from all quarters. Those who usually take their annual vacations of a couple of weeks would many of them so arrange the time, I believe, as to visit this city—and such would be the influence of the great whole they would remain for a longer time—and to say nothing about dispensing money in Boston, they would go away with a better feeling towards the city, and it might do much to eradicate the sentiments of jealousy that are entertained by many country people against the people of Boston. The granting of this petition may temporarily be a slight annoyance to those residents whose dwellings surround the Common, or those whose houses are near the proposed location of the exposition building; but I believe those gentlemen love and are proud of Boston, and that they would be willing to submit for a short time to the inconvenience for the sake of the good of the whole city—a city in which their lot is cast; and I hope, moreover, if this enterprise goes on that they will aid and encourage it and try to make it a success worthy of Boston and New England. We may reasonably suppose that, if the enterprise is successful 10,000 people daily will visit Boston to see the exposition, and if this should be so it can be seen at a glance, that hotels, railroads, merchants and all classes must be more or less benefited by it. I think, moreover, that it might tend to infuse some life in business matters, and aid in lifting the cloud of depression which for the last few years has rested like a funeral pall on the whole business element of the city; and when we know the acres upon acres of vacant and unoccupied store-room, that cannot be let for even enough to pay the taxes, every matter that will tend to enliven times among us is worthy of consideration and appreciation.

The erection of the building will give employment to a large number of mechanics the next three months. The placing of articles in the exhibition will give employment to still more; the taking down the building and repacking the contents will also require workmen; and when I think of the many poor men today who beg for employment, and who see almost starvation before them, anything that can be done, be it ever so little, now or in the near future, to furnish even temporary employment is worthy of our consideration.

Again, many of our people have not visited Philadelphia in consequence of the necessary expense of travelling; they could not afford it; the question of bread to their families was greater than that of visiting Philadelphia. It is proposed here to give them at their own doors an exposition at a price that all can afford, where mechanics and laborers can take their wives and families and enjoy a few hours more or less of recreation, of pleasure and instruction, where they will be able to see almost all that to them would have been valuable and instructive in the great Centennial at Philadelphia. We all know that the poor mechanic and laborer has not had any abundance of opportunities for recreation during the long period of depression that has rested upon us in this city, and at the moderate price to be charged for entrance, the convenience of access, if the desired spot is granted by the City Government, they will, to say the least, derive quite as much benefit from that portion of the Common as if the building were not erected or the exposition held.

The joint committee to which this matter was referred gave both petitioners and remonstrants a very patient and most attentive hearing, fully weighed the arguments and reasons pro and con, and came unanimously to the opinion that it was for the best interests of the whole city of Boston to accord the permission. The arguments and reasons against granting the permission were to all appearance most sincerely given, but they were mainly that, though approving of the exposition, it would be a bad precedent to establish. This, however, did not imply the necessity of any future grant of the location to this association or any other party or parties, and probably in the natural growth of the city it may not be required.

Since the hearing before the committee there has appeared a paragraph or article in the papers favoring, approving and commending the holding of the exposition by the Mechanic Association, but stating that it would be impolitic to hold it on the Common, and hoping that a more suitable spot could be obtained—this is the substance of the paragraph. The signers to the communication embrace some of the very best merchants and business men of Boston. Several of them are my personal friends, and the others I know by reputation in nearly every instance; their opinion and their apparent wishes, as well as that of the remonstrants generally, has had its full weight with me, and if there had been any other location that would afford a title of the advantage of the spot asked for, or would justify the expense that the association would be obliged to incur in order to insure success, I should certainly be opposed to placing it on the Common even for the few weeks or months that would be required; but it was made evident to the committee that there was no other spot; that much time had been spent in trying to find one without success; no place was pointed out by the remonstrants that would give the necessary space to exhibit half the articles that the association are assured will be offered, and the question resolved itself to this: that the association would have to incur a large expense to provide a suitable building on the same plan as the main building at Philadelphia, besides the general expenses of the exposition; that it was necessary to locate it where it was easy of access, where parties could visit it frequently, instead of once or twice, where the surroundings would be of sufficient attraction to aid the enterprise, or afford an indirect guarantee of return for the outlay, and where the association could feel that there was a fair justified assurance that the exposition would not be a failure or one that would involve a heavy loss to an association which is charitable in its nature, and the object of which is to elevate the character of the mechanic arts and manufactures of New England. If the location were not given them; they could not feel justified in holding a fair commensurate with the wants of the people, the wishes of the association, or the credit of the city of Boston, and they would be obliged to abandon the project this year or next—and thus we should lose the opportunity of seeing at our own doors many articles now ready, and which are intended for the Paris Exposition of next year.

These reasons, gentlemen, among others, are why the committee reported favorably towards granting the wish of the petitioners, and though the sentiment expressed by the remonstrants was worthy of their able and high character, yet the credit of the city of Boston, and the necessity at this time of having an exposition (if one is held at all) worthy of the metropolis of New England, weighed heavier in the balance.

I hope, therefore, gentlemen, that the petition of the association will be granted by the Board—that the other branch of the City Government will also vote for it—that the building will go on—that the press of Boston, upon which so much depends for the success of any enterprise, will give the exposition its aid and support—that our solid men and citizens generally, after the example of Philadelphians, will aid and countenance it in every legitimate way—that it will be a success—that it will be something of which the whole city will approve and hereafter be proud of.

As far as I am myself concerned, I feel that there can scarcely be a more sacred use that a small portion of the Common can be put to for a few weeks than that of aiding an enterprise that has for its object the elevation of public taste, the promotion of arts, sciences and manufactures, and the bringing of people together in union; and I cannot wish otherwise than success to the association and its worthy enterprise.

Boston, I have said, is or ought to be the market for the manufacturing and mechanical products of the larger part of the New England States. I have not had time to enter into an exact matter of statistics. Nor is this the proper place for it; the time of this Board is too much occupied to give attention to outside matters, though those matters may be germane to the point; but, gentlemen, I am of the opinion, and I think I speak within bounds from a mental calculation, that there are some seventy-five to one hundred millions of dollars' worth of woollen and worsted goods manufactured in the New England States when trade is in its normal condition and business is in its ordinary state. The manufacture of the different styles, grades and textures of the cotton interest is still larger, and the industry of leather and boots and shoes in all its ramifications is larger than the cotton; so I think it is safe to say that the aggregate of these three great industries amount in ordinary times to at least 250 millions of dollars in the New England States. Boston should be the great distributing centre of this vast amount, and would be if her citizens would become determined that it should be. I speak of these three great interests merely as a part of a great whole. I say nothing of the very many other branches of industry. Here in this noble old city that we all love should the trade of the country come to make the purchases. From here should be sent the cotton and other goods to the foreign markets in every part of the habitable globe. It should be the bounden duty of our citizens to try all proper means to attract or draw the merchants of our own and foreign lands here, as the proper market wherein to buy goods of these three and many other fabrics. There was a time when, as many of you, gentlemen, can recollect, Boston was regarded as the headquarters of all these three manufactures. At that time, gentlemen, how many extensive jobbing houses there were here, how many great commission houses,—think of the house of J. M. Beebe & Co. among others,—think what a great and grand distributing city Boston was, though her population then was far below her population today. Why, it seems to me that that house alone did almost as much business in the jobbing line as is being done in the city of Boston today. No one can pass through Boston today without being impressed with the feeling of despondency that seems to rest on all classes or interests of trade, and that the glory of Boston is fast departing, that, like Portsmouth, Newburyport and Salem, she is but the shadow of departed days; that like them, goods merely pass through in order to find a market elsewhere. Our own merchants even go to New York to buy their cotton and woollen goods, when they formerly used to find everything at their own door. The shoe and leather business, thank Heaven, still has its headquarters here, and the indomitable energy of the wool dealers has restored the trade to Boston, when that, too, seemed to be passing from our midst; but it requires the united efforts and determination of stockholders, treasurers and selling agents of mills, even those who signed a remonstrance stating that it would be impolitic to hold an exposition on the Common—to bring the domestic goods trade to this city, and place it in its once high position—a consummation, gentlemen, devoutly to be wished and prayed for, an end and object we all hope and pray for; I do, at all events.

But it may be said, What has this to do with the Mechanic Association holding an exposition on the Common? Simply this, gentlemen, that an enterprise such as this proposed fair would give an occasion to show to all who visit it what articles are manufactured among us; it would be like an exhibition of pattern cards on a grand scale. It would show to visitors that very many of the articles they have been accustomed to regard as foreign are made in our midst, and that they are as good, if not better, than the foreign articles of the same general character. I do not intend to convey the idea that the exposition would of itself draw the trade back to Boston; yet it would tend to draw people here in great numbers, it might prove to be an opening wedge for the future; it might prove an incentive for merchants and others to make another and a stronger effort to bring trade back to Boston, and to fill up the vacant stores and warehouses; it might and would enliven matters, and inspire our people—our mechanics and workmen—as far as everything connected with the exposition is concerned; and small, comparatively speaking, as it appears, it might prove of the greatest importance; at least it is worth the trial.

Think you, gentlemen, that if it were proposed by an organization so highly respectable as the Mechanic Association to hold an exposition of the magnitude that association propose, if permission is granted, to hold here, in Chicago, Cincinnati or St. Louis, the people of those cities would object to it on account of some imaginary, sentimental idea of its forming a precedent in some future time, for granting permission to hold a circus or some other show on a Common—a spot which by its name is supposed to be a Common; a spot which belongs to all for a Common, to the poor man as well as to the rich, to the mechanic as well as to the merchant, to the laborer as well as to the lawyer, doctor or minister, to those who live at the North End or South End as well as those whose residences surround it, and pay taxes to keep it beautiful and attractive as it is? Would the people of those cities, think you, object and fight an industrial enterprise like this, by opposing the erection of a one-story building on an open place of fifty acres, because it would stop the circulation of the atmosphere, and so tend to breed distemper of some sort? Would the people of those cities oppose a movement of this kind because a military company would have for once either to omit a military parade, or else find some other place for manœuvring? Would the people of those cities, or either of them, raise any of the sentimental objections that have, with a tenacity worthy of a better cause, been raised by some literary and professional gentlemen of Boston? Would not all classes rather, after the example of the people of Philadelphia, and which so much contributed to the success of the Centennial, unite heart and hand, body and soul, in pushing the enterprise forward? Would they not, instead of bending every thought and energy in placing obstructions in the way, offer even the useful aid of money to help it along? Would not all classes and conditions, men and women, ladies and gentlemen, give their countenance and aid to it? It has been demonstrated that the place asked for is the only spot where the advantages would justify the expense of the undertaking. No other spot would be so satisfactory or attractive to visitors. No other spot would draw so many people here. No other spot would be so pleasant and agreeable to the main body of our own citizens and people. No other spot would furnish the same or so many pleasing recollections after the fair had passed; and no other spot would afford our poor people so good an opportunity to witness the exposition, as that asked for. I therefore hope and trust, gentlemen, that we shall adhere to our former vote, and return it to the Council; if they reject it again it is their fault. We shall have done our duty.

Alderman Slade—When this matter was first brought to my attention by the Mechanic Association, my first impression was the same as it is now; and that is, that there was no objection to granting the request, unless there were legal ones. Everybody knows the character of the association well enough to know that anything that they would ask that we can reasonably grant should be granted. The first thing the committee did was to get the opinion of the City Solicitor whether we could legally allow that organization to go there; and we all know that the City Solicitor said there was no legal objection. Now I have taken a good deal of pains to try and read up on the history of Boston Common, and satisfy myself whether we have a right to grant this request. I know very well the prejudice that people have against the use of the Common permanently; and I have just as strong a prejudice against it as anybody else. I know it has been said that if the city should apportion off any part of the Common for permanent use, that it would lose the title to it, and that it would go to somebody's heirs. Now, the fact is, nobody ever owned Boston Common, and there are no heirs for the title to go to. The Common came to Boston as the other lands did two or three hundred years ago. As I understand it, the first settlers were located near the water, on the north and east side; the land they first occupied was, of course, purchased from the original owners, and as they worked back from the borders, they thought, in time, about reserving some of that tract for common purposes; and such tracts were called common land. The first that I can read in relation to retaining the Common comes down as far as School street, and it took in nearly down to Washington street, and to the water on the west. I find that almost the first order passed by the selectmen was to prohibit the burying of swill on the Common; and then further along, there was an order prohibiting by fine the throwing of rocks or stones upon the Common grounds; then again you find an order prohibiting the throwing of dead cats and dead dogs and other stinking things on the Common. Then, further along, you will find an order passed by the Board of Selectmen, prohibiting the pasturing of more than seventy cows and the pastor's horse at one time on the Common; and the man who did not pasture a cow could keep four sheep there. Everybody knows that seventy cows could not be pastured on the present Boston Common; they would take more than twice that, and, as I understand it, the Common grounds covered more than twice that. Gradually the city progressed; streets were made, and as the inhabitants got nearer to what was then known as the Common, portions of it were purchased by individuals. As I understand it, Haymarket place was once a portion of the Common. But all this time the Common has been used for all sorts of purposes. I read that the fence before the present one stood where the ditches now are, and when the fence was built it was set far enough back to give a wide sidewalk around on the outside. And between the fences you will read that all sorts of trading was carried on in all sorts of small wares on training and all other parade days; it was used in common by all people and at all times. And then where it speaks of preserving the grounds for the military, we can all of us see why it was necessary; because every male person between the ages of eighteen and forty-five was liable to do military duty, and that was the only place they had to parade. The people used to come from the country around into Boston and parade on the Common. There were no trees, and the line used to be formed from the Park-street Church west, running the whole length. I cannot repeat all that I have read, but this is a matter of history that many people who hear me can tell better than I can. The line of the Common has been drawn in gradually. Now, when the City Government tried, a few years ago, to take a little portion of that Common—and I am sorry they did not take more, because I think they did not take enough—they did nothing more than what has been done since it has been a Common. At the same time, I do not suppose there is a man in Boston that would favor the permanent occupation of one foot of Boston Common; but when you talk about not taking off twenty feet of the Common, you might as well say that a man must wear the same boots he did when he was a boy, as to say that people could get along with the same Common that they did fifty or a hundred years ago. I have gone over this ground particularly to see if there were any reasons in the world why this request should not be granted for this purpose; and I do not care how any man may oppose it, let him go back and read the history of Boston Common, since it was used and not built upon, he will find that it was always used for such purposes. Now when they bring physicians before us, and make objections on sanitary grounds, it amounts to just this—taking three acres in the middle of about 100 acres. The Common, including the Public Garden, contains about 100 acres, and the building will be about in the centre of that space, where it will not destroy a leaf; and I cannot see what this great objection is made out of. I say it will be a real benefit to the city and to everybody in it if this exhibition can be held there. If it is, the association has got to spend a great deal of money, almost entirely for labor. It seems to me it will be the starting-point for some kind of business and make it look as though there was a little life somewhere, for God knows we have been dead long enough, and if any set of men show a disposition to do something to set the wheels in motion, don't let us stop them unless we are obliged to. Now, Mr. Chairman, in regard to the order sent here in lieu of the one sent to the other branch. I will go as far as any one to keep that portion of the Common for the boys, as well as men, for I don't know when they cease to be boys. You talk about the boys playing ball there; the order would keep the men off of it. I know that some years ago the men down in our market were talking about their exploits at base-ball playing, and we got up a nine—or a ten, I don't know which—and went to the Common and got up a game of ball; we played just as we did when not more than ten or eleven years old. This order might have kept us off the Common. Now, Mr. Chairman, everybody knows what this association will do. Everybody knows that its members are as much interested in the Common as we are, and have the same ownership in it, and I don't believe there is a man there who would do or see anything done to injure that Common. You certainly cannot injure the land by putting a building upon it, and it will be there but a short time. I should not be in favor of putting a path or lamp posts there, and if I had been a member of the Board when that was done I should have objected to it. I think that it ought to be kept open for common purposes for boys and men to go and sit on. There are no seats there now. But as I said before, the putting of this building there is not going to do anybody any injury, but it is going to be a benefit to a large class of people. If gentlemen opposed to this had taken the pains to look over the history of Boston Common as I have, I believe they would not vote as they did. I know it is said that it is sentimental, and I think the sentiment for preserving the Common is a good one; but when it goes so far as to prevent anything being done on the Common I say it is a sickly sentiment. A gentleman who came before the committee said that when he comes in from Cambridge, where they have but seven acres, he goes on the Common to get fresh air, and he likes it because it is larger than the square they have out there. I consider that a sickly sentiment. I believe that if we grant the association the privilege of going on the Common, the majority of those who voted against it will be sorry they did so before the end of the year. I will not say anything more about it, but you will infer from my remarks that I am in favor of granting this request; and I am also just as much in favor of making it so that it shall be occupied as this order proposes, when the building is taken down.

Alderman Thompson—I have listened with a great deal of interest to my friend on my right [Alderman Slade] in regard to the use of the Common. He tells us that it was formerly used for the pasturage of cows and horses; and certainly he must think, from the action of the Council, that this matter is impassable. I was merely going to say that when the question is taken I call for the yeas and nays.

The Board refused to concur in the amendment—yeas 3, nays 9—Aldermen Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Thompson voting yea. Sent down.

LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

Alderman Thompson submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Streets for leave to withdraw ou petition of T. F. Burns for leave to occupy a portion of the lot of land situated on the corner of Eliot and Pleasant streets, for the sale of fruit. Accepted.

Sent down.

CARE OF PUBLIC GROUNDS.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That the Committee on Legislative Matters be requested to oppose any legislation which will tend to restrict the City Council in the care and management of the public grounds of this city. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

NOMINATIONS TO BE MADE.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That the Committee on Bridges be requested to nominate to this Board suitable superintendents for the bridges where the appointments rest exclusively with this Board. Read twice and passed.

Alderman Burnham offered an order—That a committee of two members of this Board be appointed to nominate suitable persons for Fence Viewers, Field Drivers, Inspectors of Lime, and Culler of Hoops and Staves. Read twice and passed.

HORSE-RAILROAD TRACKS IN COLUMBUS AVENUE.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following: The undersigned, a majority of the Committee on Paving, to whom was recommitted the petition of the Highland Street Railway Company for a location of tracks in Columbus avenue, Northampton and Hammond streets, being of the opinion that the interests of the public will be better served by keeping said streets free from the obstruction of railroad tracks, respectfully recommend that the petitioners have leave to withdraw.

R. W. ROBINSON.

LUCIUS SLADE.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted the following:

The undersigned members of the Committee on Paving beg leave to dissent from the report of the majority of the committee giving leave to withdraw on the petitions of the Highland Street Railway Company for a location of its tracks through Northampton street and Columbus avenue, for the following reasons:

First—He believes that a large number of the residents and property owners on Columbus avenue are in favor and desire the location of the Highland Railway Company's tracks through the avenue, and it is opposed principally by these residents who are able to own their private carriages, and are not dependent upon public conveyance as a means of transportation to and from their places of business.

Second—A large number of the residents and property owners on the streets leading from Columbus avenue on the east and west sides are in favor of the Highland Railway cars being run through the avenue, and their rights, comfort and accommodation demand the favorable consideration of this Board.

Thirdly—The residents of Wards 19, 20 and 21, comprising the Highland District, have petitioned by thousands for the granting of the location asked for in the petition of the Highland Railway. We now have no means of transportation to Columbus, and that part of the city west of Shawmut avenue and Tremont street, or to the churches in that vicinity, and the Art Museum and the depot of the Providence Railroad. The interests of the inhabitants of such an enterprising and growing section of the city should not be disregarded; and when they ask this Board to grant that which will add greatly to their comfort and convenience, without injury to other public interests, it is the plain duty of this Board to grant it.

Fourthly—Columbus avenue is a wide street, and the laying of tracks there will not interfere with the driving of carriages and teams, or the passing and repassing of the same on the avenue. The city will probably be obliged to repave the avenue during the coming year, and it will save at least twenty thousand dollars if the company lay rails and pave, as the law requires, between the tracks, at the same time, or before the city does its work.

Fully believing that the interests of the city, as well as of the public, will be promoted thereby, I recommend the passage of the following order:

JOHN E. FITZGERALD.

Ordered, That in addition to the rights heretofore granted to the Highland Street Railway Company to lay down tracks in several of the streets of the city of Boston, said company shall have the right to lay down double tracks as follows, viz.: Commencing at a point in the tracks of the Highland Street Railway on Shawmut avenue, opposite Ball street, thence by curved tracks in Shawmut avenue to Hammond street, thence through Hammond street to Tremont street, and thence by curved tracks in said Tremont street to the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad as now laid down on said street, and to connect said curv'd tracks with the tracks of said Metropolitan Railroad.

Again, commencing at a point in the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad on Tremont street near Northampton street, thence by curv'd tracks in said Tremont street to Northampton, thence in Northampton street to Columbus avenue, and in Columbus avenue to Berkeley street, and across Berkeley street to the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad as now laid down on Columbus avenue easterly of Berkeley street, there to connect the tracks of said Highland Street Railway with the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad.

Again, commencing at a point in the tracks of the Highland Street Railway on Shawmut avenue near Northampton street, thence through Northampton street to Tremont street, and across Tremont street to connect with the tracks located by this order in Northampton street between Tremont street and Columbus avenue. The several tracks located by this order are shown on plans drawn by W. S. Barbour and A. Hodges, civil engineers, dated Dec. 20, 1876, and deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets.

Said Highland Street Railway Company shall also have the right, until otherwise ordered by the Board of Aldermen, to enter upon and use with its horses and cars the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Tremont street between Hammond street and Northampton street, and also the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Columbus avenue from Berkeley street to Park square, and on Park square and Boylston street to Tremont street.

The right to lay down the tracks located by this order is upon the condition that the whole work of laying down the same, the form of rail to be used, and the kind and quality of material used in paving said tracks shall be under the direction and to the satisfaction of the Committee on Paving and the Superintendent of Streets, and shall be approved by them. Also, upon the condition that the said Highland Street Railway Company shall accept this order of location, and shall agree in writing to comply with the conditions therein contained, and shall file said acceptance and agreement with the City Clerk within thirty days of the date of its passage; otherwise it shall be null and void.

Alderman Slade presented a remonstrance of L. F. Blanchard and fifty other residents on Columbus avenue against the location of any horse railroad tracks on said avenue.

Alderman Thompson offered the following as a substitute for the order now before the Board:

Ordered, That in addition to the rights heretofore granted to the Metropolitan Railroad Company to lay down tracks in several of the streets of the city of Boston, said company shall have the further right to lay down two tracks from their present track in Columbus avenue through Columbus avenue to Northampton street, and two tracks in Northampton street from Columbus avenue to connect with tracks now located in Tremont street; said tracks being shown on plans drawn by Barbour & Hodges, civil engineers, dated March 3, 1877, and deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets.

The right to lay down the track located by this order is upon the condition that the whole work of laying down said track, the form of rail to be used, and the kind and quality of material used in paving said track, shall be under the direction and to the satisfaction of the Committee on Paving and Superintendent of Streets, and shall be approved by them. Also upon condition that the said Metropolitan Railroad Company shall accept this order of location, and agree in writing to comply with the conditions therein contained, and shall file said agreement and acceptance with the City Clerk within thirty days from the date of its passage; otherwise it shall be null and void.

The Chairman—The question before the Board is the acceptance of the majority report of the Committee on Paving.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the whole subject was specially assigned for Monday next at half-past four o'clock P. M.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following: The Committee on Paving, to whom was recommended the petition of the Metropolitan Railroad Company for a location in Columbus avenue and Northampton street, respectfully recommend that the petitioners have leave to withdraw.

For the Committee.

R. W. ROBINSON, Chairman.

Laid on the table, on motion of Alderman Thompson.

SOUTH BOSTON AND MIDDLESEX RAILROADS.

Alderman Robinson submitted reports from the Committee on Paving with orders of notice for hearings on Monday, March 19, at four o'clock P. M., on the petitions of the South Boston and Middlesex railroads submitted by agreement at the last meeting. The orders were passed.

AUDITOR'S EXHIBIT.

The monthly exhibit of the Auditor of Accounts (City Doc.) was received. Total appropriations, $17,406,359.63; expended, $12,075,853.78; unexpended, $5,330,505.85. Sent down.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—Forty-one newsboys.

Victualer Licensed—Frank Ledger, 22 Merrimac street.

Annsement License Granted—Jacob Reid, to continue exhibition of Strasbourg clock at Horticultural Hall four weeks.

Wagon Licenses Granted—L. D. Snell, 439 Tremont street; John Sanders, 95 Richmond street; W. A. Wilson & Co., 164 Commercial street.

Severally accepted.

PAVING ORDERS.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Ordered, That there be paid to G. T. W. Braman, trustee, the sum of $555.62, in full for use of land from Jan. 1, 1876, to Jan. 1, 1877, on Commonwealth avenue and Parker street by the Paving Department for the storage of materials, etc.; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Paving.

Read twice and passed.

Ordered, That the assessment of $7.56, erroneously laid upon F. W. Pitcher for furnishing and setting edgestones on Parker street, be and the same is hereby abated.

Read twice and passed.

PERMIT FOR STABLE.

Alderman Viles submitted a report from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, that leave be granted on the usual conditions to George J. Stevens to occupy stable for six horses on Medford street, Ward 3. Accepted.

JENNEY & CO.'S PETROLEUM WORKS.

Alderman Burnham submitted a report from the Committee on the Fire Department on the part of the Board on the remonstrance of L. S. Hapgood and others against a permit being issued to Bernard Jenney & Co. to rebuild their works on First street, and against a license being granted for the manufacture, refining or selling of oils on the premises—That the Board of Aldermen is not authorized to regulate the issuing of building permits. That duty is by law vested in the Inspector of Buildings. Under the building act, all persons intending to build are required to obtain a permit from the Inspector of Buildings, and that officer is obliged to issue a permit to any person who intends to build in conformity with the building regulations. The use to which the building is to be put, after its erection, is not to be considered by the Inspector of Buildings in granting the permit. If the building is intended to be used for purposes for which a license is required, the question whether it can be used for such a purpose need not be determined until the building is completed. It will then depend upon the action of the Board of Aldermen, and the owner takes the risk of obtaining a license; but the Board of Aldermen has not the power to refuse a permit to build. No application has been made for a license to erect steam boilers, steam engines, or other machinery, or to manufacture or store oils on the premises in question, and your committee are of the opinion that it would be premature to take any action in regard to issuing such a license at the present time. Accepted.

Adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

MARCH 8, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ P. M., President Pope in the chair.

AUDITOR'S ESTIMATES.

The following (City Document No. 28) was received and referred to the Committee on Finance with such as the Board of Aldermen may join:

OFFICE OF THE AUDITOR OF ACCOUNTS, }
CITY HALL, March 3, 1877. }

Benjamin Pope, Esq., President of the Common Council: Sir—In accordance with the requirements of the ordinance in relation to finance, I have the honor of presenting to the City Council the accompanying estimates of the amount of money which will be needed to defray the expenses of the city of Boston and the county of Suffolk for the financial year 1877-78, commencing May 1, 1877, and terminating April 30, 1878, exclusive of Boston's proportion of the State tax of 1877, which will be levied by the Assessors, under authority of the law of the Commonwealth. The financial year includes the Auditor's draft on the Treasurer, payable May 1st, the date of its commencement.

The sums needed for carrying on the Cochituate Water Works, and paying interest on the outstanding Cochituate Water Loans and cost of the works, as well as the revenue to be derived from the said works, are left out of the appropriation and income tables in the present estimates, as it is estimated that the revenue received will be sufficient to meet the expenses and interest, and leave a small balance to be paid into the Sinking Fund for the redemption of the Cochituate Water Loans as provided by law.

The estimates include the salaries paid the officers of the Government, clerks, etc., of the several departments, as authorized by the salary orders of the City Council of 1876. They are also made up irrespective of the question involved in the passage of the ordinance, now before the City Council, repealing that portion of the ordinance on finance which provides for the paying of the balances of appropriations, annually, to the Board of Commissioners on the Sinking Funds, to be applied by them to meet the percentages required by law for the several Sinking Funds in their charge, or of the amount that said board will require to be directly taxed in lieu of the receipt of said balances of appropriations, if they should be retained in the city treasury at the close of the financial year to form part of the resources to meet the appropriations for the next year.

The largest reduction in the estimates is in the item of interest, which is $209,000 less than last year.

The Committee on Public Instruction have made a reduction in the respective amounts asked for by the School Committee for salaries of instructors and its officers, and for books, janitors, fuel, etc., to the total of $123,280, which is a reduction from last year's appropriation of $88,480.

The estimated expenditures for 1877-78 are..... $9,712,455.00
The estimated income for 1877-78..... 1,669,100.00
$8,043,355.00

To which add three per cent. for the amount which will not be paid into the treasury during the financial year..... 241,300.00

We have a total which, in the judgment of the Auditor of Accounts, should be the tax for 1877, exclusive of the State tax..... $8,284,655.00

The following is a comparison of the appropriations asked for, and estimated income, compared with those of 1876-77:

	1877-78.	1876-77.
Appropriations.....	$9,712,455.00	$11,219,387.00
Income.....	1,669,100.00	2,939,900.00
	$8,043,355.00	$8,279,487.00
Percentage.....	241,300.00	248,385.00
	$8,284,655.00	$8,527,872.00

Showing a reduction of the appropriation estimates and percentage, less revenue for the financial year 1877-78, of $243,217 compared with those for 1876-77.

The following table will exhibit the amount which will be requisite to raise by taxation this year, placing the State tax at the amount estimated by the State authorities to the Legislature at the commencement of its session, $1,400,000, of which Boston's proportion will be $577,836.

	1877-78.	1876-77.
City and county.....	$8,284,655.00	$8,527,872.00
State, estimated 1877....	577,836.00	742,932.00
	$8,862,491.00	$9,270,804.00

The Board of Assessors add to this sum of $8,862,491, by warrant of law, five per cent., for the purpose of covering abatements, etc., a sum equal to say $443,124, making a total tax levy of $9,305,615.

The Assessors' valuation of the city last year was $748,878,100. In relation to this valuation of the city, Mayor Cogh, in his valedictory to the Board of Aldermen, at the close of last year, said that it would be necessary to reduce the valuation of the real estate of the city $50,000,000 "to bring it to a point that will approximate to its fair market value." Mayor Prince, in his inaugural address this year, is also of the opinion that the real estate is overvalued, and that it would be better to have a high rate on a low valuation, than a low rate on a high valuation.

In view of these opinions by the late and present Mayors of the city, regarding the over-valuation of the city for the purposes of taxation, the sum should not be placed at over $700,000,000. With this sum as the valuation of the city, and placing the amount to be received from poll taxes at $160,000, the rate per each $1000 of property would be $13.07, against $12.70 last year, as follows:

Total tax levy 1877.....	$9,305,615.00
Less poll-taxes, say 80,000 at $2.00.....	160,000.00

Leaving the amount to be raised on the valuation of real estate and personal property..... $9,145,615.00

With the valuation of real estate and personal property at $700,000,000, and adopting the rate of $13.07 per each $1000 of property, we have a total of $9,149,000.

The following table shows the rate of taxation for each $1000 of property for the past three years, and the valuation of property on which it was based, these years being the three years since the annexation of Charlestown, Brighton and West Roxbury:

Year.	Valuation.	Rate tax per $1,000
1874.....	$798,755,050.00	$15.60
1875.....	793,961,895.00	13.70
1876.....	748,878,100.00	12.70

On pages 4, 5 and 6 may be found comparative tables of the estimates for 1877-78, with the actual appropriations for 1876-77, and of the estimated income for 1877-78 compared with that of 1876-77.

Appropriations of 1876-77. Estimates for 1877-78.

	1876-77	Estimated, 1877-78.	Increase.	Decrease,
Advertising....	$4,000	$2,500	....	$1,500
Armories.....	27,000	22,000	....	5,000
Assessors' Department....	96,500	97,000	500	....
Auditor's Department....	18,000	18,000	....	....
Board of Health
—Quarantine Department and Evergreen Cemetery....	100,500	93,500	....	7,000
Boston Harbor	6,000	6,000	....	....
Bridges.....	55,000	55,235	235	....
Cedar Grove Cemetery....	5,000	5,000	....	....
Chelsea Bridge	....	115,000	115,000	....
Chestnut Hill Driveway....	5,000	5,000	....	....
City Hospital..	138,000	125,000	....	13,000
City Registrar's Department.	11,660	10,490	....	1,170
Collector's Department....	49,500	49,500	....	....
Common, etc..	92,600	70,700	....	21,900
Commonwealth Av. Fence....	....	6,000	6,000	..
Contingent Funds.....	12,500	13,000	500	....

Appropriations of, 1876-77. Estimates for 1877-78.

(Continued.)

	1876-77	Estimated, 1877-78.	Incre'se.	Decre'se.
County Suff...	$365,000	$365,000	....	....
Dov-st't B'ge	130,000	....	....	130,000
East Bos. fers.	221,200	181,300	....	39,900
Eng's depart..	28,000	28,000	....	....
Fire depart..	....	....	....	....
alarms, b'ls	....	....	....	....
and clocks..	642,864	602,190	....	40,674
Health depart.	413,000	387,500	....	25,500
Incidental expenses .....	87,000	87,000	....	....
Inspection of buildings ...	18,935	18,600	....	335
Interest and Premium .....	1,907,000	1,698,000	....	209,000
Lamps .....	493,738	493,680	....	58
Law depart...	20,740	20,740	....	....
Markets .....	10,000	10,000	....	....
Mt. Hope Cem.	15,000	15,000	....	....
Mt. Wash. ave.	....	....	....	....
Bridge .....	....	8,000	8,000	....
Neponset Bge	....	19,000	19,000	....
New school-houses .....	....	96,500	96,500	....
Old Claims .....	2,000	2,000	....	....
Overseers of the Poor .....	143,000	141,400	....	1,600
Park depart..	5,000	....	....	5,000
Pav., Grad. & Rep. streets	900,000	900,000	....	....
Police .....	850,000	841,700	....	8,300
Printing and stationery ..	27,500	27,500	....	....
Public baths..	25,000	25,000	....	....
Public buildings .....	109,000	85,300	....	23,700
Public Institutions, viz.—	....	....	....	....
House of In.	216,000	180,000	....	36,000
House of Correction	100,000	91,000	....	9,000
Lun. Hos....	60,000	59,500	....	500
Pauper Ex..	69,000	81,000	12,000	....
Steamer J.P. Bradlee...	13,500	18,000	4,500	....
Office Ex....	8,000	8,000	....	....
Fit.up build.	....	....	....	....
Aus. F'm.	10,000	....	....	10,000
Main. build.	....	....	....	....
Aus. F'm.	7,000	....	....	7,000
Charlest'wn Almsh'use	....	9,000	9,000	....
Marcella-st Home ...	....	23,000	23,000	....
Almshouse	....	17,000	17,000	....
Aus. F'm.	....	17,000	17,000	....
Add.to build.	....	16,000	16,000	....
Rains'd Is.	....	16,000	16,000	....
New piggery, Deer Island..	....	8,500	8,500	....
Public lands..	6,000	6,000	....	....
Public Library	111,500	121,000	9,500	....
Registration of Voters and election expenses .....	25,000	22,500	....	2,500
Reserve Fund	300,000	300,000	....	....
Salaries .....	34,300	34,300	....	....
Schools and Schoolhouses, viz.:	....	....	....	....
School In-	....	....	....	.... structors..	1,218,000	1,115,520	....	102,480
School Exp.	....	....	....	....
Sch'l Com.	228,600	245,000	16,400	....
Salaries Offi-	....	....	....	.... cers, Com.	53,400	51,000	....	2,400
Schoolhouses.	....	....	....	....
Public Buildings.	178,000	133,000	....	45,000
School house Sites .....	26,000	....	....	26,000
Sealer W'ghts and Meas...	4,500	4,200	....	300
Sewers .....	200,000	150,000	....	50,000
Sinking Fund Commis. ....	300	800	....	....
Survey'r's Department .....	43,000	39,500	....	3,500
Treas. Depart.	24,800	24,800	....	....
*Water Works	282,500	....	....	282,500
*Water Works, Interest and Premium .....	756,000	....	....	756,000
West Boston and other Bridges .....	8,250	6,500	....	1,750
Widening Streets .....	200,000	200,000	....	....
	$11,219,387	$9,712,455	$361,635	$1,868,567

* Offset the coming year by revenue to be received, which is estimated will more than meet the expenditures and interest.

The following table shows the estimated income for 1876-77 compared with that for 1877-78, with the increase and decrease in each.

	Estimated 1876-77.	Estimated 1877-78.	Increase.	Decrease.
Amortises .....	....	....	....	....
Board of Health and Quarantine .....	$18,000	$14,000	....	$4,000
Bridges .....	14,000	12,000	....	2,000
City Hospital .....	1,400	1,400	....	....
Corporation Tax .....	2,000	5,000	$3,000	....
County of Suffolk .....	350,000	300,000	....	50,000
East Boston Ferries .....	130,000	100,000	....	30,000
East Boston Ferries .....	180,000	170,000	....	10,000
Fire Department .....	6,000	6,200	200	....
Health Department .....	2,000	2,000	....	....
Health Department .....	43,000	42,000	....	1,000
Interest .....	175,000	175,000	....	....
Outstanding Taxes .....	475,000	500,000	25,000	....
Overseers of the Poor .....	33,000	30,000	....	3,000
Paving .....	50,000	40,000	....	10,000
Police .....	6,000	7,500	1,500	....
Public Institutions .....	48,000	38,000	....	10,000
Public Library .....	2,500	3,000	500	....
Rents .....	120,000	120,000	....	....
Schools .....	19,000	19,000	....	....
Sewers .....	75,000	50,000	....	25,000
Taxes and other Fees .....	35,000	32,000	....	3,000
Unclaimed Drafts .....	2,000	2,000	....	....
+Water Works .....	1,153,000	1,153,000	....	....
	$2,939,900	$1,669,100	$30,200	$1,301,000

+ The revenue the coming year from the Cochituate Water Works to defray the expenses and interest, and balance, if any, to be paid to Sinking Fund Commissioners for the Cochituate Water Works Sinking Fund.

Total decrease of estimated appropriations for 1877-78.....$1,868,567
Total increase of estimated appropriations for 1877-78..... 361,635

Net decrease of estimated appropriations for 1877-78.....$1,506,932

Income.

Estimated income 1876-77.....$2,939,900
" " 1877-78..... 1,669,100

Decrease of income 1877-78.....$1,270,800

Percentage of Taxes.

3 per cent. on amount required ($8,279,487) in 1876-77..... $248,385
3 per cent. on amount required ($8,043,355) in 1877-78..... 241,300

Decrease in 1877-78..... $7,085

Recapitulation.

Net decrease of appropriation in 1877-78.. $1,506,932
Net decrease of percentage in 1877-78..... 7,085

Decrease of income in 1877-78..... $1,514,017
Decrease of the tax as before stated ..... 1,270,800

Decrease of the tax as before stated ..... $243,217

The accompanying communications, which I have received from the several boards, departments and committees, give the details of the appropriations which they require.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALFRED T. TURNER,

Auditor of Accounts.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Auditor's Monthly Exhibit, March 2. (City Doc. No. 27, 1877). Placed on file.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report (leave to withdraw) on petition of T. F. Burns, for leave to occupy a portion of land at the corner of Eliot and Pleasant streets, for sale of fruit, etc. Accepted in concurrence.

CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION AND THE COMMON.

The amendment to the order to authorize the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association to erect a building on the Common for their triennial festival came down with the non-concurrence of the other branch.

Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 moved to suspend the rule and to lay the matter upon the table, that he might present a petition.

The motion to suspend was declared carried.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 doubted the vote, and the Council divided—26 for and 22 against. The motion was lost.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 moved the indefinite postponement of the whole matter.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me a majority of the members of the Council do not wish to pass this order authorizing the placing of this building on the Common. We do not want it going back and forth from one branch of the City Government to the other, and a very simple way to dispose of it will be to indefinitely postpone it. Therefore I make that motion.

On motion of Mr. Blodgett of Ward 8, the yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—While I shall not oppose the motion to indefinitely postpone, I give notice now that I shall bring in an order or a resolution carrying the same effect as the substitute which I put in last Thursday night. I have not lost a bit of faith in the idea presented then, that the Common is for the people, for the boys for a playground. But I do believe that this Council feels as I do in reference to it. And while tonight I shall vote as the gentleman has already stated, to indefinitely postpone, so that it may not go back to the Board from the Council, I believe we must look this matter fairly and squarely in the face and say that the Common is for the people.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I understand that the evidence that was taken before the Committee on Common and Squares has been put in type; and as there seemed to be a desire here last Thursday night that the evidence should be printed, I should hope that this matter would not be indefinitely postponed. It comes back, and it came here first by a large majority from the other branch, and it seems to me that it is a matter of courtesy to that branch that we should give it a full investigation. I hope the motion to indefinitely postpone will not prevail. If it does not, I shall move that the matter lie upon the table and the report and evidence be printed.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14—I trust this matter will lie upon the table. Several members came to me after the last meeting of the Council and told me they were very desirous of seeing this evidence. It is now all in print, and there is no reason why their wish should not be granted. I trust the matter will not be postponed, but will lie upon the table so that the members of the Council may be allowed to read this evidence. They will then come here at the next meeting better prepared to judge of this question than they are tonight.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—It seems to me that a majority, and in fact a very large majority, of this Council have made up their minds upon this question. It seems to me this matter of printing evidence was most thoroughly discussed at a previous meeting of the Council. Now it seems to me wholly unnecessary to go into this matter of evidence when it has been so often before us for the last few weeks. It seems to me the majority of us have made up our minds that we should meet this tonight and vote upon it. I certainly hope this motion in regard to printing evidence will not prevail.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I should like to state, for the edification of the gentleman who last sat down, that this evidence has been printed and put in City Document No. 26, and probably the member will find it on his desk at the present time. It is simply a question of giving members time to read it preparatory to voting upon it. I do not know that there would be anything lost by delaying it a week, now that the matter is in print. Certainly members can hardly read this lengthy document through in three or four minutes.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I can see that the evidence is in print, and I would like to inquire of the chairman of the Committee on Common and Squares by what authority this document was printed. At the last meeting of the Council we positively refused to print this, or even to refer it. Now we find it on our desks as City Document 26. I want to know by whose authority this document is printed, and I ask the chairman to explain the matter.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I would merely state that before the hearings were entered into it was thought desirable to have a shorthand reporter, as it was thought probable members of the City Government might desire to see the arguments for and against this measure. A shorthand reporter was therefore employed, and at the close of the second hearing, as I understand—I was not present at the time; I left about half an hour before the hearing closed—a vote was passed by the committee instructing the shorthand reporter to write out his notes, and for the Clerk of Committees to have it printed. That is the reason that it is before members at the present time. After some seventy pages had been put in type it was thought possible that it might not be necessary to do anything more, and it was at that stage when it came before the Council at the last meeting.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I desire to say it is an unwarrantable assumption on the part of any committee, or on the part of any gentleman, to order a document of this kind printed and submit it, the matter having once been rejected by the Council. I say it was never ordered by the Council, and I insist on it. At the last meeting of the Council it was voted down, when the matter was passed upon, and somebody moved it be referred to the Committee on Common and Squares with instructions to print the evidence. That question was voted down. Now I say, as I said before, it is an unwarrantable assumption on the part of any committee or any body of men to print a document of this kind without the authority of the City Council.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I have merely to add what I said before, that this document was printed prior to the time the gentleman speaks of, with the exception of two or three pages.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—By whose authority?

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—By the authority of the Committee on Common and Squares. It had been put in type and printed with the exception of two or three pages, and the committee, having assumed the authority to print so much, also assumed the authority to print the two or three pages remaining.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Do I understand the gentleman to say they set up seventy pages and printed that, and then set two or three more and printed that extra?

Mr. Pope of Ward 14—No.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Why, he said they were all printed. I would like to understand it.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—They were printed so far that proofs could be struck off. I do not know whether all the forms were struck off. Probably a large part of it was in form and printed. It is not customary to print a book all at once. They set up a part and print that, and then another part and print that.

The question was taken on the motion to lay upon the table and print, and it was declared lost.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20 doubted the vote and moved to call the yeas and nays. The motion for the yeas and nays was lost.

The question was then taken on the motion to indefinitely postpone, and it was carried—42 yeas, 27 nays:

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blodgett, Cannon, Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Dugan, Fagan, Felt, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mowry, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Reed, J. B. Richardson, M. W.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Mullane, R. Pope, Pratt—3.

Richardson, Roach, Ruffin, Sampson, Souther, Spenceley, Thompson, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wolcott—42.

Nays—Messrs. Blanchard, Brintnall, Brown, Burke, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, J. J. Flynn, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Morrill, Nugent, Perham, R. Pope, Roberts, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, Vose, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—27.

Subsequently Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 moved to reconsider the vote whereby the Council voted to indefinitely postpone the motion, hoping it would not prevail.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I trust that this will not be pushed tonight. The gentleman from Ward 19 seems strongly of the opinion that if this lies over another week there may be some persons who will change their minds.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—No, he is not.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Well, he says it by his action. If there is a chance for further discussion and further enlightenment I do not see why it might not just as well rest where it is, indefinitely postponed. If anybody wishes to make a motion to reconsider, all very well, but let it lie there for another week. The matter has now actually come before the Council for the first time. I understood a resolution was to be presented here this evening, asking for a public hearing before the Council of both parties, that the Council might give half an hour to each party and then vote on its merits. Of course there is no chance for that now. I trust that it will die a natural death, if it dies, rather than be strangled to death, as the gentleman from Ward 19 wishes to have it.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—The gentleman from Ward 19 does not want to strangle it. The gentleman from Ward 19 thinks the members of this Council have seen enough of this in print; have looked on both sides of the question; know all about it; have not prophesied that the air comes down from Canada; have looked the matter squarely in the face, and are not in favor of placing this building or any other building on the Common. We are ready to vote upon it, and it does not seem to me to make any difference whether we are ready to vote tonight or not. It does seem to me that in order to have this out of the way and not spend any more time upon it we should vote upon it tonight and have done with it. That is just the reason why I want to have this put through tonight.

The motion to reconsider was lost.

MANAGEMENT OF PUBLIC GROUNDS.

The order from the Board of Aldermen to oppose any legislation tending to restrict the City Council in care and management of the public grounds was read twice, and the question was on its passage.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—It seems to me that for one I should not like to see this order pass. I would like some legislative law upon this matter by which we shall not be troubled every two or three years by some petition coming here as this has come in now. Why, these gentlemen will soon enter another petition for the Common, and we shall have them continually. It seems to me it would be well for us to have the Legislature pass laws in reference to the Common as we did in reference to our streets, so that it cannot be possessed except by vote of the people. As I understand it, our Common and our squares are for the people. If they wish for these buildings, shows or amusements, let us have a vote and see whether we want it or not. If we do not, I do not believe it is best for this Council or any City Council to have authority to say what shall go on them, or what shall be taken off of them. I hope the order will not pass.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I believe that for once the gentleman from Ward 19 is correct. If the Council intend to be consistent they ought to vote down this order. They have refused the Mechanic Association the right to go on the Common; and without they also decree, or allow the Legislature to decree, that no other association shall go there, it would certainly seem as if the Council meant to make an invidious distinction in regard to the Mechanic Association. If this order is passed as it now stands, it instructs the Committee on Legislative matters to leave the Common question open again. If we are not to allow buildings to be erected there, I think it might as well be settled by the Legislature and have it done with. Personally, I am sorry that this last vote has been taken and has gone against the Committee on Common and Squares; but if we are not to have it, I certainly think it ought to be final.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I believe that the City Council should have charge of its own commons and squares. I do not believe in turning it over to the State of Massachusetts and allowing them to dictate what we shall or what we shall not do. I hope we shall keep it to ourselves.

The question was on the passage of the order in concurrence, and the motion was declared lost.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 doubted the vote. It was verified; the Council was divided, and the order was passed in concurrence—29 for and 23 against.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order to deduct $1625 from amount due on lease of Thomas Carter for wharf on Albany street. Passed in concurrence.

Order to allow and pay $102 to Mary A. Rosemeyster, for a parcel of 204 square feet of land on Brown street, Northampton-street district, as therein set forth. Passed in concurrence.

Order to pay certain bills of I. E. Noyes and George Curtis against the city. Passed in concurrence.

Orders for transfers, viz., $6000 from Reserved Fund to appropriation for Common, etc.; $500 from Reserved Fund to Contingent Fund of Board of Aldermen. Severally passed—yeas 60, nays 0. Sent up.

APPROPRIATION FOR PUBLIC GROUNDS.

The order to expend $5500 additional for Common and other public grounds was considered under unfinished business.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I think the explanation we have had of this matter was not very satisfactory. I think the chairman of the committee expressed his ability to understand it fully, and I should like to hear if there is any other explanation he can give.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I should merely state that the appropriation made by the Common Council last May is entirely exhausted, including that portion for the pay of laborers. The Department of Common and Public Grounds employ during the spring a large number of laborers, and they are employing more at the present time than is usual, on account of the quantity of snow that has been lodged on the Common. It has been necessary to break it up until within the past few days. Now, I think the warm rains are doing it in a very large degree. Still, the number of employes during the months of March and April is very large indeed, and it is necessary to have some money to pay them with. The exact amount required it is perhaps impossible to state. I think this is based on the appropriations of last year and the year before.

The order was passed. Sent up.

BALANCES OF APPROPRIATIONS AND SINKING FUNDS.

Under a suspension of the rule, Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted the following:

The Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the report of the Joint Special Committee on the Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses, accompanied by an ordinance to amend the ordinance in relation to finance, respecting the disposition of the balances of appropriations, would unanimously report that the accompanying ordinance be passed in lieu of the same.

For the committee,

FREDERICK O. PRINCE, Chairman.

An Ordinance

To amend an ordinance in relation to finance.

Be it ordained, etc.—

Section 1. Sections 23, 24, 25, 26, 27 and 29 of the ordinance in relation to finance, as contained in the volume of Revised Ordinances of the year 1876, are hereby repealed, and the following sections substituted therefor:

Sec. 2. The Board of Commissioners on the Sinking Funds for the redemption of the debt of the city shall annually, in the month of February, report to the City Council and Auditor of Accounts a detailed statement of the amounts required by statute to be raised by taxation during the next financial year on account of the principal of the city debt, and such amounts shall be included in the general appropriation bill for that year, and shall be paid by the City Treasurer to said commissioners on the first day of December following. All excess of revenue derived from liquor licenses, excess of income and taxes over estimated income and taxes, and of appropriations over expenditures at the close of each financial year, shall remain in the city treasury to be used and applied for such purposes as the City Council may order.

Sec. 3. All moneys received by the city from the sale of real estate, from payments on account of the principal sum secured by any bond or note, or from payments on account of any betterment assessment, shall be paid by the City Treasurer to the said commissioners, and applied by them to the reduction of the city debt.

Sec. 4. All excess of income from water rates over the amount required to pay the expense of carrying on the water works, and the interest and exchange, if any, on the water debt, shall be paid to said commissioners, and by them added to the Sinking Fund for said debt.

Sec. 5. Whenever any debt of the city shall become due, the said commissioners shall pay over and transfer to the City Treasurer any funds which they may hold as a Sinking Fund for said debt, or so much of such funds as may be required for the payment of such debt, and the balance of such funds, if any, shall be transferred by them to such other Sinking Fund as they may deem advisable.

The ordinance was read once, and the question was on ordering it to a second reading.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I will say that this ordinance goes further than the one referred to us by the Retrenchment Committee, by covering into the treasury at the end of the year all income received by the city by way of revenue, all income from overestimates in regard to taxation, and also the liquor licenses as well as the balances of appropriations. On the other hand it requires the commissioners to tax the necessary amount requisite for the Sinking Fund. These are about the only points in which it differs from the original order.

The ordinance was ordered to a second reading.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—As we have before us tonight the Auditor's estimates, which will go to the Board of Aldermen, and as it is quite important this should accompany them, because the Sinking Fund Commissioners are required to make their assessment of taxes to be laid before the same committee, I shall ask a suspension of the rule, that the ordinance may take its passage tonight.

The rule was suspended.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—As I believe that no ordinance should be passed without being referred to the Ordinance Committee, I believe it my duty to make a motion that this ordinance be referred to the Ordinance Committee. I know, too, that gentlemen say it is quite important it should go through tonight, and I do not propose to urge the passage of my motion; but as the chairman of the Ordinance Committee on the part of this branch, I deem it my duty to bring the matter before the Council, and make the motion.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I will say in explanation, that in order to avoid that necessity, this ordinance was worded by the chairman of that committee. I left my views with him and he has prepared an ordinance to express them. So this ordinance has been before that member of the committee and has been prepared by him.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I have only one word to add; that it is not exactly in the shape I gave it, but I don't see anything wrong about it myself.

The ordinance was read a second time and passed. Sent up.

BADGES.

Under a suspension of the rules Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 made the following verbal report: The committee appointed to procure suitable badges for such of the Council as might apply for the same have attended to that very arduous duty, and through the assistance of the City Messenger beg leave to make the following report [handing the City Messenger a box containing the badges]: The report was accepted.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

Early in the session, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, the Council took up the special assignment, which was the report of the Committee on Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses, with thirty-nine ordinances establishing the salaries of the several city officers and employes in the public departments (City Doc. No. 20). The question was on the passage of said ordinances, with amendments.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I would move to further assign this to quarter-past eight o'clock, in order that the Finance Committee may report upon the first order referred to them. If the further postponement is made, I shall ask for a suspension of the rule, to allow the Finance Committee to make its report.

The subject was further assigned to a quarter-past eight on motion of Mr. Sampson of Ward 17, to admit the report on balances of appropriations, and after action thereon the subject was again called up, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13.

On motion of Mr. Stone of Ward 3, the several ordinances were ordered to be read by their titles.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—I should like to inquire of the Retrenchment Committee why they propose to establish the salaries by ordinance. Heretofore they have been established by order, and I don't see the necessity of the change. It will be a great deal more difficult to make changes in the future, and I should like to have some explanation.

The Chair reminded the gentleman that no discussion was in order till the ordinance had been read, and he proceeded to read them by their titles. The question was on giving them a second reading.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I understand that some of these departments that this committee have reported on, propose a greater reduction than the committee propose. They propose to do away with certain officers. And I move that the report be laid on the table till they make their reductions.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—I trust the gentleman's motion will not prevail. The Committee on Retrenchment have called before them the heads of all departments, and the question has been put to those gentlemen what reductions they could make in clerk hire as well as in the expenditures of their departments; and I would assure the gentleman that we have made all the reductions that we can agreeable to their answers, and not only as far as that, but further. I therefore see no reason why the report should be laid on the table.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I understand the Water Commissioners propose to do away entirely with one if not two officers, and I don't feel at liberty to state the other departments. I don't know but what the Water Commissioners were before this committee. I don't know how that was.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—Mr. President, I hope this report, these ordinances, will not be passed. If the Council chooses to lay them on the table, perhaps this is as good a disposition of them as any. I believe that these changes in the salaries which are here proposed will work a great deal of mischief in a great many branches of the City Government. I, for one, would prefer to see the salaries all through remain exactly as they are, though I think there are some that might be changed. I am, for one, prepared to vote the salaries all just as they are, rather than to pass these ordinances as they are now offered to us. There are certain reasons why it is inexpedient to do it by ordinance. There are reasons why it is inexpedient to fix the salaries of all the clerks in the different departments. At some times in the year, certain departments want more clerks, more assistance than they do at others, and under this arrangement they could not get them without getting an ordinance passed by the City Council. It seems to me it would work badly in a great many ways; therefore I hope the motion that the whole thing will be laid on the table will pass.

Mr. Nugent of Ward 19—The Committee on Retrenchment have spent considerable time in considering the salaries of officials in the City Hall. They have gone outside and inquired concerning salaries paid in other concerns. They found generally the salaries paid outside of City Hall were far less than what is paid inside City Hall. I believe the people demand retrenchment. I believe we are paying higher salaries in City Hall than private individuals are paying for the same labor. I hope gentlemen will look at it in a practical way, and look at the times. The market is filled not only with common labor, but with mechanical skilled labor in all branches, clerks, bookkeepers, and everything else, and I think the inflation prices paid in the City Hall have no right to be carried out. I believe in all the reduction recommended by the reduction committee, and I hope the motion will not prevail.

Mr. Brown of Ward 23—Mr. President, I desire to express my views briefly upon the subject of retrenchment in salaries in the various departments of our City Government, which is now under consideration before this body. I have carefully perused the report of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment connected with the salaries of the employes of the city. I find this document elaborate and easy to be understood as to the opinion of the committee on economy, and their judgment on the true basis of retrenchment by reduction in salaries in and about City Hall; and, Mr. President, I will say that I highly respect the economical views, financially, of the Committee on Retrenchment, but I cannot adopt their report as a whole as being a wise and just basis for economy and retrenchment to pursue and adopt by the City Government. In my opinion, some of the heads of departments in City Hall are not overpaid for their valuable services rendered to the city. This, Mr. President, is my humble opinion as far as my knowledge goes in understanding the duties of some of the heads of departments in the employ of the city. I confess, sir, that I am not familiar with the duties of all the heads of departments in the city employ, but I take it for granted that the duties are all arduous and all well filled. I do know some of the gentlemen personally who fill the important places of trust at the head of departments, and, sir, those whom I do not know personally I do know by the high reputation they sustain in the hearts of the people for honor and fidelity to their several trusts. And, Mr. President, it would be vain in me to presume to tell this Council anything about the duties, or the ability of the gentlemen connected with heads of departments in City Hall, as this is well known to us all. Their records are recorded in the hearts of the taxpayers of Boston; and in my opinion the taxpayers would not vote to reduce their salaries to the sum recommended by the Committee on Retrenchment. The experience, the ability and the honor of these gentlemen is their capital in life, and this City Government should not claim so much of their capital as this report demands. In my opinion, cashiers and head bookkeepers in the employ of the city get no more pay than they earn for the city, and no more than such services are paid for in banks and other places of trust equally as great as theirs; and I consider it wrong for the city to economize on help of this class as regards their salaries. I do sincerely believe that no greater injustice could be done to mankind than to reduce the salaries of some of the clerks employed by the city, as recommended by the Committee on Retrenchment.

The Chair notified the gentleman that his time had expired, and on motion of Mr. Thompson of Ward 19 the time was extended, and he continued—

I do believe that there are some clerks whose salaries might be reduced without doing injustice to said clerks, and I have no doubt but that there could be less force employed in some of the departments, without injury to the true interests of the city, whereby a small saving could be made. Mr. President, we should all treat this salary question as we would our own business and economize at home instead of reducing salaries of our help to save money. And let the city of Boston economize in its general expenditures outside of the salaries of its employés. The Retrenchment Committee's report on the reduction of the salaries of the License Commissioners is so sweeping that I cannot comprehend it, and therefore shall say no more on this matter, but wait for further instructions from members of this Council, who may be able to throw some light on this subject. Mr. President, we have before us the report of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment, and we also have the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries, and let us carefully and honestly consider what we shall do to best promote the mutual interests of all concerned.

The time for debating a motion to lay on the table having expired, the vote was taken, and the motion was adopted—34 to 32—and the ordinances were laid upon the table.

Near the close of the session, Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21 moved to take the report from the table.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I think it is too late to take up that matter, and I move we adjourn.

Lost by a division—32 for, 33 against.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—It seems to me it is rather late to take that from the table. I hope it will remain there till the next meeting.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—It is never too late to do good. I am only astounded that the motion has not been made before. If I were a member of the committee, I should certainly have done it. I urged certain parties to do it, but I did not think it beloged to me to make the motion. I see a disposition here this evening to defeat those ordinances. That is the whole sum and substance of the matter. I want to meet it squarely, face to face. I want to know where gentlemen stand on this question. Let us act squarely, as did the Board of Aldermen, and either pass or defeat them. This putting them off from one night to another is not what is wanted by the citizens of Boston, who look to the City Council for some action in this matter. I venture to say that more than three-fourths of the taxpayers of the city of Boston look for the passage of these ordinances without a break. I have had scores of people ask me what it meant by putting off action from time to time. Gentlemen here in City Hall getting three, four or five thousand dollars can afford to stand the shrinkage of the times as well as the merchants, many of whom are not making more than half their running expenses, and are taking risks every day; while the incumbents of offices in City Hall are taking no risk, for the city of Boston never fails. The employés of the city of Boston who get their pay regularly can very well afford to stand this reduction. I think that gentlemen who have been getting $5000 a year may thank their stars that they are not cut down any more than they have. I am free to confess that there are some portions of the report that I do not exactly agree with; but rather than have a break made I would vote for the whole of it. The incumbents of city offices are much better paid than men are outside.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I do not like to raise a point of order, but the gentleman is discussing the merits of the main question.

Mr. Jackson—I was giving reasons for passing these ordinances. I am in favor of it and I hope they will pass.

The motion to take from the table was declared carried.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. Reed of Ward 17 the yeas and nays were ordered. The Council refused to take the report from the table—yeas 33, nays 38:

Yeas—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Briunnall, Cannon, Cross, Day, Dee, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Hiscock, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Reed, Roach, Shepard, Sibley, Spenceley, Vose, G. B. Webster—33.

Nays—Messrs. Beeching, Blodgett, Brown, Burke, Clarke, Coe, Cox, Crocker, Danforth, Doherty, Felt, J. J. Flynn, Ham, Hibbard, Howes, Morrill, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pope, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Roberts, Ruffin, Sampson, Smardon, Souther, Stone, Thompson, Thorndike, Upham, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—38.

Absent or not voting—Mr. Pratt.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petition of Morrow & Barker, for leave to erect two wooden buildings on Beacon Park, Cambridge street, Ward 25. Referred to the Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Sent up.

Petitions of Michael Collins for compensation for injuries received upon the ferry while proceeding to East Boston; and of Samuel E. Decher to be allowed compensation for damages to his land situated on Lincoln street, Ward 22. Severally referred to Joint Committee on Claims. Sent up.

By Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—Petition of Joseph Kuhns, for compensation for damages occasioned by the change of grade of Orchard Park. Referred to Committee on Common, etc., with instructions to give the petitioners a hearing, on motion of Mr. Wilbur. Sent up.

TRANSFER OF APPROPRIATIONS.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted the following from the Committee on Finance:

Report and order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund the sum of thirty-nine thousand two hundred thirty-one and 74-100 dollars to the appropriation for Widening Washington and Essex Streets. Read twice and passed under a suspension of the rule—yeas 58, nays 0. Sent up.

Report and Order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund $28,000 to the appropriation for School Expenses, School Committee and $3500 from the appropriation for school instructors to that for Salaries, Officers, School Committees. Read twice and passed under a suspension of the rule—yeas 58, nays 0. Sent up.

Report and Order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the appropriation for Dover-street Bridge $19,000, to constitute a special appropriation for rebuilding Neponset Bridge; also from the same appropriation $8000, to constitute a special appropriation for the rebuilding of the Mt. Washington-avenue Bridge Pier. Read twice and passed under a suspension of the rule—yeas 58, nays 0. Sent up.

Report and order—That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to make such transfers of appropriations as are required to make up deficiencies in other appropriations and such others as may be necessary in closing the business of the financial year which terminates April 30, 1877—all such transfers to be reported to the Committee on Finance for notification. Read twice and passed under a suspension of the rule—yeas 58, nays 0. Sent up.

CLAIMS.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted reports from the Joint Committee on Claims of leave to withdraw on petitions of John C. Albee, for compensation or personal injuries on the East Boston Ferry, and Uriah J. Dailey, to be paid for injuries to his horse and sleigh on Howard street, Charlestown. Severally accepted. Sent np.

HIRAM JOHNSON'S PETITION.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 submitted a report from the Joint Standing Committee on Streets on the petition of Hiram Johnson to be relieved of the payment of a portion of his indebtedness to the city—That the petitioner owned a tract of land situated on Swett street extended, and gave 9000 feet of this land towards the extension of the street. He also agreed to pay $800 towards the construction of the street, and gave a bond to that amount. This bond is not secured. The petitioner is unable to pay his debts in full, and his other creditors have agreed to accept thirty per cent. of the amount of their claims. He asks that the city will settle upon the same terms as the rest of his creditors.

Your committee are of the opinion it is expedient to grant the prayer of the petitioner, and therefore they recommend the passage of an order—That the City Collector be authorized to accept thirty per cent. of the amount due from Hiram Johnson to the city of Boston, in full settlement of the claim against said Johnson, on account of the widening and extension of Swett street, provided that the remaining creditors of said Johnson agree to accept the same percentage in settlement of their claims.

Order read twice and passed, under a suspension of the rule, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13. Sent up.

BACK-BAY IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 submitted the following: The Joint Standing Committee on Streets respectfully report that an additional appropriation of five thousand dollars will be required to complete the work on West Chester park and Commonwealth avenue. The amount of the original appropriation and transfers was $457,000. The expenditures have amounted to $458,500.44, leaving a deficiency of $1500.44. The additional appropriation is required to provide for this deficiency and also to meet the expense of constructing a culvert under West Chester park, for purchasing the land required for the abutments of the bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad, and for doing such concreting, etc., as may be required to put the bridges in a condition for public travel.

Referred to Committee on Finance. Sent np.

FIRES AND ALARMS.

The report of the Fire Commissioners on the fires and alarms in February was received. Sent up.

NOMINATIONS.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18 submitted a report nominating Timothy J. Dacey and Thomas L. Jenks for Trustees at Large of City Hospital for three years. Accepted. Sent np.

COMMON COUNCIL CONTINGENT FUND.

On motion of Mr. Felt of Ward 18, the Council took from the table the order to provide for approval of certain bills by the President of the Common Council.

The question was on the passage of the order.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I am looking for an order similar to this which was passed by the Board of Aldermen. All I want is that the Council shall pass a similar order to the one passed by that Board.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—While the gentleman is looking for that other order I will simply say that it seems to me we need not follow the example of the Board of Aldermen. There is no necessity for us to make our order exactly like theirs. As I understand it, the principal difference is that the order now proposes that the names of members who have refreshments or carriages shall be put in the bills, and the order passed by the Aldermen, I believe, does not require the names. Now we did not require that last year, but upon the motion of the gentleman who has just spoken, on page 57 of the proceedings of last year I find that he offered an order which contains the very provisions which he now objects to. It seemed to me then, and it seems to me still, a very proper provision to put in. It seems to me the Council can well afford to be more virtuous or more brave in its proceedings than its associates in the other branch. It seems to me that no member—we do not any one of us want, I hope, to have any bills incurred that anybody is ashamed of. I am willing to have my name go upon the record for anything I have, and I think other gentlemen are willing to do the same. It seems to me it is the right principle in the shape in which it was offered and passed last year. The order is exactly the same as the order passed last year.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The only objection I have to this order is—I will read the order which was passed by the Board of Aldermen. All I desire is that the Council should pass a similar order. If they are not obliged to attach their names to bills there is no reason in the world why members of this Council should.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—What is the objection?

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The objection is that if members of the Board of Aldermen do not do it, it is better that the Council should not. On page 102 of the official record I find that the Board of Aldermen passed the following order:

“Ordered, That the Chairman of the Board of Aldermen be authorized to approve bills for expenses incurred by the Board of Aldermen and the standing committees of the Board not having charge of any appropriations; also by individual members of the Board while engaged in the discharge of official duty. The amount of said bills to be charged to the appropriation for Contingent Expenses of the Board of Aldermen.”

Now, Mr. President, I would offer as a substitute for that which has been presented by the gentleman from Ward 18, an order similar to this one with the exception of striking out the words “The Chairman of the Board of Aldermen” and inserting “The President of the Common Council,” and striking out the words “Members of the Board of Aldermen,” and inserting the words “Members of the Common Council.”

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I find in No. 20 of the Joint Rules an order very similar in character to this one. I would like to inquire of the gentleman who introduced this order, what the difference is between the present order and the one which now exists.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18—I would say for the benefit of the gentleman from Charlestown, that this order covers the expenses of those committees that have no appropriations made for them.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I notice that Rule 20, of the Joint Rules, on page 51 of the book which I hold in my hand, requires that

“No bill for refreshments or carriage hire furnished to any member of the City Government shall be paid, unless such bills shall specify in detail the names of the members to whom such refreshments or carriages were furnished, the dates of furnishing the same, and have been approved by the presiding officer of a board, or chairman of a standing or special committee of the City Council, or of either branch thereof, duly authorized by vote of such committee or board, at a regular meeting; such bills, when so approved, shall be paid from the appropriation to which they are incident; and the Auditor of Accounts shall not receive or pass any such bill for the approval of the Committee on Accounts, unless it has been approved, as provided in this and the preceding section.”

Now, that evidently renders it necessary that the names should be specified in bills incurred by the Aldermen. Nothing particular would be gained by breaking over our rules. It is well to keep such matters before our minds all the time. It seems to me the proper way is to pass the order as it was passed last year.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I think, in considering this matter, it would be fair to consider the difference between the two bodies to whom the different orders are to be applied. In the Board of Aldermen there are twelve men. The Chairman of the Aldermen meets them all probably every day. He is well posted upon all the business they are engaged on, and knows what expense they are likely to incur, and can pass upon bills presented almost as well as the persons who incur them. But, I ask, what is the position of the President of a body as large as this when bills are sent in to him for refreshments and hack hire, furnished, perhaps, by half a dozen different hotels? What position is he in if he is called upon to approve such bills, unless he can call upon the person who incurred the expense, and inquire whether the bill is a proper one or not. It seems to me as a matter of principle that no man in this City Government should incur any expense which he is ashamed to have known. If we eat dinners at the city's expense, let us say so. I can conceive there are circumstances under which it would be perfectly proper for us to take dinners at the city's expense; and when we do it in a proper manner we are not going to be ashamed to put our names upon the bill. The only possible point I can see in these names is that some person may make a bill he will be ashamed to acknowledge. I do not think this Council will omit that requirement from the order. That is the construction the outside public will put upon it. They talk about junketing now. If they see us deliberately changing an order which we have formerly adopted in years past, and thereby making it more easy to junket, I do not think we will stand any higher in the respect and esteem of our constituents, and I do not think we should deserve to. I hope the substitute will not prevail.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—As far as I am personally concerned I am not ashamed to put my name to any bill for refreshments or carriage hire I may have. Still I do not think it is fair that members of the Council should be compelled to put their names to such bills when members of the Board of Aldermen are not. Take, for instance, last Thursday night, members were obliged to remain here until after twelve o'clock, and some were then obliged to go to West Roxbury, Dorchester, Brighton and other parts of the city. Those members are compelled, at the end of the month, to put their names on hack bills, perhaps for large amounts. Nobody knows why it is there, or the reasons for it. If you come to the Board of Aldermen and other departments—the Board of Directors, the Trustees of the Public Library, the Trustees of the City Hospital—and every other officer elected by this Government can go on and contract bills in the discharge of their duty, and their names are never obliged to be put on the bills. Now, why make this distinction with the members of the Council. If they did it in the Board of Aldermen I should not object; but they do not do it, and I don't think it is fair to compel the members of the Common Council to put their names to any little bill incurred in the discharge of their duties. That is the only objection I have to the order.

The question was on the substitution of Mr. Flynn's order, and on motion of Mr. Felt of Ward 18 the yeas and nays were ordered.

The motion to substitute was lost—yeas 10, nays 57:

Yeas—Messrs. Burke, Clarke, J. J. Flynn, Loughlin, McClusky, Nugent, Pearl, Ruffin, Thorndike, Upham—10.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brintnall, Brown, Cannon, Coe, Cox, Crocker, Cross, Danforth, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Felt, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, McDonald, McGaragle, Mowry, Mullane, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Reed, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Roach, Roberts, Sampson, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Spenceley, Stone, Thompson, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—57.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Morrill, R. Pope, Pratt, Souther—4

The original order was then passed.

USE OF THE CITY HALL ELEVATOR.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 offered an order—That, until otherwise ordered, the elevator shall be for the exclusive use of the members of the City Government and reporters from 7.15 P. M. till 7.45 P. M. on the evenings when the Common Council meets.

The order was ordered to a second reading.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 moved the reference of the order to the Committee on Public Buildings.

Mr. Stone—I see no reason for referring it to the Committee on Public Buildings. I have noticed that for the last four meetings of the Council, when we wanted to ascend to this chamber the elevator was crowded; and this evening, for instance, there were fifteen or sixteen in the elevator, and of that number not over five were members of the City Government. The elevator is run when we have our meetings for the convenience of the members of the Council. I hope that the order will not be referred, but be passed.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I move an amendment, that the running of the elevator be discontinued after eight o'clock. That would be a great saving in coal. It is well known that almost all of the members of the Council prefer to walk down rather than crowd into the elevator. It is a fact that for the past five or six weeks the elevator has been crowded, and it has been obliged to be run, many times, half an hour after the Council has adjourned. It will be a saving of coal to stop it at eight o'clock. This very subject has been before the Committee on Public Buildings.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I may be entirely alone in this matter, but if I am I believe I am right. I hope the order will not prevail. I believe that the elevator should be for the public. If I come here with a friend it will be a great discourtesy for me to take the elevator and force him to walk up stairs. I believe we are as able-bodied as citizens generally, and if they are compelled to walk we should do the same. There being galleries here indicates that the citizens are expected to be here, and I believe they should have a right to use the elevator. I believe that as dignified a member as the gentleman [Mr. Stone] can afford to wait and take his chances with the humblest citizen. As a matter of good taste, and for no political effect, it is due to those whom we invite here, and to those who come here evening after evening, that the use of the elevator should be free.

[Applause in the galleries, which the President promptly checked.]

The motion to refer was lost, by a division—8 for, 40 against.

On motion of Mr. Duggan of Ward 12, the order was indefinitely postponed.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Mr. Smardon of Ward 10 offered an order—That a committee, consisting of eight members on the part of the Common Council, with such as the Board of Aldermen may join, be a committee to make arrangements for celebrating the 101st anniversary of American independence; the expense attending the same, not to exceed $15,000, to be charged to the appropriation for Incidental Expenses.

Laid on the table, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13.

CANCELLATION OF DEBT.

On motion of Mr. Crocker of Ward 9, the Council took from the table the report that it is inexpedient to pass the order for the Mayor to petition the Legislature for the passage of an act authorizing the Sinking Fund Commissioners to cancel any bonds of the city which they may hold, provided it will not be inconsistent with the obligations of the city to the holders of its bonds.

The report was accepted and the question came on giving the order a second reading.

Mr. Crocker—I have a substitute here which I propose to offer in place of that order, which is, that the Mayor be requested to petition for the passage of an act. It is now too late to petition for the passage of an act, and therefore that order would be ineffectual; but the subject to which that order refers is already before a committee of the Legislature, and therefore I offer the following as a substitute:

Ordered, That the Committee on Legislative Matters be instructed to favor the passage by the Legislature of an act requiring the Sinking Fund Commissioners to cancel all bonds of the city held as a portion of the Sinking Fund, provided that, and so far as, such cancellation shall be consistent with the obligations of the city to the holders of its bonds.

That subject is now before the Legislature. It has been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of the House, who are to consider the expediency of such a law. The Committee on Finance have stated no reasons why they have reported inexpedient, and I do not know that the reasons which they would give against the original order would apply to this one. This order looks simply to requiring the Sinking Fund Commissioners to reduce the debt as far as practicable consistently with the obligations of the city to its bondholders—reducing the city debt to its actual amount, and not leaving its nominal amount one thing and its actual amount another. Nominally the city debt is half as large again as it really is. Nominally it is forty-three or four millions; but, by reason of the fact that the Sinking Fund Commissioners hold thirteen or fourteen millions of the city debt, the city debt is actually only thirty millions, and thus it is made to appear half as large again as it really is. We go through the formality of paying the interest on this thirteen or fourteen millions to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, who credit the city with the amount. It seems to me that this is going through with useless formalities, making things appear as they are not in reality. I hope the City Council will pass the order instructing the Committee on Legislative Matters to favor the passage of such an act as I have suggested.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I trust the order will not pass. It is virtually the same as the one we have been considering from the Finance Committee. It is to all intents and purposes wiping out the Sinking Funds of the city of Boston. Sinking Funds are now recognized as a necessary institution in all communities and corporations which are required to borrow money, in order to secure the payment of debt and maintain their credit. Under the permission given by the statutes the city of Boston is permitted, through the Sinking Fund Commissioners, to invest either in its own bonds or State and national securities. Now, because the city holds those bonds, some people think the city does not owe $44,000,000, or thereabout; but these bonds are in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners as the trustees for the creditors of the city of Boston, and the fact that they have invested in city bonds should be considered the same as if they had invested in State or United States bonds and the debt remains the same. It makes no difference if a man has notes out amounting to $50,000, whether he has $100,000 in bank or not to meet those bonds; he owes it all the same. So the city of Boston owes forty-four millions of dollars today, and the Sinking Fund cannot properly be deducted from that debt. I do not propose to go into a lengthy argument, because I think the Council understand this matter fully. I do not think there is any necessity for it. I merely state the matter as plainly as I can and leave it to the Council.

Mr. Crocker—The gentleman says this course which I propose would substantially wipe out the greater part of the Sinking Funds. Now, if the Sinking Fund really consists of the city's own notes, I think that, so far as they go, it may as well be wiped out. If the city's bonds are held by its own officials, it owes the money to itself, and the balance only, after deducting the amount of those bonds, is the actual debt of the city. The real and actual debt is thirty millions. To call our debt forty-four millions is all a formality and a pretence. It affords no security to anybody, and there is in fact real danger in keeping this nominal debt alive. The law indeed provides that the bonds held as part of the Sinking Fund shall not be negotiable. But if they are not negotiable, the Sinking Fund Commissioners cannot use them, and they may as well be cancelled. The only result of cancelling them will be to stop the formality of paying interest on them, and the city will be the gainer by bringing the accounts out of the confusion and the formalities that do no good to the creditor, to the city or to the taxpayer; but that do evil, I believe, in confusing matters and in requiring us to pay as interest on our debt the interest on thirteen or fourteen millions of dollars which the city owes to itself. It seems to me that that sort of formality had better be dispensed with, and the sooner the better.

Mr. Sampson—I have only one word more to say. I presume that all gentlemen know that the Sinking Funds are arranged to provide for the debt at maturity. If you wipe out the Sinking Fund, the city of Boston has either got to ask for an extension, or else submit to taxation to pay the debt at maturity. Now, if any gentleman owes a debt of $1000, due in eleven years, bearing six per cent. interest, he will in that time pay $660 in interest. If he has in the savings bank $500, that earning six per cent. compounded, will in eleven years take care of the principal when it matures, and the whole amount to be paid by him will be $1160. I take that simply as an illustration. By the plan of the gentleman from Ward 9 if he takes from the savings bank $500 and reduces his indebtedness, he will thereafter have to pay $30 interest per annum, amounting to $330 for the eleven years; he will then have to pay the remaining principal of his debt, $500, which, together with the interest paid and the amount taken from the savings bank, will amount to $1330. Had he allowed his $500 to remain in the savings bank it would have provided for the debt at maturity, and he would have actually paid out but $1160, making a difference of $170 upon the $1000.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—As I understand the substitute offered by the gentleman from Ward 9, he does not intend to wipe out the Sinking Fund; he merely proposes to change in some degree the administration of that fund. Under the law, as it now stands, our Sinking Fund is built up by direct taxation; every year a certain percentage on the outstanding debt (on a thirty-year loan, two per cent.; on a twenty-year loan, three and a half per cent.; and on a ten-year loan, eight per cent.) is paid into the Sinking Fund. It was probably intended by the framers of the law that these amounts should be invested in securities the interest on which would be sufficient to pay off the debt when it matured. But in our case, the investments are chiefly in our own bonds, evidences of our own debt, and the statute provides that such securities when purchased shall be practically cancelled—they are dead for every purpose except drawing interest—and keeping them alive for that purpose only is adding a useless and complicated piece of machinery to the financial system of the city. You go through the formality of making payments to yourselves, and keep a set of accounts in which you call these payments interest, when in fact they are partial payments of the principal. The true idea of the Sinking Fund is that every year you set apart a portion of the principal of your debt, so that when the debt comes due the means may be at hand to pay it. As you pay interest on your debt, you must either use the money you have saved to pay off part of the debt and stop interest, or you must invest it so that it will draw interest. It is evident that if the rate of interest on your debt and your investment is the same, at the end of any number of years you will stand relatively in the same position—you have paid out interest with one hand, you have received equal amounts with the other. For so much then of our Sinking Fund investments as are made in our own bonds, it is evident that there is no gain in keeping the bonds alive; now is there any disadvantage? Under our present system it frequently and usually happens that the Sinking Fund of a debt will "take care of itself," some years before the debt matures—that is, that the accumulations of the Sinking Fund, with the interest thereon, will equal the amount of the debt when it matures. But we borrow money for long terms of years, in order to distribute the cost of permanent improvements as equally as possible upon the generations who are benefited by them. The people living in Boston thirty years from now will enjoy the benefit of the water works equally with those living here now, and in entering upon these great works the intention always is to distribute the expense equally upon the persons benefited. Now, if we overfeed the Sinking Fund in the early years, we must starve it later on; if the first generation pay too much, the second pay too little. The true principle to be applied to our Sinking Fund is to pay every year such an aliquot part of the debt as will, if continued year by year, discharge the debt at maturity. If, when the money is ready, no part of the debt can be bought up and paid off, invest your money in a security paying a like interest, and providing your security remains good, you have provided for the payment of a part of your debt, and of the accruing interest to maturity. If a part of your debt can be paid off, pay it, and afterwards you will have no questions as to security.

The city of Boston must pay the money in some way, either in the form of direct taxation for the purposes of the Sinking Fund, or as interest on the bonds. The only question is whether you will make the machinery as simple as you can, so that any citizen of Boston can go to the books and find that this year such an amount is to be raised by taxation for the Sinking Fund, and so that the citizens may all understand how much they are taxed for that purpose. If the amount of taxation for the Sinking Fund is buried up in a general amount raised for interest, the citizens of Boston know nothing about the condition of the Sinking Fund, and the creditors do not know anything about it either. I maintain that this order introduced by the Finance Committee tonight looks toward simplifying this complicated machinery. It provides that unexpended balances shall not be used for the purposes of the Sinking Fund, as heretofore, but the amount necessary to keep up the Sinking Fund shall be raised by taxation. Now, if this order we are discussing passes, the only difference will be this: Instead of raising two per cent. on a thirty-year loan, it will be necessary to raise three and one-third per cent.; and then you will distribute the amount of that loan equally over every year; people who paid taxes this year will pay for a certain amount of the improvement, and pay just as fair a proportion next year, and so on each year from the commencement to the end. As I understand, it now very frequently happens that the original idea of the Sinking Fund is entirely defeated. I think that taxation on three of the Sinking Funds has ceased, although the loans will not be due for several years; and certainly the people who will pay taxes in those years will escape paying their proper proportion of that debt. Any machinery should be done away that is useless and for which no good reason can be assigned. The gentleman [Mr. Sampson] has said that the Sinking Fund stands as security for the credit of the city. The true security that the creditor has is the knowledge that the payment of his debt is going to be provided for; if he knows that so much is to be raised every year, and that so much is to be paid every year, he feels that there will be a constant demand for his bonds, and he knows that there is no chance of the bonds being bought in for the Sinking Fund at one time, and by some misfortune sent into the market again, to hurt the credit of the city. We have had an experience in the General Government which I think might be aptly referred to. A certain part of the floating debt of the General Government was retired; it was in the treasury, and no one supposed it could be issued again. It was issued again, however, and the country suffered a great deal by it. Now, when any part of the debt of the city of Boston gets into the possession of the City Government it should be destroyed; and this keeping of it alive is merely deceiving the people. I hope the order introduced by the gentleman from Ward 9 will pass.

Mr. Crocker—The chairman of the Finance Committee on the part of this branch has said that if we destroy the Sinking Fund we shall have to tax ourselves on account of the principal of our debt, and he gave an example which he proposed to me the other day, and of which I supposed I had shown him the fallacy. I must say I am surprised to see it coming up here again. He says, Suppose you owe a million dollars, payable in eleven years, and have got a Sinking Fund of half a million invested in the city's own bonds; if you keep that fund alive, the interest which the city will have to pay on that ($30,000 annually), with the accumulation, will pay the whole principal of the debt in the eleven years; but he says, if you cancel the bonds in the Sinking Fund and thereby pay off half the debt and have half of it left, then you will be worse off, because you will have to tax yourselves $500,000 to pay the balance of the principal of the debt. But the fact is that if you cancel half the debt you have got to tax yourselves only $30,000 a year for interest, and if you continue to tax yourselves $60,000 a year as before, the remaining $30,000 a year will be applicable to the payment of the remaining half a million of principal, and that $30,000 a year will be exactly as effectual as the $30,000 a year which he proposes to get from the Sinking Fund. The result will be exactly the same, either way, to a cent; and I had understood the gentleman to admit it when I talked with him yesterday.

Mr. Sampson—Does the gentleman intend to raise a new Sinking Fund? To wipe out one and raise another?

Mr. Crocker—I should pay what was left of the $60,000 each year, after paying the interest on the remainder of the debt, to purchasing and cancelling that remaining debt. For instance, there would be a surplus of $30,000 the first year with which that amount of the debt might be purchased and cancelled, and the debt thereby reduced to $470,000. This would still further reduce the amount of interest to be paid the next year, and there would be more to be applied to the payment of the debt.

Mr. Sampson—There would be more to go into the Sinking Fund.

Mr. Crocker—The result would be exactly the same to a cent either way. The gentleman himself admitted it yesterday.

Mr. Sampson—I admit it. But if you reduce your indebtedness, why raise $60,000 interest next year, when you need only $30,000?

Mr. Crocker—Because I wish to raise something to pay off the principal. I would raise $60,000 every year and apply whatever was necessary to pay the interest and the remainder I would apply to the payment of the principal that remained unpaid; and by the time the whole debt came due it would be taken care of and paid off exactly as it would have been if the Sinking Fund had been kept in existence. You would go on year by year cancelling more and more of the principal of that debt, and you would reach exactly the same point, as can be shown by the figures which I hold in my hand here; and it would save all this complication and confusion of keeping up the Sinking Fund and paying interest to yourself. For that reason, in order to simplify the matter, and because it looks in the same direction as this ordinance passed tonight, I hope this order will be passed.

Mr. Thompson—I wish to say one word more, and that is, that for the purposes of the Sinking Fund and paying off our debt, from year to year, it will be necessary to raise the same amount of money. The only question is, where will you find it in the Appropriation bill? Shall it be in the interest on the bonds, or shall you find it put down squarely for the Sinking Fund? It is simply doing away with a piece of useless machinery. You are simply doing away with a system of keeping accounts which requires one or two clerks; and if the gentlemen of the Retrenchment Committee vote in the line that they have favored here, they will vote for this order.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I begin to feel like the man who heard some one tell a story. When he began to tell it he knew nothing about it, and after hearing the story he knew twice as much. This Sinking Fund is something like the sea serpent. I think we have heard enough of it tonight, and I move the previous question.

The main question was ordered.

Mr. Crocker's substitute was rejected—16 for, 43 against.

The Council refused to give the original order a second reading—6 for, 42 against.

PENSIONS FOR THE POLICE.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18 offered an order—That the Joint Special Committee on the Retrenchment of Municipal Expenses be requested to inquire into and report on the expediency of establishing a system of pensions for the police force.

The order was passed to a second reading—47 for and 7 against—and put upon its passage.

Mr. Howes—As the gentlemen of the Council will see, the order is merely one of inquiry. The committee, or certain members of it, had this matter under consideration at one time; at least, one of the members told me he had personally considered it, and I suppose others have. At present the police force is organized on what is to my mind a very defective system. We are obliged to keep on the force a very large number of men who are practically unfit for duty from age and bodily incapacity. The reason for keeping them there is a very good one; it is because they have been so long in the employ of the city that it would be a hardship to discharge them. The city has no means of providing for these men who have passed twenty or thirty years in its service; they are kept on half duty at full pay, and as the number to be supplied is limited, the active force is curtailed. If some system of pensions could be devised, the expense could hardly be larger than it is now. We are virtually pensioning men on full pay; while if this system were adopted they could be pensioned on half pay. Certainly it could do no harm to have the committee consider it.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Has not a committee got this in charge? In his inaugural address the Mayor alluded to the fact that $60,000 had accumulated from the fees earned by the police in the courts, and that matter was referred to a committee, and I should presume that they would have the matter under consideration.

Mr. Howes—The order includes a great deal more than the $60,000. As I have it from a member of the Committee on Retrenchment, they do not intend to report any such thing unless we ask them to do something of the kind.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I move to amend by adding "and all clerks employed by the City Government whose salaries are under $1500."

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I would move to further amend by adding the word laborers. I think it is a very important branch. We have entirely neglected the laborers, and if anybody is to be pensioned, they should be.

On motion of Mr. Fagan of Ward 19 the Council adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

MARCH 12, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

JURORS DRAWN.

Six petit jurors were drawn for the March term of the United States District Court.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Sergeant of Police—Officer James E. Comee.
 Weigher of Coal—John S. Gardner.
 Public Weigher—Henry M. Haynes.
 Police Officers Without Pay—James W. Allen, City Registrar's Department; John S. Wilson, Friendly Hand Temperance Society; George B. Chadbourne, Mechanics' Exchange, Hawley street; Michael Whalen, Ottawa place; G. S. Cheney, Union street and its vicinity; Jacob Abbott, Charles street and its vicinity; Theodore F. Erb, Orpheus Musical Society; George Buxton, in and near Mariou street, East Boston; Emery M. Jones, at Lenox-street Chapel; Mallory C. Raymond, at 279 Washington street; William C. Otis, Back Bay. Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Paving. Horace P. Tobey et al., that Spring Garden street, Ward 24, be properly graded, and that edgestones be set in said street; also that water pipes be continued through said street; R. C. Metcalf et al. (teachers), that wooden pavement be substituted for the stone pavement in front of the primary schoolhouse in Wall street; Orsamus Nute, for license to sprinkle certain streets; Association for Protection of Destitute Catholic Children, for abatement of sidewalk assessment on Concord street; Clark B. Wood et al., that Charles street, between Leverett and Cambridge streets, be paved with granite blocks; N. J. Rich et al., that the court leading from 22 Myrtle street be called Ivy place; John B. Fallon et al., that sidewalks be laid in Hyde Park avenue and Mt. Hope street, Ward 23; administratrix of Thomas Clay for abatement of assessment for sidewalk to estate on Athens street; Elizabeth A. Cram, for abatement of assessment for sidewalk at 386 Bowen street; Daniel Mahoney, to be paid for grade damages on London street, East Boston; B. F. Palmer, for abatement of sidewalk assessment; Josiah and Naomi G. Pattee, for abatement of costs of constructing street sidewalks.

Petition for leave to move wooden building by John S. Blair from Dorchester avenue, corner Park street, to Park street, Ward 24.

To the Committee on Faneuil Hall. Ezra Farnsworth et al., for the use of Faneuil Hall on May 31 by the Congregational Club.

To the Joint Committee on Survey and Inspection of Buildings. John E. Woods, for leave to erect wooden building on Western avenue, near Market street, Ward 25.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: J. F. Hewes, Jr., old wooden, two horses, 140 Prince street; P. S. Briggs, new wooden, four horses, corner of Medford and Chelsea streets; Capen's heirs, new wooden, three horses, corner of Oak and Green streets; Frank Y. Barker, new wooden, 150 horses, Beacon Trotting Park; John G. Tilton, new wooden, two horses, Maple avenue; West Boston Savings Bank, old wooden, four additional horses, Montgomery street; Patrick Finley, new wooden, two cows, Wesley avenue.

To the Committee to Nominate Harbor Master. E. S. McField and other pilots, in favor of the selection of Samuel C. Martin as Harbor Master.

To the Committee on Harbor on the part of the Board. Thomas J. Dunbar, for leave to take gravel from Long Island.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Michael Shea, for compensation for personal injuries caused by a fall on E street; Lelia H. Drew, to be paid for personal injuries caused by a fall in National street.

To the Committee on Armories. Second Brigade, for appropriation for furniture for headquarters.

To the Committee on Sewers. George H. Merrill et al., against granting leave to Fabius Rose to empty his sewer into a certain brook near Warren street.

To the Committee on Police. Frans. L. Bracconier, for leave to project an apothecary's mortar at 1001 Tremont street.

To the Joint Committee on Streets. James McCormick, for leave to use a portion of the city's land at the corner of State and Congress streets, for the sale of a patent cement; William Donnelly, for leave to occupy the strip of the city's land on Congress and State streets for the sale of small wares.

To the Committee on Licenses. Henry W. Williams et al., against allowing L. J. Jordan to open a gallery of anatomy in this city; Thomas S. Drowne, for license as an auctioneer at 99 Court street; C. W. Ryan & Son, for leave to run a passenger wagon from Bowdoin square through certain streets to Rowe's wharf and return.

To the Committee on Lamps. John B. Fallon et al., that Hyde Park avenue be lighted; Fairfield Gilbert et al., for lamps on Woodward park; E. O. Blanchard et al., for lamps on Stanton and Fairfield avenues.

METROPOLITAN RAILROAD.

The Board took up special assignment for four o'clock, viz.:

Hearing on petition of Metropolitan Railroad for a location in Lenox street.

The Mayor read a remonstrance from the trustees of Washington Market against granting the Metropolitan Railroad Company a location in Lenox street, and asking a postponement on account of the sickness of one of the remonstrants.

Mr. Richards, president of the Metropolitan road, said he desired to extend every courtesy to the remonstrants, and if the Board saw fit, he would consent to a postponement.

The hearing was postponed for one week.

BALANCES OF APPROPRIATIONS AND SINKING FUNDS.

A report of the Finance Committee came down with the ordinance in relation to balances of appropriations (reported by Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment) in a new draft (City Doc. No. 31). The question was on the passage of the ordinance in concurrence.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I should like a little explanation of this ordinance. A portion of it is in accordance with the report of the Committee on Retrenchment, but I should like an explanation of sections 3 and 4 from the chairman of the Finance Committee, who has charge of it.

Alderman Clark—I will endeavor to answer any questions which the Alderman asks.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I would like to know what effect section 3 will have upon the cancellation of bonds before they mature, and what powers it gives to the Sinking Fund Commissioners in regard to the cancellation of immatured debt?

Alderman Clark—Section 3 gives the commissioners the right to cancel debt before maturity with moneys received for betterments, sales of public lands, or for the sales of lands that come into the possession of the city on account of street widenings. That, Mr. Mayor, I understand to be the purport of section 3. This subject was referred to the Finance Committee, and by them was considered very carefully and thoroughly; and this ordinance was drafted at the suggestion of the chairman of the committee on the part of the Common Council; and it was understood the report met the approbation of the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment. There was a full attendance of the Committee on Finance, and I understand that it met with the unanimous approval of the members, including his Honor, who is the chairman, and who was present at the time. It was thought that this would simplify the old Sinking Fund ordinance. It provides that the balances of appropriations shall remain in the hands of the City Treasurer, to be disposed of in such a manner as the City Council shall direct—whether it shall go into the Sinking Funds or whether it shall be used for paying immature debts, or be carried forward to reduce taxation for the coming year. That I understand to be one of the provisions of this ordinance, and the other is that the Sinking Fund Commissioners shall cancel debt with moneys received from betterments and the sale of public lands, left over after street widenings. I would state, furthermore, that I do not profess to be a financier. My only desire was that if there was to be an alteration in the ordinance it should be referred to the proper committee, and if they reported in favor of it it would receive my support. Having accomplished that purpose, and it having met with the unanimous approval of the Committee on Finance and been passed by the Common Council, and been approved by the Sinking Fund Commissioners, I believe that it should pass. My only desire was to correct the ordinance. That is all the information that I can give the Board, Mr. Mayor, at the present time.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The first section of this ordinance is exactly in accordance with the ordinance reported by the Committee on Retrenchment—that all unexpended balances of appropriations for the several departments shall go into the treasury and be devoted to such purposes as the City Council may deem expedient for the next succeeding year. Of course it will go to cut down so much of the taxes levied for the year succeeding. That is all right and correct. But section 3 is the part about which I have some doubt as to the propriety of passing. Under that section, or under what was or is substantially that section, in the amended ordinance, the Sinking Fund Commissioners have been cancelling the debt of the city of Boston to an amount something like two million four hundred thousand dollars since 1871—debt that had not matured. Now, under the statutes as they exist—and which will work great hardship to the citizens of Boston, unless they are amended somewhat—no matter what amount of money is in the Sinking Funds to the credit of each and every one of the funds, we are obliged to raise annually not only the interest of the debt, but also a sufficient amount to meet the debt at maturity; so that the debt, under the course pursued today,—which is perhaps more the fault of the statute than it is of the Sinking Fund Commissioners,—there may be sufficient in the Sinking Funds to pay the debt before maturity, so that in ten of the years which the debt has to run, the citizens of Boston may have to pay nothing. It seems to me that that is rather unjust; for if the loan be of any good at all, or of any use, the purpose of the loan must be to divide equally among all the years the amount sufficient to pay the interest on the debt and sufficient to pay the debt when it matures or becomes due. Under the present statute, of 1875, in ten years before a debt matures nothing may be raised, while we shall have to pay this eight, three or two per cent.; and if these unexpended balances go in, and they are obliged to raise eight, three and two per cent., there will be practically nothing left; and if in addition to that they are allowed to receive all the money from betterments and from other sources of that kind, which they have been receiving before, then we will be in no better position than we are in today. It seems to me that the true way, if we want to save the citizens of today from paying an unequal proportion of this debt and the interest upon it, and the amount sufficient to meet it at maturity, the proper way would be to provide that all the revenues and that all the moneys received by the city from the sales of real estate—and that will be very considerable, for there is a very large district on the Northampton-street district for which the city will have to pay some three or four hundred thousand dollars, the case having been decided some time ago by the Supreme Court, and there are some buildings upon it—if all that, instead of going into the treasury, shall go into the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners to pay off the debt, which does not mature for the next ten or fifteen years, I cannot see how under this system the city of Boston will be any better than under the old ordinance. It seems to me that the better way would be to provide that the moneys which are received from revenues of all kinds shall go into the treasury, and that the Sinking Fund Commissioners shall each year ask for an appropriation to carry on their department, just as the Superintendent of Public Buildings and the other heads of departments do—that is, an amount to meet the matured debt and a sufficient amount to pay the interest on the debt. Then the whole thing will be plain and simple, and we and every citizen of Boston can understand it, and there will be no complication about it. The commissioners can say, "We need so much for interest on the debt; so much to meet the debt at maturity; so much to be laid aside every year"; and it will be very simple and plain. Under the ordinances as they are today, the Sinking Fund Commissioners get not only that, but the revenues from betterments and licenses and other things of that kind, and they claim the right, under the ordinances—or if not under the ordinances, under some order—the right to cancel this debt, if not as the Sinking Fund Commissioners, as the trustees of the city of Boston; so that we have been paying some seven or eight hundred thousand dollars in addition to what is required by law; and if this ordinance passes we shall be paying them the same, except the license fees, which go into the city treasury. I see no reason why the moneys received from the sales of real estate should not be paid into the city treasury, and remain there to be disposed of in such manner and method as the City Government may deem expedient. All the Sinking Fund Commissioners ought reasonably to ask is, that the interest and the eight, three and two per cent. required to pay the debt at maturity shall be paid to them; and when these two things are done they should rest satisfied. This ordinance does not meet that, according to my view of it. I have studied it carefully. When it was first presented to me I did not take much notice of it; but the more I studied and looked into it, the more objectionable I saw it to be. If the chairman of the Committee on Finance has no objection, I shall ask that it be laid upon the table for another week, so that it can be considered more.

Alderman Clark—I have no objection to that course.

The report and the ordinance were laid on the table for one week.

Alderman Clark—With the permission of the Board, I should like to read a letter from one of the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds. It was charged at a former meeting of this Board that the Sinking Fund Commissioners had illegally cancelled debt before it had matured.

BOSTON, Feb. 26, 1877.

Hon. J. P. Healy, City Solicitor: Dear Sir—I desire to ask you a question in relation to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, growing out of the discussion in the Board of Aldermen last Monday. Before doing so let me say that possibly the commissioners may have been wrong in the method in which they paid unmatured debt, and possibly not, when it is understood that no part of the debt so cancelled has been paid from moneys belonging to any Sinking Fund of the city. My question is this: In what way is the law in relation to municipal indebtedness violated by the commissioners paying debt before maturity, which they were authorized to do by the City Council, under the provisions of the ordinance of 1870, the moneys used for this purpose never having been a part of any Sinking Fund, but expressly prohibited by the ordinance from being made a part of any such fund?

This ends the question, but I wish to say in explanation that these moneys used for cancelling debt before maturity are called in the ordinance of 1870 "revenue from loans," though I believe the words are changed in the edition of the ordinances just published to more clearly express the idea intended in the original ordinance.

This revenue from loans is derived from betterments, sales of surrendered estates and estates purchased in settlement of damages for street widenings. The betterments being contributed from estates benefited by the widenings, and the others being sums advanced from loans, it was deemed little better than borrowing money to aid the Sinking Fund to use them for increasing it.

Is it possible that the Legislature in the law referred to has prohibited cities and towns that have established sinking funds to pay debts at maturity from paying debt before due from any funds, except the sinking funds, which they may have that are available and have been properly appropriated for that purpose?

Yours truly,

NEWTON TALBOT,

Member Sinking Fund Commission.

And here is the reply—

2 PEMBERTON SQUARE, March 3, 1877.

Newton Talbot, Esq.: Dear Sir—As you put the case, and Alderman Clark and the Auditor both state it in the same way, the Sinking Fund Commissioners have violated no law in the payment and cancellation of city bonds before their maturity.

It is entirely competent for the City Council to provide for the payment by anticipation of any portion of the city debt, if the means of payment are not taken from the Sinking Fund, and to employ the commissioners to make such payment. I do not understand that this right is questioned by anybody. The subject was mooted in the Board of Aldermen under the supposition that the bonds taken up by anticipation were paid for from the Sinking Fund, instead of from funds pecially appropriated for that purpose, which never were a part of any Sinking Fund. The explanation of Alderman Clark in the Board of Aldermen exonerated the commissioners from the imputation of violation of law, and the discussion afterwards was upon the expediency of providing for the payment of bonds by anticipation during the present depression, as I understand.

Yours truly,

J. P. HEALY.

I merely read these letters because Mr. Talbot is sick at home and unable to get out; and, as one of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, he wished to be placed right before the public, and did not wish to appear before the public as violating any trust or law in cancelling debt that had not matured.

Alderman Fitzgerald—You will notice that the answer of the City Solicitor is upon a statement of facts given by one of the Sinking Fund Commissioners; and upon that statement of facts the City Solicitor says so and so, which is the case. Now, sir, what are the real facts in this case? I stated awhile ago that the amount cancelled by the Sinking Fund Commissioners was two millions of dollars; but it is not so. The amount cancelled by the Sinking Fund Commissioners since 1871 is $1,174,072.92—that is the amount of bonds cancelled ten or twelve years before maturity. I stated in the beginning, when we had a discussion upon this question, that those bonds were illegally cancelled, and that they had no right to do it. I have understood since that they claimed to have received certain bonds not in their capacity of Sinking Fund Commissioners, but in some other capacity as trustees of the city of Boston. Here is a letter from the City Solicitor:

CITY SOLICITOR'S OFFICE, 2 PEMBERTON SQUARE, BOSTON, March 12, 1877.

Dear Sir—In reply to your interrogatories of this date, I have the honor to say—

1. In my opinion the Sinking Fund Commissioners, in their official capacity as such commissioners, have no authority to cancel any of the bonds of the city purchased by them.

2. An order of the City Council directing the purchase and cancellation of city bonds with funds appropriated to that specific purpose is not operative, I think, beyond the municipal year in which the order is passed, except as to such application of funds which were placed in the hands of the agents for executing this order within that municipal year.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
J. P. HEALY.

Hon. F. O. Prince, Mayor, etc., etc.

Now, sir, the City Solicitor expressly states that the Sinking Fund Commissioners, in their official capacity, have no power to cancel bonds. I have just sent down to Mr. Ager for the books of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and here is the signature of Alfred T. Turner, Secretary of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners, and the Mayor, and here are the bonds cancelled:

Charles H. Dennie, Esq.: Dear Sir—Please pay the following certificates of indebtedness becoming due in March, and charge the same to the fund."

The whole amount is $363,000, and it is signed by Alfred T. Turner, secretary, and by the Mayor as chairman of the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners. It was signed by them in their official capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners. The City Solicitor expressly states that in their official capacity they have no such power. Here is the signature—"Alfred T. Turner, Secretary of the Sinking Fund Commissioners"—and signed by the Mayor as chairman of the Board. I maintained that it was illegal then, and I maintain it now. I gave the City Solicitor the direct question, to which he gave a direct answer. If they had no authority by ordinance, it must have been by virtue of some order. I have heard it around City Hall that they have received this authority by some order or other, which they interpret as making them the trustees or agents, or something else, and which gives them the power to cancel these bonds. The City Solicitor says that if there was such an order, granting such authority, it died with the City Government which passed it. I heard that such an opinion was about to be given, and I took the pains to get this opinion from the City Solicitor. But I will go further, and suppose that they had that authority; but what authority had they to appropriate the balances remaining over each year to cancel bonds of the city of Boston? By what authority did they do it? I have here the detailed statement of the bonds cancelled each year, and the revenues from which they were cancelled; and I find here the amount of the unappropriated balances remaining over each year during the past four years. There have been $1,447,168 of balances of appropriations remaining over each year, which have been given to the commissioners to cancel these bonds—not revenues from betterments, but unexpended balances; and I should like to know by what authority of law the Sinking Fund Commissioners have done that?

Alderman Clark—I have nothing further to say at this time. I simply maintain that the Sinking Fund Commissioners have done nothing but what they have been ordered to do by the City Council; that they have not paid a dollar of debt when the money used to do so was not derived from a proper source for them to pay immatured debt. For instance, a large amount of the debt cancelled was for the burnt district. It was estimated that the improvement would cost $6,500,000, and it was estimated that $1,500,000 would be returned in the way of betterments, surrendered estates. The city therefore borrowed $5,000,000, and it was intended to pay the million and a half as the betterments became due, and from the sales of land. It undoubtedly would have been better to make two loans, one for $5,000,000 on a long period of twenty years, and the balance of $1,500,000 payable in from one to five years. But that was not done, and as the commissioners have received the funds they have made payments upon the burnt district loan to quite an amount. But they have made no purchases of bonds and made no payments of immatured debt that they were not authorized to make by vote of the City Council. I admit that as simply the Sinking Fund Commissioners they have no right to make these payments; but as agents of the City Council, and being directed by the City Council they have a right to make these payments and have done so, though not in their capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners.

Alderman Fitzgerald—By what authority, ordinance or order, have they done it? Where is the ordinance, order or authority of the City Council directing them to do what the Alderman says they have no right to do in their official capacity?

Alderman Clark—I am not so familiar with the city ordinances as the Alderman, and it is a little out of my line to cite them without preparation; but I will endeavor to show at the next meeting by what authority the commissioners make these payments.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not intend to reflect upon the commissioners at all. I grant that what they have done was under the impression that they had a legal right to do it. That I want perfectly understood.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report nominating Timothy J. Dacey and Thomas L. Jenks as Trustees of the City Hospital. Accepted in concurrence, and on motion of Alderman Thompson an election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Thompson and Dunbar.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
T. J. Dacey.....	11
Thomas L. Jenks.....	9
George W. Pope.....	4

Messrs. Dacey and Jenks were declared elected. Certificate sent down.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Uriah J. Daily, to be paid for injuries to his horse and sleigh on Harvard street, Charlestown District. Accepted in concurrence.

The Auditor's estimates of the amounts necessary to be appropriated for the expenses of the next financial year (City Doc. No. 28) came up referred to Committee on Finance with such as the Board of Aldermen may join. The Board concurred, and Aldermen Fitzgerald, Thompson, Slade and Burnham were joined to said committee.

Report of Board of Fire Commissioners for month of February last. Placed on file.

Order for Committee on Common, etc., to expend $5500 for labor on Common and Public Grounds. Passed in concurrence.

Reports and orders to transfer from the Reversed Fund to Contingent Fund of Board of Aldermen $500; to appropriation for Common, etc., $6000; to Widening of Washington and Essex streets, $39,271.34; to School Expenses, $28,000; and from School Instructors to Salaries of Officers, $3500. Severally passed in concurrence—yeas 11, nays 0.

Report and orders to transfer from Dover-street Bridge appropriation to rebuild Neponset Bridge, $19,000; and to rebuild Mt. Washington-avenue Bridge pier, $8000; also for the Auditor to make such transfers from existing appropriations as may be necessary to close the business of this financial year. Severally passed in concurrence—yeas 11, nays 0.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of John G. Albee, to be paid for personal injuries received at East Boston Ferry. Accepted in concurrence.

Report and order to accept thirty per cent. of amount due from Hiram Johnson on his bond to the city for laying out Swett street. Passed in concurrence.

A request of the Committee on Streets for an additional appropriation of $5000 to complete the extension of West Chester park came up referred to the Committee on Finance. Concurred.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—18 newsboys.

Hack License Refused—John Carr, for a stand at Providence depot.

Wagon License Granted—Michael Sullivan, 118 Essex street.

Pawnbrokers Licensed—Deborah Barnett, 88 Merrimac street; M. J. Hamburger, 159 Broadway, South Boston.

Billiard Licenses Granted—Marie Lienemann, 15 Eliot street; A. L. Howe, 175 Tremont street, Evans House; John T. Moriarty, corner Washington and Concord streets, Deacon House; August Welss, 75 Shawmut avenue; Jacob Geib, corner Dudley and Hudson streets; Michael F. Dempsey, 110 C street, South Boston.

Auctioneers Licensed—Michael J. O'Brien, 159 Sixth street; F. D. Osgood, 176 Tremont street.

That leave be granted Joseph Meyer to make and sell waffles from a wagon in the public streets until July 1, 1877, subject to revocation at any time for cause.

Amusement License Granted—Post 26 G. A. R., to give dramatic entertainments at Institute Hall. Severally accepted.

Report and Order—That the license heretofore granted to Ellen Howard to keep an intelligence office at 913 Washington street, be revoked for cause. Order read twice and passed.

PERMITS FOR STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, that leave be granted on the usual conditions to occupy stables as follows: V. M. Dnnn, Main street, rear 542; Thomas Brannon, corner Smith and Washington streets; Hubbard Pierce et al., 193 Portland street, for twenty-five horses; Norman Y. Brintnall, 2 Main-street court, Ward 5, for five horses, provided said stable shall be constructed on the sides and ends of brick. Severally accepted.

SOUTH BOSTON RAILROAD.

Alderman Robinson submitted a report from the Committee on Paving on the petition of the South Boston Railroad for leave to run their cars to Causeway street, recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That permission be granted to the South Boston Railroad Company to enter upon and use with its horses and cars the tracks of the Middlesex Railroad on Washington street and Haymarket square; also the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Haverhill street, from Haymarket square to Causeway street, and on Causeway street from Haverhill street to Portland street; also the tracks of the Cambridge Railroad Company on Portland street from Causeway street to Merrimac street, and the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Merrimac street from Portland street to Washington street, and on Washington street from Haymarket square to Cornhill; provided that the number of cars to be run by the said South Boston Railroad Company over said tracks shall not exceed twelve in any one hour.

Read once.

PAVING ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Ordered, That the assessment of $13.62, laid upon B. P. Palmer for furnishing and laying sidewalk on Brighton street, be and the same is hereby abated; and that said sum be assessed upon Joseph H. Dewing.

Read once.

Schedule of cost of edgestones on Bickford street, with order for assessment and collection of the same. Order read twice and passed.

CLAIMS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Claims:

Report on petition of Deputy Collectors of Taxes for a hearing in relation to their claim for back fees—That they have given the petitioners a hearing, and are of opinion that no further action is necessary on the part of the City Council. Accepted. Sent down.

Report and Order—That there be allowed and paid to Ruth A. Davis, in compensation for personal injuries received by her on account of an alleged defect in Hanson street, the sum of $1000, upon her giving to the city a release and discharge, satisfactory to the City Solicitor, from all damages, costs and expenses incurred by her in consequence of the defective condition of said street; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Incidental Expenses. Order read twice and passed. Sent down.

SOUTH BOSTON BRANCH LIBRARY.

Alderman Burnham submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Public Library, to whom was referred, among the unfinished business of last year, the communication from the Committee on Public Buildings, enclosing a request from the trustees of the Public Library, that additional accommodations be furnished for the South Boston Branch Library—That the request should be granted, and they recommend that the request be referred to the Committee on Public Buildings, with a request that the additional accommodations be provided. Accepted and referred accordingly.

TAKEN UP AND REFERRED.

On motion of Alderman Viles, the Board took from the table the report of the Board of Street Commissioners on subject and cost of widening Commercial street (City Doc. No. 24), and referred it to the Joint Committee on Streets. Sent down.

On motion of Alderman Viles, the Board took from the table the report of the Board of Street Commissioners on present condition of the Stony Brook Improvement (City Doc. No. 25), and referred it to the Committee on Sewers.

DUTIES OF FIRST ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered the following, which on his motion was referred to the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment and sent down:

An Ordinance

to amend an ordinance in regard to the assessment of taxes.

Be it ordained, etc.

The ordinance in regard to taxes is hereby amended as follows: In section 10, in line 6 of the printed copies strike out the words "and to take a list of the polls therein."

Also strike out all of said section after the word "Assessors" in line 7.

And substitute the following words:

"It shall be the duty of each of the Second Assistant Assessors in the district to which he shall be assigned to take a list of the polls therein, and to transmit a duly certified copy thereof to the Board of Assessors on or before the first day of June in the year of his appointment; and for such services each Second Assistant Assessor shall receive the sum of ——— dollars as full compensation."

HORSE-RAILROAD TRACKS IN COLUMBUS AVENUE.

The Board took up the special assignment for 4½ o'clock, P. M., viz.,

Report (leave to withdraw) on petition of Highland Street Railway Company, for location of tracks in Columbus avenue, etc.—with

1. Alderman Fitzgerald's amendment, to substitute therefor an order granting a location to the petitioners on said avenue; and

2. Alderman Thompson's amendment to the foregoing amendment, to substitute an order granting the Metropolitan Railroad Company a location on said avenue.

The Mayor read the following:

To the Members of the Honorable Board of Aldermen:

Gentlemen—On Friday, March 9, a meeting of the citizens of Wards 19, 20 and 21 was held at Institute Hall, at which the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the interests of the residents of Wards 19, 20 and 21 demand that the order of location on Columbus avenue reported by Alderman

Fitzgerald in favor of the Highland Street Railway be granted.

Resolved, That the members of the Board of Aldermen residing in the Highlands be earnestly requested to use all honorable means to procure the passage of the order of location reported by Alderman Fitzgerald.

Resolved, That the officers of this meeting be a committee to present these resolutions to the members of the Board of Aldermen, and urge the passage of said order in a suitable address.

The population of these three wards is nearly fifty thousand, and is increasing more rapidly than in any other portion of the city. The citizens are enterprising, vigorous men of business, largely engaged in occupations which require them to visit sections of the city more or less remote from their places of residence. Every facility in the way of local public travel that can be granted them enhances their prosperity and strengthens the social bonds which lock together the interests of the whole city, and makes in our widely scattered municipality a community of interest and of society, so desirable in a great centre of trade, commerce and manufacture.

No system of local city travel has yet been devised so cheap, so convenient and so desirable as that of the street railway, nor any which disturbs so little, considering its accommodations, the other public travel.

The Highland Street Railway has, within the five years of its existence, proved itself worthy of public confidence, has met the wants of the people as they have never been met before in this or any other great city, and we believe that it has not yet reached the limit of its ability to accommodate the public, and that its management is fully capable of undertaking and of carrying out the new work proposed of connecting the Highlands with the Commonwealth and Water Power lands, and these last with the business centre of the city; and that if it is permitted to do this work it will do it efficiently and well.

The streets of the city are a trust for the benefit of all the citizens, of which you are the trustees, and it is for you to so administer this trust as to secure the greatest benefit to public travel from the use of the streets. As wise and prudent trustees, we confidently hope that you will see that there is a pressing demand for direct communication between the Highlands and the Back Bay, and thence to the business section, and that it is for the interest of the public that this should be furnished by the Highland Street Railway Company; and we therefore pray that you will individually give your voice and vote in favor of the order of location reported by Alderman Fitzgerald on Monday last, upon the petition of said company.

For the committee,

ALBERT PALMER, President.

Secretaries of the Meeting—Franklin Williams, W. Wallace Waugh, George A. Comins, John Brooks.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen of the City of Boston:

We, the undersigned, respectfully represent that we attend church regularly at Rev. James Freeman Clarke's, Rev. Dr. Miner's or other churches on Columbus avenue and its vicinity, and that we now have no car accommodations, and are obliged to walk a long distance in order to reach them, and we find it especially inconvenient and unpleasant in stormy weather.

We would therefore earnestly pray your honorable Board that the Highland Street Railway Company may be allowed to run its cars through Columbus avenue, as asked for in their petitions.

[Signed by George William Bond and many others.]

Alderman Fitzgerald presented the following:
To the Honorable the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Boston:

The undersigned respectfully petition your Honors and represent that they appear herein at the request of a large number of residents and property owners on Columbus avenue, and its immediate vicinity, and respectfully and sincerely address your Honorable Board as follows:

That, on the evening of March 8, current, in pursuance of a call of Hon. Francis D. Stedman, Alfred A. Mudge, Henry C. Hunt, Robert B. Leuchars, Freeman J. Doe, Charles S. Bartlett and twenty-six others, the citizens of the South End, who are property owners and residents on Columbus avenue and its immediate vicinity, met at Parker Memorial Hall, Berkeley street, for the purpose of considering the best means of obtaining horse-car accommodations, which, in their judgment, are so much needed in that part of the city;

That the call for said meeting was general, and the invitation requested the attendance of all who favored the location of horse-car tracks on Columbus avenue, without regard to the interest of either of the competing lines—the Highland Horse Railroad Company or the Metropolitan Horse Railroad Company;

That, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the meeting was very largely attended, and after a lengthy discussion, in which parties interested in favor of each of said lines took part, the following resolutions were almost unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We learn with regret that the majority of the Committee on Paving of the Board of Aldermen, to whom the subject was referred, have reported adversely on the petition of the Highland Horse Railroad Company for a location of its tracks on Columbus avenue; and

Whereas, We believe that the granting of said petition is earnestly desired by four-fifths of the owners and residents who represent more than three-fifths of the taxable real estate on Columbus avenue and its immediate vicinity; and

Whereas, The granting of said petition under the condition set forth in the minority report of said committee, made by Alderman Fitzgerald, would result in a saving to the city of Boston of at least $20,000 in the coming year, in the reduced expenses of repairing Columbus avenue; and

Whereas, We do not believe it is for the interest of the Metropolitan Railroad Company to locate its tracks in Columbus avenue, but that its recent action is for the sole purpose of preventing the location of the tracks of the Highland Horse Railroad Company, in order that it may continue to reap the benefit of the continued travel over the Tremont-street route; and

Whereas, It is necessary to keep up the principle and the conditions of a healthy competition between the different horse-railroad companies at the South End; and

Whereas, The accommodations offered by the Highland road are an absolute necessity; now be it

Resolved, That this meeting of the citizens of the South End, interested in this subject, do appoint a committee of fifty to be nominated by the Chair, to attend the meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Monday, when this matter is to be considered, and by all proper means and influences to urge the board to adopt the report of the minority of said committee.

Resolved, That the Committee of Fifty be instructed to prepare an address to said Board of Aldermen, which shall contain a copy of these resolutions.

And the subscribers further represent to your Honorable Board that they are the persons appointed by the chairman, as provided in the above resolutions, and that they, in behalf of their constituents, earnestly and respectfully request that your Honorable Board will adopt the minority report of the Committee on Paving, as made by Alderman Fitzgerald, for the reasons, among many, set forth in said minority report.

And your petitioners further show that the desire for horse-car accommodations on Columbus avenue has, within a short time, greatly increased; and a great number of citizens represented by your petitioners seriously and sincerely feel that your honorable Board should give to this subject that further careful consideration which the facts and necessities of the people of that locality now require.

Wherefore, your petitioners pray, in behalf of their constituents, who constitute a population of not less than thirty thousand people, to be immediately affected by the location of horse-car tracks upon Columbus avenue, that the minority report of the Committee on Paving, providing for the location of the tracks of the Highland Horse Railroad Company in Columbus avenue may be adopted by your honorable Board.

[Signed by the Committee of Fifty.]

The question was upon the adoption of the substitute offered by Alderman Thompson.

Alderman Thompson—I had the honor, sir, at the last meeting to introduce the substitute order in place of the minority report of the Committee on Paving, and consequently I am supposed to be a Metropolitan Railroad man. But, sir, I am not a Metropolitan Railroad man. Neither am I a Highland or a Middlesex Railroad man. I am simply a servant of the people, desirous of doing that which will do the most good for the largest number of the people. I was requested to present the order by a respectable citizen and a taxpayer, and I did so as a part of my duty. I realize that this is a difficult matter for this Board to decide. It is a difficult problem. It has about eight sides to it, and whichever way the Board acts, seven sides will be disappointed. The question before the Board is, first, Will the Board allow horse-railroad tracks to be laid in Columbus avenue? And it seems to me that the parties who should be consulted in regard to that project are those who own property and live upon the avenue. They are the first parties to be considered. Now, I have had a great many persons residing and owning property there come to me personally, expressing the hope that so far as the little influence that I had in the Board it would be exerted against laying any tracks there; and one gentleman went so far as to say that if the tracks were laid there he would sell his property at a sacrifice of $5000. That a great many desire to have tracks there, there is no doubt, and there are many who oppose it, and which class predominates I do not know; and consequently whether the tracks are allowed to be laid there or not, a number of people residing there will be disappointed. Then the question comes to us, Which of these railroads shall have the privilege of laying tracks there? The Highland road claim it because they first petitioned for it. Well, sir, why should not they petition first? This business has been enjoyed by the Metropolitan Railroad and the Highland road want to obtain that business, and why should they not ask for leave to lay tracks there? But, sir, when another road proposed to take their business from them, the Metropolitan road came and asked that their rights may be respected. It seems to me that that answers the question very satisfactorily to my mind. The Highland road desire to accommodate some people, perhaps, who are going to church; but my idea is that they desire it for the purpose of extending their business and improving their property. It seems to me that that is a common-sense view of it, and I believe it is a fact. I do not believe that they care whether the people of the Highlands desire to go to church on the Back Bay or not. It is because they desire to improve their property by availing themselves of this valuable route, and that is all they want it for. I do not blame them for it. If it is an honest petition, and if it is right and just that they should have it, they should have it; if not, they should not have it. Now, the Metropolitan road are located there, and it is for us to consider whether they have not an equitable right to this location, if it is to be granted to either of the companies. The Highland road is very popular, which is very creditable to its managers. Everybody concedes that their cars are very nice; their horses and equipments are very nice; and that is probably the reason why so many people in that vicinity desire to have the Highland rather than the Metropolitan. But it is a question whether it is equitable to allow the Highland road to come down Shawmut avenue and cross over on to the tracks of the Metropolitan to Columbus avenue, and after laying a track on the avenue to come down to the tracks of the Metropolitan again. Is it not asking this Board to lend a knife—speaking in plain terms—to the Highland road with which to stab the Metropolitan? In other words they want to use a portion of the Metropolitan road and take their property from them, and take away their patronage. Now, is that equitable? It seems to me that we should consider all those things. So far as I am concerned, I desire to accommodate the Highland people so far as it can be done honorably and equitably; but, sir, if it has got to be done at the sacrifice of rights which the Metropolitan road have enjoyed, I think I should hesitate before sacrificing them. It has occurred to me what effect it would have to give both these roads the right to run cars on the avenue. Then again, if we are satisfied that a large portion of the inhabitants on the avenue do not desire to have any tracks there, if we grant the location to either road we shall be doing injustice to those people. Now, no one will say that any persons residing on the avenue are suffering for want of horse-car accommodations. It is but a short walk from the Highland Railway tracks on Shawmut avenue to any portion of that section where the tracks would be placed if we grant this petition. So far as the Providence Depot is concerned, they can come down to Pleasant street, which is only a short distance from the depot, and nobody would be hurt to walk that distance. Then, again, there is another portion of our fellow citizens who have some rights, and we must consider them; and they are the people who wish to ride out in their carriages and enjoy the beauties of the Highlands. Those people invariably take the road to the Highlands, because they enjoy the drive and the scenery; and they go up Columbus avenue because it is free from horse-railroad tracks. Those people have some rights which ought to be respected here. And it occurs to me whether we should not, after all—although it may appear a little inconsistent, after offering the substitute to willingly abandon it—it will not be the wisest course for this Board to adopt the majority report of the committee at this time, with the view that hereafter some reconciliation may be made between the two corporations; whether it is time now for the Board of Aldermen to grant any location in Columbus avenue. The Alderman who offered the minority report did so for certain reasons. He believes—

“That a large number of the residents and property owners on Columbus avenue are in favor and desire the location of the Highland Railway Company's tracks through the avenue, and it is opposed principally by those residents who are able to own their private carriages, and are not dependent upon public conveyance as a means of transportation to and from their places of business.”

Well, I suppose they have the same rights as those who have not carriages, and consequently I do not think the first reason is very binding. Then he believes that a large number of the residents and property owners on the avenue are in favor of the Highland road. And, fourthly—

“The city will probably be obliged to repave the avenue during the coming year, and it will save at least $20,000 if the company lay rails and pave, as the law requires, between the tracks, at the same time, or before the city does its work.”

Well, sir, that applies to the Metropolitan as well as to the Highland, and consequently that reason amounts to nothing. While I do not at the present moment propose to indicate how I shall vote, I do not know but the majority report of the committee may be, after all, the wisest course for this Board to take.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Do I understand that the Alderman withdraws his substitute?

The Mayor—The Chair does not so understand.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I thought he did not want his substitute put at all. I thought he wanted the majority report accepted.

Alderman O'Brien—The pressure for horse-railroad locations comes up this year with an intensity and force unparalleled. Nothing in my two years' experience has been equal to it. The competition between the four corporations that now so fully meet the wants of the travelling public has already passed beyond all reasonable bounds—assumes that our streets are laid out only for horse-car accommodations, and that the common carriers and citizens generally have no rights that they are bound to respect. Each company, it appears to me, is exerting all the influence and power it possesses to obtain an advantage over competing lines, and the public accommodation is but a secondary consideration. If this spirit is encouraged and fostered by the Board of Aldermen, we might as well give up some of our most crowded thoroughfares to their use. If all their petitions are granted, some of our principal business streets will become so blocked up with horse cars as to be almost impassable for foot passengers or vehicles, and even cause delay and inconvenience to horse-car travel. The railroad companies are too much wrapped up in their own interests to see this, but the members of the Board of Aldermen must remember what Tremont street was a few years ago—a complete block of horse cars. The members of the Board of Aldermen have only to look at Tremont street as it exists today, and I would ask them if they are prepared to allow another horse-car line in that already crowded thoroughfare. For my part, I am determined that no vote of mine, while a member of this Board, will permit any more horse cars from Boylston street to Court street than now have the privilege to go there, because I believe that the best interests of the city will be promoted by putting a limit to the number of cars in that direction.

A week or two ago, the City Council had to meet and put down what was considered a dangerous encroachment on our Common. Allow new lines of horse cars to pass up Boylston street, and thence through Tremont street, and you force a more dangerous encroachment on our Common than a dozen exhibitions such as the Mechanics' Society proposed, because it will so block up that street to public travel as to make the widening of Boylston and Tremont streets only a question of time, and perhaps again revive the question of extending Columbus avenue, which is now the attractive point for horse cars, through the Common to Winter street. I repeat, horse-car competition is going beyond all reasonable limit.

I do not wish to detract in the least from the debt our citizens owe to horse-car accommodations. They have largely added to the growth and prosperity of our suburbs, and to the growth and prosperity of the entire city. The Metropolitan Railroad, the pioneer of our horse-car lines, has done good service, and has improved remarkably within a few years. Under the guidance of President Richards, I have no hesitation in saying that it is now one of the best conducted roads in the country. The Highland road is a model road, and for many of the recent improvements in horse-car travel our citizens are indebted to their enterprise and energy. I would also say that I believe their line now, through Shawmut avenue, is the most direct line from the Highlands to the heart of the city, and for the conveyance of passengers is worth more, in my judgment, than the four lines of the Metropolitan. With their almost direct line from the Highlands, the Highland road can place passengers at almost any point on their route, in the city or in the Highlands, from five to ten minutes quicker than the Metropolitan can by any of their lines. The South Boston and Middlesex lines are each doing good service, but in their anxiety to compete and outstrip each other, I repeat, they are going beyond a reasonable limit. The Middlesex road are not satisfied unless they are allowed to pass to the South End through our most crowded business streets; the South Boston Railroad must also force their way to the North End, also through our most crowded streets; the Metropolitan and the Highland cars see no other entrance into the heart of the city than through that already crowded locality, Tremont street, and I would ask, what will become of that street when you admit a new line of cars from Columbus avenue running every few minutes, entering Boylston street from Park square and passing up Tremont street? There appears to be no other terminus to horse-car travel than this crowded street, and it is encroachment on that street that this Board ought to resist, no matter from what road it comes. For this reason alone I shall vote to give the Metropolitan and the Highland roads leave to withdraw. The Highlands of the city are now better supplied with horse-car accommodations than any other section. With lines on Albany street, Harrison avenue, Washington street, Shawmut avenue and Tremont street, the citizens of the Highlands have all the benefit of horse-car travel that could be desired. Horse cars may not pass every man's door, but they are within convenient reach of every citizen. Charlestown with her 30,000 inhabitants has but one outlet, South Boston with 60,000 inhabitants has but one outlet, while from the South End and the Highlands there are five lines penetrating to the centre of business. If it is the desire of the new line to place the citizens of the Highlands near the splendid churches, the Art Museum and the schools on the Back Bay, why not propose a line through Columbus avenue, Charles street, and return by Beacon and some of the adjoining streets? I believe, Mr. Mayor, that a line of that kind would accommodate all the gentlemen and ladies who are constant and regular attendants at the churches on the Back Bay on Sundays. If it is the desire to accommodate the residents on Columbus avenue and the adjoining side streets, why not ask for a line through the avenue, Charles street, and up Beacon street to Park street and return? I believe the grade of Beacon street could be easily overcome. Why should these roads be allowed to press all their cars through Tremont street, to the great inconvenience of the public? It should be remembered, also, in this connection, that Columbus avenue is the only avenue now free from horse-car tracks, and it appears to me that the rights of the public demand that at least one avenue should remain open and free. I trust that the Board will do what has been done for some years past—give both roads leave to withdraw.

The substitute of Alderman Thompson was rejected.

The question recurred on the substitute of Alderman Fitzgerald granting the location to the Highland Railroad.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have always considered it, sir, a great misfortune to have placed in the hands of the Board of Aldermen the authority to locate tracks in the city of Boston. The fact is it became such a nuisance in the Legislature, and such a system of lobbying was pursued by the rival corporations, and the election of members of the Senate especially turned so much upon whether they were in favor of this road or were opposed to the other, that the Legislature of Massachusetts wisely concluded to shift the burden from their own shoulders and rest it on the Board of Aldermen; and, sir, I can conceive a time coming—and perhaps it is near at hand now—when the election of the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen will turn upon whether they are friends of any particular horse railroad, so that the interests of the public and everything will be sacrificed to the interest of the horse railroads. It is for that reason that I regret exceedingly that this power is put in the hands of the Board of Aldermen to decide the location and the advisability and other things of that kind in connection with horse railroads. I myself introduced that railroad bill into the Legislature. I had the honor of introducing it, and I was in favor of it for that purpose; and I find myself here one of the victims of my own bill, placed in the position of being obliged to decide between these two railroads. I say, sir, that it is an evil that I see coming up in our municipal politics. Perhaps the time may come when some member of the Board of Aldermen may say, as did a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, "I move that we now adjourn sine die, the Pennsylvania Central Railroad having no more business for us to do." The time may come when the horse railroads shall so own the city of Boston that the chief business of this Board will be to do the bidding of either one corporation or the other. But here it is. I do not quite agree with my friend on my right [Alderman O'Brien] in regard to horse railroads. They are an absolute necessity to the citizens of Boston. If any member will go back to the time, two or three years ago, when we had the epizootic, and remember the inconvenience to people in the suburbs, he will realize what an immense advantage they are to the city of Boston, and what has been their growth. If they are rivalling each other trying to do good, and extend their lines for the benefit of the public, and give the public more facilities, I say amen to them. And that corporation which best serves the public is the corporation which best deserves from the Board of Aldermen of the city of Boston the privileges which are to be granted to horse railroad corporations. A horse-railroad company has no rights in the streets of the city of Boston. The peanut vender on the corner has more rights, so far as the limit of the peanut stand is concerned, than the horse railroads have under the general horse-railroad law. If you turn the peanut vender away, and no one else comes and demands that part of the streets where his table stood, he can go back to it; but we have absolute power and authority not only to say to the horse railroads, You shall take up your tracks after being down one year; but, You shall allow the horses and cars of any other company to pass over the rails which you have built; and in every location granted to any road in the city of Boston you reserve the right on the part of the Board of Aldermen at any time they deem it expedient, or, if public necessity requires it in their judgment, to ask and demand that the tracks of the Metropolitan or the Highland shall be taken up, and the street put, at the expense of the corporation, in the exact position in which it was before it laid any track there; and further, if any corporation is granted a location in any particular place, that location is granted with the express agreement—because it is here in the statute—that not only shall the city of Boston have the right to put a track within forty feet, running in parallel lines, of the track which they grant to any other corporation that they see fit to grant it to; but they can allow any other road to run its cars and horses over the exact track which is put down by that corporation. Well, sir, I say there is no such thing as a vested right in any railroad corporation to run its cars or to lay its tracks in the streets of any city or town in the Commonwealth. It is a privilege which is granted; and that railroad corporation deserves the most privileges which serves the public best; and that and that only should be the guide of the Board of Aldermen in determining whether it is right that a corporation should receive special licenses from this Board. That corporation which best serves the public and gives the best facilities to the public, that corporation deserves the best of the Board of Aldermen. Now, sir, the Alderman to my right [Alderman O'Brien] objects principally to granting any location either to the Metropolitan or the Highland road, because Tremont street will become over-crowded with horse cars; and he instances some few years ago when that thoroughfare was choked up by the immense number of horse cars which went through it around the circuit. Well, what was the reason? Before the passage of the general railroad law the Board of Aldermen of the city of Boston had no control over the horse cars; they could run as many cars as they pleased; the Legislature alone had control of the matter, and hence two rival corporations could run a great many cars to block up the other on the circuit; and the consequence was there was a continual disagreement between them, and there were some little misunderstandings between the conductors and the drivers of one corporation and those of another; but as soon as the general railroad law was passed you saw no such inconveniences as you saw years ago. It is all simply and solely because we have it in our power to regulate the number of cars which can pass and re-pass Tremont street. So in granting this location we can say that we shall allow no more cars to run round the circuit. That seems to me to be the least objectionable of the whole affair, the weakest argument in opposition to allowing either the Metropolitan or the Highland to pass through Columbus avenue, because if we grant the location we have power in our hands to regulate the number of cars which they shall run over the track, so that the street shall not become choked up and the cars shall not fill up the streets on the circuit. The Alderman opposite [Alderman Thompson] spoke of eight sides to this question. I do not know of any eight sides here and he did not mention them. I heard him mention only one or two sides. It seems to me that there are but two sides. It is conceded by the friends of the Metropolitan as well as the Highland Railroad that the horse-car track is absolutely necessary in Columbus avenue, and that the people want it. First, then, does public necessity demand the horse-car track through Columbus avenue? If public necessity demands it, which of the two corporations should get it? These are the two points which it seems to me this Board should consider. Does public necessity and convenience, in the words of the statute, demand that the track shall be laid upon Columbus avenue? And if that track is to be laid, to which of the horse-railroad corporations will this Board of Aldermen give this location? These, it seems to me, are the two questions. Now, sir, how shall we arrive at the conclusion that public necessity demands the laying of a track upon a particular street, or along the principal line of streets? It is not from the people alone who live on the street—not from them alone. It is whether the public, and not the particular residents upon a street, demand this; because if the public necessity is greater than private inconvenience to those who reside upon any particular street in the city of Boston, through which the horse railroad passes, then the private inconvenience must give way to public necessity. The Metropolitan Railroad have petitioners here asking that their tracks shall be laid down upon that street. I will take Columbus avenue, and I will grant for a moment that this Board should decide this question simply upon the necessities of the people on that avenue. How is it? The Metropolitan Railroad come here with their petition, or if not with their petition, they come here with witnesses from Columbus avenue to the effect that the people of Columbus avenue want a horse-car route through that street, and they want the Metropolitan Railroad. There are, I believe, some one hundred and eighty five houses upon Columbus avenue. The argument urged is that the people of Columbus avenue do not want one railroad or the other on the avenue. I believe it is conceded that the people on the side streets off the avenue are almost unanimously in favor of horse-car tracks through that avenue for their convenience; that the people west of Columbus avenue are unanimously in favor of having the tracks there—some favoring the Metropolitan and some favoring the Highland Railroad. There are 185 houses on that avenue, and I have here a list of the owners of houses from No. 267 to 566, the owners of which have asked for the location of a horse railroad upon that avenue, numbering ninety-five houses and three hotels, out of the 185—more than half the number of houses on Columbus avenue which have asked for the location of the Highland Railroad upon that street. Now, sir, is it not safe to say that at least one-half or one-fourth of the remaining residents on that avenue want the Metropolitan road on that street? Is it not safe to say that—speaking for the sake of the argument of this case—a majority of the people on the avenue are in favor of allowing the track to be laid there? But, sir, I do not base my argument upon that alone. What a few people on a principal street want should not be considered by the Board of Aldermen. It is what the whole of the people all along the line that the horse car is proposed to be run ask and demand. The mass of the petitions for these horse cars come from the Highlands. They had a meeting there last Thursday evening that crammed Institute Hall, asking and demanding that the Board of Aldermen give them facilities by which they could get to the Back Bay by Columbus avenue, and the churches on the Back Bay and to the Providence depot. There were, I am informed, some twelve or fifteen hundred people in Institute Hall, and the speeches made and the enthusiasm of the audience clearly indicate that they were as determined and as zealous to get this road as they were four years ago when they called into existence the Highland road; so that it is safe to say that the people of the Highlands who come here—about four thousand have petitioned—are almost unanimously in favor of the Highland road. And how are we to get the public wants and necessities unless it be by what the people ask and demand? Half the people of Roxbury, and all the people on the line of the road in the Highlands, more than half the people on Columbus avenue—three hundred and thirty-four residents on that avenue—ask for it, and seven hundred and forty people on the west and east sides of and on the streets adjoining the avenue ask for it. Wherever I go in the Highlands, along Warren street and in that direction, I know of my own knowledge that the people are strongly in favor of it and demand it. And what else can determine the public wants and necessities and convenience except this crowding and pushing of the people? The Alderman to my right says he never saw so much determined enthusiasm—

Alderman O'Brien—Pressure.

Alderman Fitzgerald—So much pressure. Why? Because if people want things very much there will be pressure. If they care little and take no interest you will see no pressure. But if the people are dead in earnest, and determined to get anything from the City Government or the Legislature, you will have pressure brought to bear; you will find the pebuttonholing and crowding the halls of the Legislature and the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council; and that, sir, in my mind determines the public necessity. So I have no hesitation in saying that from the petitions presented, from the number of names, and from the meetings which have been held, that public necessity demands that a horse railroad track be laid in Columbus avenue. The Alderman says that all the avenues are now filled. The gentleman opposite says the people who ride in carriages have got some rights. I grant you, sir, that it is true. People who have carriages have some rights. But if you allow the track to be laid upon that street you will have twenty feet on each side of the track, and there will be space enough for carriages to pass and re-pass upon that avenue. And what more do they want? If the Aldermen do not settle this question today, it will come up tomorrow. If they refuse it tomorrow, it will come up next week or the week after, and this Board must determine the thing sooner or later; and the sooner it is determined, in my opinion, the better it will be for this Board and municipal politics. Now, sir, if the necessity is shown, the next question is, 'Which' of these two railroads should receive this privilege? I remember when the agitation which created this Highland railroad was very strong—it was before Mr. Richards became president of the Metropolitan. And let me say that I believe today, that if Mr. Richards had been president of the Metropolitan seven years ago the Highland road would not have been in existeuces today. When the arguments were made before the Legislature in opposition to granting the charter to the Highland road, the friends of the Metropolitan road said it could not live if a location were granted to another road through Warren street. It was then customary for people who lived on Warren street to march down town before they were overtaken by a car. The cars ran every quarter or half hour, or every two hours, as they pleased; and the irregularity with which they were run so dissatisfied the Highland people that they petitioned the Legislature for this charter. After much opposition it went through the Legislature. The Metropolitan cars were in a very bad condition at that time. Today you can go through Warren street and a car will pass you every three or four minutes—either a Highland or Metropolitan—and each and every car is doing a good business; and that street which the Metropolitan road said could not support cars run every half hour, now supports the cars of two corporations running about every three minutes, and they are all doing a good business, both the Highland and the Metropolitan. More than that, sir: the beginning of progress in the horse railroads of this city dates from the day the Highland road was chartered; and if today you have such excellent street cars, and facilities for summer travel—open cars and well-ventilated cars—it is due to the competition which exists between the Highland and Metropolitan roads; and if the Highland road had never been called into existence the citizens of Boston would not have had the horse-car conveniences which they have today in the style of cars, the time of running and in the conductors and drivers for the several corporations. They rival each other today, in seeing who can have the best cars, conductors and drivers; and it began with the date of the granting of the charter for the Highland road. Now, sir, my point is this: That the Metropolitan have all the main thoroughfares, with the exception of Shawmut avenue, from the heart of the city to the Highlands—Harrison avenue, Albany, Washington and Tremont streets—they have two main thoroughfares to Dorchester, and have located themselves in every street. The Highland has but one street. Its being called into existence did so much good for the citizens of Boston, while it did not injure the Metropolitan road, financially—and certainly it did not injure it so far as the character of its officers are concerned—but it gave them better management, better cars and good dividends, when they predicted that the granting of the charter would ruin the road. Now, sir, I say that if you allow the Highland road to run its cars through Northampton street, I shall ask, if it passes, that the Hammond park location shall be thrown out, and that one track be laid in Northampton street. If you grant that, no injury will be done to the Metropolitan road; its passengers will not decrease, and it will be precisely as it was on Warren street; the people in that vicinity will get better accommodations, and there will be the same rivalry between the cars on Tremont street and Columbus avenue that there is between those on Shawmut avenue and Washington street. It will do no injury to either of the corporations, and will give better facilities to the citizens going back and forth. Six years ago the Metropolitan failed to get passengers; and why? Because people had to travel so far before a car came along. They now walk up to Berkeley street and then to the Providence depot, and so they continue down town; and that class will be more than sufficient to fill the cars of the Highland road, and do no injury to the Metropolitan. I venture to say that if the Highland location is granted in Columbus avenue it will be the same as it was with the Metropolitan road in Warren street—they will run more cars and get more passengers; and it will bring more trade and passengers to both roads. They will take up the class of people who get tired waiting, and who, having walked a certain distance, now get into no cars at all. I go further, sir, than looking at the mere question of what will be best to promote the interest of the citizens of Boston, and say that it will be for the interest of both corporations to grant this location to the Highland road. I think there are two sides to this question, not eight. First—The people of the Highlands and the avenue want cars, as is shown by the petitions and the meetings at Paine and Institute halls. Second—That the Board should grant the location to the corporation which best serves the public. The people of Boston are under an obligation to the Highland road, in a certain sense. I grant you that all these corporations, as they say, have no souls; that they put capital into horse railroads for the purpose of making money. Nobody goes into business for the public good alone. If that were the case we would have very few philanthropists in this world. Nobody expects that Mr. Merrill or Mr. Richards will run railroads solely to please the public. They please the public because the public will patronize their roads, and if they increase their facilities it is simply and solely because it is to make a stronger temptation for the people to ride in their cars. I do not suppose it is all patriotism that induces the presidents of the horse-railroads to come up here and ask for a location on the avenue; but because they will give a quid pro quo to the public for their patronage. The Highland road had all the modern improvements, and compelled other horse railroads to go and do likewise. It was a matter of competition. In the interest of competition, because the people of the Highlands and a majority of those on the avenue want it, I say this location should be granted to the Highland. I know it is the easiest thing in the world, when two friends ask for a thing, to say to each of them you shall not have it; but it is not the way to settle this question. You may put it off today, and it will come up tomorrow; the same question will come up again, and it may enter into municipal politics. That is the great danger and evil that I see in these horse-railroad matters, if this quarrel continues as it has begun. It will be better for the interests of the citizens and the municipality that this location should be given to one or the other of these roads; and that is why I am in favor of deciding it one way or the other, instead of giving leave to withdraw—which is apparently the quietest way, but not the easiest way, to settle the question.

Alderman O'Brien—When the Alderman from the Highlands remarks that this location should be given to the corporation which serves the public best, it appears to me that he unintentionally makes a strong argument in favor of the Metropolitan road. With the six thousand people that they bring from the Highlands, I should like to know if they are not accommodated? Then we find that the Metropolitan cars penetrating the Highlands through Washington street and up old Shawmut avenue to Forest Hills, and accommodating those people at long distances. We find the Metropolitan road accommodating the people of Dorchester and Warren street. I know that my friend is a resident on Warren street, but he has not been a resident there long enough to see it in the light that those do who have been there longer. I do not care about your meetings of fifteen hundred people, nor about your long petitions. The Metropolitan road accommodates the people of the Highlands today, because there is no part of the Highlands that it does not penetrate. A petition was presented here today by George William Bond, one of the most respectable citizens, asking for this location for the Highland road. Do gentlemen of the Board know where George William Bond resides? He does not reside within three miles of the Highland road, and it does not seem possible that he, residing at Forest Hills, upon the line of the Metropolitan road, would sign a petition in order to go to church upon the Back Bay, when he would have to go two or three miles to take a Highland car. I say the Board should guard against these encroachments upon the streets. If the Highland road should ask for a location through Columbus avenue, to stop at Park square, I should be glad to grant such a location. If they would come down through Charles street and return, I would have no hesitation in voting for that. If they would come down Charles street and up Beacon street, and stop in front of the State House, and return by way of the schools, churches and Art Museum on the Back Bay, and accommodate all who want to go there, I would have no hesitation in granting that. But when they come and ask us to give them a new location through our already overcrowded thoroughfares, through Boylston and Tremont streets, I say this Board of Aldermen ought to put its foot down and put a stop to such encroachments. There is an abundance of streets by which those horse railroads can come into the heart of the city without penetrating that already overcrowded street.

Alderman Fitzgerald—If an amendment were put in to the effect that the Highland road should run no more cars around the circuit than they do now, would the Alderman object to it?

Alderman O'Brien—The Metropolitan road came here and expressly stated that they would run no more cars into Tremont street than they now run, if they were given the location; but I fear to trust them with any privilege of that kind. They will force their cars through that street. And if the Highland road came here and said that they would run no more cars through Tremont street than they do now, I would be afraid to trust them with it. I should like to have them run all the cars into Tremont street that they now run, and not one more. I believe it would be satisfactory to the people on Columbus avenue, and the Back Bay, and the Highlands, if a few of those splendid palace cars were run down in that direction.

Alderman Slade—I have no doubt that every man at this Board has made up his mind how he is going to vote. At the same time, I want to take the opportunity to say a few words. I do not see quite as many sides to this question as my friend on the left [Alderman Thompson], but there is certainly more than one side; and we certainly have all got a great many personal friends who have been kind enough to give us their opinions for and against tracks in Columbus avenue. I am not an opponent of horse railroads at all, so far as they are necessary; but I do not believe the public today require a horse-railroad track in Columbus avenue half as much as I believe that the public requires that there should not be. If I should put a petition into the stables of the city of Boston against putting horse-railroad tracks in Columbus avenue, I could get two men against it where I could get one for it. I know something about it; for I know that during all these years that that street has been open it has been a grand thoroughfare for people who drive. I have myself been fortunate enough to have a team most of the time, and the first move that I make from the North or West End, in going south out on Beacon street, is to get out on Columbus avenue, because it is a splendid street to drive on. I believe the people who patronize and own horse railroads do not take the people who drive in carriages into account at all. There are some of that kind and I am going to speak for them. You go out any time of the day upon Columbus avenue and count the carriages that come and go there and upon Tremont street, and the avenue will beat you ten to one. And I know it. We have a little piece of railroad down in Lowell street, which it was necessary to put there. Before that all the travel to Cambridge went out through Lowell street. Now, sir, there are not as many teams in Lowell street, by a hundred to one, as there were, and it is for no other reason than that people will drive away from a street where there are horse-car tracks. You have got to go along twisting your wheels, and you have got to go with one wheel in a ditch and with the wheels constantly wrenched by the tracks. I believe that we ought to give horse railroads and those who patronize them all the conveniences in our streets that are necessary. Take it out on the north and west sides of the city; there is no possible chance to get out without encountering horse-car tracks, and everybody who drives knows that the horse-car tracks spoil a street for driving. We have a chance to get out on the Milldam over Beacon street, and I would not vote for the Alderman's proposition to put a track in Beacon street, nor will I vote to put one in Columbus avenue until some other street is provided on which we can get out of the city without encountering horse-car tracks. I have no doubt that wherever there is a demand for horse-car tracks they will get them; but do leave one place where a man can drive with his team. One gentleman said that you could find butcher's teams and beer wagons on Columbus avenue, and it is so; but there are none on Tremont street. It is on account of the tracks. It is not pleasant to ride in a street where there are tracks. I would rather go six miles in a street where there are no tracks than to ride three miles in a street where there are tracks. All the hacks and funeral processions go out on Columbus avenue, because there are no tracks. I do not believe that half of the owners of real estate on Columbus avenue would vote to have tracks there tomorrow. We all know that there have been letters in the papers from "Aaron" and "Moses," and I don't know how many others. And I saw a petition from about a hundred owners of property on the avenue opposed to the tracks. I am opposed to putting a track there because it is going to be a great public inconvenience, and because there is a large class in the community that demand that we should not do it. Leave it for awhile at least for those who drive. It is a handsome street and a good driving street; and if I am not mistaken, the greater part of the property there is under restrictions that there should be no stores there. I hope we shall let this street alone. The presidents of both these roads are personal friends of mine and have been for several years, and I respect them both. They want me to vote one way or the other, but I can vote for neither. My friend opposite has laid a great deal of stress upon the fact that the horse railroads are going to run the Municipal Government. I do not believe it. I have more confidence in the people than to believe that they are going to let horse railroads influence their votes for members of the City Government. I have been over this matter pretty thoroughly, and have walked over every street there, and I am not a fast walker, either. You cannot possibly be more than four minutes on the avenue from any horse cars. The location is not necessary; they do not need it. They expect that every man is going to have a horse car at his own door, and that of course they cannot have. I hope we shall give both roads leave to withdraw.

Alderman Robinson—I did not propose to make any remarks upon this question, and I do not intend to make many now. You have the question of these two horse railroads before you, and I have listened to the arguments on both sides very patiently and attentively. Every point has been presented that can probably be presented, and had it not been for the remarks of my friend on the committee, who differs with me, I should have said nothing; for I believe that every member of this Board has made up his mind. I agree with my friend Fitzgerald in everything he has said in regard to the management of the Highland road. Its officers are gentlemen, its cars and its horses are good, its conductors are kind, and the road is fortunate in all its officers. But the same remark will apply to the management of the Metropolitan road, and I believe that, so far as I have travelled, I have seen no roads that compare with either of the roads run in the city of Boston. Now, as regards the conveniences of the people on Warren street. It is the street that I always come in on, when I come in on the horse cars, but I do not travel it much, as I nearly always come by steam cars. There are two cars which start from Codman Hill Church, and when you get to Grove Hall there are four more, which makes a car about in every ten minutes. That is a sufficient supply for the people of that road. As you go down you find another stable, with double as many horses, and the cars from there accommodate everybody down as far as Dudley street, and then the different cars, some from the Highland road and the Norfolk House; and there is no difficulty whatever for persons in getting into Boston to do business, or for ladies to get into the city to do shopping. My friend agrees with me that people who drive in teams have some rights in the streets, and consequently we came to the conclusion that the interests of the city required that we should give both parties leave to withdraw. Alderman Fitzgerald took a different view of it and submitted a minority report. Now it is said that we shall be consigned to political oblivion, and that these seats which have seen us but a short time will see us no more. That is the fate assigned to those who vote to give these petitioners leave to withdraw. I do not believe it, and I am happy to state that there was no officer of either road that used such language. It was probably some outside parties who were influenced by the enthusiasm for the people of the Highlands. Notwithstanding the eloquent remarks of my friend Fitzgerald I have come to the conclusion not to change my mind.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have a remonstrance in my hand signed by D. Saunders, Charles W. Slack and others. The name of L. W. Porter is here and he may have signed it, but I understand he has been dead about a year and a half. That is what might be called a voice from the tombs. It would seem that this remonstrance was signed some time within a few years.

Alderman Slade—I think it is his son's name; I know the father is dead.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I understand that the father is dead.

Alderman Wilder—Mr. Porter, senior, is dead, but the son conducts his business on the same premises, and no doubt signed the remonstrance.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not know which signed the petition, but I understand it was signed some time ago by L. W. Porter, when alive, and that the remonstrance was all signed a few years ago.

Moody Merrill [to Alderman Fitzgerald]—His son's name is Fred.

Alderman Fitzgerald—His son's name is Fred., and this name is L. W. So I must be correct, and that it is the dead man who signed it. Members must know that the feeling in favor of horse-car tracks on the avenue is increasing and has increased a great deal within the past few years. It has changed from direct, almost unanimous opposition on the part of the residents of that locality, to a majority being in favor of them, and the Board of Aldermen must settle it sooner or later. I think this is the best time. If it is defeated it will not go down at your bidding; it may not be up in one, two or three weeks, but it will come up again.

Alderman Robinson—I am informed that that remonstrance has been signed since the last meeting of the Board.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Then it is a forgery; for L. W. Porter is dead. That is all I have got to say about it.

Alderman Clark—When this subject first came before the Board I supposed that I should vote leave to withdraw to both parties; but it seems to me that the public are desirous of having a horse railroad in Columbus avenue—at least, if petitions mean anything, we certainly have evidence that the majority of the people residing upon that avenue and the adjoining streets running west think that it is important that a horse-railroad company be allowed to place their tracks in Columbus avenue. Now, if a majority of the people residing on the avenue desire it, and if it is going to accommodate the people who own property and live there, I feel it to be my duty to vote to allow the tracks of some road to be laid there. It will be an inconvenience to me personally, because for the last five years I have made it a practice during the summer months to drive twice a day over that avenue to get from and to Dorchester, where I reside during the summer months; and I do so to avoid the pavements and the horse-car tracks on Dorchester avenue, and because it is the most comfortable way to get out of town. But, Mr. Mayor, I believe in horse railroads. I believe the Metropolitan Railroad has done and is still doing a good work for the city of Boston; and I believe the Highland Railroad has done and is still doing a good work for the city of Boston. I do not care how rapidly the inhabitants of the suburbs increase, and I do not care how rapidly the need of horse-car accommodations increases, not even if it requires the widening of Boylston street. I have hoped that it would be done; for with Columbus avenue and Huntington avenue and Boylston street emptying their constantly increasing travel into that little thirty-five foot street, it is utterly impossible to delay for a great number of years the widening of Boylston street, whether it be taken from the Common, or by moving back the houses and the Public Library on the other side, as we did the Hotel Pelham, though it may be that the citizens desire to curtail the growth of the city of Boston and ask the Legislature to take charge of its affairs. Columbus avenue is a fine street, but a great many people residing there have asked that we allow the construction of a horse-railroad track in that street, and if I lived there I should be among the petitioners, as much as I love to see and enjoy the driving. I should ask that a horse railroad might be allowed to run through that avenue, because it would accommodate me and my family. Now, the residents on all the streets running west—all the short streets, Yarmouth and Dartmouth and other streets—have asked for and want the same horse-railroad facilities that the residents on other streets have. What has built up Marlborough street? You know it is the horse railroad; and a magnificent line it is, and run by the Metropolitan road. I pretend to say that, notwithstanding the Highland road gives good accommodations, there is no line of horse cars superior to the Beacon-street line. In my opinion the Metropolitan road have furnished splendid facilities for the people on their routes. They run many lines that do not pay the expense of running them, that does not pay for the wear and tear of the material used. There are not eight sides to this question, Mr. Mayor; there are four sides. There are those on the avenue who want a railroad; there are those who do not want one; there is the Highland road that wants the location, and there is the Metropolitan road that wants it. Now, the evidence before this Board is, that a majority of those on the avenue want a railroad; and the evidence is, that the residents of the Highlands want such accommodations as will enable them to get down to the Back Bay, because that is bound to be the most beautiful part of the city. That is undoubtedly the case; for there are located the Institute of Technology, the Natural History Rooms, which are open twice a week to the public free, and the Museum of Fine Arts, which is open to the public every Saturday and Sunday; and then there is the most magnificent church in this or any other city in the United States—and which I am happy to say is filled and running over three times every Sunday, partly by people from the Highlands and along the proposed line of the railroad—so that it would be an accommodation, not only to the people living on the avenue and on the side streets, but to those living in various sections of the Highland District. Now, Mr. Mayor, in regard to the rights of people driving over this avenue, I have said that personally it would be objectionable to me, because I drive there myself; but in a very short time West Chester park extended will be in travelling order to Beacon street, and those who desire to do so can drive up Beacon street to West Chester park, and cross West Chester park to the Highlands. It is a little longer ride; but if the Alderman has a good horse—as I believe he has—he can drive that way. So the necessity for keeping Columbus avenue open for pleasure travel is done away with. Now, it has been said here, Mr. Mayor, that the Metropolitan line of railroad has been wonderfully improved since the establishment of the Highland road. That possibly may be one reason. It certainly has improved wonderfully under its present management. The Highland railway has always been well managed, and I believe the two lines are superior to any other lines in the United States. If competition is necessary to keep these two lines up to the wants of the public, then why not allow both roads to go over Columbus avenue and keep up this competition? The people in the Highlands can then be accommodated by having an opportunity to go to the Providence Depot, and if they push the matter and compel the Highland cars to go through Charles street to the northern depots, it will give them an opportunity to attend the churches and visit the various institutions on the Back Bay; and it will also allow those who prefer to patronize the Highland road to do so at their pleasure. It will also give the Metropolitan road the right to run from Lenox street over the tracks of the Highland road on the avenue down town, and thereby allow those who prefer the Metropolitan road to patronize that line at their pleasure. It will also insure the residents on the avenue and the side streets the certainty of being accommodated; because, as I understand it, the Metropolitan road propose to run their Lenox-street cars, and they would, of course, come on to the avenue empty, and there would be plenty of room for anybody who wished to ride. The meetings which have been held are no doubt indicative of the sentiment of the people. But it does not require the subject of horse railroads to fill Institute Hall. You advertise a public meeting in Institute Hall that is to be addressed by General John L. Swift, and many other gentleman in that neighborhood, and it is an easy matter to fill the hall two or three times a week. And so it is with Paine Memorial Hall. Advertise a meeting to be addressed by Mr. Brown, Mr. Swift or Mr. Simmons, and they will always attract large audiences, especially in a neighborhood where the Boston Museum, the Boston and the Globe theatres are not so easy of access as they are about here. But the fulness of those meetings undoubtedly indicates the feeling in those neighborhoods. I believe, Mr. Mayor, that horse railroads are a public convenience and a necessity, and so long as I have the honor of a seat at this Board I shall always vote to give them such facilities as it is necessary for them to have to accommodate the public. Now, those being my feelings, I propose to offer a substitute for this order, which will allow the citizens of Columbus avenue all the accommodations they ask for, and more too; and it will give both the Highland and Metropolitan roads all that they ask for. With your permission, sir, I will read the order, which I move as a substitute for the one before the Board:

Ordered, That the whole subject be recommitted to the Committee on Paving, with instructions to report an order granting permission to the Highland Street Railway Company to lay down a double track on Hammond street, Northampton street and Columbus avenue, and to run cars over the Metropolitan Railroad tracks on Columbus avenue, Park square and Boylston street; also, to report an order to allow the Metropolitan Railroad Company to run a certain number of cars over the above-located tracks of the Highland Street Railway, on the terms and conditions prescribed by law.

Alderman Fitzgerald said he had no objection to the substitute.

Alderman Robinson asked if the whole subject would still be open to amendment if a report were made in accordance with the order.

The Mayor said it would.

Alderman Viles asked if the order would be valid unless both parties agreed to it.

The Mayor said that the report would come up for acceptance, and it would be debatable.

Alderman Thompson said the order merely re-committed the whole subject, and it would come up again.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays on his substitute, and it was passed—yeas 10, nays 2—Aldermen Robinson and Wilder voting nay.

Subsequently, on motion of Alderman Thompson, after a brief discussion as to the effect of such action, the Board voted to reconsider the vote by which the substitute giving the location to the Metropolitan road was rejected, Alderman Thompson desiring to have all the matters stand in the same position.

PROTECTION OF BURIAL GROUNDS.

Alderman Clark offered an order that the Committee on Legislative Matters be requested to examine and report if any further legal safeguards are necessary to protect the several burial grounds in this city from being devoted to other uses, temporary or otherwise.

Alderman Clark—My object in introducing that order is to see if any further legislation is necessary to get the Legislature to pass a law that will prohibit the desecration of any of the graveyards within the limits of the city of Boston. It is well known that a bill has just been reported to protect all commons in this Commonwealth against desecration by the erection of public buildings of any kind. It brought to my mind the fact that in 1875 a petition was introduced into the Common Council by W. H. Whitmore for the opening of a street through the burying-ground connected with King's Chapel, and I presume there is no legal objection to doing such a thing, inasmuch as the petition is headed by Robert D. Smith, and also signed by E. S. Rand, Robert M. Thompson, and various others. It is well known that a persistent effort was made to put a street through the burying ground connected with King's Chapel, and I am entirely opposed to any streets through burying grounds. It is also well known that a proposition was made to take the Granary Burying Ground and make it a terminus for the horse railroads of the city. Lest that project should ever come up again, I thought it best to introduce this order, that the committee might examine into it and decide whether it is best to go to the Legislature and get an act to protect graveyards.

Alderman Robinson—Are those the gentlemen who had such a holy horror of putting a building on the Common?

Alderman Clark—It was signed by W. H. Whitmore and R. D. Smith. It may be that some legislation is necessary to protect the Granary Burial Ground and I have introduced this order.

Alderman O'Brien—Would the gentleman favor taking a part of the burial ground on the Common to widen Boylston street?

Alderman Clark—I will answer that question when it comes up, if I am a member of the Board. I am in favor of all facilities necessary to accommodate the growing population of Boston.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I think the order is offered as a sarcasm on the course pursued by certain gentlemen in the Legislature. While I thoroughly agree that the Legislature should not interfere with the city, I do not want to go on record in favor of an order like this.

Alderman Clark—The petition for a street through the Stoue Chapel Burying Ground was considered by the Joint Committee on Streets and was strenuously urged, and it was afterwards proposed to take the Granary Burying Ground as a horse-railroad terminus.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It is simply asking for protection against ourselves. I shall oppose the order.

Alderman Clark—Does the Alderman oppose the bill now before the Legislature in regard to the Common?

Alderman Fitzgerald—I should; but I should favor allowing the people to vote upon it. I don't believe a citizen of Berkshire is as competent to judge of the Common as a citizen of Boston.

Alderman Clark—I agree with you.

Alderman O'Brien—I shall vote for the order because I believe in it. You all know what pressure has been brought to bear in regard to our streets and Common, and I should like to see a law preventing the Common from being encroached upon, although I think legislative interference is uncalled-for in many respects.

Alderman Robinson could see no objection to the order, and Alderman Clark said it was merely to inquire and report.

The order was passed. Sent down.

EQUALIZING TAXATION FOR SINKING FUNDS.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order—That the Committee on Legislative Matters be requested to ask the Legislature for an amendment to the statute in relation to the Sinking Funds, so that the amount necessary to be raised by taxation to meet loans at maturity shall be more equitably distributed during the years which said loans have to run.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am of opinion that the act needs changing. Under the law the amount necessary to be raised by taxation will pay the debt ten or fifteen years before maturity. The amount should be more evenly distributed over the time, and this is to allow the commissioners to cease taxation when sufficient has been raised to pay the debt with its accumulations. It is merely to give discretionary power to the commissioners.

Alderman Clark—I desire to see what effect this will have upon the credit of the city. There are several funds which now take care of themselves without further taxation. I do not want to vote against simplifying the funds, but I should like to look into the matter.

Alderman Fitzgerald consented, and the order went over.

THE LIST OF JURORS.

The revised list of jurors was received from the Registrars of Voters, with the accompanying communication:

The accompanying list of jurors qualified to serve in the several courts of the County of Suffolk, having been compiled by the Board of Registrars of Voters in accordance with the provisions of chapter 207 of the Acts of 1876, and having been posted for more than ten days in the Court House and City Hall, is herewith transmitted to the Board of Aldermen for their revision and acceptance.

Respectfully,

SAMUEL R. SPINNEY, Chairman.

Alderman O'Brien—Can we change or add to this list?

The Mayor—It would seem that the Board can, from the phraseology of the act.

Alderman Clark moved the report be accepted.

Alderman O'Brien—I hope the Aldermen will look into this carefully because it is a new feature. Without action on the part of the City Council the Committee on Legislative Matters last year got an act passed taking this from the Board and placing it in the hands of the Registrars, composed of one gentleman from Charlestown, one from the West End, and another from South Boston. Formerly the City Clerk put a list into the hands of the Aldermen, who, with the members of the Council, selected the names to be put on. I believe this change was made to keep the names of a certain class off the list.

Alderman Clark—I must say that in looking over the list from Wards 9 and 11 there appears to be good names on it. I cannot see any difference between giving the list of jurors to the Registrars and putting the Common in care of the Legislature.

Alderman O'Brien—This law was passed without authority or consent of the City Council. I would ask the members of the Committee on Legislative Matters if they were consulted.

Alderman Thompson—It was done without the knowledge or consent of the City Council.

On motion of Alderman O'Brien, the matter was laid on the table.

SALARIES OF COURT OFFICERS.

Alderman Burnham offered an order—That the Committee on County Accounts be requested to consider and report upon the expediency of establishing the salaries of the constables in attendance at the Municipal courts in this city, at rates based upon the amount of business transacted in each court, with a view of equalizing such salaries. Passed.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Thompson.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

MARCH 15, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Reference to Committee on Streets of a report of the Board of Street Commissioners on subject of widening Commercial street. (City Doc. No. 24.) Concurred.

Report and reference to Committee on Public Buildings of subject of additional accommodations for South Boston Branch Library. Concurred.

Report no further action necessary on petition of Deputy Collectors for a hearing on claim for additional compensation. Accepted in concurrence.

Election of Timothy J. Dacey and Thomas L. Jencks, Trustees of City Hospital. Placed on file and an election ordered. Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Smardon of Ward 10 and Reed of Ward 17.

Whole number of ballots.....	51
Necessary for a choice.....	26
Thos. L. Jencks.....	14
Timothy J. Dacey.....	37
George W. Pope.....	40

Mr. Dacey was declared elected in concurrence and Mr. Pope in non-concurrence. Sent up.

Order to report if further legal safeguards are necessary to protect burial grounds from being used for other purposes. Indefinitely postponed, on motion of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19.

Report and order to pay Ruth A. Davis $1000 for personal injuries received in Hanson street. Order read twice and passed in concurrence.

SECOND ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

An ordinance to amend an ordinance in relation to the Assessors' Department came down referred to the Committee on Retrenchment.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—The idea of the ordinance, as I understand it, is to do away with the services of the First Assistant Assessors with regard to assessing property; their whole duty will be to make the list of poll-tax payers. It is an ordinance to circumvent our determination not to abolish the office of Second Assistant Assessors. I think the Second Assistant Assessors should be, as they have been heretofore, required to go around with the First Assistants and value property. I think it is very important that we should have two men to go together to value property, and I move that the matter be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I hardly like to act too hastily upon this matter. I hope we shall investigate this a little and see what it is. If any one can explain it thoroughly, I should hardly want to indefinitely postpone it. I would rather wait a little while and look into it. I went into the Assessors' Department this afternoon. I did not see Mr. Hills, but I saw one of the Assessors; and it is a matter that they hardly have any knowledge of. I move that it be laid upon the table.

The motion to lay upon the table was declared carried.

Mr. Pearl of Ward 1 doubted the vote.

The Council divided—36 for, 12 against—and the order was laid upon the table.

PENSIONS FOR THE POLICE.

The order for the Committee on Retrenchment to consider and report on a system of pensions for the police was considered under unfinished business, the question being on the amendment of Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 to include all clerks drawing salaries under $1500 a year.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I don't see that that amendment is at all relevant to the subject matter. The order is meant to provide a system of pensions for the police force, and that is the motion which I wish to have referred to the Committee on Retrenchment for the purpose of letting them consider it. But when it goes outside of the police force or the permanently employed in the Fire Department, I think we have gone as far as we should go. We all know that after a man has served as a policeman for twenty or thirty years he is unfit for any other duty, except that of private watchman, and the number of private watchmen being very small, old policemen are unable to get places. The same is true of permanently-employed firemen. They are compelled, under the present arrangement, to confine themselves so closely to their public duties as to be incapable, after twenty-five years, of being fit for any other line of duty. For that reason I should confine it to those classes. At present the firemen are young men and do not need pensions, while many of the policemen are old men who have been in the service many years, and although unfit for regular duty, continue to draw full pay. With regard to laborers and clerks, there are thousands of people outside of City Hall who employ them, and if they lose a position here they are not incapacitated from finding a similar one in the mercantile world. A man can be a bookkeeper until he is eighty years old if his sight holds; but a man cannot be a good policeman after he is fifty-five years old.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—As a member of the Committee on Retrenchment, I object to referring this matter to that committee. That committee was appointed to see where we could save something, and if this thing involves anything it involves an expenditure. Although a member of the committee, I don't believe that we should monopolize the whole committee business of the City Government; and why should it be called upon to perform this duty. After spending two or three hours a day for five or six weeks, on their report, members refuse to discuss their report more than an hour, when the Council has been two or three hours discussing the badge question. Why they wish to saddle any other duties upon us, which are entirely foreign to our duties, I do not know, and I shall oppose it. If it is referred to any committee I think we should not have it in charge.

Mr. Howes—The only reason why I referred it to the joint special committee rather than to the Committee on Police of the Board of Aldermen is that I thought it involved a certain amount of expense and the subject should be considered by the joint committee rather than one from the other branch alone. I chose this committee because I supposed in so doing I paid a compliment to its members. I am very sorry that the gentleman takes it in any other light. I am not particular about which committee it is referred to, but the Committee on Retrenchment should also see that economy consists in great efficiency in the public service, and I think it will conduce to greater efficiency if this measure is carried out.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—In behalf of the committee I return thanks for the compliment, and perhaps the best way I could return the compliment would be to move that the order be referred to the Committee on Common and Squares.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I don't know what the Committee on Badges or badges have to do with the reference of this order to the Committee on Retrenchment. I know that the gentleman [Mr. Webster] was very anxious to go upon record against badges, but he was one of the first to take one. When this order was introduced I thought it was offered as a sarcasm upon the Committee on Retrenchment; but since then I have understood that it is offered in good faith, and I don't propose to press my amendment to include laborers. Now there is a fund of $60,000 accumulated by witness fees earned by the police, and I don't think anybody ought to have any benefit of it except the police. If the city wants to arrange in that way so that the police can be pensioned, I hope that the order will pass.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Was not a committee appointed in regard to this matter? In his inaugural address the Mayor alludes to this very fact, and if I understand it rightly there was a committee appointed to take charge of this matter.

Mr. Howes—That portion of the Mayor's address was referred to the Committee on Police of the Board of Aldermen. I said before that I thought that it was preferable to have the joint committee to act on this matter, rather than one composed only of members of the other branch.

Mr. Spenceley—I am very glad to receive the desired information. I hope the amendment will not prevail, but that this measure will be considered, because I think it is a very important subject. Of course there are two sides to all questions, and the committee might take this matter under consideration and bring in a report, if they thought best, and we should have some light upon this subject. Therefore, while the other evening I was desirous of putting in the permanent firemen, because I think they deserve something as well as policemen or anybody else—I am very glad my friend from Ward 18 spoke about them; I always thought he was right at heart, and he showed himself right about it—but I do not put the amendment in. I hope this amendment will not prevail, but that this matter will be sent to the joint special committee with instructions to look into it thoroughly and investigate it; and if there are $60,000 which the police have earned, I say it is no more than right that they should have the benefit of it. As this fund increases it may be an incentive to get men to go on in the good work in which they are engaged, for they know that when they get old they will have something; and perhaps it will be an incentive to make them more careful. I think it would be better to refer it to the joint special committee, and I make that amendment.

Mr. Barry of Ward 23—I hope that motion will not prevail, and I should like to have it understood that I do not make any attack upon the Police Department. I believe the pensioning system is contrary to the principles of this country. Two amendments are proposed to be tacked on to this order, and there are two or three others have been suggested. If the pensioning system is adopted I know it will be constantly on the increase, and ten years from now there will be many of the police force drawing pay who are performing no duty. I don't believe any man in the city of Boston who retires from its service after twenty or thirty years as a police man who has not had forecast enough to take care of his old age; that that is no fault of the city of Boston. In order to test the sense of the Council I move that the order be indefinitely postponed.

The motion was declared lost.

Mr. Barry doubted the vote and called for the yeas and nays.

Mr. McGaragle raised the point of order that the motion to indefinitely postpone was not in order while amendments were pending.

The President—The point is well taken.

The amendment of Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 to include firemen was rejected and the question recurred on the amendment of Mr. Clarke to include all clerks drawing salaries under $1500.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—My object in proposing that amendment was this: This is merely a matter of referring it to the committee to investigate and report upon this whole subject. It is not for this Council to decide upon now, and it don't seem to me out of the way for this committee to entertain the matter of pensioning clerks employed in the City Government after a long series of years, and I don't see why their claims should not be considered as well as those of others. It is well known that clerks have served under the City Government for a number of years. I can cite the cases of clerks who served twenty-seven years (in one case thirty-eight years); and why should not these men in their old age be considered by the committee as well as firemen or policemen; therefore I made that amendment. I see by the Retrenchment Committee's report the case of a bookkeeper in the Treasury Department who has been a bookkeeper in that department for thirty-eight years. We all know, sir, that in such departments or in any banking corporation any fraud hardly ever occurs unless there is some collusion with the bookkeeper. When we have a faithful servant who has served thirty-eight years and who can, perhaps, serve ten years longer, why should we not consider the civil service of the departments in the City Government in all cases, as well as firemen and police? It is a well-known fact that clerks who attend to their duties during office hours in a place like this City Hall, with its unhealthy atmosphere, have their lives shortened to a great extent. There is no question about that. Clerks that occupy situations in mercantile departments hold a different position from what they have in City Hall. I don't propose to press the amendment, but when I see the Retrenchment Committee cutting down a clerk's salary $400 who has served thirty years, I think it is right to bring this matter up at this time. It is no new thing, and it has been adopted by other governments, and it is considered a matter of good policy. I think that at some future time it will be inaugurated in our own Government.

Mr. Barry—What Government or city in the United States pensions its old officials?

Mr. Clarke—I did not say the United States.

Mr. Barry—You say another Government.

Mr. Clarke—I said Governments.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved to lay the matter upon the table. Lost by a division—26 for, 31 against.

The amendment of Mr. Clarke was rejected.

On motion of Mr. Webster of Ward 3 the order was indefinitely postponed.

CARE OF PUBLIC GROUNDS.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I move to reconsider the vote whereby was passed the order for the Committee on Legislative Matters to oppose before the present Legislature the passage of any act restricting the City Council in the care and management of the public grounds. The reason I gave notice of this motion was that I thought the other night the Council hardly understood the matter, and in fact I did not understand it myself. I had not read the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen, not having received them in time, and I did not really know what the order was or what it amounted to. But there seems to be a misunderstanding in regard to the order. The other night the idea was that it was an infringement upon the powers of the Committee on Common and Squares of the City Government in regard to the care of the Common. I understand it is nothing of the kind. It is merely a bill before the Legislature, which has been presented there, and which I understand has been passed by the House, simply in requiring that public squares which have been in charge or dedicated to the uses of the public for twenty years that they shall be limited to the size of the buildings which shall be put upon that Common or public square. It has nothing to do whatever with the commons and public squares which are hereafter to be laid out, unless they have been dedicated for the use of the public for twenty years. It is a well-known fact that when any common has been dedicated to the public for that length of time, the public knows what buildings are desirable to be put upon it, and for the information of the Council I would like to have the President read the bill which is now before the Legislature. There is one clause which I don't exactly believe in. I understand that a great many friends of the bill desire that anything of this kind should be left to the voters or inhabitants to vote upon whether any building shall be placed on any common or public square.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—That bill has already passed the House of Representatives, and I do not see what the Committee on Legislative Matters can do about it, unless the gentleman wants them to go up there and help it through the Senate.

Mr. Clarke—If this matter should go up to the Legislature on a vote of the City Government, the Legislature might be induced to reconsider their action.

Mr. Spenceley—It is too late now.

At the request of Mr. Clarke, the President read the act now pending in the Legislature, namely, "An Act for the Protection of Common and Public Parks, providing that no building of more than 600 square feet in superficial area shall be erected upon any Common, in any city, without leave of the Legislature."

Mr. Clarke—That matter is before the Legislature. We have a large body of representatives from the city or Boston, who will take care of the interests belonging to the city. Therefore it seems to me that so far as our Legislative Committee is concerned they need not be required to oppose it. As the gentleman from Ward 19 has said, it has passed the House, and the Legislature might not entertain the matter. If we reconsider this matter I shall move that it be indefinitely postponed, and that will settle it. So far as the City Government is concerned, I don't think the Legislature intends to restrict the rights of the City Government; but when matters come up in regard to any Common in the care of selectmen or the City Government of Boston we shall not be obliged to have the discussions that we have had for the last six weeks. It is liable to come up again next year. The Horticultural or some other society might want to have an exhibition there. I hope it will be taken out of the hands of the City Council, so far as erecting buildings upon the Common is concerned. In reference to taking care of the Common I don't see that it has anything to do with the act now before the Legislature.

Mr. Spenceley—I sincerely hope that this matter will be reconsidered if we can have the effect of securing the passage of this bill in the Senate. I did not understand it last Thursday night. I am as jealous of the Common as any one, but I am not jealous to think that we shall be obliged to go to the Legislature every time we want to use it. I think the Common is for the people of the city of Boston, and not for the State of Massachusetts; but I think the Committee on Common think it is for the benefit of the State of Massachusetts, and not for the city. I was up to see the chairman of the committee today, and he says it has passed the House, and he thinks the Senate will pass it. I don't know anything we can do. If the committee can fix the thing any better I should be willing to have them do it.

The reconsideration was lost—9 for, 33 against—on the division.

BONDS STOLEN.

A communication was received from the City Treasurer transmitting affidavits, etc., from Dr. Robert Stoddard Wylde, a resident of Edinburgh, Scotland, representing that he lost a portmanteau containing a large amount of securities, among which were five City of Boston water loan sterling bonds, of one hundred pounds each, numbered 1522, 1523, 1524, 1525, and that said bonds were afterwards burned by the thieves, and praying that new bonds of even tenor may be issued to him. Referred to the Committee on Finance. Sent up.

PETITION PRESENTED.

By Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—Petition of Mary Noonan, to be compensated for personal injuries received on the sidewalk on North street. Referred to the Committee on Claims. Sent up.

OVERSEERS OF THE POOR.

Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21 submitted the following:

The Joint Standing Committee on the Overseers of the Poor beg leave to report that in compliance with the eighth section of the ordinance relating to the Overseers of the Poor they have examined and investigated the condition of all of the property intrusted to and deposited with the Overseers of the Poor, and find that the requirements of the said ordinance relative to the care, management, investment and preservation of the said property have been complied with. Your committee submit herewith a statement of the trust funds in the hands of the Overseers of the Poor, from which it appears that the amount of the invested funds is $493,180.60; cash on hand, $5485.32; making the total amount of the trust funds $498,665.92. Accepted. Sent up.

BACK BAY IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted a report from the Committee on Finance, on the request of the Committee on Streets, recommending the passage of an order, That the Auditor of Accounts be and he hereby is authorized to transfer from the Reserved Fund to the appropriation for Back Bay streets and avenues the sum of $5000. Order read twice under a suspension of the rules, on motion of Mr. Sampson, and passed—yeas 61, nays 0. Mr. Sampson explained that a large part of the money was already due a contract and that many laborers were waiting for their money.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

On motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, the Council took from the table the report of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment (City Doc. No. 20), with thirty-nine ordinances establishing the salaries of the several city officers, employes in the public departments.

The question was upon giving the ordinances a second reading.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I was not invited to that little caucus around at the Sherman House, and consequently may not be fully posted up in regard to the merits and demerits of this report; but I think that this report is wrong. I think it is wrong because it is inexpedient to establish the salaries of the employes of the city, as this report contemplates, by ordinance. I think it is wrong to establish the salaries at the rates proposed by this committee, because in many cases they are unjust, and because in many instances the reductions have not been proportionately equitable. No, sir; before I adduce some facts which have come to my knowledge in reference to this matter, I wish to look at it in a somewhat general aspect. While I have great regard for the gentlemen who compose the Committee on Retrenchment—as gentlemen and members of the City Government—I must say that as a committee they are somewhat remarkable. I think the committee was appointed, for a somewhat remarkable purpose; that it has proceeded in a somewhat remarkable manner to the accomplishment of somewhat remarkable results; and this report which we have before us is one of them. I am opposed on general principles to the introduction of political distinctions and reflections into the discussion of affairs in this chamber; and this is the first occasion that I have recognized during this year when I thought it was proper to call attention to the political aspects of the question brought before us. It may not be out of place, with your consent, sir, for me to call attention to one or two matters that may have been familiar, and possibly may be, to some gentlemen present. I have a slip here from one of the daily papers, a paragraph which was published in more than one of them, and as newspapers never lie, I suppose it is correct:

"In view of the fact that the retrenchment bill comes before the Common Council on Thursday evening, a caucus of the Democratic members of that body was held at the Sherman House on Monday evening to see what action should be taken in the matter. The attendance was not as large as was anticipated, only fourteen members putting in an appearance, but after selecting Mr. Barry of Ward 22 as chairman the question at issue was discussed at some length. The result of the conference was that, although the bill was unjust in many respects, it was necessary as a party measure, and it was therefore agreed to vote for it as a whole, and reject all amendments that might be offered. One view taken of the matter was that the proposed reduction might induce some of the Republican city officials to resign their positions, which could then be filled by Democrats."

Mr. Kelley of Ward 3—I raise the point of order that the gentleman is speaking about a subject that has no bearing upon the question. We do not want to know anything about Republican or Democratic caucuses in this chamber.

The President—The gentleman can read the paragraph as part of his speech.

Mr. Pratt continued reading—

"And it was also stated that at some subsequent stage of proceedings during the year it was proposed by some measure to restore the pay of Democratic city officials to the amount previously received by them.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—Will the gentleman be kind enough to state where the paragraph came from?

Mr. Pratt—It was clipped from the Evening Transcript, and it was from the Evening Journal originally.

Mr. McGaragle—That is good authority.

Mr. Barry of Ward 14—Will the gentleman give way one moment? I beg leave to state that I was not invited, and neither do I know—

Mr. Pratt—I decline to yield the floor. I shall be very happy to answer any question the gentleman may ask, and I suppose he will have ample opportunity to make any explanation he may desire, and I hope he will make a satisfactory one now. Mr. President, before passing from this little slip I will simply add that although it may not be expected by all of the members of this branch of the Council that this slip contains the truth, and that those suggestions were actually made at the Sherman House, it amounts to very little whether they were or not; yet, sir, personally, I can vouch that most of the suggestions in that brief paragraph have been current about City Hall for the last three weeks. Now, then, I have another authority which will not be questioned by those who questioned the other. On the very morning after these ordinances were hurried through the Board of Aldermen without a break—the very morning that the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen appeared in the public papers—I find in the editorial columns of the Post—whether it was written before the proceedings of the Aldermen or not I cannot state, because I did not inquire at the office of the Post—

"The report of the Special Joint Committee on Retrenchment, in the matter of salaries, was yesterday adopted by the Board of Aldermen. Every Republican in the Board voted against it. This prompt and characteristic opposition to practical economy on the part of the Republican members indicates that the action of the other branch of the City Government, in which that party has a majority, will be more distinctly hostile to the proposed reduction of expenses. Should the ordinances, as passed by the Aldermen, be rejected by the Common Council, there will probably follow some compromise between the two branches, one representing Democratic economy and the other Republican extravagance, which will effect a certain amount of saving to taxpayers until the next election shall bring both branches into harmony. For this is a matter upon whose merits the public can readily pass judgment in estimating the value of pledges of economical government."

Mr. President, are we to be intimidated? Is this Council to hear it dinned into its ears by the public press, by the organ of the party which prevails in the other branch of the City Government, by those who are interested in carrying through certain measures this year, which shall be good cards for the cry of reform next fall, are we to be intimidated in our action by such references as these? Now, Mr. President, I have heard outside, it has come to my ears in several directions, that the Board of Aldermen did not propose to elect any officer of this City Government until we passed these ordinances. I speak with all respect for the honorable Board, but I have heard it intimated, and it comes to me pretty directly from several members of that Board. Are we to be bull-dozed in that way? "Democratic economy" and "Republican extravagance"! Is that the key that is struck? I want to know if, there is any act of Republican extravagance that can be cited in this city. I want to know if because the small minority of Republican members in the Board of Aldermen happened to vote on one side of the question, that is to be taken as an indication that they are against economy? I undertake to say that there has not been an opportunity to be. I stand here as a Republican, but I stand here first and foremost as a citizen of Boston. I presume a majority of us here hold our seats, not as Republican representatives, but as citizen representatives, and the question is not whether these ordinances are good Democracy or good Republicanism; the question is whether it is good citizenship to pass them. Now, Mr. President, speaking of Republican extravagance and Democratic economy, this is the first year for some time that we have had what is called a decided and partisan Democratic City Government. I do not know that it is so this year. I do not say that it is. I hope we shall be able to say now, and at the end of the year, that this has been a citizens' Government for the city of Boston. But I have undertaken to say that for the last several years the Government of the city of Boston has been in the hands of neither political party as such. It has been a Government of a citizens' party, a Government on the part of the citizens, and I will undertake to say—I challenge anybody to refute it—that the affairs of this City Government are managed as well as those of any City Government in the country, and much better than some others that might be cited. Now, in the first place, I wanted to speak, before leaving on the general question of this report and passing to the second reading of the ordinances, I wanted to speak of the way in which I conceive that that report was made up. It looks as if it might have been a very arduous undertaking for that committee to inspect all the departments of the City Government and look after all the salaried officers and clerk hire, and the appropriations for extra work, and various other things which are included in this report, and to become masters of the subject and to be able to report so solid and just and equitable a report as this! But it is the simplest matter in the world. A reduction of a hundred thousand dollars next year in the salaries of the officers must be made. We will figure this out: salaries so much; how much shall we clip off to make up a hundred thousand dollars? I suppose the difference between a hundred thousand dollars and ninety-five thousand dollars is the amount of compromise made by the committee. I see gentlemen of the committee are very much interested in my remarks, and I don't wish to be severe on them, but I shall simply turn against them what appear to have been some twinges of their consciences. Three of the committee have said in my hearing that the report was not what they should wish. They acknowledge that in some instances it does injustice. Now, sir, if we had had a majority and minority report, and if the gentlemen, who are willing to acknowledge that this report does injustice, had been square and just, and persistent enough to give us a minority report, I should have been indub-

ed to them. But they have begun upon the proposition, and the Board of Aldermen seems to have adopted it, that it is right to do injustice, in order to accomplish what is good in the general way. I am not ready to say that I will vote for injustice or an unjust measure that may be proposed in this City Government, for a single measure of unjust discrimination against any officer or department of this City Government, for the purpose of doing general good. I will not vote for wrong; if I cannot vote for right I will not vote at all. And if I have to vote half a dozen times for the purpose of getting at the right, I prefer to do it to voting wrong once for the sake of getting at the general good. Now, the injustice of this report may be apparent from certain specific instances which I shall cite. In the first place, it goes into the Collector's department and makes certain sweeping reductions there. I want to show you some of the injustice done that department, and I would state in the first place that the City Collector's department is prominent for the injustice done it, from the fact that it has been only recently established. The City Collector's department was established in 1875, if my memory serves me aright, and it was established upon the re-trenchment plan. The salaries were put low. The appropriation asked for was small, and it is a matter of fact, as I am informed and believe, that the expense of collecting the revenues of the city of Boston is less in proportion to the amount collected than it is in any other city in the United States. The amount of the appropriation for that department is something like $49,500. The fees collected by that department and turned into the city treasury are $36,500, leaving the net expense of the department to the city $13,000. Thirteen thousand dollars, Mr. President, for collecting $14,000,000—an expense of about one-tenth of one per cent. for collecting the whole revenues of the city of Boston.

Now the expense in some of the economical cities—I will not cite such cities as San Francisco, where it costs more than one per cent., but I will cite for instance the country city of Holyoke, where it costs only two-thirds of one per cent. That is more than it costs in this city of Boston—this city of republican extravagance, where it costs less to collect the revenues than it does in any other city in this country. Now, Mr. President, I will only take certain items in this report for the purpose of showing what I consider to be specific injustice. In the Collectors' Department there are sixteen deputy collectors. Those gentlemen—I suppose we all know the capacity, and previous official experience and the general qualifications of those officers for the duties which they perform—would not accept a position that brought them an income less than $2000 a year in any other department—at least they could get that, and those of them that I have the pleasure of knowing certainly could. Now, sir, they have $1600 a year; they give all their time to the city's work from morning till night, and from night until midnight during a large part of the year, and Sundays into the bargain. They perform arduous duties; they give bonds in the sum of $8000; they collect large sums of money for which they are responsible; and just previous to the election they are stationed at the offices of the Registrars of Voters in the different wards to collect taxes, till late at night, and are responsible over night for its return next morning.

The President—The gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I hope the gentleman's time will be extended.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I hope the gentleman's time will not be extended. We have thirty-nine ordinances to go through and pass. I am sorry that the gentleman has brought politics into this Council at all. It appears that he must have been bull-dozed by somebody by the remarks he has made. I hope there will be no further debate upon the general merits of the bill, but that we shall take it up section by section, and discuss all the ordinances as they are considered. I renew the motion that section 1 of the first ordinance establishing the mayor's salary be adopted.

Mr. Danforth of Ward 10—I move the adoption of the following orders as a substitute. They are substantially the same as the orders in City Doc. No. 22, which is the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I did not happen to be in when the gentleman from Ward 21 got through his political harangue. I hardly supposed that he would clip and read a report of a meeting that never existed to my knowledge, I having been elected as a Democrat here. I hardly thought the gentleman would crack the party whip so early in the session to induce members to vote against this measure. I do not come to the Council to work and vote solely for the Democratic interest. I came here to labor for the best welfare of the city of Boston irrespective of party, and I was somewhat surprised when the gentleman got up with a lengthy and prepared speech, such as he is capable of making, while the poor Democrats have not time to prepare speeches. I hardly think it is fair for him to get up here and quote from the public prints reports of caucuses which never occurred, and urge action against this measure upon a purely political basis. I think it is wrong for the gentleman to make such an argument. I hope the substitute will not prevail. The report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries is hardly the report to be adopted at this time of the year. They increase the salaries of two or three men who are certainly not hard worked. If gentlemen will take the pains to look it over, they will see that they are the easiest positions in City Hall. I think it would puzzle the gentleman to find out what the duties of one of the men are whose salary has been increased.

Mr. Barry of Ward 22—As I am the member whose name was mentioned in the article cited, I desire to state that I was not invited to and did not preside at the caucus on the Monday evening to which the gentleman alludes. We have two reports on this subject widely differing from each other, and it must be a poor man indeed who will not take the promptings of other men on this subject. I supposed, sir, that we were to vote on this subject without any reference to our party preferences. I supposed that the committee were appointed to investigate into all the departments of the City Government, and report what they thought best for the City Council to do, irrespective of party or creed. I propose to do so. The gentleman states that he deprecates a party spirit, but he was the first man to make a party allusion. I believe that City Document 20 is a very good measure. I am not here as a party man; I was not elected as a party man, and I am not dependent upon the party for my support. I am ready to support any good measure, whether it be Democratic or Republican, and I believe that my record, so far as this session is concerned, is not that of a party man. I have always been independent, and always intend to be. I do not want gentlemen to get up here and read extracts from papers giving reports of meetings which represent me as presiding when I did not do so. I know that some friends of mine came to me and said they wanted me to vote on certain sections; and I said, No; that if those men left we could get plenty of good men to fill their positions. I do not want to get any man a job in the City Government.

Mr. Pratt—I hope the motion to substitute will prevail. I am very glad to find that my eloquent friend, [Mr. Barry] is as anxious to vote as a citizen as I am myself. And I think that if he will give a little more attention to the report of the Committee on Retrenchment he will find that it is true as I was going on to state in that part of my remarks that I did not reach; and I think he will conclude with me that it is a very inexpedient set of ordinances to adopt. I shall not attempt to go into an array of statistics. It is sufficient for me to mention two or three points. It was stated with a good deal of euphony and persuasion by the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment, that they had not gone into a petty reduction of salaries under $1000; but when they saw luxurious city officers with salaries of $6000 a year, they have cut them down. Now, I have looked over the report to see on what that was based, and I have found thirty-three instances of persons whose claims range from $450 to $900, who were cut down from $20 to $150 each; thirty-three specific instances in which the salaries were clipped off in that way—thirty-three instances in which it is proposed to reduce taxation by pickings and stealings from the honest and hard-worked employes of the city of Boston. I submit that it is a report of a committee on pickings and stealings. I do not propose to vote for any such report as that, though that might be a sufficient reason for some gentlemen to vote for it. Now I want to call attention to the hasty manner in which that report was made—not that the gentlemen did not inquire into each particular department, for they went to the enormous labor of calling the head of each department before them. Why, sir, I have taken more time than that in some of the offices of the departments, and some of them I can understand. If the committee had done so they would have refrained from clipping off some of the salaries which they have. Now, the point is this: With their roving commission and with their intention to regulate everything in this City Government, they have looked over the offices to see if there were not some reductions to be made, and in doing so they have attempted to regulate something which, by the statutes, they have no authority to regulate. In the Overseers' Department they discovered, early enough for the chairman to state in the other branch, that they had no right to regulate the salaries, as they were regulated by statute. I have discovered that they have attempted to regulate some others' salaries which are regulated by statute. You will find on page 376 that the salary of the City Physician is regulated by the Board of Health;—so that all of those ordinances cannot be legally passed. A gentleman on my left has stated that he intended to cite the instance of another department in which such an ordinance is not competent to be passed, because under the statutes that department has authority to regulate the salaries of its employes. Now, sir, I do not suppose we are going to commit the bull of regulating some things by ordinance that we have not the power to regulate. There is another reason why I object to the report, and that is the cumbersomeness of establishing the salaries of city employes by ordinance. It is cumbersome to get them established at first, and it will be cumbersome to keep them connected afterwards. I also object to it on account of the time that will be required next year in electing by ballot all of these clerks and employes of the City Government. It will take from January till the holidays to make the elections. But that is not all. In the City Clerk's Department, for instance, it has been the custom of our excellent and economical City Clerk, for many years, when it was necessary to make any change in the clerical help in the department, to introduce new employes at a less salary than was paid to those who have had experience, and to advance them in proportion to their experience and efficiency. Now, sir, we take all that opportunity away from him. In the Public Library, on the very next day after this ordinance was passed by the Board of Aldermen, one of the skilled employes resigned, who had been receiving $800 a year, and which salary is fixed by the committee at $750. Now if this ordinance had been passed, the superintendent would have been compelled to fill that place at $750 a year; whereas he was able to fill it by a person at $500 a year, by placing some of the duties upon other employes; and the new employe will be allowed to work up to the salary of $800 a year, by small increases after long and faithful service. If that ordinance had been passed, instead of being richer by $50 a year, the city would have been poorer by $250 a year than it is now. I cite this case to show the inexpediency of fixing these salaries by ordinance. Where we fix the salaries by ordinance we lose the wisdom of faithful heads of departments in fixing the salaries of employes. How can we do it so well as they can? I would like to ask the joint special committee why they reduced the salary of the Superintendent of Congress-street Bridge a hundred dollars more than they did the salary of the Superintendent of Broadway Bridge; I suppose it was because there are four thousand more vessels passing through it in a year and consequently there is more work to do, and he can afford to work for a less salary. Unless they can explain that, I say there is a case of palpable injustice. I suppose that as they were going to reduce salaries they found these two superintendents, and that they got one hundred dollars off the wrong man. Perhaps they can answer that by and by. Now, Mr. President, I too have no friends to get in or to keep in places in this City Government; but I stand here as a citizen of Boston, earnest and interested in seeing that nothing is done here but what is good citizenship. I go in for fair pay for fair work every time to the employes of the city, whether they are laborers or clerks, or heads of departments, and I think that if these ordinances are allowed to pass, we are not giving fair pay for fair work. I think that if the substitute is made the basis of our deliberations this evening, we can establish the salaries of the employes of the City Government by order as they have been for many years past, which is a very convenient and creditable way, and very much more preferable than to establish them by ordinance; and I think that we can get at a more equitable reduction in that way. I certainly hope the substitute will prevail. I do not wish it understood that I attack this report in any spirit of opposition to true economy and reform. I did not shout in the last election for Tilden and reform; but I have supposed, from the tenor of that report, the remarks about City Hall and the remarks in the papers, that some of the echoes of those cries were lingering about City Hall still, and I took the liberty of speaking of them. I am in favor of economy, but the kind of economy which was spoken of by the Mayor in his inaugural address; of an economy that is not niggardly, and which has been so aptly alluded to in the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries.

Mr. McGarage of Ward 8—I am very thankful the gentleman did not shout in the last election for reform; but he shouted for the party that ignored reform when the time came. For the information of the gentleman I will read the ordinance in regard to the salary of the City Physician:

"Section 15. The said Board of Health shall annually, in the month of April, appoint, subject to the approval of the Mayor, a suitable person for City Physician, who shall hold his office for one year from the first Monday in May, in the year in which he is appointed, unless sooner removed; and he may be removed at the pleasure of the board, and a vacancy may be filled at any time for the unexpired term. He shall perform such duties, in addition to those hereinafter designated, keep such records, and make such reports, as the Board of Health may from time to time direct. For his services he shall receive such compensation as the City Council may from time to time determine."

I think that is pretty conclusive that the City Council has something to say about what salary the City Physician shall receive.

Mr. Pratt—If the gentleman will turn to page 376 he will find that by the statutes the Board of Health may appoint a physician to the board and establish his salary.

"Section 2. Every Board of Health may appoint a physician to the board, who shall hold his office during its pleasure.

"Section 3. The board shall establish the salary or other compensation of such physician, and shall regulate all fees and charges of persons employed by it in the execution of the health laws and of its own regulations."

Mr. McGarage—I have read that and I am very familiar with it. I beg the gentleman's pardon, but I think the City Council have the right to regulate the salary.

Mr. Blanchard of Ward 21—I hope the substitute will not prevail. The gentleman from Ward 21 has made a very good plea for the office holders who fear a reduction of their salaries. The Committee on Retrenchment have labored for the benefit of the taxpayers. I would now like to say a few words in behalf of the unfortunate taxpayers, many of whom have lost their estates, because they could not pay the taxes assessed thereon. Last year 1618 estates were sold for the non-payment of taxes, and 226 were sold for the non-payment of betterments and sewer assessments—1844 estates in all, and I have no doubt that more in number will be sold this year for the same reason—the inability of the owners to pay the tax. In view of these facts, I can hardly conceive how any one can rise in his place on this floor and oppose a reduction of the city's expenses. Many of the residents of the Highlands who own unimproved land have told me that their tax bills were the most difficult bills to pay. The tax bill on the property which I occupied the year before annexation was less than $300. Last year's tax bill was between six and seven hundred dollars for the same estate. The Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment had before them the heads of all the departments, and were very thorough in their investigations, giving a good deal of time to the matter, and were unanimous in their recommendations. They have reason to know that the majority of the taxpayers of Boston approve of their report, and they trust that this branch of the City Council will follow the lead of the other in this matter, and pass the bill without amendment. Probably not one-half of the merchants and traders of this city are now paying their business expenses, and relief must come somewhere or they will become bankrupt. The Auditor, in this year's estimates, thinks the reduction of valuation upon real estate will be about fifty millions of dollars. That reduction will be made probably upon high-priced store property and unimproved land, but will not relieve the majority of the taxpayers who own or lease medium-priced stores and houses; and in consequence of that reduction in valuation, the rate will be increased from $12.70 per $1000 to $13.07; thus making the taxes higher this year than last, to many of the taxpayers.

There is no politics in this at all. I never heard politics mentioned, and I am very much surprised at the gentleman's statement. The committee was composed of five Democrats and three Republicans, and we were unanimous. The three Republicans united with the Democrats in making this report.

Mr. Pratt—Will the gentleman allow me to ask him a question? Wasn't there an agreement among the members of the committee that they should make a unanimous report, that they should waive private judgments and agree with some unanimous report?

Mr. Blanchard—There was nothing of that kind, and no such understanding whatever. In regard to the Superintendents of Bridges, it was found that one of them had his house rent free, and that was the difference that was made in his salary.

Mr. Pratt—Where did they find authority for establishing the officers and employes of the Directors for Public Institutions?

Mr. Blanchard—Mr. Fitzgerald was the only lawyer on the Board. He looked up that matter and decided that we had authority to do so.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I want to state that I am in favor of retrenchment and the reduction of salaries, but I am not in favor of attaching these long ordinances to the subordinate offices. It seems to me it would be very cumbersome and very detrimental to the service. I should hope, in view of that, that the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries may be adopted, as it reduces all the salaries of elective officers. It seems to me it will be a very easy matter to go into the matter of salaries and fix them. It has been the custom to fix the salaries of employes in the departments by the committees, and it appears to me that they are better qualified to know the duties of the clerks than any special committee that could possibly be appointed. I think that they would have a better knowledge of the reductions necessary to be made there, and I cannot believe that the committees of this City Government are so bigoted, and wish to keep the salaries up at a high price; I believe they will be unanimous in reducing upon an even and equitable basis. It seems to me that it would be impossible to get at an equalization of all the salaries by the report of the Retrenchment Committee. I have no doubt that they have gone into the departments thoroughly, and, with the knowledge that they have had, that they have done the best thing they could do. They were called upon at the very commencement of the session, when it was in fact almost impossible for the different committees to have a thorough knowledge of the departments. They have had limited time to go into those departments and acquire the knowledge that they have brought to us in this report; and I don't wonder that in some cases they have made mistakes. I find that the salary of the Inspector of Milk is fixed by statute by the Mayor and Aldermen, and not by this Council. I do not wonder that they should make some such mistakes. A great deal of credit is due to them that they have done as well as they have. The only fault I find is, that they have done too much. I find fault with those ordinances. Under them, if any department wishes to hire an extra amount you have got to have an ordinance drawn by the committee, discussed, and passed by both branches of the City Government, signed by the Mayor, recorded and engrossed, before that man can be hired, and it will take a month to do it. Suppose we should want a man for a month. It takes a month to get ready to hire him and by that time we should not want him.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—Will the gentleman allow me to ask him a question? If he should contract with any capitalists of Boston tomorrow to build a block of stores, would he pay first-class mechanics the same salaries that he has paid for the last ten years? I think that skilled mechanics are entitled to the same pay as accountants.

Mr. Wilbur—If I had had a good man in my employ for many years, and he had been competent, I don't think I should turn him off because I can hire another man for less money.

Mr. Jackson—I hope the question will be answered on general grounds. I don't want to confine it to one individual.

Mr. Wilbur—I think I answered it. It seems to me that the ordinances in this book are very objectionable, and one of my greatest objections to adopting this report is the establishment of salaries by ordinances.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—It is very apparent that if this discussion is allowed to go on, there will be a long, running debate without doing anything, and in order to test which of these reports the Council will accept and act upon, I move the previous question. That will bring the substitute directly before the house, and will decide which of the two reports the Council will adopt.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I wish to assign one reason why the previous question should not now be ordered, and why it is very proper that we should debate this question now. We are settling, not the details of these bills, but the general principles which shall govern in establishing salaries this year. It is a matter that should not be snuffed out by the breath of the previous question. It is a matter that we can debate profitably this evening, and if we arrive at a solution of the question we shall accomplish all that we can hope to accomplish this evening. I hope the previous question will not be ordered.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—If the previous question is ordered at this time, will it shut off all amendments to the various ordinances?

The President—The question will first be put upon the amendment and then upon the ordinances.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—I do not understand the ruling of the Chair in regard to the question of Mr. Howes.

The President—The question would be put upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Ward 10, and then the question would be upon giving the ordinances a second reading.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—He offered his bill as a substitute for that of the Retrenchment Committee.

The President—The previous question would apply to the whole question before us.

Mr. Howes—If that is the case I trust the previous question will not be ordered at this time, whatever opinions the gentleman may have as to the merits of the bill of the Retrenchment Committee. I think it should be fully discussed by this Council if they see fit. If the previous question is ordered, it will be absolutely impossible to make any amendments to the various ordinances as they are read and passed.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I regret exceedingly that the gentleman has called for the previous question, for the reason that the Committee on Salaries who reported City Document 22 have not had an opportunity to explain their report; and it seems to be hardly fair, as we gave the Retrenchment Committee an opportunity to say what they pleased on their own side. I think they should not choke off debate, but allow the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries time to make an explanation of their report.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—I hope this motion for the previous question will not prevail, for it is going to cut off amendments. If we can act upon the report of the Retrenchment Committee I propose to offer some amendments which I think will improve the bill. If the previous question is ordered we have got to swallow it whole. I think the bill is objectionable as a whole without any improvement. I think it is susceptible of improvement and that it should be amended.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—It is absolutely necessary that the bill should be amended, because as it now stands it belongs with the statutes, and if we pass the ordinances they will be imperative and cannot be put in force.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I do not understand how the Chair rules in this matter. As I understand it, the Chair rules that this ordinance cannot be amended if the previous question is ordered. And the gentleman across the way has offered the salary bill as a substitute for these ordinances. I do not understand the ruling.

The President—At the last meeting of the Council, a vote was passed to read the thirty-nine ordinances by their titles, and they were so read. The question then came upon giving the ordinances a second reading. The gentleman from Ward 10 now moves to substitute the recommendations of the Salary Committee in City Document No. 2, and on that the gentleman from Ward 13 moves the previous question. The previous question will be put, and then the question will be upon substitution.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—My object was to test the sense of the Council on the first ordinance. It is impossible to pass this ordinance if the substitute is adopted. I suppose that if it is determined to adopt this report, we can then go on regulating the salaries in the other ordinances, and lay aside the report of the Committee on Salaries. My object was to test the sense of the Council on the salary of the Mayor, and if the Council adopted the report of the Committee on Retrenchment, then we can go on debating which ordinance was to come up.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—As I understand the Chair, the ruling is in direct opposition to the gentleman who last sat down. As I understand, the Chair has ruled that the thirty-nine ordinances are to be passed upon without the possibility of an amendment, if the previous question is ordered. I ask if I am correct.

The Chair—The gentleman is correct.

Mr. Flynn—Then I should certainly appeal from the decision.

Mr. Pratt—I hope the previous question will not be ordered, because it is desirable that there should be a decision to clear up the differences between the two committees. The Committee on Retrenchment states that the city employes get more than persons outside do. The report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries says they are not getting more than employes outside of the City Government.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Are not those ordinances susceptible of decision? Can we not call for the reading of the first ordinance?

The President—The gentleman moved the previous question upon the whole matter before us.

Mr. Flynn—I moved the previous question upon the substitute offered by the gentleman from Ward 10.

The President—The Chair rules that the previous question could not be applied simply to the amendment.

Mr. Spenceley—If I understand the ruling, if the previous question is ordered no amendments can be made. I should appeal from the decision of the Chair, because it seems to me that these ordinances are susceptible of division. Any gentleman has a right to call for a division of a question at any time, as I understand it. Although I am not very well posted in "Cushing's Manual," I understand that can be acted upon separately, whether the question is put or not.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—Do I understand that in putting this previous question it includes these thirty-nine ordinances, or was it that the first ordinance should be read?

The President—Upon a division being called for the question can be upon each ordinance separately, but debate is cut off.

Mr. Howes—And amendments?

The President—And amendments.

The motion for the previous question was lost, and the question recurred to substitute.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—The gentleman on my left, from Ward 21, has stated the question here as one between the officeholders and the taxpayers and he assumes that we must sacrifice one or the other. He is right that a great many estates have been sold for taxes, but I doubt whether by carrying through the measure we shall stop that sort of thing. I had some curiosity to see what the result would be, to see what we are going to save the taxpayers. I merely wish to direct the attention of the Council to the figures. If the report of the committee should be accepted in full, we make a reduction of some $95,000. I suppose, however, that nobody expects that it will be carried through in full, but that a large part of it will be cut down at any rate. Call it a hundred thousand dollars. The whole amount to be raised by taxation, according to the Auditor's estimates, is a little over $9,000,000. Now, $100,000 is but a ninetyeth part of the $9,000,000 we have got to raise, and by this retrenchment we shall reduce the amount we have got to raise only one-ninetyeth.

Then suppose that the rate of taxation shall be $13.07 a thousand, one-ninetyeth of that is fifteen cents on a thousand, and that is the reduction which is to effect so much. It is going to affect the rate of taxation fifteen cents on a thousand dollars. It is going to help the taxpayers some, which is desirable, so far as that is concerned. But it is not going to help them so much. It is not going to stop this long list of sales for taxes, and it is going to cut down the salaries of a good many men who cannot well afford to spare $500 or $1000. There are a good many men who, I think, cannot afford a reduction of their salaries, but a great deal of embarrassment will be caused in that way, and there will be very little aid to the taxpayer. For these reasons it has seemed to me that the view of the matter that the gentleman has presented, that the question was whether we should sacrifice the officeholders or the taxpayers, is not a fair one.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—In favoring the substitute offered by the gentleman from Ward 10, I would say that I have also considered the amount of saving to the taxpayers effected by this reduction, and instead of fifteen cents it will be only thirteen, showing that it is not a great one. But the point I wish to make in this connection is that the report of the special committee should not be adopted, because while the committee were appointed to carry out an important reform—namely, the equalization of salaries—they have devoted much of their time to the consideration of subjects not within their jurisdiction, and consequently have given us a report objectionable in this, that on its face it shows that the important and difficult question submitted to them has not been considered with the carefulness that its importance demanded. I believe a great good can be effected to the city by a thorough reorganization of the City Government on a basis of careful and accurate research. Now, gentlemen, we know the difficulties under which any committee appointed for this purpose at the beginning of the year labors. Most of the committee, probably, were strangers to the City Government. They came into City Hall and were brought in contact with the immense machine, full of all kinds of details, employing a large number of men, and more complicated than any large mercantile establishment in this city. If those gentlemen are asked whether they consider themselves qualified to go into Jordan, Marsh & Co.'s or C. F. Hovey's and effect a reorganization of those stores, they would say, No, they are not familiar with the manner in which that business is carried on. This committee were placed in a very similar position here. They were called upon to adjust a machine of which they knew nothing, and to pass upon important interests with which they were not familiar. They were given six weeks or two months to qualify themselves for those arduous duties, and to execute them. Now, I say this was a mistake. It is wrong in principle. I may say here that this matter should be passed upon by very careful examination. Unless some one better qualified in City Hall will do it, I shall offer an order directing the Mayor to appoint a commission of three old merchants and citizens of Boston to spend one, two or three years in qualifying themselves to recommend such a reorganization of the City Government and equalization of salaries as will do justice. I believe the work is necessary and important, and we should deal with it as its gravity demands. Now, this committee, which has been called a roving committee, have sent to us a report, not with the customary orders which must be renewed from year to year, but with ordinances which are in their nature permanent, and ask us to give their hasty conclusions the effect of law. We are making them a part of the law of the city, if I may use that term. The principle is all wrong, and the facts upon which they attempt to establish these principles have been hastily considered. The gentleman who has spoken upon this matter has shown many changes that may be necessary. It has been said in the other branch of the Government that this bill was a compromise. A gentleman in the other branch said that personally he would object to some points, and it appears that it is a compromise bill. It has been stated here by one gentleman that it was adopted finally by the unanimous vote of the committee, as it would seem to be the best thing they could do. I do not believe it is the best thing we can do, or that the city of Boston can do. I don't exactly like everything in the report of the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries; but it is a matter which will stand for only a year, during which time I hope we shall give some attention to the subject. I am thoroughly opposed to fixing salaries by ordinances, and I hope the substitute will be adopted.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—In consideration of this subject, I claim that the question is not whether this report or either of them is a unanimous report or a partial report. Neither are we to consider whether it is a partisan report. We are to take the report as it comes to us and consider it upon its merits. Now, Mr. President, we have two direct reports, and the question is upon the substitution of one for the other. It seems to me that there are many objections to City Document No. 20. Many of these objections have been pointed out and it seems to me that the substitution should prevail. I certainly am in favor of adopting City Document No. 22 in place of City Document No. 20, and I hope the substitution will prevail.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17—I trust that the substitute will not prevail. The great objection here seems to be that the committee propose to establish these salaries by ordinance. We called the heads of departments before the committee and asked them what reduction they could make, and we asked them various other questions. One head of a department said—perhaps inadvertently—that he established the salaries of his employés, and he afterwards corrected himself. Now, by establishing the salaries by ordinance there is no need that any injustice should be done. We intended that the employés should be retained, and that no clerks should be discharged at the expense of others. That is the view that I took of the matter. A gentleman brings up the case of the Collector's Department, which it is perhaps just as well to answer here. The Collector stated before the committee that at the time the Deputy Collectors were appointed there were some 2000 applicants for the places—most of them clerks and men out of employment; and I think his answer was that he could have filled the places at $1200 a year. The question with me is whether the salaries in City Hall are too large. They have been increased in some cases a hundred per cent. since 1870. Now, last year, some members of the Council who are here this year very ably stated that the expense of living had decreased since 1870. It surely has not increased since last year. The question now before us is one of economy. It is a question whether or no we shall reduce salaries which have been largely increased. I hope the substitute will not prevail, and that, when the question is taken, it will be divided, and that we shall pass upon the different ordinances separately.

Mr. Wolcott of Ward 11—The gentleman from Ward 9 [Mr. Crocker] has given some figures to show just what this proposed reduction means to the taxpayers. There is another way of putting it. He put it a little too high. I believe the exact figures are that it means a reduction in the tax levy of 13.6 cents on the thousand dollars; that is, $1.36 on ten thousand dollars. Now, that is certainly something, and if we can effect that reduction without any harm to the public service, it is our duty to do so. It seems to me, however, that there are two considerations which make that reduction a mere trifling one. The first is the difference the reduction will make to the city employés. A salary of $1600 a year reduced by $200, is a very much smaller salary. It means in many cases a change of room and mode of living. I presume it will be acknowledged by all that we have in City Hall an efficient and capable corps of employés. If this reduction should lead any one of them to resign and leave the service of the city, and give place to a poorer set of men—and perhaps even less honest—the increased expense to the city will be much larger than this trifling diminution of the salaries. I think the reduction is a very small one compared to the chances that may happen of harm to the public weal of the city.

Mr. Thompson—I would like to ask the gentleman from Ward 17 one question. It seems to me he made one statement that is very important. He stated that the principle upon which they acted in establishing the salaries by ordinance was this: To prevent the heads of departments from changing any of their clerks' pay, and force them to retain the same clerks. Does the gentleman consider it the part of wisdom on the part of the City Council to interfere with gentlemen in carrying on the details of the various departments? If the City Engineer should say that he can carry on his department more conveniently with a less number of men at one salary than he could with a greater number of men at a lesser salary, does he wish us to understand that he thinks it the part of wisdom to dictate to that head of a department and force him to employ men against his will? Does he regard that good economy?

Mr. Reed—I did not so state and I do not so understand it. I look at it in this way: We called the head of the department before us and asked what reduction he could make. With one notable exception no one said they could make any. We wanted to make a reduction and make it as early as we could, and we could see no other way. I could not. I may not be as well versed in the question as he is, for I am a new member; but still I looked into the question, and I could see no other way to do it. That is the only ground I have for reporting the ordinance.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—I hope the amendment will not prevail. It seems to me it is pretty early in the season to commence to amend this report. I remember last year that we had a similar report, and we commenced to debate it and to offer amendments, and by the time we got through, the year was pretty near ended. The first ordinance in this report has not been tried yet, and I think it is only fair that we should get the sense of the Council. I am in favor of retrenchment, and, like many other members of the Council, there are certain measures in this bill that I should like to see amended. I think it would be impossible to appoint a committee which would bring in a report that would satisfy all the members of this body composed of seventy-two members. I am satisfied with the report. I do not think it can be bettered. The committee could not do any better. It is the committees on the several departments who should give reasons why these ordinances should not be adopted, and why they should be amended. I think it is proper to try the sense of the Council, as the gentleman from Ward 13 has proposed. I hope the gentleman from Ward 10 will not insist upon his amendment. I see no reason why we should not try the ordinances. There are certain things that I would perhaps like to amend myself, but as a whole I think it is a good bill, and that it ought to pass. As for the salaries paid by the city of Boston I do not think there is any fair-minded man who will not say that they are higher than are paid outside. I believe the men are getting all that they are worth, and in the last two years I do remember of but one man who has left the city's employ to better his salary; and certainly mechanics and clerks are men who will better themselves if they can. It ought not to be a question of comparison. When one compares a hundred thousand dollars with several millions, it is a small matter; but if the income were two hundred thousand it would be a large percentage. If there is an employé of the city of Boston getting one cent more than he is worth he ought to be cut down. I believe the members of the City Council are pledged to do their duty, and we certainly should not be partial, even if we are chairmen of certain committees. I hope that every man will do his duty, and I trust that this thing will come up as it has come before in the Board of Aldermen—one ordinance at a time—so that every member will have an opportunity to say all he desires upon it. I hope the amendment will not prevail.

Mr. Pratt—It has been suggested that the employés of the city receive more compensation than men in similar positions get elsewhere. Now I want to cite one or two facts in answer to that suggestion. It is a fact that the Superintendent of the Public Library, who is now receiving thirty-six hundred dollars a year, has been offered five thousand dollars a year to go to Chicago and take charge of a library there, and has also been offered five thousand dollars to go to Cincinnati, and he has a standing offer to go to Philadelphia to take charge of the new Rush Library when it is completed, at almost any salary he may name. It is a fact that one employé in the library receiving $1700 has been offered $2000 to go to Connecticut, and has only been kept here at the earnest solicitation of the trustees and the superintendent. I have not had a roving commission, like this committee, but I can cite those facts, and I have no doubt other members can cite others.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—The Joint Standing Committee on Salaries, as you aware, were limited to those matters usually provided for in the regular salary bill. You will bear in mind that when the order for the appointment of the special committee came up it was urged upon the Council to extend the powers of the Salary Committee so that they could go into this matter of the clerk hire in the various departments and other matters. But it was thought best that those matters should come before a joint special committee on salaries and reform. Well, sir, the Joint Standing Committee on Salaries have attended to their duties as far as they were required by the ordinance. We held several meetings, and went into the matter with a great deal of patience and consideration. At the same time that we were at work, the Committee on Retrenchment were also at work in an adjoining room. In fact one member of that committee was also a member of our committee. In justice to that gentleman I will state that he made no exertions whatever to influence our committee and he regretted exceedingly that he should have been appointed upon both committees; and he was absent at several of our meetings. The question has been asked why we have increased the salaries of two or three employés in City Hall. Well, I inquired of some members of the Retrenchment Committee, and two or three have told me what we all know, that some of the clerks in the City Hall are getting very small salaries; but they had no power, they said, to go into that matter; that their instructions were for retrenchment and not to increase any salaries,—no matter whether it was just and right to do so. The special committee did not feel authorized to look into that matter and see if a clerk was getting too small pay to raise his salary. In our recommendations the Council will perceive that we have reduced salaries. We reduced some of the salaries in the City Solicitor's department; at the same time there was one Assistant Solicitor who has received two thousand dollars for the last two or three years, and we recommended an increase in his salary of two hundred dollars. Well, now, sir, one of the grounds upon which this committee thought proper to recommend an increase of that salary was a special communication that was received from that gentleman by the chairman of the committee. It is the Assistant Solicitor who examines all the titles for the city. During four months of 1873—I think that was when he commenced—he passed fifty-three titles, on which were paid $858,723.87. During the year 1874 he examined and passed 132 titles, on which were paid $1,544,144.73. Last year (1876), he examined 230 titles, on which were paid $922,712.26, besides 173 mortgages which were given to the city, amounting to $422,291.29.

Mr. McGaragle—Can the gentleman give us the perquisites that gentleman received for making out the deeds and transfers?

Mr. Clarke—Well, now, sir, it is well known that in the examination of titles, even to a small lot of land, it is just as important that it should be correct as if it amounted to a hundred thousand dollars. There is no conveyancer in this city who does one-quarter of the work but who earns more than two thousand dollars a year. It is a pitiful sum for the city of Boston to give one of its officers for the large amount of work that he has to perform and in which there is such great responsibility. Then, sir, we recommended an increase of the salary of the Clerk of Committees. Some members of the Retrenchment Committee have admitted to me that if that matter had come before them by direction of the Council they should have recommended an increase of this officer's salary. Here he receives nearly $1500 less a year than did the previous clerk, and I think that his duties are just as arduous.

Mr. McGaragle inquired if a quorum was present.

The President—That question cannot be raised now.

Mr. McGaragle—I raise the point of order that we cannot transact business when there is not a quorum present.

The President—The gentleman from Ward 22 has the floor.

Mr. Clarke—I would inform the gentleman that I take pleasure in talking to those gentlemen who have patience enough to remain in the hall. We thought it justice to that gentleman to recommend an increase of two hundred dollars, and also an increase of two hundred dollars in the salary of the Assistant Clerk of Committees. It is well known that the office hours of the Clerks of Committees are, not from nine o'clock in the morning till five in the afternoon, but they have to attend to committees at all hours, and do a great deal of work in the evening. The work of the City Government has got to be kept up, so that when matters are to come up in the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council they shall come up promptly and in order. There is hardly a member of this Council, when he desires to offer an order, but goes to the Assistant Clerk of Committees to have it written. Then in regard to the increase of the salary of the Superintendent of Public Lands. His salary has been $1800 for quite a number of years. The increase has been up before the committee two or three years, but there has been so much talk about retrenchment that the committee have thought it best not to propose it. Last October the duties of the Superintendent of Public Lands were greatly increased by placing the care of the buildings on the Northampton-street District in his hands. When that matter was first talked of it was proposed to hire a man specially for that work, at a salary of eight hundred dollars a year. But the committee thought it would be better to go on with the Superintendent, and I have to inform the Council that in that section he has charge of thirty-two houses of wood and eight model houses of brick, which when he took charge of them were occupied by 122 families of the laboring classes. Since he took them he has increased the number of families to 126, making 148 tenants who occupy rooms there, and pay their rent weekly and some of them monthly. All are now occupied except some ten or twelve tenements, and he has paid into the treasury about two thousand dollars during 1877 in sums of five and eight dollars a month from the various tenants. Probably he will collect $20,000 during the coming year from the Northampton and Suffolk districts. Therefore our committee thought it right to raise his salary to two thousand dollars, and that it would be nothing more than justice to him. I regret exceedingly that the Retrenchment Committee did not have power from this Council to equalize salaries as well as to make reductions. It has been said that the City Clerk desired a reduction in his salary and also in that of his clerks. The City Clerk came before our committee and desired to have his salary reduced, but he particularly requested that the salaries of his clerks should not be reduced. He said they were not getting more than they were worth, that they earned their money, and he thought they should not be reduced.

Mr. Clarke's time expired at this point.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—In justice to the City Clerk I would like to have the records of the committee read. If the City Clerk went to one committee and asked that the salaries of his clerks should not be reduced, and then came to our committee and said that we might take off ten per cent., then Mr. McCleary is a very different man from what I thought he was. That record ought to be brought before the Council. I do not propose to defend this measure in detail; but having gone into the movement in good faith, and having spent a large part of my time among the departments, and in consulting with those who had formerly been members of the City Government, and in whose judgment I could rely, I propose to stand by the report which we have made. I have no doubt the gentleman who has called the report pickings and stealings, if he had been appointed upon the committee, with his superior intellect, would have made a better report, but I venture to say that if he had it would have been criticised as freely as ours has. I wish he had been in my place, and I should have been glad to resign and let him take my place. As was stated by the chairman of the committee in the Board of Aldermen, it is a compromise report. We could have brought in eight reports, each expressing our particular views; but we compromised, and concluded to bring in a report as nearly satisfactory to everybody as possible. I am frank to say, as one member of the committee that I had to sink some of my individual opinions in order to make this report unanimous. I do not pretend that it is perfect. But I thought I had better err on the side of economy than on the side of extravagance. Being satisfied that my labor has been sincere, and feeling that some of the harsh criticism is entirely unjustified, and should not have been given, I shall support the report.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24—The hour is late, and I have no disposition to go into a discussion on the merits of this report. Neither do I care to take up the remarks that have been made by various gentlemen who have discussed it tonight. Let me say, as one of your committee, we labored as faithfully and impartially as any committee ever selected by this Council. We have made an impartial report. Now, there is no member but that has some one or more friends in the various departments in City Hall; but they laid aside personal preference, and gave the thing as fair and candid an investigation as we possibly could, and we have submitted our report. I don't hesitate to say it is a good report, no matter what has been said by my legal friend behind me [Mr. Pratt]. He has seen fit to call us a remarkable committee. There were eight of us, and no doubt we were a remarkable set of men. Perhaps each man had a remarkable preference for certain things. But I do not believe it is so remarkable a committee that our report is entitled to be called pickings and stealings. I do not think my friend seriously intended it. I do not think any gentleman would intentionally drop anything of that kind in this Council, or any other place. Now, let the report stand for what it is worth. So far as I am concerned, I care not. I have done what I believe to be my duty, and I believe every member of the committee has done the same. If the Council see fit not to accept our report, all right. If you see fit to put it through, I am satisfied. Only let me say that the committee believe that they have done their duty. Having done so, we are willing to take the consequences.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—In dissecting the merits of these two bills before the Council, with reference to which is the better to be adopted, I have noticed, and I think I ought to call attention to, one peculiarity in Document No. 20, and I can illustrate it as well as by reading the second ordinance in regard to the establishment of salaries in the City Clerk's Department. And section 3 reads as follows:

"Sect. 3. The City Clerk shall be allowed the services of one Clerk whose salary shall not exceed One Thousand Six Hundred Dollars per annum; one Clerk whose salary shall not exceed Fifteen Hundred Dollars per annum; one Clerk whose salary shall not exceed One Thousand Three Hundred and Fifty Dollars per annum; two Clerks whose salaries shall not exceed Eight Hundred and Fifty Dollars each per annum; one Clerk whose salary shall not exceed Eight Hundred Dollars per annum; and two clerks whose salaries shall not exceed Seven Hundred and Fifty Dollars each per annum."

I refer to this, Mr. President, merely as an illustration of each and all of the ordinances. I don't see for myself why the passage of that ordinance, which has the force of a by-law, does not establish these salaries by law, and establish a great many more offices than we have now; and if it is passed there is no possible way to get at them, or of reducing the expenses of that department, without coming back here and passing another ordinance.

In the other report, City Doc. 22, there is one feature that is characteristic of all the recommendations in that document. It reads—

"Sect. 3. The salary of the City Clerk shall be at the rate of $4500 per annum; and there shall be allowed a sum not exceeding $11,500, to be paid to his assistant clerks during the salary year, in monthly instalments, through the office of the Auditor of Accounts, on a pay roll certified to by the City Clerk. He shall account for all fees for recording mortgages of personal property, and for all other sums of money received in his official capacity."

That, you see, Mr. President, leaves it to the City Clerk, and if he does not need his whole eleven thousand dollars he is not obliged to pay it to the clerks. I suppose it occurs year after year that all of an appropriation made for the heads of departments and other employes each year is not used. Perhaps there will not be so many mortgages recorded in the City Clerk's office, and I don't believe the labor in 1877 will be more than two-thirds as much as it was in 1876 or in 1875. Now, shall we compel the City Clerk to have four or five assistants, as you will have if you pass the ordinances reported by the special committee. You will compel him to have so many clerks. The law will require him to have them whether he wants them or not. Whereas, in the other report, you appropriate so much money, but do not require it to be expended. These characteristics run through these documents. I refer to this by way of illustration, and we can judge the whole of them by one. It strikes me that the result will be no reduction, no retrenchment, and no reform, if these ordinances are passed; on the contrary, you will establish seventy-five or a hundred offices which do not now exist, which you cannot get rid of, and the salaries of which you cannot, however, change until you meet next year, whether the city's exigencies require it or not. I think that would be a lamentable result.

I have discovered what I believed to be the effect of the ordinance, and I thought I ought to call it to your attention. I think it is a useful if not an invariable custom before we pass these ordinances that they should go to the Committee on Ordinances. There is at least two of them in which the salaries are provided for by statute. I am quite sure of one, and I noticed there are verbal inaccuracies. I think it better to leave the establishment of these ordinances to the heads of departments. Let us see that we get honest heads of departments, and leave it to them—like the City Clerk, for instance. If he does not require the assistance in his department that he had in 1875, there will be an unexpended balance of the appropriation for the next year. I should hope that, whichever report is passed, we shall take it up separately, and not as a whole, and discuss it. If we are to take one or the other, I must give my vote for City Doc. No. 22.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—The gentleman is a lawyer and I am not. I would like to ask him a question. The ordinance reads that the City Clerk shall be allowed the services of these different clerks. If he is allowed so many clerks, is he obliged to keep them, and can he not discharge them? Can he not cut the salaries down, if he deems it expedient?

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—It has been stated that these offices become elective, so to speak. If so, I do not see how he could discharge them. I think this would require the City Clerk to appoint them, and I do not see how he could escape from it. I think he will be required to make these appointments which the law requires to be made.

Mr. McGaragle—The gentleman who has just taken his seat may be a good lawyer, and I have no doubt he is. To my mind he would make a good member of a returning board, for he never wants to go behind the returns. But unfortunately for him, he cites one of the most honest men in City Hall when he cites the City Clerk—the only man who had the courage and manliness to ask that his salary be reduced.

Mr. Richardson—If I made any remark that could be construed as a reflection upon the integrity of the City Clerk, I did not so intend. I have known Mr. McCleary for twenty years, and I have the highest respect for him.

Mr. McGaragle—I did not intend to say that the gentleman meant to cast any reflection upon the City Clerk. I was about to say that he was the only man in City Hall who had the courage to go before the committee and ask that his salary be reduced ten per cent.; and the man who does that, if he sees that he does not need so many clerks and has not labor for them, I do not think he will hire them, or pay them either. If he has not got the labor for them he will not spend the city's money for them. You might say, on the same principle, that if you make an appropriation of a hundred thousand dollars you were bound to spend the whole of it. I do not think the City Clerk will spend one cent for clerk hire that he does not need.

Mr. Pratt—I simply want to make a personal explanation. It has been suggested that in the warmth of discussion I called the Retrenchment Committee by an opprobrious epithet. If in speaking of the committee on pickings and stealings there is any taint of opprobrium or epithet, I wish distinctly to withdraw it, for I have a high respect for the committee. I used the epithet as descriptive of their doings, rather than descriptive of the committee, and as descriptive of their doings I cannot withdraw it. It has been stated that the City Clerk requested a reduction of his salary, and a reduction of ten per cent. in the salaries of his clerks. I have the authority of the City Clerk for the statement that, supposing that they would attempt to impose upon him the duties of the Registrars of Voters, he preferred to have a reduction of his salary rather than again assume those duties; but that he did not request a reduction in the salaries of his clerks. If a reduction was to be made, he would be happy to point out where it could be done, and he was surprised to see that the committee fixed the salaries without consulting him.

Mr. Souther of Ward 14—I understand the Committee on Retrenchment to say they acted on the suggestion of the City Clerk. I have positive information that there are $3000 received from the fees of the office, and that the committee intended to make a reduction of ten per cent. in the salaries in that department; but instead of ten per cent. there is a reduction of eighteen per cent. In taking the power to fix the salaries of his clerks I think great injustice has been done the Assistant City Clerk, who was formerly clerk in Charlestown at $2500 a year, and when he came here at $2000 he was promised an increase. Now it is proposed to reduce him to $1800. When the matter comes up, I shall move that his salary be increased to $2500, as was promised.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I have been waiting patiently and hearing the able arguments, to see if I could be convinced on this subject. I have been looking over the doings of past years, and find that the salary bill is a great bugbear. I found that when salaries were to be increased it would take an hour and a half, but when you cut them down it takes a great deal longer. I like this report of the joint standing committee, particularly where they say—

“With a view of ascertaining whether the city is paying larger salaries to its officers than private corporations for corresponding services, the committee have made inquiries, the result of which has satisfied them that salaried officers of the city are receiving no more, and in some instances not as much, as the officers of such corporations.”

That sounds real good. Then again they say—

“The general depression of all kinds of business and the recognized fact that business men are not making the profits of previous years, being sometimes urged as reasons for a general reduction of salaries, it is to be remembered that this state of affairs must, of necessity, prove but temporary; and that when business revives, and money is again being made, salaried officers continue at routine salaries, and do not partake of the general prosperity.”

I would like to ask gentlemen if they found that to be a fact; if so, I don't want to vote to cut down salaries. I do not believe in the amendment. I would rather take the report of the joint special committee as I find it. I had almost made up my mind, and told several parties I should vote for it as a whole. I believe that this is the work of a year, and if we are to censure any committee it should be the one appointed last year on the equalization of salaries, who, after having a whole year to look over it, left us as we were last year. While I do not believe in commissions, I think it would be one of the best things to have an equalization of salaries in all the departments. I believe in reduction, and I will tell you why. My grocery and provision bills are not so much as they used to be, and I know by sad experience that house rents are not so high. I have noticed that there are one or two kinds of bills that do not come down much—lawyers' and doctors' fees do not, and taxes don't. I am personally interested in all these. I don't believe in having much trouble, and lawyers don't get much from me; I keep pretty well, and doctors don't get much. But all I can do, they tax me. The gentlemen have figured it that it don't cost but fifteen cents on $1000. That is not much, but it is a good deal if you have not got any more. Fifteen cents on a thousand here and there will amount to a good deal. If we can bring down taxes in any way, I believe we ought to do it in justice to the people. We have a good set of city officers and I should be the last to cut down their salaries unless I believed it right to do so. It is really cutting down their pay and making them do more work. We have cut down the appropriations so much that there is really more brain work required in the various departments. If business had been going on for the past three years we should not care much about cutting them down; but we have had to pinch the dollars, and I believe it is right to cut down salaries. I believe we could save money in expenditures and not touch the salaries of heads of departments at all, if a committee would go into it properly. But as that cannot be done, and as we are all together in the same boat, I ask gentlemen here where people are going to get the money to pay these salaries with? It is easy to put up a salary, but not easy to pay it if you have not got the money. A great deal of revenue comes from real estate, and I ask gentlemen here how much money they get from real estate? I have had to pay ten per cent. on some of my taxes because I could not get the money to pay them. If we should amend this bill I suppose we should tear it all to pieces, and gentlemen would not know it is the same bill.

Mr. Blanchard moved the previous question.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—I hope the motion will not prevail. I think the bill can be improved and I think we should try to improve it. Let us discuss it until we are satisfied with it and then vote it either up or down, whichever way our judgment may direct. I am not satisfied with this bill, and I am not satisfied with the salary bill. If it is improved I should prefer the report of the Retrenchment Committee; but if we are pressed to vote tonight I shall vote against that report simply because there is no opportunity to make amendments. I do not think it is right to press this matter through without giving an opportunity for amendments. It is very evident from what we have heard, that the committee have not given sufficient time to their report. Gentlemen have pointed out cases where injustice has been done, and I suppose if this committee had looked into the matter they would not have reported on those particular cases as they have done. From what has been said I have no doubt the committee went to the heads of departments and consulted them in regard to retrenchment, and after getting what information they could they took their own course. They don't seem to have paid any attention to the suggestions made by the heads of departments. I don't think they have taken time enough to prepare their report. The report is not satisfactory, and we ought to have an opportunity to amend it. It seems to me that if it is pressed now it will not be adopted by the Council.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Do I understand that in case the previous question is ordered, if the amendment is rejected and the report of the committee with the ordinances is passed to a second reading, that then the ordinances can be taken up separately upon their final passage?

The President—The whole question will then be open for debate and amendment upon the passage of the ordinances.

Mr. Pratt hoped the matter would not be laid upon the table, as it was desirable to make one step in advance tonight.

The motion to lay upon the table was lost by a division of 21 for and 39 against.

The Council refused to order the main question, and the question recurred upon the substitute.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 moved to adjourn. Lost.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3 moved to specially assign the whole subject to eight o'clock next Thursday evening.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—I trust that motion will not prevail. We want to make a commencement tonight and see how we stand. We shall be in the same position next Thursday night that we are in tonight and shall discuss it from the commencement of the session to the end, and then some member will move that the Council adjourn. If we cannot pass it let us kill it, and if we are going to kill it let us do it now.

Mr. Stone—We have received some information about this matter, and I would like to look further. If it is specially assigned to next Thursday evening, we can then come to some conclusion.

The motion to specially assign was declared lost.

On motion of Mr. Duggan of Ward 12, the yeas and nays were ordered upon the question of substitution.

The motion to substitute was lost—yeas 22, nays 41.

Yeas—Messrs. Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth,

Felt, Hibbard, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Smardon, Sonther, Stone, Thompson, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—22.

Nays—Messrs. Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Longhlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, J. H. Pierce, Reed, Roach, Roberts, Shepard, Sibley, Spenceley, Thorndike, Vose, G. B. Webster—41.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Barnard, Blodgett, Brown, Fernald, Ham, Popc, Ruffin, Upham—8.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18 moved "That the several ordinances be recommitted to the Committee on Retrenchment, with instructions to report a salary bill reducing the salaries of all persons in the employ of the city now receiving at least $1500 but less than $3000, reducing them ten per cent.; and reducing the salaries of all employes receiving at least $3000 but less than $4000 fifteen per cent.; and reducing all receiving $4000 and over twenty per cent."

Mr. Howes—There is a very trite saying that it is better to "go the whole hog or none," and very firmly I believe in that. If members are prepared to make a reduction, as it seems, I am willing to cut down everywhere, and not take a little here and there; but I am willing to cut down evenly. If members are in earnest and honest in their statements, I know of no better plan of making a reduction than by a percentage reduction of all salaries named in the order. The committee have said it was part of their policy to average the salaries and take off from one man who seemed to be getting too much, and cut down but very little where he was paid a small amount. Now, sir, has this committee done that? This committee, composed of eight members, six of whom were not in the City Government last year, and five had never been here before—are they to go through all the departments and say this man is getting too much and that one too little; and all this done inside of six weeks? I say it is not possible for any committee to do justice to the subject in that time. If we intend to cut down salaries, let us cut down pro rata. We assume that men are getting what they are worth; and if so, a percentage reduction will reduce them equally. That is what I favor. I am not in favor of any plan that cuts off a little from one and spares another.

Mr. Hibbard—I certainly hope this amendment will prevail. I am decidedly opposed to establishing salaries by ordinance. I am surprised that we should find eight men from the two branches of the City Government who would do this thing when they have not had much experience in the City Government. I don't think the City Council is prepared tonight, or at any time, to take charge of the employes of the trustees of the various institutions. It seems to me that we cannot fix their salaries as equitably as the trustees can. It seems to me that we stand here in about the position that the Board of Directors do to a railroad corporation. We elect members of the various city institutions and they use the appropriations we make. If we take away that power from them we are weakening our institutions very much. I hope this amendment will not prevail, because I am decidedly opposed to establishing the salaries of the employes by ordinance.

Mr. Beeching—It is very evident that we cannot finish this matter tonight. It is rather late. I rather favor the substitute. It will bear examination and discussion. This matter can come up as unfinished business at the next meeting, and I move that the Council now adjourn.

The motion prevailed and the Council adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

MARCH 19, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor in the chair.

JURORS DRAWN.

Traverse jurors were drawn as follows: 41 for the Supreme Judicial Court; 32 for the first and 44 for the second session of the Superior Court.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATION.

Police Officer—Patrick H. Burke. Confirmed.
Special Police Officers Without Pay—Charles E. Stowe, John Bourne, Monument-square M. E. Church; David Ahern, Long wharf; John H. Kerr, Lenox street and its vicinity; Walter O. Packard, Lawrence Building and its vicinity, East Canton street; Oliver Moulton, James D. Kelley, P. H. Curley, John F. Sias, Abraham Goodwin, George O. Moulton, Forest Hills Cemetery; Charles Chittenden, Federal-street gasholders; William H. Durell, George H. Jenning, Joseph K. Lowe, John McDonald, John Hill, James Campbell, John Kenney, John Burns, Stephen Nelson, Boston Gaslight Company; William E. Ford, Central Library; George H. Hosea, East Boston Branch Library; Joseph Baker, South Boston Branch Library; Charles R. Curtis, Roxbury Branch Library; Cornelius S. Carter, Thomas E. Smith, Charlestown Branch Library; Charles T. Wheeler, Brighton Branch Library; Edward Davenport, Dorchester Branch Library. Several confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Paving. Augustus Stevens, for leave to sprinkle the streets of East Boston with salt water; Richard Sullivan et al., that Cambridge street, from Main street to the line of Somerville, be paved with granite blocks, and that the sidewalk of the Peacock estate on Cambridge street, Charlestown, be paved; Adoniram Curtis, Philip Sowdon, Jr., and Malachi Clark, for leave to sprinkle certain streets; Lucretia M. Wentworth, for abatement of assessment for sidewalk at No. 10 Warren place; heirs of Bridget McNanamy, for abatement of assessment for sidewalk at 205 London street, East Boston; John Gornley, for leave to sprinkle certain streets in this city; George B. Spaulding & Co. et al., that Harrison avenue be paved with granite blocks; Catherine O'Brien, for abatement of assessment for laying edgestones.

Petitions for leave to move Wooden Buildings by John Cavanagh—From rear 332 Dorchester street to Vinton street; from 24 Preble street to Vinton street; from 15 Rogers street to Vinton street; from 22 Preble street to Vinton street; from 13 Rogers street to rear of Vinton street; from 20 Preble street to Vinton street; from 382 Dorchester street to 549 Dorchester avenue.

To the Committee on Sewers. Benjamin Burlingame, to be paid for damages to his estate by taking a portion of his land for sewer purposes in Berkeley place, Ward 24; William Gray, Jr., notice of intention to apply for a jury to revise his assessment for a sewer in Dorchester Brook Valley.

To the Joint Committee on the Harbor. Robert Kelly and other pilots against any change of duties of Harbor Master, Harbor Police, etc.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for Leave to occupy Stables—John S. Kemp, new wooden, two horses, Alaska street; Theodore Leutz, new wooden, three horses, Boylston street, Ward 23; Peter B. Brigham, new brick, seventy-three horses, 178 Portland street; Thomas Gogin, old wooden, two horses, rear 40 and 41 Vinton street; Merriam & Norton, old wooden, two horses, Monument street.

To the Joint Committee on East Boston Ferries. Company H, Ninth Battalion Infantry, M. V. M., that the militia companies of East Boston be allowed to pass over the ferries free from tolls; also that tolls paid by them be refunded.

To the Joint Committee on Public Lands. Henry G. Dorr, that his bond for land on Hamilton street be cancelled and a new one with other conditions be issued.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Mrs. A. E. Porter, for compensation for personal injuries by reason of alleged defect in Dudley street.

To the Joint Committee on Fire Department. James Crosby and 119 other members of the Fire Department, for an amendment to the Fire Department Ordinance so that certificates of seven years service may be issued to those entitled thereto.

To the Committee on Police. John Kelley et al., for an investigation into the conduct of Police Officer E. W. Freeman, who recently shot Edward Rice in Charlestown.

To the Committee on Lamps. John Preston et al., for additional lamps on Mill street, Ward 24.

HORSE RAILROAD HEARINGS.

The Board proceeded to the special assignments, viz., hearings on sundry horse-railroad locations.

South Boston Railroad. Petition for leave to unite their Federal-street track with the Kneeland street of the Metropolitan Railroad.

Benjamin Dean, counsel for the South Boston, explained the location desired. It is made in pursuance of an arrangement between the presidents of the South Boston and Middlesex railroads, to enable the latter road to reach the Old Colony depot.

C. A. Richards, president of the Metropolitan road, said that in his absence one day the two roads got married, and he was here to let the South Boston road, who is the bride, know what kind of a bridegroom she has.

Mr. Dean said it was not exactly a marriage; but it was because the South Boston road was afraid she would be ravished if she did not agree to the arrangement.

Recommitted to Committee on Paving.

Middlesex Railroad. Petition for leave to connect their track at Beach and Lincoln streets with the South Boston Railroad track, and to use the track of the South Boston Railroad in portions of Beach street, Kneeland and South streets, and a portion of the track of the Metropolitan Railroad in Federal street.

Charles E. Powers, president of the Middlesex road, explained the location asked for, and the agreement entered into.

Mr. Richards inquired of Mr. Powers how many cars per hour he considers he has the right to run through Washington street, south of Cornhill, and Mr. Powers said they were restricted to twelve in one hour; if allowed to go to the Old Colony they should certainly not be required to run less. Whether twelve additional cars should be run to the Old Colony depot was a question which had not been seriously considered: they would run no more than the Board gave permission.

Mr. Richards said he knew the Middlesex road claimed the right to run twelve cars to the depots, in addition to the twelve allowed to be run to Temple place. He did not desire to remonstrate against the petition, but he wanted a limit placed on the number allowed to run to the depots. Mr. Richards read from the proceedings of the Board in 1876 to show that it was intended to limit the number of cars to twelve per hour to the depots; that such was the distinct understanding of the Paving Committee who reported the order. Mr. Richards desired that question thoroughly settled, and the number of cars decided upon before the location is granted.

Mr. Powers said he was at a loss to know what the question raised by Mr. Richards had to do with this petition. If it is necessary to run more than twelve, and they have not the right, they will come here and ask for the permit. If they had the right they would run more than twelve whenever it becomes necessary.

Mr. Richards said the question ought to be settled then and there; "whenever it may be deemed necessary" should not be left to the judgment of the president of the Middlesex road, but should be decided by the Board.

Mr. Dean desired all doubt removed in relation to the number of cars. The South Boston road understands that this location is to take the place of the location allowing twelve cars to be run to the Albany depot. He did not want the Middlesex road to have the privilege of choosing whether they will run to the Albany or Old Colony depots when a train comes in. Mr. Dean gave some statistics showing that the business of the South Boston road had decreased in receipts, while their expenditures had greatly increased.

Mr. Powers said he regretted there had been a misunderstanding; he desired to be restricted to twelve cars an hour, as he did not desire more than that, and if he had the privilege of running more he would not use it. Under the arrangement made the South Boston road are to get to four depots to two by the Middlesex.

The subject was recommitted to the Committee on Paving, on motion of Alderman Clark.

Metropolitan Railroad. Petition for a location on Atlantic avenue, and for a track across Dover street at Harrison avenue.

Mr. Richards explained the location asked for, and filed a plan thereof. Since the cars began running on the avenue they had been pressed for an extension of the tracks; particularly by the agents of the boats. They proposed either to run from the northerly depots to Hanover street, and thence to the ferries, and then up the avenue; or to continue the present line around to the ferries. The present plans will allow them to operate both ways, or either. He had been so pressed for the route that he now came and asked for it on behalf of the people. In corroboration he would call a few witnesses.

George L. Thayer, lessee of the Union wharf, said it would be a great advantage to parties doing business on the avenue, and to those who have to go there temporarily; and also for people who come in and go out on the steamers.

William K. Ritchie, superintendent of the line of steamers running from Lewis wharf, which carried upwards of 40,000 passengers during the season, a larger portion of whom come from the South End, thought a line going either way on the avenue would be a public accommodation.

E. W. James appeared as a remonstrant, charging that the object was to get a location and do nothing; he wanted a proviso that the location be revoked if it is not used within a year.

William Burnett did not think there was room enough for the track on Commercial street, where there is at present a great deal of trouble on account of the steam tracks. The abutters wanted to be fairly treated. The street is not convenient for a horse-car track now.

The subject was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

The hearing on the petition of the Metropolitan road in Lenox street, postponed from last week, was next taken up.

The Mayor read the various remonstrances from abutters on Lenox street; also a petition of 175 persons residing on or near Lenox street in favor of the location.

Mr. Richards explained the petition. The object was to connect the Tremont and Washington street tracks, there being none between above Dover street. They have to take a car every day to the repair shops at the Tremont-street crossing, and this location will allow it to be done more conveniently. Then this location would be convenient in case of a fire on Tremont street or Washington street, and would allow the patrons to be transported without great delay. Another object of the petition was to allow residents of the Highlands to get to Columbus avenue, the necessity for which had been proved by the president of the Highland road. He explained the transfer system to go into operation on April 1st, which was done without a demand from the people or a petition for it. This cross track will be a greater advantage to the people than to the road.

Stillman B. Allen appeared for the trustees of the Washington Market to remonstrate. The only question is how far the public interests demand horse-car accommodations. The remonstrants represent two-thirds of the valuation of Lenox street. If a road runs through Lenox street there will be great delay in transacting business at the market. He showed that many of the petitioners did not live on Lenox street; while the remonstrants are property owners on the street. They are not opposed to the Metropolitan road, but oppose the laying of any track there because it will incommode business. The street is only twenty-seven feet wide, and teams frequently have to stand there while unloading; as also the teams of customers. In winter the snow would be piled up on each side of the track, which would be a still greater inconvenience. Besides, Lenox street has nice, well-preserved wood pavement, and the track will spoil it for driving. He called witnesses for the remonstrances:

W. J. R. Evans, one of the trustees of the Washington Market, said the proceeds go for charitable purposes. The track would be a serious damage to the estate. He is also an executor of an estate owning a vacant lot on the opposite side, and he protested, on behalf of that estate, what Mr. Allen had said was true.

Mr. Porter, an occupant of the market, corroborated the statements of Mr. Allen in regard to the inconvenience it would be to the business men there.

Mr. John Lamb, owner of store property on the corner of Shawmut avenue and Lenox street, considered that the track would be ruinous to business there. He indorsed what had been said by other speakers. [To Mr. Richards]—He considered the tracks on Shawmut avenue a disadvantage to his estate; and if he had it in his power he would have them removed, though he signed the petition for the Highland road. He wanted horse railroads on wide streets.

Mr. Jenney, Superintendent of Washington Market, corroborated the statements of Mr. Evans and Mr. Allen. He had frequently seen twenty teams backed up at the market between eight and eleven o'clock in the forenoon. They could not do business if the cars go through there.

This closed the case for the remonstrants.

Mr. Richards said it was the first time he ever knew an attorney and a trustee to claim entire ownership in a street. He proposed to put life into a dead market by bringing business there. The marketmen seemed desirous of getting goods into the market, but did not seem to want to get them out. Is a carload of cabbages of more importance than a carload of human beings? The street is wide enough for the teams to unload and allow the cars to pass. The Board is to be the judge whether public convenience requires a track in any street. Objection will come from any street. The street does not belong to William Evans & Co. even if they own the land on each side.

Mr. Allen, in reply to Mr. Richards, said Mr. Richards said to him that the location was to go from depot to depot; but the amount of necessary travel in the street would be less than one car car travel. There is not another cross street of its width, at the South End, where there is so much business done. He was willing to let the road go in streets where the cars are needed, but not where they will impede business.

Mr. Jenney, in reply to questions asked by Mr. Richards, said there is a driveway leading to a yard back of the market, where there are sheds intended for farmers to sell produce, but it is not so used now. Don't think the teams could unload so conveniently in the yard, if it is used for the purpose for which it is intended. There is not room for fifteen teams to unload.

The matter was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for Committee on Legislative Affairs to procure an amendment to the statute in relation to Sinking Funds so that the amount to be raised by taxation to meet loans shall be more equitably distributed over the terms of said loans. Passed. Sent down.

Order to abate a sidewalk assessment on B. P. Palmer of $13.62 for sidewalk on Brighton street, and to assess said amount on Joseph H. Dewing. Passed.

SOUTH BOSTON RAILROAD.

The order for the thirteenth location of South Boston Railroad, by which the cars of that company are allowed to run to Causeway street (City Doc. No 34), was considered under unfinished business.

Alderman Thompson—This order has been represented by the eloquent counsel as the representative of the bride, and as the bridegroom has also an order before the Committee on Paving, in order that the representatives of the bride and bridegroom may go through together I move that this order be laid on the table.

The motion prevailed.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Certificate of election of George W. Pope as trustee of City Hospital in place of Thomas L. Jenks, chosen by this Board. Alderman Viles said he was authorized to withdraw the name of Thomas L. Jenks. On his motion the matter was laid on the table for the present.

Report of Committee on Finance, with order to transfer from Reserved Fund to appropriation for Back Bay Streets, $5000. Order passed—yeas 12, nays—in concurrence.

Report of Examining Committee on Trust Funds of Overseers of Poor, showing amount of invested funds, $493,180.60; cash on hand, $5485.32; total, $498,665.92. Accepted in concurrence.

BACK BAY NUISANCE.

A communication was received from the Board of Health and referred to the Joint Committee on Health setting forth the character of the nuisance existing near the junction of Commonwealth avenue and Parker street. They recommend that until the prospective system of sewerage is completed, there should be temporary means used to keep the flats covered by gates at the sluiceway or otherwise, and that the creek leading from Parker street to the Boston & Providence Railroad be filled with gravel, and the Berlin street plank sewer be extended to Parker street. Sent down.

LOCATION ACCEPTED.

A communication was received from the Middlesex Railroad accepting the location granted by this Board Feb. 19, 1877. Placed on file.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Ordered, That the sum of $15.05 be abated from the amount assessed Thomas F. Baker for furnishing and laying sidewalk on Parker street; said abatement being for an error in assessment.

Ordered, That the sum of $19.34 be abated from the amount assessed William S. Pattee for furnishing and setting edgestones and paving sidewalks on Heath street; said abatement being for an error in assessment.

Read twice and passed.

Ordered, That permission be granted to the Boston & Albany Railroad Corporation to lay down a temporary track in Commonwealth avenue, between Hereford street and West Chester park, and in West Chester park, between the railroad bridge and Commonwealth avenue, and to run cars over the same for the purpose of grading the adjacent land with gravel; said tracks to be removed on or before the 15th day of May.

Read twice and passed.

Ordered, That the sidewalk assessment of $114.36 against the estate of the Association for the Protection of Destitute Catholic Children, on East Concord street, be and the same is hereby abated.

Read twice and passed.

Report that no action is necessary on petition of B. P. Palmer for abatement of sidewalk assessment at 19 Brighton street. Accepted.

Reports granting leave to David Richards to move wooden buildings from Dorchester avenue to Park street, and from Monument street to Medford street. Severally accepted.

HORSE-CAR TRACKS IN COLUMBUS AVENUE.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving (City Doc. 35):

The Committee on Paving, to whom was recommended the subject of location of tracks in Columbus avenue, Northampton and other streets, with instructions to report an order granting permission to the Highland Street Railway Company to lay down tracks on Hammond street, Northampton street and Columbus avenue, and authorizing the Metropolitan Railroad Company to run a certain number of cars over said tracks, respectfully submit the following order.

R. W. ROBINSON, } Committee
LUCIUS SLADE, } on
JOHN E. FITZGERALD, } Paving.

Ordered, That in addition to the rights heretofore granted to the Highland Street Railway Company to lay down tracks in several of the streets of the city of Boston, said company shall have the right to lay down double tracks as follows, viz.: Commencing at a point in the tracks of the Highland Street Railway on Shawmut avenue, opposite Ball street, thence by curved tracks in Shawmut avenue to Hammond street, thence through Hammond street to Tremont street, and thence by curved tracks in said Tremont street to the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad as now laid down on said street, and to connect said curved tracks with the tracks of said Metropolitan Railroad.

Again, commencing at a point in the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad on Tremont street near Northampton street, thence by curved tracks in said Tremont street to Northampton street, thence in Northampton street to Columbus avenue, and in Columbus avenue to Berkeley street, and across Berkeley street to the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad as now laid down on Columbus avenue easterly of Berkeley street, there to connect the tracks of said Highland Street Railway with the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad.

Again, commencing at a point in the tracks of the Highland Street Railway on Shawmut avenue near Northampton street, thence through Northampton street to Tremont street, and across Tremont street to connect with the tracks located by this order in Northampton street between Tremont street and Columbus avenue. The several tracks located by this order being shown on plans drawn by W. S. Barbour and A. Hodges, civil engineers, dated Dec. 20, 1876, and deposited in the office of the Superintendent of Streets.

Said Highland Street Railway Company shall also have the right, until otherwise ordered by the Board of Aldermen, to enter upon and use with its horses and cars the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Tremont street between Hammond street and Northampton street, and also the tracks of the Metropolitan Railroad Company on Columbus avenue from Berkeley street to Park square, and on Park square and Boylston street to Tremont street.

The right to lay down the tracks located by this order is upon the condition that the whole work of laying down the same, the form of rail to be used, and the kind and quality of material to be used in paving said tracks shall be under the direction and to the satisfaction of the Committee on Paving and the Superintendent of Streets, and shall be approved by them. Also, upon the condition that the said Highland Street Railway shall accept this order of location, and shall agree, in writing, to comply with the conditions therein contained, and shall file said acceptance and agreement with the City Clerk within thirty days of the date of its passage; otherwise it shall be null and void.

The Metropolitan Railroad Company are hereby authorized to enter upon and use with its horses and cars the tracks located by this order on Northampton street and Columbus avenue to the same extent that said tracks are used by the Highland Street Railway Company, the number of trips or cars to be run by said companies to be determined, from time to time, by the Board of Aldermen.

The order was given a second reading, on motion of Alderman Robinson, and put upon its passage.

Alderman Wilder—The matter of this location has been very fully discussed; and although I have taken no part in the discussion, I have been an interested listener. My first impressions were that the location of any road upon Columbus avenue at the present time was not proper. But, sir, the arguments that have been brought to bear, and the proof that has been shown before the Board, have led me to somewhat modify my opinion and to bring me in accord with the opinion of the majority of the Board as announced at our last meeting. I do not rise to oppose this location; for I believe, as gentlemen have stated, that it is only a question of time as to the location of tracks in Columbus avenue. Personally I regret the location of any tracks there, but I believe it to be inevitable. The Board have decided that public necessity requires it, and now perhaps is the best time to grant it. While the two companies are applying for it, I believe it to be proper for us, as guardians of the rights and interests of the people, to do strict and exact justice to all parties, and to avail ourselves, in behalf of the people, of all the accommodations which the rival companies promise to furnish. I have no objection to the order. I like it. It gives the Highland company the right to lay down the track. I do not object to that. I have no choice which company should lay the track; and I also like the provision allowing the other company equal rights in the location. It has been stated that the Metropolitan Company petitioned for it, not because they wanted to build it, but because they wanted to prevent the other company from getting the location; and it has also been stated to me that parties did not believe the Highland road would lay the tracks. Upon that point I have no doubts, for I am sure that whichever company gets it is ready to build the tracks and equip the route in the superior manner which their presidents have promised. But, sir, I believe it is proper for us to insure the construction of those tracks; and if the company to whom this order grants the right should fail to comply with its conditions, if they fail to construct the track as they agree to, then I believe the Metropolitan company should have the right to step in and do it after the Highland company have forfeited their right. In order to insure the public this superior accommodation, I desire to offer an amendment to the order covering the points to which I have alluded. With this amendment, I am satisfied to vote for the order:

“And under the further proviso and condition that in case this order of location, with the provisions hereiu granted to the Metropolitan Railroad Company, is not accepted by the Highland Street Railway within the time herein granted; or in case said Highland Street Railway does not, after said acceptance, lay down and complete the construction of said tracks ready for use before July 1, 1877, then, in either case the Metropolitan Railroad Company shall have the right to accept the location herein granted, and to file an acceptance of the same in the office of the City Clerk at any time after default as aforesaid and within thirty days after said July 1, 1877, and may construct said tracks and shall have the exclusive right to use the same with its horses and cars; and all rights of the Highland Street Railway Company under this order and location shall cease, and said location shall be and become the location of the Metropolitan Railroad Company."

Alderman Fitzgerald—Does it limit the Metropolitan Railroad to any time?

The Mayor—Thirty days.

Alderman Fitzgerald—That is the acceptance of the location, but not the laying down of the tracks. They have accepted locations in several streets, but have not laid down the tracks. I believe with the Alderman, that if this location is granted they should accommodate the people within a reasonable time. If the 1st of July be considered by the Board a reasonable time for the Highland road, I have no objection to it myself; but I think it is giving them a very short time. If it is put the 1st of August or September that will give them a fair opportunity to lay the tracks. I am equally desirous with the Alderman that the granting of this location shall be no sham.

Alderman Wilder—I will agree to change it to the 1st of August, to show that there is no sham on my part.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I have no doubt about that; and I am willing to provide that the Highland road shall build the tracks on Columbus avenue so that the Metropolitan can use them, or else this order shall be null and void, provided the Highland have a fair time to build them. The Alderman does not presume in his amendment to contemplate that the location shall belong to both roads?

Alderman Wilder—No, sir.

Alderman Fitzgerald—But if the Metropolitan build it then the Highland shall have the privilege of going over it?

Alderman Wilder—Certainly.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I shall ask that they be allowed till the 1st of September.

Alderman Wilder—The President of the Highland road says he does not want any more time.

Alderman Fitzgerald—If he wants no more time then I am content.

Alderman Wilder—I will accept the 1st day of August, although the President of the Highland road does not want any more time; he says he will order the rails next week or tomorrow.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I withdraw the amendment [1st September].

Alderman Robinson—In all human probability the Columbus-avenue Bridge will have to be built this season, and it will not be possible to use the track before the 1st of September.

The amendment of Alderman Wilder was adopted.

Alderman O'Brien—I move an amendment to the last paragraph of the order as follows:

"Provided that no more cars shall pass into Boylston and Tremont streets than now go there."

I offer that amendment, Mr. Mayor, in the interest of Boylston and Tremont streets, in the interest of the taxpayers of Boston, who, I believe, do not want Boylston and Tremont streets widened to accommodate horse cars. I offer it also in the interest of our Common, because I do not believe the citizens of Boston would like to have Columbus avenue extended to Park street. I hope the amendment will be adopted.

Alderman Clark—I move as an amendment to the amendment that the number of cars to pass through Boylston and Tremont streets shall be subject to the order of the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman O'Brien called for the yeas and nays upon the amendment to the amendment.

Alderman Thompson—I think that is provided for in the last section of the order, which states that the number of trips to be run by said companies shall be determined from time to time by the Board of Aldermen. I don't see but that it is already provided for.

Alderman Clark—I withdraw the motion. I think the order covers the whole ground. I hope the amendment offered by the Alderman from Ward 21 will not prevail, because it might prevent the cars from running over the avenue. Inasmuch as ten members of the Board have voted to allow cars to run over the avenue, it will hardly be justice to the residents on the avenue to refuse to give the cars permission to run there.

Alderman Robinson—When General Sherman started on his march to the sea, President Lincoln said he could see where Sherman went in to make a glorious march, but he could not see where he was coming out. That very matter has bothered me more than anything else. That order was reported by the committee without discussion on the order passed last Monday. How many cars are going to be run down Tremont street, I cannot make out. One thing is certain—it would not be judicious to let another car pass down Tremont street from Temple place to Cornhill. A large number of cars pass there every minute, and it seems to me that the question should be settled tonight how they are going to get out of Boylston street.

Alderman Fitzgerald—This is simply an order of location. It does not give them the right to run any more cars over the circuit than they now have. If the Highland Railroad want to run any more cars around the circuit than they do now they will have to go to this Board and ask to be allowed to run additional cars, and then will be the time for the Alderman [Alderman Robinson] to make his speech in opposition to the Highland Railway running any more cars over that route. Now, so far as the running of cars over Boylston street will tend to widening that street by cutting off the Common, we have nothing to do with that. The citizens of Boston will have nothing to do with cutting off the Common; for if this legislative act passes, Boston Common will be placed under such careful guardianship that even the Alderman to my right [Alderman O'Brien] will have no jurisdiction over the Common, because a gentleman from Berkshire will have more to say about it than any Alderman at this Board. So far as the Common is concerned, I have no fear at all; and I am as jealously attached to the Common as my friend Alderman O'Brien is; and I will vote every time against taking it for purposes for which it has been used before.

Alderman Wilder—I only rise to say what my friend on the right [Alderman Fitzgerald] has said so much better than I can—that the question of running any more cars was not before us by any means; and simply to restate what he has stated, that they cannot run additional cars on Tremont street or get any additional rights over any track until they come here, and we, after a proper hearing, grant the location. I am opposed to the amendment of Alderman O'Brien simply because we do not need it and it is not germane to the subject before the Board.

Alderman O'Brien—The best answer I could give to the two Aldermen who have just taken their seats is the argument brought up here today by the South Boston, Middlesex and Metropolitan railroads. In granting the location to the Middlesex Railroad last year it is stated distinctly that it is a disputed question whether the Middlesex had the privilege of running twelve cars an hour to the depots in addition to the twelve allowed to run up Washington street, or not, and the president of the Middlesex Railroad says he will have to take legal advice in that matter. I draw the inference from his remarks that he thinks he has the right to run twenty-four cars an hour through Washington street. I think that answers the argument brought up here today in relation to this new location. It ought to be distinctly understood, when this location is granted, how many cars they are to run, where they are to come from, and where they are to go. The Alderman opposite [Alderman Clark] opposes it because he stated that he would be willing to widen Tremont street and destroy the cemetery; he is so anxious to accommodate the horse cars. I say there is danger in this pressure on Boylston street. Yesterday, after church, when I was passing down Tremont street I counted forty cars from the corner of the burial ground to a short distance below Temple place; the street was completely blocked up. There are a great many times during the day that that street is blocked up with horse cars, and I say that this Board ought to protect that street from further intrusion.

Alderman Robinson—I think, with my friend who has just spoken, that this matter ought to be settled here. It is better to settle it now than to bring it up afterwards.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I will suppose we do all that is asked by the Aldermen to the left and right [Aldermen Robinson and O'Brien], what is to prevent the companies coming here six weeks from now and asking the Board of Aldermen to give them a new number of cars to run? Nothing at all. It seems to me that whole question is irrelevant to the question before us. If we put into that order of location that the Highland road shall run only six cars more than they now run round the circuit, what is to prevent them from coming here six months from now and asking for fifteen cars? The Highland road do not ask for any more cars, and we shall be giving them what they do not ask. In regard to the Middlesex road, that is a matter of interpretation. If they interpret the orders to mean twenty-four cars, and somebody else says twelve, the fault is in the making of the orders. There is no such question now. If they build the tracks they cannot run a single car beyond the junction of Boylston and Tremont streets more than they do now; and if they want additional cars it is for this Board to determine whether it will give them any more or not.

Alderman Thompson—I agree with the gentleman who has just taken his seat, that this whole thing is irrelevant. The order leaves it to the Board of Aldermen to determine the number of trips. We can revoke this order at any time, and I do not see why it is not as well as it can be in that respect.

Alderman Robinson—It does not state where the cars are going to run to at all. It allows them to come to the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets and there leaves them.

Alderman Wilder—That question is not before us.

Alderman Robinson—I do not see why the amendment of Alderman O'Brien is not germane to the subject.

Alderman O'Brien—That question is before us; the amendment I offered brings it before us. It says distinctly, provided that no more cars shall go in a certain direction. The reason why it is opposed is because they want to leave it an open question. The question is before us, and it is perfectly competent for this Board to decide it now.

Alderman Slade—I thought this question was very well understood by the Committee on Paving. The question as to how many cars they should run came up and we discussed it very thoroughly, as I thought, and we could not tell how many cars would be required, or how many more we could afford to let them run round the circuit. I have not had time to look into the matter and see whether we could afford to let them run any more. I know that people complain that there are not enough cars running at all hours of the day. I am willing that more cars should go on the circuit if there is room for them; and if there are too many now, some should be taken off. I do not think we ought to tie them down to a certain number of cars. I believe we should allow all that are necessary to accommodate the people. If they leave enough room to allow us to dodge across the street it is about as much as we can expect.

Alderman Wilder—While I shall vote against the amendment, I do not want the gentleman [Alderman O'Brien] to conclude that I do not think Tremont street sufficiently encumbered with horse cars; and I will give him notice now that I shall oppose putting any more cars on Tremont street. But I do not propose to discuss that matter now. I am somewhat in the condition of my friend on the opposite side. I do not consider that subject before us. It is an order of the location; we propose to put it upon perfectly equitable terms; and in the arrangements for serving the people of that section I do not believe we shall need a great many more cars upon Tremont street. The Highland and Metropolitan companies will each have an equal right upon the tracks and they will arrange the running of the cars to accommodate the people. The Metropolitan company has various lines running to all parts of the city, and they will, of course, run a certain number of cars over the Highland location in order to carry passengers to all parts of the city, and the Highland company will do the same in order to accommodate the people of the Highlands. I hope the amendment will not prevail, simply and solely because I do not believe it is proper for this Board to designate the number of cars each company shall run in order to enable them to accommodate their patrons.

Alderman O'Brien's amendment was lost—yeas 2, nays 10,—Aldermen O'Brien and Robinson voting yeas.

Alderman Thompson—I do not quite like the laying of tracks in both Hammond park and Northampton street. Does the corporation desire both those streets? I supposed it was the intention of the company to occupy but one of those streets.

Alderman Robinson—The Committee on Paving simply reported the order in accordance with the instructions of the Board. They made no inquiries of either party in relation to the matter.

After a brief consultation, Alderman Thompson said—With the consent of both parties I offer an amendment that all relating to the location in Hammond park be stricken out.

Alderman Fitzgerald indicated the words covered by the amendment, which was adopted, and the order as amended was passed.

A motion to reconsider, by Alderman Fitzgerald, hoping it would not prevail, was lost.

MONUMENT ON SITE OF ROXBURY FORT.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following:
BOSTON HIGHLANDS, March 17, 1877.

Francis Thompson, Esq., Board of Aldermen, City Hall, Boston. Sir—The Old Norfolk Guards are to have a reunion and parade on the Seventeenth of June next. In behalf of the Old Guards, I have the honor to tender you and your committee and the City Government an escort of the same on that day, on the occasion of the dedication of the monument to be erected on the site of the old fort in Boston Highlands, formerly Roxbury. I am, sir, very respectfully yours,

J. H. CURTIS,

Chairman Committee on Parade.

Referred to Committee on the Decoration of Historic Sites. Sent down.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—Fourteen newsboys.

License granted to make and sell Waffles from a Wagon in the Public Streets—Stephen Dietz, until July 1, subject to revocation at any time for cause.

Auctioneer Licensed—Moses H. Libby, 121 Broadway (renewal).

Wagon Licenses Granted—Tibbetts & Libbey, 121 Clinton street; M. D. Cressey & Co., 152 South Market street; Warren S. Brown, 350 Atlantic avenue; James M. Bennett, 4 Central wharf.

Common Victuallers' Licenses—Richard Hinchliffe, 56 and 58 Sumner street, East Boston; C. K. Edwards, 332 Commercial street; Andrew J. Rich, 107 Court street; Robert Austin, 3 Charlestown street.

Hack Licenses Granted—J. M. Davis, 61 Federal street; J. S. Leonard, Neponset House, Dorchester.

Pawnbrokers' Licenses Granted—Adolph Friedlander, 1185 Tremont street (transfer from Norton Nelson); Simon Lewis, 34 Kneeland street (transfer from Abraham Troeder).

Dealers in Second-Hand Articles Licensed—Simon Lewis, 34 Kneeland street (transfer from Abraham Troeder); Adolph Friedlander, 1185 Tremont street (transfer from Norton Nelson).

Severally accepted.

INVESTIGATION OF ASSISTANTS IN PAVING DEPARTMENT.

Alderman O'Brien offered the following:

Whereas, Section 4 of the ordinances on streets provides that "the Superintendent of Streets is authorized, with the approval of the Board of Aldermen, to appoint such assistants as he may deem necessary; such assistants shall act under his control and direction and receive such compensation as the City Council may from time to time determine. The said assistants may be removed at any time by the said Superintendent or the Board of Aldermen; it is, therefore—

Ordered, That as numerous complaints are current, and have been current for some time, that many of the assistants and foremen in the department are totally unfit for their positions, take advantage of that position to abuse their men, using the most profane language, and treat the poor workmen in the employ of the city more like cattle than human beings, the Committee on Paving are requested, if they deem it expedient, to give a hearing to all who have charges to make against the assistants or foremen in that department.

Alderman O'Brien—There has scarcely been a day, for months, when I have entered City Hall, that some complaint has not been made to me about that department. I believe the time has arrived when those complaints ought to be investigated. I think I am right in saying that almost every Alderman at this Board has had the same complaints made to him. If they are true they ought to be known, and the men abusing the laborers ought to be discharged. I hope the whole subject will be investigated, and the proper committee is the Paving Committee.

The order was passed.

MARKET LEASES TO BE RENEWED.

Alderman Slade offered an order—That the Committee on Markets be and they are hereby authorized to grant new leases to the present occupants of Faneuil Hall Market for a period of five years from the first of April, 1877, the terms and conditions upon which said leases are granted to be the same as those contained in the leases bearing date April 1, 1874. Read twice and passed.

SURVEY AND INSPECTION OF BUILDINGS.

Alderman Wilder submitted the following from the Joint Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings:

Reports and orders authorizing permits to be issued to erect wooden buildings by Noah Mayo, Maverick wharf; Butchers' Slaughtering and Melting Association, Market street, Ward 25; Merrow & Barker, a grand stand at Beacon Park; Metropolitan Railroad Company, Dorchester avenue; John E. Woods (to enlarge), Western avenue; severally according to applications on file in the Department for the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Orders read twice and passed. Sent down.

Report, That no action is now necessary on petition of Bernard & F. H. Jenney, for leave to erect on West First street a wooden building exceeding the legal dimensions, the petitioners having received from the Inspector of Buildings a permit to erect a brick building for the same purpose. Accepted. Sent down.

ASSESSORS' DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Wilder submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department of leave to withdraw on petition of Spencer W. Richardson for abatement and remission of certain taxes assessed on estate of the late William Richardson. Accepted. Sent down.

NOMINATIONS.

Reports of nominating committees were submitted as follows:

By Alderman Thompson—Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery for two years, John E. Blakemore and Joseph P. Paine. Accepted. Sent down.

By Alderman O'Brien—Directors for Public Institutions for three years, Lyman A. Belknap, William C. Burgess, Albus R. Cushing. Also report signed by Aldermen O'Brien and Robinson and Councilman Souther, representing that the committee met twice without a full attendance. They, a majority of the committee, believing that the old directors, who have performed such faithful services during the past three years, should again be returned, present their names for reelection, viz., George P. Baldwin, Lyman A. Belknap, Patrick Donahoe.

Alderman O'Brien—In explanation of the two reports, I would say that the committee held two meetings, at neither of which were all the members present, and it appears that at the last meeting a majority of those present nominated two gentlemen who have not served on the board during the past year. A majority of the committee thought the old board ought to be returned, as no complaints have been made of the performance of their duty. They have been faithful in the performance of their duty, and constant in their attendance, and have fulfilled all their obligations as directors.

The reports were accepted. Sent down.

Alderman O'Brien moved to proceed to an election, but withdrew at the request of Alderman Robinson.

DRUGGISTS' MORTARS.

Alderman Robinson submitted reports from the Committee on Police in favor of granting leave to project druggists' mortars to Frans L. Braconier, 1001 Tremont street; B. F. Bradbury, corner of Winter and Washington streets, on the usual conditions. Severally accepted.

STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board on petitions for leave to occupy stables—

That leave be granted on the usual conditions to occupy stables by Patrick Finley, Wesley avenue; Frank Y. Barker, Beacon Trotting Park; J. F. Hewes, Jr., 140 Prince street; John G. Tilton, Maple avenue; West Boston Savings Bank, Montgomery street, Ward 23.

Severally accepted.

SYSTEM OF TAXATION.

Alderman Thompson offered an order—That the Committee on Legislative Business be instructed to oppose any legislation altering the standard of value by which property is taxed, or changing the system of appeal from the valuation fixed by the assessors.

Alderman Thompson—I offer that order on account of the action taken at the State House by certain parties outside of the City Council. Under the present law the manner of taxation is probably more equitable than any proposed plan. The law now requires that property shall be assessed at its market value, and I presume the Assessors will continue to do that. By the proposition before the Legislature parties dissatisfied with the valuation can appeal to a jury, and it is proposed that Suffolk County shall pay the cost of such trial. I thought that, under the circumstances, the Committee on Legislative Matters would like to have the authority of the City Council to oppose any such change.

Alderman O'Brien—The Alderman says the guide of the Assessors is the market value of the estate. I can hardly agree with him. If the assessed value is the market value, there are many estates that would be offered to the city of Boston today for much less than their assessed value. I have known men to go to the Assessors' office and offer to sell their property at two or three thousand dollars less than the assessed value, and they could neither get an abatement or an offer for it. I do not know about this result. I do not believe the property of Boston is assessed at its market value. The fact is the Assessors of Boston have been going up and going up in their valuations, and now that they see they have got to come down they want to come down gradually. They came down a large amount last year and have got to come down fifty millions more this year, and I do not believe that real estate will be at its market value then. I do not believe in it.

Alderman Thompson—I do not think the Alderman understood me. These gentlemen propose to change the law in regard to the mode of appeal from the Assessors' valuation. My idea is that the Assessors shall have authority to sustain the law as it is now.

Alderman Fitzgerald—There is another proposition before the Legislature, that advocated by Mr. Beard and others in the Legislature, and perhaps this order might be considered as opposed to that. With that plan I am in entire sympathy, and I would not want my vote here to be construed as opposing any such legislation as they want to obtain—that is, to prevent double taxation on mortgages and upon property itself. With that I am in entire sympathy. While I shall vote for this order, I do not want it understood that it covers all the other questions before the Legislature in connection with the assessment of property.

Alderman Clark—I do not understand that this has anything to do with changing the way in which taxes are assessed—whether mortgages, or nothing but real estate, shall be taxed. It is simply to prevent the passage of a law to give a man the right to have twelve men decide how much his property is worth. Those who have been on the Committee on Streets know how many people appeal to a jury to say whether the right amount has been assessed upon their property or not. I shall oppose such a law, although I am in sympathy with the parties desiring a revision of the manner in which property is assessed.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The meaning of the intended legislation is that if citizens are taxed higher than they think they ought to be—an example of it is given in the complaint which the Alderman from the Highland District speaks of—and if the Street Commissioners or the Assessors do not abate the taxes, the parties aggrieved shall have power to go to a jury; and if they do, the city of Boston will be eternally in court, and instead of three or four Assistant City Solicitors, we shall be obliged to have nine or ten; so I think the disadvantage of such a law to a few will not be half so bad as they will be to the whole city of Boston.

The order was passed. Sent down.

TREE TO BE PRUNED.

Alderman Clark offered an order—That the Superintendent of Common and Public Grounds be authorized to prune the limbs of a tree which project over the sidewalk of Essex street, in front of estate numbered 86 on said street, in order to prevent any obstruction of the public way. Read twice and passed.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Committee on Armories:

Report on petition of Second Brigade, M. V. M., recommending the passage of an order—That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum, not to exceed $250, in furnishing and fitting up the headquarters of the Second Brigade, M. V. M., at 5½ Beacon street; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Read twice and passed.

Report on petition of Fifth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., recommending the passage of an order—That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $200 in fitting up and furnishing the headquarters of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., at 82 Main street, Charlestown; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Read twice and passed.

Report on petition of First Brigade, M. V. M., recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That until otherwise ordered there be allowed and paid for rent of headquarters for the First Brigade, M. V. M., at Boylston Hall, the sum of $450 per annum, beginning April 1, 1877; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Ordered, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $250 in furnishing and fitting up the headquarters of the First Brigade, M. V. M., at Boylston Hall; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Severally read twice and passed.

Ordered, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $200 in furnishing and fitting up the headquarters of the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., at 82 Main street, Charlestown; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Read twice and passed.

THE JURY LIST.

On motion of Alderman Viles, the jury list was taken from the table.

Alderman Viles—I have examined this list very carefully, and I believe it is the best list Boston has had for twenty years, and that a great deal of credit is due to the Registrars of Voters. I hope it will be adopted without any change. I move its adoption as a whole.

Alderman O'Brien—Is the gentleman so well posted up about every inhabitant of every ward that has been selected that he can stand up here and vouch for every name there? I should be perfectly willing to stand up here and vouch for my ward, particularly as they have selected a member of the Board of Aldermen. I do not think any man can stand up here and vouch for every resident of every ward of the city. The gentleman has merely spoken for his own ward, I presume.

Alderman Viles—Taking my own ward, I can say it is the best list we have had for many years. I have also looked over the other wards; I am very well acquainted throughout the city, and I believe it is the best list we have had for years. We know how it is every year, people coming to us with names to go on, and they are aggrieved if we do not put them on. I hope it will be adopted as a whole.

Alderman O'Brien—I say the passage of such an act by the Legislature has cast a reflection upon the City Council. This body has more important duties than the selection of jurors; it has the expenditure of vast sums of money; but the fact that the selection of jurors is taken away from them is a reflection that they are not capable of performing the duty. They have placed it in the hands of three men, one from Charlestown, one from South Boston, and one from the West End, and I contend that it was not judicious or right. The jurors of this city have always been selected by the members of the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council. The City Clerk last year gave me two wards to select 200 names from. I immediately called all the Councilmen representing those wards. We had meetings and went to work and selected 200 of the best names we could find on that list. We were the proper parties to select those names; we knew the men whom we selected. But the three men who have that duty intrusted to them do not know the men in the various wards; they have to call in outsiders who know John Brown and John Smith; while we knew when we were selecting good men. I believe it was casting a reflection upon the City Council when they took it away from them.

The list was adopted.

BALANCES OF APPROPRIATIONS AND SINKING FUNDS.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the Board took from the table the report of the Committee on Finance, with new ordinance to amend the ordinance on finance. (City Doc. No. 31.)

The question was on the passage of the ordinance in concurrence.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I move to amend section 3, which is as follows:

"All moneys received by the city from the sale of real estate, from payments on account of particular sum secured by any bond or note, or from payments on account of any betterments so made, shall be paid by the City Treasurer to the said commissioners, and applied by them to the reduction of the city debt."

I move to strike out the two words "the city," and add—

"And applied by them to the reduction of the debt now outstanding, if any, to which said revenue is applicable; if not so applicable, then said revenue shall remain in the city treasury to be used and applied for such purposes as the City Council may order."

Mr. Mayor, the explanation of my amendment is very simple. I have no disposition to prevent application of money now received as betterments to the debt for which a loan was issued, though I think the way in which loans have been made is wrong. I think, sir, that when moneys are received from the sale of real estate, of schoolhouses, and other things of that kind, for which no debt has been contracted—we have issued no loans for schoolhouses for three, four, or five years, and there are other buildings which we can sell—if that is not applicable to any debt it should be turned into the treasury. The meaning of my amendment is that hereafter proceeds of all sales of real estate shall be turned into the city treasury. It is very simple. It is not as far as I would like to go or want to go. I think the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds should ask for what they want in precisely the same way as any other department of this Government, and the report of the commissioners should be so plain that every taxpayer could see the actual amount of money which is paid into the Sinking Funds; and further than that the Sinking Fund Commissioners should not require any more money than is sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds which they hold, and also sufficient to meet the debt at maturity, the eight, three and two per cent. on loans, which by the statutes are authorized to be raised by taxation. My amendment does not go so far as I would like to go in this ordinance, but I am willing to accept half a loaf if I cannot get a whole one. The ordinance, if passed any way, will be a vast improvement upon the present system.

Alderman Clark—I do not quite understand the amendment of the Alderman. It seems to me that section 3 is about as plain as it can be made. I wish to state for the information of the Board that this whole ordinance was considered by the Committee on Finance, who have endeavored to make it as plain and simple as possible, and in conformity with the statute of the city. It has been passed unanimously by the Common Council, and I should hope that it would be passed without any alterations or amendments. I cannot see how it is going to be improved by the amendment. This subject has been up a good while, and it seems to me it would be more judicious for us to settle it by concurring with the Common Council, than to keep it any longer before the Board. I think some wrong impressions have been given in regard to the action of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and that the Alderman has learned this week that the $360,000 which he read to the Board as having been cancelled, was a payment made upon obligations of the city that had become due. I certainly understood him to represent that the $363,000 was immatured debt; but I think he found it matured in the month of March, and that some $400,000 more matures in the month of April, and will be paid in the same manner. This ordinance simplifies the Sinking Funds very much indeed, and I think it will give general satisfaction.

Alderman Fitzgerald—What the Alderman says about the cancelling of debt is correct, but my object in showing the book was not to show the amount cancelled; my object in bringing up the book was to show that the cancellation was done in their capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners—not that they cancelled $360,000 or $500,000 of the debt. I opened the wrong page, but it was to show that they cancelled the debt in their capacity of Sinking Fund Commissioners. The signature was that of Albert T. Turner as secretary of the commissioners, and the order for it emanated from the commissioners as commissioners. I had no object in misquoting it at all. The object of my amendment is that, if there are betterments laid on the Burnt District, for instance, when they are paid they shall be applied to the payment of that particular debt, but if we sell any particular land for which no loan was issued, instead of being placed in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, the proceeds of the sale shall go into the city treasury and form a part and parcel of the amount to be raised by taxation next year. That is my object. It is plain and simple. I do not want any money received from betterments, for the improvement of property, or for widening of streets, to go into the city treasury; I allow that to be placed in the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. But if any outstanding debt is paid, if any property or schoolhouse on which a loan was issued and which is entirely cancelled, is sold, that money shall go into the city treasury and not to be paid into the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, but shall be in the treasury like the unexpended balances of the year, and take off so much from the taxes to be levied next year.

Alderman Clark—I do not understand that the Sinking Fund Commissioners cancel debt in their capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners; but that they are directed to do so by order and ordinance of the City Council.

In discussing this ordinance at our last meeting, the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment asked me a question, which I promised to answer. He stated that the bonds cancelled by the Sinking Fund Commissioners since 1871 amount to $4,174,072.92, and he asked, "By what authority, ordinance or order have they done it?"

If the gentleman will refer to the Ordinances of the City of Boston, revision of 1856, sections 8 and 9, he will find that as long ago as 1834, the City Council established a "Committee on the Reduction of the City Debt," composed in part of the same officials who now form the body called "The Commissioners on the Sinking Funds," and that as early as 1840 it adopted the policy of applying, in addition to a sum raised by direct taxation, such extraordinary revenues as "balances of appropriations," "receipts of money from the sale of real estate," "receipts on account of the principal of any bond or note owned by the city," to the payment "of the capital of the city debt."

And if he will refer to the revision of 1863 he will find that during all those years no change was made in this policy; and by consulting the revision of 1869 he will find that no change was made until that year, when the exigencies of trade having created a new revenue, viz., betterments for laying out and widening new streets, that revenue was also directed to be "passed to the credit of the "Committee on Reduction of City Debt."

In December of 1870 an "ordinance in relation to finance" was passed by the City Council, creating the "Board of Commissioners on Sinking Funds," to which was transferred the Sinking Funds which had been established by the old "Committee on the Reduction of the City Debt."

Section 3 of this ordinance provided that Sinking Funds should be created "for the redemption at maturity" of all loans, and that certain percentages of the outstanding loans must be paid into the several Sinking Funds each year.

Section 4 sets aside certain revenues to supply the Sinking Funds, and provided that if they were not enough the balance should be raised by taxation; and this section provides that these funds "shall be paid by the treasurer to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund," and that these amounts "shall thereupon become a part of the amount to be raised by taxation" as required by section 3 for the purposes of the Sinking Funds.

Section 5 provides that certain other revenues—and in case the funds referred to in section 4 yield more than the amount required by section 3, the balances of those funds "shall be placed to the credit of said commissioners," to be used by them for the purchase of the debt of the city, "and that the scrip so purchased * * * shall be cancelled."

Now, if the gentleman will compare the provisions of the ordinances of 1870, and those of the ordinances in force before that, he will see that the powers conferred by section 5, upon the commissioners, are substantially the same as that given the old committee on the reduction of the city debt—he will see also that the language used is nearly the same. In the old ordinance of 1834 in force up to 1870—the Auditor of Accounts is directed "to pass to the credit of the committee," certain funds "to be applied to the purchase or payment of the capital of the debt of the city." In the ordinance of 1870 it is provided that certain funds "shall be placed to the credit of the Commissioners on the Sinking Fund" "to be used by them for the purchase of the debt of the city—and the scrip when purchased shall be cancelled."

And right here, your Honor, I wish to call attention to the different form of words used when it is intended that money should go into the Sinking Fund—and when it is not intended to go there; Section 4 says, such and such funds "shall be paid to the commissioners, and become a part of the amount to be raised by taxation, without further votes of the City Council."

Section 5 says such and such funds "shall be placed to the credit of the commissioners, and shall be used by them in the payment of debt." One fund passes at once into the custody of the commissioners; the other remains in the custody of the Treasurer, and can be called for by the commissioners only when they can use it for the purposes specified in the ordinance. * * *

Can a distinction be clearer? But now we pass to the statute of 1875, which has been supposed in some way to interfere with the rights and duties of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. On examination of this statute it will be found that its requirements do not differ materially from those of our ordinance of 1870. Section 4 provides that cities and towns must create and maintain Sinking Funds by paying into them annually certain percentages of the principal of their debts. Section 8 declares, however, that provided the required amount is set aside, it may be raised in the manner considered convenient by the body that must raise it—either by direct taxation, or by using unexpended balances, special assessments, etc.—and to prevent any misunderstanding it declares that "nothing contained in this act shall be construed as prohibiting the inhabitants of towns, or city councils, from paying or providing for the payment of any municipal debt at earlier periods than is herein required, or from adding to any sinking funds, or funds for the extinguishment of any debt, the excess of municipal appropriations over the amounts required for the purpose thereof, or any sums derived from taxation or special assessments, or other sources which are not required by law to be otherwise expended."

Here is an express declaration that city councils may, if they choose, pay, or "provide for the payment" of city debts before they mature—and that for this purpose they may employ unexpended balances, betterments, etc., either "for the purpose of reducing the entire debt" or "of reducing the amount to be raised by taxation" for the Sinking Fund—now the City Council had already provided for the payments referred to by the chairman of the Committee on Retrenchment, but he will admit that the authority of the ordinance of 1870 continued until it was repealed, unless he claims that every time the Legislature passes a law relating to a matter about which we have previously passed an ordinance, our ordinance is thereby repealed, although it does not conflict with the statute, but is in perfect harmony with it. The gentleman, however, is a lawyer, and he will not make any such claim; but to prevent others from doing so, I will refer to one more ordinance—the revision of 1876, Finance. Section 22 you will find is section 3 of the ordinance of 1870, altered so that it will comply with the statute of 1875; section 23 is taken from the old ordinances of 1840 and 1869; section 24 is identical with section 4 of the ordinance of 1870, and section 25 is identical with section 5 that ordinance.

This, then, your Honor, is my answer to the gentleman's question. He says the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds have paid off over four millions of indebtedness of the city before it matured—thus making an actual, not an apparent saving, of the interest for the years which the debt had to run—and he asks, "By what authority, ordinance or order, have they done it?"

I answer him, by the authority of the statute of 1875, by the ordinances of 1840, 1869, 1870 and 1876, and by the authority of the practice and custom of the city for nearly forty years, commenced in 1840 under the old Committee on the Reduction of the City Debt, and continued by the same officials under the name of commissioners, and always directed, authorized and empowered by ordinances passed by the City Council, not orders which may expire with the body making them, but by by-laws which continue in force until repealed; that your Honor is the authority under which these gentlemen have reduced the city debt by four millions, and the appropriation for interest annually, $200,000, and that your Honor is an authority which has been used for the interest of what the citizens of Boston know to be true retrenchment and true economy.

I have a statement here in relation to the requisition read by the chairman of the Retrenchment Committee at the last meeting with such emphasis. I have ascertained it was to pay for city debt becoming due—issued during the financial year 1866-67, ten years to run—and maturing March, 1877, in amount $363,000, and the requisition was for that amount, and the holders of the certificates of said loans have been and are being paid upon their presentation at the city treasury. During the coming month of April there will mature and in a like manner be payable $452,175, principally issued in 1861-62, part in 1866-67, and payable in money from the old Sinking Fund, with the exception of $11,000 to be paid from that of the Mystic Water Works Fund. As it has been admitted by the Alderman that he was mistaken about that being immatured debt, there is no occasion to make further comments upon that point. I make this statement because it has been assumed that they were cancelling debt they were not authorized to cancel; but I claim that they were acting as agents of the city, and as directed by the City Council from time to time. I would say again that this makes the Sinking Fund ordinance more simple in form. There has been too much mystery in regard to that.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I did not intend to enter into a discussion of the action of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, but they seem determined, after the decision of the City Solicitor, to deny that they have been acting illegally, and I cannot let the speech of the Alderman go unanswered. Mr. Healy distinctly says there is not a single thing or sentence in the ordinance that gives them authority, in their official capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners, to cancel any debt, and if it be in the ordinance it is in conflict with the statutes; that they have no more authority to keep any moneys received in their capacity as Sinking Fund Commissioners than you have. I asked the City Solicitor the distinct question, and his answer was, "In my opinion the Sinking Fund Commissioners, in their official capacity as such commissioners, have no authority to cancel any of the bonds of the city purchased by them." I brought up the book, not for the purpose of showing that they cancelled $363,000 of bonds, but that they cancelled bonds, and that such cancellation was in their capacity of Sinking Fund Commissioners; that the Mayor signed it as chairman and Alfred T. Turner signed it as secretary of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. They cannot go behind their own signatures. I am sorry the books cannot be had. The amount cancelled was $51,000, instead of $363,000, as stated; but I cited it to show the fact of cancellation, not the amount cancelled. I should also like to know by what authority they arrogated to themselves the unexpended balances. That is clearly illegal. The fact is that certain members of the Sinking Fund Commission do not want to acknowledge that anybody is right but themselves—I do not mean the whole of them, but some of the gentlemen composing the Commission. They are determined to fly in the face of the decision of the City Solicitor, and in the face of their own acts; but there are their own signatures. That is all I wanted to show. While my amendment does not take away this money from them; while they have the eight, three and two per cent., which they insist upon having, and which the statute provides that they shall have; and while they have the interest on the bonds which the city of Boston owns; while they have these betterments which come in—more than they have legal right to have—I only ask that the proceeds of the sales of real estate shall go into the city treasury and not into the hands of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. That is all my amendment aims at—that all the revenue from betterments shall go to the Sinking Fund Commissioners to be applicable to the outstanding debt on account of the improvements from which the betterments come,—I put that in my amendment,—but all the other moneys received, and which are applicable to no outstanding debt, shall go into the city treasury.

Alderman Clark—I still claim that the City Solicitor has given an opinion that the commissioners have done nothing they have not a right to do; that is over his own signature. If they did it as Sinking Fund Commissioners they did so as agents of the city, acting under the direction of the City Council. It was in that capacity your Honor signed the draft, and certified it up to the clerk of the Sinking Fund Commissioners. There has been nothing illegal done. The commissioners do not wish to be placed in a false light before the public, and I contend that section 25 of the Ordinances of 1876 gives them authority to cancel debt with moneys received from betterments. It is—

"Sect. 25. All revenue derived from undertakings for which loans may be created shall be used for the purchase of the debt of the city. All excess of revenue over estimates, and of appropriations over expenditures at the close of each financial year, after the requirements of section 24 are fulfilled, and all revenue from any other source than the Sinking Funds, shall hereafter be placed to the credit of the said commissioners, to be used by them for the purchase of the debt of the city, or to cover the deficit in any Sinking Fund, except the Sinking Fund for the water debt, when the debt to which it is applicable matures; and the scrip so purchased shall, so far as practicable, be that issued for the shortest term of years, and, when purchased, shall be cancelled."

That is what they have done; that is their authority for doing it. They have never taken a dollar out of the Sinking Fund to pay a dollar's debt of the city before maturity; they have taken the money passed over to them by the City Treasurer; they have done precisely what they were ordered to do, as the agents of the city—just the same as a committee, appointed by this Board, might have done instead of the commissioners. I do not believe the Alderman from Ward 21 would borrow money to swell the Sinking Funds, unless we use the betterments to reduce the debt before it matures; otherwise we should be borrowing money to increase the Sinking Funds. That is what it amounts to. You might with just as much propriety say that we shall have a million dollars to pay for the estates on the Northampton-street District. We have got to have it pretty soon, and it will be poor policy to borrow that money on a twenty-year loan, when the sale of the property there would pay for it and we could put that money into the Sinking Fund. That would be nothing more or less than borrowing money to swell the Sinking Funds. That I understand to be the policy which it has been proposed to pursue for the English High and Latin schools—borrowing for a short time, and when the property which it is proposed to sell is sold, to use the proceeds in paying the debt. Now, if we borrow a million and a half dollars to pay for that schoolhouse, payable in twenty years, and in the course of two or three years sell the property on Bedford street and South street, and pay the money into the Sinking Funds, we are simply borrowing money to swell the Sinking Funds, and creating a debt for those coming after us to pay twenty years hence. I think the commissioners should be authorized to take this money and cancel the debt with it, but not be authorized to take it out of funds for debt that has not maturity; and I contend that they are authorized by the City Council to cancel debt, and that there has been nothing illegal in what they have done.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I asked the City Solicitor if he could find anything in the ordinances giving authority to the commissioners to do that which they are doing, and he said nothing. He said they claimed the right under some order which they got from the City Council, nobody knows when. That is why I asked the Solicitor the second question, if they were authorized by any order of the City Council to cancel the debt, and he replied—

"An order of the City Council directing the purchase and cancellation of city bonds with funds appropriated to that specific purpose is not operative, I think, beyond the municipal year in which the order is passed, except as to such application of funds which were placed in the hands of the agents for executing this order within that municipal year."

Alderman Clark—Does the gentleman believe these ordinances die with the year every municipal year?

Alderman Fitzgerald—Which ordinance?

Alderman Clark—The ordinances passed by the City Council. The ordinances which they have worried under.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The ordinance is in conflict with the statutes. I have repeated it at every step, and I have said that it needs revision. The City Solicitor says it is.

Alderman Clark—Then it is the fault of the City Council and not of the Sinking Fund Commissioners.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I went further than that, and said that I did not blame the Sinking Fund Commissioners; but I do blame some of them, who insist still that they are doing right, and who will come up here Monday after Monday and insist that they have been doing right, notwithstanding the decision of the City Solicitor that the ordinances are in conflict with the statutes. If some continue much longer, and insist that they are right, I shall come to the conclusion that they mean to act in violation of everything, and intend to have their own way, as some people seem to want to do about this City Hall.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays, and the amendment of Alderman Fitzgerald was adopted—yeas 7, nays 5.

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson, Wilder—7.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Viles—5.

The ordinance as amended was passed. Sent down.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, it was ordered—That the Committee on Finance be directed to examine the ordinances relating to finance, and to report such amendments thereto as will make the same conform to the statutes of this Commonwealth. Sent down.

ELECTIONS.

Alderman Thompson moved that the Board proceed to the election of trustees of Mount Hope Cemetery.

Carried, and Aldermen Thompson and Burnham were appointed a committee.

Joseph P. Paine and John E. Blakemore each received 12 votes, and were declared elected. Sent down.

Alderman Wilder moved that the Board proceed to an election for Assessors of Taxes.

Alderman Fitzgerald—If we begin with the Assessors we will have to go on with the other nominees. The Aldermen have adopted the policy of keeping these elections back until the salaries are fixed. It is growing late now, and the elections will take some time.

Alderman Wilder—I regret being obliged to do so, but I understand the extreme importance of doing this. We can go through with this in ten minutes. The time is very short for arranging the duties of these officers and I believe we ought to have an expression of the opinion of the Board in regard to the election of Assessors.

Alderman O'Brien—I am satisfied that if we go into an election of Assessors tonight we ought to go through the whole list. I should certainly be in favor of it. If this work is commenced tonight I am in favor of putting the whole of it through; but at the same time you must remember that all your schemes of retrenchment fail as soon as you settle who are to be your heads of departments. It will place a strong power in City Hall that will prevent any reduction of salaries. It is now an even question in the Council about your retrenchment bill; you elect your heads of departments and your schemes fail.

Alderman Wilder—I do not propose to vote for a single head of a department if I can help it. I have had ready for several weeks the committee's nominations for First and Second Assistant Assessors, and I have withheld them until the election of the Assessors. We have got to elect seventy-one gentlemen for that department. I am willing to wait and let the old ones hold over, if gentlemen desire it, but I deem the election of Assessors important and I shall insist upon it.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The ordinance requiring the elections to be made in sixty days is simply directory. You have an officer here who is a tenant by sufferance. The Board tried to elect him in June and in July, but failed. The ordinance is not peremptory upon us.

Alderman Thompson moved to adjourn.

Alderman Clark—I call for the yeas and nays; we are elected to stay here till twelve o'clock if it is necessary to attend to the public business. Here are the Directors for Public Institutions; no salary is attached to that office, and I propose to vote for Directors tonight.

Aldermen Fitzgerald—If you get a chance.

The motion to adjourn was lost—yeas 6, nays 6.

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Robinson, Slade, Thompson—6.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Viles, Wilder—6.

Alderman O'Brien called for the yeas and nays, and the motion to ballot for Directors for Public Institutions was lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the Board voting relatively the same as before.

Alderman Robinson moved to adjourn and called for the yeas and nays. Lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman O'Brien moved to take up the election of Directors for Public Institutions.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I should have no objection to electing officers who are not salaried.

Alderman Robinson moved to lay the motion on the table.

Alderman O'Brien—I think that no good reason can be assigned for laying the nominations upon the table.

Alderman Robinson called for the yeas and nays, but Alderman O'Brien withdrew the motion for an election.

Alderman Wilder renewed the motion for an election of Assessors.

Alderman Fitzgerald raised the point that the election was not in order, as no business had intervened since the same motion had been rejected.

Alderman Clark renewed the motion for an election for Directors of Public Institutions.

Alderman Robinson moved to take up one at a time.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays, and the motion to take up one at a time was lost—yeas 5, nays 7.

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Robinson, Thompson—5.

Nays—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Slade, Viles, Wilder—7.

The Board voted to proceed to an election for Directors for Public Institutions—yeas 8, nays 4.

Yeas—Aldermen Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Slade, Thompson, Viles, Wilder—8.

Nays—Aldermen Breck, Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Robinson—4.

Committee—Aldermen O'Brien and Clark.

Whole number of ballots.....12

Necessary to a choice..... 7

Patrick Donahoe had ..... 4

Lyman A. Belknap..... 10

George P. Baldwin..... 10

William C. Burgess..... 3

Albus R. Cushing..... 9

And Messrs. Baldwin, Belknap and Cushing were elected. Sent down.

Alderman Thompson moved to adjourn.

Alderman Clark called for the yeas and nays. The motion was lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the Board voting relatively the same as before.

Alderman Wilder moved to proceed to an election of Assessors of Taxes.

Alderman Robinson moved to lay the motion on the table. Lost.

The Board refused to proceed to the election of Assessors—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman Robinson moved to adjourn and called for the yeas and nays. Lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman Clark moved to proceed to an election for Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Alderman Robinson moved to lay the motion on the table, and called for the yeas and nays. Lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman Fitzgerald called for the yeas and nays, and the Board refused to proceed to an election for Superintendent of Public Buildings—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman Robinson moved to adjourn. Lost—yeas 6, nays 6—the same as before.

Alderman Wilder moved to proceed to an election for Assessors of Taxes.

Alderman Robinson called for the yeas and nays, and the motion prevailed—yeas 9, nays 3—

Aldermen Fitzgerald, O'Brien and Robinson voting nay.

Committee, Aldermen Wilder and Breck.
Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Thomas Hills.....	12
Benjamin Cushing.....	12
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	3
Benjamin F. Palmer.....	12
Horace Smith.....	4
Edward F. Robinson.....	11
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	6

And Messrs. Hills, Cushing and Palmer were elected in concurrence, and Edward F. Robinson in non-concurrence. There being no choice as to the fifth Assessor, another ballot was taken, resulting in the election of Joshua S. Duncklee, who received 7 votes to 3 for Horace Smith, 1 for Thomas J. Bancroft and 1 for George S. Pendergast. Mr. Duncklee was elected in non-concurrence. Sent down Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Wilder.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

MARCH 22, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions and papers were referred in concurrence.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of S. W. Richardson for abatement and remission of certain taxes on estate of late William Richardson. Accepted in concurrence.

Report that no action is necessary on petition of B. & F. H. Jenney for leave to erect a wooden building on West Fourth street, corner of D street. Accepted in concurrence.

Reports and orders to issue permits to erect wooden buildings to Noah Mayo, on Maverick wharf; Butchers' Slaughtering and Melting Association, on Market street; Morrow & Barker, Cambridge street, Ward 25, and on Beacon Park; John E. Woods, Western avenue; Metropolitan Railroad Company, Dorchester avenue. Orders severally read twice and passed.

BACK-BAY NUISANCE.

The following came from the other branch and was referred to the Joint Committee on Health in concurrence.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, }
BOSTON, March 19, 1877. }

To his Honor the Mayor and City Council of Boston: Gentlemen—The Board of Health respectfully invites the attention of your honorable bodies to a section of the Back Bay, so called, which demands some early action on the part of the city. For many years portions of the South and West ends of our city have suffered during the warm season from intermittent stench which have been attributed to a variety of sources.

The first experience of the Board of Health with the section referred to was in 1873, when the residents west of Arlington street complained of bad odors coming to them with westerly winds.

Investigation showed that a large portion of the Back Bay was in a state of nuisance, but one section, consisting of foul water and mud, shut off from the tide near the junction of Commonwealth avenue and Parker street, was much worse than the rest. The board caused the tide-water to flow in and out daily, and the complaint ceased for that season. This section has since been entirely filled with clean gravel.

In 1874 the flats about Parker street were seriously complained of. The city was indicted for maintaining the nuisance, and the Board of Aldermen ordered that the channel across the flats from the mouth of Stony Brook River be deepened. The season passed without further action, and in December the Board of Health called the attention of the City Council to the same nuisance in a communication on improved sewerage.

In 1875 complaints were again made, and the Board of Health adopted the cheapest expedient within its reach by erecting a stone drain about six feet high at the Beacon-street sluiceway. This was sufficient to cover the flats at low water and still allow a considerable change of water at each flow of the tide. This measure brought immediate relief, but it was not without an objectionable feature, inasmuch as it caused a more rapid deposit of the large amount of sewage which was turned into this body of shoal water from the Highland District and Brookline.

The relief lasted, however, for nearly two seasons, or until last fall, when the people of a large section of the South End were much disturbed and sickened by the foul odors which came directly from the Back Bay in the region of the mouth of Stony Brook sewer.

The Board of Health made repeated visits and found that for acres in extent the water about the Stony Brook sewer was turbid and foul to a sickening degree.

There was also a large creek twenty or thirty feet wide extending from Parker street southeasterly about 2000 feet to the Boston & Providence Railroad. This creek receives the sewage of the Berlin-street district and is also subject to the flow of the Stony Brook sewage at every flood tide. In degree of nuisance it is second only to the Roxbury Canal. The filthy waters of this whole section are agitated by the prevailing westerly winds of summer and autumn, and the stench is carried directly to the dwellings of a large part of the South End, whose residents bitterly complain. There are two reasons for expecting that the nuisance from this source will be far greater the coming season than ever before. One is that the stone dam at the sluiceway had to be removed last fall to allow a more thorough change of water and scour of the channel through the winter, leaving the flats bare at low tide. The other is that in addition to the accumulation of many years upon these flats and in the creeks, the flow of sewage is now greater than ever before.

We would respectfully recommend that until the prospective system of sewerage which we confidently hope for is completed, there be temporary means used to keep the flats covered, by gates at the sluiceway or otherwise, and that the creek leading from Parker street to the Boston & Providence Railroad be filled with gravel, and the Berlin-street sewer (made of plank) extended to Parker street.

For the Board of Health.

S. H. DURGIN,
Chairman.

BALANCES OF APPROPRIATIONS AND SINKING FUNDS.

The ordinance to amend an ordinance in relation to finance (City Doc. No. 31), came down with the following amendment, viz.: Strike out "the city" in last line of section 3, and after "debt" at end of said line add "now standing, if any, to which said revenue is applicable; if not so applicable, then the said revenue shall remain in the city treasury, to be used and applied to such purposes as the City Council may order."

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I trust that the Council will not concur in this amendment. It is a very objectionable one. If there is anything that is sacred for the payment of debt, it seems to me that it is the public property of the city. I think that all will admit that the proceeds of the sales of public lands and buildings should properly go into the treasury to reduce the city debt; for I cannot conceive a more pernicious method of doing business by a corporation than that it should be allowed to sell its property to pay its current expenses. I trust that the amendment will not pass, and that we shall non-concur in the amendment.

The amendment was declared lost.

Mr. Fagan of Ward 19 doubted the vote, and on his motion the yeas and nays were ordered.

The Council refused to concur in the amendment—yeas 27, nays 41:

Yeas—Messrs. Burke, Cannon, Cox, Cross, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McCusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Roach, Souther, Thorndike—27.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brintnall, Brown, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Day, Felt, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, Reed, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Roberts, Ruffin, Sampson, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Spenceley, Stone, Thompson, Upham, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—41.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Clarke, Mullane, Pope—3.

An order came down for the Committee on Finance to report such amendments to ordinance on finance as will make them conform to the statutes of the Commonwealth.

The question was upon giving the order a second reading.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me that this is the proper business for the Committee on Ordinances. I move to amend by referring that matter to the Committee on Ordinances.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—Before the vote on the amendment is put I should like to move that the matter be indefinitely postponed.

The President—The amendment takes precedence.

The amendment of Mr. Crocker was adopted.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I now renew my motion to indefinitely postpone. I cannot conceive of any reason for sending this order to any committee. I don't suppose any gentleman here supposes that if the ordinance introduced by the Committee on Finance is passed repealing a number of sections of the ordinances in relation to finance, that there will still be any sections to be changed. As the ordinance now stands, or as it will stand, there can be no doubt even in the mind of the gentleman who introduced this order into the Board of Aldermen, and I think we will save extra work by indefinitely postponing it.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I hope the motion to indefinitely postpone will not prevail. There can be no harm in referring it to the Committee on Ordinances. As I understand the argument of the gentleman in the other branch who offered the order, this ordinance in relation to finance is in conflict with the statutes. I hope we shall have a report.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I hope the motion to indefinitely postpone will not prevail. I should not ask any better authority than the gentleman from Ward 9, and if he will take the pains to look at the record he will see that he said that this ordinance was in conflict with the statutes.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—If the gentleman had been paying attention to the subject under debate he would not have made that statement. The statement I made at the last meeting was in reference to the order in relation to the salary bill. The question now is in relation to the ordinance on finance. It is an entirely distinct matter.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I trust it will be indefinitely postponed. The action contemplated was entirely provided for in the ordinance we have passed tonight, and there is no need of any further amendment.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I do not know any special occasion for this order; but I am a little inclined to differ from my colleague [Mr. Thompson]. I am under the impression that there are some matters in which the ordinance differs from the statutes. If there is no difference the committee can report so.

The motion to indefinitely postpone was lost, and the order was read a second time and passed. Sent up.

An order came down to ask for an act in relation to the Sinking Funds, so that the amount to be raised by taxation to meet loans at maturity shall be more equitably distributed during the years which the loans have to run.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I don't see the force of passing such an order as this at the present time of the year. We all understand it is too late to introduce new business into the Legislature, and I presume nothing will be done if we pass the order. I have an objection, too, behind that, and that is that the present arrangement for providing for meeting the debt of the city has not been running a sufficient number of years to enable us to pronounce it a failure. It seems to have worked very well so far, and the only item upon which any difference of opinion can be based, I think, is the fact that, as I have previously stated, the city debt had been reduced $241,000 during the last year, instead of being increased every year for the last fifteen years, and that is so hopeful a sign on the side of solvency that I see no reason for disturbing the present system. I move the reference of the order to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—It appears to me that the order may as well be killed here as to refer it to the Committee on Finance. Certainly it cannot do any good to send it to that committee. If the Committee on Legislative Matters do not deem it advisable to have this order passed by the Legislature, they will not take any action on the matter, and if they do they will take such action as the Council preferred. If it is to be killed at all we may as well kill it here.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—in deference to the gentleman from Ward 13, I would suggest that if this order passes we shall have no option in the matter, and the committee will be obliged to ask for the act. As a member of the Committee on Legislative Matters, I should like to have the opinion of the Finance Committee on the subject.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I don't see any particular occasion for referring this matter to the Committee on Finance. It may be possible that the matter in relation to the Sinking Funds is still open in the Legislature, and I do not know what is intended to be done, but it may be possible to do something this evening, if we can act at once. As I understand the object of this order, it is to see if something cannot be done to stop this state of things which the Committee on Finance and the Sinking Fund Commissioners say cannot be stopped. As the Mayor said in his inaugural address, if we go on at the present rate we shall pay up the city debt in eight years; and the City Auditor says it can be done in ten years. Now, when we have a debt, the average of which is to run thirty years, it seems to me to be unreasonable to be taxing ourselves to pay it off in ten years, or half the time that is in reason required of us. The gentlemen on the Finance Committee and the Sinking Fund Commissioners and the Auditor claim that the law requires the present arrangement, and that we must pay as much as we are paying for this object; so it seems to me to be proper action to try to obtain legislative relief, and therefore, although I have no particular expectation resulting from this order, I should hope that it would be passed by the Council.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope this amendment will not prevail, but that this order will go to the Committee on Legislative Matters. If anything can be done, it ought to be done at once. You and I have noticed in going out into the country, that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has placed a little board at the foot of every hill, with "Uncheck your horses going up hill." I think we should uncheck our horses in the matter of taxation now. It is hard work going up hill. If anything can be done to distribute this matter over a series of years in easy times, it should be done in order that this burden may be equalized.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—In considering this question I hope it will be remembered that it is not safe for us to touch our present Sinking Funds or interfere with them. The question we are considering must be one intended to effect our Sinking Funds in the future and not those in the present. It is not a question of present taxation in any form. It is a question in reference to the future management of the finances of the city. It is one of grave importance, not to be lightly considered here or elsewhere; and while I am in favor of the principle embraced in the order, I am not in favor of hasty consideration of the subject. I believe the Finance Committee is the proper committee to consider the matter and report upon it. If they report against the order, I should vote against accepting their report; but I am not prepared to say we should not send the matter to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—This seems to be an entirely harmless order. At the present rate we are raising funds enough by taxation to pay the entire city debt in fifteen years. Now, sir, if this order means anything it means to extend the time and not to raise so much every year. We don't want to pay debts five years before they become due. It is a very simple matter. The Finance Committee cannot report in time for the session of the Legislature this year. But I think the effort is worth making. It is a simple order, and I hope it will go to the Committee on Legislative Matters.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—My friend from Ward 9 [Mr. Thompson] has struck his favorite hobby, the Sinking Funds. I don't know whether he has much real estate or not, but I know that he is very much interested in the Sinking Funds. It may be well to pay off all the debt in ten or twelve years, and I don't know that I object to it. I think the Legislative Committee is where the order belongs. I think it will be better if the Legislature will look into this matter of taxation. Some say it will be better to have the city of Boston clear of debt, and I hope this matter will be investigated and get stirred up. When I was making money I did not care much about the taxes. But now I am going up hill, and I have learned to be as prudent as I can.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The Judiciary Committee of the House today reported that it was inexpedient to legislate on the order relative to the Sinking Funds of the city of Boston. Mr. Pillsbury of Boston said he had been informed that matters were pending in this branch of the City Government, and asked that the reports be recommitted, and they were so recommitted; so that this matter is already attracting the attention of the Judiciary Committee, and it was recommitted with the understanding that this order will be passed here tonight, and that the Committee on Legislative Matters will present this before the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I don't want to take up too much time of the Council in what the gentleman from Ward 19 [Mr. Spenceley] has described as my hobby; but I hope the gentleman will remember that the Sinking Fund is a part of the contract that the city of Boston has made with persons who purchased its bonds; and that the city of Boston, no more than any private individual, can take from or break any of its contracts without affecting its credit. Gentlemen may consider the matter a very simple one, but wise heads have often been puzzled over questions of finance. I don't believe any of us here are very competent to settle it; certainly not in the haste of a debate, and I do hope that we will take this matter—which I believe to be of grave importance to the city of Boston—and treat it with the seriousness that it deserves, for it is desired that the Finance Committee shall act upon this immediately. We can direct them to do so. If any one fears that it will be killed in the committee, let him move an amendment that it be reported immediately. But don't let us set the example of acting upon very important matters of this kind without due consideration.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—Are there any contracts requiring us to pay debts before they are due?

Mr. Thompson—The gentleman must remember that in this debate two subjects have been mixed together which should be kept wide apart. The city of Boston has two funds for two separate and distinct purposes; the Sinking Fund to meet the debt at maturity, and that is the fund which is affected by the present order; that fund cannot pay one dollar of debt before that debt becomes due. It simply furnishes money which is kept at interest to provide for the payment of debt at maturity. I hope gentlemen will keep that distinctly in mind when they are voting upon this subject.

The motion to refer to the Finance Committee was lost by a division—17 for, 12 against—and the order was passed in concurrence.

MODE OF VALUATION.

An order came down to oppose legislation altering the standard of value at which property is taxed, or changing the system of appeal from Assessors' valuation.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—There seems to be two questions in this order, and I shall ask for a division of the question. I have merely to say at this time that while I am in favor of having them oppose the new system of appeal which has been proposed at the State House, I don't think the City Council is in a position now to state their opinion of the standard of valuation of property on which taxes should be assessed; and I think our system of taxing in the city of Boston has been carried on in the very worst way. I don't lay it to the Assessors, because I think they have carried out the law very well; but I hoped that there should be no change in the mode of appeal. I don't think the system could be any worse than at present, and while they might be instructed to oppose any change in the system of appeal, I hope that they will not be instructed to oppose any alteration of the standard of value.

The order was refused a second reading in non-concurrence.

ELECTIONS.

The following elections occurred, the reports and certificates coming among the papers from the other branch.

Trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery. Nomination and election of John E. Blakemore and Joseph P. Paine as trustees of Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The report was accepted in concurrence. On motion of Mr. Pierce of Ward 18, the rule was suspended and a ballot ordered. Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Day of Ward 4, O'Donnell of Ward 7.

Whole number of ballots.....	64
Necessary to a choice.....	33
John E. Blakemore.....	62
Joseph P. Paine.....	62

And Edward Vanever, M. Barr, George A. Shaw and E. W. James 1 each.

And Messrs. Blakemore and Paine were declared elected in concurrence.

Assessors. Election of Edward F. Robinson and Joshua S. Duncklee, in place of Thomas J. Bancroft and Horace Smith, as Assessors.

A ballot was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Smardon of Ward 10, Blodgett of Ward 8, Cox of Ward 15.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I did not have the pleasure of casting my ballots for the Assessors when they were voted for at the meeting before the last, having been at home sick; but I should like to ask if there is anything against these men whom we are called upon to vote for. The Common Council elected Thomas J. Bancroft and Horace Smith. I have tried to find out why they should be repudiated. I find one of them has grown up in the Assessors' office, having started there as a boy. They have grown up in the business, so to speak, and if there is anything to be said against changing them I should be happy to hear it.

Whole number of ballots.....	72
Necessary to a choice.....	37
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	39
Horace Smith.....	35
Edward F. Robinson.....	37
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	28
George A. Shaw.....	1

Mr. Robinson was elected in concurrence and Mr. Bancroft in non-concurrence. Sent up.

Directors for Public Institutions. Report nominating George P. Baldwin, Lyman A. Belknap and Patrick Donahoe as Directors for Public Institutions; also a report nominating Lyman A. Belknap, William C. Burgess and Albus R. Cushing as such directors. Certificate of the election of said Baldwin, Belknap and Cushing as such directors.

The reports were accepted in concurrence.

On motion of Mr. Smardon of Ward 10, the rule was suspended and an election ordered.

Committee—Messrs. Pierce of Ward 24, Hiscock of Ward 21, Nngent of Ward 19.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—For the information of the Council I would state that Mr. Patrick Donahoe, who has served nine years, is not a candidate.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24—Did I understand that Mr. Donahoe declines to be a candidate?

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Yes, sir. I withdraw his name at his request.

Whole number of ballots.....	72
Necessary for a choice.....	37
George P. Baldwin had.....	28
Lyman A. Belknap.....	66
Wm. C. Burgess.....	25
Albus R. Cushing.....	62
Patrick Donahoe.....	2
F. H. Peabody.....	28
Francis A. Peters.....	2
Hugh Carey.....	1

Messrs. Belknap and Cushing were elected in concurrence, and ballots were had for a third director.

	1st ballot.	2d ballot.	3d ballot.
Whole number of ballots.....	71	71	71
Necessary for a choice.....	36	36	36
Wm. C. Burgess.....	16	9	—
F. H. Peabody.....	27	29	35
George P. Baldwin.....	28	32	36
L. A. Belknap.....	—	1	—

Mr. Baldwin was elected in concurrence.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

This subject was considered on the motion to recommit to the Retrenchment Committee the ordinances in relation to salaries (City Doc. No. 20), with instructions to report a salary bill reducing salaries as follows: Between $1500 and $3000, ten per cent.; between $3000 and $4000, fifteen per cent.; $4000 and over, twenty per cent.

Mr. Coe of Ward 23—Mr. President, I am opposed to the proposition of the gentleman from Ward 18. I can hardly believe he will continue to advocate it himself after reflection. There are salaries which both the Committee on Retrenchment and that on Salaries agree should not be reduced (such as those of the Clerk of Committees, City Messenger, and our own clerk), which, if this motion prevails, would be cut down very materially; and in some other cases the effect would be that the city would lose officers whose places we all agreed would be hard to fill with men as competent. It would thus operate very unevenly and unjustly. I certainly should vote for the proposition of the Committee on Retrenchment in preference, for the reason that that, if adopted, would distribute the decrease much more equitably, while it would save the city about $95,000, against something like $55,000 as proposed by the gentleman from Ward 18. Mr. President, I am in favor of a reduction in salaries to the full amount in dollars proposed by the Retrenchment Committee. We should conduct city affairs on business principles. What are business men doing now, and what have they been doing for three years past, but reducing expenses by reducing salaries, and not only that, but discharging help? Now, it is not proposed in many instances for the city to discharge clerks, but to reduce their pay. And I believe they expect it and are ready for it, and if they recognize the tendency of the times, would ask for it. The cost of living has been reduced, and a dollar can be made to go very much further now than five years ago. In many cases, the proposed reduction would be more than made up in house rent alone. Do the gentlemen realize that the city is paying in salaries today three times as much as in 1866 (only ten years ago), and nearly fifty per cent. more than five years ago (and this leaves out of the account salaries of those commissions which have been established within that time), while the assessed valuation will be this year near one hundred millions less than three or four years ago? I do not lose sight of the fact that the labor required is much greater by reason of the increase of property owned by the city, and also from annexation and other causes; but the increased labor is not in proportion to the increased cost to the city.

The committee propose a reduction, on an average, of less than ten per cent., where, as I have stated, the increase has been nearly fifty per cent., and I am for it to the full amount, so far as that goes. The teachers in our public schools will undoubtedly be reduced in about that proportion, and why should the City Hall escape the same scaling down? But it seems to me the committee are extremely unfortunate in their method. Not one of them has told us why they propose—what never has been done before—to establish the salaries of all these minor employes of the city by ordinance. It also takes away all power to reward experience and long service by a gradual increase in pay. No business man regulates his affairs in this way, and we are most of us business men. We do not fix a rate of pay which is the same for the office, or position, whether filled by an inexperienced man or one made valuable to us by long service. Mr. President, I would fix the pay of our heads of departments by an order, as heretofore, and then I would, by order, allow them a certain sum for salaries in their departments, and hold them responsible for the proper conduct of those departments. To a certain extent, the method proposed by the committee relieves them from this responsibility and relaxes the discipline of their departments—for the power to reward faithful and punish unfaithful service is taken from them when you take away the power to raise and reduce pay. If they are fit to be at the head of the department at all, they certainly should be trusted with the disbursement of whatever sum the Council see fit to allow them for salaries. Mr. President, I voted in favor of substituting the Salary Committee's report in order that this matter should be before the Council in the shape of orders instead of ordinances. I would then have been willing to have amended those orders, so as to reduce pay to the full amount which the Retrenchment Committee propose, although I should not be able to agree with them in every case; and I hope still we shall be able to amend their report in the way I have indicated.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—The gentleman last up has stated three exceptions where he thinks the bill as proposed by me at the last meeting would work a hardship. In two of these I had proposed to amend, as I thought it was the almost unanimous idea or impression of both the Board of Aldermen and the Common Council that no change should be made. With that exception I think a bill, formed somewhat similar to the order offered by me, should be passed. Last Sunday's Herald contained quite a list of reductions proposed both by the Retrenchment Committee's plan and by the plan which I suggested at the last meeting. Several mistakes have occurred in that in reckoning, so that it makes the tables a little bit different from those given therein. The amounts there, as I understand it, make a reduction by the committee's plan of $58,000 and by the one suggested by me of $55,000. Now a large portion of the additional $3000 reduction by the committee's plan is made up by reduction of the salaries of the License Commissioners. That I made up by dropping one of the officers of the Collector's office. That would more than make up the difference of $3000. The salaries as published in the Herald are erroneous in certain other details. That is, they make a reduction of the salaries of the various superintendents of bridges. Now, as every one knows, no Superintendent of a bridge is paid a very large amount. A certain sum is allotted to the Superintendent, from which he is obliged, by order or ordinance, to pay certain fixed amounts to his various employes, so that I think there is hardly a Superintendent who receives $1500 a year. Indeed, I think $1200 is the highest amount paid a Superintendent of a bridge.

I agree with the gentleman last up in stating that there should be a good reduction in our city salaries. I intended to bring here, but I overlooked it, a list of the salaries of the officials of the city of Baltimore; that, I think, is about the size of Boston, and, for the past few years at least, has been credited with having an admirable City Government. The salaries paid there with the exception of the salary of the Mayor, which is $5000, are all fifty per cent. below what they are in Boston. I think the highest salary paid by the city of Baltimore, with the exception of that of the Mayor, is $3000, and even there they propose to make a still further reduction, considering the salaries very excessive. Now if that is the case there, I think it might in a certain way apply to the city of Boston. My objection, as I stated to the Council at the last meeting, to the bill as reported by the Retrenchment Committee is that it is not equal; that it does cut down very greatly on some persons and on others very slightly; and the committee have this to confute. I think it will be impossible for them to confute and to state any reasons why this deviation from a strict, general reduction was made. It looks, I know, as if they had not thought into it. But I am reminded of an experience I had last year on the Committee on Salaries when we attempted the same thing. A salary was under discussion and it was proposed to reduce it $150. One of the members of the committee said "No; I think we had better reduce that $132, and then the Council will think we put some thought into the matter." It seems to me the committee have gone on the same principle. They wanted to show they had done a great deal, and so they cut off a little here, and took off a good deal there, and it would appear to those who are looking over the result that really they knew all the details of the departments, and were perfectly willing to state that such a man was paid too much and such a man not enough. I credit the Retrenchment Committee with all due intelligence. In fact, at the last meeting I went so far as to credit them with possibly more than they wished to have. But they are not a committee of angels or superhuman beings; and I defy any committee, of which five are entirely new men, to go through the City Government and say what salaries should be and what they should not be. It is utterly impossible. It is on that account that I propose an indiscriminate reduction. A few days ago I was conversing with one of the heads of departments, who is paid one of the highest salaries in the city, and in the course of that conversation he said he did not object to a reduction in salaries, provided it was made uniform, if they were all to come down together; but he did object to having discrimination used, having his salary cut away down and another not touched at all. He said, "It seems as though the City Government suppose I occupy a sinecure." Now I do not think the City Council can afford to have that impression circulated among its officials today.

There is neither favor nor fear, Mr. President, in making a reduction that is a clear percentage reduction. It is the fairest way we can come at it in a crude and rough manner, and all that we can come to under our present knowledge. If a committee were appointed who were to take two or three years, or possibly one year might be enough, to go through all the departments of the city, and after that present a comprehensive plan, calculating everything about the heads of departments and all the classes employed, they might be able to decide where a man was paid too much and where he was not; but no committee in three weeks' time can do anything of the kind. I trust, on that account, this motion will be passed.

It has also been said that it worked a hardship in another degree. That is, it would occur that a man who receives $1500 would be cut down ten per cent., or his salary would be reduced to $1350; and there might be another employe of the City Government who was paid $1400, and would escape reduction. I had foreseen that when the order was introduced, and had at the same time drawn up a supplement to it. But I did not care to introduce it at that time, because I thought it would confuse the minds of members on a hurried reading. The supplement I intended to offer was this:

And it is provided that when it shall appear that injustice is done in that by this reduction, the proposed salary of an employe shall be made less than the proposed salary of any other employe who is now paid less than he, the committee shall put both salaries on the last basis.

That is, a $1400 man shall come down to $1350. I do not believe the city can afford to cut down salaries much under that amount. I think that $1350 is about as low as the city can afford to pay its officers. There is one great objection that I find to the Retrenchment Committee's bill—cutting down persons who are daily employes, who are to receive no more than current wages. I know of one case in the Public Library that was called to my attention, where the Committee on Retrenchment have cut down the salaries of bookbinders. Now a bookbinder is paid by a trade price of so much per day, as I understand. The committee have cut down some $120 or $150 per year—I forget which—on the regular trade price. It would be just the same thing to cut down the pay members of the Printers' Union receive for setting so many thousand ems. The men would instantly leave; they are obliged to do it, almost, because of the fact of their being members of the Union. I think that in other departments, possibly, analogous cases might be found. I trust that the motion will be carried.

The President—Do I understand the gentleman to modify his motion?

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I simply said I would; not at present.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—The vote taken at the last meeting by which the Council, by a very large majority refused to substitute the report of the joint standing committee for the report of the joint special committee would seem to indicate clearly that this Council was determined on some reduction which would be real and not nominal. And the question tonight would seem to be whether you wish to go it blind or whether you wish to have a committee—even if it is an incompetent committee, as has been suggested—go over the matter fairly and do the best thing they can; whether you will reduce the salaries intelligently and discriminately, and whether you are willing to write off a little plan reducing them all alike, which will in many cases be manifestly unjust, and would fail to give much less general satisfaction than our report has done, severely as it has been criticised. In the first place, if this substitute is forced upon us, then good-by to all hope of retrenchment at present. If it is forced upon us, and the committee is compelled to bring in here, written out in this way, every salary brought before the Council, and a comparison made, there is no question that it will not meet with very much less general satisfaction than our own. And after killing our report and getting that settled upon us, the very men who vote to force it upon us, when it comes here as a final measure, will not vote for it at all. Now I contend that our report gives a very fair basis, certainly. Suppose, for example, we act as friends of the bill tonight. We want a test vote, whether it is to have a second reading or not. If we succeed in getting that in spite of all dilatory motions, substitutes, etc., most of which are indirectly meant to kill the entire matter and are not offered in good faith, but merely for delay, then at the next meeting we can do as has been suggested. We can report it ordinance by ordinance, and although I am in favor of it as a whole, still the Council will have the privilege of making any amendments they see fit. If there is any place where there is injustice done it can be discussed intelligently and the bad features brought out and we can make some retrenchment; and afterwards we can feel that we have tried conscientiously and intelligently to do the best we could under the circumstances and not throw off the entire matter to get it off our minds, caring not whether it is fair or not. I think by comparing a very few cases tonight—of course we cannot argue it completely—but I think a very few cases will show the Council that this report of the regular committee will not give satisfaction and will not do justice. Take the case, for example, of the Inspector of Provisions. He receives $2000. Now, being acquainted with a great many marketmen, I made it a special business to look up that question, and I could not find among all the marketmen with whom I talked—and I asked many old marketmen who have been there for years, and who certainly would be counted as men of intelligence—who did not say that $1500 is a liberal salary for the services rendered. And we can get one hundred men equally well qualified to take it at still less than that. Any man who has been in the provision business for a number of years, any good intelligent and honest provision dealer, can fill the place and fill it in good shape. There is no question in my mind, and I do not believe there will be in any unprejudiced gentleman of the Council that will look at that salary and say we have reduced it one cent too much.

Again, there is the clerk of the Park Commission who has been getting $1800 a year.

A member of the Council—He has been discharged.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Well, at the time we made the report I did not know but that he would be discharged; it was uncertain, and we reduced his salary to $1250; and I submit that no member of the Council will need to argue that at all, knowing as you all do pretty nearly what the clerk of the Park Commissioners must do. Now take three clerks. There is the clerk of the Common Council, who has served us faithfully for thirty-four years, and who receives only $1800 per year—less than the Inspector of Provisions and less than the clerk of the Fire Commission has been receiving. Thirty-four years ago he received $800, and the duties then were so limited that he could fill another office outside and receive $400 for it. His salary has been increased from $800 to $1800 in thirty-four years—but very little as you can see. It is of no use for me to say what he does; we all understand how valuable his services are. Now when you come to think of thirty-four years of service of a man who unquestionably might receive a great deal more salary; but the committee have been to him frequently in years past and asked him if he wanted more salary, and in many instances he has declined to have his salary increased, being satisfied—affording a good example, by the way, to many officers less efficient and more avaricious. Now, sir, is there any member of this Council who, on the plea of impartiality, wants to cut that man's salary down? I want such a man to stand up and look me in the eye, and look Mr. Gregg in the eye, and tell me if that is impartiality and if that is going to give general satisfaction. For several years he has paid out of his own salary two or three hundred dollars for extra clerk hire, for which he has not received nor asked one cent himself. It has come out of his own pocket. But that is merely one case. Now I submit whether we have reduced the first two salaries too much, and whether there was anything wrong in refusing to reduce the last one at all. Then there is the Superintendent of Lands, whose salary has not been increased for seven or eight years. He has served the city faithfully and he now receives $1800 per year. Very lately the Northampton-street district has been added to his charge, and he is really performing work that is worth four or five hundred dollars more at the same salary. The report of the regular committee proposes to increase his salary two or three hundred dollars. We leave him just where he is, and I believe that is right. Then there is the Clerk of Committees. It has been said that we were afraid to reduce his salary. Now, the fact is that two or three years ago Mr. Bugbee occupied the place, and, I believe, filled it well. It is one of the most important places inside City Hall, and it is the very best economy for the city—and any person who has served on committees cannot deny it—to have as good a man as you can get in the city of Boston for a clerk of committees. Mr. Bugbee received $4000 per year, and I do not think the question was ever raised that it was not proper. I believe Mr. Lee, too, is as good every way as Mr. Bugbee was, and in addition to the qualifications which Mr. Bugbee had he is a short-hand writer; you all know how many hearings he attends in City Hall, how many documents, bills and ordinances he has to write at the suggestion of committees. You all know his duties. He commenced two years ago at $2750—a reduction of $1250 from what we had formerly paid and were satisfied to pay, on the ground that he had less experience, and that in time he expected to grow to the other salary. Now, I would like to know if anybody really considers we have done any injustice in leaving him just where he is. Then there for example is the City Engineer. Well, if there is any one thing in our report that is doubtful it is the reduction of his salary. When you come to talk about a man who can take charge of an additional supply of water, and if we need more water in the city of Boston is as capable of telling how to go to work to get it and can figure anywhere near what it costs to superintend operations, why $5000 is a very small salary. Still, considering the salary has been raised during the past few years considerably, as a matter of majority decision we did reduce his salary $500, making an exception between him and the City Clerk. I consented to it as a compromise measure, but I considered the wisdom of doing it the most doubtful of any recommendation we made. But when you propose to cut him down $500 more, according to the proposition of the substitute, that will be a great deal more unjust.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22—I would like to ask the gentleman one question. You cut the clerk in the Water Registrar's Department from $1200 to $1000. I would like to know if the committee were aware when they made that reduction that his pay had already been reduced $300 within about two years.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Of course my memory is not perfect. I cannot at this moment call that particular case to mind. When I sit down I presume some of the other members of the committee may recollect it and give any information desired. Take, for example, these Second Assistant Assessors. They received $700. Well, it required but a small portion of their time comparatively, during the year, and your committee believed they would be amply compensated at $650, considering the time they serve. Now, this plan of not going below $1500 will of course shut off everything of that kind. In the Board of Health Office, for instance, are the inspectors of nuisances. They are good men, and I do not wish to undervalue them. One of them gets $1700, two $1500, and quite a number $1300 and $1400, or about the same pay as policemen. I believe you cannot draw the line at $1500. The idea that there is a certain limit of salary that they all must radiate towards, and that the laborer as well as the City Treasurer must stand on that level, is entirely erroneous. Salaries must be graded, and if you find a man is getting manifestly too much, there is no good reason why his salary should not be reduced. There is no good reason why a man getting $1000, $900, $800, or even three or four dollars per day, should not have his pay reduced a reasonable amount, if he is really getting too much. Now, I do not like the spirit of the opposition manifested to the report of our committee. As I have said before, we did the very best we could under the circumstances, and brought in the very best report we could agree upon. The gentleman who offers this substitute objects to it, first because we are new members. Now this is not the first time that he has made remarks concerning new members, which I consider very uncomplimentary; and these remarks strike directly at three-fourths of the City Council today. It applies to nearly all other committees as well as this, and if you are going to bar a man out because he is a new member, why, we might as well resign—a part of us.

The President—The gentleman's time has expired.

On motion of Mr. Howes of Ward 18 the rule was suspended and the time for Mr. Webster to speak was extended. Mr. Webster continued:

Another reason why he objects to our report is, because it shows fear and favoritism. Now, if an intelligent and honest discrimination implies fear and favoritism, then we plead guilty to the charge. But I would like to ask one question of the Council. The gentleman who offers the substitute considers it entirely removed from all fear and favoritism. We take the ground that certain salaries should not be reduced, and we propose to stand by the flag, sink or swim. We believe others should be reduced more, and we propose it, but we make no threats about it. But to my certain knowledge the gentleman himself has been to salaried officers and told them, "Your salary is low enough as it is, but we will include you in the general plan for the sake of appearance of harmony and everything being even, and then we will turn around and put your salary back where it belongs." Now, I would like to know whether their report shows more fear or favoritism than ours.

Now, there is another thing to be considered. This committee has been two or three weeks carefully considering the matter; and because we are new members he has no faith whatever in our report. But he, Mr. Chairman, takes a piece of paper and writes off instructions for us in a few minutes which cover the whole ground. He can accomplish more in about two or three minutes than we can possibly accomplish in two or three months. It would seem to me, upon that basis, he ought to have been joined to our committee; and while he would not have entirely relieved us from our inexperience, we certainly could not have suffered from self-assurance.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I would like to ask the gentleman whether that salary he speaks of which it was proposed should be reduced and placed back, was the result of a conference at the Sherman House, that the gentleman from Ward 21 asked about.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Our friend did not invite me to the conference, and of course I could not say.

Another spirit of opposition I dislike very much is that of the gentleman from Ward 21 [Mr. Pratt] last evening. Not that I consider his opposition of any more importance than anybody's else especially, but I think that the spirit he showed will illustrate, in a great measure, the general spirit of hostility to our measure. In order to satisfy himself that we were doing no injustice, or rather, I suppose, to satisfy himself that we were doing injustice, he visited himself two departments in person. Well, now, before doing so—and he will not deny it—he was fully committed in his own mind to the theory that the salaries at present were not a cent too high as they are, and he was entirely opposed before he had given it any consideration at all or any examination; he had opposed every system of reduction whatever. I do not think he will deny it himself; and it is unnecessary for me to say that whenever he gets hold of an idea he never lets go. He returned to his office with his previous impressions entirely confirmed and strengthened. Now, the case of the Deputy Collectors is one that his sensitive organization was very much shocked at. Well, we reduced them from sixteen hundred dollars to fourteen hundred dollars. Well, that reduction, as I said, I looked on as merely a matter of opinion for this Council to decide upon and say whether they want to cut them $100, $200 or nothing. But where the great injustice comes in would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer; but when you come to a Boston lawyer you cannot tell anything about it. Now, we have left their salary at just the same rate, or at just about the same rate, with the captains of police. I suppose nobody has yet proposed to reduce the captains of police; but nevertheless I did acquiesce in this reduction. Now, as I said before, we can take one report as a basis of settlement if we wish, and I, for one, hope we will. If there really is a feeling in the Council that we do not want to make a reduction, let us stand up like men and say so—and I presume every man has made up his mind pretty nearly as to what he wants. If we want this report as a basis let us press it to a second reading and go ahead next Thursday night and fight it out as best we can. If it is not worth any further consideration, why, don't make any steps towards procrastination, but meet it squarely and fairly; give us the basis of it, and let us go ahead in it, or else kill the matter entirely. It is due to the officeholders, who ought to know just where they stand. It is due to those whom we abolish, and who do not know whether they are in their places or not. All this talk about our holding the thing until the Aldermen come to a conclusion is the greatest absurdity in the world. We are elected to do our duty, and the Aldermen were elected to do theirs as they understand it. It is for them to carry out their duty in good faith and for us to do the same. Two wrongs do not make a right. It is not for us to be their censors. I trust every friend of this bill will stand by it as it was originally reported and allow nobody to play tricks upon us. Let us stand upon some kind of a basis and understand whether we will go forward to possible success.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—The gentleman who has last spoken has taken just about the ground I supposed he would. He says, "If our bill is not carried through, retrenchment has gone." There is no such thing. "You have got to do just as one committee do, or you have got nothing at all." I do not believe in any such doctrine at all.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I rise to a point of order; the gentleman has no right to misrepresent my remarks.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—The gentleman did not give me a chance to misrepresent him. The order creating the Retrenchment Committee was passed by the Common Council, Jan. 11. Probably the committee got to work, we will say, the next day. They reported a salary bill or salary ordinance, Feb. 19. Now, allowing seven days that must have been required for printing this very lengthy document, it certainly does not leave a margin of two months. If the gentleman speaks about the amount of work done he probably has a way of reckoning double; but it does not prove itself in print, and that is the only way we have to go by just now. As to this very matter of inequality that the gentleman produces such a profound effect with, I remarked when I was up before that I proposed to make amendments to the present order as it stands so that it should not include two persons; and I very frankly say, sir, I spoke to those persons and told them so. One was the City Messenger and the other was the Clerk of Committees. As to my friends, I have no friends in this matter. I have not been lobbying around to get this bill through. I did not complain of the members of the committee being young men, or young men of the City Council; but it is a fact that we do gain something by experience; I do not wish to arrogate anything to myself, but I think when the gentleman has been in the City Government as long as I have, he will probably have some different ideas of the subject.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—The trouble with a Boston lawyer is that he has to confine himself within the law and the facts, whereas the Bunker Hill business man may disregard them both. I am sorry to take anything from the beautiful effect of the oration of the conscientious gentleman from Ward 3. I merely wish to extend the eulogy on that committee a little further by mentioning an instance or two. And in passing let me deny in toto and squarely the intimations which the gentleman made in respect to my prepossessions of mind in regard to this report. I do not care to go into it in detail, but I do declare that I have approached this subject as I have endeavored to approach every other subject coming to my attention, in a fair and impartial spirit, and when I thought I had arrived at the truth, stood by it. But leaving that matter, I wish to extend, as I said, the eulogium of that committee, by calling attention to the fact that in all the time they claim to have bestowed in so much investigating they forgot or omitted to call before them any person from the Water Registrar. They did call before them one of the Water Commissioners. Now, what is the result in not having the Water Registrar before them? The inspectors connected with Cochituate have been reduced, and those connected with Mystic have not been reduced at all. I do not know whether that was an inadvertence or an illustration of the friendship and carefulness of the gentleman from Charlestown for his friends.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—This shows more of the same spirit of this opposition. Because we have determined to classify two departments differently from what he would have done, he opposes the whole report. I want to know if we are expected to bring in a report that will satisfy every lawyer in Boston. It cannot be done.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I would like to ask the gentleman whether I am correct in stating that the committee did not visit the Water Registrar's Department? [A pause.] The gentleman does not deny it. I also charge that they did not have the Water Registrar before them. I also charge that they left inequality in the reduction of the pay of the employes of that department.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—The gentleman from Ward 3 has kindly given his version of the cost of the various departments, and there is a question I would like to ask him, because I want to vote intelligently on this bill if I vote at all. I see in the Police Department the chief clerk has $1500 and is not cut, and the chief clerk in the Fire Department has $1500 and is reduced $150. I would like to know why that discrimination is made between the two men.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—Does not the gentleman understand that the office of Clerk of the Police Department is a more responsible place and should be paid a larger salary? I think an examination by any member of the Council will convince him of that fact.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—The gentleman from Ward 18 says we do gain something by experience, and I believe we do. I think that lawyers generally carry their points by argument, and I do not see why insurance brokers should not carry theirs by percentages. There has been a question arisen in my mind—a sort of conundrum—I put it out, and if any gentleman can answer it I would like to have him. If a general committee, consisting of three Aldermen and five Councilmen, after careful consideration and investigation of each and every department, after many meetings, cannot bring in a bill that shall do justice to our many city officials, how can one gentleman, even from Ward 18, with his limited knowledge (as he states it), say that a bill reducing salaries ten, fifteen and twenty per cent. will measure out to each and every salaried official just, meritorious, well and justly earned dues? I would like to have the gentleman or somebody else answer that question.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Is that a personal request?

The President—Does the gentleman from Ward 19 yield the floor?

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Oh, no; I can stand up and he can answer it just as well.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—If the gentleman puts a personal question I will give him an answer. My plan, proposed by me at the last meeting, was on the basis of the salaries as they have been. I presupposed that the salaries were correct,—only I think they ought to be modified to suit the times, that is all. There is no assumption other than that. As far as experience is concerned, as I said before, I did some service, for two or three months on the Salary Committee last year. And while I am up let me say in commendation of the committee of last year as compared with that of the present—

The President—The gentleman from Ward 19 has the floor. He only gave way that a question might be answered.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I am answering the question, Mr. President.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—The answer is longer than the question.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—If the gentleman wishes any more I will proceed.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—Not in that line. I think I should not go into criticism, because during the week past I have been looking over the different bills, and while I don't think any committee can form a bill that will not be unjust to some, yet on the whole I think the Committee on Retrenchment have given as fair a bill as they can. At the beginning of the year, I suggested that each general committee on the departments should investigate thoroughly each department in the matter of salaries and bring in their reports; and I don't believe now that in any other way we can get at this matter and do justice to all. I know it was suggested then that some of the outside boards of commissioners did not have any committees; but there might have been a committee appointed on their cases. I think as we take up these ordinances, one by one, we shall have to have a report from every committee on every department in City Hall, because in no other way can we get at this matter. Of course there are many departments in which I am not acquainted, and I do not know their duties. Of some I do. If I vote intelligently on the subject, I must take the word, or the knowledge, or experience of gentlemen who are in these departments. In that way, and in that way alone, can I vote. I am afraid, although the assumption of the gentleman from Ward 18 is against it, that if we go to amending the present bill, as we have it before us, we shall pull down all that we have been trying to build up for the past two or three years. Why, I do not know but I had rather have the scarlet fever than the symptoms of it, any way. Last year all our city officials were sitting on nettles the greater part of the year for fear their salaries would be reduced; and we are putting them in the same position this year. One of the heads of departments told me if we did not finish this up there were two or three other heads of departments who in a little while would not know where they were, whether they were inside City Hall or outside of it. I think it is too bad to disappoint them every time. We disappointed them last year, and this year we ought to reduce their salaries, and I repeat what I said at the last meeting, I have not heard a good and sufficient reason why we should not. As the gentleman has well stated, a dollar will go a great way further now than it would ten years ago; at any rate, mine has to, I don't know how it may be with other gentlemen. So I think it is only doing justice. But the great point to me is, can these salaries be equalized? I do not think we can ever do it. I do not care if you give it to a commission you cannot do it. If you appoint a committee you cannot do it. It must be unjust. It has been going on for the last ten or twelve years unjustly. It is only for a year. Next year, with a new Council, this matter has got to be gone over with again, just as we are going over it today; and so in every Council. Every year it must be debated, and every year it will be passed upon. It seems to me we cannot do better, and I have made up my mind to vote for this bill. I think I could fix it up a little better to suit myself. I think you could, Mr. President, but I think in justice to ourselves and in justice to our constituents, we should carry the retrenchment bill through this year. Why, we are standing, you know, right between two fires. Here are the city officials trying to get the most money for the smallest amount of work; and here are the tax-payers and our constituents on the other hand who are saying "you must give us the most work for the least money." These men are doing very well in here, City Hall, doing their work and taking the money; but the outside parties, who have to take the money out of their business to pay for it have as much right to be heard. While we may do a little injustice in City Hall, we must also remember there are many on the outside who need justice to be done them. So I say we must carefully consider it and then pass upon it. I do not know any better way. I do not know any way in which we can come to any decision better than to take this bill as it is and carry it through. If there is any amendment to be offered here tonight I should be glad to hear of it, but up to this time I have not seen anything that would convince me that the report of this committee is not the best we can get at this time.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—In answer to the question of the gentleman a few moments ago in regard to the salaries of the clerks of the Fire Commission and Police Department, I would say that the clerk of police has to work seven days in the week, and the clerk of the Fire Department can attend the Tabernacle three times on Sundays if he sees fit.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I have been very much amused at this discussion. It is on salaries, and we don't want to pay people so much as we have been paying them; and something has been said about the taxpayers and the hard times. There has been some difference of opinion; the subject has been pretty well ventilated, and I move the previous question.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I hope the previous question will not be put, for, as I suppose, and as I think the Chair ruled at the last meeting, the order for the previous question will require us to take a vote on all the ordinances before us without order, amendment or discussion. It seems to me that if we should press all these ordinances to a second reading without amendment or discussion, trusting to amend them on their final passage, we should find ourselves in an awkward predicament. I think there are some gentlemen here who don't want those ordinances passed as they find them now. If we begin to amend them on the final passage, as each ordinance is passed, it becomes a law, and it is beyond our control. A gentleman may be willing to sacrifice his own ideas and wishes with regard to certain officers while they are going through, if other people are going to sacrifice theirs, trusting to a bill going through as a whole; but if when it comes to a final passage the gentleman will be compelled to see that salaries which he thinks ought not to be cut down are cut down, and are irrevocably passed upon, and when the Council comes to pass upon the other salaries, he will find that gentlemen whom he trusted to cut those salaries down will change their minds and the result will be entirely unsatisfactory and will be beyond recall; whereas, if we make the amendments at the present time, we can see whether we get the thing in a satisfactory shape or not, and then can reconsider our action upon the final passage of the ordinances, if it is necessary.

The President—The Chair will state the operation of the previous question in this case. It will cut off the motion of the gentleman from Ward 18, and, if the main question is ordered, it will bring the Council to a vote without debate upon the ordinances reported by the committee.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I understand that the previous question is on the substitute offered by the gentleman from Ward 18. I don't understand that that question has anything to do, at the present time, with the report of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment. I moved the previous question on the substitute, but I will withdraw that motion, and move to take the vote in ten minutes.

Mr. Crocker—On what will the debate be limited to ten minutes?

Mr. Sibley—On the motion to recommit.

The vote to take the vote in ten minutes was carried.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I can only say that at the conclusion of these ten minutes—which I do not see any particular benefit of—I hope the previous question will be moved and enforced upon the main question. This policy of delay is not by the friends of the measure; but those who are more anxious to make amendments than to delay action. If they are so desirous of action, why did they keep the report on the table until they could not do so any longer. These same gentlemen would have kept the report upon the table until now if they could. This question shows that we should take a test vote upon it. However much we want to save salaries in City Hall, I believe they are too much and should be reduced some. I understand that the School Committee have sent in an estimate of salaries substantially the same as last year, and the Committee on Public Instruction have made a reduction of a hundred thousand dollars. Now, if we are going to economize here, we can insist upon it there, and we cannot do it otherwise. If we vote against retrenchment here, I propose to vote against it with all my power there. The question is whether we want retrenchment here or not? If you pass our report tonight it will be a test question. I hope we shall not be bull-dozed tonight. It was understood at the last meeting that a vote should be taken tonight and we can take it now, and it was said the main question would affect amendments. The committee consented to acting without the main question, but just before the vote came the substitute came in, and everybody wanted to consider it and the Council adjourned. Now it does seem to me that we might as well go on the record one way or another, as we will then know how to vote upon it. I trust the vote will be taken.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—I ventured to make a remark at the last session against this report of the Committee on Retrenchment, not because it was reported by new members, or young members, or by one person or party; but simply because I thought there were features in it, and the main features in it, which were inexpedient and truly impracticable. Possibly I didn't make myself clearly understood, and, therefore, I wish to repeat what I suggested at that time in regard to some characteristic features of this report. One is that passing these ordinances creates in my judgment a large number of salaried offices. For instance, you take the ordinance on salaries for the Treasurer of Boston, and you can illustrate them all by that one. Section 1 provides for the salary of the Treasurer; section 2 provides for the salary of the Cashier; section 3, for the Bookkeeper; 4, for the Teller; 5, for the Debt and Interest Clerk; 6, County Clerk, and so on. Then you look at the next section and you will find that these persons have their compensation fixed by salaries. You turn along at the top of the page and you find that it fixes the salary of the office boy. Now, there is nobody here—I don't care whether he is lawyer, insurance agent or broker—who will pretend to say, if those ordinances are passed, that we are not creating salaried offices. Now, then, referring to the rules of the Common Council, we find that by rule 67 all salaried officers shall be elected by ballot. The result in my judgment—I don't see how you can avoid it unless you repeal the rule—is that every person for whom you provide a salary in this ordinance must be elected by ballot. You cannot help it. Now, then, there is another feature which I think is wrong. If you elect all these officers by ballot and if you fix their salaries by ordinance, then this office boy receives his authority not from the head of his department, but from the City Council. It is plain, I think, to everybody that proper authority in that department is suspended, is abolished, is done away with. The head of the department is no longer responsible for it; he can no longer control, no longer discharge the employes. It is impossible to discharge one of these men whom we have elected, and whose salary has been fixed by the City Council. No matter if he saw in the course of a year that he did not require the services of the persons mentioned in the ordinances, he could not discharge him, and you could not possibly get rid of him this year because you have made a salaried contract by that vote and you cannot discharge it. I made that remark at the last session, and I think that the gentleman from Ward 3 [Mr. Webster] suggested that the ordinance read that the head of the department might be allowed so and so. That is so in one or two ordinances, but in the large proportion of them it is not "shall be allowed these clerks," but it is the same language in regard to the clerk that is used in regard to the head of the department, and you make them equal. I think that will be practically discharging all subordination and control by the heads of departments of all the persons in the departments, which is wrong. I think that will be the inevitable result of it. I think, further, that the amendment which was last substituted by the gentleman from Ward 18 is impracticable. As I read it or understand it, he proposes to reduce the salaries of all these parties, while, in the first place, legally, there is no salary to all these parties. Can gentleman say that this office boy has a salary? He is employed upon wages; he has nothing to start upon. When the gentleman comes to a department he looks down through the list of clerks; he says we reduce your salary ten or twenty per cent. What is his salary? There is no salary in the legal sense. It is mere compensation or contract that he had last year with the head of the department. The year before he had a different compensation, but there was no salary. The argument is baseless, as it is trying to erect a house without a foundation. The fact is, as I said before—I don't say this in hostility to the purpose of retrenchment—I say this, as the gentleman from Ward 18 said, this is the most extravagant city in the world in the point of payment of its salaried officers.

The time for debate having expired, a vote was taken, and Mr. Howes's motion was declared lost.

Mr. Duggan doubted the vote, and called for the yeas and nays, which were not ordered—4 for, 42 against—and the question came upon giving the ordinances a second reading.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—I wish to offer the following orders in place of the ordinances in the Retrenchment Committee's report, and if the President will allow me I would like to explain them to the Council, so that members can understand them as we go along. If gentlemen will first look at the report of the Retrenchment Committee they will see that the first is the Executive Department, next the City Clerk's office, and then next the Clerk of the Common Council, and so on. The orders that I propose to offer as substitute for the report of the committee are in the shape of orders instead of ordinances, as proposed by the committee. While I heartily endorse the report of the committee so far as it goes, in regard to the reduction of salaries, I do not like the fixing of the salaries by ordinance. The substitute, as the orders will be read, taking each department by itself—

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I call for the reading of the substitute which the gentleman has presented before he goes on with the debate.

The President—The Chair understands the orders presented by the gentleman simply substitute the word "order" for "ordinance."

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I move that the whole document be read by its title, if it has a title, in order that it may come before the Council, and that we may dispose of it.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21 raised the point that it was not proper to make a motion while the gentleman from Ward 20 had the floor.

The President—The gentleman only asked for the reading of the substitute.

Mr. Pratt—But he moved that it be read by its title. The gentleman has the right to make a speech before he offers the orders.

The President—The point is well taken.

Mr. Wilbur—I wish to explain to the Council.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I raise the point of order that the gentleman from Ward 20 is not talking on any subject before the Council.

The President—The point is well taken.

Mr. Pratt—I respectfully appeal from the decision of the Chair. The Retrenchment Committee's report is before the Council, and the gentleman from Ward 20 is in order in speaking upon that.

The President—The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman from Ward 20 has the right to proceed with his remarks upon the substitute. The gentleman from Ward 20 has the floor if he wishes to proceed.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Do I understand the Chair to withdraw his statement that the gentleman was not in order, and that he can now go on? The President—The Chair withdraws that ruling.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—Is it not proper for any gentleman to ask for the reading of a document before speaking upon it? He has already presented it to you as the presiding officer, and there is no other business before the Council.

The President—The gentleman from Ward 20 has the floor and he will proceed.

Mr. Wilbur—I will withhold any further remarks. I only asked the indulgence of the Council for a few moments so that I might explain the matter before it was read, and that the Council might understand it.

The President proceeded to read the substitute of Mr. Wilbur, which was in the usual form of a salary bill, and which made reductions from salaries as now paid. In the first order the salary of the Mayor's clerk is reduced from $1800 to $1600.

Mr. Wilbur—The report of the Retrenchment Committee fixed this salary at $1800 as at present.

Mr. Mowry called for the reading of the orders and the President proceeded to read them, as far as the City Clerk, whose salary it fixed at $4500 and $11,500 is allowed for clerk hire.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved that the further reading of the orders be dispensed with.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I object to dispensing with the reading of the orders. It is very important to have them read, and I suppose it is not possible to dispense with reading them unless by a suspension of the rules. It is a most unheard of thing to dispense with the reading of an amendment. We cannot tell how to act upon an amendment without reading it.

In reply to a question by Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, the President said a suspension of the rules would be necessary in order to dispense with the reading.

Mr. Wilbur—I hope the reading may proceed a little further, for there is an order attached to the order in regard to each department directing the committees on the different departments to report to this Council what reductions should be made in the various departments; this, I think, will show the feasibility of the substitute.

Mr. Flynn—It is very evident that these orders have been put in here as a means of filibustering, and that it will take from now until eleven o'clock to read them, if the gentleman insists upon the reading.

Mr. Wilbur—I do not insist upon the reading of the whole orders, if you will allow them to be read so far that they can be understood.

Mr. Flynn—It is very evident that they were put in here for delay, and in order to test the sense of the Council I move that the rule be suspended, that the reading of the order may be dispensed with.

The Council refused to suspend the rule—41 for, 21 against; two-thirds being necessary.

The reading of the orders progressed to the end of the order in relation to the Collector's Department.

Mr. Richardsou of Ward 11 moved that the further reading be dispensed with, that the orders be printed, and that the whole subject be specially assigned to next Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3 was very happy to do away with the reading, but if members wish to filibuster, those favoring the bill can stay till breakfast time if necessary.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 thought that if they went on printing, the expense would be more than the whole saving of the Retrenchment Committee's report.

Mr. Wilbur did not intend to filibuster. He was anxious for retrenchment and would be glad to sit till two o'clock in the morning. He offered the substitute in good faith and to do justice to the heads of departments and employes. Mr. Flynn moved the previous question.

In reply to Mr. Crocker, the President said the main question would include the substitute, and then the question would come on the ordinances without debate.

Mr. Sampson suggested that Mr. Wilbur withdraw the substitute in order to facilitate business.

Mr. Pratt suggested that the main question would cut off amendments which it would be better to make on the second reading than on the passage of the bill.

Mr. Sampson raised the point that the amendments had not been read through, and the President ruled the point well taken.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 hoped the substitute would not be withdrawn. It should be voted down at once. If it is intended to delay action they might as well order a lunch at once.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3 moved that the orders in the substitute be read by their titles.

Mr. Wilbur withdrew the substitute in order to facilitate business, on condition that the ordinances were to be taken up section by section.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—I move the previous question and that the thirty-nine ordinances be adopted by their titles.

Mr. Wilbur—Then I do not withdraw the amendment. I withdrew it on the condition that the ordinances would be taken up section by section, and if that is the understanding I will withdraw; otherwise I will not.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—Did not the Chair declare the amendment withdrawn?

The President—The gentleman from Ward 20 withdrew the amendment.

Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—I understand that the object is to put this bill as a whole just as it stands without any opportunity for amendment. That seems to be very unfair. There is a desire on the part of some of the gentlemen here to have some of those ordinances amended, in order that justice may be done as nearly as it can be. A majority of those present admit that great injustice will be done in certain cases if the report of the Retrenchment Committee is taken just as they have given it to us. Although the committee admit that in some cases injustice has been done, amendments can be made by taking up ordinances section by section. In some respects I favor the Retrenchment Committee's report, but if it is pressed, I shall be obliged to vote against it, because I am unwilling to take it just as it stands. I want it understood that I go for retrenchment. I stood for retrenchment last year, and I stand there this year; but I think some discretion should be used. The committee seem to have got the opinions of the heads of departments, and acted directly opposite to those opinions in some cases. We cannot have an opportunity to improve the report if the previous question is ordered.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—My object is to test the sense of the Council. The ordinances can be amended on their final passage.

Mr. Crocker—It is bad policy for us to pass this to the second reading under the previous question, so that no amendment can be made, for if the amendments are postponed until the final passage of the ordinance many of them will be beyond our control, and we cannot help ourselves. The alterations should be made on the second reading, and if we make a mistake we shall have a chance to look into it and find out what it is.

Mr. Sampson—I hope the previous question will not prevail. Now is the time to make amendments, if ever. I am in favor of retrenchment, but I believe in fixing salaries by ordinance. Here is the ordinance in relation to the Directors for Public Institutions which the Board of Aldermen overlooked. The City Council has no control over these salaries, the authority being vested in the Directors by statute, except the Master of the House of Correction and Superintendent of the Lunatic Hospital. In the other branch this statute provision in regard to the Overseers of the Poor was discovered in time to have that ordinance stricken out.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I hope the motion will prevail, though I don't want to choke off discussion. The committee have not been fairly treated; the bill has not been discussed upon its merits. It has been laid upon the table two or three evenings and members have brought in amendments. Those favoring the bill will stay here all night if necessary. The Council has discussed the matter thoroughly and I think it ought to be prepared to have a test vote.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—As one who is opposed to ordering the previous question at present, I wish to state that the reasons assigned by the gentleman from Ward 3 are not the reasons which dictate my action. I am in favor of retrenchment to as full an extent as the gentleman himself can be. But I am thoroughly opposed to this scheme of fixing salaries by ordinance. I believe it is as vicious a principle as can be introduced into the City Government, and this committee is trying to force this principle down our throats. They are refusing to give us a test vote upon that question separate and apart from the vital question of retrenchment. If they will present a test question, whether we wish to fix salaries by orders or ordinances—if the previous question can be moved upon that, I should be prepared to vote for it. But I am thoroughly opposed to ordering the previous question upon whether we shall vote for the ordinances at this time. I want my vote to be in favor of retrenchment. But I am opposed to this scheme of fixing salaries by ordinance, and I want the test to come there.

Mr. Beeching—My chief objection to the previous question is that it prevents amendments. If we make mistakes in the second reading we can correct them on the third. I go for retrenchment just as much as the gentleman from Charlestown, but I am not in favor of rushing this thing through without improving it. If the bill is right, and a majority of the Council favor it, it will pass. It is not absolutely necessary that it should be passed tonight as a whole, and we can finish it next Tuesday evening.

On motion of Mr. Crocker, the yeas and nays were ordered on the ordering of the main question, and it was ordered—yeas 37, nays 34:

Yeas—Messrs. Blanchard, Brintnall, Burke, Cannon, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pope, Reed, Roach, Ruffin, Sibley, Spenceley, Thordike, Vose, G. B. Webster—37.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blodgett, Brown, Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Ham, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson Roberts, Sampson, Shepard, Smardon, Souther, Stone, Thompson, Upham, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—34.

Mr. Crocker moved a reconsideration of the vote just taken, and suggested that it would facilitate business to divide the question, so that the question could be taken up on each ordinance separately.

Mr. Flynn raised the point that the motion was not in order, which the President ruled well taken.

Mr. Crocker said the motion was not made for delay, but simply to have the question divided, so that the general questions could be voted on separately from the ordinances.

Mr. Webster read the rule showing the motion to reconsider could not be made on the ordering of the main question, and the President again ruled the point well taken.

The question came up on giving the ordinances a second reading, and the President called attention to the verbal amendments made by the Aldermen.

The ordinances were passed to a second reading by their title.

On motion of Mr. Crocker, the several ordinances were read by their titles, and were put upon their passage.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 offered an amendment to the titles of the several ordinances in the usual form used in the salary orders, so that the salaries should be established by orders instead of ordinances.

Mr. Sampson—I think the feeling among a majority of the members of the Council is that the salaries should be fixed by orders instead of ordinances; and I think that many of us will vote for the report if the salaries are established by orders instead of ordinance. I believe the establishment of salaries by ordinance to be a pernicious principle.

Mr. Wilbur—The substitute which I offered is in the form of orders, and they make retrenchment in the various departments and it does not lessen the reduction made by the Retrenchment Committee. I offer them as substitutes for each section of the ordinances as they are taken up.

The President—The Chair understands that the substitute is substantially the same as that of the gentleman from Ward 17.

Mr. Pratt—I move that the subject be recommitted to the Committee on Retrenchment with instructions to report a salary bill reducing the salaries of all persons in the employ of the city five per cent. below the present rates. I offer this in no spirit of filibustering. I do not admit the right of the committee, under the order by which they were appointed, to choke down our throats these ordinances reported by them, and I do not find any authority for them to report ordinances establishing salaries. To test the genuineness of the gentleman's desire for reform, I offer this motion, and if it shall prevail it will accomplish retrenchment in a better way than the report of the Retrenchment Committee does. From the report before us I find that the amount paid for salaries is $2,347,571, and a reduction of five per cent. upon that amount will save to the city $117,378, as against $95,000 reported by this committee. If the object be to retrench, that retrenches a number of thousand dollars more than the report of the committee does. If they desire to make a fair and equitable reduction, that does it. Twenty per cent. off a man's income is a pretty large amount; ten per cent. off a man's income means a change of home, means cheaper rent, and means hardship in the family; and I do not believe, sir, that we would be doing justice by the faithful and efficient employes of this city by reducing them in many instances to the extent that is recommended by the committee—in some cases twenty per cent. The gentleman urged that the cost of living is less than it was formerly—that rents are cheaper, that a dollar goes farther than it did in former years. Grant it. If a dollar goes for a head of a department it goes farther for those employed in other branches of the City Government. If it is fair to reduce the pay of the Inspector in the city proper, it is fair to reduce those in the Bunker Hill wards. I contend that the fairest reduction is to take off a certain per cent. that will not be a hardship, and carry it right through the whole list of the employes without impartiality. If we reduce them a small amount this year, then next year they can be reduced five per cent. more. I am open to any arrangement that is just and equitable.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—There appears to be a desire on the part of a good many to evade the question of retrenchment. We have had four amendments offered this evening, and yet I have not heard a single member of the Council say he is not in favor of retrenchment. I am in favor of retrenchment. But it seems to me there are many things in the committee's report which might be amended. If the ordinances come up one at a time, and we act upon them, and the majority see fit to amend them, why not do so? But it seems to me that this introduction of new orders is by gentlemen who are not in favor of retrenchment. The gentleman has offered a motion that the salaries be reduced five per cent., but these salaries have been raised over twenty-five per cent., it seems, and in the short space of eight or nine years I noticed that their pay has been double. I should like to know what man in this Council within eight or nine years has had his salary doubled in the employ of other parties. I say not a single individual. I don't think a percentage reduction will do justice to the heads of departments or the employes either. I think on the whole the report of the committee is as good as we can get, and I think we had better proceed to try ordinances separately and get the sense of the Council upon them.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved the previous question.

Mr. Pratt hoped it would not be ordered, as many were desirous of making amendments.

Mr. Pierce—Will not the question be susceptible of division after the previous question is ordered?

The President—It will. Each order can be acted upon by itself.

Mr. Thompson called for the division of the question, before the order for the main question.

Mr. Flynn withdrew the motion for the previous question, and moved that the question be taken in three minutes.

Mr. Thompson called for the division of that question.

Mr. Reed of Ward 17 hoped the amendment of Mr. Sampson would prevail. He was in favor of establishing salaries by order, provided the ideas of the committee could be carried through.

The motion to take the vote in three minutes was carried, but it appearing that no one desired to speak, Mr. Beeching moved a reconsideration, which the President declared out of order unless the rules were suspended.

On motion of Mr. McGaragle, the rule was suspended.

The three minutes having expired, the question was put. Mr. Pratt's motion was lost, and the question recurred upon the amendment of Mr. Sampson.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3 had no objection to establishing salaries by order. In fact, in many cases he advocated it in the committee, and he read from the committee's report the reasons given for establishing salaries by ordinances.

Mr. Sampson's amendment was adopted, and the question was upon the passage of the several amended orders.

Mr. Thompson called for division of the question, so that the thirty-nine amended orders could be taken up separately.

The thirty-nine amended orders in the bill were then read seriatim, the title in each case being fixed as provided in the amendment by Mr. Sampson, and the word "order" substituted for "ordinance" wherever it occurred.

The question was put in each case upon each case separately, and the ordinances were passed one by one.

Discussion was, by vote of the Council, in each case limited to one minute.

Amendments were discussed accordingly, as follows:

Mayor's Clerk—$1800. Mr. Wilbur moved to make it $1650. Lost.

City Clerk—$4000. Mr. Wilbur moved to make the salary $4500 and to allow $11,500 for clerk hire, explaining the differences between that and the committee's report.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10 favored the amendment, as it was in the line of the remarks he had made. The true way in all the departments is to appropriate so much for clerk hire in the various departments, to procure competent and faithful heads, and make them responsible. The expense will be less, and it will avoid the election of so many new salaried officers. He did not believe any one wanted to go into an election of all those various clerks, and to establish salaries in this way was the only way to secure subordination and obedience.

Mr. Thompson said the committee's scheme was intended to revolutionize the manner in which the business of the City Government is conducted. The question is a grave one, affecting not a few dollars and cents only, but the entire principle upon which the Government is administered. He did not believe at this late hour that the Council were prepared to give the question the consideration to which it was entitled, and for that purpose he moved an adjournment.

The question was put by the Chair, who was in doubt, and on motion of Mr. Beeching of Ward 1 the yeas and nays were ordered.

Yeas—Messrs. Beeching, Blodgett, Brown, Burke, Clarke, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Hibbard, Mowry, Pearl, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, Souther, Thompson, Warren, Wilbur—17.

Nays—Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Brintnall, Cannon, Coe, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Dugan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullaney, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pope, Reed, Roach, Ruffin, Sampson, Shepard, Sibley, Smardon, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Upham, Vose, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wolcott—41.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. M. W. Richardson and Roberts.

Mr. Barnard of Ward 24 moved to specially assign the matter to next Thursday evening at half-past eight o'clock, in order to allow time to transact business this evening.

The motion was lost by division—24 for, 35 against.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 moved to lay the subject upon the table for fifteen minutes, as there were various reports and orders which ought to be submitted and business that should be transacted.

Mr. Barnard agreed with Mr. Clarke, although he was perfectly willing to stay here until midnight to transact the city's business.

Mr. McGaragle and Mr. McDonald both believed that it was important to settle the question tonight.

The motion to table was lost.

Mr. Pratt moved to especially assign it to three o'clock this morning, which the Chair ruled out of order as being dilatory in its nature.

Mr. Pratt respectfully appealed from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. Sibley raised the point that no appeal could be taken unless it was seconded and the appeal was lost for that reason.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24 asked for a division of the question involved in the amendment, which Mr. Wilbur again explained.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved the previous question.

Mr. Thompson urged that the main question should not be ordered, as there seemed to be a disposition to make the changes without discussion, and to force it upon the Council without mature consideration. It would appear by the record that he was opposed to reducing salaries, but it was because he was opposed to forcing the report down the throats of members.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 moved to adjourn to tomorrow evening at 7½ o'clock, but his attention being called to the fact that it was past midnight, he made the motion for Friday evening. The motion was lost.

Mr. Pratt moved to lay the whole subject on the table until half past one o'clock, because he acquiesced in the committee's intention to keep them there till morning.

The President ruled the motion out of order as dilatory.

Mr. Kelley of Ward 3—At our last meeting some gentlemen said they did not wish to be bulldozed. I believe we have been pretty well bulldozed by one or two lawyers. I believe in meeting this question fair and square. The committee reduced the City Clerk's salary just as he asked, and what right have they to force $1000 on him? Many employes have salaries that are too high. Gentlemen get up here and preach retrenchment, but throw every obstacle in the way; I don't believe in that doctrine. The gentleman [Mr. Pratt] says he did n't preach for Tilden and reform, and I can't see that he goes for reform in any shape. I call for the previous question.

The main question was ordered. The amendment was lost, a call for the yeas and nays by Mr. Crocker being lost.

Mr. Crocker advocated a postponement of the matter till the next meeting, as it should not be passed hastily. He thought the committee were inclined to force it through; but if they attempted it, filibustering might prevent it.

Mr. Sibley did not consider it a great hardship to sit a while longer; at Washington they had an all-night session recently. The gentleman had had fifteen months to consider this matter.

Clerk of Common Council and Assistant. Mr. Wilbur moved to amend by making the salary of the assistant $1200. It is too small to reduce $100.

Mr. Burke favored retrenchment, but objected to staying all night. He moved to adjourn. Lost by a division—26 for, 39 against.

Mr. Thompson moved to postpone further consideration to nine o'clock Friday evening, and that when the Council adjourn it be to that hour.

Mr. Sampson moved to substitute next Thursday evening, the regular meeting.

Mr. Spenceley urged action then and there. Four-fifths of the delay had been caused by those opposing retrenchment. He would stay there till morning dawns and the bell rings for eight o'clock.

Mr. Crocker thought they had not had time to act upon it. They had been gaining a little, and three or four more trials would give a majority.

Mr. Sampson said he had an engagement for Friday evening, and presumed others had.

Mr. Howes hoped they would sit till 9 A. M., if necessary to settle it.

Mr. Thompson was not anxious to delay, but made the motion in good faith.

The motion to assign to next Thursday evening was lost, and Mr. Thompson's motion to assign was lost.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 moved that discussion on each ordinance be limited to one minute.

Mr. Howes moved to make it ten minutes.

Mr. Pierce of Ward 24 thought it would be hurrying the matter through too hastily.

Mr. Spenceley moved to make the time three minutes and Mr. Crocker moved to make it an hour, and the last two motions were lost. Mr. Thompson raised a doubt, but the President refused to entertain it, as coming too late.

The motion for three minutes was adopted.

Mr. Beeching said the subject should be acted upon calmly, and to secure that end he moved to adjourn.

On motion of Mr. Thompson, the yeas and nays were ordered, and the motion was lost—yeas 25, nays 45.

Yeas—Messrs. Beeching, Blodgett, Brown, Burke, Clarke, Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Hibbard, Mowry, Pearl, Perham, J. H. Pierce, Pope, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Smardon, Stone, Thompson, Upham, Warren, Wilbur, Wolcott—25.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Brintnall, Cannon, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Hiscock, Howes, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mul-lane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, O. H. Pierce, Reed, Roach, Ruffin, Sampson, Shepard, Sibley, Souther, Spenceley, Thorndike, Vose, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster—45.

Absent or not voting—Roberts.

Mr. Clarke changed from yeas to nay before the vote was declared.

Mr. Ham of Ward 14 moved to assign the subject to nine o'clock of the next meeting.

Mr. Day said it was a dilatory motion.

Mr. Ham's motion was lost.

Mr. Wilbur's amendment was lost.

A motion to adjourn by Mr. Crocker was lost—23 for, 42 against.

Clerk of Committees—$2750. Mr. Danforth of Ward 10 moved to make it $3000. Lost.

Mr. Wilbur moved to make it $2600. Lost.

Assistant Clerk of Committees—$1500. Mr. Clarke moved to make it $1700. Lost.

City Messenger. Mr. Wilbur moved to make the salary of the First Assistant $1000. Lost.

City Collector—$4000. Mr. Wilbur offered his order in relation to this department as a substitute, making the Collector's salary $4500.

A motion to adjourn by Mr. Crocker was lost.

Mr. Wilbur's amendment was lost.

Teller in City Treasurer's Office—$1800. Mr. Crocker moved to make it $1810.

Mr. Spenceley said all these amendments are for dilatoriness.

Mr. Sibley—The gentleman from Ward 9 is perfectly harmless. It is only to filibuster.

Mr. Crocker said he thought it was not in the shape to hurry it through tonight.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. Hibbard thought a great mistake had been made in all the ordinances and moved to strike out "at the rate of" and insert "shall not be more than."

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10—That suggestion has been made a dozen times, but the Common Council does not see it.

Mr. McGaragle—Too bad.

Mr. Hibbard's amendment was lost.

Mr. Danforth moved to adjourn; he thought they had done very well and may as well finish it up at the next meeting. Lost by a division—25 for, 37 against.

Auditor of Accounts—$5000. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $5500, as that would be more proportionate. The Auditor performs the duties of three other officers, and the proposed reduction is unjust. The amendment was lost.

Chief Clerk in Collector's Office. Mr. Coe asked why the chief clerk was reduced only $200, while other similar employes were reduced $500.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3 said Mr. Ricker was a valuable man, and came very near being elected Collector himself. Anybody will see that his salary should not be reduced more.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 10 said the trouble was they were fixing salaries for men and not for the officers. If a man is discharged or resigns, the new man gets the same salary.

Deputy Collectors—$1400. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $1500. Lost.

City Engineer—$4500. Mr. Pratt moved to make it $5000.

Mr. Wilbur said the work of the Engineer is very important, and it is not good policy to reduce the salary of such an able officer.

Mr. Danforth favored this amendment, calling attention to the vote of 7 to 5 in the other branch on this salary, while on others it was 9 to 3.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. Howes raised the point that the President should preserve order and decorum, and said several members were making a free lunch room of the Council chamber. He moved that they be invited to go into the lobby.

The President—The gentleman's point of order is frivolous.

City Solicitor. Amendments to make the salary of the Solicitor $5500 and First Assistant $3500, by Mr. Pratt, were lost.

East Boston Ferries. Mr. Beeching—This is a case in which I think great injustice is done by the committee. I move to strike out all those sections relating to the employes, and if that is done, I will move that it be referred to the Directors, who by ordinance now have the matter in charge.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2—The ordinance already refers this matter to the Directors of the Ferries, and I don't see why we can change it by any vote of ours. I second the motion to strike out, so that we may leave it where it belongs, in the hands of the Directors.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13 hoped the Council would pass the ordinance as it came from the committee. The amendment was lost.

Mr. Reed offered an amendment which he said had been inadvertently omitted by the committee and was the same as that provided in the ordinances relative to the city hospital and public library, that the trustees of the East Boston Ferries may, with the approval of the Committee on Ferries, designate the additional number necessary to be employed, etc.

Mr. Reed's amendment was rejected.

Mr. Howes moved to strike out the section similar to the one offered by Mr. Reed in regard to the ferries, saying that what was left to one branch ought also to be left to the other. The amendment was lost.

Registrars of Voters. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary of the Registrar appointed in 1877 $2500. Lost.

License Commissioners—$1000. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $2000.

Mr. Hibbard hoped this amendment would prevail; the reduction looks like free rum, and he did n't know but that it meant that.

The amendment was lost.

Superintendent of Faneuil Hall Market—$2200. Mr. Clarke called attention to the fact that the committee had omitted the compensation of $150 a year allowed for a boy to remain in Faneuil Hall while the superintendent was out. He moved to amend to allow this amount for a boy.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 14 moved to adjourn.

Lost—13 for, 38 against.

Mr. Clarke's amendment was lost.

Mr. Hibbard moved to make the salary $2000.

Mr. Hiscock moved to make it $2500.

Mr. Hibbard said the Superintendent of Markets sat in his office, and did nothing but collect rents once a month, and that $1500 was sufficient.

Both amendments were lost.

Superintendent of Public Lands—$1800. Mr. Clarke moved to make it $2000.

Lost.

Police. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salaries of policemen appointed after the passage of this order $2.75, instead of $2.50. Lost.

Mr. Danforth moved to strike out "after two years' service," and insert "first month's service." A person who is competent to be a policeman can learn the duties in less than two years, and having learned them is entitled to full pay. Two dollars and a half is very small pay for a patrolman.

The amendment was lost.

Superintendent of Sewers. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $3200. Lost.

Health Department. Mr. Pratt moved that it be referred to the Committee on Ordinances to report whether it conflicts with the statutes. Lost.

Assessors. Mr. Clarke called attention to the fact that no provision had been made for the thirty-three clerks required in this department, which must have been an oversight.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 raised the point that a quorum was not present.

The President said forty-four members were present.

Clerk of Park Commissioners. Mr. Vose said he understood this office was abolished, and there is no necessity for passing the order.

Mr. Clarke said the office was abolished, and moved to strike out the provision.

Mr. Spenceley said the clerk might be wanted by and by if we lay out parks.

The amendment was lost.

Superintendent of City Hospital. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $2500. Lost.

Superintendent of Public Grounds. Mr. Pope of Ward 14—Being voted down does not frighten me. I understand that the Superintendent of Common has not had his salary raised for a great many years, yet the committee have reduced him. I move to make it $2500.

Lost.

Superintendent of Streets. Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary $4000. Lost.

Directors for Public Institutions. Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 called the attention of the Council to what he presumed was an oversight of the committee, and read from pages 447 and 454 of the Laws and Ordinances to show that the fixing of salaries of the employes under the Directors for Public Institutions was in the hands of the directors by statute. Therefore, if this order is passed it would not be legal, to prevent which he moved that it be stricken out.

Mr. Clarke said the case was exactly the same with the Park Commissioners, and he did not see how they could alter this matter now.

Mr. Spenceley said that if the order was illegal it was null and void, and it would do no harm to pass it.

Mr. Sampson desired the matter referred to the City Solicitor.

Mr. Sampson's amendment was lost—21 for, 28 against.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 called attention to section 17, by which the salary of the chaplain at the institution was reduced to $1050, and there was a discrepancy between the order and the recommendations of the committee in their report. This salary had not been raised since 1865, and he moved to make the salary $1100.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3 said the salary was $1200, and the reduction proposed was $150, which, according to his mathematics, left $1050.

Mr. Pope said he was looking at another section, and would withdraw the amendment.

Mr. Sampson moved to amend section 19, as he understood the committee had acted under the impression in regard to the clerk of the House of Industry, who is able, and whose duties are very onerous. Since then he was employed at a salary of $800 a year, and was promised a thousand next year. That gentleman was transferred to the Marcella-street Home, and in February the directors took the assistant at Rainsford Island for the position, who receives but $600 a year and has a family living in Boston.

Mr. Spenceley—The gentleman's time has expired. He says it is illegal. I don't see what difference it makes whether they pass it or not.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 moved to make the chaplain's salary $1300. He did not see how a committee could bring in such a report as that. He would resign if he belonged to such a committee.

The amendment was lost.

Public Library. Mr. Pratt moved that this order be referred to the Committee on Public Library. Lost.

Mr. Pratt asked for a reconsideration of the vote whereby the time was limited to one minute, that he might briefly give the reasons for the reference, and he moved to suspend the rule. Lost.

Mr. Wolcott of Ward 11—As the time is limited, I can only enter a protest against the action proposed in regard to the Public Library. I think it will tend to retard the growth and impair the efficiency of this, one of the noblest institutions of Boston. Since 1872 the daily circulation of books at the library has increased three times, and the cost per book, which is the best test, has diminished one-half. I think that is sufficient proof that the library is conducted economically and efficiently.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14—I can only say that I second the gentleman's protest. I have it here before me—and the circulation of the library has increased six times, and the Superintendent has a standing offer of $6000 to go elsewhere; and when you strike at the Public Library in this way, I think it will injure it very much.

Mr. Hibbard—I believe the Public Library of Boston has a record of being the best-managed institution of the kind in the United States. There has never been a cent of expense for horse-car fares or dinners.

Mr. Pope—The expense of conducting that library has been decreased from twenty-five to ten cents per volume.

On motion of Mr. Perham, the yeas and nays were ordered, and the amendment of Mr. Wolcott to make the salary of the Superintendent $3600 was lost—yeas 23, nays 39:

Yeas—Messrs. Beeching, Coe, Cross, Danforth, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Morrill, Mowry, Perham, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pope, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Shepard, Souther, Upham, Warren, E. R. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—23.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Brintnall, Brown, Cannon, Clarke, Cox, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Ham, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Reed, Roach, Ruffin, Sibley, Spenceley, Stone, Thorndike, Vose, G. B. Webster—39.

Absent or not voting—Blodgett, Burke, Crocker, Felt, Loughlin, Roberts, Smardon, Thompson—8.

Mr. Wolcott moved to amend the remaining sections by striking out "sums to be paid." The action of tonight he considered in the main wise, but this was against the interests of the city. It will work great harm to one of the best and noblest institutions in this country.

The amendment was lost—22 for, 35 against.

Mr. Pratt moved to amend section 4, by making the salary $1700 instead of $1500. The person who occupies this position not long since had an offer of $2000 a year to go to Connecticut to take charge of a public library there, and he is only kept here by the assurances that he is to have the $1700. He is a most valuable assistant and a good proof reader, and the trustees will be put to a great deal of trouble if he leaves.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Howes moved to amend section 10 by making the salaries of two assistants $1040 a year, instead of $1000. The salaries of these persons are the prices paid by the trade for binders. You might as well try to cut down the salary of a locomotive engineer who belongs to the association as to cut down the salaries of these officers.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. Pratt moved to lay on the table and especially assign to next Thursday evening, as it would not be materially injured by lying over one week.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Hibbard never did any filibustering and did not want to now, but he wanted to stand up and defend the Trustees of the Public Library. He moved to appropriate $68,410 to the trustees for salaries during the next municipal year.

Mr. Pratt spoke of the hardships which would ensue to the employes of the library by the proposed reduction. In that institution is the best example of civil-service reform in the city. Employes enter it at a salary of $500, and for faithful service are advanced to $800 a year.

The motion was lost.

Water Department. Mr. Coe of Ward 13 moved to amend section 13 by making the salary $2.75 a day for Inspectors, instead of $3, and asked Mr. Webster the reason of the difference in this case.

Mr. Webster said he could not be the entire brains and mouthpiece of the committee. This matter had gone from his memory.

Mr. Coe—The explanation is entirely satisfactory.

Mr. Coe's amendment was lost—15 for, 27 against.

Mr. Wilbur moved to make the salary of the Water Registrar $3000. Lost.

Mr. Pratt moved to make the salary of Inspectors $3 a day. Lost.

The various ordinances having been passed, Mr. Pope of Ward 14 moved to adjourn. Lost.

Mr. McGaragle moved the suspension of the rule, that he might make a motion to reconsider the vote whereby were passed the several orders.

Mr. Sibley hoped it would not prevail. If anybody felt inclined to move the reconsideration he could do so, and the Council would have a week to look the matter over.

Mr. McGaragle did not propose to stay there until half-past two o'clock for nothing.

The motion to suspend the rules was lost—34 for, 20 against; two-thirds being necessary.

Mr. Ruffin moved to adjourn. Lost.

Subsequently, on motion of Mr. Flynn of Ward 13, the Council refused to reconsider the action whereby the orders were passed.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Barnard of Ward 24—Petition of W. H. L. Smith, for compensation for damages for injuries received by defect in the highway. Referred to Joint Committee on Claims. Sent up.

By Mr. Pope of Ward 14—Petition of T. A. Splaine, that the vote of the Committee on Common, etc., in regard to boats on the Public Garden and Common ponds be reconsidered. Referred to Joint Committee on Common, etc. Sent up.

SUPERINTENDENTS OF BRIDGES.

Mr. Ham submitted a report from the Joint Special Committee on the subject, nominating the present Superintendents of Bridges for reelection. Accepted. Sent up.

THE OLD SOUTH.

Mr. Day of Ward 4 offered an order—That the Committee on Legislative Matters be instructed to oppose before the Legislature any measure by which the city of Boston shall be compelled to appropriate any money towards preserving the Old South Church.

Mr. Day—My idea is to oppose that because there is an act before the Legislature requiring the city to appropriate a hundred and fifty thousand dollars for this purpose, and I do not think the city is in a condition to do so. As the matter is pending before the Legislature I thought it was best to have an order passed to oppose it. The taxes derived from that building are about twelve or fifteen thousand dollars a year and the city becomes a contributor to that amount, and I think that is all that should in justice be demanded of the city.

Mr. Wolcott of Ward 11—I move that the order lie upon the table. The act proposed is merely permissive, and I think that would not hurt the city. I do not like to have matters of such importance introduced at such a late hour.

Mr. Day—I was aware that the hour was late, but still I think it ought to be acted upon in some shape. I think there is a good deal in getting permission from the Legislature, and if they get permission they will succeed in getting the money appropriated. Therefore, I offer the order.

The order was laid upon the table.

FIREMEN'S CHARITABLE FUND.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 offered an order—That the Committee on Fire Department be requested to consider and report upon the expediency of reporting an ordinance so as to provide for the payment of money received from fines from the members of the Fire Department to the treasurer of the Charitable Association of said department; the same to be used for the relief of firemen injured in the discharge of their duties. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

SEVENTEENTH OF JUNE.

Mr. Shepard of Ward 4 offered an order—That a committee, to consist of three members of the Common Council, with such as the Board of Aldermen may join, be a committee to arrange for a suitable observance of the Seventeenth of June next, and that they be authorized to expend for that purpose the income of the Foss and Babcock Fund, and in addition thereto a sum not to exceed $500; the same to be charged to the appropriation for Incidentals.

Ordered to a second reading.

PAY OF LABORERS.

Mr. O'Donnell of Ward 7 offered an order—That the Committee on Accounts consider the expediency of paying the laborers in the departments of Health, Paving, Common, Sewers and Water semi-monthly, instead of monthly, as is now the custom.

Mr. Flynn of Ward 13—The Committee on Accounts have nothing to do with that matter. It belongs to the several departments.

Mr. O'Donnell—I offer it that they may consider the expediency of doing it.

Mr. Flynn—The Committee on Accounts are for the purpose of auditing bills. They have nothing to do with regulating the pay of those men.

Mr. O'Donnell—Then I move to refer the order to the committees on the several departments.

Mr. Flynn—I am on the Committee on Health, and I have yet to know that the men in that department have asked to be paid semi-monthly. Until that is done, I think it hardly proper to pass such an order. I move that the order be indefinitely postponed.

The President—The motion is not in order, the motion to commit taking precedence.

Mr. O'Donnell—I am surprised to hear the gentleman state that none of the laborers have expressed such a wish to him. I do not wish to take any labor off the committee's hands, but quite a number have spoken to me on the subject. They have waited on me at different times and stated that if they could obtain their wages semi-monthly, they could live at much less figures than now.

On motion of Mr. Webster of Ward 3, the Council at a quarter before three o'clock A. M. adjourned.

CITY OF BOSTON

Department of Public Works

Office of the Inspector

Report on the Administration of the Department of Public Works

for the year ending

December 31, 1900

Submitted to the

Board of Public Works

January 1, 1901

By the Inspector

W. H. ...

...

...

...

...

...

...

...

...

...

...

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

MARCH 26, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., Alderman Clark, Chairman, presiding.

UNION RAILWAY.

The Board took up the special assignment for four o'clock P. M., viz.—Hearing on petition of Union Railway Company for leave to run cars over certain tracks of the Metropolitan, Middlesex and South Boston railroads, to Temple place.

P. A. Collins appeared for the Union Railroad.

The Chairman asked if there were any remonstrants, and Harvey Jewell appeared for the Metropolitan Railroad.

Mr. Collins introduced James W. Emery, president of the Union Railroad, who explained the petition and the object sought. The application is made under the act of 1874, authorizing the Board to allow one road to run over the tracks of any other road. He contrasted the size of Cambridge in 1853, when the cars carried 5680 passengers, with the same in 1876, when they carried over 21,000. The average number of passengers per trip is less than that of any other road, and ample accommodation is furnished. When the location of the road was granted the business centre of Boston was in State street, but it has since moved up to Summer street, and the people of Cambridge desire to be conveyed nearer the business centre of the city. The two omnibus lines now running from Cambridge is evidence that further accommodation is needed. The road keeps a man on the bridges to keep count of the passengers in both the cars and omnibuses, and he gave statistics of the number of passengers carried by both the cars and omnibuses. The omnibus lines are licensed on the ground of competition; but he asked if there was any fair competition when the outlay for the omnibus lines is small and that for the cars is large; the railroad must furnish reasonable accommodations or be fined, while the omnibuses run as infrequently as the owners please. Mr. Emery further contrasted the restrictions imposed on railroads as against none on the omnibuses. For the present the company waived the application to run through Court street, which is now crowded with cars. The company are ready to meet all reasonable public demands, and they now ask the right to run six cars from the East Cambridge line through Portland street, up Washington street to Temple place, and return by Tremont street and Court street. The Cambridge omnibus line on this route run only twelve hours a day, taking the cream of the business, using in winter the tracks which the company have to clear of snow. The company had always endeavored to accommodate the people, and there had been no recent complaint by patrons except that they could not get farther south into Boston.

Mr. Collins presented the petitions of the Cambridge City Government in aid of the petition of the Union Railroad.

The petitioners here rested their case.

Mr. Jewell, on behalf of the Metropolitan road, said that, notwithstanding the changed aspect of the case, the petition should be treated as it is, viz., to run over the circuit to Temple place. This is the beginning of an attempt to make use of all the tracks for their benefit. The company is not a Boston company; the petition of the Middlesex road to go to Boylston was not listened to favorably until Charlestown was annexed. To grant this petition will greatly inconvenience the citizens of Boston, in the present condition of the streets. Passengers from Cambridge have the right to get tickets to convey them to Boylston street and back for five cents; and any passenger who takes a Cambridge car at Charles street has a right to a ticket to take him to Boylston street in a Metropolitan car for five cents. The system of commutation was established nine years ago, and the people who ride in from Cambridge use them, the checks costing nine cents and each company getting 4½ cents; but the Cambridge Railroad does not give the people of Cambridge that opportunity. He charged that this petition was brought in to kill off the omnibus line. He did not think the Cambridge road were entitled to special consideration from this community, as their fares are higher than those of any other road in the State, they charging ten cents to Harvard square, 3½ miles, while the Metropolitan carries passengers for six cents to Brookline, Jamaica Plain, Meeting-House Hill and other places, four, five and six miles away. If the Cambridge road did their duty the Cambridge people, for nine cents, could go to the end of either of the Metropolitan lines. Mr. Jewell next spoke of the crowded condition of Court and Washington streets, Temple place, etc., where there are now 134 cars an hour, and which might be greatly increased by granting this application; the patrons of every road have the same interest in this that the Metropolitan corporation have.

Charles E. Powers, President of Middlesex road, said he did not appear to make any captious opposition to the petition. The Middlesex road is content with twelve cars an hour to the southerly depots, in addition to the number now allowed to go to Temple place, as he said a week ago, and if they had a right to run more than that he would not exercise it now; but they do desire to run more than that southerly from Cornhill. In case the restriction on the Middlesex road were removed, so that cars could run more frequently, he would not object to this petition; but with the present limitations he objected to the granting of the petition.

Benjamin Dean, counsel for the South Boston Railroad, explained the commutation system on that road, and said he had no doubt a proper adjustment of the system would give the Cambridge people all the accommodation they need. His road first intended to petition for the right to go to the northern depots via Court street, but after examination they concluded not to ask for it. He favored a central depot, near Cornhill, from where passengers could go to any part of the city, and thought it would be better for the people.

Mr. Stiles, proprietor of the East Cambridge omnibus line, said the railroad were trying to support ninety trips a day for the purpose of breaking down the omnibus line. He objected to this route in the city, as it was to kill off the coach line. All he asked was to be protected as far as possible.

E. W. James referred to the act of 1871 giving the West End cars the right to go to the South End, which they never obtained. Mr. Stiles accommodated the people of the West End, and the Cambridge Railroad never accommodated any one.

Mr. Collins, in closing the case for the petitioners, said he had no answer to make to Mr. James, Mr. Stiles, Mr. Powers and Mr. Dean; but had it not been for the Metropolitan road the commutation would have been much cheaper than it is. Commutation exists because there were enough poor men's friends in the Legislature, outside of the then Speaker of the House, to keep commutation on the statute book. The Cambridge road has not receded from its petition; but at present it sees that it is impracticable to run both ways on Court street. The company called attention to the problem of narrow streets which confronts the City Government, and waiving for the present the first part of the application, they ask for a route that is feasible and practicable, as is shown by one of the oldest horse-railroad men in the country. The future of Boston depends on a broad outlook; it must have elbow-room, physically and mentally. Here is a corporation bringing 20,000 people into Boston to do business every day. Commercial Boston includes all its surroundings, as does London; and we should provide means for transporting people back and forth with rapidity. The greatest obstruction in the streets was the standing of cars of the Metropolitan road at the Tremont House, which that road could remove if it would listen to complaints. The Cambridge road comes in direct competition with the Metropolitan road on Charles street, where the Metropolitan road runs without commutation, and he claimed that the fares were not as high as had been represented, and that there is harmony between the patrons and the corporation. He claimed that no substantial argument had been made against the petition; that the people of the suburbs are as much Boston as we are; the people of Cambridge ask for and demand this accommodation; and he asked the Board to study the best plan of securing the best and cheapest means of transportation to and from Boston.

The petition was recommitted to the Committee on Paving.

DAY'S OMNIBUS ROUTE.

On motion of Alderman Viles (who stated that there had been a death in Mr. Day's family), the Board postponed, till 4½ P. M. next Monday, the hearing on the order granting leave to N. W. Day to run coaches from Cambridge Bridge, through Cambridge street, Bowdoin square, Green, Chambers and Cambridge streets, to the bridge, and remonstrance of Union Railway Co. against the same.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Sewers. Samuel Bond and S. H. Pierce, to be compensated for damages by the construction of a sewer in their land in Clayton street, Dorchester; John D. Western, for a sewer in Bishop street and in Starr street; Fire Commissioners, for a sewer in Centre street, to connect with the sewer in Green street, Ward 23; John Wall et al., that floodgates be erected at the end of Wapping street and of Gray street, Charles-town; Ann Gay, for abatement of sewer assessment in Brook alley; Elizabeth Robinson, for abatement in Brook alley.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables—John A. Sawyer, new wooden, six horses, Ashford street; C. K. Bullock, new addition, one horse, Monument, near Eliot street, Jamaica Plain; Walter F. McConnell, old wooden, two additional horses, Copeland street; Sheppard & Chester, new wooden, two horses, Washington street, Ward 23; Mary Kelleher, old wooden, one horse, Longwood avenue; Jeremiah Plympton, new wooden, one horse, 7 Hawthorn street; Forest Hills Cemetery Corporation, for approval of the extension of their cemetery within this city.

To the Committee on Paving. Ralph Haskins, for the grading of Savin street; Smith and Nevins, for leave to sprinkle certain streets; A. D. Williams, et al., that Island street, between Hampton and Gerard streets, be graded; Charles D. Curtis et al., that sidewalks and crossings be laid on Lamartine, Boylston, School and Amory streets, Ward 23; Cheever Newhall et al., that Wales street be put in order; Phineas B. Smith, Jr., et al., that Washington street, from Dudley to Circuit streets, be paved with granite blocks.

Petitions for leave to move three wooden buildings by Caleb S. Packard, from Beacou park across Cambridge street, Ward 25.

To the Committee on Police. Flanders & Shorey, for leave to erect a projecting sign marked the "Domestic Steam Kettle" in front of 535 Washington street.

To the Joint Committee on Bathing. William G. Nelson, for appointment as a keeper of one of the public bathhouses.

To the Committee on Lamps. Philip Addison et al., for lamps on Halleck street; Joseph Shaw et al., for lamps on Duncan street.

John J. McMahon et al., for lamps on Ewer street.

To the Board of Health. Lucy A. Allen, for leave to keep a lying-in hospital at 8 Hayward place.

To the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board. George Morrill, executor of Mary B. Barnes, for payment to an estate of a sum awarded for the widening of Cross street; C. M. Ellis, for damages for injuries by delay in finishing Oliver street.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. James Douahne, to be paid for injuries caused to his son by the fall of a brick at the corner of Washington and Water streets; Humphrey J. Donahue, to be paid for personal injuries caused by the fall of a brick from the building belonging to the city at the corner of Washington and Water streets; Patrick McLean, to be paid for personal injuries received by a fall in Hull street.

To the Committee on Licenses. Stumcke & Goodwin et al., for the removal of the hack stand of John Graham from corner of Court and Brattle streets; Mrs. Eva Boutelge, for pawnbroker's license at 108 Dorchester avenue.

To the Committee on Fire Department on the part of the Board, with Full Power. Fire Extinguishing Liquid Company, for leave to give an exhibition of their method of extinguishing fires on the Coliseum Grounds.

JURORS DRAWN.

Thirty-six traverse jurors were drawn for the Superior Criminal Court, April term.

LICENSING OF FRUIT PEDLERS.

Alderman Wilder presented the petition of Peter B. Brigham and others, and moved that the petitioners be given a public hearing before the full Board on Monday next at half-past five o'clock. He said they did not desire to have it referred to any committee, but wanted a hearing before the Board.

At the request of Alderman Robinson the Chairman read the petition as follows:

The undersigned citizens and taxpayers respectfully represent that the practice of issuing permits for the illegal use of the streets and public places of this city for the purposes of business, has of late obtained to such an extent that it has become a serious injury to public rights and to the business of the city, and that it seriously affects the taxable value of rentable property and attracts to the city a population which it is undesirable to encourage. They therefore pray that for the reason that said practice is illegal, and for other reasons, it may be discontinued, and the permits already issued may be withdrawn and cancelled. [Signed] Peter B. Brigham, Abram French & Co., Robert B. Brigham, E. W. Buswell, Washburn & Co., E. M. Montague.

The motion of Alderman Wilder to give the petitioners a hearing was carried.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS.

Communications were received from the Mayor making nominations of city officers, which were read and acted on, as follows:

Police Officers Without Pay—W. P. Blaney, Globe Theatre; George Faul, Ruggles street; James F. Carroll, Angelo Building; John H. Haines, David L. Haines, Stephen D. Lake, District Telegraph Company; Herbert W. Perkins, Commonwealth Building; Charles Bennett, Bunker Hill Reform Club; Charles Butler, Haverstreet Methodist Church; J. Thomas Gurney, Taber street; Liona P. Young, Boston & Maine crossing, Cambridge street; Samuel Hammond, John A. Reed, Back Bay. Severally confirmed.

Police Officer—James J. Collins. Confirmed.

Measurers of Grain—George P. Ray, James Lally. Confirmed.

Measurers of Wood and Bark—B. G. Prescott, Robert Hale, James C. Whitney, Alfred A. Hall, Randall G. Morse, J. B. L. Bartlett, F. C. O'Brien, Robert Vose, Ebenezer Curtis, William Seaver, Horace W. Crafts, Daniel E. Adams, Jonathan Frohock, Samuel Hosea, Jr., Alonzo H. Stowell; Brightou, Salma Kendall, William T. Osborn; Charlestown, Thomas J. Elliott, Elbridge Walcott, Charles A. Guild, Samuel L. Tuttle, John G. Abbott, J. W. Wiggin; West Roxbury, Robert Seaver, Frederick Seaver, C. M. Marshall, Horace Lindall. Severally confirmed.

Undertakers—Lewis Jones, John W. Pierce, Job T. Cole, William H. Brown, Benjamin F. Smith, John H. Peak, Jeremiah O. Sullivan, William E. Brown, James Haynes, Robert S. G. Marden, Hugh Taylor, Jeremiah Tinkhan, William D. Rockwood, Ira W. Orcutt, Philip Kennedy, George V. Field, Joseph S. Waterman, George A. Willard, John B. Burke, Lewis L. Jones, John Feeney, John McCaffrey, Alonzo T. Baxter, Alexis Alexander, Swain Barry, Joseph B. Cassidy, Joseph Weckerle, E. H. Drume, Isaiah Snow, J. P. Keefe, John Doolin, Bernard E. Murray, Ethan N. Coburn, William Manning, John Heintz, John Haynes, James Farrell, Ebenezer Bird, John W. Lavery, S. Gleason, George Johnson, Jr., Samuel J. Crockett, James Cotter, John D. Fallon, M. J. Mullen, M. W. Friedman, John Bryant, Patrick Denvir, John Reade, Matthew Holden, Benjamin Gould, James A. Cogswell, Jerome Billings, John L. Perry, Lorenzo Smith, John A. Kelly, John F. Murphy, John H. Hawes, John A. Lloyd, J. Richard Daley, A. A. H. Cogswell. Severally confirmed.

Inspectors and Weighers of Bundle Hay—Israel M. Barnes, Samuel B. Livermore, William S. Holmes, Jasper H. Eaton, E. G. Dudley, James T. Dalrymple, Edward W. Harding, Andrew J. Wheeler, Ebenezer Curtis, Charles E. Stephenson, Aaron Bradshaw, William P. Boardman, John A. Dyer, Edwin Y. Brown. Severally confirmed.

Inspectors of Petroleum and Coal Oils—Robert F. Means, Nathaniel Cleaves and Nathaniel P. Cleaves. Severally confirmed.

Superintendent of Wagons—Timothy R. Page. Confirmed.

Superintendent of Hacks and Carriages—Rufus C. Marsh. Confirmed.

Superintendent of Intelligence Offices—John M. Tobin. Laid on table on motion of Alderman Viles, who desired that the Board might have time to inquire into the merits and demerits of the party.

Sealer of Weights and Measures—Barnet F. Warner. Laid over on motion of Alderman Viles.

Superintendent of Pawnbrokers—James K. Crowley. Laid over on motion of Alderman Viles.

Superintendent of Faneuil Hall Market—George E. McKay. Laid over on motion of Alderman Viles.

Inspector of Provisions at Large—William F. Brooks.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I would ask the Alderman [Alderman Viles] if he wants this nomination laid over. If he wants to inquire about this person I am not willing to let it lie over, for I say it without fear of contradiction from him that he knows that gentleman as well today as he will one week from now. I rise now, because the gentleman is well known, he having formerly been a member of the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman Viles—I think all those new appointments should go over under the rule. His Honor has had them under consideration for the last two months, and it is due to this Board that we should have a week to consider them and that they should go over under the rule.

Alderman Robinson—I ask for the yeas and nays on that.

The Chairman—With the Alderman's permission, the Chair will read one other appointment:

For Superintendent of Faneuil Hall—William F. Brooks.

Alderman Wilder—I move that the nomination of B. F. Warner be taken from the table and acted upon at the present time.

The Chairman—There is no rule requiring these nominations to lie over. The rule simply refers to the nominations of police officers, which requires that they shall be laid over one week unless otherwise provided for.

Alderman Wilder—I move that the nomination of B. F. Warner be now confirmed.

Alderman Burnham—I am not acquainted with the gentleman nominated by his Honor the Mayor; neither have I any extended acquaintance with the gentleman who now fills that office. I have on my desk five or six letters having reference to the incumbents of offices nominated by the Mayor. I open this one from a firm who, perhaps, have more to do with the office of Sealer of Weights and Measures than any other, and it speaks in the highest terms of the present incumbent; that he has held the office ten years successively, and that his qualifications are superior; that he has been the cause of more improvements in the sealing department than all the others, and that he has been more economical in his department than any of the other appointees. Now, while I do not know anything about the merits of this appointment, yet it seems to me only fair that the communication having been delayed so long a time, the members of this Board should have one week's time to consider such appointments as have been sent to us. Therefore I could not, under those circumstances, vote to confirm the nominations at the present time; but I do not wish to be understood as saying that I am opposed to the nomination of his Honor the Mayor, or that they are not all proper nominations—nothing of that kind. But it seems to me that we should take time to consider the fitness of the candidates for the office.

Alderman Wilder—In relation to the nomination now under consideration, I deem it hardly possible that a single gentleman sitting at this Board does not know of Mr. Warner. But I would say, for any to whom he is unknown, that he was for many years a respectable merchant of the firm of Thompson & Warner, that in later years he has been more unfortunate than some of his fellow merchants, that he is a man maintaining a reputation above reproach, but by stress of circumstances which are affecting many good men at the present time, he even desires this small office. I have known the man for twenty or twenty-five years, and I am ready to state for the benefit of the Board that if he requires bondsmen, and my bond would be accepted, I am quite ready to go on his bond. I can see no reason for delaying action on nominations of this character. I feel quite satisfied, and I trust that the majority of the Board will feel satisfied, to at least confirm the nomination of Mr. Warner.

Alderman O'Brien—Since I have been a member of this Board I have always maintained that the heads of departments should be elected either by the people or by the City Council, for those are the proper parties to make such elections. In maintaining this I have been voted down, and it has always been maintained that the responsibility should be placed in the hands of the Mayor, and that he should be held responsible for all appointments that are made to this Board. Well, now, I say I do not care how this matter works, even if it recoils on the men who have been unwilling to trust the City Council with the selection of the heads of the departments. I say the responsibility has been placed upon the Mayor. He has considered this matter three months, and I believe we ought to confirm these appointments, and let the responsibility rest where it belongs, and where the City Council has placed it. When a nomination comes to the City Council from a committee we have the privilege of voting for any man we please, and I shall use that privilege; but when we have intrusted this power to the Mayor, and when he can send in such nominations as he pleases, I say it is useless to contend against it. You might as well go to work and confirm them at once, and let the responsibility rest where the City Council has placed it.

The nomination of Mr. Warner was confirmed.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the nomination of Mr. McKay to be Superintendent of Markets was confirmed.

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the other nominations, which had been laid over, were taken up and confirmed.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Non-concurrence in the amendment to "an ordinance to amend an ordinance in relation to finance" (printed City Doc. No. 31), viz., Strike out "the city" in last line of section 3, and after "debt" at end of said line add "now standing, if any, to which said revenue is applicable; if not so applicable, then the said revenue shall remain in the city treasury, to be used and applied to such purposes as the City Council may order."

On motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, the Board receded from its former action in adopting the amendment, and the ordinance was declared passed in concurrence.

Order for the Committee on Finance to report such amendments to ordinances on finance as will make them conform to the statutes of the Commonwealth, came up amended so as to direct the Committee on Ordinances to make said report. Concurred, on motion of Alderman Fitzgerald.

Report of Special Committee to nominate Superintendents of the several bridges, who are to be chosen by the City Council. Accepted in concurrence.

Order for Committee on Fire Department to consider and report on expediency of reporting an ordinance so as to provide that the fines paid by members of the Fire Department shall be given to the Charitable Association of the Fire Department, to be devoted to aid disabled firemen. Passed in concurrence.

SALARIES OF CITY OFFICERS.

The report of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment, establishing the salaries of city officers, came up with amendments changing the ordinances to orders. The question was on concurrence in the amendments.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not rise for the purpose of asking this Board to non-concur in the amendment of the Common Council. Because as the child has come down to us I am afraid to let it go back again; possibly it might be killed outright. We have saved the spirit of our report, and I am content with that. But I rise more to speak of the manner in which the report has been received, and the criticism of our committee, who worked so laboriously and brought forth such unexpected good to the citizens of Boston. I was reading Harper's Weekly yesterday, in which there is an engraving purporting to be a transcript of a copy of a painting by the artist Wahler, and also a pen picture of the painting. The painting is one descriptive of an offender of the olden time in the stocks, his feet firmly pinned. The people were passing and re-passing, but he held up his head bravely, while they looked upon him. But to crowd his shame, a flock of geese came cackling before him, and that was too much for the old man, whom even the geese did not respect, and he burst into tears. I have no fault to find with gentlemen who have pitched into and criticised the report of our committee; but I have a great deal to say for the prattlers who have not only been finding fault with the report, but the committee itself, as if they were blamable for being on that committee, when the persons whom they should blame were the Mayor and the President of the Common Council, who placed such terrible men on that committee. When I read the speech of one of the gentlemen who made such an exhibition of himself on that occasion, I said, in the language of Shakspeare—

"I thank thee, Jew, for teaching me that word."

His speech carried the retrenchment bill through, and I want to publicly thank him now for the work he did on that occasion. I hope the orders will pass as they have come up; and I intend, at some future time, to ask this Board to send a notification to the heads of departments to govern themselves accordingly.

The Board concurred in the amendments.

LOCATION ACCEPTED.

A communication was received from the Highland Railway Company, accepting the location granted by this Board on the 19th inst. Placed on file.

ASSISTANT CITY MESSENGERS.

A communication was received from Alvah H. Peters, City Messenger, nominating Foster M. Spurr and Henry B. Lotts as first and second assistant messengers respectively. Approved. Sent down.

JAIL EXPENSES.

A requisition was received from the Sheriff of Suffolk County for $1891.97, being the expenses at the jail for March. Ordered paid.

AMOUNT REQUIRED FOR SINKING FUNDS.

A communication was received from the Sinking Fund Commissioners, transmitting the following vote passed March 21:

Voted, That the City Council and Auditor of Accounts be informed that there will be required to be taxed the coming financial year for payment to the Board of Commissioners on the Sinking Funds, Dec. 1, 1877, to meet the requirements of chapter 209 of the acts of 1875, entitled an act "to regulate and limit municipal indebtedness," and section 22 of the ordinance on finance, of 1876, the following amounts, viz.:

For the Burnt District Sinking Fund:
Being 3½ per cent. on the outstanding 20-year bonds to be redeemed by this fund...	$206,328
For the New Sinking Fund:
Being 8 per cent. on the 10-year bonds and 3½ per cent. on the 20-year bonds outstanding to be redeemed by this fund.....	398,455
For the Cochituate Water Sinking Fund:
Being 2 per cent. on the outstanding 30-year bonds to be redeemed by this fund...	230,854
Total.....	$835,637

Referred to Joint Special Committee on Appropriations. Sent down.

BONDS REISSUED.

The chairman submitted a report from the Committee on Finance on communication from the City Treasurer covering an application of Robert S. Wyld, recommending the passage of an order—That the City Treasurer be and he hereby is authorized to issue certificates of the Water Loan Sterling Bonds in place of the certificates of £100 each, numbered 1521, 1522, 1523, 1524 and 1525, the property of Dr. Robert Stoddart Wyld of Edinburgh, Scotland, alleged to have been destroyed, upon satisfactory evidence of such destruction and loss being produced by the party claiming to own the same, on the condition that said party owning the aforesaid certificates shall give a bond to the city of Boston with good and sufficient sureties satisfactory to the Mayor, City Solicitor and City Treasurer, to indemnify said city from all legal claims in consequence of such reissue. Order read twice and passed. Sent down.

PAVING ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Ordered, That the assessment of $7.91 laid upon John G. King for furnishing and setting edgestones on Fort avenue, be and the same is hereby abated; and that said sum be assessed on the Mercantile Savings Institution.

Read twice and passed.

Schedules of cost of edgestones in Ruggles street and Orchard park, with orders for the assessment and collection of the same. Orders read twice and passed.

FANEUIL HALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report from the Committee on Faneuil Hall recommending the granting of the petition of Ezra Farnsworth et al., for the use of said hall by the Congregational Club on May 31. Accepted.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Minors' Applications Granted—17 newsboys, 1 bootblack.

Dealer in Second-hand Articles Licensed—Louis Latz, 91 Merrimac street.

Wagon Licenses Granted—Patrick Cronin, 115 Eliot street; George Voye, 1103 Tremont street; Charles H. Poor, Castle street.

Auctioneers Licensed—Lucius C. Chase, 20 Char-don street; John Watson, 33 Ferdinand street; Hinds R. Darling, 33 Old State House; D. A. Hall, 231 Washington street.

Severally accepted.

ASSESSORS' DEPARTMENT.

Alderman Wilder submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department:

Report nominating the following-named persons for First Assistant Assessors:

William J. Ellis.	John H. Drake.
William N. Slarrett.	George S. Pendergast.
Nahum Chapin.	Michael Carney.
George D. Ricker.	Artemas R. Holden.
John Brown.	William B. Long.
William H. Cundy.	Ira D. Davenport.
John Leary.	John R. Giblin.
George W. Kingman.	Thomas Leavitt.
Joseph R. Grose.	Charles B. Hunting.
William B. Smart.	George A. Coming.
L. Foster Morse.	Gideon Walker.
Charles Nowell.	Henry Pierce.
William A. Wheeler.	George F. Williams.
Charles E. Grant.	Andrew J. Browne.
John R. Griggs.	George N. Bliss.
John Pearce.	Richard B. Smart.

Horace Loring.

Report accepted. Sent down.

Report that no action is necessary on petition of William L. Shearer, mortgagee, for remission of certain taxes erroneously assessed in 1875, the matter having been satisfactorily adjusted by the Board of Assessors. Accepted. Sent down.

SYSTEM OF WATERING STREETS.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order—That the Committee on Paving consider the expediency of watering all the main avenues of the city, for the following reasons: First, the health and comfort of the citizens demand it; second, we have now an abundant supply of water, and this work could be economically done by the Paving Department without great expense to the taxpayers; third, that a systematic watering of the main avenues would preserve the road bed of the streets and lessen the expense of taking care of them, especially on all macadamized roads, where the dust during the summer season is so disagreeable. Passed.

CLAIMS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Claims:

Report recommending reference to Committee on Paving of petition of Samuel E. Decker, to be compensated for damage to his land on Lincoln street, Ward 22, by the laying out and grading of said street. Accepted and referred accordingly.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Albert E. Fowle, for compensation on account of personal injuries received by reason of alleged defect in Allen street. Accepted. Sent down.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Public Lands:

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of James Fitzpatrick, for a change of the bond given by him for land on Hanover street. Accepted. Sent down.

Ordered, That the Collector be and he hereby is authorized to cancel the bond given by Jesse and Lyman Boynton in 1869 for land on North-amptou street and Columbus avenue, upon their surrendering the agreement received from the city to convey said land; and that the Superintendent of Public Lands be directed to issue a new agreement to Jesse and Lyman Boynton, with all the conditions as were inserted in the previous one, upon their giving to the city a bond in the sum of $15,955.14, made payable in ten annual instalments, with interest at six per cent., said bond and agreement to be dated April 2, 1877.

Read twice and passed. Sent down.

Report and Order—That the Collector be and he hereby is authorized to cancel the bond given by Henry G. Dorr in April, 1874, for land on Hamilton street, upon his surrendering the agreement received from the city to convey said land, and that the Superintendent of Public Lands be directed to issue a new agreement to Henry G. Dorr, with all the conditions inserted as in the previous one, upon his giving to the city a bond in the sum of $6527.11, made payable in ten annual instalments, with interest at six per cent., said bond and agreement to be dated April 2, 1877. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

CARE OF TRUANTS.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following:

The Committee on Public Institutions, to whom was referred the communication of the directors requesting that the Marcella-street Home be devoted to the pauper boys (now located at Deer Island) instead of minors committed under the truant and vagrant acts, as originally contemplated in the order passed by the City Council in 1875, having carefully considered the subject, would respectfully report as follows: In the year 1875 the directors, in making up their annual estimates, asked for an appropriation of $45,000 for the purpose of erecting a new building at Deer Island for the accommodation of the truant boys then in the House of Reformation. This request was made by the directors in order that they might make a proper classification of the boys in the House of Reformation by separating the truants and vagrants from the boys committed during minority for juvenile offences. The appropriation was not granted, but in October, 1875, an order was passed by the City Council instructing the Committee on Public Institutions to report a suitable place separate and apart from the penal institution to which to send the truant and vagrant boys. The committee reported an order designating the building on Marcella street as a home for these boys, and authorizing the Committee on Public Buildings to fit up the same. Thus it will be seen that the action of the City Council in regard to the removal of this class of boys to the Marcella-street Home was never either requested or advised by the directors themselves. Pending the preparation of this building, it appears that the directors have carefully considered the subject, and having become convinced that it will be best for the interest of the city and also for the interest of all parties concerned, they have now sent in a request that they be authorized to remove the male paupers and neglected children to this new institution instead of the boy truants and vagrants. When this subject was under consideration in 1875 there were 155 truants and vagrants in the House of Reformation. The number of pauper boys in the pauper school was seventy-two. Since that time the number of truants has materially decreased, the present number being 112, while the number of pauper boys has steadily increased, the present number being 154, with a prospect of still further increase. In fact the directors state that if the truant boys are removed to the Marcella-street Home, they will soon be obliged to ask for an additional building at Deer Island for the accommodation of the pauper boys; whereas, by removing the latter class to Marcella street, the expense of providing more room will be obviated. The truant and vagrant children can then be transferred to the present pauper school-building at Deer Island, and thus a distinct classification can be effected. Your committee entirely agree with the conclusions of the directors and recommend that their request be complied with. In the consideration of this subject it has been often urged that a stigma is attached to a place where penal institutions are located, and for that reason the boys committed under the truant and vagrant acts should be placed in an entirely separate and distinct institution. The committee are of opinion that this reason applies with much more force to the removal of the pauper boys and neglected children, and that if there is an opportunity to remove either class from Deer Island, and thus free them from a real or supposed disgrace, the latter class are entitled to the first consideration. The committee recommend the passage of an order—That the Directors for Public Institutions be authorized to transfer the male pauper boys and neglected children from the pauper school building at Deer Island to the Marcella-street Home, and that said institution be devoted to the accommodation of the above class, instead of minors committed under the truant and vagrant acts, as originally contemplated.

The question was on the acceptance of the report.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am a member of the Committee on Public Institutions, and I dissent from the report of the committee. I did not think it worth while to state my reasons in the shape of a minority report, as I came to the conclusion that this order was, perhaps, sure to pass the Board. I had something to do with the original order which resulted in the taking from the Board of Health the Marcella-street Hospital and diverting it from the purposes for which it was originally intended. On the 16th of September, 1875, I introduced this order into the Common Council:

“Ordered, That the Committee on Public Institutions, to whom was referred the report of the Directors for Public Institutions, be requested to report in two weeks from this date, and that they be requested to report specially on pages 30 and 31 of said report, relating to the classification of the inmates of the House of Reformation.”

That was on the report of the directors asking for an additional appropriation to build another house on Deer Island for the purpose of separating the truant and vagrant children from the criminals. The condition of affairs at Deer Island today is a disgrace, and has been for years, to a city that prides itself on being so philanthropic as Boston. It has been a device to make thieves of honest but wild little boys. It has put them in a condition where their last state has been worse than their first, when they went to the island. It has placed a boy who has committed no crime per se—except that he plays truant—side by side with the pickpocket, and he is worse than a thief when he leaves the institution. And then—it is not the fault of the directors—you have boys there of sixteen or seventeen years old, and you send them out into the world without a trade or education, fit for nothing but to become thieves and idlers. As I was at that time a member of the Committee on Truants of the old School Board, there came a great many sad and heart-rending cases under my own observation, by which boys, through the forms of law, were committed to this institution, when the placing of them on probation would have done them more good. When teachers, through pique or irritability at a little boy who gave them trouble, wished to get rid of him, the easiest way was to make a complaint for playing truant, and before the parent knew where he was he was down to the Island. One case was particularly called to my attention, and I introduced this order. The Committee on Public Institutions made a report on that order:

“The Committee on Public Institutions, to whom was referred the annual report of the Directors for Public Institutions, with instructions to report upon the suggestions therein contained in relation to the classification of the inmates of the House of Reformation, having considered the subject, beg leave to submit the following report: When the appropriations for the present financial year were made up, the directors requested an extra appropriation of $45,000 for a new building at Deer Island to accommodate the truant boys now in the House of Reformation. Your committee deemed it their duty, for reasons which they will presently state, to withhold their approval of that request, and their action was sustained by the City Council. No appropriation having been made, the question may be considered as settled for the present financial year; but as the directors have given considerable prominence to it in their annual report—dwelling upon the importance of speedy action in carrying out their suggestions—it is proper that the reasons which governed the committee should now be presented. In 1870 the directors applied for authority to build a Home for the Poor on Deer Island; but the proposition to establish such an institution in close proximity to the penal and reformatory institutions was so manifestly repugnant to the sentiments of the people that the application was refused; and the Committee on Public Institutions were instructed to select and report to the City Council a site for such an institution in some other locality. Various recommendations were made, but no definite action was taken until 1873, when the Austin Farm was purchased ‘as a site for a Home for the Poor and a Home for Neglected Children.’ Those are the words of the order made under which the purchase was sanctioned. Plans for such an institution were prepared last year, and the Committee on Public Institutions were authorized to procure proposals for erecting the buildings; but it was so late in the year before specifications could be prepared that the whole matter was allowed to go over to the present City Government. Your committee now have the subject under consideration, and as soon as the plans can be somewhat modified, with a view to save expense in the construction of the buildings, the committee purpose to submit them again to the Council and ask for authority to procure proposals. The objections which were urged against the location of a poor-house on Deer Island can be urged with much greater force against the proposed establishment of an institution for truants and neglected children. The committee fully indorse the statements made by the directors as to the desirability of separating these juveniles from those who are sentenced for crime; but the measures proposed by them do not sufficiently meet the requirements of the case. There is a stigma attached to the place where penal institutions are located, especially if they are located on an island; and the fact that a boy has been sent to Deer Island is often sufficient to prevent him from obtaining in after-life any position of trust or responsibility. It would make no difference if the boys were classified, as proposed by the directors. The public cannot exercise any discrimination between the different classes sent to the same place; and a stigma would attach as much to the truant or neglected child as it would to the juvenile criminal. In the case of the adult paupers, who have no future prospects of success in life, the effect upon society would be far less injurious if they were sent to Deer Island than it would if these children were sent there. In all the plans which have been prepared for the establishment on the mainland of an institution for the poor, provision has been made for those children who, in the words of the statute, 'by reason of the neglect, crime, drunkenness or other vices of parents, or from orphanage, are suffered to be growing up without salutary parental control and education, or in circumstances exposing them to lead idle and dissolute lives'; and it is only by making such provision, wholly separate and apart from the penal institutions, that the purpose which the directors have in view by introducing a system of classification can be intelligently carried out."

That was their report. Subsequently I introduced an order on the 28th of October:

"Ordered, That the Committee on Public Institutions be authorized to report to this Board, on or before the 11th of November, a suitable place separate and apart from the penal institutions, to which may be sent the minors heretofore committed to Deer Island under the truant and vagrant acts; said report to cover the estimated expense of putting said place in proper condition for occupation."

On the 11th of the following November Mr. Thacher submitted a report recommending that the Marcella-street Hospital be taken for this purpose. That, sir, is the history of this affair. Now, this report submitted today says the directors did not ask for it and did not want it. Why, sir, I was in constant communication with the man who was the body and soul and enlivening spirit of the Directors for Public Institutions for many years—I mean Mr. J. P. Bradlee—and he came and thanked me; and when it was going through the City Government he indorsed it, saying it was the very thing that was needed for those children. The Austin Farm was got for those poor and neglected children, but the directors ask that it be used for something else. The Marcella-street Home has been procured and prepared for the truants, through the very arguments which I am urging here tonight, and now that it has been put into the hands of the directors they ask that it be turned from the purpose for which it was dedicated and fitted up. And why? Because the poor children should be sent there and not the truant children. The argument used by the committee,—that the poor children will suffer more than the truants, if there be any stigma—is false in its theory and in its conclusion. There is no more stigma attached to the poor children on the Island than to the officers there. You might as well try to throw a stigma upon Colonel Underwood for being down to the Island, as to put a stigma upon the pauper children there. Two years ago the Committee on Public Institutions gave their reasons why they would not appropriate a cent for another building on the Island for truant children—it was no fit place to put them. We are under more obligation to provide a suitable place for truants than we are for paupers; and why? The paupers come to Boston from all over the country and demand a place to stay; but the Legislature, by enactment, has given the city the right to take away a boy who has committed no crime—because it is no crime per se to play truant—from the parents who love him, and give him the education and moral training which he refuses to accept in a public school of the city of Boston; and the city of Boston owes it to that child and to the parents of that child, by all moral considerations, that when that child arrives at the age of sixteen or seventeen years, and leaves the care of the city of Boston, his character shall be as good as when the city took him under its protection and obliged him to receive the education which he voluntarily refused to receive in the public schools. Under the present system a boy of ten years—children of the rich and poor, as the case may be—are taken from their parents and placed side by side with the thief and pick-pocket, and the adept in crime—who may be young, to be sure, but nevertheless he is a criminal—and is kept there for two or three years; and when he leaves the institution he is as much a criminal as the boy pick-pocket, or the one who steals old lead from an empty house—just as much. That is how Boston has been treating the truant children of this city. I say far better were it for that boy if he had roamed the streets and never gone to school, and never been arrested and sent down to the Island to be detained three years by the course pursued by the city of Boston. It was to remedy that defect that I introduced that order; it was to remedy that defect that the Marcella-street Home was provided. While I was laboring in that matter I was in constant communication with the secretary of the directors in Pemberton square, and he related to me many instances where boys, committed to the Island, were ashamed to tell where they had been, and even lied to those who wanted to employ them; and when it was told that they had been in that institution those intending to employ them refused to accept their services. Mr. Bradlee took a great deal of interest in it at the time. Now, when the whole work is accomplished, we are told that the truant boys must remain where they are. It is true, they are to be separated, but they will still be in a penal institution. Should we put in a penal institution boys who have committed no crime? Now, it is said that the number of truants has decreased, and why? Because a rule was introduced some months ago into the School Board that no child should be arrested upon a warrant for truancy without first consulting the chairman of the district committee or the Mayor. Now, when a master or teacher gets dissatisfied with a child and proposes to the Truant Officer to issue a warrant, the officer must come to the chairman of the district committee, and if he does not see him he must consult with some member of the School Board or the Mayor, who is chairman of the board ex officio. By that means the arrests for truancy have been decreased one-half; and it would be better if the other half had not been made. In nine cases out of ten, probation, by frightening them, does just as much good as sending them down to the island. Now, sir, I contend that the truants should be sent to the place provided specially for them. Although we have a great many more pauper children now than we usually have, when times change, and this business depression is gone, you will have less paupers on the island, and the present building there will comfortably contain all the pauper children in the city. To be sure, they are a little crowded today, and there may be some reason for complaint; but that will all wear away when this depressed condition of the city and the country changes for the better. After going to so much pains to fit up this building for the truant children, I think the Board should not divert it from the purpose for which it was intended. Notwithstanding what the committee say, I say that the city in justice owes more to the truants, because it voluntarily takes upon itself to remove them from their parents, and it is bound in justice to do more to save them from any stigma than it is to save the paupers; because it is no disgrace to paupers who grow up to manhood at the island; but send a little truant boy down there and it is sufficient to blast his prospect in life hereafter, by being told that he has been down to the island.

Alderman Thompson—The Alderman who has just taken his seat would have us believe that the twelve Directors for Public Institutions know nothing of what is required there, and that the committee were not capable of forming an intelligent opinion upon this question. Now, sir, I believe that the report of the committee has not been accepted, and I will ask for the reading of the petition of the directors, that the Board may understand it, and then I will endeavor to explain it.

The Chairman read the communication (which has been published) and Alderman Thompson continued;

The committee had a hearing the other day in reference to this matter, and the President and school committee of the directors recommended this change as strongly as possible, setting forth the many advantages to the children in case it was made. I understand that the directors are unanimous in their opinion that this is the best and wisest course for the city to adopt, and I have no doubt that, if Mr. Bradlee was a member of the directors he would agree with them. The circumstances have very greatly changed since the Alderman introduced the order. Instead of having 150 to 160 truants, we have now but 115, and we have 154 pauper boys and neglected children, where there were less than 100 then; consequently the directors find it will be necessary to enlarge the accommodations for the pauper boys, unless they are transferred to the Marcella-street building; whereas, if they are transferred, the truant boys can be placed in these quarters and the classification that the directors have so long desired to make can be carried out. Now, the fact is that no boys are sent to the truant school but those who cannot be managed at home, and it is all nonsense that their parents do not know they are there. Some of the truant boys practise stealing, and it was the testimony before the committee that the truant boys are very bad; and another argument is that they cannot be controlled at the Marcella-street Home. It has been the policy of the Government to remove poor and unfortunate people from Deer Island and make it more a penal institution. When the Alderman says the truant boys are unfortunate, and that the city should take care of them, I say it is because they have committed those offences, and their parents cannot control them, that they are sent there to be taken care of; whereas the unfortunate paupers have no choice—the truants can be bad boys and go there, or be good boys and not go there. The next appropriation asked for by the directors will be to take the pauper girls from Deer Island and place them on the Austin Farm. Another thing: if the truant boys are sent to Marcella street the ordinance has got to be changed. Another argument for sending the truants to Deer Island is that it is a sort of terror to them, and I dare say if they were sent to Marcella street there would be a great many more truants. The testimony before the committee was that sending them to Deer Island has a good effect upon them. Before this suggestion was made by the directors it occurred to me several times, and my own judgment was that Marcella street was the proper place to send the pauper children rather than the truants. When you take into consideration the fact that the twelve directors and a majority of the committee are of the opinion that the best thing to do is to make this change, I think that is testimony enough to convince this Board. I hope the report will be accepted.

Alderman Fitzgerald—The Alderman insinuated that I pretend to know more about this matter than do the directors and the committee. I do claim to know more about those truant boys who are committed to Deer Island than do the Committee on Public Institutions, or a majority of the directors—personally, I mean, sir. I claim that; and it is because I know so much about those children and the way they were committed to Deer Island that I took such an interest in the matter. He says they are all thieves who are committed to Deer Island.

Alderman Thompson—Many of them.

Alderman Fitzgerald—And that the island is a terror to them. Why, sir, it is a terror to the little boys and their parents, because they know that in future life the fact that they have been to Deer Island will stop their progress if they attempt to be anything; that, after getting over their wildness, if they become good, upright, honest citizens, it will be a bar to their progress. They feel it, and I agree thoroughly that it has a terror for the children sent there. Now, sir, I will give you an example of the way in which some of these boys are sent there, which came under my own observation the very week I introduced that order. As chairman of one of the school district committees I was consulted by the father of a child whom a teacher would not admit into school (I presume he was a troublesome boy) and who had been complained of to the truant officers. A gentleman who was a member of the Council sent a note by the father requesting me to ask the master to admit the boy to the school. I gave him a note to the master, but he came back in fifteen minutes with tears in his eyes and said he had been informed that the boy had been sent to Deer Island. I immediately went to the judge for the trial of juvenile offenders who had charge of the case (there are several of them), and said it was a shame and a disgrace that any boy should be sentenced in that way. The judge said the boy had been sent to the island and the mittimus had been given to the officer. I went to the directors and in two or three days the boy was taken out, and he remained in school afterwards, a good boy. I spoke to the master and asked why he did so, and his answer was that under the rules he was not obliged to come and consult me; and I had a long argument with him, such as I have made to the Board of Aldermen tonight, that if it were his boy, or even the boy of his neighbor, he would hesitate long before getting a warrant to send him among thieves and pickpockets during minority. The result of that was I introduced an order into the old School Board to the effect that no boy should hereafter be arrested upon complaint of a teacher without first consulting the chairman of the district or the Mayor. Many boys are sent to the island in that way, and I am satisfied if the city of Boston had a general jail delivery of one-half the truant boys, after they have spent two months at the island, it would do them more good than detaining them there; and if they were left on probation, after the first offence, with the understanding that they would be sent to the island if they repeated the offence, it would be better. I knew of a big, tall boy, seventeen years old, who had been to the island two or three years, without any training or trade, who had been side by side with pickpockets and who had been sent forth into the world to meet those who had been in stores or learning trades. I do claim to know something about truant children who are committed to Deer Island. I have taken some interest in them, and I took some interest in the passage of that order. I know the directors think of them as criminals committed there during their minority; but I think differently of them, and I believe the city of Boston should. They have been guilty of no crime—none whatever. The argument that these boys are inclined to be pickpockets is false. It may be that they are wild, but they have committed no crime. It is to save them from temptation that this course was adopted; but the plan now proposed is to make them worse. I think that the order offered by the committee will be accepted and will pass this Board; but I feel that it is a duty I owe to myself and to those children to protest against its passage.

Alderman Thompson—The Alderman complains that the truants are associated with criminals. At present there are 175 reformation boys and 115 truants. One advantage of this change will be to separate the truants from the reformation boys. If there is any place on this continent where the unfortunate are cared for, I believe it is in this city of Boston, and the city takes care of those truant boys who cannot be controlled at home. I venture to say that the parents of the boy to whom the Alderman referred could not control him, and that he was sent to the place for truants, where he could be confined and taught, whether he would or not. As I said before, I do not pretend to know so much about this matter as the Directors for Public Institutions, in whose confidence I have a great deal of judgment; but it was my own judgment before the matter was brought to the committee that this was the better plan to adopt.

Alderman Viles—I am surprised that any one who has visited the institutions at Deer Island should oppose this order. These paupers and neglected children are poor from the force of circumstances, and they are sent down there to live with criminals. The directors have had this matter under consideration a long time, and they are unanimous that this change should be made. We now have 175 paupers and neglected children, and 70 truants. As the Alderman says, the truants are but a trifle better than the reformation boys. They "hook-Jack" from school, and "hook" bread and milk, and "bunk" at night; consequently they are sent there. In a short time we propose to remove the old ladies to the Austin Farm, which is nearly ready, and if we remove the paupers, there will be nothing left upon the island but pauper girls; and we are in hopes, in a few years, to make some arrangement to remove them from there. The rooms vacated by the pauper boys will be used by the truants, and they will be in a building by themselves. It is the best thing that can be done. We might as well put them all in the same prison, together as to send the paupers down there. This is a step in the right direction, and I hope the order will pass.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I did not make a speech with any idea that I was going to change the votes of the members of the Board; for I have felt, from the recent visits to the institutions, where they have been taken in hand and shown around, that this thing was a foregone conclusion. I did not suppose I was going to change a single vote, for I know that this whole affair has been so well explained to members of this Board that anything I can say would not change a vote; but I simply rose for the purpose of protesting against it. I feel that the order is going to pass, and I am not so simple as to think it will not.

Alderman Viles—I am surprised that the Alderman should expend so much eloquence on an order of this kind.

Alderman Robinson—I have been interested in the discussion by my associates on the Committee on Public Institutions. I have been down there twice, but was able to go through the institutions only once. I agree with my friend Fitzgerald that playing truant is not a crime, although it may be a fault; and I think with him that the truants ought to be kept from those who steal and pilfer. I am not sufficiently acquainted with the facts to say whether they should be sent to Deer Island or not. It is a very beautiful place itself, but I had an idea before this order was offered, that the Marcella-street Schoolhouse was the place where the truant children should go. When the evidence was read before the committee by my friend Thompson, I was obliged to go to a meeting of the Police Committee, and did not hear it. I do not feel like taking any part in the matter myself, because I do not know sufficiently about it; but I have been very much interested in the discussion.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It was suggested that, if this truant home was established, the discharge of those boys should be placed in the hands of those who knew them best; who knew their history previous to being sent to the home—and that is the School Board of Boston. It is through their officers and teachers that they are committed; it is they who understand everything about them and the circumstances surrounding their family; and they are the best judges of when should be the proper time to discharge them. From my conversation at that time with Mr. Bradlee it was intended that the School Committee should have some supervisory charge of the boys, something to do with their discharge and the subsequent care of them when they went to school. That was another reason for locating it away from the island and putting it where it is. The committee have taken a different view of it, and I am sorry. There the boys will be isolated from criminals; but if they are sent down to the island the stigma will stick to them so long as they live.

The report was accepted, and on motion of Alderman Thompson the order was read a second time and put upon its passage.

The Chairman—The Chair would state that he regrets exceedingly that the order is put upon its passage at this time, because he has great doubts about the propriety of its being passed; and for the sake of obtaining information he would like to have the order lie over.

On motion of Alderman Robinson, the order was laid over till the next meeting.

STREETS.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following from the Joint Committee on Streets:

Reports of leave to withdraw on petitions of William Donnelly and James McCormick for leave to occupy a portion of the city's land on the corner of State and Congress streets. Severally accepted. Sent down.

HEALTH.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, on petitions for leave to occupy stables, as follows:

That leave be granted to occupy stables by Peter

Brigham, 178 Portland street; John L. Kemp, Alaska street; Merriam & Norton, Monument street; Theodore Lentz, Boylston street. Severally accepted.

Reports of leave to withdraw on petitions of Hubbard Pierce et al. for stable on 193 Portland street, and W. E. Woodward for same on 992 Harrison avenue.

Also reports from the Joint Committee on Health of leave to withdraw on petitions of Robert T. Paine, Jr., for abatement of an assessment for removal of a nuisance on Hammond and Greenwich streets; and no action required on communication from Board of Health in relation to scarlet fever. Severally accepted. Sent down.

MARKET LEASES.

Alderman Slade offered an order—That in granting new leases to the occupants of Fanuell Hall markets for a period of five years from April 1, 1877, as authorized by this Board, March 19, 1877, the following form of market lease be adopted— [the form of the lease was appended to the order]:

Alderman Slade explained that the only alteration is that the rents are to be paid quarterly to the City Collector instead of the Superintendent.

The order was referred, on motion of Alderman Fitzgerald, to the Committee on Ordinances on the part of the Board.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS AT PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order—That the Committee on Public Institutions be requested to inquire into the expediency of establishing industrial schools for minors in the several institutions, under the charge of the Directors for Public Institutions. Passed. Sent down.

ELECTIONS.

Assessor. A certificate came from the other branch of the election of Thomas J. Bancroft in place of Joshua S. Duncklee, elected by this Board. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Wilder, Dunbar.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Thomas J. Bancroft had.....	2
Joshua S. Duncklee had.....	8
Horace Smith had.....	2

And Mr. Duncklee was declared elected in non-concurrence. Sent down.

Clerk of Committees. On motion of Alderman Thompson the election of a clerk of committees was taken from the table, and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Thompson, O'Brien. William H. Lee received twelve votes, and was declared elected in concurrence.

Trustee of City Hospital. On motion of Alderman Viles, the election of a Trustee of the City Hospital was taken from the table and a ballot ordered. Committee—Aldermen Viles, Gibson.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
George W. Pope had.....	7
Charles M. Kingsley.....	5

And Mr. Pope was declared elected in concurrence.

NINTH - STREET IMPROVEMENT AND WORK FOR LABOREES.

Alderman Burnham offered the following:

Resolved, That in view of the distress which now exists among the laboring classes in this city, caused by the depression in business and consequent lack of employment, it is the duty of the City Council to render such assistance as may be within its power, by providing work for the unemployed, where the same can be done consistently with the best interests of the city.

Resolved, That the Joint Standing Committee on Streets be requested to report to this Board, at its next meeting, whether the recommendations of the Street Commissioners relative to the filling of a part of Ninth street (submitted to this Board Jan. 8, 1877,) cannot be immediately carried into effect.

Resolved, That it is the duty of each department of the City Government to commence, as expeditiously as possible, any work under its charge which will furnish labor for the unemployed.

Alderman Thompson—If the Board desire any information from the committee I do not see why we cannot give it at the present time. The Ninth-street project is one that the Alderman has a great interest in himself. The committee are making some progress at present, and just as soon as they are satisfied that the prices for land are reasonable they will report in favor of it. It seems to me that calling the attention of the Board to that thing under the present circumstances is out of place, and I hope the Alderman will withdraw the resolves, for the matter is receiving consideration just as fast as it can.

Alderman Burnham—I was inclined to offer that order at the present time, because, having listened to the eloquent presentation of another matter by the Alderman opposite, I was convinced that there is a philanthropic atmosphere pervading the Board, and I felt that it was a very opportune time to say what has been on my mind for some time in reference to Ninth street, to which the Alderman refers. I have a view of that matter different from the Alderman's, and I believe that it can be made a means of giving employment to a large number who are now unemployed. If the Board will give me their attention for a few moments—for I think this project has a bearing upon the resolutions I have offered—I should like to present the matter in a few words. I think that the audiences here, to which I will call your attention, indicate that something ought to be done. I find no fault with our Joint Committee on Streets. I believe they see and feel the needs of the times as much as any one. But in my opinion there is an unwarrantable delay in the granting relief, so far as we may, and I would remove that delay and open every avenue to employment that properly may be opened. The second resolve refers to a recommendation of the Street Commissioners made to us on the first week of this year, and to which the Alderman from the Charlestown District has particularly called our attention. It is the filling of an unfinished street, it happens to be in South Boston, a location where I am interested; but the Street Commissioners recommended it in answer to the inquiry from the City Council could they find a place where the Council could order an improvement that would give employment to the needy, and not thereby be dispensing charity, but really promoting the best interest of our city, without being false to the trusts imposed upon us? Such was the import of the inquiry. This the Street Commissioners considered, and presented to us a want of a section of our city that represents one-sixth of our whole population. Now, I stand here to claim for South Boston, with her one-sixth of the population, as ready consideration of all her wants (local or mutual), as any other section of our city. I desire to remind this Board of Aldermen that every expressed want of our citizens comes to us with equal claim for consideration, and I am led by this delay to query if such a feeling is impressed upon us as it should be. On this point I have in my mind a report and order from the Committee on Paving of the last Board of Alderman, directing the filling of Western avenue, which order passed during the last week of the municipal year; the estimated cost was $30,000, one-third greater than the estimated cost of the filling of this improvement. That order passed without any delay, and without any explanation, other than what was in the report of the committee. Now, this is my point: I can hardly see why a want should be so promptly met in one direction, and so tardily met in another. But aside from any complaining, the action I have referred to, on Western avenue, was undoubtedly based upon the confidence the Board had that the preliminary examinations made by our heads of departments and standing committees cover the whole ground, and this matter is one before us today, with the recommendation of our able Board of Street Commissioners. I believe a thorough examination has been had, and this order should pass, and therefore I desire your attention while I speak of the character and necessity of this improvement. I am prepared, Mr. Chairman, to say it properly demands our attention now because in so doing we are acting wisely, and, with a commendable degree of foresight, promoting the present and future best interests of our city. It is one of the right things to do and now is the time to do it. That it is the right thing to do, I will show this Board when the matter shall come before us for our consideration, and that I can do to the satisfaction of this Board. But my present purpose is to show that now is the time to do it; that movements of this class should not be delayed in such times as the present, because they allow us to give employment to the unemployed. Tens of thousands are suffering because they can find nothing to do. They want the chance to labor; of this there is no question. Witness the throng that invade this hall; see the pressure upon the Paving Department; see the importunity of every member of the City Council for personal aid; and what is true of that department is true in others—true all over the city. The cry everywhere is "Give us work." Now, nearly the whole cost of this comparatively small improvement (that may open one little stream of relief, since the owners are ready to give the unimproved land) is in the labor to be performed. It commends itself to us because such is its character. It exactly meets the present want, supplying—so far as it goes—not only labor, but a kind of labor in which all unemployed men who would rather work than suffer want themselves, or cause their children to beg, may do so, for the whole scope of the work is the simple levelling down of hills and transportation to the territory to be filled. We ought not to wink out of sight the stern necessity that confronts us. I pity the man whose heart is so hardened to suffering humanity that he cannot feel the burden now resting on our laboring people. Mr. Chairman, these are facts we are dealing with. You know, gentlemen of this Board, that there are thousands and thousands of needy, suffering men, with wives and children dependent upon them, that in the absence of labor are hungry and in want, and you know that with employment they would be independent. You know more than this, gentlemen of this Board. You know that besides the sufferings of those we class as the very poor—the always poor—there are cases of need harder, if possible, than theirs—plenty of them—never so many as since this year came in. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of this Board, I have had scores of men come to me from closed manufactories (finished workmen they were), pleading that in my relation to the City Government I would devise some means to give them work. I have had trained laborers, skilled artisans—such as photographers, painters, carpenters, masons, cabinet makers, machinists, and such like trades—come to me, and you have had them. They were never before in such a strait, and they have said in answer to my inquiry were they ready to shovel snow, dig gravel, build streets—"Yes, anything." "Work we must have, or starve," "We owe store bills," "We owe rent bills," "We are out of fuel," "We have not a cent," "Work we must have." This is a true picture—and no fancy sketch. Ask your real-estate owners and brokers; they will tell you that among the middling classes there were never before in the history of this city so many unpaid rent bills. Ask your provision and grocery men, they will tell you they never before knew so many delinquent debtors. Go into the Collector's office; see the unpaid taxes on the mortgaged estates of the middling classes; reckon up the unpaid interest that, accumulating, is or has already wiped out the equity over the mortgage that represented the all of those who have lived in independence until now—and now only lack for the want of labor. On every hand the report is the same.

Although I had a little more to say, I do not know that it is worth while to continue my remarks in this direction; but two or three instances have come under my own personal observation which I will present to you. I think it was on Friday week that a man—in every sense a gentleman, although a laboring man—came to my house and said to me, "Mr. Alderman, can't you do something to give me work?" He said he was thirty-five years old, had a wife and six children, and was temperate. I put to him various questions in regard to his willingness to do certain work that would be regarded by a mechanic as menial to engage in; and he answered, "Yes; I will do anything. I am a stone mason, and in times past have earned from three to four dollars a day; I have lived in comfort until now; I owe store bills and have no credit; I have gone up and down the streets for four months, with not a day's work at my trade, and I do not see how I can live a day longer in this way." Said I, "How did you live yesterday?" Said he, "I only earned ten cents yesterday, and I purchased a quart of beans, that were boiled and salted, and that is all my wife and six children had for food yesterday." Another man, a carpenter, with seven children under fifteen years of age, came to me and said he had been out of employment three months. "How did you live yesterday?" said I. Said he, "I am ashamed to tell you, Mr. Alderman, but after nightfall, my child, with a shawl closely over her, so that our neighbors should not know her, went from door to door to beg." Another man, a painter, came to me, who being out of labor had lost his house because unable to meet payments of interest, and who had had no labor at his trade since the fall, and now owed a quarter's rent, and was never before in such a strait. I have referred to these things because such a state of things does exist, and not that I have any personal desire that a certain improvement should be made more than any other. At a proper time I can show how my interest lies in that direction, and make it plain that I have no personal interest there in antagonism with the city. But my idea is that since this pressure is upon the laboring population, the City Government should do something to give them all the work within our reach.

Alderman O'Brien—How much would this improvement cost?

Alderman Burnham—I will have to refer the Alderman to the Joint Committee on Streets. I understood that the Street Commissioners estimated it at about $34,000, and about $25,000 of that would go wholly for labor in filling the land, which is directly applicable to this case, and will give employment to that amount.

Alderman Thompson—The proposition came before the Committee on Streets to lay out Ninth street. The commissioners said that if they deemed it for the interest of the city of Boston to require that Ninth street be laid out, it would cost about $40,000; and we found that the labor bill would be about $10,000, and that from $25,000 to $30,000 would be paid to real-estate owners, who, in the judgment of members of the committee from that section, wanted a great deal more than the market value of the land. The committee do not think it would be for the interest of the city to purchase land ostensibly for the purpose of helping poor people. It occurred to me that it would be better to distribute $10,000 among the poor people and let the estates remain as they are. The committee considered that if this street was laid out, it should be done as such streets usually are which cross a portion of the flats. It will increase the land from one to three cents a foot, and the committee thought the abutters should be assessed for betterments, but they do not want it. We cannot find that there is business enough in that section to warrant an expenditure of $40,000, $10,000 of which is to go for labor, and $20,000 or $25,000 to the real-estate owners. Another question to be considered in connection with the improvement of that section is whether Swett street should be extended around South Boston Point, and whether now is the proper time to do it is another thing. If that is the proper thing to do, this Ninth-street expenditure will be all wasted, because the street will be intercepted at the point where it is proposed to carry it. But the committee propose that if this street is laid out the parties shall be taxed as other abutters are. But not a party is willing to be taxed a dollar for betterments, and they will contest it. The committee desire to do something to benefit the laboring people and the city, and not the land owners; and we have been looking around to see if we could do that. We appointed a sub-committee to find where was the best place. I do not object to South Boston, but I want to spend the money where the largest number will get the most benefit. I object to the committee being required to report back on this matter next Monday, for we can report all that is necessary today. Now there is Parker street, a portion of which the Legislature has obliged the city to take, and in a short time we shall be obliged to go to work upon it and put it in safe condition, requiring an expenditure of $100,000.

Alderman O'Brien—I have been inquiring lately as to the amount of money that goes into the pockets of the laborers from the Paving Committee's work. We appropriate a million dollars for paving every year, and a great deal of sympathy is got up on account of the poor laborers who will be employed, and it is said that all the money goes into their pockets. Now, sir, not more than twenty-five per cent. of it goes to the laborers. Look at the condition of the regular laborers in that department. I am almost astonished that the Aldermen on that committee do not stop it. Last year this Board voted that the pay of the laborers in the Paving Department should be $1.75, and I presume that order is still in existence. But they get round it in this way. Since last October until now, nearly six months, I will guarantee, if you will examine the pay rolls, that the men whom you say should get $1.75 a day have not averaged more than eighty cents. You have put in new men at $1.25 and the regular men have been thrown aside week after week; they are not employed half the time, because they have to make way for the new men you employ. You set them to work on Monday and nine out of ten are discharged by Saturday. There is a great deal in that department that should be overlooked.

Alderman Gibson—Is the gentleman in order in talking about the Paving Department?

The Chairman ruled that the Alderman is in order, he speaking in regard to the employment of laborers.

Alderman O'Brien—If you pass the resolve and force the Committee on Streets to bring in this bill, I have no doubt that not twenty-five per cent. of it will go into the pockets of laborers.

Alderman Burnham—I have no desire to go into a discussion of the merits of the question at this time, although I am prepared to show that the statement of the Alderman opposite [Alderman Thompson] is calculated to deceive the Board in regard to this matter. I am prepared to show that it is a proper thing to do, for the interest of the whole community; that it is more than a local improvement and that the interest of the whole city will be promoted by it, and instead of the entire cost being more than $40,000 and only $10,000 for labor, it will be exactly reversed, i. e., $34,000, the whole cost of which, $25,000, will go for labor; and I shall be prepared to show that I have no selfish motive in advocating this measure, because all the land owners wish to give the land. I see no reason why the Alderman [Alderman Thompson] should ask in the present instance what has never been asked before in filling border streets. I can show several instances where the city has paid for retaining walls (which in this case are given in) and for the gravel on the slope where the street was filled. In some instances the city has paid for one-half the cost of retaining sea walls some 100 or 200 feet distant from the street, which, being filled, would open the territory to business purposes. But I have presented this resolution at this time solely in the interest of humanity. This improvement was presented by the Street Commissioners as one that would give employment to labor, and I do not see why some of the work cannot be done at present at fifty cents on the dollar for what it will cost two or three years hence, and thus relieve those who are unemployed. It is a proper matter to come before us, and I do not see why the Committee on Streets cannot investigate it and report in one week. I am glad to learn from the Superintendent of Streets that work has begun on Western avenue, and that 100 men are now employed there. That is the kind of work to do. If it is in South Boston, it is well; if in Roxbury, well; but if there is work that the city can do, let us do it.

Alderman Thompson—There seems to be a little conflict in the statement, made by the Alderman [Alderman Burnham] and myself. The Alderman and others own land for which they want a price that members of the committee say is more than its market value. Nobody proposes to give anything except a part of the land on the flats which are to be filled up. The Alderman owns land there and wants a certain price for it. Anybody will give land on the flats; it does not apply to that locality more than to any other. I can name many places where the assessed valuation would be much improved by filling up flats. The Alderman's proposition is to sell his land at a price which is considered large.

Alderman Robinson—I cannot see why the Alderman on my right [Alderman O'Brien] has made such an onslaught on the Paving Department. We thought we were doing the best we could. Undoubtedly all know that the pressure of poor people upon the committee has been terrible. When you see men with tears in their eyes begging for work to support a sick wife and children, it is heartrending; and all the committee can say is that they have no money to spend. The clearing of the streets of snow was a perfect godsend; it required no skilled labor. My associates and myself thought a dollar a day was too little to give those men, and in order to do justice to all we gave them $1.25, twenty-five cents more than was paid by the railroad corporations. The established price for regular laborers in the department is $1.75 a day; but the committee thought the men who were suffering for work should have some little chance, and we paid them $1.25 a day, and we thought we were doing justice to them and to our own consciences; notwithstanding we spent more money than we ought, by the kindness of the City Government we got out of it by a transfer.

Alderman Gibson called for the question, but Alderman Fitzgerald raised the point that there is no previous question in the rules, and the Chair decided the point well taken.

Alderman Burnham—It might seem to the Board from the presentation of this matter, as it is now being left, that there is a personal interest underlying all this. As I said, I am prepared, when the merits of this question are under discussion, to show it in its true light, so that the members of the Board shall see it as it is.

Alderman O'Brien—I hope no measure will go through this Board merely out of sympathy for the laborers, because you may be sure that labor will be but a small percentage of the cost. I repeat again that the paying of $1.25 a day to the men in that department has reduced the regular hands so that they are not able to earn more than 80 cents a day; and I think it has injured them more than the men you put in there, by not giving them enough to support their families.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I am a member of the Paving Committee, and it seems to me that the poor man is made the grand hobby horse by which everything is to be carried through this Board. Whereas, I want edgestones and sidewalks in front of my house which will cost $38.54 for labor, therefore, resolved, that the sidewalks and edgestones shall be put down in front of my house for the benefit of the poor laboring man. That is the whole of it. I hope the poor man will not be led astray by such buncombe talk. My office is crowded with poor men, and I have a notion of putting in a bill to the Committee on Public Buildings for the damage, for it is as much a public office as any in this city. The committee found the temporary men receiving $1 a day. We discussed it and were unanimously of the opinion that $1 was too small for those poor men, and we agreed to give them $1.25 a day. We had only a certain amount appropriated for paving, and the City Hall has been thronged for two or three months with men anxious for work. If the permanent men were allowed to remain they would swallow up the appropriation. We did what the captain of a ship, with ten days' ration, and out to sea for fifteen days, would do. We sent off the permanent men for a time and gave the poor men around City Hall a chance. I plead guilty to the crime, and I did it, as I thought, in the interest of the poor man. We told the permanent men that the work they had must be divided with those poor men. I am sorry it should reduce the pay of the permanent men, but I hope every one will appreciate the motive of the committee. If we had two millions of dollars we would be glad to employ them all. We were obliged to put all on short rations, and as people out at sea are content, so I think should the poor people be.

On motion of Alderman Burnham, the resolves were referred to the Joint Committee on Streets. Sent down.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman Thompson.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
MARCH 29, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Reference to Committee on Streets of a resolve in relation to the immediate filling of Ninth street, and in favor of commencing any work which will furnish work for the unemployed. Concurred.

Reports of leave to withdraw on petitions, viz.—Albert E. Towle, to be paid for personal injuries from defect in Allen street.

James McCormack and William Donnelly, severally for leave to occupy a portion of the city's land corner of State and Congress streets.

James Fitzpatrick, for change of bond for land on Hanover street.

Severally accepted in concurrence.

Report (no further action necessary) on petition of William L. Shearer for remission of certain taxes. Accepted in concurrence.

Appointment of Foster M. Spurr and Henry B. Lotts as Assistant Messengers. Confirmed in concurrence.

Order to cancel bond of Jesse and Lyman Boynton for land on Northampton street and Columbus avenue, and for the issue of a new agreement as therein set forth. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order to cancel bond of Henry G. Dorr for land on Hamilton street, and for the issue of a new agreement as therein set forth. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

Order to inquire into the expediency of establishing industrial schools for minors in public institutions. Passed in concurrence.

Report and order for the issue to R. S. Wyld of duplicate certificates of water loan sterling bonds, to replace certain ones which were stolen and burned. Order read twice and passed in concurrence.

Reference to Committee on Appropriations of a communication from the Sinking Fund Commissioners on amount required to be taxed. Concurred.

Report nominating First Assistant Assessors. Accepted in concurrence.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 moved to suspend the rules in order to proceed to an election.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope this motion will not prevail. I have not had a chance to read them over yet. I hope it will lie over under the rule, and that we shall elect them at our next meeting.

The Council refused to suspend the rule, and the election laid over.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for a committee to arrange for a celebration of June 17, at an expense of $500, etc. Passed—yeas 62, nays 0. Committee—Messrs. Stone of Ward 3, Day of Ward 4, Dee of Ward 5. Sent up.

Order to consider the expediency of paying laborers semi-monthly.

Mr. O'Donnell of Ward 7—I have inquired further into the matter, and have come to the conclusion that the order at first presented was correct, and that the committees on Common and Paving, Health and other departments have no right to consider that matter until the Committee on Accounts first instructs the Auditor to pay them semi-monthly. Therefore, I will withdraw the motion to refer to the several committees.

The order was read a second time and put upon its passage.

Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I would like to ask the chairman of the Committee on Accounts if that is the proper order to come before this committee.

Mr. Flint of Ward 8—I should say that the Committee on Accounts had nothing to do with it. I believe their business is to audit bills.

Mr. Stone—That is what I supposed.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—Being on the Committee of Accounts, I would say that the gentleman who offered the order came to me some time ago and asked me in reference to it. I told him I thought the Committee on Accounts would be the proper committee. If the payments would be made semi-monthly there must be a new system of drafts by the Mayor; and as the Auditor, would have to be consulted as to the advisability of it, I don't know any committee to do that but the Committee on Accounts.

The order was passed. Sent up.

ELECTIONS.

Assessor. A certificate came down of the election of Joshua S. Duncklee as Assessor in place of Thomas J. Bancroft, elected by this Council. An election was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Souther of Ward 4, Vose of Ward 24.

Whole number of ballots.....	63
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Horace Smith.....	13
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	18
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	32

And Mr. Bancroft was declared elected in non-concurrence. Sent up.

Superintendents of Bridges. The election of Superintendents of Bridges was ordered under unfinished business; Committee—Messrs. Sardon of Ward 10, Pierce of Ward 24, Roberts of Ward 4.

Federal Street.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary to a choice.....	33
*Jacob Norris.....	65

Dover Street.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Angus Nelson.....	31
Daniel J. Holland.....	29
Daniel Holland.....	2
J. Augustus Reed.....	3

Chelsea Street.

Whole number of ballots.....	66
Necessary for a choice.....	34
*Edward T. Stowers.....	66

Charles River.

Whole number of ballots.....	66
Necessary for a choice.....	34
*Joel R. Bolan.....	47
Joel R. Boland.....	19

Warren.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
*Charles H. Marple.....	49
J. Augustus Reed.....	1
Michael Hughes.....	16

Malden.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
*John Howard.....	65

Broadway.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary to a choice.....	33
*John C. Poole.....	65

Mt. Washington.

Whole number of ballots.....	64
Necessary for a choice.....	33
*George H. Davis.....	40
George J. A. Colgan.....	24

Meridian Street.

*Reuben B. Wendell.....	65
-------------------------	----

Congress Street.

*Matthew J. Callahan.....	67
---------------------------	----

Those marked with stars were elected.

A second ballot was had to elect the Superintendent of Dover-street Bridge. Sixty-nine ballots were cast. Angus Nelson received 35, D. J. Holland 33, and J. A. Reed 1. Mr. Nelson was declared elected. Sent up.

A SYSTEM OF VALUATION.

The President, under the head of unfinished business, said that notice had been given of the motion to reconsider the vote whereby was denied a second reading the order to oppose legislation altering the standard of value at which property is taxed, or change the system of appeal from the Assessors' valuation.

Mr. Ruffin of Ward 9—I have been requested to make that motion this evening for reconsideration, although I confess I don't know very much about the subject matter. It is done at the request of persons who are quite familiar with the subject. Mr. Hills and some other gentlemen connected with the Assessors' Department say that it is quite proper for such an order to be passed. It will be noticed that the order is quite broad and comprehensive in its character. We should oppose no legislation tending to make any radical change in the assessment of taxes unless a sufficient reason is given for it. I don't know that any reasons have been given yet why we should not oppose such legislation. All change is not reform, and anything which looks to unsettling the usage of the Commonwealth should be approached with a great deal of care. From my little experience in the Legislature in this matter of assessing taxes, I think it should be looked after very carefully by the people of Boston. There always seems to me to be a disposition to put as much taxation upon the city of Boston as possible. I think it would be quite safe for us to oppose this change, and hence I make the motion to reconsider.

The President—The Chair would state that it is necessary for the gentleman who gave the notice to make the motion.

Mr. Webster of Ward 1—I am the man, and therefore I make the motion; but Mr. Ruffin is conversant with the order and understands it. I don't. I was asked to do this by some persons who are conversant with the matter.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—If I understand the purport of this order, it is for the city of Boston to oppose any legislation in regard to a change of the mode of appeal from the decision of the Assessors. If I understand it, the law now is, that there shall be no appeal to a jury; and the bill that is before the Legislature looks to the adoption of a law that there shall be an appeal to a jury. This order comes here, it seems to me, a little disguised. It is to oppose any legislation altering the standard of valuation at which property is taxed, or change the system of appeal. If I understand the law proposed, it is to change the system of appeal, and that is the main point that this order has reference to—that there shall be no appeal from the decision of the commissioners. Now, it seems to me that there should be. I understand, however, that the hearings before the committee at the State House closed today. If that be the case I don't see any need of reconsidering this. But it does seem proper that there should be some appeal from the decision, that parties who are over-taxed shall have some remedy. I have not looked into it enough to see any great harm in it, and there might be some advantages.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I can coincide thoroughly in the remarks of the gentleman who last sat down, that it is unnecessary to take any action. It is not only a fact that the hearings have closed, but it is also certain that the chairman of the Board of Assessors has attended most of the sessions of the committee and applied his case as efficiently as any committee can do. It is a singular order to introduce here, and it seems to have emanated from some unknown source without consultation with any one. If the Assessors are aggrieved I think that they would appeal to the Committee on Assessors' Department and that the order would be introduced by them. I fail to find that the Committee on Assessors' Department know nothing about it. The order purports to state that no change is necessary and I hardly think anybody in the city would state that. I hope nothing will be done without the Committee on Assessors' Department knowing anything about it.

Mr. Ruffin—My only point is this, that if there is going to be any change in the mode of assessing taxes, we should know precisely what that change is; that it should not be a mere experiment; that if the system which has worked for many years is faulty and deficient, let us know what the changes proposed are; but before we make any change we should know explicitly and precisely what it means and what is intended to be done. My point is that the city of Boston should look jealously upon any proposed change unless they know it; you should take no steps unless you understand precisely what it means. This is a matter of dollars and cents to the taxpayers. Don't make a change unless you know precisely what that change is. I don't know or understand about altering the standard of value. I don't know what the phraseology means. I understand it was put in here for careful minds and cool heads to draw an order. I understand the standard of value is that fixed by the Assessors—it is their best judgment. It is proposed to change this system of appeal from the Assessors' valuation. I don't know how a change could be made in that department. The statutes state what appeal shall be made. The County Commissioners are to be appealed to. In this county the duty has devolved upon the Board of Aldermen before. Recent legislation has put that into the Board of Street Commissioners, as I understand. It is as safe to be there as in any County Commissioners. We understand that perfectly well, and I don't think any change is needed so far as that is concerned, and

I don't think that any change should be made unless we know what is meant by that change. We don't want any fancy legislation or experiments in such a matter as this. We want to be able to say it is for the city of Boston to halt; and I think it would be safe for the city of Boston to take that step and state that.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—I hope the reconsideration will not prevail. In the first place, as I understand the law an appeal can be taken to the Board of Assessors in the first instance and then to the Street Commissioners. Now, it seems to me that additional legislation ought to be desired in this matter. I think it is better to take a step still further and refer this matter to a jury. Certainly citizens have the right to refer almost all matters to a jury. And I see no reason why this matter of valuation should not be referred to a jury.

Mr. Spenceley—I don't see what we have to do with this. It is like prescribing for a child after it is dead. Mr. Hills has been up to the State House for two hours this morning, and the hearing is closed. I don't see what we have got to do with it.

The reconsideration was lost.

INVITATION.

An invitation was received to attend an exhibition of the Fire Extinguishing Liquid Company on April 3. Accepted.

INSPECTION OF PROVISIONS.

A communication was received from the Board of Health representing that by the act of 1876, entitled An act to amend an act to incorporate the Butchers' Melting and Slaughtering Association in Brighton, section 4, chapter 144, the Board of Health is authorized to appoint one or more inspectors to see that the rules and regulations for conducting the business of the association for the time being are fully obeyed by said association and their tenants, and also to see that none but healthy animals are slaughtered; the salary or salaries of said inspector or inspectors to be established by the City Council. This appointment has now become necessary, and the Board of Health is desirous of making the same as soon as the salary to be paid said inspector is determined. Referred to Joint Committee on Salaries. Sent up.

SCHOOLS.

A request was received from the School Committee for additional accommodations in the Andrew District. Referred to Committee on Public Instruction. Sent up.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. Smardon of Ward 10—Petition of Ellen Lemaine to be compensated for personal injuries received by a fall at the junction of I and Third streets; and of Ann McLean, to be compensated for personal injuries received by falling on Baxter street. Referred to Committee on Claims. Sent up.

By Mr. Brintnall—Petitions of the National Bank of the Commonwealth for a deed of land on Water street; and John J. McNutt for deed of a portion of land on Wareham street. Referred to Joint Committee on Lands. Sent up.

NOMINATIONS.

Reports of joint special nominating committees were submitted as follows:

By Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—For Trustees of Public Library, Weston Lewis, Benjamin F. Thomas.

By Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—For City Architect, George H. Clough.

By Mr. Beeching of Ward 1—For Harbor Master, Francis C. Cates.

Mr. Beeching moved to suspend the rule in order to proceed to an election of Harbor Master.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 thought the rule that nominations should lie over was made for a good purpose, to give members time to consider nominations.

Mr. Beeching said his only object was to despatch business, and as there was objection he withdrew the motion.

By Mr. Webster of Ward 1—For directors of East Boston Ferries, Samuel B. Hopkins, Daniel D. Kelly.

By Mr. Pierce of Ward 24—For Commissioner of Cedar Grove Cemetery, Nathan Carruth.

By Mr. Ham of Ward 14—Majority report, signed by Councilmen Ham, Clarke and Upham, nominating Nicholas A. Apollonio for City Registrar; and minority report, signed by Aldermen Fitzgerald and Wilder, nominating Albert H. Hoyt.

CEMETERIES.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9 submitted a report from the Committee on Ordinances, on the request of the Board of Health for authority to convey lots in cemeteries, recommending the passage of the following:

An Ordinance

In addition to an Ordinance Relating to the Public Health.

Be it Ordained, etc.—

Section 1. The Board of Health shall have authority to grant and convey to any person or persons, by deed duly executed, sole and exclusive right of burial, and erecting tombs, cenotaphs and other monuments in any designated lot or lots which the city may own in any cemetery which is or may be placed in charge of said Board.

Sect. 2. The proceeds of the sales of such rights shall be paid to the Collector.

Sect. 3. The form of the deeds to be executed for the conveyance of such rights shall be similar to that already prescribed by ordinance for the conveyance of lots in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Ordered to a second reading.

PLAYGROUNDS IN THE CITY.

Mr. Perham of Ward 23 offered an order—That the Joint Standing Committee on Common and Public Grounds be requested to consider and report upon the expediency of providing suitable public playgrounds at convenient places in different sections of the city. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

SINKING FUNDS.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9 offered an Order—That the Auditor be requested to furnish to the City Council an estimate of the difference, if any, that would be caused by a repeal of section 22 of the ordinance on finance, in the amounts required to be paid on Dec. 1, 1877, to the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds on account of the Burnt District, the Cochituate Water and the new Sinking Funds; also an estimate of the amounts, if any, by which the other Sinking Funds exceed the smallest sum which with their accumulations would be sufficient to meet their respective debts at maturity.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11 moved the reference of the order to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Crocker—It is to ask the Auditor for certain information, and I do not know why we should ask the Finance Committee if we may be allowed this information. If the Council would like to have this information, I believe it is well to ask the Auditor to give it to us directly, and not refer it to the Finance Committee to say whether we shall be allowed to have the information.

The order was read twice and passed. Sent up.

ORDER TO PAY BILLS REJECTED.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18, from the Committee on Accounts, submitted an order—That the following bills be allowed for payment by the Auditor of Accounts:

L. Foster Morse, chargeable to schoolhouses, public buildings, $241.90.

George Curtis, chargeable to Northampton-street District, $15.06.

George Curtis, chargeable to water works, $7.25.

The order was declared passed to a second reading. Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 doubted the vote; the Council divided—7 for, 35 against—and the order was refused a second reading.

DECORATION DAY.

Ordered, That there be allowed and paid to the commanders of each post of the Grand Army of the Republic and the N. P. Banks Army and Navy Veteran Corps $200 towards the expenses of Decoration Day.

Ordered to a second reading.

VISITORS TO THE COUNCIL.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 21 offered an order—That the City Messenger be and is hereby instructed to allow no person or persons upon the floor of the Council Chamber, or in the ante-rooms of the same, excepting members of the City Council and reporters, while the Council is in session, and after the seats provided for spectators have been occupied, always excepting those persons who are permitted by the President of the Council. Read twice and passed.

PLAYGROUND ON THE COMMON.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19 offered an order—That the Committee on Common and Public Grounds be requested to remove all obstructions from that part of the Common known as the Parade Ground and to prepare and maintain the same as a playground for the youth of our city, and as a place for parades whenever required for such purposes.

The order was read twice and put upon its passage.

Mr. Spenceley—I do just want to say one word or two about our Common, because I believe we are losing sight of one of the grandest ideas which have come down to us from our grandfathers, or whoever made Boston Common public; because, sir, I think that a great many of us who have got up in life, who have grown up from boyhood, and have got into business and the cares of life, have forgotten that we were ever boys, that we ever loved to play and run and jump, and that we had a place to do those things in. I say I think we have forgotten it—certainly the gentleman who has been chairman of the Committee on Common for some years past has. I don't know as he ever was a boy, and I don't know that he ever wanted to play; if he did he has forgotten it, because for the last few years they have gone into this work of depriving the boys of this playground upon the Common. They have done it by every means in their power. They have cut it down year after year until we have at last no place where the boys can go to play ball and marbles or any game which they love to play. I offer this order, and I was almost going to ask for a ye and nay vote, because I want to let the people see how the Council stands on this question. Many of us who were not born in the city know how much we loved to roam over the country and how much land we used there. Now, gentlemen, think for a moment, that instead of a few boys in a country village, there are a thousand who can come to the playground; and how do you suppose they would feel if it is taken away? That is the case with the Common. I was amused at the remark which Alderman Slade made. He said we wanted to make a man wear a boy's boot. I think we have come down so that there is no boot or foot either, and I don't see where we can take it in. We want to give the playground back to the boys, and we want the Committee on Common and the Board of Aldermen to know how the Council feel about it. Now, look at the objections which we hear against this order. One gentleman says somebody was hurt there some years ago by boys playing ball at some ball game; that one man was hurt, another was struck, another man came pretty near being struck, another would have been struck if he had been there, but he was n't, and got clear. We are paying thousands of dollars every year to give our children exercise in the public schools—marching, drills and gymnastics; and we are also spending thousands of dollars to get pure air and ventilation in the schoolhouses. And yet the men who advocate this expenditure in the schoolhouses contend that a playground on the Common should not be had for the boys. I do not believe that is good logic. I believe the boys should have the use of the Common for games and that the air is best and purest there; while it is costing thousands of dollars in one place, they can have it free there. Now, suppose a man should go to the gymnasium and get struck by one of the clubs, or go to one of the drills and get punched by a bayonet, you would n't say the boys must n't drill any longer. We would say it is in the schoolroom and men have no business there; and we ought to say that men have no business on that playground. I contend that the boys have a prior right to go upon the playground. Nobody asks the committee to put a ban on the Common. We ask them to have just what we have always had, a place for the boys to play. It is good to have green grass, and I believe it would be a good thing to have three or four children stretched out upon the grass. There have been many objections made in the last ten years. I have a list before me. I don't know how many Aldermen have appeared in favor of taking away this privilege from the boys. I want to read the words of the president of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association. He says in his testimony before the Committee on Common in favor of letting the boys play base ball on the Common, with reference to the objection that base-ball playing is dangerous—and this is Joseph F. Paul—he says—
“There is danger in other games just as well. He believed it better and had urged it upon the teachers that children had better, come out of school with good constitutions than have their brains crammed and their bodies dilapidated.”

That is just the principle we go upon. I suppose that another objection is that people going over to Commonwealth avenue and Arlington street, and across the Public Garden, object to it. I don't believe they have a right to the whole Common, and I think they have got to give up a part of the Common. If they do contend for it, I don't know but it will be as well to put a rope on the flagstaff and let them swing round the circle out of all danger. This City Hall is for a certain specific purpose; and so is the Common. We want the playground specifically for the boys, and that is what we ask and contend for. I hope we shall vote upon this question and send the order to the Board of Aldermen. I believe they have nearly all committed themselves in favor of this question and said they would be willing to give it to the boys after the Charitable Mechanic Association gave it up. I want to have a test vote to see if they are going back on their word.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I suppose that the order offered by the gentleman hardly covers all this ground. I am in favor of the boys playing there, and nothing but boys. I therefore move an amendment that no young men over sixteen years of age be allowed to play there.

Mr. Spenceley—I hope the amendment will not prevail. There are often clerks who do not have any privileges during the year except to go upon the Common some afternoon and play ball; and I think we ought to give it to them. Personally I should favor it, but I don't know but it would be a hardship to some who are over sixteen years old.

Mr. Sibley—I supposed I was coinciding with the gentleman from Ward 19, as he mentioned the boys several times. I am in favor of boys playing, but it does seem as though some others have some rights. I want the boys to have the Common, and I don't want those great big fellows to go up and crowd the people out. When I heard about that boot, my heart was touched. I believe this will be an act of justice to the little fellows. They must have it; there is no other place. The gentleman from Ward 23 introduced a general order; but I hope this one will pass with the amendment.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I hope the order will pass with the amendment. I think the playground should be devoted to boys of that age; but it is a fact that it has been monopolized, not by boys, but by young men. The boys have virtually been driven off the Common.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I do not object to the order, but I offer an amendment to the amendment—"That the City Registrar be there with the paraphernalia of his office to take down the ages of the boys."

The President—Will the gentleman put the amendment in writing?

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—It seems to me hardly advisable to require that all obstructions be removed from the playground. As it is today, children can play there and their little rosy faces can be seen lying in the grass if you want to. There is no occasion for taking down these fences and removing the lamp posts, unless you want to make a place where big boys and men can play ball and cricket. It is a fact that a great many people—grown-up people and children—have occasion to cross that part of the Common. They have to go from Beacon street to Boylston street, and along Charles-street mall; and they have to go from east to west, to and from Commonwealth avenue. When the boys are playing there with these balls as hard as cannon balls, it is really very dangerous for women and children. Children who are playing on the malls cannot be kept out of the way of them, and no one knows how far the balls will go. The gentleman says that one person has been hurt and one person struck. My impression is that no person has been struck without being hurt; and if I am not mistaken, one person was killed from the effects of being struck by a ball. It seems to me that part of the Common should be used for the general good. A few years ago, when the playground was monopolized by baseball clubs, it was reduced to a dusty desert; there was not a blade of grass to be seen on the whole ground; it was an offence to the eye; the wind blew clouds of dust from it all about, and when these games were going on no person could safely go anywhere near it. It seems to me it was well that that state of affairs was stopped. Now, I believe in allowing children—and especially the smaller ones—to play on the Common and on the grass, and all over the Common, but I believe we should leave that part of the Common substantially as it is. We have sodded that part of the Common at a good deal of expense, and the grass is growing there. If we take reasonable care of it, and only let the smaller children play upon it, as they do now—notwithstanding these obstructions—it will remain a pleasant place to see and be a safe place to walk across. But if we remove all the obstructions and allow them to play base ball there, and to send balls as hard as bullets whistling about, it will be dangerous to all who have occasion to pass in the neighborhood.

Mr. Thompson of Ward 9—I shall favor the passage of the order introduced. My reasons are that I believe it is for the interest of the city of Boston that the young men and boys who have been playing upon the Common should continue to do so. For the past three years I have passed by the Common twice a day during the summer months, and during that time I have not considered myself in any danger. Grass may be a beautiful thing to look at; but it seems to me it would be much more beautiful to see two or three hundred boys playing there who would otherwise be back in the slums, or perhaps in saloons and other places, qualifying themselves to be criminals, and entailing expense upon the city in reforming them. I believe that to no better purpose can the Common be devoted than to the physical culture of our boys and young men. I am in favor of the order as originally offered. Harvard College has purchased, at great expense, a large piece of ground for the students to play ball upon and enjoy themselves; and they are spending money upon it. If the Common becomes a sandy desert, it can be put in good condition again at very slight expense. I hope the Council will pass the order.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I think that all will agree that the playground should not be used as a ball ground. I do not rise to make a speech or offer a frivolous amendment, but I venture to offer this amendment, hoping to secure the purpose that the order has in view:

"Provided, That no organized base-ball club shall be allowed to use the ground for base ball."

The President—The amendment to the amendment is not in order.

Mr. Pratt—I offered it as an amendment to the original order.

On motion of Mr. Felt the main question was ordered.

Mr. McGaragle withdrew his amendment.

Mr. Clarke said it was getting late and moved to adjourn. Lost by a division—20 for, 42 against.

Mr. Sibley's amendment was lost and the order as originally offered was passed. Sent up.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20 moved to take from the table the order in regard to the Fourth of July celebration.

Adjourned on motion of Mr. Vose of Ward 24.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

APRIL 2, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Public Weighers—A. H. Gibbey, Timothy G. Donahoe, J. B. L. Bartlett, Henry Wheeler, Joel W. Bent.

Police Officers Without Pay—John E. Huntress and thirty-five others (reappointments).

Superintendents of Hay Scales—North scales, H. A. Davis; south scales, Levi Chadbourn; South Boston scales, John M. Johnson; East Boston scales, John A. Brown; Roxbury, Andrew W. Newman; Brighton, Benjamin F. Paine, Thomas Hunt; West Roxbury, John J. Blake, Horace Lindall, Salma Kendall.

Surveyors of Marble—William B. Bayley, Richard Power, William H. Cary, Daniel Higgins, John Kelly.

Severally confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Paving. Petition for brick sidewalk in front of estate of Mercantile Wharf Corporation on Atlantic avenue and Clinton street; George H. Pike et al., for street lamps on West Cottage street, Ward 20; Patrick O'Doherty, to be paid for damages caused by improper setting of edgestones at 675 Second street; Charles Chittenden, for the grade of Harvard street, opposite School street, Dorchester; Joseph H. Hill et al., that South Eden street, Charlestown, be macadamized and put in order; Albion J. Tuttle, for leave to sprinkle certain streets; John S. H. Fogg, M. D., for abatement of sidewalk assessment on Silver street; James Guild et al., that the main avenues and streets of the suburbs be watered at the city's expense; J. F. Taylor, for sidewalk on Washington street, opposite Lake street, Ward 25; William Troy and others, that Newark street be macadamized and rolled, and for edgestones, sidewalks and stone gutters.

Metropolitan Railroad Company, for a location in Northampton street, between Washington street and Shawmut avenue; also for certain connections with the Highland Railroad Company's track on Tremont street and Columbus avenue.

Drivers' Union Ice Company et al., that Canal street, Charlestown, be graded and macadamized; also that edgestones and cesspools be laid in said street.

Michael Cunningham et al., for flagstone crossing on Dorchester street, at foot of Telegraph street.

Timothy Calnan, for leave to sprinkle certain streets.

To the Committee on Police. W. & A. Bacon et al., that extra police may be furnished for the Roxbury District.

To the Joint Committee on Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Henry Lawn, for leave to erect a wooden building on East Fourth street beyond the legal dimensions.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: David Gore, new wooden, one horse, Carletou street, Ward 24; Preutiss Sargent, new wooden, two horses, Canal street, Charlestown; Thomas Igo, old wooden, one cow and one horse, Greenwich street; D. F. Decatur, old wooden, three cows and one horse, Bickford street; heirs of Mary May, new wooden, one horse, Centre street.

To the Committee on Sewers. M. A. Wheelock et al., for a sewer in Chambers street; Susan C. Parsous, that the amount awarded to the heirs of Asa Fuller for sewer damages on Canterbury street may be divided and apportioned to said heirs; Stephen Lynch et al., for a sewer in Whitney street near Tremont street.

To the Committee on Lamps. George A. Wilson et al., for lamps on Parsons and Bennett streets.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Ellen Geary, for compensation for injuries occasioned by defective sidewalk in Prince street, near Hanover; Mary Cutler, for compensation for injuries occasioned by fall on sidewalk on Yeoman street. Jacob F. Kraus, to be paid for damages to his leasehold estate, No. 330 Tremont street, by change of grade in 1869; Charles Lewis, to be compensated for personal injuries caused to his daughter by alleged defect in highway on Sixth street at corner of L street.

THE REPORT ON W. E. WOODWARD'S STABLE.

A communication was received from W. Elliot Woodward, representing that he had just received official notice that the Board of Aldermen had refused him a permit to occupy a stable at 992 Harrison avenue. He says, "I have no stable at that place; I do not propose to build one; I have never petitioned for leave to occupy one there, nor have I given any authority whatever to petition or in any way to use my name." He requests that the communication be read to the Board. Placed on file.

MARCELLA-STREET BUILDING.

The report and order authorizing the Directors for Public Institutions to transfer the pauper boys and male neglected children to the Marcella-street Home was considered under unfinished business. The question was on the passage of the order.

The Mayor read a resolve passed by the School Committee, March 27th ult., asking the City Council to refuse to divert the truant school on Marcella street from the purposes for which it was originally intended by the order of 1875.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I hope the Board will pause before it passes the order reported by the Committee on Public Institutions. It is unnecessary for me to go into all the arguments which I urged at the last meeting in opposition to this report of the committee. If I made a speech upon this question it would be but a reiteration of all I said on last Monday evening. I hope the Board will refuse to pass this order.

Alderman Thompson—The objections made by the Alderman who has just taken his seat, at the last meeting, were principally sentimental, and apply with the same force to the pauper children that they do to the truant boys. Since the last meeting I have visited the institutions and conferred with the directors upon this matter, and they are unanimous in their opinion that it is the wisest and best thing for the city to do to transfer the pauper children instead of the truant boys to the Marcella-street Home. If the City Council should decide otherwise it will be necessary for the Directors for Public Institutions to come here immediately and ask for an appropriation of from twenty to thirty thousand dollars to make the quarters of the pauper children at the island comfortable. They are now in such a crowded condition there that the health of the children is somewhat in jeopardy. It seems to me that with the experience our Directors for Public Institutions have had for years, that their opinion should have more weight than that of the School Committee. These gentlemen have been entrusted with this large institution, so responsible and so important to the city, and I think we should not hesitate to grant their request. There is no manner of doubt in the minds of the members of that board as to the wisdom of this action, and I hope it will pass without delay.

Alderman Robinson—Being associated on the Committee on Public Institutions with the Aldermen on my right [Alderman Fitzgerald] and on my left [Alderman Thompson], I remarked the other evening that I knew nothing at all about the matter. I have been so much occupied with other matters in different committees that I have not had time to look into the matter. I said at that time that I was very much interested in the discussion of the question, and that their remarks had given me more information upon those institutions than I had been able to get at the one visit that I made to the island. I cannot tell now which is right. My own feelings are rather in favor of letting the truants remain at the Marcella-street Home; but on the other side is the opinion of the Board of Directors, who have had the matter in charge a great many years. I ask to be excused from voting upon this question.

Alderman Clark—At the last meeting I asked to have this matter lie over to make some inquiries. I was strongly of the opinion, and I supposed, that the Marcella-street Home was fitted up for the purpose of a truant school, and I was surprised when the report came in recommending the change, because I was aware of the large expenditure which had been made for that purpose. But I have made some inquiries of the directors, and I find that it is their unanimous opinion that the change is judicious, and one that ought to be made; and, notwithstanding that this building was fitted up for a truant school, I am willing to defer to the judgment of those men. I shall therefore vote for the change.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I feel and did feel when I protested against diverting this from the use for which it was originally intended, that this order would pass the Board; yet, nevertheless, I felt called upon to enter my protest against it, and in favor of those truant children. And I repeat again what I said at that time, that they are entitled to more consideration from this Board than the pauper children are. Truancy is no crime, and the only thing which justifies the State or the city in taking children from their homes and their parents, is to protect the State against the result of the ignorance of those children in their youth when they grow up to be men, and that is the only ground upon which the State or the city of Boston is justified in sentencing children to a truant school during their minority. Now, sir, if the object be to protect the character of the children, and make them useful citizens and members of society, the city of Boston owes this one thing at least to the children and to their parents—that if you give them an education which they refuse to accept voluntarily, you shall also give them, as good a character when they leave your institutions as they had before they were arrested by the truant officers. Now, sir, I hold that any child who goes to the schools down at Deer Island—I don't care how good he may be, I don't care how exemplary his conduct may be while at the island—when he grows up to the age of nineteen, twenty or twenty-one, it is a stigma and a stain upon his character in after life that he was sent to the institution at the island; and that, sir, is why the City Council, two years ago, passed the order appropriating the money for fitting up this institution; and that is why the School Committee, and that is why I, protest against diverting the Marcella-street Hospital from the purposes for which it was originally intended—though I feel that it is going to pass.

The order was passed.

A motion to reconsider, by Alderman Thompson, was lost. Sent down.

PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Order for a special committee (Messrs. Stone, Day and Dee) to provide for the annual observance of the Seventeenth of June next. Passed in concurrence, yeas 11, and Aldermen Thompson and Wilder were appointed on said committee.

Order for Committee on Accounts to consider the expediency of paying the laborers semi-monthly hereafter. Laid on the table on motion of Alderman Robinson, and subsequently taken up on the motion of the same Alderman, who stated that he at first thought it was a peremptory order, which would necessitate the hiring of an extra clerical force. As the order was for the committee to consider the expediency of the change, he had no objection to its passage. The order was passed in concurrence.

A request of School Committee for additional school accommodations in the Andrew District came up referred to Committee on Public Instruction. Concurred.

A request of Board of Health for an appropriation for payment of salaries of Inspectors of Provisions, who are appointed by said Board, came up referred to Committee on Salaries. Concurred.

PLAYGROUNDS FOR THE YOUTH OF THE CITY.

An order came down for the Committee on Common, etc., to cause all obstructions to be removed from the parade ground, so that boys may have the use of said ground.

Alderman Robinson moved the indefinite postponement of the order.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I wish the Alderman would give us his reason for asking for the indefinite postponement of the order.

Alderman Robinson—There is not time to go into the matter fully; but as we have—or rather the Common Council has—just decided that the Common is too sacred a place to hold an exhibition which would have brought sixty or seventy thousand dollars into the pockets of the mechanics of this city, and moreover it was going to bring hundreds of thousands of dollars into the pockets of the business men of this city next fall; and now this same Council passes an order to take away all the obstructions and fences and everything, so that people can play ball, and hit people on the head—as was done to a gentleman who came to see me today, and who came within an ace of being killed by a ball striking his temple.

Alderman Fitzgerald—It seems to me that it is a very poor reason for moving the indefinite postponement of a question of that kind, because the Common Council did not do something that the Board of Aldermen wanted them to do, and therefore when the Council want anything we will not reciprocate and will refuse to pass an order which they have passed. If that rule is to apply, the Council would be constantly passing orders and we rejecting them. Now, it seems to me that some good and better reason ought to be given by the Alderman who delivered such an able speech in favor of the Charitable Mechanic exhibition on the Common. If his argument is good for the mechanics it is good for the boys, and he least of all should vote against the passage of this order, if he had no qualms of conscience in voting for the order to allow the exhibition, there is no reason for any qualms of conscience in voting for this order. To allow the Common to be used for what it has been used for years—to put it to a use to which the boys under British domination asked the governor at that time not to interfere with. It is simply allowing this Common to be played upon, and the fact that the Common Council refused to grant the use of the Common to the Mechanic Association is no reason at all why the boys should not have the use of the Common. If I remember aright—I shall not say who now—some of the Aldermen in favor of granting the use of the Common to the Mechanic Association—I think I heard them say it—had no objection to the order which came down as a substitute for it, and that if it came in the proper shape, they would not hesitate to vote for it. I know that some of the Aldermen expressed views of that kind. I shall not say it was my friend from Dorchester.

Alderman Robinson—It was not, sir.

Alderman Fitzgerald—But at the same time the argument of the Alderman from Dorchester is not a good argument to make against passing this order, because the boys have held the Common from time immemorial. I call for the yeas and nays upon this question.

Alderman Clark—I hope the order will be indefinitely postponed, because I do not believe that public necessity requires that we should turn the Common, which has been guarded so jealously by certain members of this Board and a majority of the Common Council, into a waste and a howling wilderness, as it was a few years ago. It is a spot which everybody takes a great deal of pride in. It has been the endeavor of the Superintendent of Public Grounds and the Committee on Common to keep it and the Public Garden in good condition for the last few years. It is very true that the boys played upon the Common during the Revolutionary days, and many days since, and that they play upon it now. Some few years ago a very large petition came to the Board of Aldermen to have that portion of the Common lying between Beacon and Charles streets and the path that leads down to the Public Garden, put in good order. It was a very strong petition, signed by several hundred gentlemen. After two patient hearings were given to the remonstrants and petitioners, the Board of Aldermen decided to seed it down. The other part was left for a playground, not for the boys, but for roughs of the city, and that is the class of people who have occupied it and did occupy it till it was seeded down. It was in evidence at the first hearing that no less than half a dozen gentlemen had been seriously injured by being hit by a base ball, and among them were Mr. Samuel Frothingham and Mr. Charles Faulkner, who were seriously injured. I have heard it stated by a physician in the neighborhood that it is almost a weekly occurrence for some one to be brought to his office after having been injured by a base ball upon the Common. Now the circumstances surrounding the Common are entirely different from what they were twenty-five years ago. It is now in the heart of the city, and it has become a great thoroughfare. I believe that the thoroughfare from the entrance at Spruce street to the West-street gate is greater during the day, and that more people pass there than go up and down Beacon street. Now, it is well known to everybody that ball playing is a dangerous sport, even if played by the youths of the city instead of the roughs who occupied the ground prior to its being seeded down. It was seeded down some three or four years ago at the corner of Beacon street, but it was not until last season that the committee thought it expedient to seed down the other portion leading from the flagstaff to Boylston street; and not then until several serious accidents had occurred, and one of our own men had his shoulder broken, did the Committee on Common and Squares, decide to seed it down. It has been seeded down, however, and it has given universal satisfaction, and I have never heard any dissatisfaction expressed by persons in that section of the city. This order proposes to take down all the lamp-posts and all other obstructions. Last year the Committee on Lamps, either by the petitions of citizens or otherwise, ordered lamps to be put there, and they can be taken down on all occasions of parades; they can be taken down in half an hour's time, whenever the military have occasion to occupy the ground. It would be very dangerous in passing that section of the Common at night if the lamp-posts were taken down; for, as I said, it is a great thoroughfare, leading from Winter street to the West End. So that if it is desirable to keep the Common as a beautiful place for recreation, this order should not be passed, and it should not be passed on account of the dangerous games that will be played there. If these games are allowed to be played there you will deprive the children of the privilege of going upon the Common, because it will be exceedingly dangerous. No child can be taken out there in its carriage; no invalids could go there with safety, and you would deprive children and invalids of the privilege of going into the neighborhood of Charles-street Mall and the lower part of the Beacon-street Mall, if you allow the old ball ground to be put back in the condition that it was a year ago. This order contemplates turning the entire lower part of the Common into a playground, not for the youths of the city, but for young men from sixteen to thirty-five years of age, who have no other occupation but to go there and spend their days in lying on the grass, and occasionally plotting mischief for the night. For these reasons, Mr. Mayor, I hope the order will not pass. I believe it will be a very serious injury to the Common. If it had been supposed that the Board would have concurred in the passage of this order a very large remonstrance would have been presented here today.

Alderman O'Brien—If there is any one thing that I believe in, it is in keeping up old and time-honored customs. As the Alderman from the Highlands remarks, the Common has been the playground of our boys from time immemorial, that is for at least two hundred years, and I do not see why they should ever have been deprived of it. I not only go in for giving the boys the parade ground as a playground, but also of restoring it to our military companies, who have been deprived of that ground for drill and other military exercises. That the Common is invaded by the roughs of the city is, I think, no reason why we should deprive our boys of the privilege of occupying it. With all respect to the Committee on Common and Squares, if they, instead of driving the boys from their playground, had driven the roughs off, they would have been thanked by every citizen of Boston. Now, I believe it ought to be restored to our boys, and by an act of the City Council. If the Committee on Common had brought this matter before us for consideration, I doubt whether they would have been allowed the privilege of depriving our boys of the playground. I hope the City Council will now restore it to our boys for a playground.

Alderman Robinson—I am much obliged to my friend Alderman Clark for his explanation in regard to Boston Common. It is a subject that is new to me. One of the gentlemen that he spoke of has been to me and related the circumstance to which the Alderman has alluded. I claim this, and I am willing to stand on it—that the Common Council have decided that the Common is too sacred a place to be used, and therefore I think it should not be allowed for the uses of the boys as well as the mechanics.

Alderman Wilder—I am most decidedly in favor of the Common remaining the playground of our boys; but I want it used in a proper manner. I do not believe it is a proper place to play base ball. I believe that the present condition of the Common, with the new, fresh grass that will be up in a few weeks, makes it a decidedly more desirable place for the youth to go to, and spend their time in such play and amusements as do not endanger the lives and limbs of such of our fellow citizens as are obliged to go across the Common, as it will be by the passage of that order. This order contemplates the removal of the lamp posts, which do not do the boys any harm. The lamp posts are not in danger from any amusements of the youth, except base ball. There has not been a military parade but what the lamp posts have been removed in half an hour's notice. I believe the best way to restore the Common for the proper use of the youth of our city is to indefinitely postpone this order; and for that reason I shall vote for the motion.

Alderman Clark—In answer to the Alderman from Ward 21, I would state that the greater part of the Common was seeded down by order of the Board of Aldermen and not by order of the Committee on Common and Squares. The subject came before the Board of Aldermen, I think, on two different Monday evenings, and they ordered that it should be seeded down and put in good condition. Now, I am in favor of having playgrounds for the youths of our city, and I shall favor the order which has been passed by the Common Council and sent to us today, providing for playgrounds in different sections of the city; and when that order comes before the Committee on Common and Public Grounds I shall do all in my power to provide suitable places so that the youths of the city can have an opportunity to play ball and engage in other sports which they choose to engage in. But when you go upon the Common and public squares and attempt to select your children and mine from the class who hang around about there during the day, you will have to increase your police force. You can make no distinction.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I thought I heard, in the discussion on the order granting the use of the Common to the Mechanic Association, an Alderman say he was in favor of allowing the use of the Common for the boys. That gentleman has just spoken and here is his [Alderman Wilder's] speech:

"I am entirely in favor of concurring with the Council so far as giving the boys the privilege of playing upon the parade ground is concerned."

That was on substantially the same order as has come down here, and was also offered by Mr. Spenceley. My friend to the left [Alderman Wilder] has changed his mind and wants this indefinitely postponed; but he said the other evening that he was heartily in favor of it. Now he hopes the whole thing will be indefinitely postponed. Now I hope the Board will not punish the Common Council because they did not grant the Mechanic Association the use of the Common. My friend [Alderman Robinson] says the Council thinks the Common is too sacred a thing for the use of it to be granted to anybody. He does not think so, and I hope you will not let the Council think you think so. The gentleman opposite [Alderman Clark] says he is in favor of such a place. Well, when we get the grand arboretum and the park extending from Dorchester Point to the Back Bay, that I heard so much about four years ago, it seems to me that we can have places for the boys to play. It seems to me that this request is a reasonable one. I agree with the gentleman that, if there are dangerous games on the Common, the committee should stop it. There are a great many games which boys can play that are not dangerous, such as leap frog, tumbling upon the grass, and a great many others that I do not remember. Base ball is not the only game, and there is a sufficient number of games to gratify them. The larger the city is growing, the more it is necessary for the boys to have a playground. If it was necessary a hundred years ago, it is a hundredfold more necessary today. I am thoroughly in favor of preventing dangerous games, and shall favor giving authority to the committee to prevent them. But I hope the Board of Aldermen will not refuse this in order to punish the Common Council.

Alderman Wilder—I do not know that consistency at this Board is anything so rare that the gentleman should be led to quote my remarks. The Alderman quoted me perfectly correct. I repeat it today. I am in favor of the Common being used by the boys today, and I am in favor of preserving it in proper condition for a playground for the youth of our city to indulge in all the games which the venerable Alderman to my right has forgotten, and which they remember. That is why I am in favor of indefinitely postponing any measure looking to putting it back again to a dirty field for playing base ball and attracting the very class of men and boys that we do not want to go there. It is because I am particularly desirous of preserving the Common for a playground and in its pristine purity that I shall vote for an indefinite postponement.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I should like to know how you will prevent dirty or clean boys from going on the Common if you make it free? The only way is for the clean boys to refuse to play with the dirty ones.

Alderman Slade—I doubt if there is a man in this city who has used the Common more, or any rougher, than I have. About twenty-five years ago I commenced in the cavalry, and I have scratched up about as much gravel and grass as any one else. When we first commenced no one could go on this parade ground that we talk so much about; it was nothing but a marsh and a mud hole. We began to parade up on Tremont street, and we paraded all over the Common, and nobody set any stakes for us, and those places belonged to the military, and we could go all over it. I do not think they should be kept off it; and neither do I think the boys should be kept off it. The modern style of playing base ball has not prevailed a great many years to my knowledge, and I think it is dangerous to play it upon Boston Common or anywhere else where people travel. So far as that particular place is concerned, I do not know who has a right to tell the boys who shall go there and who shall not. I am glad it has been filled up and grassed over, and I think myself that there is no necessity for this order. The Common can be used by the boys today without this order or any other day; and it can be used by the military. The lamp posts can be taken down very readily. The fences were put there to protect the new growth of grass until it gets so that it will stay there. I think it is well enough as it is; and when the grass is done growing and the soil gets hard enough to be travelled over with horses, I suppose the fences will be taken down. I should certainly be in favor of it. I believe the fences are there for the purpose of protecting the ground until such time as it gets hardened. At the same time I shall vote to indefinitely postpone the order; but I am not in favor of indefinitely postponing the boys having the privilege of playing on the Common.

Alderman O'Brien—The Alderman may have been very well acquainted with the Common in his younger days, but I think he could have hardly visited it lately. If you strike into any part of the Common you will see signs, "Keep off the grass." Neither boys, men, women nor children are allowed to go upon the grass.

Alderman Slade—The company I train in never stop to read them.

Alderman O'Brien—I was merely calling attention to the facts as they exist today. Everything but the pathways is so sacred that neither men, women nor children can touch it without being tapped upon the shoulder by a policeman. The fact is we might as well shut up the Common if we are going to deprive our citizens and boys of the benefit of it. I think we had better post "No Admission" at the entrance, and let people take an observation from the adjoining streets. So long as I can remember, this parade ground has been used by the boys for a playground and by the military. I do not see for the life of me why it cannot be used by them; and, after it has become thoroughly grassed down, I do not see why, with the new style of lawn mower that we have, it cannot be a better playground than it is now. I hope it will not be indefinitely postponed, because it will be saying to the boys, "You must not go upon the Common."

Alderman Fitzgerald—The Alderman [Alderman Slade] said there is nothing to prevent persons from going upon the Common—

"Section 18. No person shall walk, stand or lie on the grass on the Common, Public Garden or any public square or common lands of the city, whenever the Joint Standing Committee of the City Council on the Common and Public Grounds shall prohibit such walking, standing or lying thereon, and shall notify the public of such prohibition by a legible notice placed in those parts of the said Common, Public Garden and other squares and common lands from which said committee shall consider it necessary to temporarily exclude the public.

"Section 19. Any person who shall offend against any of the provisions of the foregoing section shall forfeit and pay for each offence a sum not less than one nor more than fifty dollars." [Ordinances, page 594.

Now, throughout all the Common the sign that the Alderman speaks of is posted up conspicuously, so that the people are prohibited from playing upon the Common under the penalty of a fine, and if it cannot be possible to get through this Board an order to allow the boys to play just as they please, and as base ball is so dangerous, I shall move an amendment, "Provided that no baseball game be allowed on the Common, unless by consent of the Committee on Common and Squares." That, it seems to me, would meet the serious objection of the Alderman opposite and to my left. I do not know whether it would do away with the scruples of my friend from Dorchester who has such a sacred regard for the Common; and whether he would forgive the Common Council for doing such a sacrilegious act as refusing to give the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association permission to hold an exhibition on the Common. There might be a provision that the boys should not play there before two o'clock. I understand that boys are not allowed to play on the grass on Prospect Park, in Brooklyn, and that allows the grass a chance to grow and remain green.

Alderman Clark—I hope the order, even as amended by the Alderman, will not pass. The committee have never deprived the children and boys of the privilege of playing upon the grass, and these little notices are simply to prevent people from cutting new paths. It is the custom of the people of Boston always to take the nearest route if they wish to cross the Common—regardless of the paths or the green sward. It is for the purpose of preventing people from making new paths that those notices are put up. Little children have always been allowed to play upon the grass as much as they pleased. There must be some regulations to govern the Common as well as the Public Garden, and I presume it was for the purpose of giving the committee some authority in the care of the Public Garden and the Common that that ordinance was passed. I believe that no member of this Board would care to have the Public Garden torn to pieces, even by children playing there; so that I hope that the order, even as amended by the Alderman, will not be passed, but that it will be left to the discretion of the Committee on Common and Squares. It is as Alderman Slade states—these fences are put up as a protection to the grass until it becomes so perfectly fixed as to allow of its being played upon by the children; and when that time arrives, which will be in a month from now, those fences will be taken down, the same as in other sections of the Common.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Do I understand the chairman of the committee on Common to say that the boys can play on that part of the Common if they please?

Alderman Clark—I mean to say that the boys of the Latin School are allowed to go there and play as much as they please.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Why should they be allowed to go there and others not?

Alderman Clark—The other boys have never asked permission; they go there ad libitum. The teachers of the Latin School asked permission for the boys to go there.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Do I understand that there is any need of the boys obtaining permission to play upon the Common?

Alderman Clark—There is no need of permission for any boys and children to go and play upon the Common, provided they do no more damage to the grass and grounds than the play of children will naturally do.

Alderman Fitzgerald—Are they allowed to play any games upon the Common?

Alderman Clark—They are allowed to play marbles, to pitch quoits, and poker, for aught I know.

Alderman Robinson—As I read from the programme, this order coming to us from the Common Council is "to cause all obstructions to be removed from the parade ground, so that the boys may have the use of said ground." It takes away the lamp posts and everything else. I don't see any necessity whatever for the passage of any such order.

Alderman O'Brien—As a matter of economy, every lamp post taken down will save the city $50 a year.

Alderman Clark—And it would be an injury to the morals of the city of Boston $1000 a year.

Alderman Fitzgerald withdrew his amendment. Alderman Robinson called for the yeas and nays, and the motion to indefinitely postpone prevailed—yeas 10, nays 2.

Yeas—Aldermen Breck, Burnham, Clark, Dunbar, Gibson, Robinson, Slade, Thompson, Viles, Wilder—10.

Nays—Aldermen Fitzgerald, O'Brien—2.

An order came down for the Committee on Common to consider the expediency of providing playgrounds for boys in the several sections of the city.

Alderman Clark—I call for the yeas and nays upon the passage of this order, because I believe it a very proper one. I am in favor of furnishing playgrounds for the boys, and I hope the Committee on Common will report in favor of them. The order was passed in concurrence—yeas 12, nays 0.

HEARINGS POSTPONED.

The hearing on the petition of N. W. Day for an omnibus route from Cambridge Bridge, and the remonstrance of the Union Railroad Company, were postponed until next Monday at half-past four o'clock.

The hearing on the petition of P. B. Brigham and others against the licensing of fruit peddlers, etc., was postponed until half-past five o'clock on Tuesday next.

REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

Superintendent of Market. Report for quarter ending April 1. Received and paid into the treasury, $26,684.27. Placed on file.

Inspectors of Lighters. The report of the inspectors of lighters for the quarter ending March 31 was received. Received $130.53; expenses, $17.15; balance divided by incumbents. Sent down.

BOND APPROVED.

The bond of George E. McKay, for $10,000, as Superintendent of Market, with Thomas B. Harris and Everett Torrey as sureties, being presented duly certified, was approved by the Board.

PERMIT TO SELL BENZINE.

Alderman Burnham submitted a report from the Committee on Fire Department on the part of the Board in favor of granting the petition of Wadsworth Brothers & Howland for leave to keep and sell benzine, upon the usual conditions, at 76 Washington and 72 Friend street. Accepted.

NOMINATIONS OF FENCE VIEWERS, ETC.

Reports of joint special nominating committees were submitted as follows:

By Alderman Burnham: For Inspector of Lime—Ebenezer Curtis; Culler of Hoops and Staves—Horace A. Sawyer; Field Drivers and Pound Keepers—S. E. Partridge, Henry Morse, Bernard Crosby, James M. Davis, S. Augustus Rogers, Joseph E. Page; Fence Viewers—John Dove, Eben W. Whittemore, Woodbury L. Lewis. Accepted, and said nominations confirmed. Sent down.

FORM OF MARKET LEASE.

Alderman Breck submitted a report from the Committee on Ordinances on the part of the Board on the form of market lease referred to them, recommending the passage of an order—

That the existing conditions under which market leases are granted be amended as follows: Amend condition No. 5 by inserting after the word "underlet" the words "nor assigned." Amend condition No. 8 by striking out the word "twenty-fifth" and inserting in place thereof the word "first." Amend condition No. 9 by striking out the words "monthly to the Superintendent of the market" and inserting in place thereof the words "quarterly to the City Collector." Amend condition No. 14 by striking out the word "monthly" and inserting the words, "on the first day of each and every month, to the Superintendent of the market as aforesaid," and insert in place thereof the words "as above stipulated to the City Collector"; also by striking out after the word "Boston" the words "or the Superintendent of said market." Passed.

CLAIMS.

Alderman O'Brien submitted reports from the Committee on Claims as follows:

Leave to withdraw on petition of Joseph A. McCarty to be compensated for injuries to his harness and pung by reason of alleged defect in Washington street, as in their opinion if the petitioner has any claim it is against the Metropolitan Railroad Company and not the city of Boston.

Leave to withdraw on petition of Cyrus R. Kelly to be compensated for personal injuries caused by fall on Hanover street.

Severally accepted. Sent down.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses as follows:

Amusement Licenses Granted—Bertha Von Hillern, to give exhibition of pedestrianism at Music Hall, April 3; Caroline S. Brooks, for leave to exhibit a model of "Iolanthe" at Amory Hall; Callender's Georgia Minstrels, Beethoven Hall.

Auctioneers Licensed—H. W. Bromfield, 1117 Washington street; George Abbott, 10 State street; W. R. McKay & Co., 126 Pearl street.

Wagon Licenses Granted—Davis, Sacker & Perkins, 5-7 Haverhill street; John Breslin, 64 Sudbury street.

Hack Licenses Granted—William Douse, 59 Federal street.

Victualler Licensed—James W. Peacock, 1075 Tremont street.

Minors' Applications Granted—Seven newsboys, one boot-black.

License for Dance-hall Refused—Thomas West, 41 Ferry street.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Stumcke & Goodwin et al., for removal of hack stands of John Graham from corner of Court and Brattle streets.

Severally accepted.

HACK FARES FOR OLD SOUTH BALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order—That upon the occasion of the ball to be given at the Music Hall on the 9th instant, in aid of the Old South Preservation Fund, the rate of fare to be paid for the use of hacks by persons returning from the ball shall be established as follows: In the city proper for each carriage with one passenger, $1.50; with two passengers, $2; with three or more passengers, $3. In going to the following-named portions of the city there shall be paid for the use of each carriage the following rates, viz., to Roxbury, $4; to South Boston, $3; to East Boston $4 and tolls; to Charlestown, $3; to West Roxbury, Dorchester and Brighton, $6. Read twice and passed.

FLETCHER'S OMNIBUS ROUTE.

Alderman Fitzgerald offered an order—That leave be granted to William Fletcher to run a passenger wagon from the Fitchburg Railroad station on Causeway street, through Causeway, Merrimac, Washington, Devonshire, State and Broad streets to Rowe's wharf, and return by the same route; the rate of fare per passenger each way not to exceed ten cents. Read twice and passed.

FANEUIL HALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report from the Committee on Faneuil Hall, on the petition of C. E. Appleton et al., workingmen, who desire to discuss the subject of the present depression in business in Faneuil Hall this evening—That in consideration of the circumstances of the petitioners, the use of the hall be granted to them for this occasion only, free of expense. Accepted.

SWING SIGN.

Alderman Robinson submitted a report from the Committee on Police in favor of granting leave to Flanders & Shorey for leave to erect a projecting sign marked "The Domestic Steam Kettle" in front of 535 Washington street. Accepted.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Reports in favor of granting leave to move wooden buildings, by John Cavanagh, from 22 Preble street to Vinton street (three buildings); from 13 Rogers street to Vinton street; from 15 Rogers street to Vinton street; from 382 Dorchester street to 549 Dorchester avenue; from rear of 382 Dorchester avenue to Vinton street; by William Kelleher, from Ward street, Ward 22, to Longwood avenue, Ward 22; by Caleb S. Packard, from Beacon park across Cambridge street (three buildings.)

Report and order—That the sidewalk assessment of $11.48 against the estate of Catherine O'Brien, No. 60 Regent street, be and the same is hereby abated. Order read once.

Report of leave to withdraw on petition of Union Railway Company for leave to run cars over the tracks of other street railroads between Bowdoin square and the Boston & Albany Railroad station. Accepted.

STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted reports from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board, as follows on petitions for leave to occupy stables:

That leave be granted on the usual conditions to P. S. Briggs, corner Medford and Chelsea streets; C. R. Bullock, Monument, near Eliot street, Jamaica Plain; Walter F. McConnell, Copeland street; Jeremiah Plympton, 7 Hawthorn street; John A. Sawyer, Ashford street; F. B. Chittenden, Harvard street, Ward 24.

Leave to withdraw on petition of Capens heirs, for stable at corner of Oak and Green streets. Severally accepted.

ELECTIONS OF CITY OFFICERS.

City Registrar. A report came down, nominating Nicholas Apollonio, with minority report nominating Albert H. Hoyt. The report was accepted in concurrence and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Robinson, Dunbar.

Whole number of ballots.....	18
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Nicholas Apollonio had.....	9
Albert H. Hoyt.....	3

And Mr. Apollonio was declared elected. Sent down.

Superintendents of Bridges. A certificate came down of the election of Superintendents of Bridges. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Robinson, Dunbar.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7

Federal-street Bridge.

*Jacob Norris.....	12
--------------------	----

Dover-street Bridge.

Angus Nelson.....	5
Daniel J. Holland.....	7

Chelsea-street Bridge.

*Edward T. Stowers.....	12
-------------------------	----

Charles River Bridge.

*Joel R. Bolan.....	12
---------------------	----

Warren Bridge.

*Charles H. Marple.....	7
Michael Hughes.....	5

Malden Bridge.

*John Howard.....	12
-------------------	----

Broadway Bridge.

*John C. Poole.....	12
---------------------	----

Mt. Washington-avenue Bridge.

*George H. Davis.....	10
George A. J. Colgan.....	2

Meridian-street Bridge.

*Reuben B. Wendell.....	12
-------------------------	----

Congress-street Bridge.

*Matthew J. Callahan.....	12
---------------------------	----

Those marked with stars were declared elected in concurrence, and Daniel J. Holland was declared elected in non-concurrence.

Sent down.

Commissioners of Cedar Grove Cemetery. A report came up nominating Nathan Carruth as Commissioner of Cedar Grove Cemetery. Accepted in concurrence, and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Wilder and Breck. Mr. Carruth received 12 votes, the whole number cast, and was declared elected. Sent down.

City Architect. A report came up nominating George A. Clough as City Architect. Accepted in concurrence, and an election ordered. Committee—Aldermen Wilder, Breck. George A. Clough received 12 votes and M. W. Fitzsimmons received 1. Mr. Clough was declared elected. Sent down.

Trustees of the Public Library. A report came down nominating Weston Lewis and Benjamin F. Thomas for Trustees of the Public Library. Accepted, and on motion of Alderman Clark an election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen O'Brien, Clark.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Weston Lewis had.....	12
Benjamin F. Thomas.....	11
Charles L. Woodbury.....	1

Messrs. Lewis and Thomas were declared elected. Sent down.

Harbor Master. A report came up nominating Francis C. Cates as Harbor Master. Accepted in concurrence, and on motion of Alderman Robinson an election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Viles, Robinson. Mr. Cates received 12 votes, the whole number cast, and was declared elected. Sent down.

Assessor. A certificate came up of the election of Thomas J. Bancroft as Assessor in place of Joshua S. Duncklee, elected by this Board. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Clark, O'Brien.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	3
Horace Smith.....	1
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	8

And Mr. Duncklee was declared elected in non-concurrence. Sent down.

The elections of the following-named officers were severally taken from the table and ballots were ordered, as follows:

City Solicitor. Committee—Aldermen Robinson, Dunbar. John P. Healy received 12 votes and was elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Streets. Alderman Robinson moved to proceed to an election.

Alderman Fitzgerald—I do not rise to object to voting at the proper time, but the Paving Committee have under consideration an order to investigate the foremen in that department, and it seems to me that until we have concluded that investigation the election of Superintendent of Streets ought not to be had. It possibly will not reflect upon Mr. Harris, and I do not think it will; but pending the investigation the election of Superintendent of Streets should not be had.

Alderman Robinson—Although we have an order introduced by Alderman O'Brien to make certain investigations in regard to the foremen and sub-foremen, I cannot see for the life of me what it has got to do with the election of a Superintendent of Streets. There are no charges against Mr. Harris whatever, and it is necessary that we should go into an election. The order has no reference whatever to the Superintendent of Streets. Those foremen and sub-foremen shall have a thorough investigation and hearing, if I have any authority with the committee; but I see no reason for postponing the election of Superintendent of Streets any longer.

The election was declared ordered. Alderman Fitzgerald doubted the vote; the Board divided—9 for 3 against. The election was ordered. Charles Harris received 11 votes, Clemens Herschel 1. Mr. Harris was declared elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Sewers. Committee—Aldermen Robinson, Dunbar. William H. Bradley received 8 votes to 4 for Samuel L. Minot. Mr. Bradley was declared elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Public Buildings. Committee—Aldermen Robinson and Dunbar. James C. Tucker received 12 votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Common and Public Grounds. Committee, Aldermen Robinson, Dunbar: John Galvin received twelve votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Public Lands. Committee, Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Robert W. Hall received twelve votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

City Engineer. Committee, Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Joseph P. Davis received 12 votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

City Surveyor. Committee, Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Thomas W. Davis received 12 votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

Water Registrar. Committee—Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. William F. Davis received 12 votes and was declared elected in concurrence.

First Assistant Assessors. Committee, Aldermen Fitzgerald, Clark.

Whole number of votes.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7

*William B. Long.....	12	*John H. Griggs.....	11
*William J. Ellis.....	12	Gideon Walker.....	4
*John H. Duane.....	10	Geo. N. Bliss.....	5
*Wm. N. Starrett.....	12	*Charles Nowell.....	12
*Michael Carney.....	10	John Pierce.....	7
*George S. Pendergast.....	12	*Henry Pierce.....	10
*Nahum Chapin.....	11	*Richard B. Smart.....	11
*Artemas R. Holden.....	12	*William A. Wheeler.....	8
*John Beacon.....	9	*Horace Loring.....	12
*William H. Cundy.....	11	*Phineas B. Smith.....	8
*Ira D. Davenport.....	12	Dudley Pray.....	2
*John Leahy.....	11	John Noble.....	3
*John H. Giblin.....	12	*Horace Smith.....	8
*George W. Kingman.....	10	Joseph L. Drew.....	6
*Thomas Leavitt.....	12	Theodore Moses.....	3
*Joseph R. Grose.....	11	Joh M. Leonard.....	1
*Charles B. Hunting.....	12	John W. Steere.....	2
*George F. Williams.....	12	J. M. Leonard.....	2
*George D. Ricker.....	12	John McElroy.....	2
*William B. Smart.....	12	C. Vincent Conologue.....	1
Charles E. Grant.....	7	J. H. Rogers.....	2
*George A. Comins.....	12	Joseph E. Hall.....	1
*Andrew J. Browne.....	12	Theophilus Burr.....	1
*L. Foster Morse.....	12	George Warren.....	1

Those marked with stars were declared elected.

A second ballot was ordered to fill two vacancies.

Charles E. Grant.....	4
Joseph L. Drew.....	9
Gideon Walker.....	4
George N. Bliss.....	1
John McElroy.....	1
Theodore Moses.....	1
John Pierce.....	1
F. A. Wilkins.....	1
Dudley Pray.....	1

Mr. Drew was declared elected, and a third ballot was ordered to fill one vacancy.

Gideon Walker.....	3
Charles E. Grant.....	7
Dudley Pray.....	1
Theodore Moses.....	1

Mr. Grant was declared elected. Sent down.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien submitted a report from the Committee on Armories, on petition of Company C, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, recommending the passage of the following:

Ordered, That the allowance of rent heretofore paid on account of armory occupied by Company C, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at the corner of Northampton and Washington streets, be discontinued from and after April 1, 1877; and that the sum of $700 per annum be allowed and paid on account of rent of armory for said company at No. 69 West Concord street, beginning April 1, 1877, and continuing until otherwise ordered; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Ordered, That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $350 in furnishing and fitting up the armory of Company C, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at No. 69 West Concord street; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories.

Alderman Thompson—Does the lease of that armory expire on the 1st of April?

Alderman O'Brien—We were tenants there at will, I believe.

Alderman Thompson—Do I understand that the city pays the rent up to the 1st of July?

Alderman O'Brien—The city is not responsible or beholden in any way, as I understand it. They are merely behind the company.

The orders were passed.

INVITATION ACCEPTED.

An invitation was received to attend an exhibition of the liquid fire extinguisher tomorrow afternoon. Accepted.

ORDERS TO PAY FOR LAND DAMAGES.

Alderman Clark submitted the following from the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board:

Orders to pay for land taken and damages occasioned by widening and laying out streets, as follows: Antoine Mattell, $2512.50, extension of Ashland street to South street; George Morrill, administrator of estate of Mary B. Barnes, $3800, for an estate purchased of her on Cross street in accordance with orders of the City Council of Feb. 18 and March 21, 1864. Severally read twice and passed.

SOUTH BOSTON RAILROAD.

Alderman Burnham moved to take from the table the order for the thirteenth location of the South Boston Railroad, by which the cars of that company are allowed to run to Causeway street (City Doc. No. 34.), to be acted upon at the present time.

Alderman Thompson—I hope the matter will be allowed to remain upon the table. It will be remembered that at the hearing some weeks since, when the South Boston and Middlesex corporations were represented here, the South Boston company desired to run to Causeway street and the northern depots. At the time the matter was laid over by consent of both parties, the Middlesex corporation having petitioned for permission to run to the Old Colony depot. I understand there is some misunderstanding between the corporations as to the agreement at that time, and for the purpose of allowing them to come to some understanding, I hope it will remain on the table.

Alderman Burnham withdrew the motion.

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT OF MARKET.

Alderman Slade offered an order—That the Superintendent of Faneuil Hall Market be authorized to employ, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, one deputy to assist him in the discharge of the duties of his office. Read once.

Adjourned, on motion of Alderman O'Brien.

[Faint, illegible text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page]

[Faint, illegible text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page]

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,

APRIL 5, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M. Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Report of Inspector of Lighters. Placed on file. Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Report making nominations as follows: Inspector of Lime—Ebenezer Curtis; Culler of Hoops and Staves—Horace A. Sawyer; Field Drivers and Pound Keepers—S. E. Partridge, Henry Morse, Bernard Crosby, James M. Davis, S. Augustus Rogers, Joseph E. Page; Fence Viewers—John Dove, Eben W. Whittemore, Woodbury L. Lewis. Confirmed in concurrence.

Reports of leave to withdraw on petitions of Joseph A. McCarthy, to be paid for damage to his harness and pung from a defect in Washington street; Cyrus K. Kelley, to be paid for personal injuries from a fall in Hudson street. Severally accepted in concurrence.

Communication from School Board on occupation of Marcella-street Home. Placed on file.

Report and order to transfer the male juvenile paupers, etc., from pauper school at Deer Island to Marcella-street Home, and to devote said institution to above class, instead of to truants and vagrants. Read twice and passed in concurrence.

ELECTIONS OF CITY OFFICERS.

Certificates came down of elections by the other branch and elections occurred as follows:

Harbor Master. Francis C. Cates. Committee—Messrs. Webster of Ward 1, Jackson of Ward 16, Kidney of Ward 6.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Francis C. Cates.....	56
John T. Gardner.....	9

And Mr. Cates was elected in concurrence.

City Architect. George A. Clough. Committee—Messrs. Shepard of Ward 4, Kelley of Ward 3, Spenceley of Ward 19.

Whole number of ballots.....	67
Necessary for a choice.....	34
George A. Clough.....	43
Charles J. Bateman.....	18
M. W. Fitzsimmons.....	16

And Mr. Clough was elected in concurrence.

Commissioner of Cedar Grove Cemetery. Nathan Carruth. Committee—Messrs. Wilbur of Ward 20, Barnard of Ward 24, Day of Ward 4.

Whole number of ballots.....	61
Necessary for a choice.....	32
Nathan Carruth.....	60
John W. Martin.....	1

And Mr. Carruth was elected in concurrence.

Trustees of Public Library. Weston Lewis, Benjamin F. Thomas. Committee—Messrs. Howes of Ward 18, Hibbard of Ward 17, Mullane of Ward 12.

Whole number of ballots.....	65
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Weston Lewis.....	60
Benjamin F. Thomas.....	61
Charles Levi Woodbury.....	5
George A. Shaw.....	3
A. R. Holden.....	1

And Messrs. Lewis and Thomas were elected in concurrence.

Directors of East Boston Ferries. Charles Stanwood, Samuel B. Hopkins. Committee—Messrs. Pearl of Ward 2, Cross of Ward 16, O'Connor of Ward 8.

Whole number of ballots.....	70
Necessary for a choice.....	36
Daniel D. Kelley.....	43
Samuel B. Hopkins.....	41
Charles Stanwood.....	38
E. W. James.....	3
M. Barr.....	1
George Green.....	1
Daniel J. Maguinness.....	3

Mr. Hopkins was declared elected in concurrence and Mr. Kelley in non-concurrence. Sent up.

Assessor. Joshua S. Duncklee, in place of Thomas J. Bancroft, chosen by this Council. Committee—Messrs. Blanchard of Ward 21, O'Donnell of Ward 8, Loughlin of Ward 13.

Whole number of ballots.....	69
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	42
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	27

And Mr. Bancroft was elected in non-concurrence.

City Registrar. Nicholas A. Apollonio. Committee—Messrs. Ham of Ward 14, Brintnall of Ward 5, Cox of Ward 15.

Whole number of ballots.....	70
Necessary for a choice.....	36
Nicholas A. Apollonio.....	38
Albert H. Hoyt.....	11
Jonathan H. Mann.....	20
Isaac W. Derby.....	1

And Mr. Apollonio was elected in concurrence.

Superintendent of Dover-street Bridge. Daniel J. Holland, in place of Angus Nelson, chosen by this Council. Committee—Messrs. Blodgett of Ward 8, Reed of Ward 17, McClusky of Ward 13.

Whole number of ballots.....	70
Necessary for a choice.....	36
Angus Nelson.....	43
Daniel J. Holland.....	27

And Mr. Nelson was elected in non-concurrence. Sent up.

First Assistant Assessors. William B. Long, William J. Ellis, John H. Duane, William N. Starrett, Michael Carney, George S. Pendergast, Nahum Chapin, Artemas R. Holden, John Brown, William H. Cundy, Ira D. Davenport, John Leahy, John H. Giblin, George W. Kingman, Thomas Leavitt, Joseph R. Grose, Charles B. Hnuting, George F. Williams, George D. Ricker, William B. Smart, Charles E. Grant, George A. Comins, Andrew J. Browne, L. Foster Morse, John H. Griggs, Charles Nowell, Horace Smith, Henry Pierce, Richard B. Smart, William A. Wheeler, Horace Loring, Phineas B. Smith, Joseph L. Drew.

On motion of Mr. Sibley of Ward 5, a committee of six was appointed to collect and count votes.

Committee—Messrs. Felt of Ward 18, Smardon of Ward 10, Wolcott of Ward 11, Webster of Ward 3, Mowry of Ward 11, McGaragle of Ward 8.

A recess was taken on motion of Mr. Sibley, at the end of which the committee reported as follows:

Whole number of ballots.....	69
Necessary for a choice.....	35
*William B. Long.....	60
*William J. Ellis.....	56
*John H. Duane.....	44
*Wm. N. Starrett.....	65
*Michael Carney.....	53
*George S. Pendergast.....	62
*Nahum Chapin.....	56
*Artemas R. Holden.....	63
*John Brown.....	55
*William H. Cundy.....	61
*Ira D. Davenport.....	55
John Leahy.....	33
*John H. Giblin.....	45
*George W. Kingman.....	50
*Thomas Leavitt.....	59
*Joseph R. Grose.....	57
*Charles B. Hunting.....	55
*George F. Williams.....	58
*George D. Ricker.....	57
*William B. Smart.....	63
*Charles E. Grant.....	49
*George A. Comins.....	50
*Andrew J. Browne.....	61
*L. Foster Morse.....	60
*John H. Griggs.....	59
Horace Smith.....	29
Joseph L. Drew.....	31
*Charles Nowell.....	56
Phineas B. Smith.....	27
*Henry Pierce.....	55
*Richard B. Smart.....	56
*William A. Wheeler.....	46
*Horace Loring.....	48
†Gideon Walker.....	63
†Geo. N. Bliss.....	62
John Pierce.....	54
Dudley Pray.....	14
John Noble.....	28
John W. Steere.....	23
†John McElroy.....	39
C. Vincent Conologue.....	26
Theophilus Burr.....	7
George Warren.....	6
Joseph E. Hall.....	1
P. H. Rogers.....	29
F. A. Wilkins.....	13
H. H. Holbrook.....	1
Levi W. Shaw.....	6

and one ballot with thirty-four names not counted.

The twenty-nine marked with a star were elected in concurrence, and those marked with a dagger, viz., Gideon Walker, George N. Bliss, John Pierce and John McElroy, were elected in place of John Leahy, Horace Smith, Joseph L. Drew and Phineas B. Smith. Sent up.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

An ordinance in addition to an ordinance relating to the public health, to allow the Board of Health to convey the right to erect monuments, etc., in cemeteries. Passed. Sent up.

Order to allow $200 to each post of the G. A. R. and the N. P. Banks A. & N. Veteran Corps, towards expenses of Decoration Day. Passed—yeas 64, nays 1; Mr. Webster of Ward 3 voting nay. Sent up.

SINKING FUNDS.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 moved to reconsider the vote whereby was passed the order for estimates of differences that would be caused by a repeal of section 22 of ordinance on finance in amounts to be paid Dec. 1, to Commissioners on Sinking Funds on account of Burnt District, Cochituate Water and New Sinking Funds, and of amounts by which other Sinking Funds exceed the smallest sums which with accumulations would meet their respective debts at maturity.

Mr. Sampson—I have made this motion because I desire to offer a substitute for the order, in the form of an ordinance to repeal a portion of section 22 of the ordinance in relation to finance, and the information which the gentleman asks for in the order I can give here. If the motion to reconsider prevails I will offer the ordinance to amend section 22, which will save this year in taxation the sum of $160,000.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I do not see any reason why this order should be reconsidered tonight. It is merely asking for certain information. The gentleman has brought information here which he proposes to present; but I have looked over the figures, and find that they do not cover the whole ground embraced in the order. It seems to me it would no harm to have in an official manner the facts called for in this order. The gentleman brings some of the facts; and the attention of the Auditor and the Finance Committee having been brought to the subject, the suggestion has led them to make an alteration in the appropriation bill, by which we will have to raise a hundred and sixty thousand dollars less by taxation than we expected. That is a very good result so far; but I should really prefer to have the information called for in full. I thought at first, from what the gentleman said, that he had all the information, and was prepared to offer it tonight. I find, however, that his figures do not cover one of the Sinking Funds; and as it is desirable to have information covering all the Sinking Funds, it seems to me that the order should not be reconsidered, but that it should be passed, and that the Auditor should give us this information. It is a simple matter; he has most of the figures; and the order is simply to require the Auditor to give us the full figures asked for.

Mr. Sampson—I wish to say that the action which the Finance Committee have taken, in presenting this proposed amendment tonight, is not at all on account of the order offered by the gentleman, but it arose from the discussions which took place in the committee on the Auditor's estimates. It is desirable that we should end this discussion upon the Sinking Funds, and that no gentleman who has a hobby about them should get up here and present it, but that we should leave it to the judgment of those whom we have elected to manage the Sinking Funds. Now, what is the condition of the city of New York today? They are trying to get their sinking funds in the same condition that we have them in Boston today. At present the sinking funds of New York do not provide for the debt of that city at maturity. The mayor of New York has called the merchants of that city around him to see what can be done to help the credit of that city. Their six per cent. bonds are selling at par, while the city of Boston's five per cents are selling at 112. Now I say it is best to let well enough alone. New York has not yet arrived at a solution of the problem; but a meeting has been called for next Saturday evening at Chickering Hall to see what can be done to help in the payment of their debt. I presume that every member of the Common Council who has read the New York papers knows how that community is exercised about the payment of its great debt, as they call it. Now, sir, that debt, in proportion to population, is but very little larger than the debt of the city of Boston. It is but $133 to each individual, while the debt of Boston is $126—almost as large. Yet we have no anxiety here as to the payment of our debt, and every one here is satisfied that the Sinking Funds are so managed that when the debt matures there will be a Sinking Fund to provide for its payment. We do not require the repeal of the twenty-second section of this ordinance; it will, in my opinion, and in the opinion of the members of the Finance Committee, cause great damage to the credit of the city of Boston. I have here the information respecting five of the sinking funds, and the gentleman from Ward 9 can go into the Auditor's office at any time and get all the information on the subject he desires. I hope the reconsideration will prevail.

Mr. Crocker—It seems rather strange that the Council should not be permitted to have this information. It is a very harmless order. The gentleman has the figures before him covering almost the entire question raised by the order I introduced last week. But the gentleman was so desirous that this information should not be given to the Council, that he moved a reconsideration and delayed the thing till this meeting, so that we should not get some information that he is afraid for us to have. I do not know what hurt it is going to do us. But he was afraid it would do some mischief, and so he moved the reconsideration—a very unusual course in such a matter. The order simply asks for information; but he goes off in a long story about the New York people and what trouble they are in, what their sinking funds will not do, what mischief they are getting into, and the danger, etc., and how much better we are off. I do not see that that has anything to do with the matter. It is throwing dust. The simple question is whether we want this information. The gentleman may talk about my hobby; but if it is my hobby, I have accomplished some good by it so far, and I may be able to accomplish more. One change has been brought about this year in stopping the putting of the balances of appropriations into the Sinking Funds. That good result has been brought about, and since the last meeting the Finance Committee and the Sinking Fund Commissioners have made up their minds—I do not think there is any doubt but what it has been caused by this particular order that I have introduced; that they can ask for $160,000 less for taxation than they were going to ask for. Now if so much good has been done by the introduction of a simple order introduced and laid over one week by a motion for reconsideration, I think my hobby has done a great deal of good; and I think it is well to keep the thing going and get a full reply, which might make the reduction as much as $200,000 and it might be a great deal more. When gentlemen say they are anxious that a simple inquiry for information should not be answered, it seems to me to be rather suspicious that they want to hold something back; and whether it is asked for by a man who has a hobby or not, it is well to have it answered. I hope the order will not be reconsidered.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope this order will be reconsidered, and I do not think there is much doubt but that it will be. I never felt as if I wanted a Sinking Fund, for my part, but if the gentleman from Ward 17 can show us anything by which we can save $160,000 from our taxation, I think I shall want to have it for a hobby. It is the most favorable aspect that this sea-serpent has assumed since I have been in this Council. The trouble with the gentleman from Ward 9 is that he does not want the gentleman from Ward 17 to give us the information he has. I hope the gentleman will have a chance to give us the information how we can save so much money.

Mr. Sampson—The gentleman from Ward 9 shows his inconsistency, because he stated that I had the information, in the main, which he asked for. Yet he goes on and says I am trying to withhold it. I merely submit the point to the Council.

Mr. Crocker—I do not like to be misrepresented. The gentleman has certain information which he is ready to offer. There is certain other information which he has not brought, and which I desire to have, and I desire that this order should pass that we may have it. The passage of this order is not going to prevent the gentleman from bringing in the facts and offering the amendment to the ordinance which he desires to offer. I do not propose to interfere with that, or with his giving us all the information which he chooses to give us. But it is not information in an official form from the Auditor. It is certain information which he has got from the clerk in the Treasurer's office. Now, the passage of this order will require the Auditor to give us the information over his signature, and it will not prevent the gentleman from doing what he proposes to do. It will not prevent us from saving this hundred and sixty thousand dollars, and it may do something more. Therefore, I desire to see this order passed, and I hope the reconsideration will not prevail.

The reconsideration prevailed, and the question recurring again on the passage of the order. Mr. Sampson offered the following as a substitute:

An Ordinance to amend an ordinance in relation to finance.

Be it ordained, etc.:

Section 1. Section twenty-two of the ordinance in relation to finance, as contained in the printed volume of the ordinances of the year 1876, is hereby amended by striking out all of said section after the word "law" in the thirteenth line, and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Provided, That whenever it shall appear to the commissioners that for any reason the sinking fund applicable to any debt will, if the annual payments as first established be continued, be more than sufficient to meet said debt at maturity, the commissioners may make such reductions in the amount of such payments as may be consistent with the requirements of the statutes."

Mr. Crocker—I should like to hear the facts which the gentleman proposed to give in answer to the order. I noticed that the gentleman said he had the facts and was prepared to give them here tonight—I mean the facts inquired for in this order. [Mr. Crocker here took his seat, but Mr. Sampson not making any reply, he resumed.] It seems that now when he has got the vote reconsidered he does not propose to put in what facts he has. Therefore I hope the Council will not substitute this ordinance, but will pass the order as originally offered, and that the ordinance will be passed afterwards. I think we want those facts and figures. I had supposed the gentleman was going to give them, but I see he wants to keep them back. The gentleman does not want to show what the introduction of the order has developed. I should like to have the facts called for by that order appear, and, later, if the gentleman does not offer that ordinance I will offer it myself.

Mr. Spenceley—I move that this matter be especially assigned to next Thursday evening, at half-past eight o'clock. I think that all the members of the Council want to find out in reference to this matter.

Mr. Sampson—I hope that motion will not prevail, because it affects the amount to be raised in the appropriation bill. If this ordinance is passed before the appropriation bill is acted upon it will save us $160,000.

Mr. Spenceley—Then give us the facts tonight.

Mr. Sampson—I have the facts, and I supposed that the gentleman from Ward 9 would accept this ordinance as a substitute. I obtained the figures from the Sinking Fund Commissioners, and they are just what the gentleman from Ward 9 inquired for: I find that the clerk has sent me only five Sinking Funds, when there are six; but I will read such as I have:

Amount required to be taxed in 1877 and paid to the Commissioners on the Sinking Funds, being sufficient with the Sinking Funds now in hand, with their accumulations at the Massachusetts standard of accumulations of interest in relation to life insurance (four per cent.), to extinguish the debt at maturity. For the

Burnt District Sinking Fund.....	$166,100
New Sinking Fund.....	292,100
Cochituate Water Sinking Fund.....	214,500
	$672,700

That is all that will be required to be asked for if this ordinance is passed tonight. In the first requirement of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, which was upon the interpretation of the statute by the City Solicitor, they required $835,667; but under the second interpretation of the statute by the City Solicitor—and not by the offering of the order by the gentleman—if the ordinance is amended, they will require $672,700.

The Old Sinking Fund.

Excess of Fund over amount sufficient,
March 1, 1877.....	$158,844.27
The Consolidated Street Improvement Sinking Fund.
Debt March 1, 1877.....	$3,568,292.00
Amount sufficient, at this time, to redeem the debt when due (1899-1900)....	$1,505,640.80
Present assets.....	1,219,929.29
Amount to be raised during the next 22 years.....	285,711.51
$8000 of this loan is, per agreement, redeemed in each year and the Sinking Fund receives the interest on the debt so redeemed, and that interest will amount to $770,763.48, from this time up to 1899-1900, which at its present value.....	$504,610.56
Leaving an excess of Fund.	$218,899.05

Sum sufficient at four per cent. interest to tax on debt to extinguish the same at maturity is as follows:

- On ten-year loans, 8 9-1000 per cent.
- On twenty-year loans, 3 229-1000 per cent.
- On thirty-year loans, 1 714-1000 per cent.

Under this present ordinance as proposed to be amended hereafter, the commissioners will only ask for a sufficient amount to pay the loans at maturity.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I would like to inquire if this substitute or amendment is in order at the present time. It seems to be entirely different from the original order, which was that the order be requested to furnish information to the Council; and the gentleman from Ward 17 proposed the ordinance as a substitute. It strikes me that it is of an entirely different nature and should be considered separately. Whatever may be done with this ordinance I think the Council should have this information.

The President—The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman is entirely correct. The question is upon the special assignment. The amendment is not in order.

Mr. Crocker—If this amendment is to be ruled out of order, there seems to be no reason for a postponement of the order asking for information. We may as well settle the question tonight, and then the ordinance can be introduced as an independent subject afterwards, and we can consider that tonight or postpone it as we see fit.

The motion to assign was lost, and the order was rejected by a division—16 for, 38 against.

Subsequently Mr. Sampson offered the above ordinance.

Mr. Crocker—As long as this matter has come up again, I desire to say one word. I must say that I am not pleased at the manner in which the order introduced by me at the last meeting has been treated, and especially am I displeased at the manner in which it has been treated by the chairman of the Finance Committee. I introduced an order inquiring as to the effect of, and whether anything would be saved by, repealing section 22 of the ordinance in relation to finance. Gentlemen well know that I have been claiming, since the year began, that we have been paying too much money into the Sinking Funds, that a great deal of money might be saved from taxation, and that we might tax ourselves less than we do. At the last meeting I offered an order inquiring what would be the effect of repealing that section; and now the gentleman, after moving a reconsideration of that order, brings in an ordinance substantially repealing that section, by putting a proviso upon it, which substantially repeals it; but if the gentleman desires to do the thing in that way, I am content to have it done in that way, and I hope this ordinance will pass. But when the gentleman says the committee intended to do it before, and says it was not in consequence of my introducing this order, he goes out of his way to make unnecessary remarks insulting to a member of the Council. I believe myself that this ordinance has been introduced in consequence of the order I introduced at the last meeting. This ordinance substantially repealing that section was not heard of until I introduced that order, and the result of it has been that the Finance Committee now come forward and propose to substantially repeal that section and thereby save us some $160,000 in taxation. It is a small matter to be claiming who has the credit of one thing or another; but I must say that when the chairman of the Finance Committee gets up here and claims the credit of it, and says that his committee were going to do this thing, I think he claims what does not belong to them.

The ordinance was read twice and passed under a suspension of the rules, on motion of Mr. Sampson. Subsequently a motion to reconsider, by Mr. Sampson, hoping it would not prevail, was lost. Sent up.

AUDITOR'S EXHIBIT.

The Auditor's exhibit for April 1, including the April draft, being the twelfth monthly payment of the financial year (City Doc. 39), was received. Sent up.

Total appropriations, $17,474,218.67; expended, $13,335,779.31; balance unexpended, $4,138,439.36.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted the following (City Doc. 40):

The joint special committee to whom were referred the estimates of the Auditor of Accounts of the money which will be required to defray the expenses of the city of Boston and county of Suffolk for the financial year 1877-78, being City Document No. 28 of this year, would respectfully report that they have fully considered the same, with the following results:

They have received from the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners a vote of said Board, revising their requisition for money for the Sinking Funds given in their vote of March 21, referred to this committee by the City Council, by which the amount required is set at $672,700, instead of $835,637, as in their vote of the 21st ult. [See Appendix.]

The reductions made by the Salary orders of this year have been taken from the respective appropriations.

The Auditor of Accounts communicates to the committee that he estimates that there will remain in the treasury at the close of the present financial year, derived from the sources specified in the ordinance on Finance of March 27, 1877, the sum of $700,000 [see Appendix], and your committee report an order providing for the use of the same towards meeting these appropriations for 1877-78.

The appropriations for rebuilding Neponset Bridge and the pier of the Mt. Washington Avenue Bridge, amounting to $27,000, are omitted, the City Council having provided the same from the balance of appropriation for rebuilding Doverstreet Bridge.

The following table shows the appropriations, as estimated in the Auditor of Accounts' Estimates, compared with those voted by this committee:

Appropriations.	Am't as per Auditor's Estimates.	Am't as voted by Committee.	Incr'se	Dec.
Advertising...	$2,500	$2,500	....	....
Armories.....	22,000	22,000	....	....
Assessors' Department....	97,000	92,167	....	$4,833
Auditor's Department....	18,000	15,650	....	2,350
Bd. of Health, Evergreen Cemetery, Quarantine Dept. and Fever Hospital
Gallop's Island.....	93,500	86,800	....	6,700
Boston Harbor Bridges.....	6,000	5,000	....	1,000
Cedar Grove Cemetery...	55,235	53,293	....	1,942
Chelsea Bridge	5,000	5,000	....	....
Chestnut Hill Driveway...	115,000	115,000	....	....
City Debt.....	5,000	3,500	....	1,500
City Hospital.	....	672,700	672,700	....
City Registrar's Dept..	125,000	120,000	....	5,000
Collector's Department	10,490	9,650	....	840
Common and Pub. Squares	49,500	42,600	....	6,900
Commonwealth Ave. Fence	70,700	65,100	....	5,600
Contingent Funds.....	6,000	6,000	....	....
East Boston Ferries.....	13,000	13,000	....	....
Engineer's Department...	181,300	165,000	....	16,300
Fire Department, Fire Alarm Telegraph, and Bells and Clocks.....	28,000	25,479	....	2,521
Health Dept.	602,190	586,222	....	15,968
Incidental Expenses.....	387,500	365,000	....	22,500
Inspection of Buildings...	87,000	87,000	....	....
Interest and Premium..	18,600	14,000	....	4,600
Lamps.....	1,698,000	1,698,000	....	....
Law Dep'tm't.	493,680	490,000	....	3,680
Markets.....	20,740	18,440	....	2,300
Mount Hope Cemetery...	10,000	9,295	....	705
Mount Washington Avenue Bridge.	15,000	14,700	....	300
Neponset B'ge	8,000	....	....	8,000
New School-houses.....	19,000	....	....	19,000
Old Claims. ...	96,500	96,500	....	....
Overseers of the Poor....	2,000	2,000	....	....
Paving, Grading and Repairs of Sts.	141,400	141,400	....	....
Police.....	900,000	850,000	....	50,000
Printing and Stationery..	841,700	841,300	....	400
Public Baths..	27,500	27,000	....	500
Public Buildings.....	25,000	25,000	....	....
Public Institutions:	85,300	83,850	....	1,450
House of Industry.....	180,000	184,950	4,950	....
House of Correction	91,000	91,150	150	....
Lunatic Hospital..	59,500	59,720	220	....
Pauper Expenses.....	81,000	80,600	....	400
Steamer J. P. Bradlee.	18,000	18,170	170	....

	Am't as per Auditor's Estimates.	Am't as voted by Committee.	Incr'se	Dec.
Office Exp's	8,000	7,350	....	650
Marceila-st. Home.....	23,000	25,000	2,000	....
Alms-house, Aus'n F'm	17,000	18,000	1,000	....
Alms-house, Chast'n D.	9,000	9,000	....	....
Addition to Bld'g, K'n's-ford Island	16,000	16,000	....	....
New Pig'ty, Deer Island	8,500	8,500	....	....
Public Lands..	6,000	6,000	....	....
Public Library	121,000	118,126	....	2,874
Registration of Voters and Election Expenses.....	22,500	22,200	....	300
Reserve Fund	300,000	300,000	....	....
Salaries.....	34,300	31,950	....	2,350
Schools:
School Instructors..	1,115,520	1,115,520	....	....
School Exp. Sch'l Com.	245,000	245,000	....	....
Salaries Off. Sch'l Com.	51,000	51,000	....	....
Schoolhouses, Public Buildings.	133,000	133,000	....	....
Sealer W'ghts and Meas...	4,200	3,700	....	500
Sewers.....	150,000	150,000	....	....
Sinking Fund Commis.....	800	800	....	....
Survey'r's Department....	39,500	36,176	....	3,324
Treas. Depart.	24,800	21,700	....	3,100
West Boston and other Bridges.....	6,500	6,500	....	....
Widening Streets.....	200,000	125,000	....	75,000
Co mty of Suffolk.....	365,000	365,000	....	....
	$9,712,455	$10,120,258	$681,190	$273,387

Total amount as required by the Auditor's estimates..... $9,712,455.00
 Add for city debt..... 672,700.00
 Add for increase for Public Institutions 8,490.00

$10,393,645.00

Less reductions made by committee..... $246,387.00

And omitting Neponset Bridge and Mt. Washington-avenue Bridge pier appropriations..... 27,000.00

273,387.00

$10,120,258.00

Deduct income as per Auditor's estimates..... $1,669,100.00

Also cash in treasury, April 30, 1877, as per estimate of Auditor (see Appendix), viz:

From excess of liquor license revenue..... $125,000

From excess of actual income and taxes over-estimated..... 75,000

Balances of un-expended appropriations.... 500,000

700,000.00

2,369,100.00

$7,751,158.00

To which add 3 per cent. for non-payment of taxes during the financial year..... 232,535.00

We have the total amount to be raised by taxation in 1877, exclusive of the State tax..... $7,983,693.00

The amount required by taxation last year exclusive of the State tax, was.. $8,527,872.00

Your committee, therefore, recommend the passage of the accompanying orders making the appropriations for the financial year 1877-78, providing for the use of certain moneys in the treasury, April 30, 1877, levying a tax for the year 1877 to meet the same, less the income and cash in the treasury, and for payment of interest on account of non-payment of taxes.

For the committee,
 FREDERICK O. PRINCE,
 Chairman.

An Order
Relating to Specific Appropriations for the Financial Year 1877-78.

It is hereby ordered by the City Council, That, to defray the expenditures of the city of Boston and the county of Suffolk for the financial year which will commence with the first day of May, 1877, and end with the last day of April, 1878, the following sums of money be, and the same are, hereby respectively appropriated for the objects and purposes as explained in the Auditor of Accounts' Estimates (City Doc. No. 28, 1877), and in the applications of the various committees and boards contained and printed in said document and in the appendix accompanying this document.

And it is further ordered, That no money shall be expended and no debts be incurred for any object or purpose for which a specific appropriation is herein made beyond the amount which is so specifically appropriated; provided, however, that any sums of money which may be subscribed or contributed by individuals to promote the objects of any of the following appropriations, and which form no part of the estimated income of the city, shall be strictly applied according to the intention of the contributors, and shall be credited to such appropriations accordingly, that is to say [the amounts are given in detail, as above printed], ten million one hundred and twenty thousand two hundred and fifty-eight dollars.

Ordered, That the moneys derived from the excess of revenue from liquor licenses, excess of income and taxes, over income and taxes, and of appropriations over expenditures, at the close of this financial year, April 30, 1877, and remaining in the city treasury at that date, be used toward meeting the aforesaid appropriations for the financial year 1877-78.

Statement by the Auditor of Accounts.

From the amount appropriated by the preceding order, viz.:	.....	$10,120,258.00
Deduct the amount of estimated income as stated on page 23, City Doc. No. 28, 1877. ....	.....	$1,669,100.00
Also the amount of cash estimated remaining in the City Treasury April 30, 1877, as per statement of Auditor of Accounts in the Appendix.....	700,000.00	2,369,100.00
We have the amount to be raised by taxation.....	.....	$7,751,158.00
To raise this amount of $7,751,158 will, in the opinion of the Auditor of Accounts, require a gross tax of.....	.....	$7,983,693.00
From which, deducting the amount which will not be paid into the treasury within the financial year, say....	.....	232,535.00
We have the balance required, as before stated.....	.....	$7,751,158.00

Orders laying a specific tax to defray the expenses of the city of Boston and the county of Suffolk for the financial year 1877-78, and providing for interest on non-payment of same.

Ordered, That the sum of seven million nine hundred and eight-three thousand six hundred and ninety-three ($7,983,693) dollars be raised on the polls and estates taxable in this city, according to law, to pay the current expenses of the city of Boston and the county of Suffolk during the financial year which will commence with the first day of May, 1877, and end with the last day of April, 1878.

Ordered, That, in pursuance of the authority of chapter 225 of the acts of 1873, all taxes assessed for the purpose of providing for the expenditures of the city of Boston and county of Suffolk, and for paying the city's proportion of the State tax, shall be due and payable on the first day of November of the year assessed; and if the same shall remain unpaid, interest at the rate of six per cent, per annum shall be charged upon all such taxes as shall not be paid at that date; and, upon all taxes that shall remain unpaid on the first day of January next ensuing, after the same have been assessed, there shall be charged interest at the rate of ten per cent, per annum; and all the interest that shall have become due from and after the above-named dates shall be added to and be a part of such taxes; provided, however, that the taxes assessed by authority of chapter 315 of the acts of the year 1873, upon the shares of national banks and of other corporations, shall be due and payable on the first day of November, and interest shall be charged as provided in said act upon all such taxes as remain unpaid after that date, at the rate of twelve per cent per annum.

The orders were passed to a second reading.

DEED GIVEN.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Public Lands on the petition of the National Bank of the Commonwealth recommending the passage of the following:

Whereas, The city of Boston, by agreement dated Nov. 13, 1874, obliged itself to convey to the National Bank of the Commonwealth a certain parcel of land in said city, situated at the corner of Water and Devonshire streets, being shown on a plan made by Thomas W. Davis, City Surveyor, dated Oct. 13, 1874, and deposited in the office of said City Surveyor, upon the terms and conditions said agreement contained, and whereas the said bank has lost or mislaid said agreement, and is desirous of obtaining the deed of said land, it is therefore Ordered, That a deed be given to said National Bank of the Commonwealth of said land, upon its compliance with all the stipulations contained in said agreement, and upon their giving a bond satisfactory to the City Solicitor to save the city harmless against said lost or mislaid agreement; and that his Honor the Mayor and the Superintendent of Public Lands are authorized to execute the deed accordingly.

Read twice and passed. Sent up.

VENTILATION.

Mr. Hibbard asked for a report from the Committee on Ventilation. He said that several members of the Council could not sit in their seats because of the draughts, and something ought to be done to properly ventilate the chamber.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20 said the Committee on Public Buildings had the matter under consideration and would be ready to report in a very short time.

BILLS ALLOWED.

Mr. Felt of Ward 18—At the last meeting I introduced an order here for the payment of two bills, one to George Curtis and the other to L. Foster Morse. That order was rejected by the Council. I now wish to make an explanation of that order. A month ago this matter of the payment of bills came up here and quite a discussion occurred, and objections were made to the payment of such bills, but no vote was passed upon it. Those bills are from the Auditor, and he states that the bill of Mr. Morse is for the sale of a schoolhouse and the remainder for advertising. The bill of Mr. Curtis is for supplies. As I said, a month ago no vote was passed to reject such bills in case they should come up again. It seems proper that the bills should be paid at this time, and if the Council sees fit it can pass a vote that hereafter such bills shall not be paid. I move a suspension of the rule in order that I may move a reconsideration of the vote by which the order was refused a second reading.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I hope the motion will be reconsidered. There is no necessity for an order being passed by the City Council, because the ordinances and the statutes already fix that matter. I understand that each department has been notified that in consequence of the action last Thursday evening no bills will be passed for supplies purchased of any officer of the City Government. I hope these gentlemen will get their money.

The rule was suspended, and on motion of Mr. Felt the vote refusing the order a second reading was reconsidered and the order was read twice and passed. Sent up.

STONY BROOK NUISANCE.

Mr. Brown of Ward 23 offered an order—That the Board of Health be requested to examine the cellars and dwellings along the borders of Stony Brook in Ward 23, and report to the City Council as early as may be, to what extent said cellars and dwellings are affected by the overflowing of said brook; also to report whether in the opinion of the board the condition of the cellars is such as to jeopardize the health of the occupants of the dwellings and thus affect the sanitary condition of the above-named locality. Read twice and passed. Sent up.

SINKING FUND COMMISSIONER.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 submitted a report nominating Newton Talbot for Sinking Fund Commissioner. Accepted. Sent up.

OVERSEERS OF POOR.

Mr. Sampson submitted a report from the Joint Special Committee on the Auditor's Estimates in favor of the passage of a resolve—That the Board of Overseers of the Poor be requested to make a like reduction in the salaries of the officers and employes of said board as has been made by the City Council in the various departments of the city. Ordered to a second reading.

FAST DAY.

Mr. Felt moved that when the Council adjourn it be to next Wednesday evening.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18 moved to amend by making it Friday evening.

Mr. Spenceley objected to Friday evening, because he and many others desire to go to church on Friday evening.

Mr. Howes said Friday was more convenient to those who desire to go out of the city on Wednesday.

It was voted to adjourn to Friday evening of next week.

FOURTH OF JULY.

On motion of Mr. Sibley of Ward 5, the Council took from the table the order for a committee to make suitable arrangements for the celebration of the next Fourth of July, at a cost not exceeding $15,000.

Mr. Mullane of Ward 13 offered the following as a substitute:

Ordered, That a joint special committee, to consist of the President and one member of the Common Council from each ward, with such as the Board of Aldermen may join, be appointed to make arrangements for the celebration of the 101st anniversary of American Independence, at an expense not exceeding twenty thousand dollars; to be charged to the appropriation for Incidentals.

Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move to amend the amendment by striking out the committee named and inserting the Committee on Retrenchment.

The President—The Chair thinks that motion would not be in order.

Mr. Pratt—Then I move that the subject be referred to the Committee on Retrenchment.

The motion to refer to the Committee on Retrenchment was put and declared lost.

Mr. Vose of Ward 24 doubted the vote, and on motion of Mr. Pratt the yeas and nays were ordered. The motion to refer prevailed—yeas 30, nays 26.

Yeas—Messrs. Brintnall, Coe, Crocker, Cross, Danforth, Day, Dee, Fagan, Felt, Hibbard, Hiscock, Howes, Morrill, Mowry, Nugent, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, Pratt, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Shepard, Sardon, Spenceley, Stone, Vose, G. B. Webster, Wilbur, Wolcott—29.

Nays—Messrs. Blodgett, Brown, Doherty, Duggan, D. A. Flynn, J. J. Flynn, Fraser, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Mullane, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Perham, Reed, Roach, Roberts, Ruffin, Sibley, Upham, Warren—26.

Absent or not voting—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Beeching, Blanchard, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cox, Fernald, Ham, Pearl, R. Pope, Souther, Thompson, Thorndike, E. R. Webster—16.

Adjourned on motion of Mr. Felt of Ward 18, and stood adjourned to Friday, April 13, at 7½ P. M.

ERRATA. In the minutes of the Common Council of March 8th, [page 140,] the remarks made by Mr. Fagan of Ward 19, in favor of the Retrenchment Committee's report reducing salaries, are erroneously reported as having been made by Mr. Nugent of Ward 19.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Board of Aldermen,

APRIL 9, 1877.

Regular meeting at four o'clock P. M., his Honor the Mayor presiding.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Commissioner on Cambridge Bridges—Frederic W. Lincoln. Confirmed.

Police Officers—M. W. Parker and James E. Carroll. Confirmed.

Weighers of Coal—Randall G. Morse, Frederick C. O'Brien, Daniel E. Adams. Confirmed.

Police Officers without pay—David T. Haraden and twenty-four others in various sections of the city. Confirmed.

Weigher and Inspector of Bundle Hay—James L. Litchfield. Confirmed.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Paving. Petitions for brick sidewalks in front of estates of A. H. Caton, 141-143 Newbury street, L. G. McKenney, 210 K street; Moseley & Fitz, Cook & Handy, Robert W. Gordon, G. H. Moseley, for leave to sprinkle certain streets; Eben B. Phillips, for leave to make excavation under sidewalk on Atlantic avenue near Pearl street; James McNeil, for the grade of Columbus avenue at Buckingham street; Norman Y. Brintuall et al., that Miller street, Charlestown, be put in order; A. J. Robinson et al., that Columbus avenue be paved with chestnut blocks; O. S. Sanders et al., Joseph H. Carter et al., that the new bridge on Columbus avenue be of the "deck" pattern; John W. Mitchell, that crossings be placed between Cambridge and Brighton streets, Charlestown; Joseph E. Brown et al., that Isabella street be graded and that edgestones be set; Ann E. Noyes, that Longwood street be properly graded and repaired; William Hyland, that the sidewalk at the corner of Tremont and Chapman street be relaid; Cochran Brothers & Co., against the location and use of a wire rope running across Clinton street; William P. Hunt et al., for a change in grade of Dudley street, at the intersection of the New York & New England Railroad; Francis A. Peters et al., that the extension of Boylston street in Ward 23 be put in order.

To the Joint Committee on Claims. Catherine Driscoll, to be paid for personal injuries caused by a fall on Orleans street, Dec. 31, 1876.

To the Committee on Sewers. Bernard Norton, for damages and for abatement of assessment by reason of construction of a sewer in Quincy street.

To the Joint Committee on Public Lands. Receivers of the Mechanics' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, for leave to refund to certain owners of Suffolk-street district estates the dividends due thereon.

To the Joint Committee on Streets. Alden Spere, for damages by reason of alleged destruction by the city of a drain across West Chester park.

To the Joint Committee on the Survey and Inspection of Buildings. Boston & Albany Railroad Company, for leave to erect two wooden buildings on Third street, Ward 25.

To the Board of Health. Laura E. Brackett, for leave to keep a lying-in hospital at 27 Common street.

To the Committee on Licenses. John Carr, for hack stand at Providence Railroad station.

To the Committee on Health on the part of the Board. Petitions for leave to occupy stables as follows: William Howell Reed, new wooden, three horses, 65 Bainbridge street; John L. Dakin, new wooden, one cow, Wise place; Barker B. Kent, old wooden, two horses, Gate street; John F. Wilson, new wooden, two horses, 229 Highland street; Trustees City Hospital for leave to occupy wooden building on Albany street for a stable.

To the Committee on Bridges. John Dyer, for abatement of rent of tenement on Charles River Bridge.

To the Committee on Lamps. Merriam & Norton et al., that a street lamp be located on Everett street, Charlestown; W. R. Clark, for an additional street lamp on East street, Ward 24.

To the Committee on Steam Engines, etc. Lennon & Co., for leave to construct and use two small furnaces for melting metals at 19 Spring lane.

To the Joint Committee on Common, etc. William V. Hutchings et al., that Walnut park be properly cared for. The Mechanics' Exchange Association, that parade ground on the Common may be opened for the free use of children for playing football and other games.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Order for the Superintendent of Faneuil Hall Market to employ one deputy to assist him in his duties. Passed.

Order to abate an assessment on estate of Catherine O'Brien, for sidewalk on Regent street. Passed.

MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS FROM THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Petitions were referred in concurrence.

Ordinance to amend section 22 of Ordinance on Finance, so that when the commissioners find that the Sinking Funds applicable to any debt will be more than sufficient to meet said debt at maturity, they may make such reduction in payments as will meet the requirements of the statutes. Passed in concurrence.

Order for Board of Health to examine the cellars of houses in the neighborhood of Stony Brook, to see if the health and lives of the inhabitants are endangered by the existing state of said brook. Passed in concurrence.

Order to allow $200 to each post of the G. A. R. and the N. P. Banks A. & N. Veteran Corps, towards expenses of Decoration Day. Passed in concurrence—yeas 12, nays 0.

Order to pay certain bills of L. Foster Morse and George Curtis. Passed in concurrence.

Auditor's Monthly Exhibit, April 1, 1877 (City Doc. No. 39). Placed on file.

Report and order for conveyance to National Bank of the Commonwealth of the lot of land at corner of Water and Devonshire streets. Order passed in concurrence.

Report and an ordinance in addition to an ordinance relating to the public health, by which authority is given to the Board of Health to convey rights of burial, and of erecting monuments in cemeteries of this city, the proceeds thereof to be paid to City Collector. Ordinance passed in concurrence.

ELECTIONS.

Assessor. A certificate came up of the election of Thomas J. Bancroft as Assessor, in the place of Joshua S. Duncklee, elected by this Board. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Dunbar and Robinson. Mr. Duncklee received 9 votes and Mr. Bancroft 3. Mr. Duncklee was elected in non-concurrence. Sent down.

Dover-street Bridge. A certificate came up of the election of Angus Nelson as Superintendent of Dover-street Bridge in place of Daniel J. Holland, chosen by this Board. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Mr. Nelson received 8 votes, and Mr. Holland 4. Mr. Nelson was elected in concurrence.

Director of East Boston Ferries. A certificate came up of the election of Daniel D. Kelly as director of East Boston Ferries, in place of Charles Stanwood, chosen by this Board. An election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Mr. Kelly received 8 votes, and Mr. Stanwood 4. Mr. Kelley was elected in concurrence.

First Assistant Assessors. A certificate came up of the election of Gideon Walker, George N. Bliss, John Pierce and John McElroy, in places of Horace Smith, Joseph L. Drew, Phineas B. Smith and John Leahy, as First Assistant Assessors.

Alderman Wilder—Before action is taken upon this matter, I desire to state, for the information of the Board, that Mr. Davenport, who was elected by both branches, declines to qualify, leaving one vacancy. The Committee on Assessors' Department, at their meeting today, filled the vacancy by the nomination of Mr. John McElroy, who was elected in the other branch. I state this that the members of the Board may know that there are five candidates to be elected at the same time. At the proper time I will make the report.

Alderman O'Brien—I have been requested by a large number of neighbors in the West Roxbury District, who think their district has been overlooked so far in the election of First Assistant Assessors, to state that that district is one of the largest in the city, covering an area of 8000 acres, against 22,000 in the entire city, and they feel that they ought to have somebody there as First Assistant Assessor who is acquainted with the locality. The other branch of the City Government have elected Gideon Walker and George N. Bliss by sixty-two and sixty-three votes, and they are, I understand, considered to be very good representatives for that district.

Alderman Clark—If Mr. Davenport has been elected by both branches, it seems to me he should send in his declination to the City Council.

Alderman Wilder—I would ask for a suspension of the rule, which will enable me to make the report and place this matter properly before the Board.

The rule was suspended, and Alderman Wilder presented a communication from Ira D. Davenport declining the office of First Assistant Assessor, to which he has been elected. Accepted. Sent down.

Alderman Wilder submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department recommending the election of John McElroy as First Assistant Assessor in place of Mr. Davenport. Accepted. Sent down.

On motion of Alderman Wilder an election for five First Assistants Assessors was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Wilder and Breck.

Whole number of ballots.....	12
Necessary for a choice.....	7
Gideon Walker.....	11
George N. Bliss.....	11
John Pierce.....	8
John McElroy.....	10
Horace Smith.....	1
Joseph L. Drew.....	3
Phineas B. Smith.....	1
John Leahy.....	10
John Noble.....	1
F. A. Wilkins.....	2

Messrs. Walker, Bliss, Pierce and McElroy were declared elected in concurrence, and Mr. Leahy in place of Ira D. Davenport. Sent down.

Commissioner of the Sinking Fund. A report came up nominating Newton Talbot. Accepted, and a ballot ordered on motion of Alderman Clark. Committee—Aldermen Clark, O'Brien. Newton Talbot received 10 ballots, and Francis H. Peabody 2. Mr. Talbot was elected. Sent down.

Prison Point Bridge Commissioner. Later in the session Alderman Thompson submitted a report from the Committee on Bridges recommending the election of Frederic W. Lincoln as commissioner of the city of Boston on Prison Point Bridge. Accepted. Sent down. On motion of Alderman Thompson an election was ordered. Committee—Aldermen Dunbar, Robinson. Frederic W. Lincoln received 12 votes and was elected. Sent down.

DAY'S OMNIBUS LINE.

The Board took up the special assignment for 4½ o'clock P. M., viz.: Hearing on the order granting leave to N. W. Day to run coaches from Cambridge Bridge through Cambridge street, Bowdoin square, Green, Chambers and Cambridge streets, to the bridge, and remonstrance of Union Railway Company against the same.

George W. Drew appeared for Mr. Day.

Thomas J. Gargan appeared for the remonstrants and called on Mr. Emery, president of the Union Railway Company, who said they object to this application because the streets are so crowded that no more cars or coaches should be allowed to go through the streets named in the application; and as this was admitted the company did not further object, but the committee reported the proposed route which is the same as is run over by the cars and there is no demand for additional accommodations. The company run cars from Central square eighteen hours a day, including a special line averaging twenty-nine passengers a trip. No public complaints have been made of insufficient accommodations by the company, who pay over $17,000 taxes, are bound to keep a portion of the streets paved to the satisfaction of the Paving Committee. The condition of Chambers, Green and Court streets forbade any further crowding with vehicles. The company had some statistics prepared showing the condition of the street. During eight hours on the 25th of January, on Cambridge street, there were 1345 teams and 262 cars; on the 26th, 1632 vehicles, 273 cars. On the 28th of February, on Green street, near Bowdoin square, at the same hours, there were 1670 teams, 390 cars; near Leverett street, 1874 teams, 390 cars. On the 24th of March, on Green street, near Leverett street, there were 2325 teams, 415 cars; near Bowdoin square, 1857 teams, 415 cars. Since then it was found that 12,400 foot passengers passed the last-named point during the same time. Another objection is a remonstrance signed by residents on those streets.

George Merrill called. To Mr. Gargan—Have been stationed on Bowdoin square and streets at the West End. He produced some figures showing the width of the streets affected. Cambridge street—at Temple street, 32 feet; sidewalk, 8 feet; at Bowdoin street, 26 feet; sidewalk, 6 feet. Green street—at Pitts street, 22 feet; sidewalk, 7 feet; at Leverett street, 23 feet; sidewalk, 7 feet; at Chambers street, 21 feet; sidewalk, 5 feet. To Alderman Wilder—Those measurements are from curb to curb. To Mr. Gargan—There is a Cambridge car about every minute and a half; observed blocks there from three to eight times a day. To Mr. Drew—Have not seen any blocks there today. To Alderman Fitzgerald—Do not get the blocks at Temple street; it is between there and Bowdoin square. To Mr. Drew—No particular class of travel causes the blocks.

Edward L. Chase called—Had some figures showing the number of teams passing through Court street. On Jan. 25 there were 2157 teams, 330 cars; Jan. 26, 2137 teams, 372 cars. On Green street, Feb. 28, 2137 teams, 372 cars; March 24, near Leverett street, 1851 teams, 415 cars. These were taken from 8 A. M. till 1 P. M., and from 3 to 6 P. M. To Mr. Drew—Am conductor; never took such statistics in other streets in Boston.

George Francis called—took the number of teams and vehicles on Cambridge street. He repeated the figures given by Mr. Emery.

James E. Barker was called and gave similar statistics. The number of teams is greater in summer than in winter. Green street is narrow and hard to get through sometimes; often noticed blocks. To Alderman Fitzgerald—Sometimes cars and sometimes teams occasion the blocks; it is mostly teams; horse cars don't cause blocks so much as teams. To Mr. Drew—Have been employed by the railroad company about seven years.

Police Officer Leavitt of Station 3, whose beat has been on Cambridge, Green and Leverett streets for thirteen years, said Green street is crowded many times; many blocks there; some days none, some days half a dozen; they might average three a day perhaps; the horse cars might facilitate the passage of teams many times. To Mr. Drew—Saw but one block today; saw two Saturday; not very troublesome ones.

Officer George of Station 3, whose beat has been on Cambridge and Green streets for five years, said they are much crowded. He agreed with the previous witness in regard to the blocks. They might average three a day, perhaps a little more. There is more travel in summer than winter.

A. D. Earl, formerly a policeman on Cambridge street, corroborated previous statements in regard to the crowded condition of the streets named. There is too much travel for the street.

This closed the opening evidence for the remonstrants. Mr. Gargan filed the remonstrance of Chapin, Gurney & Co. and others, owners, occupants and residents on Chambers and Cambridge streets, as above referred to.

Mr. Drew introduced the testimony for the petitioners.

Samuel Jenkins of Cambridgeport—to Mr. Drew—Live on Clinton street. At certain times in the morning and afternoon almost every car from Harvard square is filled, and people in his vicinity can hardly get a seat unless one is lucky. Witness circulated the petition for Mr. Day's omnibus route and got eighty names of business men and others in about two hours, which, he thought, indicated a desire for more accommodations. The company charges eight cents for single fare; Mr. Day charges five cents single fare and twelve for half a dollar. To Mr. Gargan, witness gave the business of several of the signers of the petition. Witness keeps a stable and comes to Boston almost every day. Have seen the cars filled when not coming to Boston. Do not know one of the petitioners who do business in Boston. To Mr. Drew—Had seen blocks on Cambridge street. To Mr. Gargan—Only when he has business in Boston does he come to Boston. Moved out of Boston seven years ago; lived at the Quincy House formerly. To Alderman Viles—Do not know whether the Cambridge cars are more crowded at the times named than any other lines out of Boston. To Alderman Fitzgerald—The blocks on Cambridge street are mostly by horse cars.

John C. Stiles, proprietor of the omnibus line from East Cambridge to Summer street, said he was acquainted with the different modes of getting to Boston, and thought a line of coaches was needed from Cambridgeport to Boston. Cambridge is not so crowded by a third or half as Washington street. To Mr. Gargan—Run from 6 A. M. to 7½ P. M., and do not furnish any accommodation for the public in the evening. He goes home every night in the cars. At times the Cambridge cars are more crowded than other cars are. None of his coaches go on Green street. To Alderman Fitzgerald—The blocks between Bowdoin square and Temple street are right at the place where the horse-cars stop to land their passengers. In his judgment the blocks are caused about equally by the cars and the teams.

N. W. Day, the petitioner, said he began his route Nov. 1; ran two coaches, now ending at the foot of Green street, which has no connection with any cars or any other thoroughfare for travel. He desired to go to Bowdoin square. Many more people will patronize him if he can leave them there. There have been many people who spoke to him about a line of coaches. He named several people in Cambridge who had spoken to him in favor of the route. To Mr. Gargan—Am not yet a citizen of Cambridge; came from Maine last September. The coaches begin at twenty minutes past six; don't run a regular line in the middle of the day; could not tell how many passengers he carries any day; run to the Tabernacle Sundays; charge ten cents; cannot make two coaches pay to Green street; think they would pay to Bowdoin square. To Alderman Fitzgerald—The coaches would pass Bowdoin square once in three-quarters of an hour. To Mr. Gargan—Might have said it would be like a down-Easter; if he put on two coaches and made it pay, he would like to put or more.

Mr. Gargan recalled Mr. Emery, who made a statement in regard to the rates of fare on the Cambridge road. Some years ago he made a calculation which showed that the Cambridge road carried passengers farther than did any other company for the same amount. The railroad company paid $30,000 of the $100,000 necessary to make West Boston Bridge free. To Alderman Fitzgerald—There is no demand for transfer tickets.

Mr. Drew made the closing argument for the petitioner, claiming that the route was desired by a large class of people. The railroad has so increased its passengers that it ought to be satisfied; but instead of that, they object to the public having further accommodation. The item of six cents a day difference in the fares is considerable to many poor people with small wages.

Mr. Gargan closed the hearing for the remonstrants, claiming to represent not only the company, but also many residents and property owners in Boston. Reviewing the evidence, he contended that no public necessity existed for the granting of the petitions; that but one of the petitioners for it paid taxes in Boston; that the crowded travel in the streets affected forbade it, and the running of these omnibuses is an entering wedge to more; that horse cars facilitate public travel, as on Washington street eight policemen keep it clear of blocks, while before the horse cars it took thirteen; that the company pays tribute for its privileges, while Mr. Stiles and Mr. Day pay nothing; that not a Boston man had asked for it, but many abutters and occupants had remonstrated against it.

On motion of Alderman Viles, the subject was referred back to the Committee on Licenses.

FRUIT STANDS IN PUBLIC STREETS.

The Board took up the special assignment for 5½ o'clock P. M., viz., Hearing on remonstrance of Peter B. Brigham et al., against the issue of any permits for fruit-stands, etc., in the public streets.

Alderman Fitzgerald asked how long the hearing would be, and said that if it was to be long he would prefer to have it next Monday.

J. Wilder May, counsel for the remonstrants, said he did not propose to call any witnesses, but he would rather postpone the hearing than address a reluctant Board.

Alderman Clark understood there were other parties who desire to be heard, and if the Board could not give the proper time he should favor a postponement.

On motion of Alderman Clark the hearing was especially assigned to next Monday at half-past four o'clock precisely.

REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

Superintendent of North Scales. Report for quarter ending March 31. Receipts, $538.53; expenses, $19.15. Sent down.

Paymaster of State Aid. Report for quarter ending March 31. Receipts, $19,590; disbursed, $19,292. Number applicants in January, 1371; in February, 1196; in March, 1296. Sent down.

Fire Commissioners. Report of fires and alarms for March. Sent down.

Inspector of Milk. The annual report of the Inspector of Milk was presented. Number of cows kept within the limits of the city of Boston, 1739, viz., Number in the city proper, 25; number in the Dorchester District, 580; number in the Roxbury District, 412; number in South Boston, 100; number in East Boston, 150; number in the Charlestown District, 22; number in the Brighton District, 160; number in the West Roxbury District, 290; total, 1739. Number of retailers of milk recorded since last report, 28; whole number of retail dealers recorded to date, 3416; number of samples of milk inspected since last report, 1988; number not adulterated, 1545; number more or less adulterated, 443; number of cases analyzed by chemist, 25; average amount of adulteration in the cases analyzed, 14.13; largest amount of adulteration (water intentionally added in 100 parts) in the cases analyzed, 35.38; least amount of adulteration (added water) in the cases analyzed, 00.30; number of samples analyzed, including above, and not adulterated, 4; whole number of samples of milk analyzed to date, 415; number of cases pending in the courts at the date of last report, —; number of complaints in the Municipal Courts, 6; number convicted in the Municipal Courts, 6; whole number of complaints in court to date, 285; whole number convicted to date, 213; whole number not convicted, 72; number of cases now pending in the courts, —; number of gallons of daily supply of milk for the city of Boston, 30,388; estimated daily cost to consumers, $9724.16; number of gallons for supply one year, 11,091,620; estimated cost to consumers, $3,549,318.40. The expenses of this office have been as follows, viz.: For the analysis of milk, $240; stationery, record books, advertising, printing, etc., $83.83; Inspectors' small bills for assistance, lactometers and other instruments, $27.50; total, $351.33. For violations of the milk law there have been in the Municipal Courts fines and costs amounting to $324.60; one-half of the amount of fines has been paid to the complainants, viz., $150. Sent down.

Superintendent of Streets. The annual report of the Superintendent of Streets was presented. The following is a recapitulation of the amounts expended in the Paving Department:

City proper, $254,912.68; Roxbury, $146,650.86; South Boston, $111,969.54; East Boston, $61,354.16; Dorchester, $85,460.54; West Roxbury, $96,514.64; Brighton, $37,549.85; Charlestown, $53,838.90; sprinkling streets, $9290.90; incidentals, $63,515.57; grade damages, $16,358.87; charged to appropriation for paving, etc., $937,416.51; burnt district, special appropriation, $5791.69; Washington-street extension, special appropriation, $900.50; Commerce-street extension, special appropriation, $13,075.07; Swett-street extension, special appropriation, $22,451.50; Back Bay streets and avenues, special appropriation, $1106.15; total, $980,741.42. The amount appropriated for paving, etc., for the present financial year, 1876-77, was $950,000; total expenditures to Jan. 1, 1877, $758,735.35; balance of appropriation unexpended Jan. 1, 1877, $191,264.65.

The amount of bills for edgestones, constructing sidewalks and sale of material, lodged with the City Collector during the year 1876, was $34,717.03. The amount paid into the city treasury during the same period, and credited as having been paid in by the Paving Department on account of work done by said department, was $39,511.64. The following tables show the number of feet of new edgestone furnished and set during the past year: City proper, 811; Roxbury, 14,565; South Boston, 8704; East Boston, 4199; Dorchester, 6404; West Roxbury, 10,519; Brighton, 903; Charlestown, 1787; total, 55,192—equal to 10.45 miles. The following table show the number of square yards of new brick sidewalks paved during the past year: City proper, 3388; Roxbury, 7247; South Boston, 4052; East Boston, 2803; Dorchester, 595; West Roxbury, 55; Charlestown, 552; total, 18,692. Sent down.

FREE SOUP.

A report was received from the Chief of Police of the distribution of soup, under the order Dec. 5th, 1876, appropriating $5000 therefor. The distribution commenced on Dec. 28th, and continued to March 31st, 94 days, at Stations 1, 3, 7, 8, 9 and 10, and at rooms hired in Districts 4, 6 and 15. Contracts were made for the season, the meats and vegetables being selected by the Superintendent of Faneuil Hall Market. The expenditures have been $4830.15, leaving a balance of $169.85. Gallons made and distributed, 31,773; cost per gallon, 15 1-5 cents; families fed, 50,548; meals issued to families, 245,968; cost per meal, a little less than two cents. A daily record has been kept at each place of delivery, showing the name and residence of each family, with the number of persons therein and the quantity of soup delivered in each case, and the condition and necessities of each family have been carefully inquired into. All of the soup has been delivered to some member of each family, and has been carried home by them to be eaten at their dwellings. It is estimated that two-thirds of the persons fed were children. No soup has been given to tramps or station-house lodgers. Contributions of money amounting to about $450 have been received from generous persons and expended for groceries, provisions, fuel, clothing and medicines for the sick, and distributed among those who were in needy circumstances. Sent down.

BOND APPROVED.

The bond of Barnet F. Warner, as Sealer of Weights and Measures, for $3000, with M. Doherty and Leopold Morse as sureties, being presented duly certified, was approved.

FENCE VIEWER APPOINTED.

Alderman Thompson presented a petition from Z. C. Howland and others, residents of Charlestown, for the appointment of John R. Wolston as a Fence Viewer, and representing him to be a competent person therefor. In connection therewith, Alderman Thompson offered an order—That John C. Wolston of Charlestown be and he is hereby appointed a Fence Viewer within the limits of this city. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

LICENSES.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted reports from the Committee on Licenses, as follows:

Wagon License Refused—Michael J. McLaughlin, 502 Tremont street.

Auctioneers Licensed—George A. Shaw & Co., 50 School street.

Wagon Licenses Granted—F. H. Merriam, 57 Meridian street; H. H. Bachella, 30 Federal street. Severally accepted.

FANEUIL HALL.

Alderman Fitzgerald submitted a report from the Committee on Faneuil Hall in favor of granting the use of said hall to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company to use said hall on June 4th next. Accepted.

LAND DAMAGES.

Alderman Clark submitted the following from the Committee on Streets on the part of the Board:

Order to pay Joseph Lambert $70 for land taken and all damages occasioned by the widening of Walkhill street. Read twice and passed.

SEWERS.

Alderman Viles submitted the following from the Committee on Sewers:

Reports and orders of notice for hearings on Monday next on expediency of constructing sewers in Centre street, West Roxbury, between Green street and Seaverns street; in Whitney street, Roxbury, northerly from Tremont street; in Chambers street, between Eaton and Cambridge streets; in Eagle street, East Boston, between Putnam and Knox streets. Orders passed.

Ordered, That the following changes be made in assessments for sewers:

On Hereford street, transfer assessment of $47.72 from John H. Buttrick to Josiah Gooding.

On Carolina avenue, transfer assessment of $74.06 from G. Walker to Thomas W. Tucker.

On Starr street, transfer assessments of $53.75 from M. McGuire and $22.27 from B. Mullen to P. Crosby.

On Smith street, transfer assessments of $14.85 from John J. Kennedy to Mrs. Haley; also $14.85 from said Kennedy to Peter Kelley; also $14.85 from said Kennedy to Bridget A. Healey; also $17.82 from said Kennedy to Frederick McKenzie; also $17.82 from said Kennedy to Thomas Sproul; also $17.82 from said Kennedy to John Tobin.

On Green street, transfer assessment of $43.76 from Otis Lincoln to Paul Lincoln.

On Green street, transfer assessment of $28 from Catherine Kelley to B. F. Cobleigh.

On Warwick and Marble streets, transfer assessment of $30.95 from Taunton Savings Bank to S. Thompson.

On Exchange street, transfer assessment of $64.60 from Ella S. Butters to Ella S. King.

On Elm street, transfer assessment of $115.36 from Samuel G. Reed to Adelle M. Carter.

On School street, transfer assessment of $58.63 from James H. Rand to J. M. Rodocanachi.

On Granger street, transfer assessment of $30.76 from S. B. & J. H. Pierce to Daniel Regan.

Also, Ordered, That the following amounts be abated on account of overestimate of land:

Sylvanus P. Freeman, Everett street.....	$35.53
Paul Lincoln, Green street.....	26.87
J. McMorrow, Lamartine street.....	5.28
Albert Nichols, Adams street.....	7.07
Eastern Railroad, Haynes and Orleans streets..	44.25
Peters, Page & Mehan, New Boylston street..	5.41
Bailey L. Page, Spring-park street.....	55.63
John G. Day, School street.....	42.68
Jeremiah O'Sullivan, Smith street.....	9.90
Adelle M. Carter, Elm street.....	22.74
Margaret Sahenger, Chestnut street.....	1.84
E. C. Wentworth's heirs, Green street.....	16.64
Robert Davis, Seaverns avenue.....	4.50
W. Thomas, Green street.....	6.27
Albert Nichols, Adams street.....	7.10

Also, Ordered, That the following amounts be abated on account of release of right of way:

William R. Gray, Dudley to Quincy street....	$307.31
Betsy J. Pope, Dudley to Quincy street.....	702.42

Alderman Thompson—I desire to inquire in regard to the abatement of $700. It seems to me it is a large abatement.

Alderman Viles—It is for the release of a right of way for a sewer through a man's private land.

The orders were passed.

Orders rescinding order of Dec. 26, 1876, of sewer assessment on Walnut avenue and laying a new assessment as appended to this order. Orders read twice and passed.

PAVING REPORTS AND ORDERS.

Alderman Robinson submitted the following from the Committee on Paving:

Report and order for brick sidewalk in front of the estate of the Mercantile Wharf Corporation on Atlantic avenue and Clinton street. Order read twice and passed.

Report and order of notice for hearing on Monday, April 30, at four o'clock P. M., on petition of Metropolitan Railroad Company for location in Northampton street, between Washington street and Shawmut avenue; also for certain connections with Highland Street Railway tracks. Order passed.

Ordered, That the assessment of $7.50 laid upon Rebecca C. Billings, for furnishing and setting edgestones on Bickford street, be and the same is hereby abated; and that said sum be assessed on Edward Kelly.

Ordered, That the assessment of $7.50 laid upon David F. Decatur, for furnishing and setting edgestones on Bickford street, be and the same is hereby abated; and that said sum be assessed on Edward Kelly.

Read twice and passed.

SECOND ASSISTANT ASSESSORS.

Alderman Wilder submitted a report from the Joint Committee on Assessors' Department recommending the election of the following-named persons to be second assistant assessors:

Isaiah Whitten,	Thomas Haney,
William A. Foss,	Hosea B. Bowen,
John Bryant,	Charles L. Storrs,
D. D. Taylor,	John J. Gartland,
Dennis G. Quirk,	Dudley R. Child,
John Carvin,	Samuel P. Oliver,
Michael D. Collins,	Francis E. Hines,
Edward J. Riley,	Joseph White, Jr.,
Thomas J. Anderson,	Edward W. Dolan,
Walter Harmon,	Henry L. Carter,
William S. Whitney,	George Warren,
Increase E. Noyes,	Michael J. Killion,
John R. Briggs,	Alexander Dickson,
Levi W. Shaw,	Charles E. Temple,
Redmond J. Allman,	William Withington,
John J. Murphy,	John Haggerty,
	George Warren,

Report accepted. Sent down.

BRIDGES.

Alderman Thompson submitted the following from the Committee on Bridges:

Ordered, That Charles River Bridge be closed to all public travel, April 10, 1877, and remain closed until certain repairs thereon are completed. Read twice and passed.

Ordered, That the Committee on Bridges be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $700 in repairing the draw of Charles River Bridge; to be charged to the appropriation for Bridges. Read twice and passed.

SQUARE ON COMMONWEALTH AVENUE.

Alderman Clark offered an order—That the Committee on Common and Public Grounds be authorized to expend an additional sum, not exceeding $2000, for grading and curbing the squares on Commonwealth avenue, west of Gloucester street; to be charged to the special appropriation for that object. Read twice and passed. Sent down.

RECORD COMMISSIONERS.

Alderman O'Brien offered an order—That the Record Commissioners be authorized to publish a second report, to contain a transcript of the first volume of the town records and of the Book of Possessions, to be printed, bound and distributed in the same manner as their first report, at an expense not exceeding $1000; to be charged to the appropriation for Printing. Referred, on motion of Alderman O'Brien, to the Committee on Printing. Sent down.

ARMORIES.

Alderman O'Brien submitted the following from the Committee on Armories:

Report on petition of Company A, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, recommending the passage of an order—That the Committee on Armories be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding $150 in furnishing the armory of Company A, Ninth Battalion of Infantry, M. V. M., at the corner of Lowell and Causeway streets; said sum to be charged to the appropriation for Armories. Read twice and passed.

STABLES.

Alderman Viles submitted the following from the Committee on Health on the part of the Board:

Reports in favor of granting permits to occupy stables on the usual conditions by Mary Kelleher, Longwood avenue; D. F. Decatur, Bickford street; Prentiss Sargent, Canal street, Charlestown; David Gore, Carleton street, Ward 24; heirs of Mary May, Centre street. Severally accepted.

Alderman Burnham moved to take from the table the order for the thirteenth location of South Boston Railroad (to Causeway street).

Adjourned on motion of Alderman Clark—8 tor, 4 against.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Proceedings of the Common Council,
APRIL 13, 1877.

Regular meeting at 7½ o'clock P. M., Benjamin Pope, President, in the chair.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Reports of city officers. Placed on file.
Petitions were referred in concurrence.
Reference to the Committee on Printing of an order to publish second report of Record Commissioners. Concurred.
Appointment of John R. Wolston as fence viewer. Confirmed in concurrence.
Order for an expenditure of not exceeding $2000 additional for grading and curbing certain squares on Commonwealth avenue. Passed in concurrence.

ELECTIONS.

Reports nominating, and certificates of election of city officers, came down, and action was taken thereon as follows:

Commissioner of Prison Point Bridge. Report nominating F. W. Lincoln, and certificate of his election. Report accepted in concurrence. On motion of Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20, the rule was suspended and an election ordered. Committee—Messrs. Day of Ward 4, Cox of Ward 14 and Kidney of Ward 6.

Whole number of ballots.....	56
Necessary for a choice.....	29
Frederic W. Lincoln.....	54
E. W. James.....	2

And Mr. Lincoln was elected in concurrence.

First Assistant Assessor. Report nominating John McElroy as First Assistant Assessor in place of Ira D. Davenport, declined. Accepted in concurrence.

Certificate of election of John Leahy as such assessor.

Mr. Clarke of Ward 22 withdrew the name of Joseph L. Drew, at the request of that gentleman. An election was ordered.

Committee—Messrs. Pierce of Ward 24, Fernald of Ward 15 and Ngent of Ward 19.

Whole number of ballots.....	63
Necessary for a choice.....	32
John Leahy.....	43
Phineas B. Smith.....	19
Joseph White, Jr.....	1

Mr. Leahy was elected in concurrence.

Commissioner on the Sinking Fund. Certificate of election of Newton Talbot. An election was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Danforth of Ward 10, Flynn of Ward 16, O'Connor of Ward 8.

Whole number of ballots.....	64
Necessary for a choice.....	33
Newton Talbot.....	31
Francis H. Peabody.....	32
Michael F. Wells.....	1

There being no choice, a second ballot was ordered.

Whole number of ballots.....	67
Necessary for a choice.....	34
Francis H. Peabody.....	56
Newton Talbot.....	11

Mr. Peabody was elected in non-concurrence. Sent up.

Assessors. Election of Joshua S. Duncklee as an Assessor in place of Thomas J. Bancroft, chosen by this Council. An election was ordered. Committee—Messrs. Reed of Ward 17, Perham of Ward 23 and Fraser of Ward 6.

Whole number of ballots.....	69
Necessary for a choice.....	35
Thomas J. Bancroft.....	31
Joshua S. Duncklee.....	38

Mr. Duncklee was elected in concurrence.

Second Assistant Assessors. A report came down nominating Second Assistant Assessors.

Mr. Pope of Ward 14 called attention to a clerical error in the report of the nominee from Ward 25. The name should be George W. Warren, instead of George Warren. The committee were in doubt as to the gentleman's full name, and supposed it would have been found out before the list was printed.

The report was accepted in concurrence.

Mr. Burke of Ward 2 moved to suspend the rule, that the Council might proceed to an election.

Mr. Jackson of Ward 16—I trust, sir, that the rules will not be suspended tonight. I find that there are very many members of the Council who are not thoroughly acquainted with the various names presented for our suffrages tonight. And I think it no more than right that the matter shall be laid over for one week. Therefore I hope the rule will not be suspended.

Mr. Mowry of Ward 11—Permit me to ask if these officers are elected by districts or as a whole; and also if the time has not expired for the election of these Assessors?

The President—The Chair understands that the Council is to vote upon these Assessors by districts or wards.

The motion to suspend the rule was lost.

THE APPROPRIATION BILL.

The orders of the Special Committee on the Auditor's Estimates (City Doc. No. 40), making specific appropriations for the ensuing year and levying an annual tax, were considered under unfinished business.

On motion of Mr. Sampson of Ward 17 the orders took their second reading by their titles and were put upon their passage.

The various items in the appropriation bill were read by the President. Discussions occurred and amendments were offered, as follows:

City Debt—$672,700. Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—I desire to say a few words on that item. I do not propose to offer any amendment myself, though if one were offered I should vote for it. I simply desire to draw attention to the fact that in determining that amount the Sinking Fund Commissioners and the Finance Committee, or whoever the authorities were who determined it, have reckoned the rate of accumulation on the basis of interest at four per cent. That is, in determining how much we have got to raise to make up the necessary sum to meet the debts at maturity. They have estimated that the interest which the Sinking Funds would produce would be only four per cent. I believe that that is not a proper basis for reckoning; that it ought to have been reckoned on a basis of at least five per cent., in which case this sum could have been reduced $120,000 more—it has already been reduced $160,000—and we should have to raise about $120,000 less by taxation the present year—we should relieve ourselves from taxation more than we did by the reduction of the salary bill. This rate of four per cent. referred to is the basis on which life insurance companies are required to calculate certain funds which they are by law required to keep. But this is a very different case from that. When a life-insurance company or any corporation has got to lay aside a fund to produce a certain amount in the future, it is necessary to allow for bad investments, for loss of interest, for taxes and for the expenses of running the institution. In this case of our own Sinking Funds we have no expense worth mentioning; we have no taxes; and so far as the money has been invested in our own bonds, bearing six per cent. interest. There is no uncertainty about the rate of interest it will produce; it is not as if the money was invested in bank stocks or railroad stocks, which might fail to pay dividends or go down in the market. So far as regards the existing Sinking Funds the money is invested—substantially the whole of it, but not entirely—in our own bonds, bearing six per cent. interest; and if the money is so invested at six per cent. interest in our own notes where there cannot be any reduction for taxes and expenses, then certainly we may safely reckon that it will produce more than four per cent. interest. I believe that four per cent. is not a proper basis to reckon this upon, and that the Sinking Fund Commissioners and the Finance Committee, if they had done their duty properly in the matter, would have reckoned it upon the basis of five per cent. instead of four. I do not think we ought to reckon it on the full basis of six per cent., because the money to be invested in the future may not be so well invested as that which has been invested in the past; but it seems to me that the basis of five per cent. would be a proper one upon which to reckon accumulation, and the result of this change would be to decrease taxation this year about $120,000. I make this statement that members of the Council may understand what they might have gained by the different mode of reckoning. As I said before, I do not care to make any motion. This matter of reducing taxation this year is well understood to be something that would particularly work to the credit of our present Democratic Administration, and in that I personally am not particularly interested; and if the gentlemen who desire to get the credit of this reduction of taxation do not see fit to do anything about this, I don't care to push the subject. I should, however, be glad to see taxation reduced, no matter who got the credit of it. Prior to last week we were proposing to put into our Sinking Fund one hundred and sixty odd thousand dollars, which it is now admitted on all hands there was no occasion for. Now I say that this $120,000 is equally unnecessary. We might have reduced the amount to be raised on account of our Sinking Funds by about $300,000, as well as by the $160,000 which was last week graciously granted us by the chairman of the Finance Committee.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—I suppose the gentleman did not intend to misstate the facts, but as he is largely interested in property himself and as trustee for others, he knows that the different securities, such as we are putting in the Sinking Fund, cannot be had at such prices that they will earn five per cent., and that instead of our money drawing six per cent., there is over two millions of dollars in bank today, drawing from two and a half to three per cent., and has been for the last six months. On the first of next December we shall have $860,000 more to invest, and I think the commissioners would be glad to have the gentleman show how they can get six per cent.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—In regard to what the gentleman says, I admit that we cannot expect in the future to invest the city's funds to as good advantage as we have in the past. But the Sinking Funds are in a great measure already invested. There are Sinking Funds amounting to $15,000,000, of which $12,000,000 are already invested in city six-per-cent. bonds. Now that six per cent. is already secured. The gentleman says we cannot hope to get more than four per cent. in the future. Now I say that is totally wrong and absurd on the face of things. Last year the income of our Sinking Funds, taking the average of the whole—part of it only got three per cent. from the banks and part got six per cent. from the city—was between 5 6-10 and 5 7-10 per cent., more than 5½ per cent. The gentleman says that next year you cannot get more than four per cent. That is certainly a very unreasonable statement. For the last year we got five and six or seven-tenths per cent., including the part that was not invested at all, but lying in the banks on deposit at three per cent. May we not hope to get as much at least as five per cent. average in the future? I believe we can. I believe that five per cent. is by no means too large a figure, and that the interest should not be figured at any less rate. The peculiarity of this case—and I want gentlemen to bear it in mind—is that this fund is not invested in all sorts of things which may have to omit dividends. It is invested in our own debt—more than four-fifths of it—bearing six per cent. interest, and it must continue to bear that interest until the debt is paid. There is no contingency about it. The only contingency is about this money that we put in this year which may not be invested so well. We have got all our Sinking Funds nearly large enough to take care of the debts, two of the funds are already more than large enough. And if the gentleman would reckon on a basis of five per cent., instead of four, it would appear that one of those funds, namely, the Old Sinking Fund, has been made a million dollars larger than was necessary. If the Council had done as I urged them in the early part of the year to do—that is, if they had asked the Legislature for authority to cancel bonds in the Sinking Funds—there would have been another $60,000—the interest on that million of dollars—saved this year, and saved legitimately and rairly. We cannot now do it this year, but we may ask the Legislature for leave to do it next year. I merely mention this fact to show that there is another point in which we might, if we had chosen to do so, have made a saving this year.

Commonwealth-avenue Fence—$6000. Mr. Stone of Ward 3—I move that that item be stricken out. Last year we appropriated about $6000 for these parks on Commonwealth avenue, and I understood that they were to be simply graded and curbed, and that the fences would not be desired for the next two or three years; but this year they came in and asked for $6000 to fence these parks, and I think that in this year of retrenchment and economy we should dispense with these fences. I trust that this item will be stricken out.

Mr. Richardson of Ward 11—I can only say that this matter was considered carefully in the committee. It seems that the $6000 is to meet or is to finish what now remains unfinished, that there are now a number of sections of Commonwealth avenue already completed with the fence, and that this $6000 is simply to complete the additional two sections, the locality of which I am not prepared to state. It is simply to carry out what remains unfinished, and I hope that this $6000 will remain in the appropriation.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I hope this estimate will be stricken out, because the gentleman who advocated this measure last year said they required a fence there, and that many people were ready to build on Commonwealth avenue when those squares are built. I should like to ask where are the houses they propose to build? Not one. Within the last two or three years we have spent $35,000 in laying out Commonwealth avenue, and it seems to me that quite enough has been spent in that section at present. It is not called for. The streets are not graded. The plea was that if we should grass them down and set out some trees, then they should not wish for any fence. Now they have called for a fence, and as soon as they get this they will want something else. I believe it is well enough as it is, and I do not believe in spending so much money over on that "Wilderness of the Back Bay," where it is not needed. When they begin to build houses and show us something in the way of taxes, then will be time enough to spend money in completing those two squares.

Mr. Stone—The chairman of the Committee on Common verbally stated—he did not agree to the thing—that if it would allow him to have this money for curbing and grading he would not ask for any fence for the next three years. But now they come and ask for this fence. I see no reason why we should grant it this year.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I do not know that it is absolutely necessary that this fence should be put there this year. The point is that the work has got to a state which requires the fence. If the Council choose not to have one, it can remain so, but I imagine that when it is put up one or two or three years hence it will be much more expensive on account of the delay, and the ground will have to be turfed again. It is a question of utility. If the Council feel poor they might as well strike it out.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—The gentleman is correct. It will require more money to complete that avenue if this appropriation is delayed. It is proposed to ask for more money to grade the street and put it in order. Commonwealth avenue is extended to West Chester park, and Chester park is now extended to Beacon street, and when the avenue is completed it will make a beautiful series of parks. If the gentleman had inquired about the amount of taxes received from the Back Bay he would have found that this is the most proper section of the city in which to spend money. It is most desirable now to complete this work, for the houses to be built there will be more remunerative in taxes than those in cheaper localities. I take it it will be wise for the city to put that avenue in proper condition. It is the handsomest avenue in the city and should be fixed up.

Mr. Spenceley—The question in my mind is whether we need the fence. I should vote to put the street in good order rather than put an iron fence around the park. I am willing to vote to put the street in order, but I am not willing to vote for an iron fence where it is not needed. Who is going to hurt it? We are not going to turn the Common into a howling wilderness, as the gentleman said who is trying to get this through, and don't want the parade ground to be given up to the boys. Put the land in order, and by and by put up the fence. In the present business depression I say it is not well to put up an iron fence where it is not needed.

Mr. Day—This avenue is to be a series of beautiful parks. If it is put in a desirable condition it will be an encouragement for building to begin. The gentleman is a builder, and he knows that people will not build on the street in its present condition. It is acknowledged that Commonwealth avenue is one of the handsomest places to build residences on; but people will not build there until the city puts the street in presentable condition.

Mr. Spenceley—I am a builder, and therefore I speak from a builder's standpoint. I think that no building will be put up there for some years to come. Ask a man to buy a house on the Back Bay, and he will laugh at you. There are more houses there than are needed. It is because there is no demand for the land to build upon. The avenue may be desirable for people going to Cambridge or out on the Mill Dam; but they do not want the land to build on. Put the street in order and that will cause buildings to be erected. What difference does it make to a builder whether the squares are laid out or not? Nobody is going to build a house there with the street in its present condition. I say we might as well save the interest on this money, as we shall get no benefit from the expenditure. If any gentleman can show me any benefit from it, I should like to vote for it. We simply place an iron fence around it and get no good from it.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I should like to correct the statement of the gentleman that no houses are built on Commonwealth avenue, and as a builder I should suppose the gentleman would know better. Many houses have been built on Commonwealth avenue this season, and probably more than on any other street. If he will turn over to the appropriation for Grading and Paving Streets he will find that a large part of that amount is for putting Commonwealth avenue in order.

Mr. Spenceley—I saw the chairman of the Committee on Streets today, and he said they were going to put in an additional appropriation for the purpose.

Mr. Wilbur of Ward 20—Does this complete Commonwealth avenue to West Chester park?

Mr. Howes—That is the case.

Mr. Wilbur—If that is the case I should like to see the appropriation remain in.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—It was the understanding of the committee that this appropriation will complete the avenue.

The motion to strike out was lost.

Police, $841,300. Mr. Coe of Ward 23—Mr. President, I move to reduce this amount $63,600, making it $777,700. If this motion prevails, I shall introduce an order which I will read for information.

Mr. Coe read the order which was in the form of the salary orders passed this year, and fixed the pay per day of the members of the Police Department as follows: Captains $3.75, lieutenants $3.25, sergeants $3, patrolmen $2.75; patrolmen appointed after this date $2.50 for the first two years of their service; superintendents of hacks, wagons, trucks and Intelligence offices, each $3.75. Mr. Coe then continued:

The effect of this will be to reduce the pay of all persons connected with the Police Department, now paid by the day, and enumerated on page 52 of the Auditor's estimates, twenty-five cents per day, thereby saving to the taxpayers as I figure it $63,601.25. My reasons for making this motion I will state as briefly as I can. It is now an "open secret," and therefore no harm can arise from mentioning it here, that the Committee on the Auditor's Estimates voted, with only two dissenting, that the sentiment of the committee was that the pay of the patrolmen should be reduced to $1000 per annum—my amendment would reduce the pay to a little over $1000. I presume one reason which governed them was the fact that Boston is paying its police more than any other city of the same class in this country, as will be seen by the following statement:

St. Louis pays.....	$900 per annum.
Philadelphia.....	912 " "
Baltimore.....	936 " "
Chicago.....	1000 " "
Boston.....	1095 " "

The average of these four places is $937, by which it appears that Boston pays $158 per annum more than this average. The present pay of the New York and Brooklyn police is $1200 per annum, but a bill is now before the Legislature at Albany, which will probably become a law, reducing their salary to $1000. Even if this bill does not pass, I think we should all hesitate to regulate our municipal expenses by the methods prevailing in New York city. If we look at this matter in another way, we shall see more clearly how much more our police costs us than other cities of the same class as ourselves. The cost of the police force for each inhabitant is as follows in the cities I have named:

St. Louis.....	$1.03
Chicago.....	1.60
Brooklyn.....	1.63
Philadelphia.....	1.75
Baltimore.....	1.94
Boston.....	2.40

The average of these cities, without Boston, is $1.60, while Boston pays $2.40, or fifty per cent. more. Thus it will be seen that, while each person residing in the five cities I have named, contributes on an average $1.60 each year to support the Police Department, the cost to each person residing in Boston is on an average $2.40. If it were possible to bring this cost for Boston down to as low a point for each person as in these other places, the cost of this department would be about $560,000 instead of $841,300, a saving of $281,300. Should the proposed amendment prevail, and the reduction of twenty-five cents per day be made, we shall still be more than $200,000 above the average. This increased cost cannot arise from our area being larger than the cities I have named, for this is not the fact. Boston proper covers a very small area, and here is where the principal part of our expenditure is made. Neither can it be said that we have a less orderly population, for that is not the case. I can hardly understand why the Retrenchment Committee, with these facts before them (for I suppose they must have studied the subject) should have passed by this very promising field for the exercise of their powers. They have carried a reduction in the pay of more than two hundred employes of the city, who have been receiving no more, and in many cases less, wages than are paid in the department in question. They go into the City Engineers' Department and take off ten per cent. from three transit men earning $3@ $3.50 for each week day, and twenty-five cents per day is taken from two assistant draughtsmen who were earning the same. The surveyors and draughtsmen in the Surveyor's office are also reduced. The watchmen in the markets, the water inspectors (save those fortunate enough to be employed in Charlestown) and the operators of the fire alarm, are all cut down. Even the pilots, tollmen, engineers, firemen, gatemen, watchmen and deck hands connected with the East Boston ferries do not escape, and to cap the whole, they even go into the kitchen of the City Hospital, and the chief cook and baker of that establishment have to pay the penalty with the others I have named of not being connected with the Police Department. I mention these facts to show that we have already reduced, and I believe very properly, too, the pay of many persons in the employ of the city, where the hardship will be full as great as in the case of the police. If the City Council sustain the Committee on Public Instruction, the pay of the teachers in our public schools will be reduced on an average more than this amendment proposes. I do not see why we should make exceptions, and why all should not be treated alike. If a reduction is right in one case it certainly is in the other. I am aware that those composing our police force are, for the most part, men of an exceptionally high class. If there were time I could spend some moments in stating their good qualities. I appreciate them all; they serve the city faithfully and well. But is it pretended that those I have mentioned, whose pay we have reduced, are any less entitled to favorable mention in this respect? They also were faithful public servants, but they did not escape, because a majority of this body felt that a reduction was right, and if right in one case it certainly must be in the other. Mr. President, every calling has its market value. No firm or corporation can hold its own, and pay for the same service a much higher price than its competitors. The same principle applies here. Boston is a competitor with the cities I have named for the business of the country. If we can transact it as well, and at less cost, it will come to us. One of the elements of low cost is low taxes, and to bring our taxes down to as low a point as is consistent with the proper conduct of our municipal affairs is our most pressing duty at present.

There is one point we should not forget. The pay of our police is as high as it has ever been. If they were receiving enough five years ago, they are receiving too much today. The cost of living has been very materially reduced, and this amounts to a practical increase of pay to them; $1000 will go further today than $1095 five years ago. This, I think, will be admitted. Therefore this reduction would be no hardship. The Mayor, in his inaugural address, states, that in his opinion, an increase of the police force is necessary. If his views prevail, the saving made by this amendment would provide for the pay of about seventy more men. If the force would still be costly, it would gain in efficiency, and at no increased cost to the taxpayer. Mr. President, the hard times are not yet over. The general verdict is that the business of this spring has been a disappointing one, and the path ahead to a better and brighter state of things in business affairs is, yet, I am afraid, a long and hard one to travel over. We are compelled, by the necessity which is upon us, to spend large sums of money for sewerage and water, and I presume some would include among the necessities an expenditure for parks. These facts all remind us that our taxes must remain high, while our means with which to meet them seem to be decreasing year by year. I cannot conceive, in view of the facts I have stated, how any one can throw a vote against this amendment. If it passes this body it cannot fail, of course, to pass the other branch of the City Council, as they are so strongly committed by their votes, so far, in favor of retrenching in the pay of the employes of the city. I hope it will prevail.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—I hope the motion of the gentleman from Ward 23 will not prevail. He says we pay our police better than in the average of cities, and not so much as in New York and Brooklyn. Well, admit it. I think we have got a far better set of police. They are placed at a great deal of expense. They have to uniform themselves, and it is a pretty expensive bill. We have heard about clothes and a new coat. I suppose they are all coming. I believe that we have a noble set of men for policemen. Of course, in a body of 700 men there are some policemen who could be well weeded out. If there can be any reduction in the expenses in regard to so many policemen I should be very glad to see it. I think I have seen men on horseback when I could not see the use of their being mounted; but I am perhaps too economical. I don't believe it is economy to reduce the pay of such a class of men as we have for police. They are liable to be called upon to do many extraordinary jobs, and I don't see how any one in any other employment could ever desire the business. A policeman's life is not appreciated. He seems to stand between two fires. I admit that many people desire to be police, and some men ask for it that I don't suppose will make good police officers. I have had the pleasure of introducing a great many applicants to our past Mayor, but I presume he never appointed them. This is a matter of only twenty-five cents a day to 700 men, but it is quite an item for our treasury. I don't think, though, that every dollar they receive is too much. A policeman cannot live like any other man. If his children do not dress well he is talked about; he is a sort of public character, and I may say a sort of public functionary; he is a marked man. I am for economy. I should be glad to understand the Sinking Fund, and I like to save money. I am one of those lucky fellows who do not have much property, and I never dispute the valuation of the Assessors. I let them tax me what they want. I don't have any particular friendship for the police, but I have sympathy for them. My employment has been mostly in the streets. I have seen the time when I wanted a policeman, when they were engaged somewhere else, I suppose. I don't believe it is economy to reduce the wages of the police. There may be individuals who do not earn the money, but as a class they do. It seems to me that 700 men are a plenty, but so far as my information and opinion go, I don't believe it will pay the city of Boston to reduce their wages.

Mr. Howes of Ward 18—I trust that the amendment will be passed for some of the reasons suggested by the gentleman who last sat down. The difficulty with the gentleman from Charlestown is, that he should have adopted the same tone that he has adopted in the matter of retrenchment. The exact arguments he uses now were used by those opposing reduction, except that instead of the police and firemen, it was for some one in the employ of some other department. The police do a great many things, and I have no doubt they do them very well, but I am very certain in my mind that our police force does not compare favorably with the police force of other cities where they are paid a less amount than in Boston. More than that, we have an instance of men of a similar grade who are paid less salary. I am certain that if obliged to be one or the other on the same pay I should be a policeman rather than a fireman. The firemen are now paid a $1000 a year, and the police ninety dollars more. The firemen have one day off in fourteen, and the police have twelve hours out of every twenty-four.

Mr. Spenceley—And two weeks vacation.

Mr. Howes—Yes, and two weeks vacation. The police are dressed in a uniform and so are the firemen, and the risk of spoiling the uniform is just as great in one as in the other. I think it is an unjust discrimination to pay the police more than you do the firemen.

Mr. Day of Ward 4—I suppose there is a great deal of buncombe to be fired off in this question, and if it is to be against the reduction of the police I want to be counted in. I think there is a vast distinction between the police and firemen. A man who loafs in a comfortable house is much better off than one who is expected to be on the street in all kinds of weather. A policeman is expected to be ready at a moment's notice to rush into a crowd; he comes out all bunged up and bruised up, and with his clothes torn and his body mangled, for which he gets no compensation from the city. To be sure they work Sundays and get a larger salary than the firemen, but if it were left to most of the police they would not work Sundays. It is not a matter of choice, but of compulsion. It is different with members of other departments. I voted for the retrenchment bill because I thought it a judicious measure, but there is a great difference in cutting down an employe in some ferry boat and City Hospital who is well paid. If you reduce the pay of the police and get a class of cheap men it will affect the character of the city. We have got a pretty good force now, and perhaps with some weeding out it may be better; but I don't believe you can better the force by reducing their pay. The man who risks his life is of value in the service of the public, and that is the reason why I shall vote against the reduction of the police.

Mr. Spenceley of Ward 19—I shall not vote for the amendment, for the reasons stated, and I am in favor of making the pay of both firemen and police adequate for the service rendered. I do not know how we will get good men, able and willing to perform these duties, for a less sum than we are paying now. I believe the policeman is worth $1090 a year to the city of Boston, and I am willing to pay my proportionate part to support him at that rate. I believe they are differently situated from any other paid department in the city of Boston. I believe they are taking their lives into their own hands, and going out day after day, not knowing whether they shall ever return to their homes or not. As the gentleman from Ward 4 has well stated, they are called out at any moment. I don't separate the firemen from the police. They are in the same category, and both are liable to have their lives taken away from them at any moment, I think that we should give men who are put in these positions sufficient to support their families and lay by something for a rainy day, for the rainy day is liable to come at any time. Look at the hardships of the police, going out every day, whether storm or rain. While we are in our house comfortably clothed, the policeman is out in the soaking rain or driving storm. It seems to me that we cannot, in justice to ourselves, ask these men to work for less salary than we are paying them now. Another very important reason, as stated by the gentleman from Charlestown, is that these men are required to purchase a certain uniform, and they are liable at any time to get it torn from them and they must get another. They must be upon the street with just such clothing on and must obey every order; and yet you would wish to cut them down from the figure they are now getting. I should like to ask the gentlemen how much the policeman can save on $1090 a year, and being required to pay $24 to Leopold Morse for a coat?

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—Not obliged to go there.

Mr. Spenceley—I know they are not obliged to go there; but the Committee on Police would like to have had them. I have looked it fairly and squarely in the face. I shall vote against the amendment.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—The gentleman who last spoke, unlike the one who spoke before him, puts the policeman and fireman upon the same footing, as both men risk life and limb in the public service. And I think that he is right, and that they do stand upon the same footing, and that we ought to put them on the same footing in regard to salaries, which, as I understand, we do not. The gentleman has reduced the pay of the firemen, and I do not see why the police should not be treated in the same way.

Mr. Spenceley—I never did, if the gentleman means me.

Mr. Crocker of Ward 9—The Council voted to reduce the pay of the firemen; and now the question comes, Why should not the police be cut down? and it has not been answered.

Mr. Spenceley—I did not know that the Council had anything to do with the pay of the firemen. The commissioners fix their pay; we have nothing to do with it.

Mr. Crocker—I think it was included in our bill.

Mr. Spenceley—No, sir.

Mr. Crocker—At any rate, the pay of the firemen is lower than that of the police; and it seems to me that policemen ought to be reduced as all the other employes have been. I can see no reason why we should make them an especial exception. It is said that they are an exceptionally good body of men, and compare favorably with policemen of other cities. I think our public servants generally will compare favorably with the employes of other cities; but in spite of all that, we have thought that the public exigencies demand that their salaries should be reduced; and I, at least, have heard no reason why the police should be picked out as the sole exception and not be required to bear their share of the burden.

Mr. Webster of Ward 3—I have noticed a good many inconsistencies in discussing this matter of retrenchment; and it seems to me that the gentleman from Ward 18 has shown it very strongly. It was his desire that the police should be pensioned in their old age, and now he proposes to reduce their pay. Now, sir, I submit that it is more in accordance with the policy of this city to pay those men fair salaries for their services and give them a chance to lay up something before they get old, and take the same chances of having something to support themselves with in old age that others do. I don't believe the pensioning system is good policy for the city. This Retrenchment Committee started out with the idea that if they saw anybody getting a salary low enough they would not disturb it. I believe that if anybody will take the trouble to examine salaries, as I have done, he cannot fail to find that the pay of the police is as low as any of the rest of the employes of the city. Take the captains: they are responsible for their whole district, and have four dollars a day, which clerks and others in City Hall get, with no responsibility. I believe that three dollars a day is none too much for patrolmen, no matter what other cities pay. If we cannot afford to pay three dollars for first-class men, we cannot afford to carry on the force. We have many men on the force who should be discharged. Consider that the police have to work Sundays, that their uniforms cost a good deal of money, and that if they got cold while on duty or injured while arresting a criminal, it is no unusual instance for them to lose pay for two or three days. If their pay is too much let us reduce it. But the gentlemen who voted against the bill are trying to show that the committee have been inconsistent; whereas they have been entirely consistent. I believe that the firemen and police are paid well enough, and it is for this Council to say whether they are or not. But do not, for the sake of consistency, do the very thing you blame the committee for doing.

Mr. Howes—The gentleman who last sat down is very apt to charge inconsistency against any particular action which he does not thoroughly comprehend. As that would limit the proposed action to a very narrow range, I can hardly feel annoyed at the charge. I believe in cutting down the pay of the policemen, and I also believe in pensioning them. I do not believe in paying a man more than he is worth and turning him off in his old age. The principle I go on is to pay a man what he is worth and set aside something for his old age; so that incompetent men will not seek to get into the service merely for the money. My idea was to pension men after twenty years' service, and then only those who are worthy of it. The gentleman from Charlestown [Mr. Day] said the firemen are loafing around in the engine houses. If I understand the present system they have to patrol the streets just as much in bad weather as the police do. More than that the liability to accidents among firemen is greater, two to one, than among the police; and the number of fatal accidents is much greater. The whole matter of consistency is, that we pay one class of servants $1000 and another class $1095, when one performs just as good service as the other. I venture to say that one service is as good as the other. Personally I think the men in the Fire Department are a better class than the police; and that men of the same calibre as the firemen can be got for policemen for the same money.

Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8—I am glad that the gentleman who has just taken his seat is really coming to his senses. I had the honor, a while ago, to introduce an order looking to the uniforming of the Fire Commissioners, and I held up the horrors which the firemen endure in the engine houses. The gentleman could not see it then as at present, but I thought time would bring him to it. I cannot see any reason for adopting this amendment. The gentleman who introduced it tells us a long story of the various departments reduced, and he also tells us of the contemplated reduction of teachers. I hope to see it. But he does not state that the school teachers are not compelled to live within the city and help to pay tribute to the city. The school teachers and employes in City Hall can live where they please and pay no tribute to the city which feeds them, while the policemen are required to live within the city and pay tribute, even if it is only the two-dollar poll tax. If the gentleman can give a good reason for reducing the pay of the police, I will go with him; but I don't believe he can. I should be glad to increase the pay of the firemen, but that is in the hands of the commissioners who cut their pay down.

Mr. Sibley of Ward 5—The gentleman from Ward 18 says our policemen do not compare favorably with the police of other cities. Now I am sorry to hear this from a Boston boy. It might have done for a reformer from Charlestown. He extols the firemen, and I agree with him. He seems to understand how much time and how much pleasure they have. All well. The department is well managed, no doubt; but so is the police. The gentlemen favoring this amendment opposed the retrenchment bill. I admit there were many items in it that if I could have had my way I would have changed; but this is the third year we have heard a great deal about salaries. I read and reread the bill, and I won't vote for a change in anything; I won't take away a cross of a "t," nor a dot from an "I." They passed by the police. I suppose the committee considered this matter fairly, and did not see fit to recommend a reduction in that department. I thought of it at the time, and I agreed with them. I hope the amendment will not prevail. I fail to see any argument for it, except in the line of economy, that has been introduced here. I never served on the Boston police, but I have been in the Fire Department. I know there is a great deal of work and a great deal of leisure. The men are not obliged to be so watchful, and it does not require so sharp an intellect as it does on the police force. The policeman is required to look about and see everything and arrest every criminal. The duties of the firemen are more plain.

On motion of Mr. Felt of Ward 18 the main question was ordered, and on motion of Mr. Sibley the yeas and nays were ordered on the amendment.

The amendment was lost—yeas 17, nays 46:

Yeas—Messrs. Coe, Crocker, Danforth, Felt, Ham, Hibbard, Howes, J. H. Pierce, O. H. Pierce, J. B. Richardson, M. W. Richardson, Sampson, Shepard, Smardon, Stone, Thorndike, Wolcott—17.

Nays—Messrs. Barnard, Barry, Blanchard, Blodgett, Brown, Burke, Cannon, Clarke, Cox, Cross, Day, Dee, Doherty, Duggan, Fagan, Fernald, Flynn, Fraser, Hiscock, Jackson, Kelley (Ward 3), Kelley (Ward 6), Kidney, Loughlin, McClusky, McDonald, McGaragle, Morrill, Mullane, Nugent, O'Connor, O'Donnell, Pearl, Perham, Reed, Roach, Roberts, Ruffin, Sibley, Spenceley, Upham, Vose, Warren, E. R. Webster, G. B. Webster, Wilbur—46.

Absent or not voting—Beeching, Brintnall, J. J. Flynn, Mowry, Pope, Pratt, Souther, Thompson—8.

Addition to Building at Rainsford Island, $16,000. Mr. McGaragle of Ward 8 asked what this was for.

Mr. Sampson of Ward 17—If the gentleman has ever been there he will know that there is great necessity for it. The inmates are very crowded on the attics and floors, and they can only be properly accommodated by an addition to the building.

Public Library, $118,126. Mr. Pratt of Ward 21—I move to amend by adding $3000. The reason I offer this amendment is that I see by turning over Document 40 and comparing it with the Auditor's estimates (City Doc. 28) on page 66, that there appears to have been a double reduction, which I would like to explain in this way: The

